coil to join the red pantheon in the sky, and students of history composed a notice of his death and a biography of a wild, passionate hater of the liberal order who poured out his vitriol in vials marked Jew hatred and hatred of Israel. Long hated by the reds by virtue of its role as the lone outpost of Western liberal values amidst a desert wasteland of Islamist tyranny and terror, Israel was the favorite hate object of Desmond Tuto, and the story of his life is the story of an antisemitic and antiIsrael stance whose virulence and intensity was as inspirational to the reds as it was shocking to the conscience of decent, civilized people. In his writings, conversations and public speaking, Tuto peddled the antisemitic, antiIsrael party line of reds of all stripes and varieties, from the communist reds to the national socialist reds, in their campaign to bring the traditions and institutions of the Enlightenment to a final, definitive finish. Tuto was no friend of Israel because he was no friend of freedom. An ardent, unrestrained, heatedly excited promoter of communist revolution, Tuto proclaimed that the Miss South Africa committee should boycott the Miss Universe pageant held in Israel. He proclaimed that Israel is an illegal occupier state which has oppressed the Palestinian people under a regime of apartheid. He proclaimed that Israel has constructed a wall of separation in the West Bank and consigned the Palestinians to life inside a Warsaw Ghetto. He proclaimed that a progressive society supports a campaign of boycott, disinvestment and sanctions against Israel. He proclaimed that a progressive society demands that Israel leave Jerusalem, the West Bank, the Gaza Strip and the realm of national, political and cultural existence. He proclaimed that a progressive society gives its unreserved support to Hamas and Hezbollah and their terror campaign against Israel. He proclaimed that a progressive society is an enemy of Israel because it is an enemy of capitalism, and its supreme objective is the annihilation of these twin enemies of the working class. He proclaimed that the 1967 Six Day War and 1973 Yom Kippur War were initiated by Israel's freedom loving Arab neighbors and they should have won them because Israel has no moral right to exist or to defend itself. He proclaimed that those who support Israel should be marginalized, segregated and deprived of all their rights and freedoms because Israel is the mortal enemy of the Arab, African, Eastern proletariat. He proclaimed that a progressive society enforces ideological lockstep and has weaponized the law to punish those who defend Israel by virtue of its liberal capitalist values. He proclaimed that Israel as a liberal capitalist state has no right to take back land stolen from it by Arabs and no right to set up checkpoints and roadblocks to protect itself from the armies and brigades of Arab terror. He proclaimed that Palestinians are latter day Jesus figures who suffer under the yoke of liberal capitalist Israel just as the historical Jesus suffered under the yoke of liberal capitalist Rome, and the Palestinians must be liberated from this yoke by a war of terror against Israel. He proclaimed that Israel is an evil political power which has crucified the Palestinian people because they seek to establish an antiliberal, antiWestern dictatorship on Israeli land and thereby achieve true liberation. He proclaimed that a progressive society has joined forces with Iran, Cuba, China and North Korea in their support for the Palestinian struggle and their war against the liberal state of Israel. He proclaimed that Israel is a latter day Third Reich and treats the Palestinians in the same manner as Hitler treated the Jews. He proclaimed that Israel is a latter day South Africa and treats the Palestinian in the same manner as the white capitalist apartheid state treated the blacks, and must be overthrown in a popular uprising of the Palestinian proletariat just as the black South African proletariat overthrew their oppressive government. He proclaimed that Israel is the greatest human rights violator in the history of mankind and is an unmitigated disgrace compared with such paragons of human rights as Iran, China, Cuba, North Korea and the authoritarian regimes

present throughout Africa. He proclaimed that zionism equals capitalism, Judaism equals capitalism, and antizionism and antisemitism are thus the highest expressions of human liberation. Listen to the words of Desmond Tutu and hear him reveal his dark, implacable animus toward Israel and the Jews. Hear him advocate a holocaust against Israelis and the Jews. Hear him peddle paranoiac fantasies concerning international Jewish conspiracies and pressure groups in the manner of Hitler and his brownshirts. Hear him condemn liberal democracy as a product of Jewish power, money and sense of superiority. Hear him condemn the Jews as the source of all the world's problems and evils. Hear him proclaim that zionism equals capitalism equals racism equals fascism. Hear him proclaim that capitalism and zionism are doomed to destruction before the glorious onslaught of proletarian revolution and both systems will be consigned to the dustbin of history. Hear him proclaim that capitalist Israel is Hitler's Germany and is apartheid South Africa, and capitalism, zionism, Hitlerism and apartheid are but many faces of a single frightening form which has targeted the downtrodden African and Palestinian proletariat for total destruction. Hear him disgrace the Nobel Prize he was awarded and construct a monster born of hatred, hatred of capitalism, hatred of freedom, hatred of the West and hatred of the Jews, and send it rampaging against civilization: "Among the world's most respected figures is South Africa's Bishop Desmond. His recognizable face—with its ever present grin—has become a symbol of reconciliation and goodness. But it masks a long history of ugly hatred toward the Jewish people, the Jewish religion and the Jewish state. Bishop Desmond Tutu is no mere antizionist. He has minimized the suffering of those killed in the Holocaust. He has attacked the 'Jewish'--not Israeli--'lobby' as too 'powerful' and 'scary.' He has invoked classic antisemitic stereotypes and tropes about Jewish arrogance, power and money. He has characterized Jews a 'peculiar people,' and has accused 'the Jews' of causing many of the world's problems. He once even accused the Jewish state of acting in an 'unChristian' way. Were he not a Nobel laureate, his long history of bigotry against the Jewish people would have landed him in the dustbin of history, along with a dishonor roll of otherwise successful people, whose reputations have been tainted by their antisemitism. But his Nobel Prize should not shield him from accountability for his long history of antiJewish bigotry, any more than it should for Yassir Arafat, Jimmy Carter and Jose Saramago. Tutu has asserted that zionism has 'very many parallels with racism,' thus echoing the notorious and discredited 'zionism equals racism' resolution passed by the General Assembly of the United Nations and subsequently rescinded. He has accused the Jews of Israel of doing 'things that even apartheid South Africa had not done.' He has complained that Americans 'are scared to say wrong is wrong because the Jewish lobby is powerful—very powerful.' He has accused Jews of exhibiting 'an arrogance—the arrogance of power because Jews are a powerful lobby in this land and all kinds of people woo their support.' He has compared Israel to Hitler's Germany, and apartheid South Africa, saying that they too were once 'very powerful' but they 'bit the dust,' as will 'unjust' Israel." (Bishop Tutu Is No Saint When It Comes To The Jews by Alan Dershowitz). Jew hatred has been peddled by the reds for over a century and a half as part of their attack on capitalism. Commencing with Karl Marx and progressing through Joseph Stalin, Jew hatred coursed through veins of the late Archbishop Emeritus Desmond Tutu in his campaign against human rights and world liberal order. Parading under the banners of the Palestinian cause, South Africa's premier antisemite revived Hitler's war against the Jews together with his communist friends, allies and fellow travelers.

THIS RED REALM, THIS RED ISLE, THIS RED ENGLAND

In ancient superstitions, channeling was the alleged practice of mediating communication between the spirits of the dead and living people. In the act of channeling, the spirit takes control of the channeler's voice and uses it to relay a message, or the channeler hears a message from the spirit and passes it on. Students of history have seen in this belief from the dark worlds of shamanism and voodoo a useful picture of the present day and an appropriate guide to its politics. They have seen something especially tragic and terrifying which they can scarcely utter out loud and are unable to describe without feelings of revulsion. They have seen the source and birthplace of modern day liberty, the hearth and home of the liberal values which crowned the West, serve as a medium for Karl Marx and his Soviet successors and descend into the tentacles of red totalitarian tyranny. They have seen the citizens of the land of Britain, the land exalted and celebrated by Shakespeare as "this royal throne of kings, this sceptered isle, this earth of majesty, this seat of Mars, this other Eden, this demiparadise, this fortress built by nature for herself against infection and the hand of war, this happy breed of men, this little world, this precious stone set in the silver sea, which serves it in the office of a wall or as a moat defensive to a house, against the envy of less happier lands--this blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England", assume the role of channelers, mediums, voices and presences of red thinkers and dictators who generations ago filled the world with the rivers of blood and wails of terror and brought the story of the West to a fiery and violent conclusion. On May 25th, 1919, on the Red Square in Moscow, Russian communist leader Vladimir Lenin addressed conscripted soldiers on the first anniversary of the formation of the Red Army. In the twenty first century, the British public has come into contact with Lenin. From the historic center of Moscow has resounded the stentorian thunder of the people's war. From the area bounded by the eastern wall of the Kremlin have echoed the voices of the red party line. From one of the most famous squares in the world has reverberated the rhetoric of tribal politics. From the scene of the great parades celebrating May Day and the October Revolution has pulsed the dark electricity of gender, race and class ideologies and radical red environmentalism, and an apocalyptic movement seeking the destruction of liberal traditions and institutions. The utterances of the British present, emulating and inspired by the Bolshevik past, have proclaimed that a progressive Britain is ruled by ecoradicals who seek to repeal the Industrial Revolution in the name of Build Back Better and a Great Reset. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain seeks to halt the march of human progress in the name of Extinction Rebellion and Insulate Britain. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain enacts socialist policies and promulgates primitive communism in the name of a Green New Deal. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain promotes a green, sustainable recovery from the covid pandemic in the form of dismantling technical civilization. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain is ruled by far left ecowarriors whose program is to sacrifice human technology on altar tables marked air, trees, water and animals. They have proclaimed that industry and technology are the sources of a global climate crisis and must be smashed by the people's direct, violent action. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain has banned the right to protest against communist and environmentalist policies in the name of social justice and the preservation of the planet. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain is a Black Lives Matter movement which has successfully combated the white man's capitalist system. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain has shut down the thoroughfares of modern life, halted the traffic of goods and services and set up tents on industrial parks. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain is ruled by ecoactivists who disrupt offices and factories, shatter the wheels of advanced technology and lay themselves down on the roads of London. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain is a protracted protest campaign, employing the tactics of violence and intimidation, against the forward movement of mankind on the path of liberty and prosperity. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain has established far left radical positions as the reigning orthodoxy and organized round the clock demonstrations against the enemies of the people: freedom, capitalism, science and technology. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain is a Marxist-Leninist revolutionary movement which affirms that socialism provides the only solution to the crisis of climate change. They have proclaimed that capitalism equals imperialism and an anticapitalist, antiimperialist socialist movement is the only means of addressing the global climate crisis. They have proclaimed that environmental destruction is an essential part of the capitalist system. They have proclaimed that the red regime of collectivist oppression places the needs of the people and the preservation of the planet above the pursuit of private profits and is the only alternative to the environmental devastation wrought by capitalism. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain has abolished the capitalist system of white supremacy, abolished the police, opened up the jail cells, and established communist lawlessness in the name of black liberation. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain has shut down the motorways and junctions of modern life and prevented people from traveling to work and school. They have proclaimed that unless modern civilization is destroyed and mankind reverts to living in caves, billions of people throughout the world will die from human induced global warming. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain promotes ecoalarmism and ecoterrorism and prevents ambulances from taking people to hospitals in the name of combating climate change. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain is a green conscious society which has established carbon taxes, enforced net zero carbon emissions and outlawed businesses, factories and modern technology. They have proclaimed that industrial civilization is a doomsday clock which has struck midnight and sent the planet spiraling into raging flames, massive overheating and total incineration. They have proclaimed that modern industry and technology have brought about climate catastrophe and biodiversity loss and pose an existential threat to the planet. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain has launched a military style campaign and placed itself on a warlike footing to eliminate all traces of industrial and technological progress, and thereby save the planet from total extinction. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain has awarded multibillion dollar reparations payments to the people of Africa, Asia and Latin America for their liberation by colonial powers from the yoke of tribalism. They have proclaimed that a progressive Britain is a green power society which has commenced an antiindustrial revolution, canceled electrification and smashed all machines. Listen to the words of Britain today and hear it promote communist revolution and proletarian politics. Hear it declare total war against business and manufacturing. Hear it extol the nightmare visions of Soviet dictators. Hear it promote the reversion of mankind to the nameless eons of paleolithic existence in the name of green power, a green agenda and a green industrial revolution. Hear it exalt as a supreme moral mission and the highest expression of moral idealism the charging of the nation with Satan's currents of red extremism and the destruction of civilization: "Conservative Prime Minister Boris Johnson quoted communist dictator Vladimir Lenin to promote his Build Back Better green agenda in a speech delivered to business leaders on Monday. Speaking at the Port of Tyne in South Shields at the opening session of the annual Confederation of British Industry (CBI) on Monday morning, Mr Johnson used a quote from the former Soviet Union dictator to frame his vision for a 'green industrial revolution'. 'Lenin once said that the communist revolution was Soviet power plus the electrification of the whole country,' Johnson said. 'Well, I hesitate to quote Lenin at the Confederation of British Industry, but the coming industrial revolution is green power plus the electrification of the whole country,' he continued. Mr Johnson said that his green agenda is a 'moral mission', explaining that he has become 'more idealistic' as he has grown older." (Absolutely A Conservative, Honest! Boris Quotes Lenin To Promote Build Back Greener by Kurt Zindulka). Beer halls are a traditional part of German culture. In these halls, thousands of people socialize, drink beer and take part in boisterous political debates. One of the largest beerhalls in Germany, the Burgerbraukeller was the site of the failed coup d'etat launched by Hitler and his brownshirt reds in 1923. In the twenty first century, Britain has descended into the proletarian assemblies of the beer hall and launched a revolution against freedom and prosperity.

REDS BAN CARS

A serious crime is committed when a motorist drives another off the road. The charges range from aggravated assault with a motor vehicle to vehicular homicide. Victims are allowed to claim property and personal injury damages. Students of history have seen in this crime a frightening portrait of the policies the reds have pursued in the present day with respect to private automobile ownership. They have seen a campaign to abolish the right to own and operate private vehicles and to force the citizens of free nations to utilize public mass transit. They have seen the march of collectivization advance unimpeded by the consent of the majority and reach a fever pitch with private cars being run off the road to the wild applause of the masses. They have seen personal mobility placed under state control and know that this is how things end when the masses are overcome by moral exhaustion and grow weary of their freedom, and opt for totalitarian control down to day to day details, and a civilization which once stood for constitutional rights disintegrates and spirals into collapse. They have issued their report on the elimination of private car ownership and to read it is to read about the natural, inevitable, unstoppable and ineluctable end stage of human social and political organization: a state of thoroughgoing communism and the extirpation of free humanity. In this terrifying final state in which private cars are run off the road, personal autonomy is run off the road, individual sovereignty is run off the road, personal spheres of existence are run off the road, and the liberal traditions and institutions built up over the centuries are hurled in flames into the ditches and gutters of history is composed a program and manifesto of mass cultural suicide and the red cult of spiritual death and destruction. Enacted by the raised hands of Western people and their parliaments at the last stop at the end of the line, this program proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal philosophy which permits personal choice and private vehicle ownership, and in the name of reducing greenhouse gas emissions, forces people to ride on public shared transport. It proclaims that a progressive society has curtailed the emission of carbon into the atmosphere by forcing people to rely on public transportation and ride sharing platforms. It proclaims that in a progressive society people have given up their interest in personal cars and the government pays people to turn in their cars for destruction. It proclaims that a progressive society has banned internal combustion engines and priced consumers out of the vehicle market by mandating the use of electric vehicles, and thereby forced them to utilize public transportation. It proclaims that a progressive society makes people dependent upon the government to travel anywhere. It proclaims that a progressive society spends hundreds of billions of dollars to expand public transportation and make the use of private vehicles a relic of the past. It proclaims that a progressive society imposes a per kilometer driving tax on motorists to discourage private car use and increase funds for public transportation. It proclaims that a progressive society has prohibited people from owning private vehicles and traveling wherever and whenever they please in the name of protecting the planet from a greenhouse gas induced conflagration. It proclaims that a progressive society has eliminated the right of the people to have access to their own private, individual modes of transport on the grounds that individual existence vanishes into darkness before the mystical light rays of the social organism. It proclaims that a progressive society has transitioned away from personal vehicle ownership and enhanced public transportation as a way to reverse man made global warming which is incinerating the planet. It proclaims that a progressive society has implemented traffic charges in cities to reduce driving. It proclaims that a progressive society is a people over cars society which has converted car lanes into bicycle lanes and established vast zones in which cars cannot be driven. It proclaims that a progressive society has established zero fare public transportation to discourage personal vehicle ownership. It proclaims that a progressive society promotes shared ownership of cars and makes one's neighbors and one's neighbors' neighbors the owners of one's car. It proclaims that a progressive society has banned cars from its cities one day per month. It proclaims that a progressive society has banned cars from downtown city areas. It proclaims that a progressive society has eliminated car parks. It proclaims that a progressive society is a car free society in which people can wander around without having this hated symbol of personal freedom and private space in sight. It proclaims that cars have brought the scourges of air pollution and traffic accidents to society and must be designed out of urban landscapes. It proclaims that a progressive society has given the streets back to the people by removing all parking places and banning all cars. It proclaims that cars prevent people from socializing on the streets, from eating in outdoor restaurants and from exhibiting art, and prohibits children from playing in the streets, and must be banned. It proclaims that a progressive society has replaced parking spots with chairs, benches, cycling lanes and green areas. It proclaims that cars cause serious air pollution problems and the only way to address these is to ban cars and force people to walk, ride bicycles or use public transport. It proclaims that cars cause air pollution, millions of deaths in traffic accidents, and invade the people's sacred collective spaces and must be banned. It proclaims that cars reduce social interaction and streets reserved for them must be replaced by parks, squares and pedestrian areas. It proclaims that urban land reserved for car parking has caused a housing crisis and the elimination of cars will immediately solve this crisis. It proclaims that taking cars away from people will eliminate environmental blight and improve public health and must become the policy of every nation. It proclaims that cars restrict the rights and freedoms of the people, the right of children to play in the street, the right of elderly people to cross the street, and the right of people with asthma to go outdoors, and must be banned. It proclaims that a progressive society is a walkable and cyclable society which is laid out with many intersections and many bridges between buildings and thereby eliminates the need to use cars. It proclaims that a progressive society designs urban areas to function without the use of cars. It proclaims that a progressive society is a car free living, working and play environment, an environment in which children can get to school without the need of a car, in which people do not have to travel great distances to get to work, and no person needs to drive anywhere. It proclaims that a progressive society has been planned to eliminate the need for cars by the construction of dense housing, nearby shops and offices, and numerous tram stops, bus stops and railway lines. It proclaims that a progressive society has retrofitted its cities to establish pedestrian only squares which once saw massive car use. It proclaims that a progressive society has outlawed all private mobility options and drawn people away from private car ownership. Look at the policies of today's reds and see them call for class war under banners marked Ban Cars! See them take away freedom in the name of protecting pedestrians and cyclists. See them deprive people of liberty in the name of protecting the right to walk, cycle and socialize in public without hindrance. See them ban cars from city blocks, streets, neighborhoods and from every corner of the earth. See them launch a movement to ban the personal travel spaces provided by cars in the name of reducing traffic congestion, reducing air pollution, reducing noise pollution, reducing carbon emissions and making cities livable. See them effect a cultural revolution to repeal individual rights and private ownership, to place all private spaces under collective control, and to reverse the progress of human civilization: "Ban Cars!" has become a clarion call of contemporary urbanism. Whether it's grand car free plans in Paris, the evolution of deeply rooted traditions in Amsterdam and Bogota or the patchy beginnings of car free streets in Seattle, citizens and city leaders around the world are pushing to reorient urban areas away from cars in favor of pedestrians, cyclists and mass transit. On a small scale, the goals are relatively simple: a ban on cars on individual blocks, streets or neighborhoods generally makes those places safer for walking, cycling and socializing while also cutting down on air and noise pollution caused by motor vehicles. On a larger scale, the goals are more profound, envisioning a culture shift when people and cities realize they can create spaces that don't depend on cars. At that level, the movement to ban (or severely restrict) automobiles is viewed as a solution for traffic congestion in urban areas, as a way to cut carbon emissions and as a tool to design more livable cities." (Ban Cars: Why Cities Are Embracing The Call For Car Free Streets by Patrick Sisson). For over a hundred years, a car had sped down the highways of the world, driven by the voices of freedom and liberty. In the twenty first century, this car was blown apart by the people's red guards of political correctness and collective ownership. The orders of the reds: shoot to kill.

JANUARY 6, 2022: THE FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF A PEOPLE'S WAR

An insurrection is defined as the refusal of obedience to a state. It refers to the open resistance against orders issued by an established authority. It is defined in relation to the existence of a government and in the absence of this, the term has no meaning. Students of history who have studied the so-called insurrection staged on January 6, 2020 at the United States Capital to stop the certification of the 2020 presidential election acknowledge that the description is a misnomer. They acknowledge that an institution which calls itself a government and enables, abets, promotes, excuses and encourages election fraud is not a government but a lawless gang, and that a so-called insurrection staged against it is not in fact an insurrection but an effort to topple and replace this gang by those who defend and uphold the rule of law. They acknowledge that the so-called insurrection staged on January 6 was a people's war against an entity which violated the law by certifying an election marked by the following. It was marked by the exclusion of election observers from polling stations. It was marked by unlawful ballot harvesting in which third parties picked up and delivered ballots on behalf of voters. It was marked by red activists, working with nonprofit red organizations, who collected and delivered absentee ballots during the middle of the night to ballot drop boxes and manufactured thousands of votes for Joe Biden. The evidence for this ballot harvesting includes video footage from surveillance cameras and geolocation data for mobile phones, providing dates and times of trips to drop boxes. The election was marked by coordinated plans to stuff ballot boxes with Biden votes and destroy Trump votes. It was marked by the fact that in six battleground states, Arizona, Georgia, Michigan, Nevada, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, the number of illegal votes cast for Biden was far greater than Biden's margin of victory in these states. It was marked by the fact that at midnight on election night in Georgia, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Wisconsin, Trump was ahead of Biden by over 350,000 votes, and in Pennsylvania by over a half a million votes, and three hours later in the dead of night, these margins were erased by secret ballot dumps for Biden. It was marked by the fact that thousands of affidavits and declarations, together with reports, video footage, analyses by think tanks and legal centers, and testimony in state venues, have established the systematic commission of vote fraud, deception and irregularities. It was marked by large scale fake ballot manufacturing. It was marked by the fact that a tractor trailer in Pennsylvania with 100,000 votes for Trump went missing. It was marked by the fact that thousands of people were allowed to vote without appropriate identification. It was marked by the fact that resident aliens and underage individuals were allowed to vote. It was marked by the fact that dead voters were recorded as voting. It was marked by the fact that Indians on reservations were bribed to vote for Biden. It was marked by the fact that thousands of individuals voted using addresses they did not reside at. It was marked by the fact that votes were stored in unsupervised drop boxes. It was marked by the fact that ballots without outer envelopes, and thus without means of signature verification, were entered into tabulation. It was marked by the fact that ballots without postmarks were entered into tabulation. It was marked by the fact that states established mail in extensions in violation of the law. It was marked by the fact that thousands of improperly registered voters were allowed to vote. It was marked by the fact that thousands of votes were run through tabulation machines multiple times. It was marked by the fact that thousands of absentee ballots were accepted too early or too late. It was marked by the fact that there was a higher standard of identity verification for people who went to the polls than for people who voted by mail, which difference violated the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. It was marked by the fact that Republican poll watchers were subjected to harassment and intimidation. It was marked by the fact that voter turnout of over one hundred percent was recorded. It was marked by the fact that thousands of vote switches in favor of Biden were tabulated. It was marked by the fact that identification checks were performed by machines and not by human beings, in violation of the law. It was marked by the fact that the rejection rate for ballots was zero, while the rate in previous elections was six percent, and this despite the massive increase in absentee ballots. It was marked by massive stuffing of drop boxes with ballots for Biden, an activity recorded on thousands of tranches of video footage. It was marked by individuals depositing ballots in multiple dropboxes. It was marked by unauthorized coordination between government workers in the handling of ballots. It was marked by individuals wearing gloves to deposit ballots. It was marked by the refusal of the United States judicial system, up to and including the United States Supreme Court, to consider cases of election fraud on their merits, to refuse to decide the cases on the basis of the evidence, and to dismiss them on grounds of procedure, process and lack of standing, as if the Fifteenth, Nineteenth and Twenty Six Amendments to the Constitution did not exist. Requiring that voting rights of citizens cannot be abridged on account of race, color, previous condition of servitude, sex or age, if individuals are eighteen and older, these suffrage amendments implicitly establish a constitutional right to vote in free and fair elections. Look at the presidential election of 2020 and see election integrity voted out of existence. See trillions of spatial and temporal data establish the presence and activities of red ballot traffickers and harvesters of fraud who rigged and manipulated an electoral process. See tens of thousands of surveillance video files and millions of minutes of video record the activities of thieves in the night, working from dropbox locations, UPS stores, government facilities and subversive organizations, as they stole an election from the people: "Conservative election integrity group True The Vote has been conducting a months long massive and clandestine voter fraud investigation into the 2020 presidential election, the results of which may soon start coming out, Breitbart News has learned exclusively. A document that the group's founder Catherine Engelbrecht circulated to prospective donors, obtained by Breitbart News, details several facets of the investigation—which centers on what the group describes as the collection of cell phone GPS ping data in key election hotspots around the country, including Georgia, Arizona, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, and Michigan. When reached and asked to comment on the forthcoming investigation, Engelbrecht confirmed the authenticity of the document and its contents but declined further comment at this time. The document says that True The Vote has spent the last several months since late last year collecting more than 27 terabytes of geospatial and temporal data—a total of 10 trillion cell phone pings—between October 1 and November 6 in targeted areas in Georgia, Arizona, Michigan, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, and Texas. The data includes geofenced points of interest like ballot dropbox locations, as well as UPS stores and select government, commercial, and nongovernmental organization (NGO) facilities. 'From this we have thus far developed precise patterns of life for 242 suspected ballot traffickers in Georgia and 202 traffickers in Arizona,' True The Vote's document says. 'According to the data, each trafficker went to an average of 23 ballot dropboxes.' In other words, what the document says is that True The Vote was able to take cell phone ping data on a mass wide scale and piece together that several people—suspected ballot harvesters—were making multiple trips to multiple drop boxes, raising potential legal questions in a number of these states. From there, the document continues, True The Vote gathered surveillance video on the drop boxes in Georgia and is attempting to gather similar such surveillance video from other states. The document states that True The Vote has obtained one full petabyte of surveillance footage on drop boxes—two million minutes of video—which it says is broken into 73,000 individual video files." (Exclusive—True The Vote Conducting Massive Clandestine Voter Fraud Investigation by Matthew Boyle). The Warsaw Ghetto Uprising of 1943. The East German Uprising of 1953. The Hungarian Revolution of 1956. The Prague Spring of 1968. The revolutions of 1989 which resulted in the end of communist rule in Europe and beyond, the revolutions in Poland, Hungary, East Germany, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Cambodia. These forcible overthrows occupy the top ranks of a shining constellation of acts of resistance to illegal, immoral and illegitimate authority. Staged by patriotic soldiers across the nation fighting in defense of the rule of law, the invasion and occupation of the United States Capital on January 6, 2020 has joined these ranks.

WEIMAR COMMUNISTS SET UP SHOP

A franchise is an authorization granted by a government or company to another organization which enables it to carry out specified activities, such as broadcasting or acting as an agent for a company's products. The franchisor licenses its know how, procedures, property, brand, business model and rights to sell its products or services to the franchisee in return for a fee and agrees to comply with contractual obligations. Students of history have seen in the franchising operation a terrifying picture of a present day organization. They have seen ghosts of the past return to the present with a warrant, charter, license and permit. They have seen a Grim Reaper active decades ago establish itself in business once again and enable its agents to continue its mission. These agents have adopted the aims, methods and emblems of the parent and have been granted permission to operate by the specter of the parent, a specter which haunts the free world and has pushed it into the abyss. Students of history have before them a motion picture of the past, are shooting footage of the present, and are assaulted by the connection they have observed between the two. They have been bombed into a state of fear and trembling by the existence of a real link, a notional link, and channels of spiritual access and communication between two organizations, separated by a span of a century, which have between them brought down the curtain on the West and sent it spiraling into the majoritarian tyranny which has spelled the death of all civilizations. So it transpired in Classical civilization and so it has transpired in the West, that the multitudes, actuated by a belief that the world owes them a living and that their betters and superiors have an obligation to provide them with all the necessities and luxuries of life, have assumed power and put a definitive end to freedom and liberty. Students of history have seen an organization formed by the Communist Party of Germany during the late Weimar Republic come back to life and give its name and soul to a child which has carried on its rampage. They have seen the Antifaschistische Aktion, established in 1932 to combat two groups, its brother rivals, the national socialists who wore Hitler's brown shirts in place of the communists' red shirts, and the Weimar voices of liberal democracy, return to the world with the same name and the same dedication to destroy civilization. Announced in the Communist Party's newspaper The Red Flag as "a red united front under the leadership of the only antifascist party, the KPD", Antifa joined hands with its fascist comrades to defeat the system of individual rights set up by the Weimar Republic. Antifascist but not antisocialist or anticollectivist, it was driven by the same hatred as the fascists toward the constitution of liberty and by the same desire to turn back the traditions and institutions of the Enlightenment, and for one long year before its dissolution by its brown shirt rivals, it held Germany in the grip of fear. Antifaschistische Aktion, 1932 to 1933, Antifaschistische Aktion in the twenty first century: the same title, the same iconography, the same program, the same manifesto, the same organization in spirit and soul, and the same commitment to psychopathic violence paraded and justified under the banners of Marx. This name, this program, this manifesto, this successor organization, this movement plumbing the depths of political pornography has proclaimed the following. It has proclaimed that a progressive society sanctions the achievement of power by force of arms and the commission of random violence in the name of marginalized communities. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is ruled by communists, socialists and the extreme left who have one and all declared total war against the governments of free people. It has proclaimed that a progressive society prohibits all movements of the right, all movements promoting the freedom of the individual, and holds before them the red flags of extermination. It has proclaimed that liberal democracy is a swastika system of race hatred and must be eradicated by the people's brigades of proletarian dictatorship. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is a formation of armed street fighters ready to cut down in cold blood the defenders of liberal tolerance and equal rights for all. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is a church of red parties which worship at altars emblazoned with the hammer and sickle and seek to reanimate the bulldozers of Soviet imperialism. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is ruled by the far left and rejects free market capitalism, property rights, freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and freedom of association. It has proclaimed that a progressive society rejects the liberal vision of John Locke and Thomas Jefferson and denies the right of the individual to live, work, think and flourish for himself. It has proclaimed that a progressive society rejects the liberal phrase, attributed to Voltaire, that "I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it", and prohibits all forms of speech which challenge, in any way, shape or form, the people's principles of red political correctness. It has proclaimed that a progressive society has abolished the rule of law and the institutions of liberty in the name of fighting the far right. It proclaims that a progressive society is an illiberal society which has incinerated charters of constitutional rights in the furnaces of social revolution. It has proclaimed that a progressive society has abolished every last trace of individual freedom in the name of fighting racism and preventing racists from achieving power. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is an anticapitalist action network which has torched the lives of free people and disrupted their careers. It has proclaimed that capitalism is a system of fascism and white supremacy. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is a movement of the oppressed and the exploited whose aim is to attack and resist the capitalist system of racism, sexism, nativism, Islamophobia, homophobia, transphobia, and discrimination against the disabled. It has proclaimed that a progressive society has established communism in the name of abortion rights and reproductive freedom. It has proclaimed that a progressive society has abolished the police and the courts and given control of the streets to the people's social justice hoodlums. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is a single class, proletarian supremacist society which has eradicated the producers of wealth and value. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is not restrained by any principles of right or decency and promotes gender, race and class violence as its core value. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is ruled by violent thugs who physically attack people who dissent from the red party line. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is a militant Marxist society which defends the use of force and violence as defensive, as proactive and as a necessity in the struggle for liberation. It has proclaimed that a progressive society consists of three elements in the people's struggle for freedom: physical violence against antiMarxists, the political organization of totalitarian regimentation, and the dissemination of red hate propaganda which targets successful, white men for total destruction. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is marked by a brazen willingness to confront the forces of capitalist oppression of the marginalized and wipe them out. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is a criminal society, a cruel society and a nihilistic society which justifies its sociopathy in the name of justice for the downtrodden. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is ruled by mindless ruffians who don the mantles of political activists. It has proclaimed that a progressive society is a movement of artists, musicians, writers, students, professors and factory workers who are united their policy of attacking anticommunists in the streets, in undermining liberal culture and achievements, and in sweeping away the oppressive norms of reason and objectivity. It has proclaimed that a progressive society enforces socialism and egalitarianism and refuses to accept the legitimacy of the Enlightenment tradition which affirms the primacy of the individual. It proclaims that a progressive society gathers private information on outspoken antiMarxists and releases it on the internet with the intent to destroy them. It proclaims that a progressive society maintains a round the clock radio tower propagating biased, misleading pseudoinformation and builds a movement of hatred and fury toward the liberal democratic system. It proclaims that a progressive society sanctions illegal methods of force and brutality and leads a worldwide movement of Marxists whose members put on black masks and bash the skulls of liberal capitalist fascists at night. From London to Berlin to Paris to Toronto to Seattle to Portland to Berkeley to Charlottesville, a movement of violent direct action has descended upon the world. Arcing back to the communist opposition to the Weimar Republic, the black masked gangsters of Antifa have closed the story of the West in an age of crime.

REDS IN WHITE COATS

A masquerade ball is an event in which people attend in costume wearing a mask. It was first held in the carnival season in Europe in the fourteenth century and involved royal entries, pageants and processions. The most famous masquerade ball was the Wild Men's Ball, held by Charles VI of France, in which the king and five courtiers dressed as wildmen of the woods in costumes made of flax and pitch. Performing in a dance, four of the courtiers were killed in a fire from a torch brought by Louis I, the Duke of Orleans. Students of history have seen in the masquerade ball a terrifying picture of an institution. They have recoiled in revulsion at the horror they have seen because it has struck at very the foundations of modern life. They can scarcely write about this attack on human progress and civilization, or communicate it to their colleagues, but understand full well that it represents the inevitable end stage of a culture grown weary of existence. This awfulness, this fright, this development causing shock and disgust, is the invasion of the medical profession by red activists masquerading as doctors on a mission to racialize the profession and place it under the shadow of a Hitler type tribal worship. It is a mission to reconstruct Marx's proletarian class war into a national socialist race war and establish a neoAryan medical profession which excludes whites, promotes black communist politics, and treats only blacks. Students of history have issued their report on White Coats for Black Lives, a red organization of doctors and medical students dedicated to redefining medical practice as a political and ideological undertaking, and to read it is to look aghast through a window of civilizational collapse and to read a program and manifesto composed by Hitler's children and Marx's grandchildren, shouted out in medical classrooms and operating theaters during the final moment and death rattle of the West. With chapters in dozens of medical schools across Europe and America, White Coats for Black Lives has issued a declaration of its platform, policies, aims and intentions and tolled a bell marking the dissolution of the liberal order bequeathed to the world by the Age of Enlightenment. Composed with Satan's special stylus in his sulfur of race hatred catching fire across the world, this program proclaims that modern day medical practice, with its policy of colorblind treatment for all, dehumanizes and exploits blacks. It proclaims that a progressive medical practice prioritizes black patients over all others and is centered upon the needs of black communities and no other communities. It proclaims that medical knowledge which views all people as biologically equal and possessed of the same human essence must be unlearned and expunged from medical school and replaced by a religion of black racial supremacy. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of white domination and violence against blacks. It proclaims that liberal democracy is a political instrument for stealing black lives. It proclaims the use of the body mass index or weight to height ratio as an indicator of obesity should not be applied to blacks. It proclaims that it is false to teach medical students that obesity is dangerous for all people and students should be taught that blacks comprise a master race and can gain weight without any risks to their health. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of racism, colonialism, patriarchy, heterosexuality, antitransgenderism and white supremacy. It proclaims that blacks suffer from higher rates of hypertension than other races, not because of their diet or behavior, but because of the systemic oppression imposed by the capitalist system under which they live. It proclaims that the racist capitalist system is the cause of all black discomforts and diseases. It proclaims that the modern day professionalization of the medical field, with its emphasis upon education, competence, skill and expertise, is unfair to unqualified black candidates and must be abolished. It proclaims that the transition from primitive folklore to scientific knowledge in the study of medicine has been a barrier to entry by primitive, uneducated black voodoo masters and must be reversed. It proclaims that the power and prestige given to college educated, science based doctors today is a result of white violence and the consolidation of white power under the capitalist system. It proclaims that a progressive medical school is a radical, racist medical school which promotes a religion of black biological supremacy and gives preferential treatment to black students. It proclaims that a progressive medical school has established a special operations unit dedicated to red agitation and propaganda and called it an Anti Racism Task Force. It proclaims that a progressive medical school has incorporated critical race theory as a primary component of its curriculum. According to this theory, race is the fundamental category of human existence; all theories about man and society are at bottom theories about race; and the capitalist system and the whites who founded it and support it must be criticized, condemned and hurled into the dustbin of history as ineradicably and irredeemably racist. The program of White Coats for Black Lives proclaims that a progressive medical school has ceased to utilize test scores and grade point averages in its admissions decisions for black students on the grounds that this unfairly bars entry to unqualified black candidates. It proclaims that a progressive medical school promotes an intersectional revolution of blacks and the proletariat whose aim is to establish a neoHitlerian national Bolshevik state in the form of a black communist dictatorship. It proclaims that a progressive medical school teaches its students that there is good racism and bad racism, and that white hatred of blacks is bad racism while black hatred of whites is good racism, because blacks comprise a master race while whites comprise an inferior race. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of white power and privilege. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of unearned assets and plundered wealth for whites. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of racial bias and racist communication. It proclaims that whites are motivated by conscious or unconscious bias toward blacks and must be eliminated. It proclaims that all criticism of black racist ideology and the communist system is a form of aggression and microaggression and must be prohibited. It proclaims that a progressive medical school has established an admissions quota system which admits unqualified black candidates and discriminates against qualified white candidates in the name of diversity, equity and inclusion. Listen to the words of White Coats for Black Lives and hear them proclaim that medical practice in modern Western societies is racist because it treats all patients equally and does not give special treatment to blacks. Hear them proclaim that progressive medicine is political medicine and racial medicine and excludes whites from medical treatment. Hear them proclaim that capitalism has destroyed the health, happiness and well being of black communities and robbed blacks of their dignity and autonomy. Hear them proclaim that capitalism has persecuted blacks, treated them as insignificant and peripheral, kept them in hardship and subservience, and inflicted ravaging diseases upon them. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society expropriates whites, reduces them to the status of noncitizens, and places all power, wealth, property and resources into the hands of blacks in the name of slavery reparations and social justice: "Medical practice in the US is informed by race as a political system, and works to legitimize race through false biological arguments. The very existence of American chattel slavery relied on scientific and medical justifications for black inferiority. Race was created as a tool for exploitation by white people who placed themselves at the top of their invented racial hierarchy, in opposition to blackness in particular. It is important to note that the creation of racial categories was a result of racism; as expressed succinctly by Professor Dorothy Roberts, 'Race is the product of racism; racism is not the product of race.' While a relatively recent invention, racism has concrete and devastating effects on health, especially for black communities. In this context, practicing truly just medicine requires treating race as a political category within the framework of an intentional system of oppression and exploitation, and intentionally practicing antiracism (antiracism requires centering those most marginalized in our communities, and the redistribution of power and resources, including reparations). It means both ending the ideologies and practices that paint black bodies as diseased or grotesque, as well as dismantling the systems that steal black people's health, well being, and self determination." (Our Vision And Values, White Coats For Black Lives). The oldest binding document in history is the Hippocratic Oath. Composed by the Greek physician Hippocrates in the fifth century BC, it is an oath of ethics historically taken by physicians at the start of their careers and states "I will abstain from all intentional wrongdoing and harm." Hijacking the practice of medicine and transforming it into a murderous scalpel in the hands of race haters, a red political group has rendered this oath null and void and lowered the curtain on the sacred science of healing.

DOCTORS FOR COMMUNISM

When the Third Reich was formed, it purged Germany of its Jewish doctors and transformed medicine into a political discipline. A new class of Aryan doctors worked for the state and not for their patients and viewed extermination as a legitimate medical procedure. German doctors' involvement in the Holocaust and their violation of the Hippocratic Oath is described by Edzard Ernst in The Third Reich—German Physicians Between Resistance And Participation: "The participation in the betrayal of Hippocrates had a broad basis within the German medical profession. Without the doctors' active help, the Holocaust could not have happened." (International Journal Of Epidemiology, Volume 30). Students of history have seen in the politicization of medicine during the dark days of Germany a terrifying parallel in the present day. They have seen the names and faces change but the essence of horror and criminality remain the same and have recoiled in revulsion at what they have seen. They have seen a movement of identity politics take control over the medical profession and send it spiraling into a national socialist abyss. They have seen the ghosts of Third Reich medical killers stalk the offices, corridors, wards and operating theaters staffed by today's medical establishment and commit their crimes once again. The correspondence is unmistakable, the resemblance is crystal clear, the duplication has been impressed by Satan himself, and students of history have seen in the medical regimes of the present day signposts directing civilized society into dissolution and the Devil doffing his hat as the car of reason and science is run off the road. Students of history have issued their report on the hijacking of the medical profession by the children and grandchildren of Marx, by Hitler's heirs and descendants, and have exposed the activities of a red front, red guard, brown shirt organization as it wields the scythe of the Grim Reaper and cuts out the soul of those who swore an oath to do no harm. They have issued their report on the the American Association of Physicists in Medicine and to read it is to read a program and manifesto composed by the specters of Soviet medical malpractice and Third Reich medical wrongdoing paraded under the banners of gender, race and class politics. Composed by red ideologues and neoMarxist theologians who have declared total war on the traditions and institutions of the Enlightenment, this is a program and manifesto of the Marxists, the Hitlerites and the intersectionists who have led a movement sanctioning improper, illegal and negligent professional activity perpetrated by those who solemnly promised as doctors to promote, maintain and restore good health. This program proclaims that a progressive medical profession has replaced gendered pronoun usage with politically correct gender neutral language. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession is unconcerned with scientific discovery or advances in technology and focuses its time and energy on enforcing race and gender politics in the name of diversity, inclusion and equity. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession is unconcerned with such things as computerized tomography or how to protect children from excessive radiation during cancer treatment, and is concerned with protecting the sexual and gender rights of minority doctors. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession is ruled by special committees, by hispanic committees, Latinx committees, black committees, women's committees, transgender committees and homosexual committees, whose task is to ensure that all language used by doctors promotes tribal social organization and the rejection of constitutional rights. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession fosters and promotes intersectionality and leads movements of black communists, women communists, homosexual communists and transgender communists to overthrow the Western liberal democratic system. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession is unconcerned with acquiring state of the art equipment or expanding clinical trials and is concerned with undertaking vigorous, nationwide campaigning to bring about social, political and economic revolution. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession is a red activist profession which engages in direct action and sanctions the use of force and violence to achieve justice for the exploited and the marginalized. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession is an ideological organization which speaks with one voice, the voice of red ideological lockstep, and silences, blacklists and destroys the careers of those who dissent from it. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession installs red propagandists as chairs of its committees and gives raised fists and Hitler salutes to the field marshals of race theory, feminist theory, transgender theory and intersectional black, lesbian, transgender communist theory. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession is run by radicals, revolutionaries and peddlers of critical race theory. According to critical race theory, racism is embedded in liberal legal systems and policies and these must be reassessed and replaced by a regime of black totalitarian power. The program of today's red doctors proclaims that a progressive medical profession is run by sexual, gender, black and hispanic committees which have emancipated medicine from the yoke of reason and empiricism. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession advocates racial segregation and discrimination against whites in the name of racial justice and equity. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession collects money from doctors in order to finance race and gender agitation and propaganda campaigns. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession is marked by a communist political direction and tracks down and cancels all doctors who speak out against it. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession is alert to the injustice and discrimination of the capitalist system and is alive with red revolutionary rage. It proclaims

that a progressive medical system awards bonuses to doctors who create and implement plans to disenfranchise whites in the name of antiracism and antidiscrimination. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession affirms that capitalism has established systemic racism and is the cause of all the ills which afflict blacks. It proclaims that a progressive medical profession prohibits genetic testing of blacks on the grounds that such leads to politically incorrect conclusions that blacks are especially susceptible to certain diseases, such as hypertension, which whites are not. Listen to the words of today's red doctors and hear them peddle black racism and discrimination against whites in the name equity, diversity and inclusion. Hear them advocate representation by unqualified blacks, recruitment of unqualified blacks, education of unqualified blacks, training of unqualified blacks and mentorship of unqualified blacks in the name of black reparations, social rights and the inherent superiority of the black race: "Black and African American Medical Physics Subcommittee. Charge: Identify and address the needs facing Black, African American and African medical physicists and trainees. Promote awareness and provide resources to support Equity, Diversity and Inclusion initiatives relating to the black, African American and African communities. Increase representation and visibility through recruitment and mentorship efforts at various levels in training/education. Inform the Equity, Diversity and Inclusion committee of the concerns and needs of the black, African American and African community with respect to any of their proposed equity, diversity and inclusion efforts." (American Association of Physicists in Medicine, website). Listen to the words of today's red doctors and hear them advocate a program of interaction and exchange with hispanic activists featuring guidance and training in race incitement and agitation: "Hispanic and Latino/x Medical Physics Subcommittee. Charge: To provide a formal group for the Latino/x and hispanic community and allies within AAPM for mentorship, networking, outreach and bringing awareness to concerns of the Hispanic medical physics community to the broader AAPM membership." (American Association of Physicists in Medicine, website). Christopher Duntsch is a former American neurosurgeon serving a life sentence for intentionally maiming the spine of an elderly patient. Known as Dr Death, Duntsch wielded surgical tools as deadly weapons and cold bloodedly killed or harmed dozens of patients. Blasting medical science with the radiation of neoMarxist hate ideologies, today's red doctors of death have lowered the curtain on the world's noblest profession. Protected by the ancient gods, it healed disease and cared for the afflicted.

THE TRANSGENDER ASSAULT ON CIVILIZATION

He depilated and wore make up, wigs and feminine attire. He rejected being called a lord and demanded to be called a lady: "Call me not Lord, for I am a Lady." He offered vast sums of money to any doctor who could provide him with female genitalia. His greatest and most enduring relationship was with a man and he delighted in being called this man's mistress, wife and queen. This is not a scene from the present day but a picture of the past during a time of collapse. The man was Roman Emperor Elagabalus who reigned from 218 to 222 and his behavior exemplified the state of decadence and decline into which Rome had fallen and marked out its free fall trajectory into the abyss. So it was in ancient Rome and so it is in the present day, and so it has been in every civilization throughout the ages: when it renounces the rule of reason, its doom is ordained by iron law, and cannot be evaded or mitigated in any manner. Students of history have seen in the twenty first century a terrifying photograph of the ancient world as it descended into a moral and intellectual wasteland and allowed its degenerates to disport among the rubble of ruined institutions. In this photograph, the names, dates and locations have changed from the days of Rome, but the sordid essence remains the same, and forms a skeletal hand pointing insistently into the extinction of human life, progress and well being. In this photograph, a movement of brazen assault against reality has assumed control and its leaders have declared total war, as their ancestors did in Rome, against the fundamental forms of human sanity. In this photograph, an ideology of transgenderism, a faith and religion which rejects the empirically established fact that sex is determined by chromosomes and cannot be changed, has become the law of the land and silenced the voices of dissent. Students of history have described this photograph, this portrait of disease which has enshrouded every civilization which has deafened its ears to the call of facts, this photograph whose copies and prints have carpeted bankrupt civilizations down through the corridors of history and fluttered in their yellow, dissolute, senile breezes, and to read their description is to read a program and manifesto of mental implosion, engraved in unexpungeable letters, on the tombstone of the West. Carved with Satan's stylus of spiritual death, this program proclaims that a progressive society allows people diagnosed with gender dysphoria to identify as members of the opposite sex and to be treated under the law as members of the opposite sex. It proclaims that a progressive society promotes transgender identity among children and encourages them to undergo surgical operations and hormonal treatment. It proclaims that a progressive society defames doctors and gender researchers who reject the current orthodoxy that sex is not determined by chromosomes and forces them out of their professions. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects biological reality and says that people can become members of the opposite sex by merely declaring that they are members of the opposite sex. It proclaims that a progressive society seeks to manipulate its citizens into believing that people can become the sex they desire to become. It proclaims that a progressive society allows male swimmers to compete in women's swim races if they believe they have a woman's gender identity. It proclaims that people who have undergone hormone replacement therapy must be treated as members of the opposite sex. It proclaims that a male transgender woman is as much a woman as a real, biological woman. It proclaims that men and women who identify as members of the opposite sex are in fact and reality members of the opposite sex and must be accorded all the rights and privileges pertaining to them. It proclaims that a progressive society treats people in accordance with their selected gender and not their biological sex. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects science and allows transgender women to steal sports records held by real women. It proclaims that a progressive society seeks to falsify the biology of sex and erase the reality of genes and chromosomes. It proclaims that a progressive society obeys the commands of transgender activists who declare that a person's sex is determined by his or her feelings of gender and not by his or her empirically verifiable biology. It proclaims that a progressive society allows every person the freedom be himself or herself which necessitates the right to be treated as the members of the sex they he or she has chosen to identify with. It proclaims that sex is a simple act of self declaration and means nothing in any genetic or chromosomal sense. It proclaims that a person can transition away from his biologically assigned sex, transition away from the units and sequences of heredity which determine his features and characteristics, and transition away from the world of chromosomal reality. Listen to the words of today's transgenderists and hear them proclaim that sex has nothing whatever to do with genes or chromosomes and can be changed by gender reassignment therapy. Hear them proclaim that women who live as men are in fact and reality men. Hear them proclaim that menstruation products should be available in masculine packaging to appeal to transgender men. Hear them proclaim that sanitary napkins should be available in packages which are attractive to transgender boys who are uneasy with their female puberty. Hear them proclaim that transgender surgery can change men into women and women into men. Hear them proclaim that surgeons can transform male genitals into female genitals and female genitals into male genitals and create transgender individuals in violation of the facts of reality. Hear them proclaim that men can be transformed into women by undergoing feminization face surgery. Hear them proclaim that males can be transformed into females and females can be transformed into males by dressing like the opposite sex. Hear them proclaim that males can be transformed into females and females can be transformed into males by visiting barbershops to get haircuts of the opposite sex. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society is blanketed, carpeted and covered from wall to wall with videos, apps, networks, downloads, platforms and social media pages peddling a cult of gender changeability and celebrating the end of Western civilization: "The social media platform TikTok is promoting the hashtag #transgender to congregate videos about gender reassignment surgery and other topics, including how women living as men will feel better about menstruation if products are in masculine packaging. 'My boyfriend's transgender son was uncomfortable about his female puberty,' the text says on one video, which shows someone redecorating a package of sanitary napkins to be black with the words Fortnite Battle Royale. The text on the TikTok video collection states: 'Discover short videos related to transgender surgery on TikTok. Watch popular content from the following creators: How things actually work(@ssmpxmm), Piperbee(@piperbee), Daszbin(@daszbin), Sergio(@sergio_199x), Emma Rose(@ohitsemmarose). Explore the latest videos from hashtags: #transgendersurgery. One animated video titled This Is How They Perform Gender Reassignment Surgery, shows how surgeons transform a man's penis into a vagina. Another video shows a man getting feminization face surgery. A woman, who says in the video that she is a Christian, said she celebrated her daughter's decision to be a transgender boy by taking her to a barbershop to get a man's haircut. More than one video shows other parents reacting to see their son or daughter dressing like the opposite sex. TikTok is a Chinese owned company, according to CBBC report: 'ByteDance is a Chinese owned tech giant, founded by Zhang Yiming in March 2012. Zhang Yiming is an entrepreneur who is now the ninth richest person in China due to the success of the company's portfolio of apps worldwide. Yes, the most famous of ByteDance's apps are short form video platforms TikTok and Douyin (TikTok's Chinese counterpart). Douyin was founded in 2016 and has built up a network of over 600 million daily active users. Meanwhile, TikTok was launched in the US in 2018 after it merged with lip-sync video platform Musical.ly, which ByteDance purchased for US $1 billion. TikTok is now available in 155 countries and achieved over 2 billion downloads.' " (TikTok Promotes 'Gender Reassignment' Surgery, Transgender Lifestyle by Penny Starr). The Course Of Empire is a series of five paintings created by the American artist Thomas Cole between 1833 and 1836. This world famous series comprises the following works: The Savage State, The Pastoral State, The Consummation of Empire, Destruction and Desolation. Students of history have seen in these works a terrifying chronicle of the trajectory of the West. They have seen a tempest of raging insanity brought by the storms of transgender psychosis batter down the institutions of reason, reduce them to smoke and flame, dye the waters with their blood, sack their towns and cities, displace sunrises and noondays by sunsets and moonrises, and return life to the wilderness where no human beings can be seen. Across the ruins of this emptiness are the words: Humanity Destroyed By Its Own Hand.

