Zigfrīds Sapiešis sācis mākslas studijas Karaliskajā Mākslas akadēmijā, Kopenhāgenā, Dānijā, dienā strādādams porcelāna apgleznošanā keramikas fabrikā, vakaros mācīdamies. 1952. gadā iesāk pilna laika studijas Edinburgas Mākslas kolledžā, kurū beidzis 1957. gadā ar diplomu un D.A. tēlniecības klasē. Kolledžas piešķirtā stipendija kopā ar Dānijas valsts stipendiju deva iespēju pāris gadus papildināties ārzemēs.

1967. gadā pēc pēcdiploma studijām ieguvis vidusskolotāja diplomu un strādā par mākslas skolotāju, sevišķi pievēršoties keramikai un koktēlniecībai. Arī Sapieša paša daiļradē koktēlniecība pēdējos gados ieņem galveno vietu.

Zigfrīds Sapiešis ir atturīgs pret viendienīgiem modes virzieniem un ideoloģijām. Viņa mākslas avoti sakņojas pirmatnīgos, dabai tuvos, zemnieciskos slāņos. Viņš ir loceklis vai biedrs rindā profesionālu organizāciju: Royal Society of British Sculptors, Scottish Craft Centre, Educational Institute of Scotland; tāpat Eiropas latviešu mākslinieku apvienības (ELMA) biedrs.

"...Z.S. born in Latvia and has studied art both in Scotland and Denmark. He is a sculptor with a leaning towards ceramics and shows some very promising figures and tiles. He is making interesting experiments in the use of stoneware glazes." GLASGOW HERALD; 19.8.1960.

"... more than 20 sculptures by a Latvian born artist Z.S. who lives at Newbattle. He has exhibited in several European capitals and uses materials such as coloured cement, nails and clay for his interior work..." SCOTSMAN, 27.4.1966.

"...outstanding, although it is one of the smallest of all the exhibits, is the font of Z.S. Although it recalls Romanesque carving, this is not a piece of pastiche, but a work of art in its own right. Yet there is no doubt that symbols hallowed by tradition, in this case the lion, bull, man and eagle of Evangelists, emergent from the stone, have an invaluable place both in guiding and controlling the imagination of the artist and in evoking response in the reviewer..." TIMES EDUCATIONAL SUPPLEMENT, 7. 4.1967.

"...Z.S. believes that simplicity is the foundation of every great art and that respect for material, mastery of tools and artistic ability are the only things that count in art. He loathes gimmicks and prefers to study from the great cultures of the past. At the Waterside Studio he will show examples of his diverse talent in skulpture, ceramic work, wood sculpture and design..." PEEBLESHIRE NEWS, 4.4.1967.

Irresistable humanity in Sapietis show. "... a Latvian by birth... S. is a veritable powerhouse of creative energy, and his work — most of which is suitably attuned to the sympathetic medium of woodcarving — has a comfortably human quality, a combination of friendly tactile surfaces irresistible to the senses and shapes that often invite use of participation... Sincerity and simplicity merely compliment their indisputable aesthetic appeal. His ways are extremely various... But my own particular preference is for a number of versions of a horse and rider in which he seems to fuse emotional content and physical form in a highly desirable fashion." EDWARD GAGE, SCOTSMAN, 12.9.1975.