THE RED PLANET

Counterfactual conditionals are sentences which discuss what would have been true if circumstances were or had been different. For example, if water did not freeze at 100 degrees Celsius, water would not be water; or if Peter had been at the fairgrounds last week, he would have seen the circus act. Students of history have been struck by a conditional sentence which has opened up a world of nightmare horror to them and presented a picture of the end of civilization. It is an insistent conditional which nags at them with the singlemindedness of the Grim Reaper coming to claim people's lives and souls, and has raised the curtain on a land inhabited by the morally and spiritually dead. Persistent, painful, troublesome and worrying, it is a conditional which has painted a portrait of a planet consumed by the gods of war and impacted by meteors crashing down from the dark realms of violence, a portrait which smashes them in the face every time they study human society in its current stage of development. The conditional sentence is the following: if the communists in Germany had assumed power in 1933 in place of the national socialists and proceeded to establish a Soviet Republic in place of the Third Reich, and proceeded to perpetrate a holocaust against the Jews, now under the banners of class war as opposed to race war, the world would have reacted differently. The world would not have punished the communists in criminal tribunals; it would not have memorialized their crimes against humanity; it would not have pursued the perpetrators to the ends of the earth unbounded by the restraints of space or time; and it would not have set up a global holocaust industry under the slogan, Lest We Forget. The world would have ignored, evaded, downplayed and excused this particular holocaust, as it has ignored, evaded, downplayed and excused all the holocausts perpetrated by communists down through the decades, and would have vilified those who sought to bring the communists to justice as rabid red baiters and voices of racism, fascism and the far right. Students of history understand the situation of the West today and understand the reason why this double standard has existed. They understand the cause with crystal clarity and see it under the bright light of the noonday sun. They know, as surely they know that one plus one equal two, that the explanation for the fact that the world punishes fascists and not communists for campaigns which cause large scale suffering and death lies in the fact that the reigning political orthodoxy in the West for the past one hundred years has been communist and not fascist. They know that Marxism is and has been for decades the ruling religion of the West, the religion worshiped by those who believe that the world owes them a living, that their neighbor is their slave whose pockets can be picked and wealth plundered at will, and that their betters and superiors have a duty to produce for them and to provide them with all the necessities and luxuries of life, from cradle to grave without surcease; and they understand that Hitler's true crime, in the eyes of the Marxist Western establishment, was that he opposed this reigning Marxism and not that he killed Jews. Students of history know the record, see the facts, and can explain in an instant the application of the rule against political violence in different ways to communists and fascists. Communists killed capitalists. Communists killed the bourgeois. Communists killed whole populations. Communists killed whole nations. Communists killed the enemies of the people. Communists killed the enemies of the proletariat. Communists killed the enemies of the state. Communists killed the enemies of the revolution. Communists killed Russians. Communists killed Ukrainians. Communists killed Chinese. Communists killed Koreans. Communists killed Cambodians. Communists killed Jews. Hitler killed Jews, but because

Hitler ruled an anticommunist regime and committed his crimes under the banners of antiBolshevism, he has been cast by the cultural establishment as the greatest devil of all times and as the essence and embodiment of evil. Students of history have issued their report on this cultural establishment which has ruled the West since the early decades of the twentieth century, this establishment which excuses mass murder if perpetrated for the right reasons, and to read it is to read a program and manifesto of the forces of world annihilation appearing, to the acclaim of the masses which voted them in power, at the conclusion of the West, and dancing like ghosts on its grave. Composed by the red star satanists in charge of the culture and their neoMarxist offshoots and derivatives, this program proclaims that a progressive society has usurped individual freedom by orders and decrees issued by a national regulatory politburo. It proclaims that a progressive society has established welfare as a human right and provides lifetime benefits without work or training requirements. It proclaims that a progressive society redistributes wealth from the producers into the hands of the nonproducers in the name of social justice. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal principle of equal opportunity in favor of the tribal principle of special treatment on the basis of gender, race and class. It proclaims that a progressive society has established reckless, extravagant public spending through massive borrowing and the printing of money, and has brought about soaring levels of public debt, soaring levels of inflation, the devaluation of the currency and the destruction of real wages. It proclaims that a progressive society has censored free speech and shut down the right of free assembly in the name of the common good and combating covid 19. It proclaims that a progressive society indoctrinates children with the tenets of neoMarxist critical race theory. According to this theory, white racism shapes the liberal system, all whites are inherently and unconsciously racist and bigoted, the liberal system and the whites who support and maintain it must be criticized, condemned and hurled into the dustbin of history, and people of color must launch a war of extermination against Western civilization. The program of the reds proclaims that a progressive society weaponizes the police and the law to silence and intimidate those who resist the onslaught of totalitarian power. It proclaims that a progressive society is a democratic socialist, an undemocratic socialist, a national socialist and an international socialist dictatorship. It proclaims that a progressive society is ruled by an imperial executive who carries out the mob's orders without regard to constitutional rights or due process of law: "I have a pen to take executive actions where Congress won't". (Barack Obama). It proclaims that a progressive society has redefined carbon dioxide, which vegetation takes in and vitally depends upon, as a climate pollutant in a campaign to dismantle industrial civilization. It proclaims that a progressive society has abolished modern industry and technology in the name of preserving clean air. It proclaims that a progressive society has outlawed petroleum fueled cars, set back progress in transportation, and pushed people into public mass transit in the name of reducing atmospheric carbon emissions. It proclaims that a progressive society has shut down the Keystone XL oil pipeline and made America energy dependent in the name of a Green New Deal. It proclaims that a progressive society is a social responsibility society which has eliminated the natural right of free born agents to live and work for themselves and to keep the fruits of their labor, and has established a regime of tax subsidized day care, child care and prekindergarten. It proclaims that a progressive society is an authoritarian society which abrogates individual rights in the name of stopping the spread of a virus which presents a fatality rate of under two percent and whose current variants pose no greater health risk or severity than the common cold or flu. It proclaims that a progressive society is ruled by a chief executive who has violated his solemn oath to "faithfully execute the Office of President of the United States" and to "preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States" by allowing millions of illegal migrants to cross its southern borders. It proclaims that a progressive society has defunded its police forces in the name of fighting racism and discrimination and surrendered its streets to looters, thugs and violent gangs. It proclaims that a progressive society teaches its citizens that capitalism is systemically racist and has destroyed the lives, careers, hopes and dreams of blacks. It proclaims that a progressive society teaches its citizens that America was founded in 1619 when the first African slaves arrived in British America, in the British colony of Virginia, and its purpose was and has been to institutionalize human enslavement. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal principle of individual merit in favor racial and gender justice, and establishes a regime of proportional representation on the basis of race and gender in schools, offices and businesses. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal principle of equal justice and in the name of diversity, equity and inclusion exalts race and gender as plus factors and determining factors in all admissions and hiring procedures. Civilizational collapse is caused by a loss of rational identity, the downfall of lawful government and the onset of universal violence. Rejecting the principles of sound mental health and the rights, freedoms and dignity of the individual, the collapsed civilization reverts to a state of primitivism and disappears. Marching under the banners of class theory, race theory, gender theory, and intersectional theory propounded by coalitions of nonwhites, women and the poor, today's reds have overthrown the defenses of civilization and set fire to its traditions and institutions.

REDS AND RAPPERS: MADE IN AMERICA

Made In USA is a country of origin label affixed to American made products. Regulated by the Federal Trade Commission, the label indicates that the product has been completely or substantially produced, manufactured and assembled in America. American made goods which must by law bear this label include automobiles, textiles, wool and fur. Students of history have seen in this label a fearsome and terrifying image staring back at them. It is the image of the Grim Reaper which a dying man sees when he looks into a mirror. It is an image of moral death and destruction which has cast a shadow over the West and marked out the path of its collapse. It is an image of unspeakable tragedy because it has been affixed, not simply to useful goods such as cars and clothing, but to cultural products bearing poison and corruption produced, manufactured and assembled by a nation which for decades had served as the world's arsenal of freedom and virtue and a beacon of hope for the downtrodden and the oppressed. Students of history have seen two cultural products made in America and exported throughout the world which encapsulate the state of degeneration into which the West has fallen and expose the culprit as the source of a virulent plague which has struck down civilized societies and pushed them into a grave. The germs of this plague were produced in Europe by the philosophies of irrationalism, subjectivism and tribalism but the germs intensified and flourished in the hothouse of the New World, in the youngest nation in the West, and gathered into a storm cloud which has rained down spiritual ruination upon every nation of the free world. The degeneration of the West commenced in its birthplace in Europe but escalated in America, and this escalation has ignited a cultural conflagration back in the European homeland and left the charred remains of human development in its wake. In the overheated building of America, European diseases have escalated in strength and intensity and grown into eyesores, horrors, gross malformations and blots on a European landscape which once hosted the palaces of the Enlightenment. The excrescences of Europe, made in America, are end stage developments of red ideology and the degeneration of the arts and form the mandible and maxilla of a monster which has devoured every last trace and impulse of educated, advanced, refined human living. Students of history have issued a report on the red firestorm of wokeism and the animal lair of hip hop culture and to read it is to read a program and manifesto of social, political, intellectual and artistic free fall which has blasted a crater across the heartlands of reason, liberty and esthetic excellence and left nothing standing after impact. Composed by the American students of European decline, this program proclaims that a progressive society is alert to the injustices and discrimination inherent in the capitalist system and has eradicated human freedom in the name of gender, race and class liberation. It proclaims that capitalism is a major form of oppression of women and nonwhites and every voice of capitalism must be ruthlessly purged from society and deprived of his job, his bank account and his social media platforms. It proclaims that a progressive society institutionalizes racial prejudice and persecutes the capitalist devils whose skin pigment is exclusively white. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of sexism, racism and economic inequality. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal system of equal protection under the law and promotes political doctrines involving identity and race. It proclaims that a progressive society is an identity politics society whose rallying cry is black power, black privilege and Black Lives Matter. It proclaims that a progressive society is a social justice society which has confiscated the wealth of white people as slavery reparations for blacks. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of merciless police brutality and round the clock police shootings of blacks. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal paradigm of individual freedom and strives for something nobler and better: the submergence of the individual within his or her gender, race and class. It proclaims that a progressive society is ruled by leftist political ideologies and centered on critical race theory. According to this theory, liberal society must be assessed, critiqued, criticized and condemned as a white power structure and hurled into the dustbin of history, together with the racist, bigoted whites who are racist and bigoted down to their genes and chromosomes and support and maintain the system. The program of the red wokeists proclaims that law enforcement agencies are designed to discriminate against blacks and must be defunded and disbanded. It proclaims that a progressive society is a MeToo movement which has weaponized the law to place as many men as possible behind bars on the basis of sexual assault accusations which are uncharged, uncorroborated, unsupported by independent witnesses, unsupported by physical evidence, which allegedly occurred decades before the time of complaint, and which were followed by consensual sexual acts with the accused. It proclaims that a progressive society is antiwhite, antirich, antiheterosexual and protransgender. It proclaims that a progressive society is a cult of social responsibility, a religion whose acolytes are zealous, born again, red Evangelicals who punish antireds by banishing them from society and coercing them into public confessions of sin. It proclaims that a progressive society polices words and actions in order to ensure that they commit no offense against Marxist and neoMarxist formations of women, nonwhites, transgenders and the poor. The promoters of hip hop culture proclaim that progressive music consists of vocal delivery, rhyme, rhythmic speech and street vernacular without melodic organization of any kind. They proclaim that progressive music is street theater. They proclaim that progressive music is the call of the jungle and consists of atonal howls. They proclaim that progressive music is produced by moving a vinyl record back and forth on a turntable and producing percussive sounds. They proclaim that progressive music is athletic breakdancing. They proclaim that progressive music consists of sound effects and sound mixes. They proclaim that progressive music consists of synthesized beats and sounds. They proclaim that progressive music consists of audio signals. They proclaim that progressive music consists of talking over a rhythm and beat. They proclaim that progressive music consists of mumbling. They proclaim that progressive music consists of synthesized drumbeats. They proclaim that progressive music consists of spoken language without musical notation. They proclaim that progressive music is spoken word poetry without melody. They proclaim that progressive music is produced by the mimicking of drum machines. They proclaim that progressive music is produced by delivering stories rhythmically over drums without melodic arrangement. They proclaim that progressive music consists of lines, sentences, paragraphs, verses and rhymes without melodic form of any kind: "The microphone was just used for making announcements, like when the next party was going to be, or people's moms would come to the party looking for them, and you have to announce it on the microphone. Different DJs started embellishing what they were saying. I would make an announcement this way, and somebody would hear that and they add a little bit to it. I'd hear it again and take it a little step further until it turned from lines to sentences to paragraphs to verses to rhymes." (Yes Yes Y'all: The Experience Music Project Oral History Of Hip Hop's First Decade by Jim Fricke and Charlie Ahearn). The promoters of hip hop culture proclaim that progressive music consists of pitch, timbre, volume and cadence. They proclaim that progressive music consists of rhythmic flows and their syncopations, disturbances and interruptions. They proclaim that progressive music consists of stressed beats, strong beats, metrical structure and lyrics and verses, presented with variety and surprise, and presented without melodic structure: "Rap lyrics are written to be performed to an accompaniment that emphasizes the metrical structure of the verse. Rap lyrics are made up of lines with four stressed beats, separated by other syllables that may vary in number and may include other stressed syllables. The strong beat of the accompaniment coincides with the stressed beats of the verse, and the rapper organizes the rhythms of the intervening syllables to provide variety and surprise". (Poetic Rhythm—An Introduction by Derek Attridge). An iconic photograph taken in the 1920s shows a 1926 Ford Model T hubcap bearing the phrase MADE IN USA. From Berkeley to Los Angeles to Manhattan to the Bronx, the carriers of cultural degeneracy have streamed out of America and infected the world.

THE WEST ABOLISHES SCIENCE

The term sanity refers to a state of soundness and health of the human mind. A person is held to be sane if he is rational and is held to be insane if he has lost all contact with reason and reality. In thirteenth century English law, the phrase compos mentis was coined, which means to have full control over one's mind, and was distinguished from non compos mentis, which refers to a state of extreme mental illness involving a loss of ability to reason and to function in daily life. Students of philosophy have seen in the fearsome darkness of insanity a yawning chasm into which the modern age has fallen. They have seen a raging monster open up its jaws and consume the noonday world of human flourishing and intellectual mastery. They have seen one thousand years of Western Faustian subjectivism reach the end of its line in the present day, and conclusively, definitively, and once and for all time, sweep away the crowning achievement of the human mind, the systematic study of reality through observation and experiment known as science, and replace it with rank mysticism and mental blank out. They have seen the terrifying hand of a spirit at work completing its final tasks. They have seen the spirit of a German astronomer and necromancer who sold his sanity to the Devil in exchange for infinite power and experience compose the final chapter of the Germanic, romanticist, baroque, irrational culture which he, Doctor Faust, embodied and symbolized, the culture of the West, and ring down the curtain on civilization. Students of philosophy have issued their report on the disappearance of science in the present day and to read it is to read the culmination of the history of a culture which commenced in ancient Germany a thousand years ago and in its formation immediately distinguished itself from the culture of the Greeks and Romans. This Classical culture, whose shining symbol was Apollo, the god of reason and sanity, exalted science and invented the method of induction which lies at the heart of science. According to this method, scientists acquire knowledge by observing patterns and similarities in things, and on the basis of these patterns and similarities, infer or induce universal laws. Students of philosophy have seen this method operate in one and only one period of the West, during the Age of Enlightenment which commenced in the late seventeenth century and lasted for one hundred years, and have seen it discredited and discarded by the cultural establishment since that time. They have seen the Enlightenment philosophers promote induction in the manner in which the Classical philosophers promoted it and reach a level of sanity unseen in their own culture and replicating the Apollonian traditions of the Greco-Roman world. They have seen Francis Bacon, preeminent Enlightenment philosopher and promoter of science, state that the true scientific method involves the acquisition of information from the world. It involves the discovery of truth in the data of the senses. It involves the derivation of laws and axioms from experience and from particulars and not the invention of these by the human mind: "The scientific method gathers information by slow and faithful toil from things and brings it into understanding. The true way of searching into and discovering truth derives axioms from the senses and particulars, rising by gradual and unbroken ascent, so that it arrives at the most general axioms last of all." (Novum Organum by Francis Bacon). Students of philosophy have seen the descent of science into the confining walls of bedlam commence with the rejection of Bacon's Enlightenment philosophy and the reversion of the Faustian West to its true character. They have seen over the past two centuries the promotion of a program and manifesto of antiscience and apriorism which has brought the world of shamans, witch doctors and magic back to life in the present day. Diametrically opposed to the Greco-Roman and Enlightenment philosophy of empiricism, this quintessentially Faustian program proclaims that the relationship between cause and effect is a product of habit or custom and not experience, because the latter reveals only a constant conjunction between events and not any necessary connection. Thus the fact that water boils at 100 degrees Celsius is a matter of pure chance and the boiling point could easily have been 95 degrees Celsius or the current freezing point of water, 0 degree Celsius. The program of the West proclaims that statements which are necessarily true, such as that iron conducts electricity, all objects are extended and squares have four sides, are not derived from experience and have no relation to the real world, and are the products of pure linguistic conventions. It proclaims that logical and mathematical propositions tell us only about the meanings of terms and nothing about the nature of reality. It proclaims that numbers are not real and are nothing more than words and numerals. It proclaims that a statement which purports to be both necessarily true and to be about the nature of reality is completely meaningless: "Commit it then to the flames, for it can contain nothing but sophistry and illusion." (An Enquiry Concerning Human Understanding by David Hume). The program of the West proclaims that philosophy requires a Copernican Revolution which affirms that knowledge consists not in the mind conforming to reality, as is commonly held, but in reality conforming to the mind. It proclaims that consciousness is not a passive mirror of reality but is an active, filtering, organizing apparatus which is conscious only of its own structures. It proclaims that the world of physical objects in space and time which obey the law of causality is unreal and a universal, collective delusion and a product of the forms and categories of the human mind. It proclaims that the only world which consciousness perceives is the world which consciousness constructs. It proclaims that there is no perception of nature but only the perception of consciousness, no experience of nature but only the experience of consciousness, and all theories which purport to be about reality are nothing more than theories which are about the nature and structure of consciousness. It proclaims that scientific theories are not derived from experience or observation by a process of induction but are deduced from the forms and categories of consciousness, and like man's experience and observations, are completely subjective and refer to nothing in reality. Listen to the words of Western antiscience and hear it proclaim that what is called knowledge is unjustified and unjustifiable. Hear it proclaim that science proceeds on the basis of guesses and conjectures and not on the basis of induction. Hear it proclaim that all statements about reality are refutable, criticizable, approximate, tentative and probable and none can be established as certain or true. Hear it proclaim that science is a calculus of probabilities and not a body of knowledge. Hear it proclaim that scientific theories can be proven to be false but can never be proven to be true. Hear it proclaim that all assertions that man can know the nature of reality are the products of fancy, conceit and excessive pride. Hear it proclaim that there is no rationality in science but only arbitrariness, uncertainty, speculation, unproven opinions and a progression into nothing and nowhere: "The way in which knowledge progresses, and especially our scientific knowledge, is by unjustified (and unjustifiable) anticipations, by guesses, by tentative solutions to our problems, by conjectures. These conjectures are controlled by criticism; that is, by attempted refutations, which include severely critical tests. They may survive these tests; but they can never be positively justified: they can neither be established as certainly true nor even as probable (in the sense of the probability calculus). Criticism of our conjectures is of decisive importance: by bringing out our mistakes it makes us understand the difficulties of the problem which we are trying to solve. This is how we become better acquainted with our problem, and able to propose more mature solutions: the very refutation of a theory—that is, of any serious tentative solution to our problem—is always a step forward that takes us nearer to the truth. And this is how we can learn from our mistakes. As we learn from our mistakes our knowledge grows, even though we may never know—that is, know for certain. Since our knowledge can grow, there can be no reason here for despair of reason. And since we can never know for certain, there can be no authority here for any claim to authority, for conceit over our knowledge, or for smugness. Those among our theories which turn out to be highly resistant to criticism, and which appear to us at a certain moment of time to be better approximations to truth than other known theories, may be described, together with the reports of their tests, as the science of that time." (Conjectures and Refutations by Karl Popper). The Madhouse is an oil painting by Francesco Goya. Produced between 1812 and 1819, this world famous work was based on a scene Goya had witnessed at the Zaragoza mental asylum in Aragon, Spain and depicts the inhabitants in various states of madness. Proclaiming that physical objects are human constructs, that science proceeds on the basis of apriori intuitions, guesses and conjectures and not on the basis of induction, and that science can never achieve such a thing as truth or certainty or grasp the nature of reality, the Humes, Kants and Poppers of the Faustian West have locked civilization into a madhouse and thrown away the key.

REDS MOLEST CHILDREN

Child abuse is defined as the physical or psychological maltreatment of a child. It includes any act or omission which results in actual or potential harm done to a child and can occur in a child's home or in the schools, communities or organizations with which a child is involved. Child protective agencies throughout the world report that twenty five percent of children are victims of child abuse. Students of history have seen a particularly sickening form of child abuse perpetrated in today's schools and have recoiled in fear and trembling at the sight of unbridled monsters roaming the land. They have seen red ideologues assume control over the educational establishment and set up a regime of mental cruelty and violence against children which dwarfs all other forms of child abuse, because it involves the powers which define the essence of being human, and posts a sign on the school house door announcing the collapse of decent, civilized society. They have seen a curriculum centered upon political indoctrination undermine by systematic means a child's mind and will and transform him into a raging, unthinking agent of a totalitarian state. They have seen a campaign of menticide perpetrated against captive victims too young to resist and have seen in this the essence and embodiment of pure evil. They have issued their report on the kidnapping, hijacking and mutilation of children's souls by today's classroom reds and to read it is to read a program and manifesto of an attack on reason launched during the dying and deceased hours of Western civilization. Sitting in classrooms commandeered by criminals without a conscience masquerading as teachers and administrators, children today are assaulted by a syllabus and course of study which will scar them for life and render them unable to participate in the institutions of liberal society or respect the rights of others. Composed by ruthless, single minded fanatics who have misused, misapplied, misemployed and mishandled the sacred authority entrusted to them and destroyed minds before they had a chance to grow, this fusillade of antisubjects and salvo of negative education proclaims that a progressive society is a race agitation society which peddles hatred of whites in bright red packages marked critical race theory. According to this theory, liberal society must be criticized, critiqued, analysed and assessed from the standpoint of race and hurled into the dustbin of history. Liberal democracy is racist down to its core and essence; liberal legal structures are discriminatory and invalid; and blacks are entitled and obligated to overthrow liberal laws and traditions and establish black totalitarian power in their place. Liberal nations are irredeemably black hating nations and their constitutional principles of freedom and equality are camouflages for white privilege and white supremacy. The liberal order must be abolished and replaced by an omnipotent bureaucracy with the power to nullify any law and silence any speech which does not advance the cause of black power. A progressive society is an antiliberal and anticapitalist society which has abolished freedom of speech, freedom of enterprise, nondiscrimination, equal protection under the law and the right to private property and established a regime of race based rights, race based authority, race based discrimination and race based redistribution of wealth. A progressive school has abolished race blind hiring and promotion policies, together with race blind academic standards and quality, because these are unfair and inequitable to blacks. A progressive school has established special race based hiring funds which assist departments to give preferential treatment to black candidates. A progressive school has adopted speech codes which restrict student speech which black communist students find offensive. A progressive school has set up safe spaces in which black communist agitation and incitement to violence can be committed without risk of challenge or criticism. A progressive school has established segregated fraternities, sororities housing and eating facilities for black students. The educational program of today's reds proclaims that the innate biological sex of an individual does not in fact exist and an individual can in fact change his or her sex. It proclaims that a person can select the sex he or she feels to be or wishes to become. It proclaims that the scientific understanding of the human genome, the understanding that a person's sex is fixed from the moment of conception and inscribed in every cell of his or her body, that each cell contains either two X chromosomes, indicating a female, or one X and one Y chromosome, indicating a male, and that these genetic markers of gender cannot be changed, must be sacrificed upon the altar of transgender ideology and replaced by a religion of gender fluidity and gender changeability. Look at the red masters of the schools today and see them peddle fear and hysteria over covid 19 and place a mask over sanity and sound judgment. See them stoke the fires of race hatred and antiwhite fury in the furnaces of critical race theory. See them denounce the biological division of the sexes from the altars of the church of transgender ideology. See them denounce standardized school testing as unfair to unperforming and unachieving nonwhite students. See them denounce capitalism as a system of racism, victimization and oppression of blacks. See them transform teachers into nameless, faceless, masked hoodlums advocating mass murder in muffled tones and frightening children with red ideologies of violence and terror. See them force children to wear masks in the name of combating the spread of a disease whose fatality rate is under two percent and with this rule obstruct children's social development, learning and communication skills. See them denounce freedom as a system of racial victimization and advocate black dictatorship in the name of civil rights. See them shovel truckloads of red propaganda promoting gender, race and class politics into Satan's fiery kilns and bake the pottery in which to deform children's minds. See them bring mighty convoys into the classroom, processions of animals and vehicles from the motorways and jungles of tribal determinism, fraudulent race theories and insane denials of the genetic basis of gender, and push children, society and civilization into a downward spiral of confusion, anxiety, hopelessness, despair, depression and suicidal collapse: "Democrats abuse children with mask mandates, covid 19 fear mongering, racial agitation marketed as critical race theory, and transgender ideology, Dr Ben Carson, retired pediatric neurosurgeon, former Housing and Urban Development secretary, and Secretary and founder of the American Cornerstone Institute, said on Tuesday's edition of the Breitbart News Daily podcast with special guest host Jerome Hudson. Carson described Democrat hostility to standardized testing in the context of education--ostensibly out of opposition to racism--as degrading of ethnic and racial minorities framed by the left as oppressed by systemic racism. He said, 'It's really quite insulting when they say, Well, let's get rid of the standardized testing because minority students aren't going to do well in that, and trying to be precise and accurate, that's acting white. What a bunch of garbage.' Masking children in schools amounts to child abuse, Carson held, remarking on how masks obstruct a central element of human communication—facial expressions—and stultify social development and learning. 'It's actually child abuse what they're doing. Can you imagine what it's like to be a child today? A small child. You've got to wear a mask so you don't get to see facial expressions. You miss out on a very important sociological development aspect of life.' Carson warned of the dangers posed by COVID-19 fear mongering and neoMarxist narratives of racial hierarchies of victimization targeting children. 'Then you're told you may be harboring some horrible disease, and even though you don't feel bad, you may give it to your grandmother, and then grandmothers do get older and they do die. Now, you're feeling guilty about that, and then if you're white, you're an oppressor, and if you're black, you're a victim, and all of this while you're trying to develop self image. Can you imagine what that feels like?' Democrat and left wing denial of human sexual dimorphism via implementation of transgender curriculum and indoctrination in schools confuses children, Carson noted. He remarked, 'If that's not bad enough, you may not be a girl or a boy. You have got to be terribly confused. Our children, record high numbers of suicides and suicide attempts, and depression and anxiety. They're being destroyed, and then they're being taught if you're white, you're an oppressor, if you're black, you have no hope, because this system is stacked against you.' " (Ben Carson: Leftists Abuse Children With Masks, COVID-19 Fears, Racial Agitation, Sexual Confusion by Robert Kraychik). Without iron, without chains, without knives and without sulfur, today's reds have perpetrated an act of child disfigurement more evil than anything perpetrated before. They have disfigured, not children's bodies but children's souls, and turned back the progress of civilization.

2020: THE ELECTION YEAR THAT WASN'T

An election is a formal, organized choice by vote of a person for a political office. Elections have been the mechanism by which representative democracy has functioned over the past five centuries and they have filled offices in legislatures, courts and executive branches. Central to the definition of an election is fairness; an election which is marked by rigging, fraud or manipulation is not an election but the pretense of an election; and governments which sanction such pretenses are not lawful governments but lawless formations which lack the moral, political and constitutional authority to exist. Students of history have seen in the 59th quadrennial presidential election in America, held on November 3, 2020, an instance of corruption without parallel in the annals of modern democracy dating back to the sixteenth century and have seen in it a tragedy of epic proportions. They have seen the downfall of a nation which for centuries had served as the world's beacon and lighthouse of honest dealings and the rule of law and embodied the liberal concept of government by the people. They have seen America exit from the West, join the ranks of second rate, third rate, tinpot nations, and descend into a cesspool of public perversion of political processes. They have issued their report on the suppression of democracy in the 2020 presidential election between Donald Trump and Joe Biden, which resulted in the fraudulent victory of Joe Biden, and to read it is to read about an airship called America hijacked by its passengers, by the masses and the majority, and forced to land in the red jungles of socialist dictatorship. To read it is to read a program and manifesto to sweep away the voting procedures enacted by free people over the centuries and the voting procedures implicitly required by the United States Constitution, which implicitly guarantees, in the Fifteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty Fourth and Twenty Sixth Suffrage Amendments, and in Article IV, the right to vote in free and fair elections. Fixed, arranged and engineered by the reds to ensure the victory of Joe Biden, the 2020 presidential election saw mail in ballots sent to all registered voters, whether requested or not, and sent to deceased voters. It saw the elimination of signature verification requirements for mail in ballots. It saw unsupervised ballot drop boxes. It saw changes to election rules made by judges, secretaries of state and county commissioners and not by state legislatures, as required by the federal constitution. It saw the Pennsylvania secretary of state direct county officials on election eve to return erroneous mail in ballots cast by Democrat voters so that they could correct and resubmit them. It saw vote counting on election night stopped in the Democrat bastions of Atlanta and Philadelphia and thousands of manufactured votes for Biden suddenly appear. It saw a tabulation room at the State Farm Arena in Atlanta cleared at 10:30 PM, journalists and Republican Party observers ordered out, and surveillance cameras capture poll workers remove ballot boxes from beneath a covered table, place the ballots into counting machines until 1 AM, and manufacture thousands of votes for Joe Biden. It saw Republican poll watchers in Georgia and Pennsylvania barred from counting rooms or kept too distant to inspect vote tallies and absentee ballot signatures. It saw a poll worker at a vote counting station in Detroit, Michigan shout out: "We want all the Republican challengers out of this room!" After the challengers were expelled, the station's windows were covered with cardboard, and thousands of votes were manufactured for Joe Biden. It saw the Pennsylvania Supreme Court violate state law mandating that ballots arrive before polls close on Election Day, and extend this deadline by three days. Violating the plain language of state law and the federal constitution, which places state legislatures and not courts or executives in charge of elections, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court extended the deadline in order to provide a window of opportunity for the commission of mail in ballot fraud and to allow the counting of unpostmarked or illegibly postmarked ballots: "The Pennsylvania Supreme Court's decision overstepped its constitutional responsibility, encroached on the authority of the Pennsylvania legislature, and violated the plain language of the Election Clauses. Worse still, the decision exacerbated the risk of mail in ballot fraud by permitting mail in ballots that are not postmarked or have no legible postmark to be received and counted several days after the election. The decision provided a window of time after Election Day, when the preliminary results were announced, in which unscrupulous actors could attempt to influence a close presidential election in Pennsylvania and elsewhere. And it enhanced the opportunities for fraud by requiring boards of elections to count late received ballots even if there is no evidence that those ballots were cast before Election Day, because they have no legible postmark." (Brief Of The State Of Missouri And Nine Other States As Friends Of The Court In Support Of Petitioners, The Republican Party Of Pennsylvania And Joseph Scarnati). The 2020 presidential election saw the removal of signature verification standards, the tabulation of votes from dead voters, and the tabulation of votes from out of state voters, which together manufactured hundreds of thousands of votes for Joe Biden: "We've spoken to artificial intelligence and computer vision experts on this, and they have told us that the registrar reduced the signature verification standard to 40 percent. This machine requires a 200 dots per inch setting to match the signature on the envelope and the signature on the voter file. We know, from court as well, that the photos in the Nevada system are well below this 200. The fact of the matter is, we have not been able to look at these signatures. They created this new mail in system where 600 plus thousand votes have had no scrutiny whatsoever We have produced dead voters. We've also produced over 3,000 people who moved out of Las Vegas this year and still voted in this election." (Nevada Attorney General Adam Laxalt, Fox News). The 2020 presidential election saw the abrogation of the right to cast a secret ballot, the rejection of votes cast for Donald Trump, and the tabulation of votes cast by ineligible or nonexistent voters, which together manufactured hundreds of thousands of votes for Joe Biden: "What I observed immediately was that the secrecy of the ballot was not being respected. Instead, the second official at the table where I was observing was repeatedly placing her fingers into the secrecy sleeve to separate the envelope and visually peek into the envelopes in a way that would allow her to visually observe the ballot and identify some of the votes cast by the voter. I also had concerns that some ballots were being marked as 'problem ballots' based on who the person had voted for rather than on any legitimate concern about the ability to count and process the ballot appropriately. The first ballot scanned came in as a match to an eligible voter. But the next several ballots that were scanned did not match any eligible voter in the poll book. From my observation of the computer screen, the voters were certainly not in the official poll book. Moreover, this appeared to be the case for the majority of the voters whose ballots I had personally observed being scanned." (Sworn and notarized affidavit of Zachary Scott, certified election observer and former assistant attorney general of Michigan, November 8, 2020). The 2020 presidential election saw four states, Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Georgia, make changes to voting procedures which were unlawful because unauthorized by the state legislatures, as the federal constitution requires: "The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof." (Article I, Section 4) The lawsuits filed to challenge these unconstitutional state actions were rejected by the United States Supreme Court: Motion denied. Lack of standing: "Texas has not demonstrated a judicially cognizable interest in the manner in which another state conducts its elections." The right to vote in America is guaranteed by the four suffrage amendments to the United States Constitution: by the Fifteenth Amendment, which stipulates no denial of the right to vote based on race; by the Nineteenth Amendment, which stipulates no denial of the right to vote based on sex; by the Twenty Fourth Amendment, which stipulates no denial of the right to vote based on nonpayment of a poll tax; and by the Twenty Sixth Amendment, which stipulates no denial of the right to vote to people eighteen years of age or over. The right to vote is guaranteed as well as by Article IV, Section 4 of the Constitution, which states: "The United States shall guarantee to every state in this union a republican form of government." The right to vote means the right to vote in free and fair elections or it means nothing, and the article and amendments of the constitution which guarantee the right to vote mean nothing if they do not implicitly require that elections be free and fair. A government which does not obey its constitution and does not mandate free, fair and lawfully conducted elections is a government in name only and is not a government in the moral or constitutional meaning of the term, and an insurrection against it is not an insurrection but the overthrow, authorized by law and morality, of an organized group of criminals. In America the year 2020 was the year of a nonelection sanctioned by a nongovernment and will live forever in the annals of infamy.

AMERICA'S REDS REWRITE HISTORY

Historiography is the writing of history and the study of how history is written. In free societies, historiography is guided by the principles of truth and objectivity and presents history as it happened and presents nothing less than the facts. In totalitarian societies, historiography is guided by the principles of religion and ideology and reconstructs history in accordance with the needs and interests of the state and community. In Russia in the 1920s, the Communist Party took control over the writing of history and published manuals and textbooks which invented history in accordance with the tenets of Marxism. The reds established a regime of political indoctrination, a regime of rewriting, reconstruction and falsification of the past, which saw the elimination of facts, statistics and people from the channels of communication, and the descent of historiography into the feverish waters of the communist imagination: "All in all, unprecedented terror must seem necessary to ideologically motivated attempts to transform society massively and speedily, against its natural possibilities. The accompanying falsifications took place, and on a barely credible scale, in every sphere. Real facts, real statistics, disappeared into the realm of fantasy. History, including the history of the Communist Party, or rather especially the history of the Communist Party, was rewritten. Unpersons disappeared from the official record. A new past, as well as new present, was imposed on the captive minds of the Soviet population, as was, of course, admitted when truth emerged in the late 1980s." (Reflections On A Ravaged Century by Robert Conquest). Students of history have seen something in the present day which has sent them shaking to the core. They have seen something which they hoped and prayed they would never have to see but which they knew was destined to arrive. They knew it was destined to arrive because they knew the stage of development society had reached in the twenty first century and knew the character of the masses who had been placed in charge. They knew that civilization at the present moment had reached the end of its line and spiraled into moral, spiritual and political collapse at the hands of its final emperors, the red majority who rampaged against reason, fact and law. They knew that destiny had in the present hour given the imperial purple to the multitudes who unfurled the banners of communism and proclaimed their right to enslave free nations. They saw a tragedy of epic proportions in the red takeover of America, the land which had for centuries served as the world's arsenal of liberal order and fortress of constitutional rights, and saw that the communization of America was the terrifying bellwether of the final communization of the West. They saw the ghosts of the Soviet past return and rewrite America's history with Satan's writing implements and fabricate the nation's history as it had never been fabricated before, perpetrate a deception as bold faced and brazen as it was deranged and disordered, and expose, as nothing else had, the moral rot lying at the heart of the nation. Students of history have issued a report on the Sovietization of American historiography and to read it is to read the program and manifesto of a long form journalistic endeavor developed by the preeminent voice of America's cultural establishment. It is to read the program and manifesto of the 1619 Project developed by the New York Times. Awarded a Pulitzer Prize for Commentary for her introductory essay in the project, Nikole Hannah Jones created and supervised an undertaking to sweep away truth and objectivity in the understanding of America and establish the rule of bias, partisanship, smears and distortion in the best traditions of Marxist misinformation. The most popular, influential and emblematic statement of America's new red historiography, the 1619 Project proclaims that blacks are at the center of the story of America. It proclaims that America is 400 years old and its history commenced in 1619 with the arrival of the first enslaved Africans in the British colony of Virginia. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of plantation brutality. It proclaims that capitalism is based upon reactionary politics and the politics of slavery. It proclaims that whites have no right to play black music anymore than Jews have a right to play Aryan music or the bourgeois have a right to play working class music. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of mass imprisonment of blacks. It proclaims that capitalism is a system which plunders black wealth. It proclaims that the American colonists who fought the Revolutionary War were alarmed that Britain was seeking to abolish slavery. It proclaims that the colonists fought the war in order to preserve slavery and not to expand liberty. It proclaims that whites in America have an affinity for sugar because of its connection with black slavery and black segregation. It proclaims that the right wing politics of limited government and individual rights is the politics of black enslavement. It proclaims that

Abraham Lincoln advocated capitalist exploitation and white supremacy. It proclaims that black slavery is a uniquely American phenomenon and a uniquely capitalist phenomenon. Listen to the words of America's reds and hear them proclaim that the founding of America had nothing whatever to do with the desire for freedom or independence. Hear them proclaim that America was founded when the first blacks were brought to its shores, and founded in white supremacy, it has been hate filled and white supremacist ever since. Hear them proclaim that the capitalist system is racist down to its core and essence and has lashed blacks to its chariots in order to build America. Hear them proclaim that racism exposes what capitalism is as a political system and what America is as a nation. Hear them proclaim that America is all about systemic racism and is characterized by a white racist national and legal structure. Hear them proclaim that a progressive educational system is a propaganda machine which indoctrinates students in the tenets of black communism, hatred of liberal democracy and the necessity to declare war against the world around them. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society has poisoned race relations and taught blacks that whites are their mortal enemy and must be targeted for total destruction. Hear them proclaim that a progressive educational system promotes pseudorepresentations of American history which reflect and conform to the black communist party line and have no relation to the actual course of events. Hear them proclaim that capitalism is the institution of black enslavement and was devised to establish and maintain white rule. Hear them advocate a system of black privilege and discrimination against whites under the banners of black civil rights. Hear them poison young minds with red revisionism and Marxist distortions of history. Hear them proclaim that America was, is and always will be racist and must be swept into the dustbin of history. Hear them proclaim that America became America due to its degradation of blacks and the chains of slavery it forged around them. Hear activists masquerading as scholars awarded power and influence by the establishment and proclaim that capitalism, America and the West are irredeemably racist and must be smashed by an onslaught of black power revolutionaries: "Nikole Hannah-Jones is The New York Times Magazine reporter who wrote The 1619 Project which is being used in many schools across the country. The 1619 Project postulates that America began in 1619, when the first black slaves were brought here—not 1776, when the founders declared independence. Dr. Carol M. Swain is a prominent black scholar who has taught at Vanderbilt Law School and at Princeton. I spoke with her on my radio show about the ongoing battle over American history. She told me The 1619 Project presents a 'revisionist history. [It postulates that] the country is racist to the core. Black people built the country. Racism defines who we are as a nation.' Swain would remind us: 'When slavery was introduced into America, we were British colonists.' When I asked her about the idea of America being systemically racist today, she said that the passage of the Civil Rights laws in the 1960s, 'really ended systemic racism under the law. And any racism that continues is not because of our national structure.' It pains her to see the distortion of our history which is propagandizing whole new generations against America. She said, 'I care about America. And I care about race relations, and anything [the Left] pushes takes us backwards.' Swain also notes that this America is and always was racist message has a 'crippling' effect on underprivileged children because 'they give up before they ever get started.' What a tragedy." (The 1619 Project Author Gets Historical Facts Wrong by Jerry Newcombe). Art forgery is the creating and selling of works of art which are falsely credited to famous artists. The painting A City On A Rock was long attributed to the Spanish painter Francisco Goya. Modern techniques of dating and analysis have exposed this world famous forgery and established that it was created by the painter Eugenio Lucas

Velazquez. Students of history have exposed a much lauded journalistic endeavor under the merciless light of fact and reality. The American establishment's 1619 Project has composed the red epitaph of the nation.

KING COMMUNIST

Gerard van Honthorst was a world renowned painter of the Dutch Golden Age which spanned the seventeenth century. Famous for his depiction of artificially lit scenes, for which he earned the nickname Gerard of the Nights, van Honthorst inspired art lovers throughout the world with his Adoration of the Shepherds. Created in 1622, the work depicts the nativity of Jesus and commemorates the central festival of the Christian liturgical calendar: the birth of Jesus Christ. Students of history have seen a displacement of superstitions in the twenty first century, during the final hour of the West, as civilization winds down into totalitarian tyranny. They have seen the worship of the Christian God displaced by the worship of Society and seen the masses place their final deity upon the throne of absolute power and lead a revolution of communism. They have seen in the establishment of a new red liturgical calendar the inescapable workings of the hand of destiny. For it was destiny which decreed that the mystical morality of God in Heaven transform itself over the centuries into a mystical morality of Society on earth in which a secular state has replaced a supernatural being as the collector of human sacrifice. Communism, the religion of our times, the religion of the chronically discontented and the morally diseased who proclaim that the world owes them a living and all the luxuries and necessities of life, the religion of the masses and the multitudes who have grown weary of otherworldly churches and set up a this worldly church of the state and the party, is celebrated in a new chart, in a new series of pages, and in a new system showing the new subdivisions of a new year. At the center of this new year is the commemoration of the birth of a man exalted by the reds as the saint and apostle of the new communist order, as the successor to the Christian Christ and preeminent teacher of human salvation, which is now proclaimed to reside in the socialization of the mind and body and in the collectivization of man. Students of history have issued a report on the holiest day of the new red liturgical calendar and to read about the new religion which has canonized Martin Luther King is to read a program and manifesto composed during the wintertime of the West, a program in which the springtime myths of God and Christ have been secularized and swept away by a civic religion of human enslavement to a class, a tribe and an all powerful totality. It is to read the program and manifesto set forth by a twenty first century prophet of the reds, by a figure revered in the manner of a latter day Messiah, by a disciple of communist testaments whom the avatars of Satan sent down to the present day to burn down the institutions of freedom and lead the masses into subjugation. This man, worshiped as a saint who came into the world to bring red revolution, this agent of civilization's moral solstice in its final death gasp, proclaimed that a progressive society is a poor people's march which enacts laws conferring absolute power upon black communists. He proclaimed that a progressive social movement conducts sit ins, sleep ins and camp ins in support of communism and fills up the jails with red subversives. He proclaimed that a progressive social movement is a project to establish communism under the banners of black civil rights. He proclaimed that a progressive social leader is a committed radical and communist front organizer dedicated to the world wide dissemination of the red religion: "King is a whole hearted Marxist who has studied it, believes in it and agrees with it, but because of his being the minister of a religion, does not dare to espouse it publicly." (Statement by Stanley Levison to Gus Hall, general secretary of the Communist Party USA, quoted in Martin Luther King, Jr: A Current Analysis, Federal Bureau of Investigation, March 12, 1968). Martin Luther King proclaimed that a progressive social leader proudly wears the label of communism and does everything he can to advance the interests of the Soviet Union. He proclaimed that a progressive social leader promotes black equality in the service of the Marxist-Leninist party line. He proclaimed that a progressive social leader supports the struggle of the North Vietnamese to establish communism in South Vietnam and unify the two nations under the banner of the red star. He proclaimed that America must stop bombing North Vietnam, must stop assisting the South Vietnamese in their struggle to repel communism, must surrender to the Viet Cong, and must recognize communist China. He proclaimed that America in its struggle to protect the free world against the onslaught of communism is the greatest purveyor of evil and violence in the world today. He proclaimed that the South Vietnamese government is an oppressive military junta which must be overthrown by the proletariat's red invaders from the north. He proclaimed that America must unilaterally withdraw from South Vietnam and recognize Hanoi as the sole legitimate government. He proclaimed that capitalism is a system of racism and colonialism and this racist, colonialist system must be banished from Vietnam by the people's liberation armies of the red totalitarian state. He proclaimed that a progressive social leader promotes the communist takeover of South Vietnam in the name of world peace and security: "The party forces should begin work right now to elect these two men [King and Benjamin Spock] because they are for peace in Vietnam." (Statement by Gus Hall, general secretary of the Communist Party USA, on May Day, 1967, quoted in Martin Luther King, Jr: A Current Analysis, Federal Bureau of Investigation, March 12, 1968). He proclaimed that capitalism is sick with stolen money and this money must be confiscated from bourgeois thieves and oppressors and returned to its rightful owners: the poor and the proletariat. He proclaimed that a progressive social leader organizes general strikes and school boycotts to force the government to take action and establish a socialist society. Listen to the words of the reds' patron saint and hear him condemn the natural right of human beings as free born agents to live, work and flourish for themselves. Hear him condemn the rational morality of self preservation, self interest, self esteem, self concern, self regard and self perfection in favor of the mystical morality of self sacrifice for the sake of the totality. Hear him exalt social enslavement as the first law of human life. Hear him exalt the dark dimensions of state imposition and command the individual to develop the qualities of blind obedience to the needs and wishes of society. Hear him expunge the pronoun I from the pages of dictionaries and deafen public discourse with stentorian hymns thundering out the words neighbors, comrades, the nation, the class and the state. Hear him proclaim that the self has no existence apart from others and the individual has no existence outside the state. Hear him proclaim that the individual who seeks to fulfill himself and not immolate himself upon the altars of the state lacks the currents of growth, vitality, youthfulness and vigor and has hurtled into the dead end of meaningless existence. Hear him that proclaim that state power is an infinite expanse of greatness and glory outside of which the free individual is but a shadowy phantom and droplet without significance, aim or direction. Hear him lock freedom into a vault and pray for its corpse, bones and soul to decay. This evil vault he has inscribed with the words: interdependence, interrelation, the betterment of the poor, we are our brother's keeper, we are our brother's brother, one affects all and all affect one, and communist world revolution: "From time immemorial men have lived by the principle that self preservation is the first law of life. But this is a false assumption. I would say that other

preservation is the first law of life. It is the first law of life precisely because we cannot preserve self without being concerned about preserving other selves. The universe is so structured that things go awry if men are not diligent in their cultivation of the other regarding dimension. I cannot reach fulfillment without thou. The self cannot be self without other selves. Self concern without other concern is like a tributary that has no outward flow to the ocean. Stagnant, still and stale, it lacks both life and freshness. Nothing would be more disastrous and out of harmony with our self interest than for the developed nations to travel a dead end road of inordinate selfishness. We are in the fortunate position of having our deepest sense of morality coalesce with our self interest. All men are interdependent. In a real sense, all life is interrelated. The agony of the poor impoverishes the rich; the betterment of the poor enriches the rich. We are inevitably our brother's keeper because we are our brother's brother. Whatever affects one directly affects all indirectly." (Where Do We Go From Here: Chaos Or Community? by Martin Luther King). The Acropolis in Greece. The Roman Forum in Rome. Symbols of a supreme civilization whose glory crowned Europe two thousand years ago. Its trajectory was sent spiraling downward by the mob's fearsome paws of socialism, statism, unassimilated migration and alien superstitions. It was sent spiraling downward until the end reared its terrifying face. Sent spiraling downward until the sun set, daylight disappeared, the moon ascended the twilight sky, and shades of evening enveloped the shattered ruins. This scene of desolation has been reenacted in the present day. Exalted by the Western cultural establishment which awarded him the Nobel Prize Peace Prize, the Presidential Medal of Freedom and the Congressional Medal of Freedom, and placed him on America's five dollar bill, Martin Luther King blocked the last rays of a departed civilization.

REDS IN CHARGE

The United States Special Committee to Investigate Crime in Interstate Commerce was a special committee of the United States Senate which held hearings from 1950 to 1951. Chaired by Senator Estes Kefauver, the committee held hearings in fourteen major cities across America and heard testimony from over 600 witnesses. It found that an organization called the Mafia, the Mob and Cosa Nostra controlled a vast organized crime conspiracy in the nation. Decent citizens were filled with horror and shock at this revelation of a national crime syndicate and were determined to smash its power and influence. Students of history have seen in the Mafia's control over large swathes of society a portrait of the politics of the present day, a window into the politics of the future, and a retrospect of the politics of the past one hundred years. They have seen the unalterable and inexorable decree of destiny place the masses in charge of civilization during its final hours and elect an organized body of criminals as their leaders. Reflecting the masses' values and ideals and faithfully doing the masses' bidding, this body of criminals is comprised of reds of all stripes and varieties and is dedicated to the collectivization of the planet. Promoting the politics of gender, race and class, this international red movement and conspiracy has declared total war on the world bequeathed by the Enlightenment and targeted the liberal democratic system as public enemy number one. Students of history have issued their report on the red takeover of the West and to read it is to read a program and manifesto of the disturbed and the diseased under the sway of an evil religion. A product of the mass mind as nothing else is the product of the mass mind, this religion proclaims that tribes are superior to individuals, that sacrifice is superior to self interest, that security is superior to freedom, the social responsibility is superior to constitutional rights, that equality is superior to meritocracy, and that society is comprised of gender, race and class abstractions and is devoid of flesh and blood human beings. Passed unanimously by every nation of the West, this is a program of criminal aims and policies without precedent in the history of mankind, a plan, a scheme and a series of measures whose tenets have sealed the coffin of human cultural advancement, and ensured that the twenty first century, the century of unbridled mass rule, will be the final century of civilization. This program proclaims that a progressive society is a communist society which provides prekindergarten for all, daycare for all, child tax credits for all, student loan forgiveness for all, food stamps for all, Social Security for all, Medicare for all and Medicaid for all. It proclaims that a progressive society funds multitrillion dollar social programs with unrestrained currency creation. It proclaims that a progressive society has engineered an invasion of the homeland by millions of illegal, unassimilated aliens streaming in from cesspool nations throughout the world. It proclaims that a progressive society sanctions the hiring of people, the firing of people, the admissions of people to schools and the denial of medical treatment to people solely on the basis of their race. It proclaims that a progressive society is not a race blind or gender blind society but a regime of official discrimination against white males. It proclaims that a progressive society has instituted Marxist indoctrination of children in schools, condemned parents who protest against this as violent extremists, and put them away in jail. It proclaims that a progressive society sanctions the destruction, plundering and burning down of cities by Antifa and Black Lives Matter in the name of proletarian power and black nationalism. It proclaims that a progressive society sanctions election fraud to maintain reds in power: it has abolished voter identification requirements; it has expanded election days into election months; it has established universal voting by mail without signature verification requirements; it has established universal ballot harvesting in which third party individuals collect and submit completed absentee or mail in ballots; it has opposed the purging voter rolls of deceased or ineligible voters; and it has condemned those who support voter identification laws as the voices of white supremacy, voter suppression and Jim Crow. Look at the election fraud perpetrated by the reds in the presidential election of 2020, which saw the fraudulent victory of Joe Biden over Donald Trump, and see the greatest crime against democracy perpetrated in the annals of modern times. See 71,893 mail in ballots for Joe Biden returned in Pennsylvania after Election Day, November 3, 2020, at 8 PM, and counted in violation of the United States Constitution, which provides that state legislatures alone can make changes to election rules and not state executives or state courts. See 10,515 mail in votes cast for Joe Biden by people who did not exist on the Pennsylvania voter rolls. See 20,000 excess votes cast in Pennsylvania for Joe Biden, 20,000 more votes than voters, according to the Pennsylvania Department of State. See hundreds of thousands of votes unlawfully counted in secret in Pennsylvania after Republican election observers were expelled. See 39,771 people who voted in Pennsylvania unlawfully allowed to register after the October 19 deadline. See courts throughout the nation, up to and including the United States Supreme Court, dismiss lawsuits challenging the results of the election on grounds of lack of standing, as if the Suffrage Amendments to the Constitution, the Fifteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty Third, Twenty Fourth and Twenty Sixth Amendments, did not exist. These amendments, which prohibit the denial of the right to vote on account of race, sex, previous condition of servitude, failure to pay a poll tax, to residents of Washington DC and to individuals eighteen years of age or older, implicitly establish a constitutional right to vote in a free and fair election. The right to vote means the right to vote in a free and fair election or it means nothing, and every state has standing to sue in order to ensure that the constitution is respected and the nation is a nation of laws. When one citizen's constitutional rights are violated, all citizens are affected, all are threatened, and all have standing to sue. The so-called insurrection on January 6, 2021 to protest the certification of the fraudulent election by Congress and the refusal of the Supreme Court's to hear challenges to it was in point of fact not an insurrection but an attempt to topple a criminal gang, for the United States government at that point had ceased to exist in all but name, and an insurrection is defined in relation to a government and not to a mafia organization masquerading as a government. The program of the reds today proclaims that a progressive society has effected a Marxist "reset", "reform" and transformation and smashed the liberal order with the hammers of gender, race and class politics: "We are five days away from fundamentally transforming the United States of America." (Barack Obama); "We won't just rebuild this nation--we'll transform it." (Joe Biden); "Now we take Georgia, and then we change America!" (Chuck Schumer). The program of the reds today proclaims that modern technology and industrial civilization have brought about catastrophic climate change and will make the planet uninhabitable in ten years, and the only way to avert this doomsday is to turn back the clock to the preindustrial and premodern eras. It proclaims that a progressive school system distorts history, knowledge, truth and reasoning by a relentless focus on gender, race and class and the relativization of reality to the tribal will to power. Look at the state of the world today and see the minds of a generation paralyzed by the poisons of red religions. See socialism exalted as a good idea, a noble idea and a righteous idea and human liberty denigrated as the blackest of all evils. See universal enslavement justified in the name of fairness, equality, the workers and the public. See socialist governments, which have defined moral, political and economic failure, and wreaked mass devastation, mass starvation and the mass killing upon nations and populations, worshiped as the friends and guardians of the people: "According to the report, Left Turn Ahead? Surveying Attitudes of Young People Towards Capitalism and Socialism, 67 per cent of younger Brits said they would rather have socialist rule and 75 per cent agree with the statement that 'socialism is a good idea, but it has failed in the past because it has been badly done'. 'The cliché that real socialism has never been tried is not just a cliché: it is also the mainstream opinion among Millennials and Zoomers,' the report noted. The younger Brits, many of whom were born after the fall of the Soviet Union, associate the term socialist with positive terms such as workers, public, equal and fair. The report noted that very few associate socialism with the term failure, despite the previous century of socialist governments leading to economic devastation, mass starvation, and democide (the murder of people by their own government)." (The Kids Are Not Alright! Two Thirds Of UK Millennials, Gen Z Support Socialism by Kurt Zindulka). Oymyakon, Russia is the coldest inhabited place on Earth. Home to 500 people, the land lies in darkness twenty one hours per day, is pierced and bitten by an average temperature of fifty degrees below zero Celsius, is unable to support indoor plumbing or the growing of crops, and the road leading into it is called the Road of Bones. Students of history have seen in this field of devastation a terrifying portrait of the present day. From the Siberian wastelands of gender, race and class politics have come the invaders and assassins of civilization.

REDS LAUNCH WITCH HUNT

A witch hunt is a search for people who have been labeled as witches. During the Early Modern Period of Europe there were 50,000 executions of people condemned as the carriers of evil magic powers and the last executions took place in the mid eighteenth century. Students of history have seen the wheel of history make a fearsome revolution and bring back campaigns of persecution against the unorthodox and the unpopular. They have seen professors at colleges and universities throughout the world turn out a generation of red activists and train them to burn antired heretics at the stake. They have seen social justice warriors mass produced in classrooms and told to seek out, call out and confront the opponents of gender, race and class politics and announce their expulsion from the human race. They knew this was coming, this was destined, and that witch hunts would return to blight civilization anew, because they knew that the rise, the ascendancy and the mass acceptance of red religions would bring back the campaign of persecutions originated by the reds' Christian forerunners, and would bring back the reign of fear and hysteria in homes, schools and offices throughout society. That which was decreed has now happened; the wheel of history has unloaded its ghostly passengers from the distant past and unleashed them upon the present day; and the rule of intimidation has been reestablished under the banners of wokeness and the protection of tribal power and privilege. Students of history have issued their report on the change of ownership of society from the liberal democratic order to the red order and to read it is to read a program and manifesto of the mass mind and its total war against the world created by the Age of Enlightenment, the world of reason, science, sanity and the order of free, flourishing human beings. It is to read a program and manifesto composed by a new class of witch hunters who have reignited the burning crosses of yesteryear and incinerated the voices of liberal dissent. Declaiming in today's churches of red activism and exhorting blind obedience to the Marxist and neoMarxist party line, today's searchers and persecutors of liberal refuseniks proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out people who are anticomunist and accuse them of being racist, homophobic and practitioners of ableism, the latter being discrimination in favor of able bodied people. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out antiMarxists as bigots and purveyors of hate speech. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out people whose ideas or statements are politically incorrect. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those whose words and actions evince a desire to exclude, marginalize and insult the opponents of group power politics. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who support the findings of science that sex is determined by genes and cannot be changed and to assault them as guilty of aggression and microaggression against transgenders. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out the supporters of capitalism, record their statements, and shame them as racists and bigots. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out the proponents of a liberal, race blind society and vilify them in the name of reducing racism and fostering racial understanding. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who reject the tenets of critical race theory, black nationalism and Black Lives Matter and believe that no person is superior to any other person based on his race. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who reject race war, race politics and race activism and believe that society should be benevolent, tolerant and welcoming of all people without regard to race. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who support meritocracy and reject selection on the basis of race and gender under the banners of diversity and inclusion. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who believe that heterosexual white males are entitled to equal treatment under the law and in all admissions and employee selection procedures. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who reject the regime of preferential treatment for blacks, indigenous people and people of color. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who are opposed to the hiring of unqualified people for jobs solely because they are blacks or women. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out capitalists and request that they undergo antibias training to cure them of their racist, sexist and heterosexist attitudes. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who reject leftist political agendas and who condemn the crimes against humanity committed by the nations of the former East Bloc. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who reject the transformation of social psychology into procommunist psychology. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who reject the reds' condemnation of capitalism as a form of psychopathology. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who support objective, meritocratic, race blind and gender blind testing of university graduate school applicants. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who reject the requirement that all university programs and courses have a social justice orientation. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who reject the requirement that professional disciplines, such as medicine and law, be nonpartisan and enforce capability and competence and not adherence to political correctness. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who oppose Hollywood's new representation and inclusion standards for the awarding of Oscars under which films whose staff is comprised of blacks, indigenous people and people of color, and whose story lines are related to these groups, alone will be eligible. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who are opposed to television networks' mandates that fifty percent of script writers be comprised of blacks, indigenous people and people of color. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those deny that race, gender and sexual preference are the fundamental characteristics which define human beings. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who reject the view that race and gender should be the qualifications for academic study, research and employment. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who are opposed to workplace diversity programs under which fairness and equity, which require meritocracy, are sacrificed to the achievement of racial and gender diversity. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who support the system of free enterprise and reject the mystical, tribalist doctrines of social governance and social responsibility. They proclaim that a progressive school system requires students to call out those who refuse to worship at the altars of the red trinity, Diversity, Equity and Inclusion, and who believe that diversity and inclusion advance mystical social equity and violate rational, individual equity. Listen to the tribunes of the new red inquisition and see them equip their acolytes with bludgeons marked racism, sexism, ableism, homophobia, transphobia and Islamophobia and order them to go out onto the streets and beat five centuries of enlightenment civilization to death: "In this challenging activity you will be asked to call out someone on their ableist, racist or homophobic use of language, for microaggressions (or an act of racism) toward a person of color, homophobia against LGBTQ+ or ableism against a disabled person. While gender is important there are some complex theoretical reasons that gender is NOT included in this list. I encourage you to talk to me about this if you have questions." (Course work posted by Edward Reynolds, professor of communications, University of New Hampshire). Bouvet Island is the most remote island in the world. Situated in the South Atlantic Ocean, at the southern edge of the Mid Atlantic Ridge, just north of the Antarctic Circle, this volcanic island is an uninhabited nature reserve. Students of history have seen in its scene of bleak, dismal emptiness a portrait of the moral desolation brought down by the red persecutors of today.

CHURCH OF THE REDS GATHERS CONGREGATION

The Inquisition was an institution within the Catholic Church during the Dark Ages whose aim was to combat heresy. Conducting trials of suspected heretics, it handed down sentences which ranged from penances to execution. Arising in the twelfth century in France, the Inquisition spread across Europe and the world, and created the Spanish Inquisition, the Portuguese Inquisition, the Goa Inquisition, the Peruvian Inquisition and the Mexican Inquisition. Students of history have seen the ghosts of this monstrous age come alive in the regimes of the Church's successors who assumed control over the West in the twentieth century. They have seen the return of the Inquisition under the banners of the reds and seen nation after nation in the free world collapse before its onslaught. They have seen questionings, investigations, inquiries and commissions set up to suppress deviations from the red party line and enforce its terrifying creed of gender, race and class ideology. They have seen the core doctrines mandated by inquisitions change over the centuries, seen the doctrines of the Christian faith replaced by the enforcement of Marxist dogmas and their derivatives, but seen the same bigotry, the same intolerance, the same crushing of dissent and the same totalitarian lockstep continue unabated and put an end to the traditions and institutions established by liberal societies. They have seen a new holy trinity called Diversity, Equity and Inclusion rear its ugly head and burn the voices of reason, individualism and meritocracy at the stake. They have issued their report on the new inquisitions of the reds ripping apart the fabric of progress and civilization and to read it is to read the program and manifesto of an unmitigated nightmare, the nightmare of tribalism, composed by a radicalized majority during the dying and dead hours of the West. Students of history understand that the goals of diversity and inclusion are incompatible with the goal of equity. They understand that the achievement of diversity and inclusion in any organization, brought about by selection procedures based upon membership in some group, violates the principle of merit and is inherently unfair and inequitable. They understand that the red meaning of the term equity refers to mystical, social, tribal equity and not to the equity which governs real, flesh and blood human beings. They understand that the notion of social equity is a contradiction in terms because there are no such things as groups in reality, and that equity relates to individuals, because individuals are the only things which exist outside the mind, or it relates to nothing and nobody and does not exist. They understand that the neoMarxist trinity of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion is a Mein Kampf program of reversion to paleolithic existence and has no place in a society which treats people as individuals and rejects the exaltation of tribal membership as a determining factor or a plus factor in hiring, admissions or promotional decisions. Composed by the red trinitarian heirs and descendants of the Christian Church of the Dark Ages, this program proclaims that a progressive society creates commissions to police the demographics of workforces. It proclaims that a progressive company mandates participation of underrepresented communities and mandates that preferential treatment be given to blacks, women and people of color. It proclaims that liberal democracy is a system of race based oppression and a lash of white supremacy. It proclaims that racial and gender identities take precedence over people's status as human beings. It proclaims that a liberal color blind society is a society which discriminates against nonwhites. It proclaims that a progressive organization gives special attention to diversity and hires only blacks and women. It proclaims that a progressive corporation violates equal rights laws and makes hiring decisions based in whole or in part on race and gender. It proclaims that a progressive society is an illiberal, race based fascist and communist society. It proclaims that liberal democracy is corrupt, oppressive and patriarchal. It proclaims that a progressive society is ruled by gender, race and class identity groups endlessly warring for power. It proclaims that a progressive society denies the existence of individuals who possess qualities and characteristics all their own and believes that people are abstract exemplars of their race, gender and sexual preferences. It proclaims that the history of mankind is a history of gender, race and class struggles, a history of men fighting against women, whites fighting against blacks and the rich fighting against the poor, and will culminate in the glorious victory of women, nonwhites and the poor and the extermination of successful, white men. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal principle that all people are equal before the law and are entitled to the receive the same opportunities to prosper and succeed. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal principles of legal neutrality and individual rights and teaches that the way people think and act is related to their race and gender. It proclaims that a progressive society has removed the blindfolds from Lady Justice and replaced them with the partisan blinkers of gender, race and class politics. It proclaims that white people constantly discriminate against blacks, discriminate day and night and discriminate without knowing that they discriminate, while blacks are inherently incapable of discriminating against anybody in any manner, and the notion of a racist black is a contradiction in terms, Look at today's red inspectors of thoughts and actions and see them condemn capitalism as a scourge of systemic racism. See them indoctrinate children with ideologies of race hatred. See them transform boards of education into boards for the propagation of critical race theory. According to this theory, social criticism must be founded upon race theory and expose the white racist character of the liberal state and society. See the reds peddle discrimination against whites in the name of social equity. See them peddle black nationalism under the banners of social justice. See them reject the methods of empirical testing and rational analysis in favor of race mysticism and race dogmatism. See them rewrite school curricula into a courses of study promoting primitive tribal politics and the uncritical acceptance of black power religion. See them organize focus groups focused on race and nothing but race. See them hold discussion groups guided by the principles of black political correctness. See them provide training to develop teachers as professional classroom agitators and propagandists. See them inculcate black racism by means of peer pressure and social conformity. See them lead students, parents, teachers and administrators in a movement to sweep away the institutions of liberal equality and individual merit and raise the burning crosses of diversity, equity and inclusion across the world: "Parents who spoke at the New Hanover County school board meeting said the new initiatives and curriculum changes unfairly put the blame for systemic racism on white children and are too focused on race in schools, which they believe should be color blind. 'We, the concerned citizens of New Hanover County, are asking you as a board to write a letter to the North Carolina Board of Education stating that we do not want critical race theory, equity, social justice or whatever the newest label is to be taught in our schools,' said Lindy Ford, a parent who spoke during the call to audience session of the meeting. New Hanover County Schools formed a partnership with Sophic Solutions, a 'change management consulting firm,' earlier this year to begin looking at equity in the district. The district will host nine focus groups as a way of taking a 'qualitative approach' to understand the climate around equity in New Hanover schools. The focus groups will include students of all ages, staff, administrators, parents and others. 'This is not just a new methodology,' Managing Partner Stephenie Smith told the Equity, Diversity and Inclusion Committee on May 3. 'This is our core value in practice and there's nobody better than peers to lead that conversation.' Sophic Solutions is a Kansas City based group that focuses on diversity, equity and inclusion in school districts, companies and nonprofit organizations. It offers trainings and designs educational curriculum and professional development sessions." (New Hanover Parents Push Back Against Schools' New Equity Initiatives by Sydney Hoover). Race and gender based diversity. Race and gender based inclusion. Race and gender based definitions of people. Race and gender based employment. Race and gender based outcomes. Race and gender based discrimination, inequity and unfairness paraded as social equity and social fairness. These are the doctrines of a robed and hooded faith which has bound, blindfolded and gagged the liberal voices of the West.

ANTILITERATURE EMPTIES BOOKSHELVES

An intentionally blank page is a page devoid of content and is commonly used in the publishing industry. It is found in standardized tests, legal texts, sheet music and classified documents. Its purposes range from place holding to space filling to content separation, and the pages often carry the notice: This page intentionally left blank. Students of literature have seen in this publishing device a portrait of the literature produced since the turn of the twentieth century and have recoiled at the analogy forced upon them. They have seen a cultural movement consciously and deliberately empty literature of meaning and content and compose on blank pages the final chapter of books and writings produced in the West. They have seen the end of the line of a movement of subjectivism which commenced when Western culture was born, Western Germanic culture, Western Faustian culture, Western Baroque culture, Western romanticist culture and Western will culture, a culture as far removed from the Apollonian world of the Greeks and Romans as darkness is removed from daylight, and have seen the total negation of literature take place as an imperative of this culture. They have seen in the philosophical doctrine promoted by the Faustians and the romanticists, the doctrine that all knowledge is subjective and there exists no world of physical objects, the seeds of destruction of the arts, and have seen that when the denial of reason and reality is accepted as a legitimate and foundational philosophy, the end of literature will ensue with iron necessity, from the unappealable verdict of causality, and will proclaim on the empty pages of the new empty literature, the death and collapse of civilization. They have issued a report on the decline and fall of Western literature and have identified the preeminent philosopher of the spirit of the West, the most influential voice of the spirit of subjectivism, as the immediate cause of the catastrophe. They have identified the philosophy of Immanuel Kant as the direct factor in the destruction of an art form celebrated for centuries as the source of written works possessing superior, lasting merit and worth. According to Kant, art is a product of the free play of the imagination and understanding and imitates nothing in reality. Beauty is not a property of reality, because reality is unknowable, but is simply the consciousness of pleasure. Judgments of beauty are expressions of mere taste and preference; they are purely subjective and are based upon nothing more than the emotional response of the subject to a work of art. Set forth during the Age of Enlightenment, Kant's philosophy of subjectivism in the arts took two centuries to germinate, and would lead to a steep, rapid, vertiginous journey downward, commencing in the twentieth century, into the doctrine that art is an arbitrary and subjective enterprise which consists in the manipulation of pure forms without reference or content of any kind. Under the auspices of Kant, the doctrine of literary formalism arose in the twentieth century and established an orthodoxy which has governed the literary world up to the present day. Culminating in the final crash of the arts which occurred in the twentieth century, Western Faustian romanticism set forth its last program and manifesto one hundred years ago and composed it under the shadow and inspiration of Kant. It is the sole authorized and accepted doctrine of today's cultural establishment and its tenets have imprisoned literature in a dark, mirrored house filled with the screams of psychosis. It proclaims that progressive literature is characterized by a total break with traditional forms of writing. It proclaims that progressive literature is a constant experimentation in form and expression guided by the maxim: Make it new. It proclaims that progressive literature rejects plot and depicts the thoughts and feelings which pass through the mind of the narrator. It proclaims that progressive literature depicts a character's thought processes and consists in interior monologue. It proclaims that progressive literature consists of streams of words devoid of all punctuation. It proclaims that progressive literature consists of streams of thoughts and reactions to events without rhyme or reason. It proclaims that progressive literature consists of associative leaps of thought without sense or significance. It proclaims that progressive literature is an ever flowing river of consciousness, sensations and subjective life. It proclaims that progressive literature refers exclusively to the character's psychic states and never to physical reality. It proclaims that progressive literature is written in free style without grammatical constraints and registers the character's inner thoughts and interior experiences. It proclaims that progressive literature rejects story telling and narrative structure in favor of anarchy and license: "Joyce's technique is a way of controlling, of ordering, of giving a shape and a significance to the immense panorama of futility and anarchy which is contemporary history. Instead of narrative method, we may now use the mythical method. It is, I seriously believe, a step toward making the modern world possible for art." (Ulysses: Order And Myth. Review of Ulysses by James Joyce by T. S. Eliot). The program of today's Kantians proclaims that progressive literature is fragmentary, cubist and multiperspectival. It proclaims that progressive literature is broken literature which mirrors a broken world. It proclaims that progressive literature is a theater of the absurd marked by irrational speech and total silence. It proclaims that progressive literature rejects plotting and narrative and is marked by endless cycles, expansiveness and nonsense. It proclaims that progressive literature is marked by zero action and meaningless events. It proclaims that progressive literature is a continuous flow of thoughts and feelings without without dialogue, without coherence, without objective description, and without point or purpose: "A quarter after what an unearthly hour I suppose theyre just getting up in China now combing out their pigtails for the day well soon have the nuns ringing the angelus theyve nobody coming in to spoil their sleep except an odd priest or two for his night office the alarmclock next door at cockshout clattering the brains out of itself let me see if I can doze off 1 2 3 4 5 what kind of flowers are those they invented like the stars the wallpaper in Lombard street was much nicer the apron he gave me was like that something only I only wore it twice better lower this lamp and try again so that I can get up early." (Ulysses by James Joyce). The program of today's Kantians proclaims that progressive literature consists of complex texts without linear storylines. It proclaims that progressive literature consists of sentences with endless interpretations. It proclaims that progressive literature consists of chapters which are incomplete. It proclaims that progressive literature rejects sequential development and a logical order of events: "I might easily have written this story in the traditional manner. Every novelist knows the recipe. It is not very difficult to follow a simple, chronological scheme which the critics will understand. But I, after all, am trying to tell the story of this Chapelizod family in a new way." (The Decentered Universe of Finnegans Wake by Margot Norris, quoting James Joyce). The program of today's Kantians proclaims that progressive literature is a discontinuous dream narrative marked by sudden changes in locations, plot details, characters and characters' names. It proclaims that progressive literature is devoid of plot, story, purposeful progression and fundamental sanity: "The plot of Finnegans Wake is unstable in that there is no one plot from beginning to end, but rather many recognizable stories and plot types with familiar and unfamiliar twists told from varying perspectives." (Joyce's Uncertainty Principle by Phillip Herring). It proclaims that progressive literature is marked by intrusions, discontinuances, digressions, redirections and commentaries on nothing and nobody: "Throughout much of Finnegans Wake, what appears to be an attempt to tell a story is often diverted, interrupted, or reshaped into something else, for example, a commentary on a narrative with conflicting or unverifiable details." (Attempts At Narration In Finnegans Wake by Patrick McCarthy). It proclaims that progressive literature is devoid of the rules of language, a logical arrangement of events, and normal communicative language: "One great part of every human existence is passed in a state which cannot be rendered sensible by the use of wideawake language, cutanddry grammar and goahead plot." (James Joyce—Quotations, Modern World). It proclaims that progressive literature is compounded of levels of nonplot, nonnarrative, nonthought and nondevelopment: "Tristram Shandy was a natural touchstone for James Joyce as he explained his attempt 'to build many planes of narrative with a single esthetic purpose' in Finnegans Wake" (Laurence Stern's Tristram Shandy: A Casebook by Thomas Keymer). A rogues' gallery is a police collection of images of known criminals kept for identification purposes. It was first used by police departments in the nineteenth century and its name was given by Inspector Thomas Byrne of the New York City Police Department. Students of literature have passed through a rogues' gallery of writers who have brought Western literature to its terrifying culmination. The gallery is headed by James Joyce and includes Marcel Proust, Virginia Wolff, Robert Musil, Dorothy Richardson, T. S. Eliot, Samuel Beckett, Jonathan Foer and Brendan Connell. Quintessential Westerners, Faustians, romanticists and formalists, these literary criminals have sent a stream of noncognition and raging insanity passing through the libraries of the world.

RED PHARMACISTS DISPENSE POISON

Pharmacy is the clinical health science which links medicine with chemistry. Its goal is the discovery, production, dispensing and control of medicinal drugs. Its symbol is the Bowl of Hygieia, which features a chalice, representing medicinal potions, with a snake, representing healing. Hygieia was the Greek goddess of health and hygiene and this goddess was invoked, along with her father Asclepius, in the Hippocratic Oath, which states: "I will abstain from all intentional wrongdoing and harm." Students of history have seen a nightmare enacted before their eyes, a horror which has sent them recoiling in fear and trembling, a whirlwind which has unleashed a rampage of monsters. They have seen the transformation of a five thousand year old profession tasked with dispensing healing medicines into the science and practice of death dealing through the dispensing of moral, political and ideological corruption. They have seen the transformation of pharmacists, who for thousands of years swore an oath to do no harm, into cold blooded killers committing professional malfeasance under the banners of social justice and swastika politics. They have seen something which they can scarcely utter out loud or communicate to their friends and colleagues, something which has shrouded science beneath a cloud of doom, something which has pressed the Grim Reaper into service and allowed him to claim the spirit and soul of the West during the final century of civilization. They have issued their report on the degeneration of pharmacy into a lethal enterprise under the control of red ideologues, and to read it is to read what happens when radical masses achieve social and political power and demand adherence to the principles of political correctness in all activities and undertakings which pass through their hands. Their report is on the profession of pharmacy, the profession whose practitioners dispensed healing medicines in civilizations near and remote, through the distant reaches of space and time, dispensations first recorded in ancient Sanskrit texts five thousand years ago, but a profession which now makes up, gives out, distributes and supplies a regime of mass murder, selecting which races it will make sound and healthy again and which races it will neglect and allow to die. Students of history have written a report on the program of the reds who rule a profession once ruled by the therapeutic spirits of Hygieia and Asclepius. Actuated by murderous, malicious and malevolent policies and intent, this program proclaims that progressive pharmacy sacrifices individual equity upon the altars of social equity and withholds drug therapy from whites and gives it exclusively to blacks. It proclaims that progressive pharmacy selects those whom it treats on the basis of race and treats only blacks in the name of achieving diversity and inclusion. It proclaims that progressive pharmacy is racially prejudiced pharmacy and practices discrimination against whites under the banners of advancing health equity. It proclaims that progressive pharmacy is black pharmacy and parades its blackness under the banners of antiracism. It proclaims that progressive pharmacy is an instrument of revolutionary change which rejects the traditional notion of color blind drug treatment and confines its ministrations to the nonwhite community. It proclaims that progressive pharmacy is concerned with improving the health of black communities and no other communities. It proclaims that progressive pharmacy is racist in theory and racist in practice and orders whites to the end of the line for drug intervention in the name of reducing equity gaps in the healthcare system. Look at the reds in charge of pharmacy today and see them pervert the hallowed oath of the pharmacist into an oath sworn on the Mein Kampfs of black power. See them hijack associations, colleges, boards, committees and directors of pharmacy and transport them into the feverish jungles of race politics. See them promote racist medical treatment in the name of antiracism and discrimination against whites in the name of antidiscrimination. See them promote in the name of social inclusion the exclusion of whites from the drugs which heal, and mandate blacks only clientele in the name of achieving diversity. See them transform schools of pharmacy into centers of indoctrination in the tenets of identity politics. See them transform pharmacy school commencement ceremonies into the awarding of diplomas and degrees in racist science, racist practice, racist preparation and racist dispensing. See them demand that sick white patients be allowed to die in the name of achieving health fairness. See them transform pharmacists into change agents for a regime of race based health protection. See them reject the traditional creed of the pharmacist to give aid and succor to all who need it and replace it with a statement of racist denial of medical treatment to whites. See them lead

the students, professors and profession of pharmacy in a collective effort and campaign to bar white patients from access to life saving drugs and plunge an ancient healing profession, recorded in cuneiform clay tablets and age old parchment, into the dark annals of racist infamy and shame: "An organization representing college pharmacy schools and a group representing pharmacists have passed an update to their Oath of a Pharmacist, requiring new members to commit to 'diversity, equity, inclusion, and antiracism.' The changes were recommended by both the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy Board of Directors and the American Pharmacists Association Board of Trustees and were finalized in November. The organizations will hold a profession wide virtual event in early 2022 for pharmacists, faculty members, pharmacy students, and others to reaffirm the new oath. Further, the new oath will be used for all Spring 2022 pharmacy school commencement ceremonies. 'The joint committee led a critical charge of boldly expanding our professional oath to include the necessary elements of equity, inclusion, and diversity,' said Lakesha Butler, director of diversity, equity and inclusion at Southern Illinois University Edwardsville School of Pharmacy in a statement." (Pharmacy School Organization Updates New Pharmacist Oath To Include Commitment To Diversity, 'Antiracism' by The College Fix). Look at the reds in charge of pharmacy today and see them incinerate their profession in the midnight torch lights of race hatred. See them swear an oath to devote themselves to a career of race based medical service and to spread the venom of racial prejudice. See them exalt racism as the highest value of a pharmacist in his provision of assistance to the sick. See them reject the welfare of humanity and focus exclusively on the welfare of blacks. See them redefine the relief of human suffering as the relief of black suffering and black suffering alone. See them apply knowledge, experience, expertise and skills to assure the best and most favorable results for blacks who are sick and for blacks alone. See them confine patient care to black patient care and black patient care alone. See them reveal to the world personal information on white patients while respecting the right of privacy of blacks. See them direct pharmacists to be conscious of race in all their professional dealings and to be aware of the inherent inferiority of the white race. See them reject the moral and legal principles which have governed the practice of pharmacy for thousands of years, the principles of professional integrity, universal medical treatment and the alleviation of suffering to all without regard to race or color, and take their profession down the dark alleyways of race based medical provision prepared with the mortars and pestles of hate: "I promise to devote myself to a lifetime of service to others through the profession of pharmacy. In fulfilling this vow: I will consider the welfare of humanity and relief of suffering my primary concerns. I will promote inclusion, embrace diversity, and advocate for justice to advance health equity. I will apply my knowledge, experience, and skills to the best of my ability to assure optimal outcomes for all patients. I will respect and protect all personal and health information entrusted to me. I will accept the responsibility to improve my professional knowledge, expertise, and self awareness. I will hold myself and my colleagues to the highest principles of our profession's moral, ethical and legal conduct. I will embrace and advocate changes that improve patient care. I will utilize my knowledge, skills, experiences, and values to prepare the next generation of pharmacists. I take these vows voluntarily with the full realization of the responsibility with which I am entrusted by the public." (The Oath Of A Pharmacist, American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy and the American Pharmacists Association). The term assisted suicide refers to suicide which is assisted by a doctor. Once it is determined that a person's health situation qualifies him under the assisted suicide laws of his country, a doctor may write a prescription for a lethal dose of drugs. In a state of moral decline and degeneration, the masses of the West have requested that the pharmaceutical establishment prepare for them a dose of drugs. Mixed from vials labeled diversity, equity and inclusion, this is the drug of tribal politics and hatred of whites and it has brought down final destruction.

THE GREATEST WAR EVER FOUGHT

It was vilified by the reds as a meaningless, aimless, evil war. Red poet Wilfred Owen condemned it as a bloody battlefield of wasted years: "Strange, friend, I said, Here is no cause to mourn/ None, said the other, Save the undone years." (Strange Meeting). Red films such as All Quiet On The Western Front, Paths Of Glory and King And Country condemned it as harrowing, horrifying and acutely distressing. Red historian Samuel Hynes condemned it as a charnel house packed with the bones and corpses of innocent young men. As a satanic orchestra deafening the world with drumbeats of senseless carnage. As a house of violent death which shocked, horrified, disillusioned and embittered those who managed to escape and those who were cut down by its merciless slaughter and its crimes against humanity. As the Grim Reaper of a generation ordered to fight and die for a cause without ground or justification and for principles as fraudulent as they were foolish: "A generation of innocent young men, their heads full of high abstractions like Honor, Glory and England, went off to war to make the world safe for democracy. They were slaughtered in stupid battles planned by stupid generals. Those who survived were shocked, disillusioned and embittered by their war experiences, and saw that their real enemies were not the Germans, but the old men at home who had lied to them. They rejected the values of the society that had sent them to war, and in doing so separated their own generation from the past and from their cultural inheritance." (A War Imagined: The First World War And English Culture by Samuel Hynes). Students of history know otherwise. They know that World War I, the international conflict fought between 1914 and 1918, fought on the Western Front whose trench lines reached from the English Channel to Switzerland, fought on the Eastern Front, on the Alpine Front and in the Middle East and the Balkans, was the greatest war ever fought, because fought for the defense of freedom. They know that this war, which claimed the lives of nine million soldiers and five million civilians and lasted four years, three months and two weeks, made the world safe for freedom until freedom was assassinated by the daggers of red treason unsheathed in the West during World War II, daggers sharpened by an accelerating fever of welfare statism and class politics which saw fit to make common cause with the Soviet Union, and to deliver nations and populations into the arms of communism. Students of history know that the Allied Powers of World War I fought against an enemy, Germany, which rejected the restraints of law and humanity and committed the following crimes. An enemy which used its submarines to sink the vessels of neutral parties and noncombatants. An enemy which attacked ships of every kind, without respect to their flag, character, cargo, destination or errand, and attacked them without warning, compassion or offers to help passengers on board. An enemy which attacked hospital ships and ships carrying relief to the bereaved and the stricken. An enemy which rejected international law and the principle, accepted by civilized nations, that the high seas are the free highways of the world. An enemy which perpetrated the wanton, wholesale destruction of people not involved in the war, men, women and children engaged in peaceful, legitimate pursuits. An enemy whose submarines attacked property, commerce and lives without discrimination. An enemy which violated the right of neutral nations to keep arms at sea and to use the seas without unlawful interference and without being subject to unlawful violence. An enemy which employed its submarine crews as international outlaws and gave them a license to attack merchant ships. An enemy whose autocratic government threatened the peace and security of the free world. An enemy whose organized force was dedicated to the protection and expansion of militarism and aggression. An enemy which violated the rights of its citizens and used them as pawns and tools of an overreaching state and totality. An enemy which sent spies into neighboring nations and planned criminal intrigues to bring down liberal democracy. An enemy which sent agents to disturb the peace and destroy the industries of free countries. An enemy which stirred up the enemies of freedom in Mexico and unleashed them against America. An enemy which promoted a morality of social responsibility and service to the state which made it a natural enemy of freedom. An enemy which rejected the right of nations great and small to live in freedom and chose the path of liberal governance. An enemy which rejected the right of people to liberate themselves from the shackles of state tyranny, to establish untrammelled political liberty, and to make the world safe for the cause of liberal democracy. An enemy which rejected the rights of man and sought to achieve conquest and dominion over peaceful, law abiding nations. An enemy which rejected the right of individuals to speak and assemble without fear of reprisal or repression. An enemy which rejected the right of people who submit to authority to have their constitutional rights recognized and respected. An enemy which rejected the universal principle of nonaggression and equal justice for all. An enemy which incinerated France and Belgium with the flames of aggressive war: which razed their factories, destroyed their machinery, stole their markets, scattered their workers and sentenced their people to death by starvation. An enemy which burned down the buildings of Dinant, Belgium and killed seven hundred of its civilians, ranging in age from three months to ninety five years. An enemy which sunk the ocean liner Lusitania off the coast of Ireland, killing 1,198 passengers and crew. An enemy which forced prisoners of war into slave labor, worked them to death in salt mines, shot them and beat them to death, and made them perish through disease, malnutrition and exhaustion. An enemy which violated the principles of fundamental decency and international law by its inhuman treatment of prisoners of war: "Neither treaty nor humanitarian consideration induced the German Government to treat its prisoners of war as human beings, or make much effort to preserve their lives." (International Red Cross). An enemy which justified its violation of the rights of prisoners under the unholy doctrines of Kriegsnotwendigkeit, or necessity of war, and das Handeln auf Befehl, or acting under orders. Look into the face of the enemy and see a secret, coded telegram dispatched by Arthur Zimmerman, a senior civil servant in the Foreign Office of the German Empire, to the German ambassador to Mexico. See a plan to conduct unrestricted submarine warfare and wreak destruction upon neutral parties and noncombatants. See a plan to incite Mexico to wage war against America by promising it financial and military support to reconquer Texas, Arizona and New Mexico. See a plan to incite Japan to wage war against the Allies and to lead a global movement to storm the ramparts of liberal democracy: "We intend to begin on the first of February unrestricted submarine warfare. We shall endeavor in spite of this to keep the United States of America neutral. In the event of this not succeeding, we make Mexico a proposal of alliance on the following basis: make war together, make peace together, generous financial support and an understanding on our part that Mexico is to reconquer the lost territory in Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona. The settlement in detail is left to you. You will inform the President of the above most secretly as soon as the outbreak of war with the United States of America is certain, and add the suggestion that he should, on his own initiative, invite Japan to immediate adherence and at the same time mediate between Japan and ourselves. Please call the President's attention to the fact that the ruthless employment of our submarines now offers the prospect of compelling England in a few months to make peace." (January 17, 1917). World War I ended as it began, as a war fought by the Allies with total moral clarity to make the world safe for liberal democracy. The first goal of the Allies was to secure the freedom and independence of Belgium after its invasion by Germany. Britain sent an ultimatum to Germany demanding that it respect Belgian neutrality. Germany refused to do so and found itself at war with Britain and its global empire. The war resulted in the reestablishment of Belgian freedom. It resulted in the establishment of the League of Nations in 1920. Exemplifying the fighting ideals of the Allies, the League of Nations was a worldwide intergovernmental organization dedicated to the protection and expansion of liberal democracy. Communist states were initially excluded from membership, and in 1939, the League expelled the Soviet Union over its invasion of Finland. This was a principled expulsion by an officially anticommunist organization: "The League of Nations for the first time expelled a member who had violated the Covenant." (The Growth Of American Foreign Policy: A History by Richard Leopold); "The Soviet Union was the only League member ever to suffer such an indignity." (Stalin. Waiting For Hitler, 1929-1941 by Stephan Kotkin). The reds condemned the Allied effort in World War I because it was undertaken for a cause which they despised, the cause of freedom and opposition to the principle of collectivism, and in 1918, the new communist government of Russia signed the Treaty of Brest-Litovsk, which ended the country's participation in the war which had commenced under the liberal government of Alexander Kerensky. The reds by contrast supported the Allied effort in World War II because it was directed toward defeating an Axis power which posed a threat to communism and would have defeated it, and was fought for no other reason. The reds in Russia formed an alliance with the red sympathizing welfare statists in charge of America and Britain, and together the Big Three, comprised of America, Britain and the Soviet Union, ensured the victory of world communism at the conclusion of the war. They ensured it by betraying Poland, the protection of whose freedom was the immediate cause of the war, just as the protection of Belgium was the immediate cause of Allied involvement in World War I, and by surrendering Poland to the communist camp; and they ensured it by sanctioning a communist advance across Eastern Europe and Asia. A study of World War I and World War II is the study of a diametrical opposition. It is the study of collectivism repulsed and collectivism advanced, the latter during the final seconds of civilization.

GERMANY'S FREIKORPS DEFENDS THE WEST

The term idealism has had few applications in history. The course of events is littered with the pursuit of power and wealth and has seen precious little concern for the defense of moral principles. When students of mankind encounter happy exceptions to this dismal state of affairs, they celebrate it jubilantly and are effusive in their praise. In Germany in the early decades of the twentieth century, one such exception made its appearance, caught the eye of historians, and filled them with hope for the future. They knew their hope was a hope against hope and a clinging to a wild improbability, for they knew the end of Western civilization was at hand and society was descending into a Circus Maximus of communist mob rule led by untrammelled presidents and prime ministers, but they nonetheless saw fit to gladden their days by the contemplation of this one instance, in one nation, and for a brief hour, of how things might be, ought to be and should be. Students of history have issued their report on an unofficial force of fighting men in Germany sent on a mission after World War I to protect the continent of Europe against communists who were attempting to obliterate its freedom. To read their report is to read about a paramilitary organization comprised of 1.5 million men, hailing from every walk of life and from every region in the nation, from Schlesien to Sudetenland to Schwaben to Bamberg to Hessen-Nassau, on a determined, single minded mission to suppress uprisings of subversive multitudes intent on rolling back the hard won rights and liberties of the European people. To read it is to read the story of Germany's Freikorps who defined what it meant to be motivated by morality and who distilled the essence of a human, flourishing way of life. The story of the Freikorps is the story of a people's army which kept the streets safe by brawling with the reds and dispersing their meetings. The story of a militia which suppressed a Marxist revolutionary movement known as the Spartacist League, whose goal was international proletarian revolution and the overthrow of the liberal democratic order. The story of a militia which executed the leaders of the Spartacists, Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg. The story of a militia which suppressed the Bavarian Soviet Republic in 1919. The story of a militia which suppressed the Bremen Soviet Republic in 1919. The story of a militia which suppressed the Ruhr Uprising in 1920. Conducted by the Ruhr Red Army, comprised of 80,000 men, in the most important industrial area in Germany, this was the largest armed communist uprising in the nation's history. The story of a militia which suppressed the advance of communism across Eastern Europe, in East Prussia, Latvia, Silesia and Poland, in a campaign which liberated communist controlled Riga and executed 3,000 communists in Latvia. The story of a militia which put an end to the violence, pillaging, disruptions and depredations wreaked by communists, dispelled the reign of chaos and lawlessness they brought down on Germany, and reestablished the rule of constitutional authority: "After crossing the borders I recognized with horror that turmoil ruled in Germany. The hostile masses of workers were in the cities on the one hand, the bourgeois and farmers facing them on the other, and the deficiencies of all state authority had delivered them up entirely to rape and plundering." (Vom Kaiserheer zur Reichswehr: Eine Beitrag zur Geschichte der Deutschen Revolution by Ludwig Marcker). The story of the Freikorps is the story of a private, dedicated, volunteer force of soldiers who confronted the red transgressors against peace and security. Defended cities and towns from a communist onslaught. Halted the advance of the enemies of civilization and ensured that a republic of free people remained strong and stable and did not perish from the face of the earth: "Comrades! Germany is in significant danger! Protests alone do nothing. We must defend ourselves. We do not want to lead you in new wars. You should halt the advance of violators of the peace. You should prevent defenseless cities and towns from being caught unaware. You should prevent the enemies of Germany from entering [our country] like an abandoned house and settling in. The Republic calls to you, cares for you, but also needs you. Volunteer!" (Friedrich Ebert, decree of January 9, 1919). The story of the Freikorps is the story of officers and commanders, young in years and young in spirit, on a mission of rescue and salvation. The story of competence in combat employed to guard the defensive walls of law and order. The story of fearless leadership in the service of constitutional government. The story of comrades in arms smashing red fronts at home and abroad. The story of people's formations suppressing violent red actions and protecting domestic tranquility. The story of companies repulsing the troops of red subversion and capturing the garrisons of global revolution. The story of marching flames of dedication, commitment, courage and strength garnering praise from every corner of society and lighting up a nation: "More than just providing crucial leadership for Freikorps units, junior officers were often the most decisive social element within their formations. Reports from Grenzschutz Ost consistently mention an extraordinarily high percentage of officers in Freikorps formations, reaching as high as 18 or even 40 percent as in the case of Freikorps von Epp in April 1919. By the summer of the same year companies composed entirely of officers began to appear as the Freikorps marched across central Germany fighting red troops and revolutionary garrisons. Despite their youthfulness, the Freikorps commanders often proved reliable and competent. Indeed young officers and noncommissioned officers from the front frequently received high praise from fellow members and commanders for their actions under combat and general reliability during domestic actions." (Republic of Violence: The German Army and Politics, 1918-1923 by Matthew Bucholtz). The story of the Freikorps is the story of young people starting out on life's journey and impelled by idealism to smash socialist revolution. The story of students putting their lives on the line to battle a devil clothed in the robes of class war and political subversion. The story of university students postponing classes to defend a government of law under siege by provinces controlled by red parties. The story of high school pupils fighting in a force on a mission to defend freedom from an alien menace. The story of student senates, student leagues, student congresses and student companies placing themselves with honor before a warrior command dedicated to the preservation of Europe as decent, righteous Europeans know and understand it. The story of young people, no longer children and not yet fully adult, in the best times and bloom of their adolescence, enlisting with pride and satisfaction in the greatest war of all time: the war to protect the traditions and institutions of free people and ensure the survival and success of civilization: "The Berliner Tagespresse reported on 30 November 1918 that 1,500 students had created a guard unit to help secure the government and prevent further socialist revolution. In the threatened eastern provinces, Ernst von Hesterberg, Chief of Staff of VI Army Corps stationed in Breslau, Upper Silesia, recorded in his diary a meeting in early December 1918 with Graf Friedrich von der Schulenburg and a university professor who informed Hesterberg that he had 'brought the entire university with me and with these men the Berlin government could chase down the Devil himself.' Student support of the Freikorps remained strong throughout spring 1919. A Congress of the Representatives of the Senate and Student League of German high schools met on 29 April 1919 to determine guidelines to facilitate student enlistment specifically in Freikorps units. Several universities canceled classes for over a month as so many of their pupils had joined Freikorps troops. Several of the largest Freikorps units, like the Yorcksche Jägerkorps and the Freiwillige Landesjägerkorps, created their own specific Studentenkompanien to operate under their command structure." (Republic of Violence: The German Army and Politics, 1918-1923 by Matthew Bucholtz). In the late Weimar Republic, under attack by communists and their brownshirt allies, the Freikorps were a powerful symbol of liberal democracy among the circles of civilized people still remaining in the nation. During the Night of the Long Knives which took place in 1934, the Freikorps were among those purged, purged because they championed liberal democracy before the onslaught of the Third Reich, and became a distant memory amidst the whirlwind of violence. Words often have multiple meanings which together tell a story. For example, the word noonday refers both to the middle of the day and to a state of enlightenment, and we speak of noonday cultures and societies are those illuminated by the light of truth and knowledge. The word Freikorps has a similar dual reference. The word frei in German means both free and volunteer. The name tells the story of the shining character of this fighting force. It was a force dedicated to the defense of freedom, and a force composed of volunteers who joined, not because they had to join, but because the angels of idealism had moved them to join. The Freikorps, a private force of pure volunteers ready to die under the banners of civilization. A beacon of inspiration when it was active and a flame glowing for all time.

RED TANKS BULLDOZE FREEDOM CONVOYS

East Germany 1953. Hungary 1956. Czechoslovakia 1968. Poland 1980. Four venues of popular struggle, four nations in which the people's yearnings for freedom were brutally suppressed, four times and four places which saw the monstrous face of red power and the imposition of martial law brought down by the parties of inhumanity. Students of history have seen in these crackdowns on constitutional rights a portrait of the present day and have seen the jackboots of fear and control return to stalk the struggles animating free people throughout the world. They have seen groups of vehicles traveling together, accompanied in spirit and soul by every person in every corner of the earth who loves freedom, obstructed, halted and placed under attack by the organs of the red establishment and hammered into submission by the tanks of East Germany, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland. They have issued their report on the global advance of the Freedom Convoy, and to read it is to be exposed to a terrifying program of the tactics of suppression directed at truck blockades launched in capital cities throughout the world in protest against the latest chapter of the statist dispensation. Marketed in the name of public health and protection against the covid pandemic, this dispensation has been voted into power by the red majority and is fiercely protected by groups having power and influence in society which are determined to maintain and expand the reach of radical politics into every aspect of human existence. Employed by the media, by the government and by members of the general public, these tactics of suppression are a declaration of war against the liberal values of the Enlightenment, the crown and glory of the West, and comprise a manual of subversion of the right of free people to protect their freedom against the encroachments of a state run amok, a state granted license by a democracy run amok, and a democracy granted license by the neighbors next door run amok, neighbors drawn into a whirlwind of mass hysteria which demands government action at the expense of human rights. This program proclaims that a progressive society insults and degrades people who oppose government overreach paraded in the name of public health. It proclaims that a progressive society does not tolerate unvaccinated people within its ranks. It proclaims that a progressive society suppresses those who are opposed to forced vaccinations on the grounds that they are purveyors of socially and scientifically unacceptable views. It proclaims that a progressive society suppresses those who stand up for civil liberties in the face of covid restrictions on the grounds that they are racist and misogynist. It proclaims that a progressive society suppresses those who are opposed to covid restrictions on the grounds that they are opposed to reason and progress. It proclaims that a progressive society suppresses those who are opposed to covid restrictions on the grounds that they are ugly miscreants and peddlers of hate symbols. It proclaims that a progressive society suppresses those who are opposed to covid restrictions on the grounds that they are far right radicals and promoters of antisemitism, It proclaims that a progressive society suppresses those who are opposed to covid restrictions on the grounds that they are champions of swastikas, Confederate flags and the desecration of war memorials. It proclaims that a progressive society suppresses those who are opposed to covid restrictions on the grounds that they steal food from homeless shelters and enter crowded places without masks. It proclaims that a progressive society confronts those who are opposed to covid restrictions, condemns them as economic terrorists, and tickets them, arrests them and tows their vehicles away. It proclaims that a progressive society confronts those who are opposed to covid restrictions, condemns them as right wing activists, slashes their tires, empties their gasoline tanks and confiscates their trucks. It proclaims that a progressive society confronts those who are opposed to covid restrictions, condemns them as enemies of the common good, and cancels their drivers' insurance, takes away their drivers' license, and descertifies them for life. It proclaims that a progressive society confronts those who are opposed to covid restrictions as dangers to the security of the state, and prosecutes them, saddles them with a criminal record, prevents them from earning a livelihood, and makes them unable to travel across borders. It proclaims that a progressive society condemns those who are opposed to covid restrictions as carriers of a pandemic of the foolish and the selfish. It proclaims that a progressive society condemns those who are opposed to covid restrictions as enemies of their neighbors, enemies of doctors and nurses, and enemies of the state and economy. It proclaims that a progressive society shuts down funding for those who are opposed to the covid restrictions. It proclaims that a progressive society prohibits donations to the cause of freedom. It proclaims that a progressive society restricts money which funds political activities protesting covid restrictions, and thus gags the speech which the red establishment opposes. It proclaims that a progressive society shuts down fundraising sites utilized to pay for the fuel, food and lodging of those protesting covid restrictions. It proclaims that a progressive society ceases the operations of crowdfunding sites which raise millions of dollars in support of health care freedom. It proclaims that a progressive society shuts down fundraising which seeks to end government covid mandates. It proclaims that a progressive society allows online fundraising for the movements the reds support, such as Black Lives Matter which promotes vandalism, violence, rioting and disruption in the name of black Aryan master race politics, and prohibits online fundraising for the movements the reds oppose, such as the movement to end covid vaccinations administered without people's consent. It proclaims that a progressive society deputizes the reds of Silicon Valley and the reds of Big Tech to prevent the online exchange of ideas and money in opposition to covid impositions and in support of constitutional rights. It proclaims that a progressive society is a government owned people's square which prohibits speech opposed to state aggression paraded in the name of health protection. It proclaims that a progressive society sanctions viewpoint discrimination and censors all opinions unpopular with the reds, such as those against vaccine certification and in support of health care choice. It proclaims that a progressive society is a government owned people's utility which denies the right of free speech to those opposed to public invasion of private spaces paraded in the name of disease prevention. It proclaims that a progressive society is a government owned people's carrier which has the power to exclude opinions opposed to human rights lockdowns paraded in the name of stopping the spread of covid. It proclaims that a progressive society is a dictatorship in the hands of social media giants which suppresses views opposed to the abrogation of individual liberty paraded in the name of protecting public safety. Look at the campaign of the reds and see freedom fighters cleared from the streets. See their protests broken up and dispersed. See them taken away and ordered to desist. See their vehicles seized and towed away. See judges issue orders authorizing official suppression. See police carry out the orders and fill the jails with a new class of dissidents: those prepared to do what it takes to ensure the survival and success of human liberty: "Police have cleared the remaining protesters blocking a key bridge between Canada and the United States, after a week of disruption. Canada's trucker protests against Covid vaccine certification to cross the border have paralyzed trade across the Ambassador Bridge in Windsor, Ontario. A judge issued an order on Friday to break up the protest, but dozens of demonstrators remained in defiance. Police have now cleared the road, though the bridge remains closed. In a statement, police said Sunday's action resulted in 'several arrests' on a charge of mischief--which refers to damage or interference with property. Multiple vehicles were also seized, police said. The clearing effort first began on Saturday morning, when many of the vehicles involved left peacefully on police orders. But as news of the police action spread, more protesters turned up, temporarily swelling the crowd. But by Sunday morning, only a few dozen people remained, and police resumed their operation. Within hours, only a small number of stragglers remained on the sidelines, though police vehicles, rather than protesters, continue to block off the road to the Ambassador Bridge." (Canada Bridge Protesters Cleared By Police After A Week Of Disruption, BBC News, February 13, 2022). In the twenty first century, the fields of the West have darkened as the sun sets and the light falls. In this end stage blackness, the shadows of the past hover and a landscape of ghosts appears. These ghosts are visitors from an ugly past when the armies of red suppression patrolled the streets. Wearing cloaks marked vaccine passports, mask requirements, social distancing rules, limitations on home visitors, crowdfunding shutdown, vehicle towaways and court orders to disperse, these armies have returned to lower the curtain on civilized society.

JOE BIDEN GREENLIGHTS GLOBAL CHAOS

Treason is the crime of attacking a state to which one owes allegiance. It includes such acts as participating in a war against the state, attempting to overthrow the state, spying on the state, attempting to assassinate the leaders of the state, and in some manner or other failing to act in the best interests of the state. Treason is both a crime of action and inaction, commission and omission, and on his palette of dark colors, the traitor has many ways to paint a picture of state destruction and many ways to stab his nation in the back. Students of history have seen a nation plunge into a nightmare, a nightmare blackened by the purest form of evil, a nightmare from which the nation has no chance or hope of escape, and a nightmare all the more nightmarish because it has dragged the entire world down into dissolution. They have seen something which they can scarcely look at, something which they can scarcely write about, something which they can scarcely communicate in any manner whatever without immobilizing and disabling themselves in fear and trembling. They have seen something which they hoped against hope and prayed against prayer they would never have to see, something they knew was destined to arrive as surely as the sun sets every evening and ushers in the night. They knew it was destined to arrive because the ineluctable downward trajectory of civilization placed it there, voted it into power, and made it the inescapable, unappealable voice of the fated end stage rulers of society, the voice of the masses and the majority. Students of history have seen the president of the United States, the commander in chief of the world's arsenal of liberty, the chief executive of the most powerful nation on earth and preeminent beacon for the downtrodden and the dispossessed, betray his nation and lead the world into total disorder. Their catalog of Joe Biden's foreign policy crimes is a list of items which paint a picture of one man's violent hatred of the liberal capitalist system and the determination of the masses, who installed this man into power by an election attested as fraudulent by depositions, affidavits and pages of public testimony produced from coast to coast, to smash it. Item. The world is on the brink of a crisis as

Russia deploys over 130,000 troops at Ukraine's borders and plans an invasion of the nation. Russia seeks to create a sphere of influence across Eastern Europe and to prohibit bordering nations from becoming members or allies of NATO. Joe Biden withdraws to the presidential retreat in Camp David. Item. Joe Biden renews the nuclear deal with Iran which Donald Trump canceled on the grounds that the deal's restrictions on Iran's nuclear program would end ten years after the deal was signed, and the deal did not restrict Iran's development of ballistic missiles or its support for violent militias in the Middle East, such as Hezbollah in Lebanon. The inadequacy of the agreement is described by Trump: "We cannot prevent an Iranian bomb under the decaying and rotten structure of the current agreement. Therefore, I am announcing today that the United States will withdraw from the Iran nuclear deal." (Statement by Donald Trump, May 8, 2018). Item. Joe Biden refuses to prevent Iran's allies, the Houthi rebels in Yemen, the Shia militia in Syria and Iraq, and Hezbollah in Lebanon, from conducting terror attacks in the Middle East. Item. Joe Biden decides not to defend the independence of Taiwan and prevent China from annexing a liberal democratic nation. Item. North Korea resumes testing of cruise missiles, intercontinental ballistics missiles and nuclear weapons and Joe Biden refuses to fight the nation. Item. Joe Biden surrenders to the Taliban via video link while ensconced in the presidential country retreat called Camp David in the Catoctin Mountains. He abdicates his responsibilities as president and refuses to deal with the onslaught of a caliphate in Afghanistan. He allows the armies of fear and control to seize power and brings forth a reign of terror: "As chaos reigns in Afghanistan following the Taliban seizure of Kabul on Sunday and Americans are left stranded, scrambling to find a way out of the new caliphate state, President Joe Biden finds himself in the throes of the biggest disaster of his first term—so far, at least. Biden is now left with his abysmally incorrect predictions about how much time the Kabul government could hold out ringing in the ears of the American public, and where has he been? Hanging out at Camp David, monitoring the situation via video chat as his administration officials were left to cope with the massive foreign policy crisis without their commander in chief. (As Biden Left DC Amid Afghanistan Disaster, Psaki Takes A Week Off As Well by Isa Cox). Item. Joe Biden hoists the yellow flag of weakness, ineptitude, confusion and surrender before the enemies of freedom. He withdraws American forces from Afghanistan and hands the scepter of leadership to the hordes of social regression. He makes deals with rogue states, projects a lack of strength and resolve as deep and wide as his lack of character and conscience, approves the global dominance of anti-Western powers, and fills the world with menace and danger: "Iran, China and Russia inevitably welcome opportunities to exploit America's incompetent, incoherent, and impotent global leadership exhibited by President Biden and top generals who masterminded the spectacularly disastrous US Afghanistan withdrawal as each of these key adversaries work together to establish regional hegemony ambitions. No clearer ongoing evidence of dangerously misguided foreign policy weakness exists than the Biden administration's feckless attempt to re-up America into the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA), more broadly known as the Iran nuclear deal, which President Donald Trump prudently terminated." (Biden Appeases Iran, Adds to Our Afghanistan Withdrawal Pains by Larry Bell). Item. Joe Biden gives his stamp of approval to the establishment of a new world antiorder. He opens the gates of civilization to an axis of violence and aggression. Its members are Iran, China and Russia and they seize the reins of power as they mock the man, the feckless man, the cowardly man, the treasonous man, who hands it to them. He appeases and negotiates with the sworn enemies of free institutions as he multiplies their stockpiles of terror. He allows missiles and bombs of radicalism and revolution to be launched which have rendered ancient lands morally radioactive. He lifts sanctions, penalties and measures against nations which disturb the peace and rewards them with treaties, deals and international recognition. He hosts movements which provide support and assistance up tyrannies and project psychopathic ferocity throughout the world. He overthrows arrangements for global security and nullifies laws for the just resolution of disputes. He sells out nations seeking to preserve their freedom and independence and emboldens projects, campaigns, annexations, regimes, naval bases, army garrisons, proxy wars and operational centers dedicated to resisting, withstanding and fighting against the march of progress and enlightenment: "Then there's also that broader Iran-China-Russia problem. As Mahmoud Abbaszadeh-Meshkini, a spokesman for the Iranian Parliament's National Security and Foreign Policy Committee, said on January 26: 'In the new world order, a triangle consisting of three powers—Iran, Russia, and China—has formed,' one that 'heralds the end of the inequitable hegemony of the United States and the West.' Speaking during January 21 Geneva meetings with Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov who proposed a weak interim deal to break the deadlock in the Iranian nuclear negotiations, Secretary Blinken urged, 'and we hope that Russia will use the influence it has with Iran to impress upon Iran that sense of urgency.' Lavrov's proposal would simply call upon Iran to reduce its stockpiles of enriched uranium in return for again lifting sanctions, allowing Tehran to continue generating fissile materials and expand proxy wars. As those discussions were occurring, Russia was holding joint naval drills with China and Iran in the Indian Ocean. The day before those meetings, President Vladimir Putin had hosted Iranian President Ebrahim Raisi in Moscow, who in a speech before the Duma, discussed Resistance--the movement Iran leads to destroy the US led order in the Middle East. Putin's current campaign to bring Ukraine under Moscow's control has a direct connection to the joint Russian-Iranian project of propping up the Assad regime in Syria, where Russia's naval base in Tartus serves—along with one in Sevastopol, Crimea (which Mr. Putin annexed from Ukraine in 2014), serve as important operational hubs for Russia Mediterranean presence. A strong, independent Ukraine threatens Moscow's ability to project power into the Middle East." (Biden Appeases Iran, Adds to Our Afghanistan Withdrawal Pains by Larry Bell). Eventide at the sea. Dark waves roll in and crash onto the shore. A man is fleeing from a house raging with nuclear fire. If he turns around and looks back, he will be scorched, poisoned and burned to ashes. This house is America and its conflagration has been ignited by the commissions and omissions of Joe Biden. The man does not look back but runs into the enveloping waves, happy to die a peaceful death.

RED AMERICA BURNS THE FLAG

In 1938 the United States House of Representatives established the House Committee on UnAmerican Activities to investigate subversive activities on the part of private citizens, public officials and organizations suspected of promoting communism. The committee had a long and distinguished career exposing the red enemies of the nation and the capitalist system guaranteed by its constitution, and the committee's records comprise a veritable Who's Who and cross section of those who wielded power and influence in American society. Students of history have in the present day convened a committee modeled after the renowned House committee in order to confront a clear and present danger which has arisen in the nation. They have convened a committee to expose the fearsome and terrifying face of America, a face which breathes the fires of revolution, and has burned its traditions, institutions and ideals to ashes. They have convened a committee to reveal the inevitable, ineluctable end stage development of democracy, a final chapter which has seen the empowerment of those who reject the rights of the individual and worship at the altars of tribes. They have convened a committee to lay bare the program and manifesto of the new red majority which has seized control over the state and society and brought forth a whirlwind of hatred and violence and swept away the last, dying remnants of civilization. This program proclaims that those who claim that the presidential election of 2020 was fraudulent are peddlers of lies, legends, fabricated conspiracies and defamatory narratives. They are avatars of war and terror and subverters of trust in government. They are spearheads of violence and agitators for insurrection, and must be silenced and punished to the fullest extent of the law: "The United States remains in a heightened threat environment fueled by several factors, including an online environment filled with false or misleading narratives and conspiracy theories, and other forms of mis, dis and mal information (MDM) introduced and/or amplified by foreign and domestic threat actors. These threat actors seek to exacerbate societal friction to sow discord and undermine public trust in government institutions to encourage unrest, which could potentially inspire acts of violence." (National Terrorism Advisory System Bulletin, February 7, 2022). Students of history have studied the election of 2020 and seen an attack on election integrity without precedent in the history of the nation. They have seen political operatives make multiple drops of ballot stacks at ballot drop boxes under the cover of darkness. They have seen this ballot box stuffing widespread in five states which determined the outcome of the election: Arizona, Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Georgia. The program of the red majority in charge of America today proclaims that those who are opposed to mask mandates and compulsory vaccinations are domestic terrorists and must be watched, questioned, arrested and imprisoned. It proclaims that parents who are opposed to the indoctrination of their children with the tenets of critical race theory are guilty of harassment, intimidation, violence and terror and must be suppressed. According to critical race theory, progressive social theory provides a negative assessment of modern civilization, and is anticapitalist theory and antiwhite theory, and promotes the establishment of black communist power. White people are inherently racist and must be deprived of their basic rights and liberties. A progressive society exposes whites as racist, bigoted oppressors of blacks and demands intolerance toward them. A progressive society focuses on racial identity and rejects shared, universal attributes and values. A progressive society promotes violence against whites in the name of social justice. A progressive university is a black education university and teaches black sociology, black humanities, black social sciences, black literary theory and advocates political power for blacks and blacks alone. A progressive society promotes racism against whites in the name of antiracism. A progressive society mandates the selection of work forces and student bodies on the basis of race and the exclusion of whites in the name of achieving diversity and inclusion. A progressive society mandates the establishment of policies which take race into account and mandates a regime of discrimination against whites in order to achieve equity. A progressive society affirms that discrimination against whites creates fairness and is the only way to combat racism. A progressive society demands that the outcomes of selection procedures result in proportional representation of blacks. A progressive society demands that hiring and admissions procedures be informed by racial objectives and consider race as a plus factor. A progressive society rejects Enlightenment rationalism and liberalism. A progressive society is a postEnlightenment society which rejects objective knowledge, individual merit, constitutional rights and the equality of all before the law. A progressive society prohibits all opinions which run contrary to the principles of tribal, multiracial and intersectional politics. A progressive society affirms that standing up for freedom is a symptom of reactionary politics and must be swept away by a revolution of gender, race and class politics. A progressive society affirms that white males are the enemies of a just society and must be exterminated by intersectional death squads comprised of women and blacks. A progressive society is ruled by Black Lives Matter radicals who vandalize and tear down statues of the heroes of Western civilization. A progressive society forces its charities, museums and educational institutions to adopt far left slogans, shibboleths and agendas. A progressive university forces its social science and natural science faculties to renounce the pursuit of truth and knowledge in favor of partisan political activism. A progressive society forces its civil service to study texts which condemn capitalism as a system of white privilege. A progressive society forces its government officials to undergo unconscious bias training and attend indoctrination lessons which show that whites are ineradicably and unconsciously racist. A progressive university has decolonized the teaching of mathematics by rejecting the Western imperialist notions of certainty and objectivity. A progressive high school conducts activist training sessions for teachers to make them aware that capitalism is a system of white supremacy and racist colonialism. A progressive primary school conducts sessions in racial literacy in order to make them aware that white children as young as infants are not racially innocent but are virulently racist and are the voices of white power. A progressive society is a social media mob which cancels all those who reject far left prescriptions and who defend the values of a free society. Look at the state of America today and see a nation which does not protect or care for freedom. See a nation which has rendered Independence Day a dead letter and opened its gates to far left oppression. See a nation which rejects capitalist economics and freedom of choice and worships at the altars of state direction. See a nation which has shredded its constitution, beheaded its patriots for freedom, silenced its cries of liberty, tortured its upholders of free speech, intimidated those who celebrate the principles of its founding, and brought down the final scene, section and segment in the story of the nation, marked treason: "What's going on in America? When did we start supporting dictators like Justin Trudeau? Americans used to cherish freedom. We celebrate it every July 4th—Independence Day, that day in 1776 when the founders declared their independence from England, their freedom from tyranny. President Ronald Reagan used to joke that Republicans celebrate the July Fourth, while Democrats celebrate April Fifteenth, tax day. That joke is becoming real. Our economy is centered on capitalism, which is based on freedom of choice, where businesses attract customers by making their products better, flashier, less expensive than those of their competitors. Do you like Coke, Pepsi, or RC Cola? Or maybe an off brand that's cheaper but just as good? Near the end of the movie Braveheart, which depicts the story of the thirteenth century Scottish patriot Sir William Wallace, an English court finds Wallace guilty of high treason and sentences him to public torture and beheading. In the middle of his sentence being carried out, the magistrate offers Wallace a quick death if he asks for mercy. Instead he cries out freedom! in a voice that's heard throughout London. It wouldn't hurt each of us to watch Braveheart again, and during that final scene, maybe realize, as we wipe the tears from our eyes, that freedom isn't just a word—it's a principle, an ideal worth fighting for—and worth dying for." (Freedom Still A Principle Worth Fighting, Dying For by Michael Dorstewitz). Flag desecration is the act of intentionally destroying, damaging or mutilating a nation's flag in public. It is intended to make a political point against a nation's principles and policies and in many nations it is a criminal offense.

In America in the present day, flag desecration is mandatory and the flames ignited by its new race and gender politics have engulfed the nation.

REDS ROLL THROUGH CANADA

On August 24, 1812, a British force led by Major General Robert Ross marched on Washington and set fire to the White House and Capital Building. In retaliation for America's acts of destruction committed in Upper Canada the year before in which American forces had burned the parliament buildings in the capital York and burned public buildings in Port Dover, the fires set in Washington engulfed the capital in a hurricane of flames without precedent in the nation's history and made the survival of American liberty hang in the balance. Students of history have seen in the conflagration which swept over Washington two centuries ago a portrait of a present day fire. Raging north of the American border, it is a moral and political fire set by the red majority ruling over Canada and has extinguished the flames of liberty as surely as the fires set during the War of 1812 reduced Washington to smoke and ashes. Students of history have seen in the invocation of the Emergencies Act, the first time since its passage in 1988, the ignition of a tyranny which has at once turned a page in the history of the nation as it has composed the final chapter of its story. Students of history have seen the final chapter marked totalitarian government and seen it as the culmination of a development which commenced at the dawn of the twentieth century. They have seen totalitarian government as the inevitable end stage development of the democratic system and the mass culture which supports it and votes it into power, and have seen in the invocation of the Emergencies Act the onset of a combustion which has blackened beyond recognition the free institutions of Canada for all time to come. Under attack for over a century before the onslaughts of the welfare state, the fearsome codes of political correctness and the far left politics of gender, race and class, Canada's free institutions have gone up in blazes with the invocation of the Emergencies Act and been hurled into the dustbin of Canadian history. Located one thousand kilometers north of Washington DC, the Washington which succumbed to a raging inferno ignited by the British two centuries before, Ottawa has become the capital of a system of government new for Canada, a system demanding total subservience to the state and society, and has become the national disseminating tower of a program and manifesto of the final phase of a terminal sickness called mass democracy. Enacted, applauded and given a standing ovation by the Canadian people, by the red neighbors next door who control every city and suburb in the nation, this program proclaims that a progressive society cracks down on the right of free speech in the name of eliminating criticism of covid restrictions. It proclaims that a progressive society has rescinded freedom of association in the name of eliminating street protests against covid restrictions. It proclaims that a progressive society has eliminated the right of civil disobedience in the name of protecting covid restrictions. It proclaims that a progressive society prohibits blockades against covid restrictions on the grounds that they threaten the sovereignty, security and territorial integrity of Canada. It proclaims that a progressive society prohibits the right of opponents of covid restrictions to travel freely. It proclaims that a progressive society prohibits the right of opponents of covid restriction to publicly assemble. It proclaims that a progressive society conducts mass arrests of opponents of covid restrictions. It proclaims that a progressive society blocks financial donations to opponents of covid restrictions. It proclaims that a progressive society freezes the bank accounts of opponents of covid restrictions. It proclaims that a progressive society conducts mass police surveillance of opponents of covid restrictions. It proclaims that a progressive society affirms that opponents of covid restrictions are demons, racists and insurrectionists who must be deprived of all their rights and liberties. It proclaims that a progressive society affirms that what people say is far more important than their right to say it and people have no right to criticize covid restrictions. It proclaims that a progressive society shuts down marchers and truckers who protest against covid restrictions. It proclaims that a progressive society affirms that the protection of forms of protest is dependent upon the content of the message and there is no right to disseminate messages opposed to covid restrictions. It proclaims that a progressive society affirms that people opposed to covid restrictions are guilty of intimidation, harassment and expressions of hate and must be jailed for life. It proclaims that a progressive society affirms that people opposed to covid restrictions are the voices of terror and have no right of dissent. Look at the campaign of Canada's reds and see a far left government ruling unconstitutionally and ruling out of control. See a crackdown on the voices of liberty without precedent in the history of the nation. See the aspiration for freedom condemned as undesirable, immoral and illegal. See convoys for freedom deprived of their money, their vehicles, their careers and their means of securing the necessities of life. See police forces mounted on the horses of the apocalypse riding roughshod over the rights of the people. See law enforcement agencies weaponized to arrest the nation's constitution and its body of fundamental principles. See the bank accounts of freedom fighters frozen and the voices which protest money funds crushed with the sledgehammer of the Emergencies Act. See people arrested for obstructing the expressways of state intimidation. See people jailed for disrupting the operations of state suppression. See extremists for the cause of liberty expelled from the ranks of the citizenry. See the government stage an illegal occupation of free lands and take away those opposed to its covid mandates and restrictions. See the nation's financial system, its banks, investment firms, credit unions, loan companies, securities dealers, fundraising platforms, cryptowallets, and payment and clearing services, placed under state possession and control and ordered to inform on the marchers, protesters and demonstrators for freedom. See the nation's spy services and intelligence agencies set up a regime of mass surveillance, gather information on dissidents who oppose the official policies of an authoritarian state, and lower the curtain on two centuries of Canadian freedom in the name of national security and the protection of public health: "Under the Emergencies Act invoked by this week by Trudeau, law enforcement officials have the ability to arrest people for obstruction of roadways and disruptive behavior within a no go exclusion zone. They also have the power to seize vehicles and freeze the same bank accounts. Conservatives were quick to accuse Trudeau of embracing to emergency powers and of freezing bank accounts without evidence of extremist activity. 'Throughout the last three weeks, the prime minister has failed to take meaningful action to deescalate the protest here or use any tools that he may have available,' Conservative Leader Candice Bergen said. 'Instead, he has jumped straight to the most extreme measure.' Trudeau, who has called the protests against a covid mandate for truckers and other restrictions an 'illegal occupation', reportedly resorted to the emergency powers following a second weekend of protests. Bloomberg outlined exactly how the banks will cooperate with the government: 'The emergency orders require virtually every participant in the Canadian financial system—banks, investment firms, credit unions, loan companies, securities dealers, fundraising platforms and payment and clearing services—to determine whether they possess or control property of a person who's attending an illegal protest or providing supplies to demonstrators. If they find such a person in their customer list, they must freeze their accounts and report it to the RCMP or Canada's intelligence service, the regulations say. Any suspicious transactions must also be reported to the country's antimoney laundering agency, known as Fintrac." (Canada Police To Send Names Of Trucker Protesters To Financial Institutions by Simon Kent). Civilized nations rally around slogans which define their character and essence and inspire their citizen to defend them. In America the slogan is Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness. In Canada the slogan is Peace, Order and Good Government. These slogans express the same truths and point to the same aspirations. As the leaders of Canada's Freedom Convoy were arrested and led away by the police, they proclaimed that "freedom is not for free" and they were ready and unafraid to go to jail to preserve the liberal peace, the liberal order, the liberal goodness and the liberal government which christened Canada at the moment of its conception. They understood that freedom must be paid for by the fearless actions of those prepared to fight and die for it. Those who stood alongside them were a vanishing minority of patriotic citizens who watched helplessly as the forces of national treason swept through the country.

REDS REVIVE RACE POLITICS

Clouds hover above the city and float above the assembled masses below. A cruciform shadow of the Fuhrer's plane passes over figures marching on the ground. An orchestral arrangement of the Horst Wessel Song fills the air. Upon landing, Adolf Hitler is greeted with thunderous applause from a cheering crowd. These are the opening scenes of the greatest propaganda film of all time, which won its creator a German Film Prize, a gold medal at the 1935 Venice Biennale and the Grand Prize at the 1937 World Exhibition in Paris. Praised by Hitler as an "incomparable glorification of the power and beauty of our movement", Leni Riefenstahl's Triumph Of The Will is seen by students of history as something more monstrous and ugly than the popular and usual description of its theme. It is seen as something as prescient and prophetic as it is fearsome and terrifying, and as a signpost planted by the Grim Reaper pointing insistently downward into the dissolution of civilization. It is seen not simply as portraying the return of Germany as a great power, but in addition the return of race politics to the West, and the revival of a Third Reich type regime championing the black will to power in place of Aryan supremacy, and advocating the overthrow of five centuries of Enlightenment liberalism in the West. It is seen as a cinematic unfolding of a second neoMarxist revolution to hit the world, a second movement of the type which animated Hitler's Germany, and now exalting a different race, a different color and a different ethnicity, while promoting the same morality of violence and aggression committed in the name a tribe. The world as seen through the camera of Riefenstahl's masterpiece, through the victory salutes of national socialist race theory and through the academic rantings of Marxist identity politics is a world of social regression into the nameless eons of paleolithic existence in which liberal order was as inconceivable and unimaginable as it was light years away in time and space. It is a world divided into racial mobs, racial gangs, racial states and racial leadership structures which has thundered out a program and manifesto composed in the depths of hatred demanding the rejection of everything righteous which civilized people have achieved over the past two thousand years. Chiseled by Satan on the tombstone of the West, this program proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal principle of equal security for all and is a regime of identity based security. It proclaims that a progressive society is a dark, roiling amphitheater in which races confront each other and fight to protect their power and interests. It proclaims that a progressive society establishes separate neighborhoods, separate schools and separate trade networks for different races. It proclaims that a progressive society is ruled by racial mafia leaders who fight for the supremacy of their group. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal ideal of racial integration and enforces strict racial segregation in every sphere of activity. It proclaims that the highest reality is the reality of race and the highest morality is bloody combat on behalf of one's race. It proclaims that progressive hospitals and care facilities establish separate intakes, amenities, room assignments and medical treatment based on race. It proclaims that a progressive society prohibits racial groups from cooperating and transacting business together. It proclaims that a progressive society prohibits interracial friendships, cohabitations, marriages and families. It proclaims that a progressive society subsumes individuals into their racial groups, makes enmity between races mandatory, and racial violence, retaliation and revenge an acceptable way of life. It proclaims that there exist no individuals, no real, flesh and blood people, but only identity based expressions of the will to power. It proclaims that the highest religion is racist religion and the highest ideology is racist ideology. It proclaims that the only legitimate system of ideas and ideals affirms the primacy of race in all economic and political affairs. It proclaims that the highest form of logic is racist logic which affirms that the law of noncontradiction is a product of white logic and does not apply to any other races. It proclaims that whites form a class of racist, bigoted oppressors and must be eradicated in a black campaign to settle scores. It proclaims that the only way for blacks to achieve true meaning and identity is to gain collective power and smash the ramparts of liberal democracy. It proclaims that a progressive school system entrenches racial prejudice in its courses of study and teaches the tenets of critical race theory. According to this theory, progressive social theory is critical of Enlightenment values and institutions and is racist theory which champions the black will to power. A progressive society is a black power society which has swept away liberal ideas and constitutional republics. White racism is an intrinsic part of everyday life and white people are racist and bigoted down to their DNA. A progressive society discriminates against white people in order to achieve fairness and equity. A progressive society rejects the principle of meritocracy and seeks to achieve diversity and inclusion in its student bodies and workforces by giving preferential treatment to blacks. A progressive society mandates the manipulation of employee and student selection processes in order to ensure that blacks achieve proportional representation. A progressive society trains its lawyers, teachers, policymakers and the general public to take race into account in all dealings, transactions and admissions decisions and to exhibit blatant favoritism toward blacks. A progressive society rejects the principles of individualism and colorblindness, establishes a regime of collective power based on racial identity, and excludes whites from participation in public life and from the enjoyment of freedom. A progressive school system entrenches racism in its curriculum, segregates teachers and students on the basis of race for training sessions, classroom exercises, field trips and playground activities, establishes separate but unequal facilities for blacks and whites, and denies to whites a proper education. A progressive society decolonizes the land by seizing it from whites and places the spoils of racist seizure into the hands of blacks. A progressive society is an affirmative action society which judges people on the basis of their race and not their personal attributes, ensures equal outcomes for blacks and whites, and makes blackness a plus factor and a determinative factor in achievement and success. A progressive society is a Black Panther society and a Black Lives Matter society which establishes racial collectivism, totalitarian government and a holocaust against whites. Look at the campaigns of today's reds and see public schools and teachers' unions placed in the service of a racial revolution. See school teachers transformed into race agitators and sent on a mission of race indoctrination. See classrooms and school districts across the world flutter with the swastika banners of a new religion called critical race theory. See parent organizations, think tanks and research institutions forced into totalitarian lockstep and purged of the voices of dissent from this new religion. See race activists, race commentators, race editorialists and experts in the methods and tactics of promoting and spreading racism join together and advance into every corner of society, hoist the flag of black fascism and black communism, endorse the politics of force and violence, and place a final, irremovable nail into the coffin of Western civilization: "On June 30, members of the National Education Association, the nation's largest teachers' union, voted to approve a plan to promote critical race theory in all 50 states. Union delegates representing three million public school employees approved funding for three separate items related to 'increasing the implementation' of 'critical race theory' in K-12 curricula; promoting critical race theory in 14,000 local school districts; and attacking opponents of critical race theory, including parent organizations and conservative research centers. The public vote represents a significant strategic pivot. For the past month, many pundits and activists have insisted that critical race theory is not taught in K-12 schools. This was always a bad faith claim; the ideology has made inroads in public schools for more than a decade. But the NEA's official endorsement puts the final nail in the coffin of this rhetorical dodge." (Going All In: The NEA Pledges To Bring Critical Race Theory To A Public School Near You by Christopher Rufo). Cancer cells are abnormal cells which divide continuously, spread throughout the body and form lethal tumors. In the nineteenth century, a cancerous ideological cell appeared in Europe promoting class tribalism and a class dialectic. Over the past one hundred years, this cancer of Marxism has divided, multiplied and mutated, and in the present day, a neoMarxist cancer of racial tribalism, racial dialectic and black power politics has invaded and spread across the West.

THE WEST SURRENDERS UKRAINE

In cinematography, a take is a scene photographed continuously at one time. Takes are numbered starting with take one, and the numbering is increased until the filming of the scene is completed to the satisfaction of the director. Students of history have observed in the notion of film scenes, sequences and takes a useful guide to understanding the downward trajectory of the West over the past one hundred years. They have observed history repeat itself and Satan order a retake of a certain scene for his sadistic pleasure and enjoyment. They have observed the following scene, as monstrous and ugly as it was fearsome and terrifying, retaken in the present hour. In 1939, at the start of World War II, the West gave a promise to Poland that it would defend its freedom and independence against acts of aggression. At the end of the war, the West prohibited the free Polish army from marching in the victory parade. At the end of the war, the West surrendered Poland to a Soviet puppet regime in Lublin. At the end of the war, Poland commenced a humiliating forty five year period as a colony of the Soviet Union, without freedom, without independence and without dignity of any kind. In the twenty first century, Satan ordered a retake of this melancholy scene. In this retake, the names and characters have changed but the theme of surrender and betrayal remain the same. In 1994, the West signed the Budapest Memorandum in which it promised Ukraine that it would defend its sovereignty and territorial integrity against acts of aggression. In 2014, Russian annexed Crimea, violated the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Ukraine, and the West did not go to war. In March 2021, Russia massed thousands of military personnel and pieces of military hardware at its border with Ukraine and in annexed Crimea. The West did not go to war. In April, satellite imagery showed Russian movements of armor, missiles, and heavy weaponry near Ukraine. The West did not go to war. In December, over 100,000 Russian troops surrounded Ukraine on three sides. The West did not go to war. In December, Russia demanded the NATO reject any offer by Ukraine to join the organization and demanded that NATO reduce its troops and military hardware in Eastern Europe. The West did not go to war. In January 2022, the Security Service of Ukraine arrested a Russian military agent who was recruiting operatives to conduct attacks against Odessa. The West did not go to war. In January, Russian hackers staged cyberattacks against Ukrainian ministries and disabled the ministries' websites. The West did not go to war. In January, Russian special services staged provocations against Russian soldiers stationed in Moldova as a pretext for a Russian invasion of Ukraine. The West did not go to war. In January, Russia deployed saboteurs to eastern Ukraine to stage an attack against Russian proxy forces as a pretext for an invasion of Ukraine. The West did not go to war. In January, Russia prepared plans to overthrow the Ukrainian government by military force and install a pro-Russian puppet regime. The West did not go to war. In February 2022, Russia recognized the two breakaway regions of Ukraine, Donetsk People's Republic and Luhansk People's Republic, as independent states and deployed troops masquerading as peacemakers to Donbas, thereby violating the 2014 Minsk Protocol it signed which established a ceasefire. The West did not go to war. In February, Russian President Vladimir Putin rewrote history and stated in an address to the Russian people that "modern Ukraine was entirely created by Russia, more precisely, by Bolshevik, communist Russia." The West did not go to war. In February, Putin stated that "If the West decides to take back Crimea using military means, European countries will automatically be in a military conflict with Russia." The West did not go to war. In February, Ukraine President Volodymyr Zelensky condemned the West's policy of appeasement toward Russia and called on the West to help. The West did not go to war. In February, the Orthodox Church of Ukraine exposed the threat of Russian aggression and the determination of a free people to resist it: "We have all heard and know about the challenges facing Ukraine in the face of the threat from Russia. This threat should not be underestimated, and therefore we, as a nation, must be ready to repel the enemy, if he still dares, violating the laws of God and man, to increase its crimes by engaging in open war." The West did not go to war. In February, Ukraine's foreign ministry told its citizens to leave Russia, stating that "the escalating Russia aggression against Ukraine will limit consular assistance." The West did not go to war. In February, Ukraine announced that it was calling up army reservists, officers and privates, aged 18 to 60, for one year. The West did not go to war. In February, rebel separatist leader Denis Pushilin stated that military mobilization was accelerating in order to counter Ukraine's attempt to retake its own territory, which attempt he labeled an act of aggression, and stated that he would request military assistance from Russia. The West did not go to war. In February, Russia announced that it had evacuated 93,000 citizens from Ukraine, evacuated its embassy in Kyiv and lowered its flag there. The West did not go to war. In February, Vladimir Putin stated that Russian speaking residents in the Donbas region of eastern Ukraine have been subjected to genocide. In point of fact, the 15,000 people killed in eastern Ukraine between 2014, when Russian backed rebels seized the east, and 2022, when Russian forces invaded the east, included Ukrainian military personnel, members of various armed groups of all ethnicities, and civilians of all ethnicities from across Ukraine. The West

did not go to war. In February, satellite imagery revealed new deployments of troops and equipment in western Russia and the deployment of over one hundred military vehicles at an airfield in Belarus, near the border of Ukraine. The West did not go to war. Beginning in 2014, the West has flown the white flag of surrender in the face of Russian aggression. Russian invasion of eastern Ukraine; Russian colonization of Crimea; Russian instigation of a war in Donbas which has intensified by the second; Russian arming of paramilitaries to defeat the Ukrainian military; Russian declaration that Donetsk and Luhansk are independent states; Russian placement of soldiers in these breakaway territories, soldiers of imperialism masquerading as soldiers of peace, in order to give them military assistance to overthrow the Ukrainian government: these flagrant violations of a legitimate nation's borders have been met by an equally flagrant refusal by the West to honor its founding principles and uphold the rule of law and morality throughout the world. Students of history are apprised of the following facts. Ukraine was founded as an independent state in 1648 by Bohdan Khmelnytsky, a Ukrainian Cossack and military commander who led the native commoners and townspeople in an uprising against the ruling Kingdom of Poland, and was hailed as a liberator of the people from Polish captivity. In 1654, he betrayed the Ukrainian people by concluding the Treaty of Pereyslav with the Russian czar, which placed Ukraine under Russian control. In the aftermath of the first Russian Revolution in February 1917 which overthrew Czar Nicholas II, a Ukrainian movement for self determination emerged. In June 1917, the Ukrainian People's Republic was declared and was recognized by governments throughout the world, including the anticzarist and anticommunist Russian Provisional Government headed by Alexander Kerensky. After the communists seized power in the second Russian Revolution in November 1917, Russia withdrew recognition of Ukraine as an independent state and set up the Ukrainian Socialist Republic, and the new satellite state would become a founding member of the Soviet Union. In 1991 after the dissolution of the Soviet Union, Ukraine regained its independence. In the 2022, Satan turned back the wheel of history and retook the scene of surrender staged in World War II. He replaced the communist sympathizing, welfare state reds, Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill, with the reds in charge of America and Europe today, led by President Joe Biden. He changed the sacrificial victim from Poland to Ukraine. He repackaged the surrender of the West, took it out of a box labeled the Yalta Treaty, which granted international recognition to the communist Provisional Government of the Republic of Poland, and placed it into a new box labeled public shaming, economic sanctions and pipeline shutdowns. The same surrender, the same capitulation, the same nonresistance, the same unwillingness to employ the only language which the enemy understands, the language of force, the same refusal to go to war, reshot, retaken and rephotographed, in the final seconds of the West.

DEMOCRATS FORM PARAMILITARY WING

In economics, vertical integration is an arrangement in which the supply chain of a company is owned by the company. Each member of the supply chain produces a different product or service, and the products or services combine to advance a common interest. The most famous example of vertical integration was the Carnegie Steel Corporation. It controlled the mills where the steel was made, the mines where the iron ore was extracted, the coal mines which supplied the coal, the ships which transported the iron ore, the railroads which transported the coal to the factory, and the ovens in which the coal was coked. Students of history have seen something which has shaken them to the core. They have seen something which has shocked them to the depths of their being. They have never read or heard anything like this occur in the world's fortress of freedom. They have seen an instance of vertical integration occur in the realm of politics, occur in America, which has scrawled the death of freedom on the walls of the nation's destiny and portended the demise of freedom throughout the West. They have seen an instance of political integration which will smash the cause of freedom in the world's arsenal of freedom and cause free nations to fall sequentially, to fall in a line, to fall like dominoes, until freedom is swept into the dustbin of history, and mutates into a lifeless, ghostly memory, and the West descends into the darkness of red totalitarian tyranny. They have seen America's premier communist political party take over the nation's premier terror organization in a plan to give the former a paramilitary fighting force which will place free institutions under physical attack and open physical fire on the rule of law. They have seen the Democrat Party take over Black Lives Matter and declare physical war, shelling war and bombing war against America. They have seen Marc Elias, a top Democrat Party operative, represent Black Lives Matter through his law firm. They have seen Minyon Moore, a top Democrat Party operative, join the Black Lives Matter board of directors. They have seen Black Lives Matter state its address as "c/o Elias Law Group." They have seen Black Lives Matter place its financial management into the hands of this group: "BLM's books are in the care of the organization located at c/o Elias Law Group." They have seen Black Lives become a Democrat Party political organization: "The latest filing's addition of partisan lawyer Marc Elias confirms the group is more political than charitable." (Scott Walter, Washington Examiner). The Democrats' new armed formation embraces Marxism down to its roots: "Myself and Alicia [Patrisse Cullors and Alicia Garza] in particular are trained organizers. We are trained Marxists. We are superserved on ideological theories." The program of Black Lives Matter is the program of a neoMarxist black Hitler movement, an intersectional movement of national Bolsheviks and black communists, which has placed Enlightenment liberalism in its crosshairs and pulled the trigger. This program proclaims that black lives matter and the lives of no others matter. It proclaims that those who are opposed to violent riots in the name of black power are racists. It proclaims that a progressive society promotes murder, arson and property destruction in the name of black civil rights. It proclaims that a progressive society allows Black Lives Matters flags to fly from buildings and no other flags. It proclaims that a progressive society is a summer, autumn, winter and springtime of rage and revolution blasted out from the barrels of black nationalism. It proclaims that a progressive society sanctions violence against whites in the name of racial justice. It proclaims that Donald Trump should have been convicted in the United States Senate of leading an insurrection against a government which certified a presidential election attested as fraudulent by thousands of pages of public testimony, sworn affidavits, photographic records, video files and digital analyses: "We are joining Representative Ilhan Omar, Representative Ayanna Pressley, Representative Cori Bush, Representative Jamaal Bowman, and others who are demanding Trump be immediately convicted in the United States Senate. Trump must also be banned from holding elected office in the future." (BlackLivesMatter.com). It proclaims that members of Congress who sought to overturn an election attested as fraudulent by thousands of pages of public testimony, sworn affidavits, photographic records, video files and digital analyses should be immediately expelled from office and prevented from ever running again. These members should be expelled on the grounds that champions of election integrity are public dangers, scourges of white supremacy, purveyors of unproven conspiracy theories, and traitors to the cause of black liberation: "More than half the Republican representatives and multiple senators stoked Trump's conspiracy theories and encouraged the white supremacists to take action to overturn the election. We are supporting Representative Cori Bush's resolution to expel them from Congress for their dangerous and traitorous actions. We also support steps to bar them from seeking another office." (BlackLivesMatter.com). The program of Black Lives Matter proclaims that those who sought to disrupt a political process attested as fraudulent by thousands of pages of public testimony, sworn affidavits, photographic records, video files and digital analyses, the process which certified Joe Biden as the winner of the 2020 presidential election, must be immediately arrested and thrown into jail. These protesters are evil and malignant; they are persecutors masquerading as police officers and wear the badges of white supremacy; and they are hate filled mobs seeking to protect and preserve the rule of free and fair elections which benefits only whites and never blacks: "The Capitol was able to be breached and overrun by white supremacists attempting to disrupt a political process that is fundamental to our democracy. We know that police departments have been a safe haven for white supremacists to hide malintent behind a badge, because the badge was created for that purpose. We also know off duty cops and military were among the mob at the Capitol on January 6th. Guilty parties need to be held accountable and fired. We are supporting Representative Jamaal Bowman's COUP Act to investigate these connections." (BlackLivesMatter.com). The program of Black Lives Matter proclaims that a progressive society is a network of black terror which has branches in every nation in the world. It proclaims that a progressive society organizes, builds and expands black power and wields the cudgels of black violence against states and communities. It proclaims that capitalism is a system whose primary aim and mission is to enslave, oppress and kill blacks. It proclaims that a progressive society sanctions the murder of whites in the name of black humanity. It proclaims that a progressive society has overthrown liberal democracy in the name of black liberation. It proclaims that a progressive society is ruled by gangs of black hoodlums, without moral or legal authority of any kind, who have appointed themselves lords and masters over whites. It proclaims that a progressive society is an intersectional movement of black, female, homosexual, transgender communists, leading and organizing the denizens of the sewers and cesspools, and working together to smash the ramparts of Western civilization. The Democrat Party has declared war on America. Its leader, Joe Biden, became president in an election which was stolen in the middle of the night. An election stolen by machine configurations. An election stolen by computer settings. An election stolen by misappropriated mail in ballots. An election stolen by fraudulent mail in ballots. An election stolen by false and fake ballot paper. An election stolen by multiple scans of the same ballot. An election stolen by ballots far exceeding the number of registered voters. An election which the Arizona State Senate hearings found in July 2021 was marked by blatant fraud in the state. The Democrat Party whose leader withdrew American forces from Afghanistan in a humiliating, disorderly retreat. The party which supported calls to defund, dismantle, disable and demoralize the police and produced a surge in violent crime without precedent in the nation's history. The party which created stimulus money by the trillions and produced an inflation rate of ten percent not seen in forty years, driving up the price of food and clothing. The party whose public spending on socialist programs produced a record breaking national deficit of 30 trillion dollars, far exceeding the nation's GDP. The party whose leader failed to defend the nation's borders and allowed two million migrants from across the world to pour in from Mexico. The party which mandated that student bodies be chosen, not on the basis of academic performance, but to reflect the ethnic and racial composition of the communities they serve. The party which mandated that blacks receive preferential treatment in all admissions and hiring decisions in the name of racial equity. The party which proclaimed that "parents should not tell schools what they should teach" and instead red ideologues and race agitators should tell schools what they should teach. The party which advocated purging the names of the presidents on Mount Rushmore, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt, on the grounds that they represent the white racist capitalist system and march of the Enlightenment. The party which mandated that every sector of society, from schoolchildren to corporate executives, be indoctrinated with the tenets of critical race theory. These tenets state that legitimate social theory is critical of capitalism and white people, and affirms that whites are the born oppressors of blacks and must be eradicated, along with capitalism, in a revolution of black communist power. In the twenty first century, something unprecedented has occurred in America. What has occurred has an ignominious history in Europe. The Communist Party of Germany organized its Antifa, the German National Socialist Party organized its Sturmabteilung and Schutzstaffel, and the Irish Sinn Fein, the Workers' Party of Ireland, the communist political party in the nation, had its Irish Republican Army. In the twenty first century, during America's final seconds, the Democratic Party has taken ownership and control over Black Lives Matter in an armed campaign to eliminate freedom in the nation.

RUSSIA INVADES THE WEST

A definition is the statement of the meaning of a thing. There are two types of definitions: intensional definitions and extensional definitions. The former type gives meaning by specifying the properties of the thing, while latter gives meaning by listing the actual things which the definition describes. For example, the intensional definition of water would be a colorless, transparent, odorless liquid which is a compound of hydrogen and oxygen, while the extensional definition of water would list examples of water, such as the Nile River and the Atlantic Ocean. Students of history have observed in the extensional definition of the word invasion a special list of instances which provides supreme examples and embodiments of the term. It provides the distilled quintessences of invasion and to point to it is to know directly, immediately, blindingly and beyond the shadow of a doubt what an invasion is. Students of history have hesitated to study these special instances lest they collapse into fear, trembling and total petrification, and have braced themselves, prepared themselves and gotten ready for a nightmare which has taken its place as the perfection and exemplar of this term, as a synonym of synonyms occupying the lead entry in a dictionary detailing the decline and fall of the West. Students of history have seen an extensional definition of the word invasion and seen a list whose items form a timeline, a chronology, a recital and an indictment of the loss of power and strength of a civilization taken over by the reds and descending into its final seconds. Their list is as complete as it is terrifying and has composed a story of defeat and surrender of five centuries of Enlightenment order and the collapse of the free world into moral bankruptcy. In 1994, Ukraine agreed to abandon its nuclear arsenal on condition that Russia and the West promise to respect its territorial integrity and political independence. This promise was stated in the Budapest Memorandum on Security Assurances. In 1999, Russia and the West signed the Charter for European Security, which reaffirmed "the inherent right of each and every participating state to be free to choose or change its security arrangements, including treaties of alliance, as they evolve."

In September 2015, Russia and the West signed the Minsk Agreement: Point One called for an immediate and comprehensive ceasefire in eastern Ukraine, while Point Ten called for the withdrawal of all foreign armed formations and military equipment from Donetsk and Luhansk. These agreements, one and all, necessitated that the West go to war to enforce them or they necessitated nothing. But the West signed them with no intention of enforcing them. They signed them with a hollow pen, with an empty stylus, flowing with the ink of surrender. In February 2022, Russia violated the agreements it had signed and launched a large scale invasion of Ukraine. It launched a "special operations mission" in the eastern part of the country. It launched missile strikes at locations throughout the country, including the capital Kyiv. It attacked Ukrainian border posts with Russia and Belarus. It sent ground forces into the country. The West did not go to war and its failure to do so defined the word invasion. In 2004, pro-Russian candidate Viktor Yanukovich was declared winner of the presidential election in Ukraine which the Supreme Court of Ukraine condemned as rigged. The West did not go to war and its failure to do so defined the word invasion. The opposition candidate Viktor Yushchenko was poisoned by TCCD dioxin planted by Russia. The West did not go to war and its failure to do so defined the word invasion. In 2008, Russian President Vladimir Putin condemned an acceptance by NATO of Ukraine membership, proclaiming an updated version of the Brezhnev Doctrine, the policy of Soviet intervention in the countries of the Soviet sphere of influence. The West did not go to war and its failure to do so defined the word invasion. For its part, NATO, the intergovernmental military alliance formed in 1949 to protect the free world, is afraid to accept Ukraine as a member lest it provoke Russian reprisals, for Ukraine in 1920 was a founding member of the Soviet Union and had been an integral part of the Soviet empire up to its dissolution in 1991. The reason NATO offers for its refusal to accept Ukraine is that the country has not demonstrated a sufficient commitment to democracy, individual liberty, economic reform, anticorruption or support for the rule of law. The reason is a mere pretext employed to cover abject fear of Russia, for the Eastern European members of the organization, Poland, Hungary, Czech Republic, Bulgaria, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Romania, Slovakia, Slovenia, Albania, Croatia, Montenegro and North Macedonia, have shown the same level of commitment as Ukraine to democracy, individual liberty, economic reform, anticorruption and support for the rule of law. This abject fear is the definition of the word invasion. In 2010, Viktor Yanukovich was elected president of Ukraine, and in 2013, he refused to sign the European Union--Ukraine Association Agreement, and instead joined the Russian backed Eurasian Economic Union, a union of post Soviet states. The West did not go to war and its failure to do so defined the word invasion. In 2014, the refusal of Yanukovich to sign the agreement sparked a Revolution in Dignity staged by the Ukrainian people, which saw the ousting of Yanukovich, a declaration by the Ukrainian parliament in a vote of 328 to 0 that he was relieved of his powers as president, and the overthrow of the government led by him. In 2014, leaders of the pro-Russian eastern regions of Ukraine proclaimed their continuing support for Yanukovich. The West did not go to war and its failure to do so defined the word invasion. In 2014, Russia annexed Crimea and launched the War in the Donbas, a war between the new Russia backed states, the Donetsk People's Republic and the Luhansk People's Republic, and the Ukrainian government. The result was the death of 14,000 Ukrainians and the displacement of two million. The West did not go to war and its failure to do so defined the word invasion. In 2014, Russia told the West that if the latter expelled it from SWIFT in consequence of its annexation of Crimea, this would be a declaration of war against Russia to which Russia would respond with maximum force. The West did not expel

Russia from SWIFT and its failure to do so defined the word invasion. In 2020, Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky proclaimed a National Security Strategy which "which provides for the development of the distinctive partnership with NATO with the aim of membership in NATO." The West did not support this and its failure to do so defined the word invasion. In March 2021, Zelensky signed Decree No. 117/2021, which called for "deoccupation and reintegration of the temporarily occupied territory of the Autonomous Republic of Crimea and the city of Sevastopol." The West did not support this and its failure to do so defined the word invasion. In February 2022, Vladimir Putin proclaimed that he had moved Russia's nuclear strike force to the status "special alert", which means a readiness to launch, in response to NATO's support for Ukraine and the economic sanctions imposed on Russia and himself: "Western countries aren't only taking unfriendly actions against our country in the economic sphere, but top officials from leading NATO members made aggressive statements regarding our country." (Televised address to the nation). In response to this, the West refused to state that it would act in a forceful way and would utilize nuclear weapons in retaliation. The West's failure to use this language defined the word invasion. In July 2021, Vladimir Putin published an essay entitled On The Historical Unity of Russians and Ukrainians. In this essay, he proclaimed that a thousand years ago there was a country called Rus which was founded by Slavic Russians, and its capital was Kyiv. A thousand years later, this country with its capital Kyiv, although now called Ukraine, remains a part of Slavic Russia and owes brotherly love to Slavic Russia. Students of history understand that the ancient nation of Rus was in point of fact founded by the Vikings and its successor, modern day Ukraine, flows with Swedish, Norwegian and Danish blood, while modern day Russia, founded by the Slavs, flows with Slavic blood, so that there are no ethnic ties between Russia and Ukraine. Under the czars and under the Soviet Union, Scandinavian Ukraine was enslaved by Slavic Russia and its people yearned for liberation. President Putin stated that his decision to invade Ukraine was based on NATO's eastward expansion. He stated that Russia has "nowhere further to retreat to--do they think we'll just sit idly by?" He stated that if Ukraine joined NATO, it might try to recapture Crimea: "Let's imagine Ukraine is a NATO member and starts these military operations. Are we supposed to go to war with the NATO bloc? Has anyone given that any thought? Apparently not." He stated that NATO had to remove its military forces and infrastructure from the Eastern European states which joined it from 1997, that these states had to give up their membership in NATO, and that NATO could not deploy "strike weapons near Russia's borders". Students of history understand that states which violate the rights of their own citizens have no legitimate security concerns. Russia today is the Russia of yesteryear. It is the Russia oppressed for centuries by the fearsome lashes of czardom and communism. It is the Russia which abuses state power and nullifies the rule of law. It is the Russia which attacks homes and offices housing freedom's defenders. It is the Russia which silences the voices of liberal dissent. It is the Russia which weaponizes public prosecution and places constitutional rights in jail for life. It is the Russia which poisons the tree of liberty with the bitter sap of state imposition. It is the dark Asian steppes trampled by Slavic subhumanity which long ago proclaimed its rejection of progress and civilization: "Constitutional reform was a key development in 2020. Several abusive laws found further legal entrenchment in constitutional amendments. Following a controversial plebiscite on the reform in summer 2020, authorities launched a crackdown on dissenting voices, with new, politically motivated prosecutions and raids on the homes and offices of political and civic activists and organizations. Towards the end of the year the government submitted a series of new bills expanding on Russia's foreign agent law and shrinking an already scarce space left for civic activism. The poisoning of Russian political opposition leader Alexei Navalny in August led to a further deterioration in Russia's relations with the European Union." (World Report of 2021 by Human Rights Watch). Students of history understand that this Russia, this Russia of today and this Russia which has been the scourge of civilized society for a thousand years, has no moral right to defend itself or to establish a sphere of influence. Throughout Ukraine, Russian shelling and bombing lit up the sky, reduced buildings to rubble, spilled blood on the streets, and made terrified people huddle in homes, underground garages and subway stations. In the decadent cesspool and sewer of the West, the invasion of Ukraine arrived in its precincts, arrived in California, in Catalonia and in all places in between, and night fell in an instant.

BIDEN NOMINATES BLACK WOMAN COMMUNIST TO HIGH COURT

Occultism is a category of beliefs which falls outside the realm of reason and science. It encompasses such beliefs as mysticism, magic, extrasensory perception and parapsychology. Although without basis in fact or reality, occultism is utilized by students of history to provide useful metaphors and figures of speech to understanding the politics of the present day. Students of history have sought to explain the emergence of the preeminent ideology of the twenty first century by presenting vivid pictures of channeling and mediumship. They have connected two political programs and drawn a line of causality, emulation and inspiration between the two. The first program was popularized in Germany under the Third Reich. Its key phrases are the following: national socialism, racial socialism, racial proletarianism, national communism and national Bolshevism. Broadcast in stentorian tones to waves of thunderous applause over the people's airwaves, at the people's party rallies and through the people's streets and squares, these phrases sped through time and space and landed in the free world at the turn of the new millennium, and have been ruling the free world ever since. Their latter day representations have brought the spirit of Adolf Hitler back to life and installed black communism upon the throne of absolute power. Students of history have seen in the nomination by President Joe Biden of Ketanji Brown Jackson to the United States Supreme Court a strong, bright, clear, graphic image of the Third Reich program in operation in the world today and the jungle of swastika politics into which the West has ignominiously descended. Nominated by President Biden because she is black and communist, Ketanji Brown Jackson has faithfully promoted the cause of black politics and communist politics throughout her career. Serving on the United States Court of Appeals for the DC circuit, Jackson blocked executive orders issued by President Donald Trump which held poorly performing federal civil servants accountable for their work and reduced the amount of paid time they could use to attend union business. Her decision was unanimously reversed. Jackson blocked the Trump administration from expanding its Expedited Removal program to deport illegal aliens faster, stating that the program violated the constitutional rights of illegal aliens. Jackson refused to employ the terms alien or illegal immigrant in her rulings, stating that such terms "deny the humanity" of members of this group. Jackson ruled that Trump White House Counsel Don McGahn had to comply with a subpoena issued by Congressional Democrats. Her decision was reversed on the grounds that it improperly empower nonelected judges. Jackson ruled that Hillary Clinton aide Phillippe Reines did not have to explain to the website Gawker why he had illegally kept work related emails in a private account and how he decided which emails to include in twenty boxes of electronic records he provided to the State Department. Jackson was a fervent and energetic advocate of the cause of terror. Rejecting the principles of nonpartisanship, legal professionalism, courtroom integrity and liberal jurisprudence, she was a committed lawyer for the enemies of civilization. Trafficking in red paranoia, global conspiracies and defamation of her critics, she was the nation's premier public defender of the forces of decline and destruction: "Supreme Court front runner Judge Ketanji Brown Jackson was an active and dedicated advocate for terror suspects housed at Guantanamo Bay, contrary to press accounts and her own representations. Jackson has portrayed her work for the detainees as that of a disinterested professional fulfilling an assignment. But a Washington Free Beacon review of court filings dating back to 2005 indicates that Jackson was deeply committed to equal treatment for accused terrorists. Her advocacy was zealous and often resembled ideological cause lawyering, even in her capacity as a public defender. At times, she flirted with unsubstantiated leftwing theories that were debunked by government investigators. On other occasions, she accused Justice Department lawyers of egregious misconduct with little evidence." (Supreme Court Front Runner Was A Zealous Advocate For Gitmo Terror Suspects by Kevin Daley). Jackson was director of the Harvard Alumni Association when it planned a trip to North Korea. She instructed travelers to the country to bow down before the forces of evil. She instructed them to praise the avatars of totalitarian tyranny. She instructed them to venerate a villainous, criminal nation. She instructed them to admire the bayonets of Marxist violence and persecution. She instructed them to applaud Marxism's Stalinist monsters. She instructed them to study with awe and reverence the procedures and protocols to commit mass murder. She instructed them to enter in calm, still and respectful silence a nation housing tombs, on which are inscribed: human rights abuses, planned famine, concentration camps, gas chambers, violations of conscience and belief, racial and class genocide, and the eradication of every trace and vestige of human flourishing and development: "Harvard University has a bizarre idea of how to advance the education of its grads: Instruct them to bow down to North Korea's paranoid dictators and show proper respect for the Axis of Evil. It's the ultimate in radical Stalinist chic--the Harvard Alumni Association's $636 a night totalitarian luxury tour of a rogue nation where thousands are deliberately starved to death. 'Demonstrations of respect for the country's late leader, Kim Il Sung, and for the current leader, Kim Jong Il, are important,' instructs the Harvard Alumni Association's tour memo. 'You will be expected to bow as a gesture of respect at the statue of Kim Il Sung and at his mausoleum.' Harvard even tries to pretend that bowing down to thugs is perfectly normal--explaining that it's because 'North Korea, like every country, has its own unique protocols.' Well, yes, that certainly is a charming use of euphemism to cover up an ugly and unique reality--since North Korea is not 'like every country.' North Korea's protocols feature massive human rights abuses, deliberate famine, concentration camps, religious persecution, gas chambers, likely genocide and trafficking in women and children." (Harvard Loves A Thug by Deborah Orin). Look at the policy of Joe Biden and see a race and gender based assault on justice and the law. See a campaign to festoon the chambers of the United States Supreme Court with race and gender colored swastika flags. See a national socialist style attack on the integrity of judicial selection procedures. See a sacrifice of meritocracy upon the altars of race and gender demographics. See individual character, qualification and experience rejected in the blazing infernos of race and gender tribalism. See judicial hiring restricted by race and sex and fundamental fairness rendered invisible. See the principles of civil rights, nondiscrimination and equal protection under the law rendered a dead letter by the clattering goosesteps of Hitler's latest soldiers. See a practice prohibited for centuries by liberal jurisprudence brought back to life from the cemeteries of the Third Reich. See outstanding jurists excluded from consideration for the nation's highest court by a leader blinded by the dark spectacles of race and gender politics. See the nation's constitution shredded beyond recognition by a president who has brazenly violated his oath of office, burned the flag of fairness and impartiality upon which nation's laws were founded, swept away the Enlightenment dispensation of a race blind and gender blind society, and declared war on Western civilization: "President Joe Biden promised to replace retiring Supreme Court Associate Justice Stephen Breyer with a black female jurist. 'The person I will nominate will be someone with extraordinary qualifications, character, experience, and integrity. And that person will be the first black woman ever nominated to the United States Supreme Court,' Biden said January 29 in the White House's Roosevelt Room. 'It's long overdue in my view. I made that commitment during the campaign for president, and I will keep that commitment.' Biden reportedly has spent recent days interviewing prospective nominees, specifically US District Court Judge Julia Michelle Childs, US Circuit Court Judge Ketanji Brown Jackson, and California Supreme Court Justice Leondra Reid Kruger. All three of these contenders satisfy Biden's two demographic requirements. White, Hispanic, and Asian heritage women have been invisible during Biden's judicial powwows. Males—including black ones—need not apply. Imagine that Biden were not President of the United States, but President of United Airlines. What would happen if Biden announced that he only would hire a black woman as the carrier's new general counsel? Top flight legal experts agree: Biden would be in a heap of trouble. 'If almost any private or public sector employer restricted potential hires by race and sex, that employer would be in clear violation of Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, 42 USC 1981, and a host of state and local antidiscrimination laws,' Peter Kisanow, a member of the US Commission on Civil Rights, told me. 'That employer could be subject to monetary damages to the excluded applicants as well as injunctions against the prohibited practice.' 'By so blatantly limiting his selection to black females, the nominee—regardless of how impressive she may be—will inescapably be viewed by a large swath of America as the black female justice, and her opinions will be viewed through that lens,' concluded Kirsanow, who is black." (Biden's SCOTUS Search Makes Discrimination Great Again by Deroy Murdock). Intersectional politics was born in national socialist Germany and disseminated in its films, marches, rallies and congresses, and from the pages of its fiery speeches and the flaming sheets of its Mein Kampf. In the ensuing decades since the fall of Hitler, Germany's neoMarxist religion of the Aryan race has mutated into a black communist revolution and put an end to civilized life.

BIDEN DEALS DEATH IN UKRAINE

Causality is the influence by which one event contributes to the production of another event. The cause is responsible for the effect and the effect is dependent upon the cause. Causality is a foundational concept in science because the course of nature is marked by necessary connections as opposed to chance conjunctions. Students of history have observed the connections of causality operative in human affairs since man first trod the face of the earth. They have observed that actions produce consequences, harmful or salutary, and that ideas bear fruit, bitter or beneficial. In the present hour, they have been struck by the sounds of war which have blasted them into the face of causality and shown them vividly, graphically, and with scenes of blood spilling in the streets, the preeminence of this principle for the understanding of man and society. They have seen air strikes and rocket fire screaming and thundering without restraint or limitation, on a trajectory to wipe cities and towns off the face of the earth, and seen the decrees of causality handed down without reprieve and without appeal. They have seen a cause produce an effect, an action produce a consequence, and a nation darkened beneath a shroud of indiscriminate violence due to an event which occurred shortly before, brought into being by a society in decline. They have seen the skeletal form of the Grim Reaper brandishing a scythe of mass murder, set into motion and sent on its way by a cause, by a man, by a political leader, by the president of the United States, and have seen this source, this root and this origin of the evil of the present hour compose, because of who he is, the commander in chief of the world's beacon and arsenal of freedom, the final savage chapter of Western civilization. They have seen his decline as the West's decline, his weakness as the West's weakness, his treason as the West's treason and his surrender as the West's surrender, and seen a descent into free fall the likes of which they have never seen before, an acceleration as unstoppable and inevitable as a bullet fired from a gun and a fire raging out of control due to a figure who constantly and incessantly pours gasoline over it. They have seen a cause, America's surrender in Afghanistan under Joe Biden, and an effect, the invasion of Ukraine by Russia, and seen a connection as unbreakable as the destiny of death laid down for a terminally ill person. Students of history have painted a portrait of the cause, as follows. On August 30, 2021, United States forces withdrew from Afghanistan and what followed was the immediate collapse of the US backed Islamic Republic of Afghanistan before an onslaught of the Taliban. In September 2021, United States Secretary of Defense Lloyd Austin, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff General Mark Milley and Central Command Commander General Frank McKenzie stated in testimony before the United States Senate Armed Services Committee that President Biden's claim that he had withdrawn American troops from Afghanistan on advice given by the military was false. Miller stated that he had advised Biden to keep 2,500 troops in the country and stated that Biden's withdrawal plan was a "strategic failure". McKenzie stated that he as well had recommended to Biden he keep 2,500 troops in the country. Austin stated that Biden's "just over the horizon" or "just next door" counter terrorism strategy, in which terror is confronted by drone strikes and limited force deployed in near locations only, used to justify the Afghanistan withdrawal was "misleading at best and dishonest at worst". He stated that he had warned Biden about the threat posed by a resurgent Al Qaeda to America "less than a year" after a withdrawal from Afghanistan. The Washington Post stated that the American withdrawal from Afghanistan under Biden was the story of a tragedy and disaster few words could express and a timeline of suffering and destruction which defied the imagination. It was the story of a campaign launched by the Taliban, a capture launched by the Taliban, a siege launched by the Taliban, and a surrounding and blockage launched by the Taliban, before the white flags of American surrender: "When President Biden chose in April to withdraw all US forces from Afghanistan by September, we were among those who judged that the result would be a disaster for the country's 38 million people— and in particular, its women. Now, that tragedy appears to be unfolding more quickly than even many of the pessimists imagined. In recent weeks, Taliban forces have captured dozens of districts in a nationwide offensive, surrounding and blocking key roads into Kabul. On Tuesday, the top US military commander in Afghanistan, Gen. Austin S. Miller, met with reporters and warned with remarkable bluntness that 'civil war is certainly a path that can be visualized,' adding: 'That should be a concern for the world.' " (Biden's Cold Response To Afghanistan's Collapse Will Have Far Reaching Consequences, Editorial, The Washington Post, July 2, 2021). America's hurried, chaotic and planless withdrawal from Afghanistan

posed a mortal threat to the nation's security: "The United States has struggled to develop and implement a coherent strategy for the war. If the goal was to rebuild and leave a country that could sustain itself and pose little threat to US national security interests, the overall picture is bleak". (John Sopkop, Special Inspector General for Afghanistan Reconstruction). America's withdrawal from Afghanistan, staged with the speed and urgency of abject surrender, placed billions of dollars of military equipment into the hands of the Taliban and made this radical, fundamentalist Muslim movement a fearsome arsenal of global terror: "The Biden administration left behind billions of dollars of American military hardware in Afghanistan within the reach of the Taliban, according to auditors with Open the Books, a government spending watchdog. 'The hasty withdrawal of US military forces in Afghanistan turned the Taliban into a major US arms dealer for the next decade,' CEO and Founder of Open The Books Adam Andrzejewski told the outlet [Just The News]. 'The Taliban is going to be selling tickets to their terrorist gun show.' " (The Gift That Keeps On Giving: Taliban Is Finding A New Use For Abandoned American Equipment, Watchdog Warns by Andrew Jose). The unanimous consensus among historians is that the American surrender in Afghanistan, the ignominious retreat, the backward flight without pride or dignity of any kind, and the position of maximum prostration before the fierce, destructive attack of the enemy, was the unholy trigger of Russia's invasion of Ukraine. Russian leader Vladimir Putin saw American frailty, feebleness and fecklessness on sordid display in the battlefields of Afghanistan and decided to strike against Ukraine in February 2022 and launch a large scale military invasion. Putin could have ordered the invasion one year ago, two years ago or for next year, but the debacle of Biden's troop pull out from Afghanistan, Biden's shameless greenlighting of the Taliban takeover, and the sudden collapse of the country due to the disorderly and cowardly evacuation ordered by Biden caused the invasion to happen now. Minutes after Putin ordered a "special military operation" against Ukraine, and in the name of "demilitarization" and "denazification" sought to annex the country and transform it into a satellite of Russia, missiles hit locations across the country, including the capital Kyiv. Biden's surrender in Afghanistan caused this to happen. In February 2022, Putin publicly reiterated that Russia does not want a world to exist in which Russian aggression is disallowed. Biden's surrender in Afghanistan caused him to repeat this. In February 2022, Putin threatens West with "consequences greater than any you have faced in history", or threatened the West with a nuclear attack, if it sought to repel his invasion of Ukraine. Biden's surrender in Afghanistan emboldened him to say this. Ukraine's border posts with Russia and Belarus were attacked and Russian ground forces entered the country. Biden's surrender in Afghanistan caused this to happen. A half a million Ukrainians fled the country: 281,000 went to Poland, 85,000 went to Hungary, 36,390 went to Moldova, 32,500 went to Romania, 30,000 went to Slovakia, and 34,600 went to other countries in Europe. Biden's surrender in Afghanistan caused this to happen. In February 2022, Putin placed Russia's nuclear forces on "special alert", stating that he had done so because of "aggressive statements" made by NATO concerning Ukraine, statements in which NATO reaffirmed its commitment to defend the cause of freedom in the face of Russian imperialism. Biden's surrender in Afghanistan caused this to happen. In March 2022, Russian forces took control of Kherson, the first major city to fall. Russians forced their way into the city council building and imposed a curfew on residents. Biden's surrender in Afghanistan caused this to happen. In talks held in Belarus between Ukrainian and Russian delegations, Russia demanded that Ukraine "demilitarize" and "denazify", or become a part of Russia, and that Crimea, annexed by Russia in 2014, be formally recognized by Ukraine as a part of Russia, and that two breakaway regions in eastern Ukraine, the Donetsk People's Republic and the Luhansk People's Republic, be formally recognized by Ukraine as parts of Russia. Biden's surrender in Afghanistan caused this to happen. In Mariupol, a southern port near Ukraine's border with Russia, civilians were trapped by unremitting shelling, deprived of power, heat, light, water, food and medicine, and engulfed in the depths of fear and doom: "There has been no light, no heat, and no water now for two full days and we have hardly any food left. Food and medicine is not moving in Mariupol now. The local government tried to give out bread and water but it is gone. I filled the bath with water before the water stopped. We have about five liters left. The shelling started again at six this morning. The city was completely black overnight, there was no source of light apart from the explosions. It was quiet for a few hours but then at dawn it started again. We can hear it now from every direction. We are terrified." (BBC News). Biden's surrender in Afghanistan caused this to happen. Since the Russian invasion, over one million people have fled Ukraine and over two thousand civilians have been killed. Biden's surrender in Afghanistan caused this to happen. Students of history understand that Ukraine was founded by the ancient Rus people, a Viking nation originating from Sweden, Denmark and Norway, who settled and ruled along the river routes between the Baltic and the Black Seas between the eighth and eleventh centuries. They understand that there are no ethnic bonds between Scandinavian Ukraine and Russia, which was founded by East Slavic tribes in the ninth century. They understand that Ukraine was founded as an independent state, recognized as such by its ethnic divergence from Russia, by free nations throughout the world, and by the liberal Provisional Government of Russia led by Alexander Kerensky, but was a state which throughout its tragic history was subjected to annexation, first by the Kingdom of Poland, then by the czarist Russian Empire, and finally by the Russian Bolsheviks, which latter renamed it the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, and made it a founding member of the Soviet Union in 1922. They understand that Ukraine has been a liberal democratic state, as it was in 1917 before the communist takeover, since it regained its independence in 1991 following the dissolution of the Soviet Union, while Russia under the Putin presidency has sharply curtailed the freedom of the people. They understand that Russia is a dark void of a nation marked by ruthless persecution, ruled by lawless security agencies, a lawless parliament, lawless courts and a lawless president, an antination which has placed freedom of expression, freedom of association and freedom of assembly into black boxes and buried them in the wastelands of Siberia: "The government in 2016 further tightened control over the already shrinking space for free expression, association, and assembly and intensified persecution of independent critics. Parliament adopted laws expanding the power of law enforcement and security agencies, including to control online speech. The parliamentary vote in September resulted in the ruling party, United Russia, gaining a constitutional majority in the State Duma, the parliament's lower chamber. Russia continued to support rebels who commit abuses in eastern Ukraine. Russia's actions in occupied Crimea created a human rights crisis." (Human Rights Watch: Russia). Students of history understand that this Russia, this Slavic Russia, this Russia ruled by Vladimir Putin, has no moral right to exist, to protect its borders, to invade other nations, to maintain a sphere of influence or to resist the expansion of NATO. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization is an intergovernmental military alliance dedicated to the collective security of free nations, while Russia is a fascist, authoritarian state ruled by a gangster, and there is no moral equivalence between the two. Students of history understand that when wild animals sense fear and vulnerability in their prey, they pounce and strike. A wolf watching a herd of deer looks for the weakest one, the one which is slower, thinner, older or younger than the rest. A fireball, destroying buildings, objects and people. A blast wave, wreaking death, injury and damage to buildings. Radiation, damaging the body's cells and causing radiation sickness. Electromagnetic pulses, damaging electronic devices. Fallout, radioactive dust and debris falling to the ground and spreading poison. A nuclear holocaust in Ukraine, assembled by Russia, detonated by Joe Biden.

THE REDS' SELECTIVE INDIGNATION

Selective is a common word in the English language. It refers to the act of making careful choices and is found in many collocations. In biology, the term selective breeding refers to the process of enhancing desirable traits in living things by selection in breeding controlled by human beings. In psychology, the term selective attention refers the process by which a person can select one message from a mixture of messages occurring at the same time. Students of politics have been blasted by a collocation which has sent them reeling backward in shock and horror and painted for them in big, bold, black letters a signpost. This signpost provides the direction and distance to the collapse of civilization. The direction is a straight ahead and the distance is a mere stone's throw. Students of politics understand this collocation as providing a concise portrait of the politics of the present day and an encapsulation of the all that is wrong and evil in the world. They understand the collocation as a fearsome and terrifying expression of the essential features of a civilization during its final seconds of existence, when fundamental morality has been hurled into a grave and buried forever. They understand the collocation as a snapshot of the bias, pretense, sanctimoniousness and false virtue which have poisoned political discussions, debates and discourse throughout the West and rendered its people insensitive to the suffering and destruction caused by communism. This is the collocation selective indignation and it provides in two simple words a summary of the red takeover of free societies and the Marxification of the planet in the twenty first century, the final frightful century of mankind. Students of politics have observed the indignation at the Russian invasion of Ukraine voiced by the leaders of today's cultural and political establishment and have observed in it an instance of selective indignation which has exposed their protests as insincere and unprincipled, deprived them of all honesty and credibility, and demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt the red partisan character of the establishment in its century old war to overthrow freedom, capitalism and the liberal order. Students of politics have listened to the words of Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and heard his condemnation of the Ukraine invasion: "Russia's flagrant disregard for the independence of a sovereign nation is a serious threat to security and stability in the region and around the world. Canada and our allies will defend democracy. We are taking these actions today in a stand against authoritarianism. This recognition is a violation of Russia's obligation under international law and the Charter of the United Nations. Canada also denounces Russian military actions, including orders to move into Ukraine which is a clear incursion of Ukraine's sovereignty and territorial integrity. Make no mistake, this is a further invasion of a sovereign state and it is completely unacceptable." (Statement on February 22, 2022). Students of politics have seen the reality of Justin Trudeau. They have seen a man who invoked emergency powers during the covid pandemic and employed brute force to violate freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of association, the right to private property, and to crush dissent from covid restrictions without due process of law: "Trudeau's government used brutal force to break up the Freedom Convoy protest in Ottawa over the weekend, seriously injuring an elderly woman (and initially denying it had done so). Even after the protest was broken up, Trudeau insisted on claiming 'emergency powers' that allow his government to freeze the bank accounts of convoy supporters. Organizers of the protest were arrested and denied." (Trudeau Boldly Declares Opposition To Authoritarianism--In Ukraine by John Hayward). They have seen a man who offered effusive praise of Cuban dictator Fidel Castro. Responsible for the execution of 600 political prisoners by firing squad, for the jailing of 15,000 political dissidents, for the exile of 1.5 million political dissidents, and for the transformation of the freest country in Latin America into a totalitarian nightmare in which violations of free speech and private property were complemented by the chaining and jailing of the population within the borders of the nation, Castro was praised by Trudeau as a leader who attracted special admiration throughout the world by virtue of his outstanding character and achievements. As the munificent bestower of health, education, welfare and riches upon his people. As a celebrated revolutionary and orator on behalf of the oppressed and the exploited. As the object of undying love and affection by his people and a cascade of love and affection for his people. As El Comandante, a wise and righteous president, and friend, guardian and hero of all humanity, whose death was mourned by millions of people throughout the world: "It is with deep sorrow that I learned today of the death of Cuba's longest serving president. Fidel Castro was a larger than life leader who served his people for almost half a century. A legendary revolutionary and orator, Mr. Castro made significant improvements to the education and healthcare of his island nation. While a controversial figure, both Mr Castro's supporters and detractors recognized his tremendous dedication and love for the Cuban people who had a deep and lasting affection for El Comandante. I know my father was very proud to call him a friend and I had the opportunity to meet Fidel when my father passed away. It was also a real honor to meet his three sons and his brother President Raul Castro during my recent visit to Cuba. On behalf of all Canadians, Sophie and I offer our deepest condolences to the family, friends and many, many supporters of Mr. Castro. We join the people of Cuba today in mourning the loss of this remarkable leader." (Statement By The Prime Minister Of Canada On The Death Of former Cuban President Fidel Castro, November 26, 2016). Students of politics have listened to the words of United States Senator Bernie Sanders and heard his condemnation of the Ukraine invasion: "The Russian invasion of Ukraine that the world is witnessing today is a blatant violation of international law and of basic human decency. It may well kill thousands and displace millions. It could plunge Europe into long-term economic and political instability. The United States and our allies must impose severe sanctions on Vladimir Putin and his fellow oligarchs. At a time when thousands may die as a result of his war, Putin, one of the richest people in the world, should not be allowed to enjoy the billions he stole from the Russian people. The United States must also work closely with international partners to provide humanitarian relief for the Ukrainian people." (Sanders Statement On Russian Invasion Of Ukraine, Vermontbiz, February 24, 2022). Students of politics have seen the reality of Bernie Sanders. They have seen a man who praised red totalitarian tyranny as a glistening engine of goodness in the world. As a brightly flowing spring of dedicated humanity which advanced the health, education and welfare of the people and gave the people land confiscated from those who owned it. They have seen a man who praised the leaders of red terror as paragons of character, intelligence, truth, virtue and idealism. A man who praised the Soviet Union as a land of pure, unadulterated happiness, joy and justice for the working class. A man who praised Cuba as a people's revolution committed to the depths of its being to the cause of human flourishing and emancipation: "The mayor of tiny Burlington, Vermont was back from Nicaragua and eager to share the good news. The country's Soviet backed government—forged via armed rebellion—was cutting infant mortality, reducing illiteracy and redistributing land to peasant farmers. Its Sandinista leaders, branded terrorists by the US government, impressed him with 'their intelligence and their sincerity.' Three years later, Bernie Sanders was fresh off the plane from Moscow, reveling in the beauty of the land and the contentedness of the people. And a year after that, he returned from Cuba having tapped into a revolutionary spirit 'far deeper and more profound than I understood it to be.' With Sanders now surging to the top of the Democratic presidential field, those three decade old impressions introduced a volatile new element in the race Monday as rivals reacted to Sanders's decision to defend his remarks, not disclaim them." (In Cold War Travels, Bernie Sanders Found Much To Admire Behind Enemy Lines by Griff Witte). Students of politics have listened to the words of Hollywood actor Sean Penn and heard his condemnation of the Ukraine invasion: "Already a brutal mistake of lives taken and hearts broken, and if he doesn't relent, I believe Mr Putin will have made a most horrible mistake for all of humankind. President Zelensky and the Ukrainian people have risen as historic symbols of courage and principle. Ukraine is the tip of the spear for the democratic embrace of dreams. If we allow it to fight alone, our soul as America is lost." (Twitter, February 26, 2022). Students of politics have seen the reality of Sean Penn. They have seen a man who praised communist dictator Hugo Chavez as a torchbearer for the downtrodden and a beacon of hope for those struck down by the arrows of poverty: "A strong advocate of Chavez's administration, Penn said Tuesday that 'today the people of the United States lost a friend it never knew it had. And poor people around the world lost a champion. I lost a friend I was blessed to have. My thoughts are with the family of President Chavez and the people of Venezuela.' " (Sean Penn Attends Hugo Chavez Funeral In Venezuela by Agustin Mango). In religious legends, a false prophet is someone who falsely claims the gift of prophecy or makes such claims for evil ends. In Luca Signorelli's world famous painting, Sermons And Deeds Of The Antichrist, the Devil whispers into the ear of the false prophet, the Antichrist. Outside religion, a false prophet is analogously someone who promotes a cause he thinks is false. The indignation at Russia's invasion of Ukraine voiced by leaders of the Western establishment is indignation voiced by red partisans and not principled critics. It is false, insincere and hypocritical condemnation, voiced by communists against a fascist rival. Its ancestor was the condemnation of Hitler voiced by Stalinists and their sympathizers in the West during World War II. It is condemnation voiced by supporters of aggressive war, but aggressive war paraded under their own flags, and not the flags of Vladimir Putin's national and ethnic socialists. These communist flags planted in the West have ignited the funeral pyres of civilization.

WESTERN COWARDICE DOOMS THE WORLD

Cowardice is the lowest mental quality possible in man. It is defined as an excessive and irrational fear which prevents an individual from taking a risk or facing a danger. It points to a profound failure of moral character in the face of a challenge. Military codes of justice throughout the world prohibit cowardice in combat and classify it as a crime punishable by death. Students of history have been assaulted by a development which has knocked them off balance and plunged them into dark foreboding. Based on their knowledge of the characteristics of civilizational decline present throughout history, they knew this was coming but nonetheless hoped against hope and prayed against prayer that it would not fall so hard or fall so fast. They observed it on sordid display during the centuries of decline of the Roman Empire, when Virgil observed the ignoble pageant parading before him and wrote that "fear is proof of a degenerate mind", and this degeneracy and this fear paralyzed pagan culture in the face of ruthless onslaughts from alien worlds, onslaughts from Christians proselytizing without surcease, and onslaughts from barbarians from the Germanic north and the Eurasian steppe invading without reprieve. Students of history have observed the fearsome hand of destiny crash down once again and decree degeneracy during the final epoch of the West, and install degeneracy's yellow and sickly child, cowardice, upon the throne of absolute power. They have observed in the present day the most terrifying exhibition of cowardice in the history of the West, terrifying because it has set into motion the clock of nuclear doomsday, and lowered the curtain, once and for all time, on the survival and success of civilization. They can scarcely describe the depths of spiritlessness and spinelessness they have peered into during the waning hours of the West, or communicate the darkest of dark hours of feebleness and frailty into which the new millennium has descended, and in which it has surrendered the civilizational achievements of centuries. They have composed a narrative of fecklessness and timidity in the face of brute aggression which constitutes a coda, a conclusion and a crescendo of a development reaching back over the course of a century, during which time the West was stricken by cowardice and unable to exterminate the forces of communism or Islamist terror. They have recorded the loudest point of this development, the earsplitting wail of air raid sirens engulfing the latest scene of postcommunist Russia's crimes, the land of Ukraine, signals and warnings tolling the bell of the world's imminent nuclear death and destruction. Their story is as follows. There exists no rule of law in Russia, no independent judiciary, no system of checks and balances, which could hold Russian President Vladimir Putin accountable for his war crimes and his violations of human rights, and bring him before the bar of justice. The cowardice of the West prevented action to remove Putin. Russian military commanders and pilots committed atrocities against the Ukrainian people. The cowardice of the West prevented action to remove Putin. The Russian military deployed cluster bombs and thermobaric bombs against Ukrainian civilians, in violation of international law. The cowardice of the West prevented action to remove Putin. Ukrainian cities will continue to fall, Ukraine will fall, and the war will continue unless its instigator is removed. The cowardice of the West prevented action to remove Putin. The Russian leader jailed opponents in the country, poisoned opponents throughout the world with radioactive substances, and carpet bombed the city of Idlib in Syria and the nation of Chechnya, which gained its independence in the 1994–1996 with Russia. The cowardice of the West prevented action to remove Putin. The Russian leader evinced a plan to destroy Ukraine and bring other former Soviet states back into a Russian empire. The cowardice of the West prevented action to remove Putin. In his twenty years of unchecked power in Russia, Putin dedicated himself to the task of subverting the global liberal order and reviving the might and menace of czarism and communism. Putin spread suffering from Crimea to Salisbury and sought to redraw the map of Europe. The cowardice of the West prevented action to remove him. In 2008, Putin invaded Georgia and called it a "peace enforcement operation." The cowardice of the West prevented action to remove him. In 2013, President Barack Obama, out of cowardice, refused to enforce his red line warning against Syrian President Bashar Assad when Assad deployed chemical weapons against the Syrian people. Putin saw in this

cowardice a green light to annex Crimea and establish Russian power in eastern Ukraine. The cowardice of the West prevented action to remove him. When Putin launched the Russian military invasion of Ukraine in February 2022, he threatened to launch a nuclear attack against the West if it repelled the invasion: "Whoever tries to hinder us, and even more so, to create threats to our country, to our people, should know that Russia's response will be immediate. And it will lead you to such consequences that you have never encountered in your history." The cowardice of the West prevented action to remove him. Immediately after the invasion, Putin ordered the Russian army to place its nuclear arsenal, the largest arsenal in the world, on "special alert" in response to "unfriendly" and "aggressive" steps by the West to repel the invasion. He reiterated his threat to destroy the world in a nuclear holocaust if the West defeated the forces of Russian imperialism: "Why do we need a world if Russia is not in it?" The cowardice of the West prevented action to remove him. He stated that the economic sanctions imposed on Russia and himself were acts of war, and any attempt by the West to establish a no fly zone over Ukraine would be an act of war, and these would be met by a nuclear attack. The cowardice of the West prevented action to remove him. Ukraine entered history in the late ninth century as a sovereign, independent state with the establishment of the Kievan Rus, founded by the Viking prince Rurik. In its long, tragic history, its independence was violated by the following external powers: the Golden Horde of the Mongol Empire, the Grand Duchy of Lithuania and the Kingdom of Poland, the Crimean Khanate which revived the Mongol Empire, the czarist Russian Empire, the Austrian Empire, the Soviet Union, and during World War II, the Third Reich. With the dissolution of the Soviet Union in 1991, Ukraine regained its independence. In 2013, Ukrainian president Viktor Yanukovich illegally canceled preparations for the implementation of the European Union-Ukraine Association Agreement, moved Ukraine close to Russia, and pursued a Russian loan bailout. In response, the Ukrainian people launched the Euromaidan or the Revolution in Dignity and sought to oust him. In 2014, the Ukrainian parliament impeached him. In response, Putin launched the Russo-Ukrainian War and invaded and annexed Ukraine. He launched the War in Donbas and annexed the Donetsk and Luhansk oblasts of Ukraine. His violation of Ukraine's independence moved forward with the full scale invasion launched in 2022. Students of history understand that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, as an alliance of nations dedicated to the defense of freedom against aggression, has a moral right to expand across Europe right up to the borders of Russia and sees a tactical necessity in doing so. They understand that if NATO had not expanded to the borders of freedom in Europe, then Russia would have invaded and occupied Poland, Hungary, Czechia, Bulgaria, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Romania, Slovakia, Slovenia, Albania, Croatia, Montenegro and North Macedonia, and would have reestablished and expanded the slave empire ruled by the czars and the communists. They understand that if Ukraine had been a member of NATO on February 24, 2022, Putin would not have launched his invasion. They understand that NATO's collective security agreement, enshrined in Article 5 of the NATO Treaty, under which an attack on one member is considered as an attack on all members to which all members are obligated to respond, has kept Europe free and kept America free for the past seventy years. It was invoked by NATO for the first time in its history after the 9/11 terror attacks against America and it enabled the free world to repel the forces of terror in Afghanistan and to make the world safe for freedom: "9/11 was not only an attack on the United States, it was an attack on us all. The victims came from every corner of the NATO alliance and from far beyond it. Within 24 hours of the attacks, NATO Allies invoked Article 5, our mutual defense clause, for the first time. This states that an attack on one ally is an attack on every ally. Soon after, NATO forces were in Afghanistan shoulder to shoulder. In 2001, Afghanistan was a safe haven for the al Qaeda terrorists who planned and carried out the 9/11 attacks, and many more around the world. NATO's mission was to degrade Al Qaeda and prevent Afghanistan from serving as a launchpad for terrorists that would attack us. Since 9/11, there have been no terrorist attacks against our homelands organized from Afghanistan." (We Must Continue To Stand Together by Jens Stoltenberg). Students of history have heard the voices of those opposed to the expansion of NATO into Eastern Europe: "Bluntly stated, expanding NATO would be the most fateful error of American policy in the entire post Cold War era. Such a decision may be expected to inflame the nationalistic, anti-Western and militaristic tendencies in Russian opinion; to have an adverse effect on the development of Russian democracy; to restore the atmosphere of the Cold War to East-West relations; and to impel Russian foreign policy in directions decidedly not to our liking." (A Fateful Error by George Kennan). In these words they have heard the voices which proclaim a moral equivalence between NATO and Russia. They have heard the voices of fear, appeasement, placation and accession to the demands of a state which rejected liberal democracy, violated the rights of its own people and violated the rights of its neighbors. On a rock relief at Naqsh Rostam near Shiraz, Iran is a depiction of Roman Emperor Valerian kneeling and begging for his life before Persian Shah Shapur I, after being captured by him in the Battle of Edessa in 259 AD. This was the most humiliating military defeat ever suffered by the Roman Empire. Students of history have seen the figure of Emperor Valerian dissolve into a map of the West. They have seen the figure of the shah dissolve into the figure of Vladimir Putin. Afraid to do what has to be done, afraid to remove Putin and afraid to fight a nuclear war and to fight and die for the principle of freedom, the West has collapsed into craven surrender and lost its human character. The West has morally ceased to exist and is presently begging for its physical life before the forces of evil. Looming over the horizon is its physical death in a whirlwind of nuclear horror.

TOTAL WAR

Total war is a military conflict in which the contenders make any sacrifice in blood and treasure necessary to obtain victory. The achievement of ideological goals impels a nation to mobilize its manpower and resources and make this sacrifice. During the Vietnam War, the communist leadership of North Vietnam conducted total war and was met by pusillanimity by America when it refused in 1975 to enforce the Paris Peace Accords signed by the communists in 1973, and refused to come to the assistance of South Vietnam. A society which is unwilling to engage in total war in defense of freedom is a society in the grip of fear and cowardice and is careening down the path of moral degeneration. The inability of a society to conduct total war was described by the renowned Roman poet Virgil who wrote during the Augustan period of Roman decline into Caesarism and mobocracy, and observed that "fear is the product of a degenerate mind." In the grip of radicals and reds, and in the grip of faintheartedness and terror, the West in the present day is unable to conduct total war to repel the Russian invasion of Ukraine and reestablish the rule of law. The aggressor nation has made plans to conduct total war. Employing weapons of mass destruction producing radioactive dust and ash raining down poison and contamination, nuclear war is the preeminent instance of total war and serves to define the term. In 2012, Russia stated that the use of nuclear weapons is an integral part of its strategy and tactics in defense of its aggressive use of power: "Nuclear war is part of our strategic culture. Yes, we would start one if our homeland, our way of life, was threatened, absolutely. Why wouldn't we? If anything threatens our ability to exist as a nation and prosper, it is my view that we would use nuclear weapons." (Yes, Russia Could Use Nuclear Weapons by Henry Kazianis, quoting a Russian diplomat). Immediately before the invasion of Ukraine in February 2022, Russian President Vladimir Putin threatened the West with nuclear war: "Whoever tries to interfere with us, and even more so, to create threats for our country, for our people should know that Russia's response will be immediate and will lead you to such consequences that you have never experienced in your history All the relevant decisions have been taken. I hope you hear me." In February 2022, Putin placed Russian nuclear forces on "special combat readiness" and "special alert". In February 2022, Putin reiterated his threat to destroy the world in a nuclear war if Russian imperialism is not allowed to stand: "Why do we need a world if Russia is not in it?" In March 2022, Putin placed the country's ballistic missile submarines and land based mobile missile launchers in attack mode. In March 2022, Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov threatened to plunge the West into a nuclear Third World War: "Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov said on Wednesday that if a third World War were to take place, it would involve nuclear weapons and be destructive, the RIA news agency reported. Lavrov has said that Russia, which launched what it calls a special military operation against Ukraine last week, would face a 'real danger' if Kyiv acquired nuclear weapons." (Russia's Lavrov Says A Third World War Would Be Nuclear And Destructive, Reuters). The West is unable to fight a nuclear war in defense of freedom, in defense against the assassins of the liberal order, in defense against rogue states which have joined forces and launched an offensive campaign to blackmail and destroy the voices of civilization: "As Russian nuclear forces have already deterred President Biden from sending troops to Ukraine and deterred NATO from giving more combat aircraft to Ukraine, so China has long ago decided to use nuclear blackmail to keep the US out of its future murder of Taiwan's democracy. But that's not all. For the last decade, China and Russia have been building a military entente that has long included cooperation in 'strategic defense,' or defense against US nuclear missiles. It is highly plausible that China and Russia already have decided to cooperate in 'strategic offense,' or the coordination of their nuclear forces to blackmail or even to destroy the United States." (Putin Threatens To Nuke The World by Gordon Chang, quoting Richard Fisher). The opponents of total war cite the doctrine of mutually assured destruction to support their case. According to this doctrine, the use of nuclear weapons by the opposing sides in a war would cause the annihilation of both the attacker and the defender and would thus be irrational. The theory is false on two grounds, one technical and the other moral. The development of antiballistic missiles would enable one side to defend itself against a retaliatory nuclear second strike and thus saves that side from annihilation. The use of multiple independently targetable reentry vehicles, which would carry multiple nuclear warheads aimed to hit different targets during a retaliatory second nuclear strike, can be countered. These MIRVs can be intercepted in midcourse, prior to the separation of the warheads from their vehicles, by the use of long range radar and satellite systems. The doctrine of mutually assured destruction is false from a moral point of view because it assumes that freedom is not something worth dying or being annihilated for. Good people do not understand the meaning of the word fear when confronted with an enemy who threatens their freedom. Good people will pay any price in order to live and prosper as free people. Good people understand that a life marked by surrender and appeasement is a life enshrouded in spiritual death and is not a life which is humanly recognizable. Good people understand that a policy of avoidance of nuclear war at all costs is a policy of avoidance of a human life at all costs and is policy no human being would ever support. Good people understand that the use of nuclear weapons is a moral and military imperative against an enemy which is dedicated to using them, has sworn to use them, is not afraid to use them, and has made concrete plans to use them to advance its imperialistic aims and destroy the global liberal order. One thousand years ago, Ukraine, the nation which Putin has invaded, entered the stage of history in freedom and independence when Vikings, calling themselves Rus, founded the capital Kyiv in the region of the Dnipro River, and left their Nordic runes along the river bank to mark their new state. In the thirteenth century, the new Viking state of the Kyivan Rus sent a princess to marry the king of France and helped European states to repel Mongol invasions. The long history of Ukraine is a history punctuated by illegal domination by foreign powers. It was first invaded by the Grand Duchy of Lithuania. When Lithuania merged with the Kingdom of Poland, it was ruled by the new combined empire in the fourteenth, fifteenth, sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries. In 1648, the idealistic cavalry called the cossacks, who hated the persecution of innocent people, rebelled against the Polish-Lithuanian occupation of Ukraine and gave the Ukrainians back their freedom. In the eighteenth century, the Russian Empire, a mixture of Mongols and Slavs, invaded Ukraine. Next came an invasion by the Austria Habsburg empire. After the communist revolution in Russia, the Red Army invaded Ukraine. In 1922, Ukraine was forced to become a founding member of the USSR. In 1932-1933, the Soviets collectivized agriculture in Ukraine and starved five million farmers to death, in a holocaust known as Holodomor. In 1991, Russian President Boris Yeltsin removed Russia from the Soviet Union and signed an agreement which reestablished the freedom and independence of Ukraine. Look at the psychopathic world of Vladimir Putin and see peace loving nations targeted with mass destruction brought by fire, blast and radioactive fallout. See the free world placed in the crosshairs of veiled nuclear threats, explicit nuclear threats, nuclear scenarios, nuclear scenes and nuclear storylines, and see the future of civilization hang in the balance: "Intelligence community leaders said Tuesday during a House Intelligence Committee hearing that Russian President Vladimir Putin's veiled nuclear threat should be taken seriously. Ranking Member Mike Turner (R-OH) asked top intelligence officials testifying whether Russian President Vladimir Putin would be willing to use nuclear weapons if the US or NATO intervened in the Ukraine war to protect innocent civilians. Central Intelligence Agency Director Williams Burns responded: 'In response to your direct question about a scenario in which NATO and the United States were directly involved in military conflict with Russia, Russian doctrine holds that you escalate to deescalate, so I think the risk would rise according to that doctrine of, in extremis, the Russian leadership considering the use of tactical nuclear weapons.' Defense Intelligence Agency Army Lieutenant Gen. Scott Berrier warned that Putin should be taken at his word. 'I also believe that when he says something we should listen very, very carefully and maybe take him at his word. This question is the one that analysts are pondering right now and I think we really need to do some more work on it.'" (US Intelligence Officials Say Putin's Nuclear Threat Should Be Taken Seriously by Kristina Wong). Reincarnation is the religious belief that there exists a supernatural essence in a living being which can begin a new life in a different physical body. Students of history have utilized this superstition to provide a vivid picture of the mortal danger facing the present day. They see Vladimir Putin as the reincarnation of Adolf Hitler and see the fascist cult of death by which Hitler destroyed Germany and destroyed Europe before destroying himself come back to life. They see the heir, successor and final derivative of Marxism as the racial and ethnic politics, championed by Hitler and Putin, which threatens the world today. They see the moral and military necessity of nuclear war to remove a leader who worships at the altar of apocalypticism and will use the terror of the atom to bring it about.

REDS SHUT DOWN SHOCKLEY

A bellwether is defined as any leader or indicator of a trend. The term has applications to many fields. In politics, it refers to a region whose electoral tendencies match those of the wider nation, so that the result of an election in the region predict the results in the nation. In the stock market, the term refers to a company seen as a leading indicator of the direction of a sector, an industry or the market. Students of culture have seen a bellwether event in the field of contemporary history, an event which pointed the way inescapably downward into the end stage development of civilization. They have seen a sheep with a bell around its neck leading the way into society's descent into tyranny. They have seen an event which blocked out the noonday light of moral integrity and showed the passage of the establishment into the dark caves of censorship and suppression. They have seen an event which indicated the course of free nations into the fences and watchtowers of totalitarian lockstep and served as the first symptom of the fated, fearsome and terrifying disease which struck the West. They have issued their report on the case of William Shockley and to read it is to read an expose of a preeminent scandal in the eyes of liberal minded people, and to read the first offensive, the opening chapter, of the war launched by the powers that be against the free and open exchange of ideas and opinions. Their report is as follows. William Shockley was an American physicist who was awarded the Nobel Prize in Physics in 1956 for the development of the transistor. His research led to the development of the silicon chip. He founded the Shockley Semiconductor Laboratory which sparked the electronics revolution and created Silicon Valley, the global center of high technology and innovation, and shining symbol of scientific progress. In 1979, the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers awarded him its Medal of Honor and the president of the institute described Shockley's contributions thus: "If there is one person who's had the most impact on electronics in this century, it is Dr Shockley." In the latter part of his career, Shockley entered the field of genetics and made a claim which was as controversial as it was condemned. He claimed the blacks are genetically inferior to whites: "My research leads me inescapably to the opinion that the major cause of the American negro's intellectual and social deficits is hereditary and racially genetic in origin and, thus, not remediable to a major degree by practical improvements in the environment." (Firing Line, June 10, 1974). The response to Shockley's claim revealed more about its opponents than it did about the falsity of the claim itself. It revealed the depths of red partisan coloration of the establishment and its determination to root out a rival. It was not a liberal response which condemned Shockley's claim as unsupported by the evidence and as necessitating prejudging individuals on the basis of their race, but was the response of those who supported other doctrines of tribalism and resented an interloper not wanted in their precincts. It was the response of tribalists wearing other armbands, tribalists who marched under the banners of black power, communism and the proletariat, tribalists who controlled the channels of mass discourse and mass communication, and sought to keep out the white racism peddled by Shockley. The black power reds and the communists launched a campaign to suppress Shockley's speech and remove, erase and expunge his achievements in physics. His deserved place in the group of famous, respected and important scientists was unceremoniously swept away by the red partisans in control of the establishment: " 'If he ever had a following, he lost it then,' says Sheldon Roberts. But criticism only seemed to make him more obstinate. A career that deserved an honored position in the pantheon of scientific achievement was forgotten, superseded by the image of Shockley the racist crackpot." (The Twisted Legacy Of William Shockley by Michael Hiltzik). Shockley was obstructed in his speaking tours and was shouted down at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, Sacramento State University and Stanford University. Listen to the words of the reds in control of the establishment and hear them reject the principle of free speech. Hear them extend free speech to communists and black radicals and to nobody else. Hear them place the United States Constitution into a shredding machine and fill the land with the thunder of speech suppression. Hear them weaponize the law to cancel and persecute the opponents of the far left. Hear them commandeer colleges, classrooms, campuses, seminars and law schools to make mass murder legitimate and incite black communist lynching, violence, revolution and genocide: "The Law School Forum's cancellation of a scheduled William Shockley/Roy Innes debate Race Differences In I.Q. And Dysgenics on October 26 has provoked charges that SDS [communist organization Students for a Democratic Society] endangered free speech. Letters in The Crimson accused SDS of 'denying a Nobel Laureate his 1st Amendment rights.' This is our response to these charges and similar ones made by the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE). You might ask: why stop him from speaking when anyone can see he is a racist? First, there is no right to speak at the Harvard Law Forum. The organizers use discretion in inviting speakers as yet we have not received an invitation. Everyone agrees that there are limits to abstract free speech. One man's right to organize incite, or legitimize race hatred leads to another person's lynching or exploitation. Should a medical school professor be allowed to teach that thalidomide is a good sleeping drug for a pregnant woman? Should a scientist of Shockley's prestige be free to suggest genocide as a solution to America's problems? No. A faculty committee recommended cancellation of Shockley's seminar on genetics since he is not qualified and 'the essentially genocidal policies he has seemed to propose are not only painful for black people to hear, but are abhorrence to all decent people whatever their skin color.' (New York Times, May 2, 1972)." (Shockley And Free Speech by Tom Bailey, Brian Mendis and Kathy Moos, Harvard Crimson, November 6, 1973). The opponents of Shockley champion the cause of their enemy. Marching under the banners of tribal politics and race hatred, they have lit up the skies with the swastikas of black Aryan supremacy and declared war on Western civilization. In charge of the establishment, they silenced Shockley in the name of their own far left program and launched an attack on the liberal order taken out of the pages of Adolf Hitler. These red antiShockleyites proclaimed that a progressive school system teaches that whites are guilty of the spirit murder of blacks. They proclaimed that capitalist society is a race based, white supremacist society. They proclaimed that white people must surrender all their rights and privileges and acknowledge the racial superiority of blacks. They proclaimed that whites are the colonizers of indigenous lands and must be immediately expropriated and removed. They proclaimed that the West was built on the labor of blacks and belongs to blacks. They proclaimed that the image of the black power fist is the image of the mass murder of whites and is the image of black liberation. They proclaimed that a progressive society demands the use of gender pronoun identifiers and race labeling in schools and workplaces in order to facilitate discrimination against whites. They proclaimed that white people must atone for their sin of existing and become dedicated agitators for the cause of black power. They proclaimed that white people possess lizard brains which makes them hesitant and afraid to talk about the inferiority of their own race and to make the mental journey into the fever swamps of black national socialism. They proclaimed that capitalism kills the souls of blacks through systematic, institutionalized, state sanctioned violence against blacks. They proclaimed that a progressive school system is a racial equity program and activist organization which promotes violence and discrimination against whites. They proclaimed that a progressive school system trains teachers to disseminate black ideology in the classroom and to persecute white students in the name of antiracist pedagogy. They proclaimed that a progressive society is a social justice movement which acknowledges that whites are the enemies of blacks and seeks to abolish whiteness. They proclaimed that a progressive school system renounces neutral teaching standards and trains teachers to be dedicated race campaigners and trench fighters for the cause of black nationhood. They proclaimed that a progressive school system renounces the pursuit of truth and knowledge and trains teachers to set fire to classrooms with the gasoline cans of black racist language. They proclaimed that a progressive society is ruled by race equity brigades which travel across land and enforce their black power agenda by brazen intimidation and brute force. They proclaimed that a progressive school system holds training sessions for teachers which instructs them to tell their students that capitalism is a system of white privilege and that the present class of privileged whites must be overthrown and enslaved. They proclaimed that a progressive school system replaces traditional learning and liberal academics with a curriculum promoting communist revolution and hatred of whites. They proclaimed that a progressive school system renounces the liberal ideal of racial tolerance and teaches black students to hate whites and to subject them to merciless ill treatment. They proclaimed that capitalism is a system of racist ideas, structures and policies and the system must be confronted, examined and hurled into the dustbin of history. They proclaimed that the transmission of knowledge is an oppressive practice in schools and must be replaced by the inculcation of critical race theory. According to this theory, the only legitimate social theory is black racist theory which criticizes liberal jurisprudence and the capitalist system on grounds of race and advocates the establishment of a black communist totalitarian dictatorship. Looking back at the course of red suppression in the West, students of history have been confronted by three fundamental facts. Fact one: it is a course of increasing violence, destruction, invasion and occupation. Fact two: it has spread like a cancer into every sector of the state and society and entered the precincts of homes, schools, offices and parliaments. Fact three: it all began with the suppression of William Shockley.

REDS' SWASTIKAS FESTOON FREE NATIONS

Titanic is a German propaganda film made in Berlin during World War II by the world famous Universum Film Aktiengesellschaft. Commissioned by Third Reich Propaganda Joseph Goebbels, the film seeks to show that capitalism and the profit motive were responsible for the disaster which befell the RMS Titanic and that only a national socialist society is capable of protecting and preserving human life and dignity. Students of history have seen in this renowned, four star production, seen in the magic, flickering twilight brought by the silver screen, a terrifying portrayal of the ruling themes of our times. They have seen in the darkness of today swastikas light up the skies and German occupied Europe come back to life in the form of a virulent race and ethnicity politics promoted by the red establishment. They have seen in this popular, cinematic condemnation of a free society and its financial stock markets an eighty five minute diatribe whose words and images fill the corridors of public life in the present day and point the way inescapably downward into the collapse of the liberal order and the destruction of civilization. They have seen in this depiction of water ravaging through a ship symbolizing capitalism before the ship plunges silently beneath the waves, a representation of the horror, the whirlwind and the sloping deck of a new race and ethnicity based political order as it crashes into a seabed of failed civilizations and dooms the lives of millions of innocent people. There was never time in the history of the West when the masses and have been so obsessed with issues of race and ethnicity as they are in the present day. There was never a time when the color of one's skin or one's ethnicity and background mattered as much in the assessment of individual worth as they matter today. Students of history have seen in the development of this national socialist, swastika orthodoxy a natural, logical and inevitable evolution of the overarching religion of our times, Marxism. They have seen a development from the simple to the complex, an expansion from Marxist class identity theory into the multiplying race and ethnicity identity theories which rule the world today, and understand that when reason was first abandoned by Marxism in the nineteenth century in favor of the mystical currents of class tribalism, logic would demand the development of a plethora of tribalist theories as cancer cells spread throughout a stricken organism. They understand that there is no logical reason for tribalist thought to stop arbitrarily at class based thinking and not to move on to other forms of tribalism. They understand that racism and ethnicism are the heirs and successors of classism and proceed from the same root causes: the rejection of reason and the embrace of mysticism, and the rejection of individualism and the embrace of collectivism. They understand that the irrational, mystical and collectivist philosophies which have ruled the West over the past one hundred years have made the unimaginable imaginable and the unbelievable believable, and inscribed the collapse of Western civilization upon the granite walls of destiny. They have seen a nightmare procession take place through black midnight caves, sequences of monsters and madmen spreading war and violence in the name of race and ethnicity, and have transcribed what they have heard so that future generations may learn the consequences for society when reason is renounced, as they pick their way through the ashes and rubble. What students of history have put into printed form is a program and manifesto of Marxist inspired swastika politics which has closed the story of civilization and made human progress a distant memory and discarded relic of the Age of Enlightenment. This program of Marx, Hitler and their latter day epigones and imitators proclaims that liberal opposition to black racist politics stems from white resentment, white fragility, white rage and white fear. It proclaims that a progressive school system exposes white students to militant students of color and pounds critical race theory into their young brains. According to this theory, the only proper and legitimate social theory is critical theory, or theory which criticizes capitalism and the liberal traditions of the West from a black communist point of view, and theory which demands the extermination of the racist, bigoted, oppressive and genetically inferior white population. The program of today's neoMarxists proclaims that support for capitalism stems from a fear of white replacement and from a desire to protect whiteness. It proclaims that a progressive society is a far left black demographic society which has risen up against the white capitalist order. It proclaims that a progressive society launches race equity initiatives which ensure that schools and workforces admit and employ blacks in proportion to their presence in the general population. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of black exclusion, Jim Crow and the Ku Klux Klan. It proclaims that capitalism is a white league ruled by racist mass shooters. It proclaims that a progressive school system eliminates academic standards and discriminates against white students. It proclaims that free societies which strongly uphold individual rights and individual merit are bastions of backward looking white conservatism. It proclaims that a progressive school system challenges the myth of liberal individualism and places ethnic studies at the center of its curriculum. It proclaims that a progressive school system advocates the decolonization of America, the extermination of its citizens with European backgrounds, and the return of the country to the rule of Indian tribes. It proclaims that a progressive school system seeks to liberate students from the yoke of science, capitalism and settler colonialism and teach them the virtues of primitive, tribal, indigenous life. It proclaims that a progressive school system is characterized by culturally responsive teaching which promotes the customs, arts, social institutions and achievements of primitive, bloodthirsty, nonWestern societies. It proclaims that a progressive school system teaches students to engage in land acknowledgment and affirm that America occupies unceded Indian territory and must be returned to the noble savages who worship the skies, the land and the waters. It proclaims that American capitalism is a white racist settler system and an illegitimate colonial power and must be overthrown by a revolution of collectivist tribes of the native plains. It proclaims that a progressive school system is a pedagogy of the oppressed which teaches students that they are oppressed by the capitalist system and teaches them the praxis, or skills of violence and destruction, which are necessary to overthrow the oppressors. It proclaims that a progressive school system is grounded in the correct Marxist, ethnicist and tribalist politics in order to properly educate students. It proclaims that Americans live on appropriated land and must surrender their rights and freedoms to the ferocious animals who pitched teepees on the plains and killed each other for thousands of years. It proclaims that capitalism is a lash of oppression which occupies and usurps land, labor and resources from blacks and the poor. It proclaims that capitalism is a parasitic system in which the rich are allowed to exploit the poor, whites are allowed to exploit nonwhites, and men are allowed to exploit women. Look at the world of today's reds and see swastika movements parading under the banners of race studies, ethnic studies and the will to power. See collectivist ideologies take over primary schools, secondary schools and universities and rewrite their courses of study. See students taught to revere false gods, ancient and modern, from the Aztec gods of large scale killing to the black gods of large scale killing to the proletarian gods of large scale killing. See political religions worshiping at the altars of race and ethnicity achieve social, cultural and educational hegemony and poison the portals of mass communication. See Marxists and Hitlerites form, develop and promote theories and frameworks of tribal consciousness and hatred of capitalism and white people. See a method of teaching promoting hatred of racial, ethnic and socioeconomic groups paraded as a pedagogy of the oppressed. See capitalism condemned as a racist, bigoted, discriminatory, imperialist, colonial system and a merciless lash of white supremacy. See teachers stimulate their students to organize social movements placing groups above individuals, social justice above individual justice, committing crimes against white people and against people with property in the name of the will to power of blacks and the poor, and establishing a postliberal, postcapitalist, postEnlightenment and postcivilization society: "Next week, the California Department of Education will vote on a new statewide ethnic studies curriculum that advocates for the 'decolonization' of American society and elevates Aztec religious symbolism—all in the service of a leftwing political ideology. The new program, called the Ethnic Studies Model Curriculum, seeks to extend the left's cultural dominance of California's public university system, 50 years in the making, to the state's entire primary and secondary education system, which consists of 10,000 public schools serving a total of six million students. In theoretical terms, the new ethnic studies curriculum is based on the 'pedagogy of the oppressed,' developed by Marxist theoretician Paulo Freire, who argued that students must be educated about their oppression in order to attain 'critical consciousness' and, consequently, develop the capacity to overthrow their oppressors. Following this dialectic, the model curriculum instructs teachers to help students 'challenge racist, bigoted, discriminatory, imperialist/colonial beliefs' and critique 'white supremacy, racism and other forms of power and oppression.' This approach, in turn, enables teachers to inspire their pupils to participate in 'social movements that struggle for social justice' and 'build new possibilities for a postracist, postsystemic racism society.' " (Revenge Of The Gods by Christopher Rufo). A dark, heavy storm cloud hangs over the West. Charged with satanic particles spelling out racial gangs, ethnic gangs, social justice and group rights, it has rained down destruction upon the world.

RED CAESARS AND THEIR MOBS

The word window comes from the Old Norse vindauga, from vindr, meaning wind, and auga, meaning eye, and referred to a view or look from the inside of a structure into the swirling currents of the outer world. The earliest windows appeared in the thirteenth century BC and were unglazed openings in a roof to admit light during the day. Students of history see themselves trapped in a nightmare structure whose windows look out into the terrifying landscapes of the past and the future. They see themselves confined in a dark house whose casements afford them one view and one view alone: into the black rivers of past failure and future destiny which flow eternally downward into Satan's caves without light, without air and without hope. In the past they see a portent of the future and in the future they see a reflection of the past, and see a rampage of chaos and evil arising and descending throughout history, without surcease and without reprieve. In the past they see an event which caused great damage and suffering and signaled the beginning of the end of the greatest civilization ever produced by man. They see a Roman general and statesman named Julius Caesar lead an army in a civil war, an army which trampled freedom underfoot and ground it into the earth, an army which made Caesar dictator of Rome, assassinated the Roman Republic, and led to the rise of the Roman Empire and the demise of Classical civilization, the greatest embodiment of human reason in the history of mankind. They see a man who in 49 BC defied the authority of the senate and the constitution, crossed the Rubicon, and marched toward Rome with his army to overthrow the government. They see a man who launched and won a civil war and achieved absolute power in 45 BC. They see a man who, after assuming power, gave citizenship to unassimilated scum in the farthest regions of the republic, stole land for the masses, eliminated debts incurred by the masses, gave bread, circuses and grain doles to the masses, and was proclaimed by the masses Dictator for Life and Father of the Fatherland, as the masses renamed the month Quintilis July in his honor. On the Ides of March in 44 BC, Caesar was assassinated by Brutus, a brave senator who championed freedom and the rule of law and sought to liberate the nation from Caesar's populism, mobocracy, authoritarianism, welfare statism and lack of accountability to the courts. But the mobs sided with Caesar and in the infamous Battle of Pharsalus in 48 BC, Brutus surrendered. The constitutional government of the Roman Republic was never restored and Caesar's heir Octavian rose to power and became Caesar Augustus, the first Roman emperor. The inauguration of Caesar Augustus marked the onset of the Roman Empire and commenced the downward trajectory of Classical civilization into statism and tyranny, and decreed its eventual defeat at the hands of two alien forces: German barbarism and Eastern Christianity. Students of history have seen in Caesar, whom the masses deified when he died, the first Roman leader to be deified, and posthumously granted the title God Julius, a portrait of the politics of the present day and a frightening signpost pointing the way downward into the fate which befell Rome. They have seen the growth of imperial executives, unconstitutional executives and strongman executives, seen latter day Caesars put an end to liberal freedom, establish collectivist orders by popular acclaim, and show the inevitable direction of mass democracy into far left swamplands filled to overflowing by the mass votes of millions. They have seen Caesar come alive in America in the present day, come alive in the world's historic arsenal of freedom and law, and issue a series of executive orders consolidating red control over the nation and the disestablishment of freedom and law. In the person of President Joe Biden, Caesar issued Executive Order Number Three which announced that America will return to the Paris Climate Agreement. Setting lower carbon dioxide emissions targets for nonWestern countries than for Western countries, the treaty is unfair to American industry. The treaty as well rests upon unproven claims of man made climate change. During the Medieval Warming Period in the years 900-1300 AD, the earth was much warmer than it is today, while atmospheric carbon dioxide levels were much lower. In the period which followed, lasting until 1850, the earth entered a Little Ice Age, while atmospheric carbon dioxide levels were rising in consequence of the Industrial Revolution. Science tells us that the earth is subject to natural shifts in global temperatures and that the latter have nothing whatever to do with atmospheric carbon dioxide levels. In contrast, the red religion of environmentalism tells us that there is a causal connection between increases in atmospheric temperatures and rising carbon dioxide levels, and that, in consequence, the achievements of industry, technology and modern civilization over the past two hundred years must be swept away in a revolution and race back to the year zero: "The years 900-1300 AD have been labeled the Medieval Warming Period, as global temperatures rose precipitously from the bitter cold of the previous epoch, the Dark Ages, to levels several degrees warmer than today. A sudden period of cooling then followed and lasted until the year 1850. This Little Ice Age brought on extremely cold temperatures, corresponding with three periods of protracted solar inactivity, the lowest temperatures coinciding with the quietest of the three (The Maunder Minimum 1645-1710). And then began the modern warming period, which, by the way, many scientists believe ended with the millennium itself. Given these natural shifts over the past 1,000 years, its certainly not surprising that after a period of cooling, which followed a period of warming, wed again enter a period of warming. And that, of course, presented quite the quandary to opportunists hell bent on blaming warming on industrial revolution triggered atmospheric CO2 increases. Something had to be done to convince the world that modern warming was unprecedented and could therefore only be explained by something unnatural, specifically the greenhouse effect. And something was indeed done. What if we confront the fact that temperatures were higher 1,000 years ago, and cooler 300 years ago? The Earth started warming long before cars and power stations were invented. There is little correlation with CO2 levels." (Our World Was Hotter 1,000 Years Ago by Sunil Kewalramani). In the person of President Joe Biden, Caesar issued Executive Order Number Four which announced the establishment of race, ethnicity and gender quotas for hiring in the civil service and justified preferential treatment on the basis of race, ethnicity and gender in the name of equity: "Each federal agency must assess whether, and to what extent, its programs and policies perpetuate systemic barriers to opportunities and benefits for people of color and other underserved groups." This Executive Order as well abolished the 1776 Commission set up by President

Donald Trump. The purpose of the commission was to enable Americans to understand the history and principles of the founding of the nation in 1776. The commission affirmed the primacy of constitutional governance above the tyranny of the majority. It affirmed the existence of individual rights as flowing from the inherent nature of man as a free born agent. It affirmed the principle of equal protection under the law without regard to gender, race or class, the foundation of Anglo-Saxon and Enlightenment thought, and the right of the individual to live, work and flourish for himself without leave from a tribe, a caste, the state or the community: "The bedrock upon which the American political system is built is the rule of law. The vast difference between tyranny and the rule of law is a central theme of political thinkers back to classical antiquity. The idea that the law is superior to rulers is the cornerstone of English constitutional thought as it developed over the centuries. The concept was transferred to the American colonies, and can be seen expressed throughout colonial pamphlets and political writings. The core assertion of the Declaration, and the basis of the founders' political thought, is that 'all men are created equal.' From the principle of equality, the requirement for consent naturally follows: if all men are equal, then none may by right rule another without his consent. The assertion that 'all men are created equal' must also be properly understood. It does not mean that all human beings are equal in wisdom, courage, or any of the other virtues and talents that God and nature distribute unevenly among the human race. It means rather that human beings are equal in the sense that they are not by nature divided into castes, with natural rulers and ruled." (The 1776 Report, The President's Advisory 1776 Commission). Shutting down the commission, President Biden denounced five centuries of Western politics and jurisprudence. He denounced freedom as offensive. He denounced liberal government as repulsive. He denounced the founding of America as the founding of slavery in the New World. He denounced the principle of equality under the law in the name of group rights. He advocated race consciousness, gender consciousness and class consciousness in the name of unity, healing and sensitivity, and advocated a holocaust against successful, white males in the name of diversity, equity and inclusion: "Look, in the weeks ahead. I'll be reaffirming the federal government's commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion and accessibility, building on the work we started in the Obama-Biden administration. That's why I'm rescinding the previous administration's harmful ban on diversity and sensitivity training and abolish the offensive counterfactual 1776 commission. Unity and healing must begin with understanding and truth, not ignorance, and lies." (Remarks By President Joe Biden At Signing of An Executive Order On Racial Equity, January 2021). Cycles are a universal phenomenon in nature. From the earth's rotation around the sun to the procession of the seasons to the flow of oxygen and carbon dioxide by respiration from animals and photosynthesis from plants, sequences of events repeated in the same order are fundamental events occurring throughout the universe. Students of history have seen the march of Caesar's legions upon the capital cities of the West today and seen the return of Caesar's tyranny. They have seen today's Caesars dressed in the robes of reds, radicals and gender, race and class agitators and seen them smash through the gates of civilization.

A CENTURY OF THE RED MENACE

An octopus is an eight limbed mollusc of the order Octopoda. It has two eyes and a beaked mouth at the center point of its limbs. It is venomous; it can change its size and shape to squeeze through small spaces; it expels ink; it can change its color and uses camouflage and deceit; and it is able to jet rapidly through the water and hide. Students of history have seen in this creature with its unusual abilities and its many arms emanating from a common center a symbol of the most powerful and evil movement ever created by man. They have seen in the octopus a perfect metaphor for the spread of an ideology of fear and control throughout the world; its expansion into every every sector of the state and society; and its poisoning, paralysis and destruction of civilization. The relentless advance of a red octopus sitting atop the globe commenced in the early decades of the twentieth century when mass democracy first placed red ideas onto the throne of political and cultural power and made them the ruling orthodoxies of the establishment. Changing color and shape in the guises of Marxism, Progressivism, communism, fascism, national socialism, social democracy, the mixed economy, the welfare state, identity politics and gender, race and class ideologies, a red sea monster has sent out tentacles which have taken control over the nations of the world and composed the epitaph of the West, an inscription on a tombstone, which reads: Here lies a civilization which renounced the government of reason and the march of freedom and descended into the raging infernos of mysticism and collectivism. Voted upon and clamored for by the majority, the multitudes, the man on the street and the man next door, the religion of the reds has dominated the history of the past one hundred years, and has revealed the inhuman soul of this late modern age as its citizens give expression to the envy, hatred and discontent which has blackened the soul of Everyman since time immemorial, since Everyman first trod upon the face of the earth. Achieving world domination with its cruel, barbaric appendages, not human in nature or character, the red shroud reaching across the planet is a veil of moral and spiritual extinction and its program and manifesto has brought the story of mankind to a fiery close. Preached in every home, school, office and parliament in the world, the system of faith and worship created by the reds proclaims that times have moved beyond the Age of Enlightenment and contemporary society is too complex to be governed by the eighteenth century principles of individual rights. It proclaims that liberalism's founding documents, such as the Magna Carta and the United States Constitution, are not capable of operating in advanced industrial society, which requires a regime of collective control and regimentation. It proclaims that moral truths are not permanent but relative to their time and the truths expressed in the United States Declaration of Independence, that individuals are endowed with inalienable rights, are false today. It proclaims that individuals are not the primary existents and only groups have rights, and society has the power and obligation to create new rights for new groups. It proclaims that a progressive government does not secure individual rights grounded in the fact that man is a free born agent, but operates under the doctrine of the living law and the living constitution under which only groups have rights and these rights constantly change and evolve. It proclaims that a progressive society is governed by expert managers who direct individuals through rules and regulations which make them advance the common good. It proclaims that a progressive government operates independently of laws and constitution in its quest to secure collective power: "The functions of government are in a very real sense independent of legislation, and even constitutions." (Woodrow Wilson). It proclaims that a progressive state is a bureaucratic state and an administrative state which abrogates individual rights in the name of pragmatism and science. It proclaims that a progressive state is a dictatorship of the majority which operates without checks and balances and without constitutional restraint. It proclaims that a progressive state has destroyed freedom and liberty and subjected its citizens to perpetual servitude to the national interest. It proclaims that a progressive society is a totalitarian society which has eliminated the natural rights of free people. It proclaims that a progressive society concentrates all power into the hands of the state and directs the people to the achievement of the national good. It proclaims that the individual is a phantom creature which possesses no meaning or existence outside the state: "Everything in the state, nothing outside the state, nothing against the state." (Benito Mussolini). It proclaims that a progressive society is a political movement which sacrifices the individual to the achievement of Aryan racial supremacy. It proclaims that a progressive society is predicated on the idea of class struggle and defines individuals solely in terms of their class. It proclaims that a progressive society is a communist society which is based upon force, violence and open, brazen disregard for the rights of the individual: "They openly declare that their ends can be attained only by the forcible overthrow of all existing social conditions. Let the ruling classes tremble at a communist revolution." (Communist Manifesto by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels). It proclaims that a progressive society is a universalist movement of global communist conquest which has set up satellite regimes reaching across Europe, Asia, Africa, North America and South America. It proclaims that a progressive society is an antiliberal society which seizes private property and redistributes wealth as the masses deem fit. It proclaims that a progressive society is a discriminatory society which renounces equal opportunity in favor of black rights. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal notions of color blind civil rights and mandates affirmative action and preferential treatment for blacks. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the liberal notions of equal citizens, equal natural rights and equal application of the law and establishes a regime of group privileges and social justice which sorts people into races, ethnicities and genders. It proclaims that a progressive society demands equal outcomes and equal results and achieves this by the imposition of racial and gender quotas and diversity tables. It proclaims that achieving a diverse workforce and a diverse student body are more important than achieving a qualified workforce or a qualified student body because social rights is more important than individual merit. It proclaims that Hitler was right and race is a plus factor in all personnel selection procedures, so that in any contest between a white candidate and a nonwhite candidate, the black candidate should be preferred. It proclaims that a progressive society is governed by the doctrine that new times demands new rights, and is a regime of formal inequality and identity politics which values people by such attributes as race, ethnicity, gender and sexual orientation. It proclaims that our racial and gender identities hold primacy over our alleged common status as human beings endowed with reason and freedom, for such status is a myth and construct of the Age of Enlightenment. It proclaims that a progressive society grants power and privileges to women and nonwhites and grants them a moral and legal claim on the lives and property of white males. It proclaims that white males are the oppressors and exploiters of women and nonwhites and must be punished for their sins and for the sins of their ancestors. It proclaims that the liberal creed of individual liberty and equality under the law without respect to gender, race or class is a scourge against women, nonwhites and the poor and must be swept away by the purging flames of identity politics. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of perpetuation of cruelty and injustice against minority and marginalized groups. It proclaims that liberal government was founded on the basis of whiteness, was founded by white males and was founded for the benefit of white males. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of brutal, repressive hierarchies ruled by successful, white, heterosexual, biological men. It proclaims that a progressive society is not based upon the recognition of a universal rational human essence but is a balkanized jungle of gender, race and class majority and minority groups. It proclaims that the proper basis of slavery resides in the doctrines of social justice and identity politics and these doctrine establish the necessity of enslaving the class of successful white males. It proclaims that a progressive society is ruled by activists promoting identity politics who seek to spill as much blood as possible of the global plague and poisoners of the oppressed: the class of successful, white, European ancestry males. It proclaims that a progressive society has eliminated the hegemonic narrative of liberal democracy and replaced it with a counter narrative and counter culture based upon the gender, race and class will to power. It proclaims that a progressive society has instigated a revolution by women, nonwhites, communists and the poor to subvert and destroy the liberal order: "[There is revolutionary potential in] the substratum of the outcasts and outsiders, the exploited of other races and other colors, the unemployed and the unemployable." (One Dimensional Man by Herbert Marcuse). The West has traveled far since the Age of Enlightenment. Rejecting the primacy of reason and individualism, it has traveled far into the distant reaches of the remote past. Over the past century, the masses have successively dismantled the traditions and institutions established by free nations. Collectivism, tribalism and gender, race and class politics imposed by administrative rulings, executive orders, parliamentary laws, supreme court decisions, and by the will and consent of the governed. Such is the fate of civilization in a state of decline. The masses have raised their hands and unanimously voted away their rights, liberties and individual existence and moved back the hands of time to the year before zero.

RUSSIA'S VICTORY OVER THE WEST

The word appeasement came into the English language in 1300 from the Anglo-French word, apeser. This came from the Old French word, apaisier, meaning to "pacify, placate, make calm." This was in turn derived from the Latin word, pacem, meaning "peace." The ultimate origin of the word is the Sanskrit pasa. Students of history have seen that the etymology of the word is as long and varied as the history of its spelling. They have seen the spelling change many times over the past one hundred years and seen each succeeding change serve as a signal and symptom of the increasing degeneration of the West. Fear, cowardice and appeasement of the forces of evil are the hallmarks of a civilization in decline. Covering 4.4 million square kilometers at its height, the Roman Empire was brought to its knees by the alien forces of German barbarism and Eastern Christianity, and collapsed in the fourth century in a state of moral and spiritual bankruptcy. The history of the changes in the spelling of appeasement forms a timeline of the downward acceleration in which the free world is trapped and has planted a signpost pointing the way ineluctably into its doom and extinction. In 1938, appeasement was respelled Munich Agreement, which provided "cession to Germany of the Sudeten German territory of Czechoslovakia." In 1945, appeasement was respelled Yalta Conference, when British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and American President Franklin Roosevelt accepted the demands of Soviet leader Joseph Stalin and betrayed Central and Eastern Europe to communism. In 1953, appeasement was respelled by the failure of the West to support the anticommunist uprising in East Germany. In 1956, appeasement was respelled by the failure of the West to support the anticommunist Hungarian Revolution. In 1961, appeasement was respelled by the failure of the West to halt the construction of the Berlin Wall. In 1968, appeasement was respelled by the failure of the West to support the anticommunist protests in Czechoslovakia during Prague Spring. The final respelling of appeasement has occurred in the present day by the failure of the free world to repel acts of aggression against Ukraine committed by Russia, and this final respelling has chiseled and carved itself on the tombstone of the West. The only morally legitimate state is one which respects individual rights. Individuals and individuals alone exist and rights thus belong to individuals and not to groups. States, nations, races, genders and ethnicities do not as such possess any rights but only individuals possess rights. Ukraine is a liberal democratic state which protects the rights of its citizens. Russia is an authoritarian gangster state which violates the rights of its citizens. State crackdowns, state prosecutions, state raids, state encroachment, state suffocation, state abuse and state shredding of constitutional rights: such is the Russia of today, such was the Russia of yesteryear, and such has been the Russia for the entirety of its existence running through a thousand years of darkness and gloom: "Constitutional reform was a key development in 2020. Several abusive laws found further legal entrenchment in constitutional amendments. Following a controversial plebiscite on the reform in summer 2020, authorities launched a crackdown on dissenting voices, with new, politically motivated prosecutions and raids on the homes and offices of political and civic activists and organizations. Towards the end of the year the government submitted a series of new bills expanding on Russia's 'foreign agent law' and shrinking an already scarce space left for civic activism." (Russia: Events of 2020, Human Rights Watch). This Russia, this abode of the morally benighted and the spiritually dead, has no legitimate security concerns, no proper sphere of interests, no right to defend or protect itself, no right to gain territory from other states, no right to demand that Ukraine never join NATO, no right to demand that Ukraine disarm, no right to demand that Ukraine become a neutral, nonaligned state, no right to demand that Ukraine recognize Crimea and the Luhansk and Donetsk regions as parts of Russia, no right to resist NATO expansion, and no right whatever to exist. In 2014, appeasement was resopped when President Barack Obama refused to enforce a red line on the use of chemical weapons by Syria. This act of appeasement emboldened Russian President Vladimir Putin to invade Crimea in 2014. Immediately after the fall of communism, Russia signed an international treaty which recognized Crimea as a part of Ukraine. Appeasement was resopped by the West's refusal to hold Russia to account for its violation of the treaty and by its refusal to repel the invasion of Crimea. In 2014, appeasement was resopped when the West refused to repel Russian backed separatists in the Luhansk and Donetsk regions who launched a war of independence which claimed the lives of 14,000 people. In 2021, appeasement was resopped when American President Joe Biden effected an unconditional withdrawal of American forces from Afghanistan, leaving one thousand Americans and Afghans behind, together with 85 billion dollars in advanced American military hardware. America's appeasement empowered the forces of global terror: "The hasty withdrawal of US military forces in Afghanistan turned the Taliban into a major US arms dealer for the next decade. The Taliban is going to be selling tickets to their terrorist gun show." (Taliban Finding New Uses For American Equipment Abandoned In Afghanistan, Watchdog Warns by Andrew Jose, quoting Adam Andrzejewski). America's appeasement in Afghanistan emboldened President Putin in his quest to annex Ukraine and greenlighted the invasion he launched in 2022. In 2022, appeasement was resopped when the West refused to repel the invasion launched by President Putin. In 2022, appeasement was resopped when NATO refused to establish a no fly zone against Russia over Ukraine. In 2022, appeasement was resopped when NATO refused to transfer Soviet era MIGs to Ukraine. In 2022, appeasement was resopped when NATO refused to transfer its Soviet era S-300 antiaircraft weapons to Ukraine. In 2022, appeasement was resopped when the West refused to sanction every Russian official who refused to denounce the aggression in Ukraine. In 2022, appeasement was resopped when the West refused to withdraw all of its companies from Russia. In 2022, appeasement was respelled when the West refused to keep all Russian made goods, including energy supplies, out of its markets. In 2022, appeasement was respelled when the European Union refused to make Ukraine a member and defend it against Russian aggression. In 2022, appeasement was respelled when NATO refused to make Ukraine a member and defend it against Russian aggression. In 2022, appeasement was respelled when the West refused to order the assassination of Putin or order his arrest on the charge of waging aggressive war. In 2022, appeasement was respelled when the West refused to use nuclear weapons to repel the Russian invasion. Good people understand that a world devoid of moral order, a world in which acts of aggression committed by rogue nations are allowed to stand, is not a world fit to inhabit by human beings and is a world fit only for annihilation. Good people understand that to advance the cause of global freedom and moral order, nuclear war is thinkable, conceivable, imaginable and may be imperative. Good people understand that nations which are afraid to fight and die for the cause of freedom in a nuclear war are nations which do not deserve to live in freedom and security. Good people understand that the success and survival of global freedom and moral order warrants waging nuclear war or nothing whatever warrants waging nuclear war and nothing whatever is really and truly worth dying for. On January 21, 2021, Joe Biden took the following oath of office: "I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the Office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States." Now listen to the words of Joe Biden and hear him forswear the use of American soldiers, American weapons and American nuclear force in a war, in a global war, in a World War III, to defend the greatest cause of all time: the preservation of liberal civilization. Hear him speak these words and hear appeasement respelled as it has never been respelled before: "The idea that we're going to send in offensive equipment and have planes and tanks and trains going in with American pilots and American crews—just understand, don't kid yourself, no matter what you all say, that's called World War III." (Statement by President Joe Biden to Democrats in the House of Representatives). The existence of America, its traditions, institutions and constitution which presidents swear to defend and uphold, is mortally threatened by the loss of Ukraine's freedom, independence and territorial integrity at the hands of Russian aggression. The Russian invasion by land, sea and air was the largest invasion by one state of another on the European continent since World War II and posed a mortal threat to global moral order and the rule of law. As Ukraine lay burning, gutted, prostrate, pummeled into the earth and smashed to particles of smoking ash, as its citizens fled by the millions in trains and automobiles, and its rolling wheat fields descended into the blackness of mass graves, Russia's satanic mission was unfurled for all the world to see. Its mission was to reestablish the Russian empire of czarism and communism which for a thousand years subjugated and enslaved free people and spread tyranny and fear across the face of the earth. In 2008, Vladimir Putin invaded Georgia and was greeted by Western appeasement. In 2014, he invaded Eastern Ukraine and annexed Crimea and was greeted by Western appeasement. In 2018, he sent operatives into Salisbury, England to kill Sergei Skripal, a former Russian military officer and double agent for British intelligence, by means of a Novichok nerve agent and was greeted by Western appeasement. In 2022, he invaded the whole of Ukraine and was greeted by Western appeasement. The division of Ukraine along the lines of the north-south Dnieper River and the creation of East Ukraine as a Russian state. The annexation of the Sea of Azov. The annexation of the Ukrainian Black Sea coast from the Donbas to Mariupol, Crimea, Kherson, Odessa and Transnistria, the latter already annexed by Russia from Moldova. The reduction of the free nation of Ukraine to a landlocked remnant without power or dignity of any kind. Such is the victory handed to Vladimir Putin in his war, in Russia's war, in the Soviets' war and in the czars' war, against the free world. Handed to him for nothing and without effort required by a civilization in chronic, terminal decline.

GEORGE KENNAN: FATHER OF SURRENDER

A synonym is a word which means the same as another word. The standard test for synonymy is substitution: one word can be replaced by another in a sentence without changing the meaning of the sentence. The word comes from the ancient Greek synonymon, made up of syn, meaning "the same", and onym, meaning "name". The English language is rich in synonyms because it is rich in loanwords. The most widely used English language synonym dictionary in the world, first published in the mid nineteenth century by Peter Mark Roget, Roget's Thesaurus includes the following words as synonyms for the word surrender: abandonment, abdication, capitulation, renunciation, submission and appeasement. Students of history have added to this list of shame a word in common parlance in the field of foreign policy. This synonym for surrender came into the language in the mid twentieth century and became a signpost pointing insistently downward, like the skeletal hands, scythe and shroud of the Grim Reaper, into the total collapse of civilization. It was first used by an American diplomat who would take his place as the architect of American policy toward communism. A senior official in the American mission in Moscow in the 1940s and a close associate of Averell Harriman, American ambassador to the Soviet Union, George Kennan founded the American policy of containment of communism. According to this policy, America should seek only to prevent the expansion of communism and should renounce all efforts to roll back and annihilate it. America should renounce all efforts to reclaim nations enslaved by communism for the free world and should allow communism to maintain a sphere of influence. America, the world's fortress, bastion and arsenal of freedom, should smash its rifles and bayonets and throw its global role and mission, its hallowed idealism and its very existence to the winds, and allow communism to subjugate one third of the population of the planet. Students of history understand containment, the Cold War foreign policy of America, as a synonym for surrender and understand rollback as a synonym for one hundred percent Americanism and the embodiment of nation's founding aim and mission: the spread of freedom throughout the world. Students of history understand that containment was the stance of the Democrat Party beginning in the late 1940s with the onset of the Cold War, while rollback was the original stance of the Republican Party in the early 1950s and ruled it for brief times thereafter, but containment became the ruling bipartisan stance of the American political establishment as it moved closer and closer to communist beliefs and practices. They understand that the American welfare state, imbued with communist philosophy, was morally incapable of conducting a global rollback of communism, and that all civilizations in a state of decline, lying prostrate in the grip of fear and cowardice, are morally incapable of fighting for the cause of freedom. Students of history saw intermittent displays of communist rollback in America and celebrated as the torch of liberty flickered during these brief shining moments. They saw the case of Iran. In 1951, the communist candidate Mohammad Mosaddegh won the election and immediately nationalized the oil industry. America plotted a revolution, called Operation Ajax, and this was effected with success in 1953, and Iran became a free country under the leadership of a proWestern monarchy ruled by the Shah. They saw the case of Guatemala. In 1951, the communist candidate Jacobo Arbenz was elected and immediately instituted a program of land confiscation and redistribution. America commenced a covert operation to overthrow the government, and this was effected in 1954, and nine days after the revolution, an anticommunist military officer named Carlos Castillo Arma became president. This was an unprecedented rollback of a communist takeover: "This is the first instance in history where a Communist government has been replaced by a free one." (American Vice President Richard Nixon). In the 1980s, they saw President Ronald Reagan order the overthrow of the communist government of Afghanistan by providing weapons to the Mujahideen, order the overthrow the communist government of Nicaragua by providing weapons to the Contras, and order the invasion of Grenada, called Operation Urgent Fury, to roll back a communist coup and reestablish an anticommunist government. During this decade, America took down the alien white flag of containment and hoisted the native American flag of rollback. It sought to expel the forces of communist aggression and secure the rights of man: "We must not break faith with those who are risking their lives—on every continent from Afghanistan to Nicaragua—to defy Soviet supported aggression and secure rights which have been ours from birth." (State Of The Union Address by Ronald Reagan, 1985). The history of the policy of containment is a history of American decline. During the Korean War, General Douglas MacArthur led United Nations forces and advanced across the Thirty Eighth parallel into North Korea to liberate the country. China defeated the invading forces and pushed them back below the Thirty Eighth parallel. President Harry Truman did not possess the courage to deploy nuclear weapons to repel the Chinese and liberate North Korea and proclaimed a policy of "limited war". General MacArthur condemned this containment as a "no win policy." In 1956, President Dwight Eisenhower refused to intervene in the Hungarian Revolution out of fear of causing World War III involving the use of nuclear weapons. He was afraid of fighting, dying and paying the ultimate price for the cause of freedom. He was afraid of doing what good people were demanding be done: preserve world moral order come what may, because world moral order is world human order, without which human flourishing is impossible. President Eisenhower's decision not to intervene in Hungary established containment as a bipartisan doctrine and the unanimous voice of the American establishment. In the Cuban Missile Crisis of 1962, President John Kennedy refused to invade the island and liberate its people. Grippled by the same pusillanimous fear of nuclear war which had gripped Eisenhower, Kennedy agreed to remove American nuclear missiles from Turkey in exchange for the Soviets' removal of missiles from Cuba, and proclaimed a policy of containment for the island. During the Vietnam War, the antiestablishment Republican presidential candidate, Barry Goldwater, challenged the policy of containment and advocated the rollback of communism in North Vietnam, proclaiming: "Why not victory?" Voicing the establishment line, President Lyndon Johnson restated the policy of containment and quoted from the Bible: "Hitherto you will come, but not further." (Job 38:11). He rejected General William Westmoreland's proposal to advance into Laos and cut communist supply lines. He gathered together a group of statesmen who promoted containment and called them The Wise Men. The head of this group was George Kennan. President Johnson condemned public rallies in support of American troops in Vietnam because he did not want a movement to arise which demanded American victory and rollback of communism. He reduced General Westmoreland's power by forcing him to share authority with two other theater commanders. In 1969, President Richard Nixon carried the logic of containment to the end of its line and proclaimed a policy of detente with communism. This was a policy of coexistence with communism, dialogue with communism, trade with communism, cooperation with communism, improved relations with communism, and acceptance of communism's right to exist and to protect its security and spheres of interest. This led to the convening of Strategic Arms Limitation Talks and the enactment of the Anti Ballistics Missile Treaty in 1972, which limited to two hundred, housed in two complexes, the amount of missiles America was allowed to possess to fight communism. The policy led to the enactment of the Case-Church Amendment in 1973 which ended all American military involvement in Vietnam and led to communist invasions of South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. Embroidered with the letters of detente, America's flag of surrender was unfurled in 1973 at a meeting between President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev in Washington, in 2016 at a meeting between President Barack Obama and Cuban leader Raul Castro in Havana, and in 2019 at a meeting between President Donald Trump and North Korean leader Kim Jong Un in Hanoi. Listen to the words of the founder of containment and hear him advocate the renunciation of American confidence, determination and resolve to roll back communism and liberate subjugated peoples. Hear him proclaim the imperative for America to be sensitive to a totalitarian state's need for respect and admiration and to be considerate, understanding and nonthreatening toward it: "In these circumstances it is clear that the mean element of any United States policy toward the Soviet Union must be that of a long term, patient but firm and vigilant containment of Russian expansive tendencies. It is important to note, however, that such a policy has nothing to do with outward histrionics: with threats or blustering or superfluous gestures of outward toughness. While the Kremlin is basically flexible in its reaction to political realities, it is by no means unamenable to considerations of prestige. Like almost any other government, it can be placed by tactless and threatening gestures in a position where it cannot afford to yield even though this might be dictated by its sense of realism." (The Sources Of Soviet Conduct by George Kennan). In 1776, a committee from the Continental Congress headed by George Washington called upon Betsy Ross and asked her to sew the first American flag. Consisting of red and white strips and thirteen stars arranged in a circle in the upper left hand corner, it was known as the Betsy Ross Flag. In the late 1940s at the onset of the Cold War, George Kennan sewed the flag of American surrender and his policy of containment was inscribed on the tombstone of the nation.

SCOURGE ON MANKIND

A black hole is a region of space in which the force of gravity is so strong that nothing can escape from it. It absorbs all light, emits no light, is absolute coldness and blackness, and grows by absorbing mass from its surroundings. Students of history have seen in this terrifying phenomenon of nature a picture, analogy and metaphor of something they can scarcely look at. They have seen a black hole of human existence, seen a region of absolute, unmitigated evil and growth by usurpation and subjugation, and seen the flames of hell fire leap up at them and send supercharged currents of fear and anxiety surging through their souls. They have seen a moving column of moral darkness the likes of which they have seen before smash free people and free institutions within its bestial storms, and understand that Russia, the land founded a thousand years ago by Slavs and Mongols rampaging across the steppes of the Eurasian continent, leading hordes of nomads, forming brotherhoods of slaves and enforcing slave pens of brothers, defines human failure and degeneration as nothing else does, and has buried mankind in its violence and inhumanity. The history of Russia is a history of wickedness and immorality whose chapters have made the earth tremble and shaken civilized people to the core. With every page turned, the soul of Satan stands revealed in starkness and clarity, and blasts out the greatest bane and misfortune ever to blacken the march of human events. The history of Russia is a history of frustrated, discontented and hopeless people seeking self expression. It is a history of the Golden Horde and the Moscow Kremlin quadrupling territory and stamping out freedom in every corner. It is a history of people dressing up autocracy in the frightful robes of Ivan the Terrible. It is a history of people worshiping bloody revolution as a means of social betterment. It is a history of people rationalizing through Marxist class war their impulses to destroy and providing pseudoscientific justifications for mass murder. It is a history of people who found in communist hatred and brutality a doctrine congenial to their desires and emotions. It is a history of people who nationalized industries, expropriated private property and ground peasants into the serfdom of collective farms. It is a history of people who revered dictatorial power as a moral and political necessity. It is a history of people who pounded civilized societies upon the anvils of war communism, proletarian communism and the elimination of private production. It is a history of people who condemned free spheres of activity as the "capitalist sectors of society" and sought to eliminate them by the people's Soviet regime. It is a history of people whose Lenins and Stalins absorbed all aspects of life within the state and gunned down private centers of power and influence. It is the story of fanaticism impervious to the counsels of reason establishing collectivism as the supreme law of the land. It is the story of people who brought every aspect of human life under the absolute domination of the Communist Party. It is the story of people who worshiped the Communist Party as a church and obeyed its commands as the words of God. It is the story of people whose leaders sought power for its own sake and established a state whose power was unrestrained and unchallengeable. It is the story of people who placed no restrictions on the reach of the state and consigned individual rights to the dustbin of history. It is the story of people who launched wars of aggression against the outside world of freedom and proclaimed it their duty to overthrow it. It is the story of people who proclaimed that totalitarian tyranny has brought liberation to the masses while liberal democracy has brought down the night of oppression and exploitation. It is the story of people who proclaimed that a progressive society is ruled by organs of suppression of anticommunist thought and behavior. It is the story of people who proclaimed that a progressive society is ruled by a red army and a red secret police which protect the people from danger and encirclement imposed by the forces of freedom: "As long as there is a capitalist encirclement there will be danger of intervention with all the consequences that flow from that danger." (Joseph Stalin). It is the story of people who proclaimed that the capitalist system, which protects the right to private property and acknowledges that wealth is produced by the mind and comes from the activities of knowledge work, leads to the exploitation and expropriation of the true working class, the class of unskilled muscular laborers, and must be overthrown. It is the story of people who proclaimed that a progressive society is ruled by the communist philosophy and tactics of absolute, unquestioned power. It is the story of people who proclaimed that a progressive society places dictatorial authority into the hands of the lowest orders of proletarian scum and dregs. It is the story of people who proclaimed that a progressive society is ruled by the iron discipline of the Communist Party, the severity of the communist secret police, the ubiquity of communist informers, and the economic monopoly enjoyed by the communist state. It is the story of people who proclaimed that a progressive society sacrifices the rights of the individual to the socialist fatherland and seeks to project socialist power across the world. It is the story of people who proclaimed that a progressive society is under the total control of the Communist Party and permits no sphere of thought, activity or organization outside the party. It is the story of people who proclaimed that the Communist Party is the sole repository of truth and can change truths from month to month, week to week and moment to moment in order to maintain its grip on power. It is the story of people who proclaimed that there is no such thing as objective reality, nothing which exists absolutely or immutably, and truth and reality are whatever the Communist Party say it is and for the time it says it. It is the story of people who proclaimed that all morality is relative to class and is an expression of the class will to power. It is the story of people who proclaimed that a progressive society hears the master's voice, the voice of the people's leader, the voice of the people's party, the voice of the revolutionary proletariat, and hears nothing else beyond this voice. It is the story of people who proclaimed that reality is a construct of the party line and transcends the world of logic and the senses. It is the story of people who proclaimed that there is no such thing as a common mental or empirical approach to reality because reality is made by the class, and there is a bourgeois reality and a proletarian reality, and there is no denominator or set of truths linking the two. It is the story of people who proclaimed that the Communist Party is the sole repository of moral standards and can make any action right or wrong, and can justify the killing of millions, in the furtherance of its needs and interests. It is the story of people who proclaimed that a progressive society applies constant pressure to the institutions of the free world and is unceasing in its efforts to undermine and subvert them. It is the story of people who proclaimed that a progressive society is a slave labor camp which drives its prisoners to the limits of their endurance and beyond their limits and buries them in graves marked service to the state. It is the story of people who proclaimed that a progressive society places its citizens under the shadow of fear and compulsion and teaches them to be dutiful cogs in the machinery of the social organism. From the fierce grasslands of Eurasia, teaming throngs of subhuman savages stampeded down the corridors of time, spread swathes of misery and destruction called czarism and communism, and crashed into the present day committing unspeakable crimes against humanity. Terrorizing the civilized world for a thousand years, the Russian beast of prey commenced a campaign of aggression against the liberal democratic state of Ukraine as part of its drive to reestablish its slave empire and eradicate the free world. In 2014, Russia attacked the Ukrainian Revolution in Dignity and annexed Crimea, seized through its agents the eastern part of Ukraine, and started a war in Donbas. In 2021, Russian President Vladimir Putin began a military build up along the Russian border with Ukraine, rejected Ukraine's right to exist as an independent state, and demanded that Ukraine never be allowed to join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, an alliance of free nations dedicated to the collective defense of freedom. In 2022, Russia recognized the independence of the Donetsk People's Republic and the Luhansk People's Republic, under the control of Russian backed separatists, and launched an invasion of Ukraine, the largest military attack on a European state since World War II. The invasion was launched from Russia, Belarus and Russian occupied Crimea and Donbas and proceeded through four theaters of war: the Kyiv Offensive, the Northeastern Ukraine Offensive, the Eastern Ukraine Offensive and the Southern Ukraine Offensive. Employing missiles, airstrikes and ground forces, the invasion claimed the lives of thousands of Ukrainian civilians, reduced major cities across the country to rubble and ruination, and created the largest refugee crisis in Europe since World War II: 3.6 million Ukrainians fled the country and over two million were internally displaced. Four days after the invasion, President Putin placed Russia's nuclear forces on a "special regime of combat duty" in preparation for a nuclear attack on Ukraine. Listen to the voice of Russia and hear it threaten mankind with nuclear annihilation to preserve its power to make war and subjugate free people: "We have a concept of domestic security, and, well, it's public. You can read all the reasons for nuclear arms to be used. If it is an existential threat for our country, then it can be used." (Dmitry Peskov, spokesman for Vladimir Putin). For a thousand years, Russia has waged war against a world which it despises and in which it is unable to function: the world of civilization. Reaching from the plains of the Danube River to the north shore of the Black Sea to the Volga River to the Altai Mountains is the darkness and gloom of a savage culture. The free world is falling into its depths.

REDS BURY BIDEN SCANDALS

A cover up is an attempt to conceal evidence of a crime and ranges from the passive act of simply not providing information to the commission of active deception. The most notorious instance of a cover up in recent history was the Soviet cover up of the Katyn Massacre, named after the forest in Poland where mass graves were discovered. The Katyn Massacre was a series of mass killings of Polish intellectuals and military officers committed by the Soviet Union in 1940. Soviet responsibility for the massacre was established by the Katyn Commission of the European Red Cross, comprised of twelve forensic experts and their staff from Belgium, Bulgaria, Croatia, Denmark, Finland, France, Hungary, Italy, Netherlands, Romania, Switzerland, and Bohemia and Moravia. The Soviets denied responsibility for the massacre and engaged in a cover up. They stated that Polish prisoners of war had been engaged in construction work near Smolensk and were captured and executed by invading German units in August 1941: "Polish prisoners of war who in 1941 were engaged in construction work west of Smolensk fell into the hands of the German-fascist hangmen". (Soviet Information Bureau). In America the cover up by the reds reached up to the highest levels of government. President Franklin Roosevelt rejected the conclusion of Soviet culpability set forth by his special emissary to the Balkans, Lieutenant Commander George Earle, whom he had assigned to produce a report on the massacre. He ordered that Earle's report be suppressed; he issued a written order that Earle desist from publishing his findings; and he ordered that Earle be reassigned to spend the remainder of the war in American Samoa. Students of history have seen the ingrained, inveterate, deep seated red practice of covering up crimes back in business in the fearsome and terrifying successor to the Katyn concealment. They have seen the red media bury a scandal involving President Joe Biden and ask themselves how long red cover ups will endure, and immediately give themselves an answer: they will endure for as long as reds walk the earth, wield social and cultural power, and control the channels of mass communication. They have seen the standard bearers of red journalism package in lead capsules and place beneath the earth of media nonexistence the following crimes involving Joe Biden. Emails and text messages contained on the laptop of the Biden's son, Hunter Biden, reveal that Joe Biden engaged in influence peddling during his eight years as vice president to Barack Obama. They reveal that Hunter Biden sold his father's position in Ukraine. They reveal that, as a result of his father's influence as vice president, Hunter Biden was appointed to the board of directors of Burisma Holdings in Ukraine and was paid a salary of 50,000 dollars per month. They reveal that Hunter Biden referred to his father as "the big guy" who would receive proceeds from the son's influence peddling. They reveal that Hunter Biden owned a global equity firm called Bohai Harvest

Equity Investment Fund. They reveal that this company effected the purchase of the world's largest source of cobalt, located in Congo, by a Chinese mining company. They reveal that this purchase gave China control over an ingredient necessary for the production of automobile batteries. Traveling to China aboard Air Force One with his father, Vice President Joe Biden, Hunter Biden was able to effect this purchase with the assistance of his father. Selling his father's influence, Hunter Biden received 3.5 million dollars from the wife of the mayor of Moscow, who was an investor in Kazakhstan. Joe Biden had Ukrainian state prosecutor, Viktor Shokin, fired for investigating the corrupt appointment of Hunter Biden to the Burisma board. He threatened to withhold a billion dollar loan guarantee if the Ukrainian government did not fire Shokin: "I said, I'm telling you, you're not getting the billion dollars. I said, you're not getting the billion. I'm going to be leaving here in, I think it was about six hours. I looked at them and said, 'I'm leaving in six hours.' If the prosecutor is not fired, you're not getting the money. Well, son of a bitch. He got fired. And they put in place someone who was solid at the time." (Speech given in 2018). The complicity of Joe Biden in the dismissal of Shokin is described by State Department official George Kent: "The Obama administration spearheaded the efforts to have Shokin removed from his position as the top federal prosecutor in Ukraine." (Testimony before members of the House of Representatives, 2019). Kent describes the Obama administration's suppression of investigations of Joe Biden's corrupt dealings in Ukraine: "I raised my concerns that I had heard that Hunter Biden was on the board of a company owned by somebody that the US Government had spent money trying to get tens of millions of dollars back and that could create the perception of a conflict of interest. The message that I recall hearing back was that the vice president's son Beau was dying of cancer and that there was no further bandwidth to deal with family-related issues at that time. That was the end of that conversation." (Testimony before members of the House of Representatives, 2019). Listen to Tony Bobulinski, Hunter Biden's former business partner, and hear him expose Joe Biden's way of dealing with foreign governments, the way of unabashed corruption: "OK. Across those days in Los Angeles in May of 2017 that you're referencing, I met with Hunter Biden multiple times at the Chateau Marmont and Rob Walker, and the discussion was they wanted me to sit down with their father, just to meet him and, at a high level, discuss the Biden family and how they approach things." (Tucker Carlson Interviews Hunter Biden Business Partner Tony Bobulinski About Joe Biden Involvement, posted by Ian Schwartz, RealClear Politics). Listen to Bobulinski and hear him expose Joe Biden's black stained business fronts and covert trafficking in fraud: "And so it was set up for the night of May 2nd at The Beverly Hilton. I first met with Hunter Biden and Jim Biden and just had a light discussion where they briefed me that, listen, my dad's on the way, and you know we won't go into too much detail on the business front, but we'll just spend time talking at a high level about you, your background, the Biden family, and then you know he's got to get some rest because he's speaking at the conference in the morning." (Tucker Carlson Interviews Hunter Biden Business Partner Tony Bobulinski About Joe Biden Involvement, posted by Ian Schwartz, RealClear Politics). Listen to Bobulinski and hear him expose Joe Biden's dealings in the shadows, positioned behind columns of dishonesty and deceit. Hear him expose Biden's abuse of power in China and efforts to raise money from official misconduct. Hear him expose Biden's activities to reap profits from selling influence, efforts which made his family's name a synonym for political malpractice: "And I--as you can imagine I've been asked by a hundred people the last month you know, why would you be meeting with Joe Biden, and I sort of turn the question around to the people that asked me, why at 10:38 on the night of May 2nd would Joe Biden take time out of his schedule to sit down with me in a dark bar at The Beverly Hilton, sort of positioned behind a column so people couldn't see us, to have a discussion about his family and my family and business at a very high level where Jim Biden sat and Hunter Biden participated in? I'm irrelevant in this story. They weren't raising money for me. There was no other reason for me to be in that bar meeting Joe Biden than to discuss what I was doing with his family's name and the Chinese CEFC." (Tucker Carlson Interviews Hunter Biden Business Partner Tony Bobulinski About Joe Biden Involvement, posted by Ian Schwartz, RealClear Politics). Listen to Tony Bobulinski and hear him expose Joe Biden's direct financial connections to the Chinese government. Hear him expose Biden's use of his son to sell influence and expand the avenues of bribery. Hear him expose Biden's efforts to manage companies for illicit gain and deceive the American people about his deeds: "CARLSON: He's--and this is a company with direct connections to the communist government of China--so the former vice president has said he had no knowledge whatsoever of his son's business dealings and was not involved in them at all. But this sounds like direct involvement in them. BOBULINSKI: Yeah. That's a blatant lie. When he states that, that is a blatant lie. Obviously the world's aware that I attended the debate last Thursday, and in that debate he made a specific statement around questions around this from the president, and I'll be honest with you; I almost stood up and screamed liar and walked out, because I was shocked that after four days or five days that they prepped for this, that the Biden family is taking that position to the world. And once again, I'm irrelevant in this discussion. I just was brought in to run this company and have been exposed to all of this fact, and I believe the American people should see this fact." (Tucker Carlson Interviews Hunter Biden Business Partner Tony Bobulinski About Joe Biden Involvement, posted by Ian Schwartz, RealClear Politics). Listen to Tony Bobulinski and hear him expose Joe Biden as the recipient of the darkest of dark funds from the sale of his power, his influence, his office, his nation and the constitution of the United States: "In that email, there's a statement where they go through the equity; Jim Biden's referenced as you know ten percent, doesn't say Biden it says Jim. And then it has ten percent for the big guy held by Hunter. I one thousand percent sit here and know that the big guy is referencing Joe Biden. That's crystal clear to me because I lived it. I met with the former vice president in person multiple times, and I had been meeting and talking with Hunter Biden and Jim Biden and Rob Walker and James Gilliar." (Tucker Carlson Interviews Hunter Biden Business Partner Tony Bobulinski About Joe Biden Involvement, posted by Ian Schwartz, RealClear Politics). The Praetorian Guard was a unit of the Roman Imperial Army which served as personal bodyguards for the Roman emperor. After Rome's transition from a free republic to a statist empire, the first emperor, Caesar Augustus, created the Praetorians as his personal security escort. Suppressing negative information about Joe Biden and refusing to report the news without favor or prejudice, the global red media establishment functions as the Praetorian Guard for Joe Biden and has hurled evidence of his multifarious acts of malfeasance into a mass grave.

RED FRONT WITH IRAN

The term front used in connection with communist activity refers to a political movement which links divergent elements to achieve the common objective of overthrowing capitalism. The term popular front was first used in the 1930s by communists who sought to overthrow capitalism by coalescing with noncommunist political parties. Successful popular front governments were formed in France, Spain and Chile. In America in the 1930s, the promoters of the popular front employed the slogan, Communism is the Americanism of the Twentieth Century. After World War II, communist fronts included the Chinese People's Consultative Conference in China, the National Front in Czechoslovakia, the National Front in Poland and the Democratic Bloc in East Germany. In the post Cold War era, the reds have continued their strategy of forming alliances with entities which oppose the free world and students of history have seen the revival of the red front in the alliance of the reds with Islam. They have seen the most fearsome and terrifying instance of this alliance to be that with Iran, the most powerful and threatening Islamist state in the world. The global focal point for Islam, the greatest enemy of Israel, the biggest player in Middle Eastern affairs and a regional military superpower, the Islamist Republic of Iran, established after the Iranian Revolution in 1979 and the overthrow of the Shah, has been an object of friendship and admiration by the reds for four decades in their quest to abolish the institutions of liberal order and destroy Western civilization. The reds support Iran because the regime of the mullahs and ayatollahs, the regime of Islamist autocracy, hates freedom as much as the reds do, and seeks, like the reds, to eradicate freedom from the face of the earth. The reds support Iran because its ayatollahs rule over the people with an iron fist. They support Iran because its ayatollahs prevent the people from using social media and arrest, imprison and kill all those who speak out for freedom. They support Iran because the nation does not hold free, fair and transparent elections. They support Iran because the nation's elections are political theater in which the ayatollah controlled Guardian Council selects the candidates who appear on the ballot. They support Iran because its ayatollahs employ the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps to maintain their hold on power. They support Iran because the IRGC is the world's largest sponsor of terror organizations and provides funds to Hamas in Gaza, Hezbollah in Lebanon, the Houthis in Yemen, the Taliban in Afghanistan and Al Qaeda. They support Iran because its ayatollahs shout Death to America, Death to Israel and Death to the West. They support Iran because it and its proxies bomb American embassies and military installations, kill American military personnel, and kidnap, imprison and torture American citizens. They support Iran because it pursues nuclear weapons and the means of delivering them to the capitals of the free world. Look at the regime supported by the reds and see a republic of fear and control kill its citizens in cold blood. See a republic of the Prophet and the Koran commit unspeakable crimes against humanity. See a republic of Islamist power declare war on liberal statecraft. See a republic of Islamist propaganda bury reports of state persecution in mountains of lies and deception. See a republic of Islamist law spread violence to all, grant amnesty to none, and submerge its cities and towns, and a thousand years of freedom and civilization, in torrential rivers of blood: "Over this past year, Iran Protests, a Farashgard Foundation project, has diligently worked to accurately document the Iranian citizens that were murdered by the Islamic Republic in November 2019 during the peaceful protests. In addition to documenting the individuals, we seek to tell their stories to honor their memories and to hold the Islamic Republic accountable for their crimes against humanity. Thus far, we have identified at least 850 Iranian citizens that were murdered by the Islamic Republic in November 2019. This figure is significantly higher than Amnesty International's reports of 324. The false reports from Amnesty International have been supported by The Quincy Institute for Responsible Statecraft and many others. These organizations should be ashamed of themselves for using Islamic Republic propaganda when falsely describing the total number of Iranians murdered. Based on our research, which is still ongoing, we believe the total murder count will exceed 1,500 after our research is completed. The largest numbers come from Tehran, Khuzestan, Kermanshah and Alborz." (Iran Protests Releases Initial Analysis of Bloody November Protests by Mitra Jashni, in iranprotests.com). In 2015, President Barack Obama agreed to a deal regarding Iran's nuclear program. Known as the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action, the deal was a blessing and godsend to the reds. The deal allowed Iran to continue enriching uranium and achieve a nuclear breakout. It allowed Iran to develop ballistic missiles which could deliver nuclear warheads. It lifted economic sanctions on Iran in exchange for phantom limits on its nuclear activities and on its terror activities in Syria, Yemen and throughout the Middle East. It established an inspections regime which was unable to prevent, detect or punish cheating and did not provide inspectors with an unqualified right to inspect military and research facilities. It accepted Iran's false claim that it sought to develop only a peaceful nuclear energy program. Led by Israel, Western intelligence revealed that Iran had a three decade history of pursuing nuclear weapons. After the deal was concluded and the sanctions were lifted, Iran's military budget increased by fifty percent; it used its new oil funds to construct nuclear capable missiles; and it increased its terror operations in the Middle East. In 2018, President Donald Trump withdrew America from the deal and incurred the undying enmity of the reds in America and Europe. In opposition to the reds, Trump sought to halt the Iranian race to acquire nuclear weapons. He sought to renew pressure on a rogue regime to cease its malevolent activities. He removed the sanctions, penalties and weapons of state power, locked by President Obama in a box marked appeasement, and pointed them at a criminal antigovernment whose agenda was the destruction of the West: "Let's remember that the stated policy under the Obama doctrine, which has continued under Trump, was to prevent Iran from acquiring a nuclear weapon, with all options on the table. So let's stipulate that Obama claimed he was willing to use military force, if necessary, to stop Iran from acquiring nukes. Put aside the idea that Iran is going to race to the bomb now; that fear has existed for a very long time, and both Republican and Democratic administrations have agreed that they would use military action to prevent that scenario, and the Iranians know that and are therefore unlikely to provoke that response. Iran also doesn't want to become politically isolated, and if they were to race to the bomb, they would lose the support they still have right now in Europe and elsewhere. In other words, President Trump has some time here to ratchet up the pressure again, to unlock the lockbox where all our sanctions have been the last few years, and to use any other means of state power possible to coerce the regime to change its behavior. When that pressure becomes so severe, the leaders of Iran must once again choose between regime survival economically or negotiating over all their malign activities, and I think they'll have to negotiate." (Why Trump Is Right To Pull Out Of The Iran Nuclear Deal by Sean Illig, quoting Richard Goldberg). In 2022, President Joe Biden rejoined the nuclear deal with Iran signed by President Obama and gave a green light to Iran's nuclear weapons program. He removed American sanctions and set the nation back on the path of placation and capitulation. He provoked the resignation of government officials who dissented from his plan to reempower a terror state and stock its arsenals of mass destruction. He made a pact with the Devil, with a figure of evil dressed in Islamist robes with which the reds joined forces, and discussed, arranged, worked out and signed the death warrant of the West: "Anyone seeking to gauge the imminent outcome of the international talks over Iran's nuclear program being held in Vienna should take a look at reports from late January that three top US diplomats had quit—largely in protest over the direction set by US Special Envoy for Iran Robert Malley, who serves as the US government's chief negotiator. Having served for two years in former Secretary of State Mike Pompeo's Iran Action Group, I knew that this development was tantamount to a public cry for an intervention. Such resignations—not of conservative dissenters, but of career staff and President Joe Biden's own political appointees—should have been cause for Biden or Secretary Antony Blinken to recall Malley and investigate. Their failure to do so is a sign either of a troubling lack of attention to the talks, or else the possibility that Malley—who served in the same capacity under President Barack Obama when the first Iran deal, the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA), was originally negotiated and signed—has been given a free hand to negotiate whatever he wants, as long as he gets Iran to sign." (This Isn't Obama's Iran Deal. It's Much, Much Worse by Gabriel Noronha). In 1938 at Bad Godesberg, German Chancellor Adolf Hitler met with British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and demanded the immediate annexation of Sudetenland to which Chamberlain agreed. In 1945 at Yalta, President Franklin Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill met with Soviet leader Joseph Stalin and agreed to recognize the communist Provisional Government of the Republic of Poland and allowed the Soviets to maintain control over Eastern Europe. Channeling Chamberlain, Churchill sought to appease Stalin: "Poor Neville Chamberlain believed he could trust Hitler. He was wrong. But I don't think I am wrong about Stalin." (Warlords: An Extraordinary Re-creation of World War II Through the Eyes and Minds of Hitler, Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin by Simon Berthon and Joanna Potts, quoting Churchill). In the twenty first century, the wheel of history has spun round and placed new actors on the stage. In place of Roosevelt, Churchill and Chamberlain, Joe Biden and his European allies have assumed the role of appeasers. Their object is a country in Western Asia, the Islamic Republic of Iran, hell bent like its German and Russian predecessors on world destruction.

CHINESE FLAG FLIES OVER THE WEST

A nightmare is an unpleasant dream which causes panic, fear, anxiety and despair. Recurring nightmares can be serious because they can interfere with sleep patterns and cause insomnia. Civilized people throughout the world have been struck by a recurring nightmare which has awakened them in the grip of terror and made them unable to return to sleep. This nightmare is based on fact and reality and is a picture of the shape of things to come and a dispensation which has already arrived. It is based on a common experience of a rampage emanating from the Far East, a common perception of a ganglion expanding outward from a land settled by wild nomads. Surrounded by stupendous mountains, by deserts on fire and by a vast, illimitable ocean, this is the land of China and it is a land and life apart from the liberal order of the West which for a thousand years has enlightened mankind and allowed it to flourish in a human manner. The territorial and cultural center of the Oriental world, China has made contact with the West in the manner of a cancer and plague and inflicted untold damage to the institutions of free people. The first attack came in the form of the Boxer Rebellion, launched in 1900. Practitioners of Chinese martial arts, the Militia United in Righteousness who called themselves the Boxers heard the clarion call of the Empress Cixi, who issued an Imperial Decree declaring war on the West, to waves of adulation and applause by the Chinese people. Armed with rifles and swords, the Boxers proclaimed supernatural invulnerability against Western counterattacks and proclaimed that millions of soldiers would descend from heaven to assist them in purifying China of Western liberal, rationalist values. Launched under the slogan, "Support the Qing government and

exterminate the foreigners", it was an uprising which burned, smashed and looted Western property, such as embassies, legations, businesses, factories and railroads, and slaughtered Western missionaries who spread the gospel of freedom. It was an uprising which saw Boxers burst into Beijing, burn down its churches and cathedrals, hated symbols of Western freedom, and burn the victims inside alive. Waves of anarchy and license brought by those who rejected what the West had taught them are described by Edwin Conger, America's ambassador to China during the Boxer Rebellion, in a cable to Washington: "The whole country is swarming with hungry, discontented, hopeless idlers." China's fight to the death to preserve its primitive ways was proclaimed by Empress Cixi in a speech before the Chinese Grand Council: "Now the West has started the aggression, and the extinction of our nation is imminent. If we just fold our arms and yield to them, I would have no face to see our ancestors after death. If we must perish, why don't we fight to the death?" (The Boxer Catastrophe by Chester Tan, quoting Empress Cixi). Piercing the air with their screams and cries, and overwhelming streets and squares with their symphonies of savagery, the Boxers stormed the gates of civilization: "Their yells were deafening, while the roar of gongs, drums, and horns sounded like thunder. They waved their swords and stamped on the ground with their feet. They wore red turbans, sashes, and garters over blue cloth. They were now only twenty yards from our gate. Three or four volleys from the Lebel rifles of our marines left more than fifty dead on the ground." (The American Promise: A History of the United States by James Roark et al, quoting an American observer). China's second attack on the West came in the form of communism. Stealing this doctrine from the West as they would later steal Western science and technology, the Chinese saw in the religion founded by Karl Marx a doctrine congenial to their native worship of power and authority and their impulse to renounce the rights of the individual and submerge themselves in the Dragon Standard of collective glory. In 1949, Chinese communist leader Mao Zedong proclaimed the victory of the Chinese Communist Party in the Chinese Civil War and the establishment of the People's Republic of China. As freedom retreated to the island of Taiwan, and a new five starred, Soviet style Red Flag was unfurled across the land, and the People's Liberation Army paraded down the streets, Chairman Mao issued a proclamation of communist power standing atop the Tiananmen Gate. He proclaimed that liberal government is reactionary government. He proclaimed that free societies are imperialist societies. He proclaimed that the concern for constitutional rights is a betrayal of the fatherland. He proclaimed that the campaign to secure red totalitarian tyranny is a people's war of liberation. He proclaimed that only communist enslavement can protect the people's lives and property, relieve the people of their misery and suffering, and preserve the rights and freedoms of the working class. He proclaimed that the collectivization of the individual and the extirpation of every last trace and remnant of his freedom represents the highest stage of Chinese history and the summit of the people's patriotism and revolution: "The people throughout China have been plunged into bitter suffering and tribulations since the Chiang Kai Shek Kuomintang reactionary government betrayed the fatherland, colluded with imperialists, and launched the counterrevolutionary war. Fortunately our People's Liberation Army, backed by the whole nation, has been fighting heroically and selflessly to defend the territorial sovereignty of our homeland, to protect the people's lives and property, to relieve the people of their sufferings, and to struggle for their rights, and it eventually wiped out the reactionary troops and overthrew the reactionary rule of the Nationalist government. Now, the People's War of Liberation has been basically won, and the majority of the people in the country have been liberated. On this foundation, the first session of the Chinese People's Political Consultative

Conference, composed of delegates of all the democratic parties and people's organization of China, the People's Liberation Army, the various regions and nationalities of the country, and the overseas Chinese and other patriotic elements, has been convened." (Mao Zedong Declares A New Nation, in Chinese Revolution). Following their victory, the communists commenced a campaign to establish a command and control state and sell China into the chains of slavery. They established slavery in the name of the class struggle. They established slavery in the name of land reform. They established slavery in the name of industrialization. They established slavery in the name of eliminating inequality. They established slavery in the name of suppressing counterrevolution. They established slavery as an AntiRightist Campaign. They established slavery in the name of a People's Commune. They established slavery as a Great Leap Forward. Launched in 1958, the Great Leap Forward sought to establish communism through agricultural collectivization. Private farming was prohibited and private farmers were condemned as class enemies and counterrevolutionaries. They were subjected to denunciation rallies and struggle sessions in which they were humiliated, accused, beaten, tortured and killed. Conducted at workplaces and in classrooms and auditoriums, and staged and scripted by red agitators inciting mobs, these rallies and sessions were campaigns to ferret out the voices of freedom in every aspect of society: "Students were pitted against their teachers, friends and spouses were pressured to betray one another children were manipulated into exposing their parents." (Rhetoric Of The Chinese Cultural Revolution: The Impact On Chinese Thought, Culture and Communication by Xing Lu). The class war launched by the Great Leap Forward resulted in the Great Chinese Famine, the state murder by starvation of 55 million farmers, the greatest act of class genocide in the history of mankind. In 1966, Mao launched the Cultural Revolution to preserve communism and eliminate the voices of freedom throughout the country. He formed Red Guards to conduct the war and wrote the Little Red Book as the basic text of the war. The Red Guards destroyed historical relics and artifacts and ransacked cultural and religious sites. They shut down high schools and universities, and killed scholars, scientists and intellectuals on the grounds that they did not perform manual labor, which Marx had proclaimed to be the sole source of wealth, but performed knowledge work, which Marx had condemned as useless, idling and parasitical. The Red Guards launched massacres of the voices of freedom throughout the country: the Red August in Beijing, the Guangxi Massacre, the Inner Mongolia Massacre, the Guangdong Massacre, the Yunnan Massacre and the Hunan Massacre. The death toll of the Cultural Revolution was 20 million people. Listen to the words of Mao's Little Red Book and hear him advocate revolution, insurrection and overthrow against the governments of freedom and cold blooded murder of freedom's defenders and supporters: "A revolution is not a dinner party, or writing an essay, or painting a picture, or doing embroidery; it cannot be so refined, so leisurely and gentle, so temperate, kind, courteous, restrained and magnanimous. A revolution is an insurrection, an act of violence by which one class overthrows another." (Report On An Investigation Of The Peasant Movement in Hunan). Since the time he first trod upon the steppes and grasslands of Asia, the Chinaman has luxuriated in the bestial parameters of his life. When he does not kill, he steals, sleeps, idles, feasts and wanders down aimless rivers of drug intoxication. In the twenty first century, the yellow peril to humanity has grown into a global monster. A creature, ugly and frightening, the world's largest economy by GDP, the world's fastest growing economy, the world's second wealthiest nation, and the world's largest manufacturer and exporter, with the world's largest standing army and the second largest defense budget, has gone on the march. Ranking among the lowest in international measurements of civil liberties and government transparency, this economic powerhouse, military behemoth and rogue regime of mass repression, mass censorship and mass surveillance of its citizens has stormed the gates of civilization.

ZELENSKY SELLS OUT UKRAINE

The Gunpowder Plot of 1605 was the most famous act of treason in English history. It was a failed assassination attempt against King James I by Catholics who sought to restore the Catholic monarchy. The plan was to blow up the House of Lords during the State Opening of Parliament on November 5, as the prelude to a mass uprising during which James's nine year old daughter Elizabeth would be installed on the throne. The leader of the plot was Robert Catesby, and he was assisted by the famous Guy Fawkes, who was in charge of the explosives. One week before the planned assassination, the plotters were discovered and arrested by the authorities. They were convicted and sentenced to death and were hanged, drawn and quartered. The failure of the plot is commemorated in Britain every November 5 as Guy Fawkes Night, during which fireworks, bonfires and the burning of an effigy called Guy take place throughout the nation. Students of history have seen in this act of treason committed against a free society struggling to survive a picture of a crime committed in the present day against a free society struggling to survive. But they have seen a terrifying difference, a difference which betokens the trend and direction of civilization, as it accelerates in free fall into its final state. While the fireworks, bonfires and effigy burnings light up the English skies and celebrate the triumph of freedom over the dark conspiracies of tyranny, a betrayer in the present day has been allowed to cast a pall over his nation's skies and stab his nation's freedom in the back. Disgracing the traditions and institutions of freedom which liberated England from its traitors, a figure from a nation under siege has stepped forth amidst the rubble and ruination of his land and proclaimed that he seeks to dialogue and negotiate with an enemy intent on destroying his nation's freedom. Rendering the sacred English nursery rhyme a dead letter, the rhyme which runs, Remember, remember/The Fifth of November/Gunpowder treason and plot/For I see no reason/Why Gunpowder Treason should ever be forgot, Ukraine President Volodymyr Zelensky has hoisted the white flag of surrender and empowered Russia in its war of aggression. The leader of a nation whose constitution, adopted in 1996, established a pluralistic political system which protects fundamental human rights and freedoms, has confronted a nation led by Vladimir Putin which was declared "Not Free" by Freedom House and given the following rating in 2016: "The Kremlin continued a crackdown on civil society, ramping up pressure on domestic nongovernmental organizations (NGOs). The regime also intensified its tight grip on the media, saturating the information landscape with nationalist propaganda while suppressing the most popular alternative voices." President Zelensky has confronted a nation whose invasion of Ukraine has placed the international order in its gravest danger since the communist wars of aggression during the Cold War. It is a nation which has violated the rule of law and the principle of self determination of free nations. It is a nation which in 1914 occupied the Ukraine city of Lviv and caused tens of thousands of people to flee westward for their lives. It is a nation which, in the form of the Soviet Union, invaded Ukraine in 1939. It is a nation which invaded Ukraine again in 1944 and remained in the country until 1991, when Ukraine achieved its independence after the dissolution of the communist bloc. It is a nation which has violated the United Nations Charter, which outlaws

the waging of aggressive war. It is a nation which has adopted the tactics used by Adolf Hitler and Slobodan Milosevic and manufactured spurious reasons for its war of aggression. It is a nation which proclaims that its war of aggression is a war of liberation conducted against a false Ukraine, a Nazi Ukraine, a Ukraine which has committed genocide against the ethnic Russians living in the country, and is a war conducted in the name of Greater Russia and a war to prevent the "disintegration of historical Russia". President Zelensky has confronted a nation which launched its war of aggression after observing signs of weakness, fecklessness and incompetence in the West. It observed a failed war in Iraq which replaced a regional fascist power, represented by the government of Saddam Hussein, with a global, expansive communist type superpower, represented by the ayatollah's Iran, which transformed Iraq into its satellite and proxy state. It observed the collapse of American political will in Afghanistan and America's unconditional, disorderly retreat from the country. It observed the West's embrace of the Russian oligarchs' billions and the West's dependence on Russian natural gas. It observed that the West refused to launch counterattacks against its invasions of Chechnya, Georgia and Crimea. It observed all these things and decided to complete its war of conquest and seize all of Ukraine. President Zelensky has confronted a nation which for centuries, in the guise of its czarist and communist empires, had attacked the traditions and institutions of liberal order, and has now employed military force to commit the crime of waging aggressive war, waging illegal war, waging a war against the peace, and in its targeting of civilians, has committed crimes against humanity inside Ukraine. He has confronted this nation and proclaimed that he will make concessions to it in exchange for a ceasefire and the withdrawal of its troops. He has proclaimed that Ukraine will renounce its ambition to join NATO and will promise not to host Western military bases or Western weaponry. He has proclaimed that Ukraine will become a neutral, nonaligned nation which will never ally itself militarily with any other nations. He has proclaimed that Ukraine will renounce the use of nuclear weapons. He has proclaimed that Ukraine will allow Russia to split the nation in half and Ukraine will recognize an Eastern Ukraine as a part of Russia. Look at the flag of shame hoisted by President Zelensky and see stitched upon it unholy words spelling surrender. These are the words neutrality, nonalignment, no NATO membership, as aspired to in the nation's constitution, no stock of nuclear weapons, no iron clad security guarantees, no Russian retreat from all of Ukraine, no attempt to liberate the Donbas or Crimea from the yoke of Russia, no attempt to restore freedom, dignity and territorial integrity to a free, sovereign, independent nation, and no attempt to uphold a world moral and legal order recognized by civilized people: "The possibility of Ukrainian neutrality is not new. It's been discussed by Russian and Ukrainian officials for at least two weeks. But President Zelensky's reference is perhaps the most explicit so far. Clearly, there's no room for NATO membership in such a vision of Ukraine's future. Removing that aspiration from Ukraine's constitution (it was added in 2019) will need to be put to a referendum. With support for membership at an all time high, it will be a bitter pill for many Ukrainians to swallow. The key will be what sort of security guarantees can possibly take the place of being a member of the Western alliance. Ukrainian officials insist that guarantees will need to be much more specific than the 1994 Budapest Memorandum, which gave Ukraine security assurances in return for giving up its stock of nuclear weapons. Ukraine will want to know the precise terms under which countries are prepared to come to its defense in the event of further Russian aggression. There are many versions of neutrality. Finding one that meets the competing needs of Kyiv and Moscow will not be simple. And what will Ukraine's borders actually be? President

Zelensky says Russian troops must retreat to positions held before Moscow's full scale invasion began on 24 February. He says Ukraine will not try and retake the Donbas or Crimea by force, but Ukrainian officials are not yet ready simply to give up on territories that have been under Russian control (direct or indirect) since 2014." (Analysis by Paul Adams, BBC News). In the current Russia-Ukraine crisis, good people understand a series of vital facts. They understand that there is no moral equivalence between Ukraine and Russia, between a free society and an authoritarian society. They understand that an authoritarian society such as Russia, which violates the rights of its own citizens, has no right to protect its interests, no right to have guarantees for its security, no right to make demands on other nations, and no right even to exist. They understand that NATO must ensure that Russia is defeated and its aggression rolled back. They understand that the West must emerge from the crisis in a strong, victorious position. They understand that Russia's aggression cannot be rewarded by any form of political or military concessions. They understand that the only peace treaty between Ukraine and Russia which is morally acceptable is one which demands the unconditional surrender of Russia and its complete withdrawal from all regions of Ukraine. They understand that appeasement of Russia is both immoral and useless. It is immoral because it is unprincipled, and it is useless because the object of appeasement invariably reneges on its agreements and increases its demands, as Hitler did after the Munich Agreement of 1938, and Stalin did after the Yalta Agreement in 1945. Good people understand that the cause of freedom is worth defending and dying for or else nothing whatever in the world is worth defending and dying for, and that a civilization which refuses to fight and die for the cause of freedom is a civilization gripped in a state of terminal moral decline. Good people understand that nuclear war, whether winnable or not, and regardless of its casualties, is a moral imperative to defeat an enemy which has no moral right to exist and morally needs to be annihilated. A synecdoche is a figure of speech in which a part stands for a whole or a whole stands for a part. Examples include suits for business people, wheels for cars, boots for soldiers, a government for one of its officials, and the law for one of its enforcers. In the twenty first century, Volodymyr Zelensky has come to illustrate a synecdoche. In his fear, his cowardice, his appeasement and his concessions to Russia, he is a part which stands for a whole, a symbol of the West in its epoch of decline.

THE BLACK OSCARS

Arno Breker was a German sculptor best known for his works during the Third Reich. He was made official sculptor of the state and was exempted from military service. His most famous statue is Die Partie. Flanking one of the entrances to Hitler's Reich Chancellery, the statue portrays the characteristics of the "Aryan master race" which the national socialists exalted as the pinnacle of the human racial hierarchy and the natural lords and masters of society. Students of history have seen in the national socialist projection of a master race a fearsome portrait of the politics of the present day and a terrifying statue flanking the entrance to a new Reich chancellery. This is the politics of racial identity, and this is the chancellery of black power, and these serve as the position, office, department and residence of a new master race which has taken over from Hitler's brownshirts and smashed through the gates of civilization. In obedience to the laws of logical development, the original master race exalted by the founder of master races, Karl Marx, produced multifarious progeny. As logical conclusions follow from logical premises with ironclad, irrefutable necessity, Marx's proletarian master race mutated into Hitler's Aryan master race, and this in turn mutated into a feminist master race and a black master race. The current version of Marx's and Hitler's master race exalted by the establishment today, hordes of black Aryans and black proletarians have donned the mantle of the Grim Reaper and claimed the soul of the West during its final seconds of existence, after a thousand years of development, as it crashes into total extinction. Like their Marxist and Hitlerian ancestors, today's black Aryan masters have been granted a license to kill, steal, loot, pillage, ransack, damage and destroy in pursuit of their will to power and their right of self expression. They have been allowed to commit crimes with impunity and to act above the law. They have spread into popular institutions like a cancer and plague and rendered them unrecognizable. A stark, striking, dramatic display of their power and privilege occurred at the most prestigious film awards ceremonies in the world. It occurred at the 94th Academy Awards ceremonies held on March 27, 2022. Presented by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, these ceremonies go back to 1929 and give international recognitions of excellence in cinematic achievements. Before dazzling klieg lights, thunderous waves of applause and a global audience numbering in the millions, the new black Aryan dispensation strutted onto a glittering platform and showed the world its brute force, its blind comradeship and its wall to wall war on civilized order, as it lowered the curtain on the rule of public decency, manners and refinement. On this Oscars night, during a live television broadcast, black Aryan Will Smith walked onstage and committed a criminal assault against black Aryan Chris Rock by violently slapping him across the face while he was presenting an award. The assault was in response to a comment Rock had made in jest about Smith's wife's alopecia areata or spot baldness. After the assault, Smith returned to his seat and shouted expletives at Rock. The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences refused to order Smith to leave the building. Black Aryan Will Packer refused to support an order to remove Smith, stating that Rock would not want it. Within forty minutes of the assault, Smith was awarded an Oscar for Best Actor and received a standing ovation. In his acceptance speech, Smith refused to apologize to Rock and sought to justify his act of violence: "Richard Williams was a fierce defender of his family. In this time in my life, in this moment, I am overwhelmed by what God is calling on me to do and be in this world. Art imitates life. I look like the crazy father, just like they said about Richard Williams. But love will make you do crazy things." Later in the evening, officers from the Los Angeles Police Department met with Rock and offered to arrest Smith for the assault but Rock declined to press charges. After the ceremonies, Smith was filmed celebrating at the Vanity Fair post awards party: "In a Hollywood ending that seemed too dark and surreal to be true, [Smith] appeared to be having the time of his life." (What It Felt Like In The Room When Will Smith Slapped Chris Rock At the Oscars by Michael Shulman). The night of Smith's violence was a night of infamy without equal in the history of the Oscars: "It's safe to say that nothing that has ever happened at the Oscars compares to what happened on Sunday, March 27, when Will Smith stepped up to the stage and slapped Chris Rock." (The Will Smith Slap Is The Worst Among These Infamous Cringe Moments At The Oscars by Mick LaSalle). The Academy refused to expel Smith. It had expelled Harvey Weinstein, Roman Polanski, Bill Cosby and Adam Kimmel for sexual activities which would never have been judged to be criminal a decade before, inasmuch as the accused individuals all had consensual sexual relations with their accusers after the alleged incidents of sexual assault. Black Aryan celebrities throughout Hollywood came to the defense of Smith's act of violence. Listen to Janet Hubert: "Yes, there is only so much one can take. Sometimes you have to slap back." (Interview with Entertainment Weekly). Listen to Tiffany Haddish: "When I saw a black man stand up for his wife, that meant so much to me." (Interview with People magazine). Listen to Nicki Minaj: "Imagine what it must feel like to be losing your hair to the point where you have to shave it bald. You think that's easy to deal with for anyone? You don't think she's cried about that many times?" (Tweet). A black Aryan in a black racist society is allowed to assault at will and violate the rights of others, is shielded from the police, is granted immunity from prosecution, is given highest honors by members of his profession, and is greeted by standing ovations from his friends, colleagues and the people next door: "One big question: why did they let him get away with it? A lesser member of the audience who'd struck someone on camera and hurled F bombs would've been hauled out of there pronto and handed over to the LA cops. Instead, Smith was allowed to stay, collect his award, and bask in applause--a standing ovation, even. On Monday's The Five, Jesse Watters suggested that if, say, a white hothead like Mel Gibson had slapped Rock, he'd have been booed roundly by the audience and dragged out by security, superstar or not. Was there indeed an element of racism--an unarticulated feeling that the assault, being black on black, wasn't quite as horrible or shocking as it might otherwise have been--in ABC execs' decision to leave Smith alone?" (Slaps And Double Standards by Bruce Bauer). Look at the world today and see an establishment run by black brothers, black tribalists and black torchbearers of swastika identity politics. See black victims appease their black assaulters and speak to them in tones of fear. See black hoodlums protected from removal and reprisals by their black comrades in arms. See blacks beaten up by other blacks shield the perpetrators from arrest and refuse to press charges against them. See blacks targeted for cruel and unjust treatment by other blacks reject all efforts to bring them before the bar of justice and uphold the rule of law. See black people harmed, injured, tricked and duped by their fellow blacks join hands in solidarity with them. See blacks throughout society, blacks of all classes and occupations, march together in unity and lockstep and advance upon a common enemy: the liberal order of modern civilization: "The producer of the Oscars has said he prevented Will Smith from being 'physically removed' from the ceremony because 'Chris Rock did not want that'. Will Packer said he had been told the bosses of the organizing academy had planned to have the actor ejected after he slapped the comedian on stage. 'I had not been a part of those conversations,' Packer said. 'So, I immediately went to the Academy leadership that was on site and I said, 'Chris Rock doesn't want that'. Packer told ABC's Good Morning America, in his first interview since the incident, that he had he had told academy bosses: 'Rock has made it clear that he does not want to make a bad situation worse.' He added: 'That was Chris's energy. His tone was not retaliatory. His tone was not angry. So I was advocating what Rock wanted at that time, which was not to physically remove Will Smith at that time, because, as it has now been explained to me, that was the only option at that point. It has been explained to me that there was a conversation that I was not a part of to ask him to voluntarily leave'. Packer also described how Rock told police officers at the ceremony he did not want Smith to be arrested. "They were saying, you know, this is battery was the word they used at that moment. They said, 'We will go get him. We are prepared. We're prepared to go get him right now. You can press charges. We can arrest him'. They were laying out the options, and as they were talking, Chris was being very dismissive of those options. He was like, 'No, I'm fine'. He was like, 'No, no, no', Even to the point where I said, 'Rock, Let them finish'." (Chris Rock did not want Will Smith ejected from Oscars, producer says, BBC News, April 3, 2020). The avatars of tribalism have spread their dark wings across society. They have enveloped the arts in a pall of hatred and bathed the silver screen in a glow of race war. Presented as the most distinguished film award in the world, the golden statuette of the Oscars has become the leading sculpture of a new national socialist revolution. An Oscars So White campaign seeks to make the Academy Awards the exclusive preserve of nonwhites. Academy voting rolls reserved for nonwhites. Films starring nonwhites, and produced, written, directed and technically supported by nonwhites, alone nominated for awards. Black masters swagger onstage and hurl fists of violence and intimidation. The curtain rises on the final scene of civilization.

REDS COVER UP BIDEN MAFIA

Shield For Murder is a famous film noir about a police detective who has become corrupt and vicious. He abuses his authority and exploits his badge to conduct illicit activities. The film was praised by critics as a sharp, severe dramatization of the issue of malevolence advanced and concealed under the cover of the law. Students of politics have seen in this 1954 Hollywood production a frightening adaptation of the course of actuality itself, a terrifying instance of art imitating and anticipating life, and a fearsome foretelling of the greatest political scandal ever to unfold in American history. The flickering light of the silver screen has blown up into the light of day and described a present day campaign to cover up something whose enormity students of politics can scarcely believe, comprehend, state out loud or report to their friends and colleagues. The cinematic tale of a bad cop and a bad person who betrayed the trust placed in him has become the story of the national media establishment betraying the trust placed in it and concealing a racketeering enterprise led by the president of the United States. The reds in control of America's press have attempted to hide and deny what is as plain and evident as the noonday sun. They have proclaimed that there there is no evidence of Joe Biden's misuse of office and no connection whatever between his son's corrupt dealings and his own: "Until someone makes a nexus between what Hunter Biden has done and official activities of Vice President Biden or President Biden, it's a not pretty picture, but it's not really of much public import in terms of the policy of the United States or the administration of the government. There is zero evidence that Vice President Biden, or President Biden, has done anything wrong in connection with what Hunter Biden has done." (John Harwood, CNN). They have proclaimed that the facts of Joe Biden's illegal conduct are not facts at all but the products of "Russia disinformation". They have proclaimed that the evidence of Joe Biden's public wrongdoing is false and nonexistent: "President Trump has falsely accused your son of doing something wrong while serving on a company board in Ukraine." (Anderson Cooper, CNN). Evidence of Joe Biden's illicit benefits from the sale of his office are routinely censored and suppressed by America's red news industry and mass media: "When the New York Post reported in October evidence from a laptop abandoned by Hunter Biden that Joe Biden not only was aware of the deals but also profited from them, the story was censored by social media and virtually ignored by establishment news outlets." (Senate Report Warns Of Biden Family's China Deals by Art Moore). The facts exposing Joe Biden's organized crime activities speak for themselves and no additional arguments are necessary to establish them. Fact. Joe Biden's son, Hunter Biden, pursued profitable deals involving China's largest private energy company, CEFC China Energy Company, which "would be interesting for me and my family." In an email sent to Hunter Biden from James Gilliar on May 13, 2017, the subject line was Expectations. The email describes "remuneration packages" for six people involved in business ventures. It describes Biden as the "Chair/Vice Chair depending on agreement with CEFC." It sets his income at "850,000 dollars" and states that "Hunter has some office expectations he will elaborate." It describes a "provisional agreement" under which eighty percent of the "equity", or the shares in CEFC, would be split equally among the four senders of the email and three other individuals, one of whom is Hunter Biden, alluded to by the initial H; ten percent would be given to another participant; and another ten percent would be given to Joe Biden, alluded to as the "big guy": "10 held by H for the big guy." The email offers to correct any miscalculations of shares distributed: "I am happy to raise any detail with Zang if there are shortfalls." Fact. A photograph dated August 1, 2017 shows a handwritten flowchart of the ownership of the company Hudson West split equally between two entities controlled by Hunter Biden and Joe Biden, the latter alluded to as "Chairman". Fact. In an email sent in an August 2, 2017 correspondence, Hunter Biden describes his projected income of ten million dollars per year for selling meetings with Joe Biden: "for introductions alone." The email describes a deal with Ye Jianming, chairman of CEFC, in which he receives half ownership of a holding company: "The chairman changed that deal after we met in MIAMI TO A MUCH MORE LASTING AND LUCRATIVE ARRANGEMENT to create a holding company 50% owned by ME and 50% owned by him." The email describes profits to be earned by Hunter and Joe Biden: "Consulting fees is one piece of our income stream but the reason this proposal by the chairman was so much more interesting to me and my family is that we would also be partners in the equity and profits of the JV's [joint venture] investments." Fact. Joe Biden and his family founded companies in order to luxuriate in massive lines of credit, in violation of the law: "According to a report on Biden's overseas business dealings released last month by Senators Ron Johnson (R-Wis.) and Chuck Grassley (R-Iowa), a company called Hudson West III opened a line of credit in September 2017. Credit cards issued against the account were used by Hunter, his uncle James Biden and James' wife, Sara Biden, to purchase more than $100,000 'worth of extravagant items, including airline tickets and multiple items at Apple Inc stores, pharmacies, hotels and restaurants,' the report said." (Emails Reveal How Hunter Biden Tried To Cash In Big On Behalf Of Family With Chinese Firm by Emma Jo Morris and Gabrielle Fonrouge). Fact. In an email on December 25, 2018, Hunter Biden alludes to Joe Biden's shakedown of his family: "I don't receive any respect after paying everything for this family for 30 years. But don't worry, unlike Pop, I won't make you give me half your salary." United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, who used racketeering charges to bring members of the mafia to justice, Rudolf Giuliani describes Joe Biden's dishonest, fraudulent business dealings involving his family: "The evidence against Joe Biden in the hard drive is stronger than the evidence against Hunter Biden. I never had a piece of evidence like this [Hunter Biden's email of December 25, 2018]. In that message, a coconspirator, Hunter Biden, is describing the racketeering enterprise." (Interview of Rudolf Giuliani with Steve Bannon, in War Room). Fact. Joe Biden offered his power and influence through his son to a collection of creatures throughout the world noted for their corruption and criminality. Flying aboard Air Force Two, he and his son planned the illicit disposal of his office. Financial groups, asset managers, business partners and boards of directors became instruments of enrichment of Biden and his family. Wealthy business leaders and state owned enterprises, reaching from China to Kazakhstan to Ukraine, shoveled dark and dirty money into his private coffers. His influence peddling claimed a universe of victims, from business investors to labor unions to pensioners to Native American tribes, and cheated them out of tens of millions of dollars. Wherever there were criminal deception, dishonest schemes, betrayal of trust and personal, financial gain, Biden's name and fingerprints were found all over and a For Sale sign planted on the United States of America: "With the election of his father as vice president, Hunter Biden launched businesses fused to his father's power that led him to lucrative deals with a rogues' gallery of governments and oligarchs around the world. Sometimes he would hitch a prominent ride with his father aboard Air Force Two to visit a country where he was courting business. Other times, the deals would be done more discreetly. Always they involved foreign entities that appeared to be seeking something from his father. There was, for example, Hunter's involvement with an entity called Burnham Financial Group, where his business partner Devon Archer--who'd been at Yale with Hunter--sat on the board of directors. Burnham became the vehicle for a number of murky deals abroad, involving connected oligarchs in Kazakhstan and state owned businesses in China. But one of the most troubling Burnham ventures was here in the United States, in which Burnham became the center of a federal investigation involving a $60 million fraud scheme against one of the poorest Indian tribes in America, the Oglala Sioux. Devon Archer was arrested in New York in May 2016 and charged with 'orchestrating a scheme to defraud investors and a Native American tribal entity of tens of millions of dollars'. Other victims of the fraud included several public and union pension plans. Although Hunter Biden was not charged in the case, his fingerprints were all over Burnham. The legitimacy that his name and political status as the vice president's son lent to the plan was brought up repeatedly in the trial. The scheme was explicitly designed to target pension funds that had 'socially responsible investing' clauses, including pension funds of labor union organizations that had publicly supported Joe Biden's political campaigns in the past." (How Five Members Of Joe Biden's Family Got Rich Through His Connections by Peter Schweizer). The American Mafia is an organized criminal society whose tentacles reach across the nation. It emerged from poor Italian immigrant neighborhoods in New Orleans, Chicago and the East Coast in the early twentieth century. It consists of families each of which runs its own territory. Its governing body is a national commission which consists of the bosses of the families. Students of politics have added to the list of crime families operating in America an affluent, upper crust family whose commissioner occupies the highest office in the land and whose territory encompasses the world. Selling his name, power, office and position, Joe Biden has ignited a raging firestorm the likes of which the nation has never seen before. He has sacrificed public service upon the fiery altars of family self enrichment and made the final chapter of the republic a byword for corruption.

FROM WASHINGTON: THE RED CHANNELS OF VOICE OF AMERICA

The airwaves are shared by many users. Two radio transmitters in the same area which transmit at the same frequency will interfere with each other and cause distorted reception. To prevent interference, radio emissions are regulated by law. Radio transmitters are licensed by governments and are restricted to certain frequencies and power levels. They are given identifiers consisting of a string of letters and numerals called a call sign and this sign must be used in all transmissions. Students of mass communication have been confronted by an instance of broadcast transformation which has made history. They have seen an act of radical change enter the annals of radio programming as a mark of shame and a set up an aerial signaling the decline and fall of civilization. They have seen a device, a transmitter and an antenna send forth unaltered, unmodulated and unmitigated waves of misinformation which amount to a change of broadcasting frequency and render the call sign of the station a message of misrepresentation. They have seen a license to broadcast disgraced and violated and become an official sanction to communicate rank deception, beam out false narratives and brazenly indoctrinate listeners. They have seen what they never imagined they would ever have to see in their lifetime, and have wanted to turn off the source and shirk their professional responsibility to tell their colleagues and tell the world all about it. They have seen the commission of broadcasting fraud and a misuse of the airwaves which has sullied the nation which allowed it and rendered this nation, this world arsenal of freedom, this beacon of hope for the downtrodden and the oppressed, this legendary Shining City Upon A Hill, a tragedy of world historical proportions. In their record of incidents and observations of the world of radio and television, they have logged the following. The official government owned radio broadcaster of the United States, the oldest government funded international broadcaster in the nation, producing radio content in forty seven languages to affiliate stations around the world, the Voice of America has changed its frequency and call sign. Broadcasting 2,000 hours of radio programming every week to 240 million people around the world, on an annual budget of 220 million dollars, VOA has descended over the past decades into a tower of red propaganda whose frequency band advances an agenda to defame and discredit America, the West, the capitalist system and the liberal democratic order. In 1959, VOA set forth its mission and statement of principles, and in 1976, these were signed into law. This was a mission to serve as an objective, nonpartisan, accurate source of news and information and to promote the thought, institutions, policies, opinions, discussions and society of human freedom: "The long range interests of the United States are served by communicating directly with the peoples of the world by radio. To be effective, the Voice of America must win the attention and respect of listeners. These principles will therefore govern Voice of America (VOA) broadcasts. 1. VOA will serve as a consistently reliable and authoritative source of news. VOA news will be accurate, objective, and comprehensive. 2. VOA will represent America, not any single segment of American society, and will therefore present a balanced and comprehensive projection of significant American thought and institutions. 3. VOA will present the policies of the United States clearly and effectively, and will also present responsible discussions and opinion on these policies." (VOA Charter, insideVOA.com). The transformation of VOA into the broadcasting arm of America's reds has mirrored the descent of American society into an inferno of gender, race and class politics and sent out a series of currents, pulses and bursts of sound broadcasting one program and one program alone: the destruction of civilization and the establishment of totalitarian tyranny. Item. VOA is dedicated to the spread and propagation of bias and misinformation. It promotes uncompromising adherence to Islam's antiAmerican shouting and its Iranian party line. It serves, assists and promotes regimes run by the faithful in their war against the West: "Iranian dissidents and US officials have accused VOA Persian of being infiltrated by the Iranian regime and used to disseminate the hard line government's propaganda. While the Trump administration acknowledged this bias and attempted to reform the agency by firing officials like Sieg [Setareh Derakhshesh Sieg] and implementing a series of reforms, VOA Persian continues to carry water for the Iranian regime, according to the Republican lawmakers." (Republicans Investigate VOA For Biased Coverage Of Iran, Advocacy For Biden by Adam Kredon). Item. VOA has renounced the American values of individual rights protected by constitutional government and vilified the citizens who support them. Without moral integrity or a mission to enlighten, it has become the voice of Islam, the voice of Marxism, and the voice of unwavering partisans and armed groups allied against freedom: "Over the past few decades, a lack of congressional oversight over the US Agency for Global Media (USAGM) has allowed for partisan actors to obstruct the integrity and mission of the agency. There's a lot of corruption that needs to be cleaned out immediately. We have a duty to ensure that our Voice of America—and the wider agency—are truly the voice of American values and the American people." (Republicans Investigate VOA For Biased Coverage Of Iran, Advocacy For Biden by Adam Kredon, quoting Scott Perry). Item. VOA justifies red oppression as a system of liberation, extols Leninists, Stalinists and Soviet partisans as fighters for human rights, and broadcasts communist propaganda as the voice of liberty: "Under Obama administration appointees, VOA English programs lauded American communist winner of the Lenin Peace Prize Angela Davis as a fighter for human rights, without any attempt to provide balance with information about her proSoviet past. Solzhenitsyn had once spoken bitterly about Davis in describing the methods of Soviet propaganda and how figures such as her were used to justify oppression." (Voice Of America Went From Exposing The Failures Of Communism To Glorifying Its Dictators by Ted Lipien). Item. VOA is the voice of communism, fascism and rank totalitarian tyranny. Denouncing the symbols and embodiment of Western liberal order, denouncing America, Israel, capitalism and the Jews, VOA peddles paranoia, conspiracies, communist causes and the subversion of civilization: "The VOA Russian Service used recently as an on air personality a former Russian TV anchor who, before his employment with VOA, produced anti US propaganda films with antisemitic overtones. One of his older videos on YouTube promoted conspiracy theories spread in Russia and in the West by Putin's state media. The film put the blame on the US government, American capitalists, and 'Jewish bankers' for exploiting the economies of other countries around the world." (Voice Of America Went From Exposing The Failures Of Communism To Glorifying Its Dictators by Ted Lipien). Item. VOA is the voice of Russian mass communications, Vladimir Putin's state media, pseudojournalism opposed to truth and accuracy, and the advertising and promotion of antiAmericanism: "In March 2019, top USAGM [United States Agency for Global Media] and VOA officials received an email with information about this provided by opposition journalists from Belarus. A Belorussian refugee media outlet had expressed a profound shock that a person with a Russian propaganda work record could be hired by the US government funded broadcaster to host VOA programs. But nothing happened for many months, during which this journalist continued to be employed by VOA. The VOA management has since hired a few other journalists who had previously worked for Putin's state media and seem particularly proud of their work in Russia." (Voice Of America Went From Exposing The Failures Of Communism To Glorifying Its Dictators by Ted Lipien). Item. VOA has abandoned the reporting of news and information and the fight for freedom and liberty. Under the watchful eyes of its officers and executives, it has become an agency praising the sights and sounds of red repression. A medium broadcasting charts and diagrams for the enslavement of people. A soapbox for the opinions and attitudes of thugs and tyrants. The voice of socialist states and command economies. A platform elevated by sky high towers to influence people throughout the world and persuade them that communism, class war and the Soviet Union are the shining paths to human liberation: "During the same time, under the watch of recent and current VOA and USAGM executives, employees and contractors produced news reports and graphics that glorified repressive communist leaders. They did not mention the crimes of Marxist dictators and the failures of socialist state economies. That is a far cry from how the VOA responded to propaganda from the Soviet Union and other communist states in the 1980s." (Voice Of America Went From Exposing The Failures Of Communism To Glorifying Its Dictators by Ted Lipien). When Voice of America was founded in 1942, it was run by the Office of War Information. In 1953, it was placed under the control of the United States Information Agency. When the USIA was abolished in 1999, it was placed under the control of the Broadcasting Board of Governors. In 2018, the BBG changed its name to the US Agency for Global Media. Since the turn of the new millennium, the ostensible bosses of VOA have taken orders from the real bosses. These are the red partisans who have taken control over American society and formed the new American establishment. The members of the establishment have voted unanimously to change the call sign and frequency of VOA. The new call sign is Gender, Race and Class War. The new frequency is a billion gigahertz, producing the loudest sounds ever produced, exploding and thundering the religions of the reds, in the final chapter, charter and broadcast of America.

DISNEY LEAVES AMERICA

The renunciation of citizenship is a formal legal term which refers to the voluntary loss of one's citizenship. It is the opposite of naturalization, which refers to the voluntary acquisition of citizenship. In America, individuals who have renounced their citizenship are called renunciants, and prospective renunciants must appear before a consular officer at a US embassy, or at a consulate outside the country, and sign an oath that they intend to renounce their citizenship. Students of American culture have seen an act of renunciation of citizenship which has sent shock waves reverberating across society. They have seen the tumbling of an icon which has sent the house of popular culture crashing down with it. They have seen an act of subversion which has removed the primary support of the popular arts in the nation and made the roof fall from the sky and bury the traditional practices, beliefs and objects of America in an impact crater filled with radioactive poison. They have seen something which for decades had been unthinkable happen before their very eyes and strike an alarm bell ringing out the final chapter of American popular entertainment and the descent of American society into the combat amphitheaters of the radical left. Founded in 1928, the Walt Disney Company was for decades the leader of the American animation industry and the paradigm of a family oriented entertainment brand whose mascot is one of the most recognizable fictional characters in the world. This American entertainment and media conglomerate, this film studio, theater chain, broadcast network, streaming service, music producer, publishing house, theme park, resort hotel and cruise line, which for decades had embodied wholesome, upstanding values conducive to moral health and well being, has been captured by the reds and transformed into a raging inferno of gender, race and class politics which has fueled a train of cultural revolution and sped it on its way into every home and family in the nation. The Walt Disney Magic Kingdom, which for decades had charmed and enthralled audiences, has become a propaganda arm of the new establishment and the spearhead of its relentless drive to indoctrinate children and propagate identity politics into every corner of society. The fare on offer by Disney comprises a program and manifesto of antireason, antiliberal agitation and antiEnlightenment thought which has incinerated Disney's citizenship papers as it has evicted it from the ranks of civilized society. Once celebrated as "the happiest place on Earth", the world of Disney has become a gloomy, underground chamber of ideological war whose victims and casualties are people who uphold the principles of meritocracy, liberal freedom and collective sanity. This program, this theater of war, this renunciation of what it means to be a citizen of America and a citizen of the West, proclaims that a progressive corporation teaches employees the tenets of critical race theory. According to this theory, ultimate reality is race and blood and the only legitimate social theory is race theory which criticizes, rejects and sweeps away the liberal order of individual rights. It rejects liberalism in the name of the black will to power and advocates a regime ruled by black activists who have unfurled the black Hitlerites' and black stormtroopers' swastikas from every rooftop in the land. The Disney program proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation teaches its employees that America was founded on systemic racism. It proclaims that a progressive corporation separates nonwhite employees into racially segregated "affinity groups". It proclaims that a progressive corporation orders its white employees to complete a "white privilege checklist." It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation has organized a "Reimagine Tomorrow Conversation Series" whose aim is to institutionalize racism, sexism and discrimination against white, biological, heterosexual males in the name of diversity, equity and inclusion. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation teaches its employees that gender has nothing whatever to do with genes or chromosomes, despite the findings of science, and can be changed by chemical and surgical interventions, and that the terms biological male and biological female have no meaning. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation has mobilized its workforce in the service of the transgender community. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation hires only intersectional candidates and promotes the cause of "black, queer and trans persons", "biromantic asexuals", and "transgender and pansexual persons". It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation promotes a "not at all secret gay agenda" and advocates "queerness" through children's programming. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation tracks and monitors the people starring in its films to ensure that there are sufficient "canonical trans characters, canonical asexual characters and canonical bisexual characters." It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation seeks to include "many, many, many LGBTQIA characters in our stories" and to make fifty percent of its film characters nonwhite and homosexual. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation has eliminated all mention of the words ladies, gentlemen, boys and girls from its theme parks in order to create "that magical moment" for transgender children. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation has eliminated from its theme parks all addresses, greetings and salutations which refer to biological realities: "We don't want to just assume because someone might be, in our interpretation, presenting as female, that they may want to be called princess. By eliminating gendered greetings, the company can help make it magical and memorable for everyone" (Vivian Ware). It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation is a far left lobby group which seeks to repeal the Parental Rights in Education Act and the Stop WOKE Act, which prohibit training in and the teaching and promotion of critical race theory in schools and workplaces. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation is a forum for the advancement of identity politics, gender ideology and red activism of all stripes and varieties. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation demands that its employees acknowledge that capitalism is a system of white racism, white privilege and white saviors. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation teaches its employees that the essence of capitalism is structural antiblack racism. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation teaches its employees that liberal democracy is synonymous with racism, sexism and transphobia. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation is an allyship for race consciousness which inculcate the dogma of black supremacy. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation teaches its white employees that they should feel guilt and shame for being white and supporting freedom and should atone for their sins by raising aloft the swastika banners of black national socialism. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation rejects the liberal order of color blindness and the liberal philosophy that all lives matter, black and white, and teaches its employees the virtues of racial discrimination and the empowerment of a black master race. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation teaches its employees to reject the liberal system of racial equality and equal treatment and access to opportunities, and to embrace a regime of preferential treatment of blacks in the name of social equity and equality of outcomes. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation teaches its employees that capitalism is founded on a racist infrastructure and deprives blacks of wealth, income, housing, education, health care, political power and fair treatment by the criminal justice system. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation teaches its employees that capitalism is a system which elevates white culture above all other cultures. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation teaches its employees that they should be ashamed to say that they are white, that they are heterosexual, that they are male, that they identify with their biological sex, that they have never been raped, that they do not rely on public transportation, and they do not engage in terrorist activities. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation justifies violence committed by blacks in the name of social justice. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation teaches its employees that individualism is a system of white leadership, white values, white dominance, white power hoarding and white supremacy culture. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation teaches its employees that white people must serve the cause of racial justice by defunding the police, giving reparations to blacks, purging their bookshelves of liberal humanist literature, opposing the improvement of cities, towns and neighborhoods, and donating massive amounts of money to Black Lives Matter. It proclaims that a progressive entertainment corporation teaches its employees that white babies discriminate against blacks, that white babies show the first signs of racism at three months old, and that by the age of four, white children are strongly and actively biased against blacks. Alchemy was an occult pseudoscience practiced during the Dark Ages which alleged that matter can be transformed, and sought to convert base metals into gold. Students of American culture have seen an instance of transformation which would have defied the imagination of the alchemists. They have seen the gold held by the Magic Kingdom, the gold which glittered with Cinderella, Aladdin, Little Mermaid, Sleeping Beauty and Snow White And The Seven Dwarfs turn into a dead iron heel of gender, race and class politics and sink to the bottom of the ocean.

HISTORIC FIRST: BLACK WOMAN COMMUNIST JOINS HIGH COURT

Intersectionality is a notion derived from identity politics and expands its war against liberalism by reducing individuals to multiple demographic categories. Proceeding from the premise of identity politics that people are not flesh and blood individuals but are defined by their membership in groups, intersectionality proclaims that individuals consist in multiple group identities and represent a joining and merging of many abstractions, such as gender, race and class. The founder of intersectionality was Adolf Hitler. Evolving Marxism from the simple to the complex, Hitler launched a movement which inflated the individual to two identities, race and class, and led a revolution of racial socialism, Aryan proletarianism, against the liberal order of the Weimar Republic. Students of history have seen the intersectional monster of gender, race and class politics stalk the nations of the present day and rear its large, ugly, frightening head across the institutions of free people. They have seen a giant reptile breathing the flames of neoMarxist, Hitler inspired gender, race and class ideology smash through the gates of Enlightenment thought and reduces its charters of rights and freedoms, exalting the dignity and worth of the human person, to smoke and ashes. They have seen what they thought was unthinkable and unimaginable explode into hideous actuality and bring the magnificent story of the freest nation on earth, the heroic saga of the world's arsenal of liberty and preeminent Good Samaritan of the downtrodden and the oppressed, to an ignominious conclusion in the feverish jungles of intersectional politics. They have seen the free fall of America into a Hitlerian dispensation in which the establishment has closed the doors, once and for all time, on the traditions and institutions which founded the nation. They have seen America's rejection of liberal values stamped across the nation's very constitution and ratified as the supreme law of the land by the elevation of an intersectional creature manufactured in the underground Frankenstein laboratories of the radical left. This creature has donned the robes of a Supreme Court justice, sullied the bench for all time to come, and taken a dark oath in Satan's parallel universe to conduct a judicial rampage across the country and reduce its defining ideals to rubble. Stitched together from the inhuman fabric of race politics, gender politics and communist politics, a thing of horror has come alive and begun to walk. The reds have imparted life to evil nonliving matter. It has begun to speak. Civilized people are afraid of it and hate it, run away in fear and seek to hide from it. Grafted together from ideological cadavers and animated by the use of poisonous, radioactive electricity, this demon has no real name. Its red creators gave it a name for use during its mission on earth before it descends back into the depths. Its name on earth is Ketanji Brown Jackson. Confirmed by the United States Senate on April 7, 2022 as Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, Jackson has reiterated the program and manifesto of her red animators. Spoken from the maw of an intersectional phantasm cobbled together as a black, woman communist, as terrifying and destructive to traditional America as it is worshiped and revered by the nation's establishment, this program runs as follows. Justice Brown advocates increasing the size of the Supreme Court in order to pack it with reds who will nullify the Bill of Rights. She couched her advocacy as a refusal to condemn court packing on the grounds that the issue is political as opposed to judicial: "Anticipating a line of questioning from Republicans, Dick Durbin asked Jackson about changing the current size of the Supreme Court, which currently has nine justices. 'Again, my North Star is the consideration of the proper role of a judge in our constitutional scheme and in my view, judges should not be speaking to political issues, and certainly not a nominee for a position on the Supreme Court.' " (What Happened On Day 2 Of Judge Ketanji Brown Jackson's Confirmation Hearings, NBC News). Justice Brown advocates critical race theory. According to this theory, the only valid social theories are those grounded in race, because race is the essence of human reality, and are critical of the liberal order. Racism is inherent in the capitalist system, in its laws and legal institutions, and white people are racist by virtue of their genes and chromosomes. A progressive society has eliminated the white power scourge of capitalism together with the white population which embodies and supports it, and established upon the ruins and dead bodies an intersectional black proletarian dictatorship. Justice Jackson supports the critical race theory tenet that race interacts with the capitalist system and poisons it with white power. She proclaims that critical race theory must form the basis of criminal sentencing policy and that black criminal defendants must be granted preferential treatment and be excused from punishment for their acts: "When asked by Ted Cruz to define critical race theory, Jackson replied that it is 'an academic theory that is about the ways in which race interacts with various institutions. It doesn't come up in my work as a judge.' Cruz, at another point, referred to a 2015 speech in which he claimed Jackson described her job as a judge as using critical race theory. Jackson replied, 'with respect, the quote you are mentioning there was about sentencing policy, not about sentencing.' " (What Happened On Day 2 Of Judge Ketanji Brown Jackson's Confirmation Hearings, NBC News). Justice Jackson supports transgender ideology which denies the facts of reality and proclaims that sex can be changed by surgical and chemical interventions and has nothing whatever to do with chromosomes. She proclaims that the terms male and female cannot be defined in any immutable, biological sense and she expresses her commitment to transgenderism by her statement that she cannot define the word woman because she is not a biologist. Ordinary people are taken aback by her statement because they understand that one does not have to be a biologist to understand that sex determination is based on chromosomes, and they understand that Jackson's statement is driven by her far left ideological commitments, and her refusal to acknowledge a reality which every high school student and every layman on the street is aware of. Professing ignorance of a reality which flies in the face of her far left religion, professing an inability to define the word woman, Jackson nonetheless advocates social justice for women, tribal rights for women, gender equity for women, preferential treatment for women, and the elimination of liberal jurisprudence and a meritocratic society in the name of female empowerment: "Judge Ketanji Brown Jackson refused to define the word woman in her Supreme Court confirmation hearing Tuesday, but she and Democrats repeatedly opined on the historical significance of the fact that she is the first black woman nominee. In an exchange with Senator Marsha Blackburn (R-TN), Judge Jackson refused to define the term woman, saying she was not a 'biologist,' though the definition of gender is a key legal issue in debates over transgenderism. SEN. BLACKBURN: 'Can you provide a definition of the word woman?' JACKSON: 'No, I can't.' BLACKBURN: 'You can't?' JACKSON: 'I'm not a biologist.' Earlier, Judge Jackson had no problem talking about what her nomination meant as a woman, and never questioned the use of that term. For example, when Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA), for example, said: 'Judge Jackson, if confirmed, you would become the sixth woman to ever serve on the Supreme Court. You would join Justices [Sonia] Sotomayor, [Elena] Kagan, and [Amy Coney] Barrett on the bench. This would be the nearest we have ever come to gender equity on the Supreme Court. There would be four women on a court with nine justices. What are your thoughts on what it means for our country to have women serve in meaningful numbers on the federal bench, and in particular, what would it mean to have four women serving on the Supreme Court for the first time in history?' Jackson responded: 'I think it's extremely meaningful. Since I was nominated to this position, I have received so many letters and photos from little girls around the country who tell me that they are so excited for this opportunity and that they thought about the law in new ways because I am a woman, because I am a black woman.' There were several similar exchanges with Democrat Senators who drew attention to the fact that Judge Jackson is a woman. President Joe Biden specifically promised to nominate a black woman to the Supreme Court during the 2020 campaign." (First Black Woman Nominated to Supreme Court Won't Define 'Woman' by Joel Pollak). Justice Jackson denies that individuals possess natural rights which the state cannot revoke. She proclaims that she holds no position on the question of whether rights come from the nature of man as a free born agent or whether they are a gift from society which can be canceled by society to advance its needs and interests. She proclaims that she holds no position on whether the claim of the Declaration Of Independence, "We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed, by their Creator, with certain unalienable Rights", is in fact true or not: "TED CRUZ: Do you hold a position on whether individuals possess natural rights, yes or no? JACKSON: I do not hold a position on whether individuals possess natural rights." (Ketanji Brown Jackson Refuses To Say Whether Individuals Have Natural Rights by Jordan Dixon-Hamilton). The past one hundred years have seen the achievement of astounding world records. The year 1944 saw the first launch of a spacecraft, the V2 rocket. The year 1957 saw the first launch of an artificial satellite. The year 1969 saw the first human beings land on the moon. The year 1984 saw the first untethered space walk by an astronaut. The final seconds of American society have produced a first in the world, as dismal and tragic as it is shocking to the conscience of civilized people. In the year 2022, an intersectional form took a seat on the Supreme Court and draped itself, its race, its gender and its communism, in black robes.

REDS TAKE OVER BEETHOVEN

In corporate finance, the field of mergers and acquisitions relates to transactions in which the ownership of a company is consolidated with or transferred to another company. A merger is defined as the consolidation of two companies into one, while an acquisition is defined as the taking over of one company by another. In a merger, each company is given partial control over the combined company, while in an acquisition, one company achieves total control over another and is the sole power in the combined company. A merger is a merger of equals, while an acquisition is the hostile and unfriendly absorption of one company by another. Students of history have observed an instance of acquisition which has shaken them to the core and blasted before their minds a picture of the end of civilization. They have observed an instance of appropriation which has tolled the bell of social decline in dramatic and stentorian tones. They have observed an instance of subsumption which has hurled the Western canon of cultural achievement into a monster's maw of far left politics and rendered the landscape of the free world unrecognizable. They can scarcely watch and listen to what they see and hear and can scarcely tell their colleagues about an act of destruction of a monument which has buried the final seconds of civilization in moral rubble and ruination. To tell the world this story is to fasten their souls upon a rack of torture, but they have compelled themselves to plant this signpost announcing the arrival of the Grim Reaper in the interests of truth and understanding, and in the hope that future generations will not stray along errant ways. The most admired composer in the history of Western music, the creator of works which are the most performed in the classical music repertoire, Ludwig van Beethoven has been crushed and consumed by a red onslaught which has left nothing more than his name standing and has consigned his glorious legacy to the dustbin of history. To see what the reds have done to Beethoven is to see a world locked in free fall and crashing into the fever swamps of a new religion. Proceeding from Marx as the complex logically proceeds from its simple matrix, this is the religion of three tribes, the religion of gender, race and class, and it has taken down Beethoven as it has taken over the contemporary world, desecrated a symbol and representation of West venerated like no other, and composed the final chapter of a one thousand year old cultural saga, a chapter which will live in infamy for all time to come. The red program for Beethoven is a roaring symphony of cultural suicide which has drowned out the voices of the Enlightenment and sent the sounds of radical rejection surging throughout society. A song of triumph of truth and freedom, Beethoven's Fidelio has been rewritten by the reds and transformed into a statement and manifesto of black power politics. The new red version of the opera runs as follows. A Black Lives Matter activist is conducting an investigation into the racist, fascist capitalist system and its mass imprisonment of blacks. In retaliation for his pursuit of justice, a racist, fascist police officer shoots him and a racist, fascist prison warden throws him into solitary confinement. His wife is unable to persuade any lawyers to free him because the legal profession has become an arm of the racist, fascist capitalist system. In an attempt to free her husband, the wife becomes an undercover prison guard in her husband's prison. The couple's daughter is a lesbian and the couple encourages her to form an intersectional romance with another black women. The wife proclaims that capitalism is a system of suppression of immigrants and nonwhites. She proclaims that capitalism is a system of imprisonment of poor blacks. Her imprisoned husband condemns a black prison guard as a slave and lackey of the capitalist system: "You are complicit in a corrupt system that oppresses our people. I see in you a field Negro." The white prison warden voices the racist, fascist, capitalist line of personal responsibility: "If you really wanted to help your community you would tell them to stop burning down their neighborhoods and to pull up their bootstraps." In Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, the reds have replaced Friedrich Schiller's Ode To Joy with contemporary poems. One poem composed by the rapper Wordsmith proclaims that the purpose of the opera is to reinforce the will to power of blacks and women and promote cultural acceptance of their acts of violence in the name of race and gender equality: "My goal is to use present day social issues to highlight the need for positive reinforcement. Encouraging gender equality, cultural acceptance, and living a purpose driven life are worldly topics I sought to shine a light on during the writing process." (Wordsmith). The new poem is an encomium to cultural relativism, moral subjectivism, race and gender tribalism, the fight for power under the guise of equal rights, the promotion of hate under the guise of condemning hate, and the unity and comradeship of ideologues and activists in their struggle to effect radical social change and overthrow the capitalist system: "Live and love with open mind let our cultures intertwine./Dig deep down, show what you're made of,/ set the tone it's time to shine./We must fight for equal rights and share some common courtesy./While pursuing all your dreams spread your joy from sea to sea./Family, friends share your opinion, push for gender equality./Be yourself don't judge too quick receive one another with open arms./Oh this is our chance to unite, spread some genuine joy and charm./Brothers, sisters equally say:/Together we can make hate history!/Positive vibes for an ode to joy!/Rise, oh rise, be the voice of change,/We must show more empathy." (Wordsmith). Another replacement for Schiller's poem condemns technological and industrial progress as a source of catastrophic climate change and devastation of the planet: "Battered planet, home of billions,/Our long shadow stalks your face./All we've fractured, all we've stolen,/All we've sought blind to your grace./Earth, forgive us, claim us, let us/Live in humble thanks and joy./Let our hearts wake from our stupor,/Let us praise you in one voice." (Ode To Joy by Tracy Smith). Look at the red assault on Beethoven and see a master of the West pushed into oblivion by the promoters of black national socialism. See the master redrawn as an exemplar of black intelligence, black creativity, black brilliance and the black will to power. See the master buried in uncombed, unwashed, twisted hair whose braids reach down into the sewers of race politics. See the master transformed into portraits of black hoodlums. See the master hurled into the bonfires of race war. See the master reduced to dust before a raging stampede from the African desert. See the master assassinated by the rifles of conspiracy, paranoia and racist legends. See the master defaced with the spray cans of racist graffiti. See the achievements of the master denied by the purveyors of race propaganda. See the facts of history erased and political correctness enforced in the name of diversity, equity and inclusion. See musicians and composers perform under the sign of a black swastika and blast out orchestral thunder whose strings, woodwinds, brass and percussion have announced the end of civilization: "The Center of Fine Arts in Brussels announced the celebration of the 250th birthday of German composer Ludwig van Beethoven by posting a portrait of the composer as a black African man. The center, also known as BOZAR, published a post on Wednesday of a still from a video entitled Black Beethoven by American artist Terry Adkins, which features a portrait of the late 18th and early 19th century composer depicted as a young black man with dreadlocks. 'In the work, Adkins presents a portrait of the iconic composer that slowly morphs into that of a young black man with short dreadlocks and back again. The repeated transformation of the image conveys Adkins's unwillingness to settle the debate on Beethoven's race,' the post explained. In response to the mostly negative comments on the post, BOZAR added another post stating that the center wanted to 'be a place of art and culture open to all audiences, reflecting the diversity of Brussels and our society'. The conspiracy theory that claims the German composer was a subSaharan African man, or had any recent African ancestry at all, has been thoroughly debunked. As the Smithsonian Magazine noted in June, one of Beethoven's colleagues and contemporaries, the violinist George Bridgetower, was black, however. Over the last several years, a trend has emerged in film and television to portray historical or fictional white European figures, who have traditionally been played by white actors, as being performed by black or other ethnic minority actors." (Woke Art Center Celebrates Beethoven Birthday With Portrait Of Composer As A Black Man by Chris Tomlinson). The reds proclaim that Beethoven is the voice of wealthy white males. They proclaim that his music is a symbol of white feelings of superiority and importance. They proclaim that his music marginalizes women, lesbians and people of color. They proclaim that his music is a song of black exclusion and white elitism. They proclaim that his music improperly isolates and estranges poor blacks and causes them to become hostile and discontented: "If you pretend like there's no other music out there, that Beethoven is the greatest music that ever will matter, then orchestras will alienate new listeners, since we're not promoting any of the composers alive today that are trying to become the Beethovens of their day." (How Beethoven's 5th Symphony Put the Classism in Classical Music by Nate Sloan and Charlie Harding, quoting Anthony McGill). In 1798, Beethoven's hearing began to decline as a result of otosclerosis, and by 1812, he was unable to hear speech or music in a normal manner. But he did not allow his deafness to defeat him and described, in his famous Heiligenstadt Testament, his resolute determination to continue his creations: "Ah, it seemed to me impossible to leave the world until I had brought forth all that I felt was within me. So I endured this wretched existence--truly wretched for so susceptible a body, which can be thrown by a sudden change from the best condition to the very worst." Before the ceaseless bellowing of red agitation, the world has lost the ability to hear the words and music produced by civilization. Celebrating the triumph of human liberty and the spirit of man, the symphonies, sonatas, quartets, opera and mass brought forth by Beethoven repose unheard in the wastelands of cultural nonexistence.

RED ORCHESTRAS CROWD THE CONCERT HALL

In the dark air of the German concentration camps, the loom of music spread its cloth over the lives of the inmates. The sounds of cymbals, drums and musical phrases were carried by the winds into every corner of the camps. The music was monotonous, consisting of marches and songs beloved by the authorities, and was the voice of madness, horror and annihilation. Students of history have seen the circle of events spin round and seen in these music clothed infernos of yesteryear a portrait of the state of music in the present day. They have once again seen reds pack orchestras and drive the souls of the dead like air currents drive dead leaves, and seen in this endlessly repeating cycle an intensifying whirlwind which has reached its culmination in the new millennium. They have seen the citizens of the West, culturally and civilizationally deceased and descending into their doom, commanded by orchestras whose communists and brownshirts blast symphonies of gender, race and class politics into every hall, stage and theater in the land, and send out waves of death across the traditions and institutions of the free world. Their report on the state of music today is a report on an attack launched by the enemies of the Enlightenment, whose tanks and divisions are draped in the banners of identity politics, and have carried Marxism into its final argument and conclusion in the politics of black power, violence and disintegration. The latest red assault against the music of the West is a program and manifesto of black racism which has taken its German national socialist predecessor on board and screamed out the highest, loudest point of a development commenced less than a century before. The latest swastika voices of tribalism have replaced proletarian class supremacy and Aryan race supremacy with a new form of racism, black supremacy, and have played a composition of cultural suicide booming out equally and without surcease from every string, woodwind, brass and percussion section of the orchestra. This program proclaims that today's orchestras discriminate against black musicians and composers. It proclaims that the Western musical canon is a product of white supremacy and those who defend the canon are themselves racist. It proclaims that today's orchestras are sources of oppression of blacks and are evil springs flowing with the songs of racial injustice: "For decades we have tolerated and perpetuated systemic discrimination against Black people, discrimination mirrored in the practices of orchestras and throughout our country. We are committed to dismantling our role in perpetuating the systems of inequity that continue to oppress Black people." (League Of American Orchestras). The program of the reds proclaims that today's orchestras are ensembles of racist instrumentalists which have banished blacks musicians to the hinterlands as insignificance, irrelevance and unimportance: "We apologize for our history of inaction to effectively confront the racist systems and structures that have long oppressed and marginalized Black musicians, composers, and communities." (Hartford Symphony Orchestra). It proclaims that today's orchestras are complicitous in the white man's war against blacks: "We know that you are exhausted and recognize we will never fully understand the depth of your suffering. We know that part of your exhaustion comes from the heartbreak of our silence, inaction, and half-measures." (Seattle Opera). It proclaims that black orchestra players are consistently harassed and mistreated by white administrators and conductors. It proclaims that the reason there are few black players in orchestras is not any lack of qualified blacks but the racist attitudes of the white music establishment. It proclaims that today's orchestras are lashes of white male oppression against blacks and perpetrators of the Western tradition of persecution of blacks: "I come to you today as the white male leader of this institution. We are committed anew to self examination and to do our part to heal wounds that are hundreds of years old." (Christopher Koelsch, president of the Los Angeles Opera). The program of the reds proclaims that a progressive orchestra gives preferential treatment to black members and allows them to show up late for work, take indefinite break times, and speak on their mobile phones during rehearsals. It proclaims that today's orchestras consistently reject qualified black musicians simply because they are black: "The truth is I am an award winning international opera singer who has only been hired once at an A-house in the United States." (Soprano Lauren Michelle). It proclaims that today's orchestras are systemically racist and unjust because their hiring policies are colorblind and they do not discriminate against white musicians. It proclaims that a progressive orchestra gives preferential treatment to black candidates and has established a special video communications service in which blacks can vent their hatred of whites and their desire to kill and destroy them. It proclaims that the Western musical canon is a product of white musical theory and must be rejected: "The school will become a community that not only rejects racism, but that is actively antiracist, working to tear down systemic racism and injustice. As part of this work, the school created a blacks only Zoom space for healing. It's high time the whiteness of music theory is examined, critiqued and remedied." (Statement by officials at the Julliard School of Music). The program of the reds proclaims that the love of classical music is a ruse designed to conceal white racism. It proclaims that Mozart's portrayal of the Moor Monostatos in The Magic Flute provides irrefutable proof of the racist character of Western classical music. It proclaims that a progressive orchestra seeks to achieve racial balance within its ranks and has eliminated the tradition of blind auditions in which candidates' identities are concealed behind a screen during their performances. It proclaims that a progressive orchestra has eliminated the traditional policy of colorblindness in the selection of musicians because such focuses on merit to the exclusion of race and is unfair to blacks. It proclaims that white racism courses through the traditions and institutions of classical music like a cancer and plague. It proclaims that Beethoven's Fifth Symphony is a symbol of white male chauvinism. It proclaims that the Western musical canon is a portrait of a society in which men hold absolute power: "The link between patriarchal power in the West and the fact that the classical canon is made of lookalike faces of Great Men is more than coincidental." (Tom Service, BBC Magazine). It proclaims that the Western musical canon is a story spanning ten centuries of prejudice, exclusion, sexism, and racism. It proclaims that since Handel owned stock in a slave trading company, lovers of classical music are supporters of slavery: "You are complicit in racism every time you listen to Handel's Messiah." (Garrett McQueen). It proclaims that lovers of classical music assist the white Western establishment to murder savage cultures and people of color and erase their names and memory: "We denounce our complicity in the marginalization and extrajudicial killing of people of color, particularly black and indigenous individuals." (American Library Association). It proclaims that descriptions of Western classical music and its creators comprise a dictionary of synonyms for white racism: "authentic, canonic, civilized, classic(s), conventional, core ('core' requirement), European, function ('functional' tonality), fundamental, genius, German ('German' language requirement), great ('great' works), maestro, opus (magnum 'opus'), piano ('piano' proficiency, skills), seminal, sophisticated, titan(ic), towering, traditional, and Western." (Philip Ewell). It proclaims that Beethoven's Ninth Symphony is venerated simply because Beethoven was a white male and is no more valuable than works of jazz composed by blacks: "Beethoven's Ninth Symphony is no more a masterwork than Esperanza Spalding's 12 Little Spells." (Philip Ewell). Look at the red assault on classical music and see traditional musical notation condemned as a representation of Western racist colonialism. See the traditional system of symbols used to represent instrumental and sung music condemned as a product of white Europe, white heritage and white culture. See the traditional teaching of piano playing and the traditional conducting of orchestras condemned as an involvement in white supremacy and a lash of torture and persecution of blacks. See the great masters of the Western canon condemned as the voices and apologists of black slavery. See the traditional music of reason and order, shining across the centuries and uplifting people in venues throughout the world, condemned as white European music which says nothing whatever to superior black, African, savage cultures: "In response to widespread Black Lives Matter protesters and riots last year in the United Kingdom, music educators at Oxford University have joined the wider iconoclastic movement which has been sweeping through British academia. Academics proposed changing the way music notation is taught because it is a 'colonialist representational system', with professors seeking to focus less on white European heritage and culture, according to documents seen by The Telegraph." (Woke Oxford Music Profs Claim Western Sheet Music Has 'Complicity to White Supremacy' by Kurt Zidulka). Without precedent in the history of music, the conductorless orchestra was established in the Soviet Union in the early 1920s. The Soviets believed that a true Marxist society, in which the enterprising are equal to the indolent, the producers are equal to the parasites, and the good and virtuous are equal to the proletarian scum, demands that the position of a single, leading conductor be abolished and the direction of the orchestra be placed into the hands of a committee representing all the musicians. Called the Persimfans, the conductorless orchestra was restricted to the performance of music which advanced Soviet cultural politics. In the twenty first century, the red music committees are back in business directing the content, canon, melodies, tempos and playing styles of the black proletarians in control of civilization.

RAMPAGE ACROSS CIVILIZATION

A cesspool is an underground tank for the collection and storage of excreta. It was traditionally a cylindrical chamber one meter in diameter and three meters deep and had the appearance of a hand dug water well. In the nineteenth century, cesspools were in use in cities throughout the West. H. L. Mencken described Baltimore as "smelling like a billion polecats" and a citizen of Chicago described the foulness of his city: "the stink is enough to knock you down." Students of history have beheld the image of a cesspool hanging over the twenty first century. They have looked into a dark pit and seen an oppression, an unpleasantness, an unhealthiness and a miasma produced by a rotting society in its final stages of disintegration, an emanation and its chaos which have caused them to lose their balance and stagger. They have seen the telltale sign of the end of civilization and seen the hand of destiny which has decreed its fearsome arrival. It arrived in ancient Rome and unleashed hordes of aliens, stampeding armies of barbarians and Christians, and let them triumph upon the rubble of reason. It has arrived in the present hour and allowed the dregs of society to sit upon thrones of power and send fear surging through streets and squares. This is the disease, the cancer and the psychosis of moral relativism and it has spread into every aspect of human affairs and brought the palaces of human progress and enlightenment crashing down into dust. It has unleashed a whirlwind of horror from within nations and from without and transformed neighborhoods into crime scenes where the forces of the law dare not venture to tread. These crime scenes have been rung open by the doctrine that there are no universal, objective moral standards and that each individual or each society or each culture develops the standards it finds acceptable, and which are, in fact, acceptable for it. They have been rung open by the doctrine that morality is decreed by one's feelings or one's preferences or one's wishes or one's intuitions or one's categorical imperatives and cannot be validated by reference to any rational consequences or any rational human nature. They have been rung open by the doctrine that morality consists in expressing oneself or in acting upon one's emotions or in obeying the legislation of one's will come what may, and though circumstances do not rationally warrant doing so, and though, in doing so, one allows evil and injustice to take place, and one loses one's sense of right and wrong. Crime scene one. In April 2020, a man at a subway station in New York City donning a gas mask, and carrying a hatchet, fireworks, a gasoline container, smoke grenades, ammunition magazines and a nine millimeter handgun, throws the grenades into a subway car, opens fire as the train approaches, shoots thirty three rounds and injures ten people. A monstrous creature of moral relativism, Frank James promotes black nationalism. He prays to black Jesus to kill all white people. He is a fervent supporter of the Nation of Islam. He walks the streets of New York and hurls expletives and imprecations at white people. He glorifies and encourages violence against white people: "Of all things remember this: Every motherfucker respects a gunshot wound." He is a fervent supporter of Micah Xavier Johnson, who killed five police officers in Dallas, Texas in 2016 and wounded nine others. He supports the September 11, 2001 terror attacks as "the most beautiful day in the history of this fucking world." He proclaims that blacks must launch a war of extermination against whites in the manner of Hitler's war of extermination against the Jews: "White people and black people should not have any contact with each other. Their anger is building up. Nothing can happen here differently than what happened over in Europe with the Jews. I want you to believe that that's possible." He proclaims that blacks have allowed themselves to be Westernized and Europeanized by whites and to support individual rights and racial equality when they should throw their support to the nonWestern, nonEuropean values of tribalism, black supremacy and a race based society. He proclaims that a progressive society is a black totalitarian dictatorship. He proclaims that Jews have an innate hatred of blacks and are haughty, idle, parasitical capitalists whose depredations have destroyed the planet, and they must be exterminated: "Jews have so much contempt for blacks. These Jews obviously haven't learned shit from their experience. You know, it hasn't humbled them in the slightest. They're all—or the majority of them—still arrogant and still feel they're superior and something above black people. And, again, those motherfuckers don't contribute to shit to life on this earth but shit, piss, pollution, and death and destruction." He proclaims that whites hate blacks and want to exterminate them and blacks must counterattack and exterminate whites: "They're white, you're not. They're doing that to each other? What do they think they're going to do to you? It's just a matter of time before these white motherfuckers say, 'Hey listen, enough is enough, these niggers have to go.' What are you going to do? You're going to fight. And guess what? You're going to die." Crime scene two. The West has disintegrated into a multiplying congeries of cultural and ethnic groups driven by the will to power and domination. It has opened its gates to multiculturalism, mass immigration and civil war. It has allowed unassimilated migrants to seal its fate in rivers of blood: "All multicultural societies are doomed to more or less deep rifts. In such a situation, it happens that minorities are violent winners, and majorities placid losers." (Former French Intelligence Chief: 'All Multicultural Societies Are Doomed' by Paul Joseph Watson, quoting Pierre Brochand). The West has opened its gates to the forces of Islam and their program of violence, disruption and revenge against civilization: "This gradual upheaval of the French population, if not the only challenge we face, is the only one that directly threatens civil peace on our territory. Muslim migrants have developed a spirit of post-colonial revenge." (Former French Intelligence Chief: 'All Multicultural Societies Are Doomed' by Paul Joseph Watson, quoting Pierre Brochand). The West has opened its gates to an ever increasing Muslim driven drumbeat of total disintegration: "Younger generations born of immigrants are even less integrated with French society than their parents." (Former French Intelligence Chief: 'All Multicultural Societies Are Doomed' by Paul Joseph Watson, quoting Pierre Brochand). The West has opened its gates to fissile material which has exploded across its lands and sent out waves of heat, blast and radioactive debris. These are the forces and particles of an alien nation, an alien culture, an alien dispersion, an alien religion, an alien migrant community, an alien system of beliefs and an alien way of life which have declared total war on the liberal order built up over the centuries and poisoned free institutions for all time to come: "In any case, it is very late. Let us face it: We are no longer dealing with dispersed individuals, that is to say, so many 'special cases,' each in search of a better future, but with diasporas. A diaspora is an entity, formed by immigrants and their descendants—including, crucially, French nationals—who are grouped together and whose numbers reach a critical mass sufficient for social pressure to encourage the perpetuation of the beliefs and ways of life of the countries of origin, with which relations remain tense. This way, more or less closed foreign enclaves are spontaneously formed that turn their backs on the host country and its customs." (Former French Intelligence Chief: 'All Multicultural Societies Are Doomed' by Paul Joseph Watson, quoting Pierre Brochand). The West has opened its gates to expanding waves of spiritual death and destruction. Rolling in from the East and rejecting reason, progress and the rule of law, a force of pressure, agitation, combustion and decomposition has burst and shattered across the free world. Its impact has sent crime and violence surging through the streets, established enclaves of enemy unassimilation in cities and neighborhoods, and lowered the curtain on the health, well being, safety and happiness of mankind: "All my accumulated experiences make me foresee a dark, and even very dark, future for our children and grandchildren. At best, they are heading toward an unsuspected collapse of their quality of life (an implosion); at worst, we are leading them to terrible confrontations (an explosion). Most likely, there will be a combination of the two amid growing confusion." (Former French Intelligence Chief: 'All Multicultural Societies Are Doomed' by Paul Joseph Watson, quoting Pierre Brochand). The West has opened its gates to an invasion of combatants, saboteurs, ambushers, raiders, career criminals and violent disturbers unleashed by command centers in the East. Rejecting the forces of advanced human social development and the institutions of liberal governance and law, they have brought down a shroud of extinction upon mankind: "Since last week, the cities of Sevran and Aulnay-sous-Bois in the suburbs of Paris have been the scenes of true urban guerrilla warfare, and similar scenes have been seen in Villeurbanne and Vénissieux, in the suburbs of Lyon. Each time, it is incidents between police officers trying to enforce the law and violent multirecidivist criminals that were the initial cause of riots, shootings, and multiple fires, with ambushes set up against the police squads called in as reinforcements." (Former French Intelligence Chief: 'All Multicultural Societies Are Doomed' by Paul Joseph Watson, quoting Pierre Brochand). At some point during the course of their careers, gardeners wonder what dirt is composed of. Dirt is a mixture of rocks, decayed organisms, living organisms, air and water. The chemical elements of dirt include oxygen, silicon, aluminum, iron, calcium, sodium and carbon. Students of history have added to this list of minerals, chemicals and biological organisms two terrifying cultural components. Growing in the frightening soil of moral relativism, the dirt of black swastika banners and Muslim red crescents has buried civilization forever.

RED CURATORS SMASH MUSEUMS

Ten years and 143 days. This was the duration, the endless duration, the duration which reached into the darkest reaches of Satan's midnight and never emerged into the light of day, of the greatest campaign of cultural destruction launched in the history of mankind. Commenced in 1966 under the leadership of Mao Zedong, Chairman of the Chinese Communist Party and founder of the People's Republic of China, the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution saw terrifying waves of violence, chaos and the ransacking of national heritage sites which reduced China to rubble and claimed the lives of twenty million people. Mobilized and guided by Mao, Red Guards roamed the land for a decade and erased China's glorious past. Students of history have seen in this organized course of removal and erasure an indicator and predictor of a general conflagration which has brought about the collapse of the West. They have seen in the bombardments, the desecrations, the violations, the shattering and breaking into pieces committed by Mao's revolutionary movement a scene advancing and fast forwarding at the speed of light into the institutions of the present day. They have seen this scene's Red Guards stampede into special buildings. These buildings store and exhibit objects and artifacts which commemorate the West. Donning the mantle of curators, these latter day Red Guards have transformed museums across the world into centers of red propaganda and rank revisionism designed to lead a revolution of destruction against human progress and civilization. Selecting, organizing and presenting the religion of the Devil to the world, the religion of Marx and his heirs and successors, the religion of gender, race and class tribes and their fearsome will to power, today's curators have placed fact and truth into a glass case, set it on fire and hurled it down a valley of cultural nonexistence. Rewriting and reinterpreting the record of history in the light of red needs, interests and exigencies, today's curators have composed a program and manifesto of the final day of the world's existence. This is the day on which the voices of the Enlightenment have been silenced forever and social advancement has been smashed into dust and buried deep underground. Put up for public viewing in the world's community of art museums, science museums, war museums, children's museums and natural history museums, the program of red curating and red doomsday has issued a series of proclamations announcing the repeal of liberal values and ideals. This program of the reds proclaims that a progressive museum houses installation art which features furniture exploring themes of race and gender. It proclaims that a progressive museum must serve as an agent of change which targets the racist system of capitalism. It proclaims that a progressive museum seeks to inculcate black race consciousness at the expense of scholarship and accuracy. It proclaims that a progressive museum promotes black power under the guise of racial justice and promotes nothing else. It proclaims that a progressive museum presents savage cultures as noble, unspoiled and innocent. It proclaims that a progressive museum traffics in race propaganda and peddles the legend that the ancient Egyptians were black, that ancient Egypt and modern Sub Saharan Africa are components of a unified black culture, and that this unified culture is the source of Western civilization and the achievements of the modern world. It proclaims that a progressive museum exalts political needs above the facts of history and promotes the myth of Afrocentrism. It proclaims that a progressive museum exposes the masterworks of Western art as the voices of capitalist oppression, violence and inequality. It proclaims that the eighteenth century social critic and satirist William Hogarth was a promoter of sexism and slavery because the chair on which he sits in his self portrait is a symbol of female subjugation and the forced labor of nonwhite people transporting timber: "The curvaceous chair [representing women] literally supports him. The chair is made from timbers shipped from the colonies, via routes which also shipped enslaved people. Could the chair also stand in for all those unnamed black and brown people enabling the society that supports his vigorous creativity?" (Sonia Barrett). It proclaims that a progressive museum interprets Hogarth's Marriage A La Mode as a defense of the dissipated, decadent white race which enslaves nonwhite peoples: "Dissolute white people correspond with shiny white objects in this portrait of domestic disarray. However indirectly, the atrocities of Atlantic investments are invoked in relation to the outsized expenditures on Asian luxury goods—overall, a picture of White degeneracy." (Chi Ming Yang). It proclaims that a progressive museum interprets Rembrandt's masterpiece The Night Watch as a portrait of white supremacy and black exclusion: "As in most other seventeenth century works, only white people are seen in this painting. Yet a modest community of African people actually lived nearby." (Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam, museum commentary). It proclaims that a progressive museum interprets Willem Claesz Heda's Still Life With Gilt Cup as a portrait of Western capitalist colonialism, enslavement and exploitation: "One year after this picture was painted, the Netherlands conquered Bonaire for its salt pans. The Arawak (the original inhabitants) and enslaved people from West Africa were forced to mine the salt pans. They stood day in and day out barefoot in the stinging salt water and under the blazing sun. In the Netherlands, this salt was used to preserve meat and fish or ended up in luxurious salt cellars, like the one shown here." (Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam, wall text). It proclaims that a progressive museum exposes capitalism as a system of colonialism, aggression and forced labor: "Of course there are blind spots in the story these particular acquisitions tell. Colonialism, slavery, and war—major themes in seventeenth century Dutch history—are scarcely visible here." (In Praise Of Painting: Dutch Masterpieces At The Met, museum commentary). It proclaims that a progressive museum exposes capitalism as a system of wealth and success for the few and total immiseration for the many: "Still life paintings pictured the bounty provided by newly established Dutch trade routes and the Republic's economic success, while omitting the human cost of colonial warfare and slavery." (In Praise Of Painting: Dutch Masterpieces At The Met, museum commentary). It proclaims that a progressive museum promotes the black political party line and its tale that ancient Egypt was black and its achievements were copied by the West: "Studied by the Greeks, ancient Egypt remained the paradigm of 'classical' antiquity and the cornerstone of Western representation until the early twentieth century." (The African Origins Of Civilization, museum commentary). Look at the red takeover of museums today and see the heritage of the West destroyed by the chemicals of hatred and rage. See Black Lives Matter given hammers to smash statues and monuments. See Antifa given rifles to assassinate the voices of liberal order. See capitalism condemned as a system of racism and genocide. See capitalism condemned as a system of sexism and patriarchy. See political activists throw acid into the face of reason and progress. See the history of art falsified and distorted as the history of racial struggle and the will to power. See leftist hooligans spray the graffiti of identity politics across displays commemorating science and universalism. See the cave people of Marxism, Maoism, postenlightenment, post culture and postcivilization invade the arts, rampage through institutions preserving intellectual achievements, and send the hands of time racing backward into the nameless eons of primitive, bestial existence: "A wealthy, Oxford educated, American born museum curator has been advising Black Lives Matter/Antifa protestors on Twitter how to do permanent damage to bronze statues using corrosive chemicals. Madeline Odent, curator of Royston Museum in Hertfordshire in England's picturesque, rural east, has been using her art conservation knowledge to advise the mob how best to harm what she calls ‘memorials of genocidal racists’. She has told her 5,000 followers: ‘from an art conservation perspective, it’s honestly fine to throw paint on memorials of genocidal racists! paint is pretty easy to clean off. What would be an absolute SHAME is if people were to throw certain common HOUSEHOLD ITEMS that can cause IRREVERSIBLE BRONZE DISEASE.’ In subsequent tweets, the privately educated curator, married to a millionaire French banker goes into detail about how to create this ‘irreversible bronze disease.’ Yes, it can be removed, but ‘the chemical needed is super carcinogenic, so, it rarely is. Instead, conservators usually ‘pause’ the disease by removing either moisture or oxygen using specialised storage.’ When challenged on her behaviour, Odent was snarky and defiant. She tweeted disingenuously: ‘no I’m pretty sure I’m telling people how to avoid damaging precious and extremely valuable relics of history, without which we would immediately forget about the entirety of the british empire’ and ‘like I could be wrong, what do I know, I’m just a dumb chick with a twitter handle.’ To anyone familiar with the world of museums and galleries this will come as sadly little surprise. The sector has largely been hijacked by leftist political activists more interested in identity politics, cultural Marxism and postmodernism than they are in the history of art. The kind of Year Zero, Maoist mentality exhibited by Odent is not the exception but, increasingly, the rule." (Museum Curator Tweets Advice On How To Destroy Bronze Statues by James Delingpole). Leonardo da Vinci stated that a poet "would be overcome by sleep and hunger before being able to describe with words what a painter is able to depict in an instant." The Russian writer Ivan Turgenev stated that "The drawing shows me at one glance what might be spread over ten pages in a book." Napoleon Bonaparte stated that "A good sketch is better than a long speech." This old proverb is expressed in the present day in the form: "A picture is worth a thousand words." Selected, organized, presented and looked after by the reds, the exhibitions on display in today's museums are texts of rejection of liberal humanity in the final seconds of the West.

RED JUDGE HANGS TRUMP

In the field of logic, begging the question is a fallacy which occurs when the premises of an argument assume the truth of the conclusion, instead of proving it as they should. For example, in the statement "blue is the best color because it is the bluest of colors", blue is held to be the best color because it is the best. Similarly, in the statement "all knowledge is subjective because our ideas represent nothing beyond themselves", knowledge is held to be subjective because it is subjective. Students of history have observed an instance of this circular reasoning, this method of argumentation in which the reasoner begins with what he ends with, in the institution of the law, on the bench of a federal court, from the mouth of a judge who swore an oath to uphold the constitution, and have observed a senior presider over court proceedings, who is supposed to conduct himself in a lawful, impartial and orderly manner, disgrace his office and open the door to tyranny. In March 2022, Judge David Carter of the United States District Court for the Central District of California issued an opinion which electrified reds throughout the nation and sent them into a frenzy demanding the jailing of Donald Trump. In his ruling, Judge Carter stated that "it is more likely than not that President Trump corruptly attempted to obstruct the Joint Session of Congress on January 6, 2021." He ruled that Trump and his attorney John Eastman illegally and improperly conspired to block the January 6, 2021 presidential vote count. He ruled that their actions were illegal because the Election Count is constitutional and the election which installed Joe Biden into power was not fraudulent. He ruled that "President Trump and Dr. Eastman justified the plan with allegations of election fraud—but President Trump likely knew the justification was baseless, and therefore that the entire plan was unlawful." He ruled that "Dr Eastman and President Trump launched a campaign to overturn a democratic election. Their campaign was not confined to the ivory tower—it was a coup in search of a legal theory." Studying Judge Carter's ruling, students of politics saw what they were shocked and astounded to see and what they had never imagined in their worst dreams they would ever have to see in the court of a nation venerated throughout the world as the preeminent beacon, bastion and fortress of liberty. They saw facts and evidence brazenly rejected and what is as plain as daylight boldly denied in an attempt to legitimize a red seizure of power and the greatest act of election fraud committed in the history of democratic nations. The facts and evidence are as follows. The Electoral Count Act is unconstitutional. The Twelfth Amendment to the Constitution states that "the President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted." This means that the president of the Senate performs the counting and resolves any disputes which may arise over electoral votes. John Adams and Thomas Jefferson performed this function while serving as president of the Senate. The Electoral Count Act states that the two houses of Congress, "acting separately", and not together in a single venue as required by the Twelfth Amendment, shall hear all election disputes. The act states that in the event that a dispute cannot be resolved, the votes certified by the executive of state, and not by the president of the Senate, as required by the Twelfth Amendment, shall be counted, and counted without regard to any evidence of fraud presented or to whether or not there was a fair review of the election. Under the United States Constitution, the vice president possesses unilateral authority to disregard the Electoral Count Act and to delay certification of a fraudulent election. The fraudulent character of the 2020 presidential election has been demonstrated and explained beyond all reasonable doubt. Item. In Pennsylvania, 71,893 mail in ballots were returned and counted after Election Day, in violation of the United States Constitution. Item. In Pennsylvania, 10,515 mail in votes from people who did not exist on voter rolls were counted. Item. In Pennsylvania, 20,000 excess votes unaccounted for by the Pennsylvania Department of State were counted. Item. In Pennsylvania, hundreds of thousands of votes were unlawfully counted in secret after Republican observers had been evicted from polling stations. Item. In Pennsylvania, 39,771 people voted who had registered after the October 19 deadline. Item. In North Carolina, tens of thousands of deceased and duplicative voter registrations were counted. Item. In Wisconsin, the state election commission permitted absentee voting via drop boxes and ballot harvesting, in violation of state law. The law runs as follows: "Absentee ballots shall be mailed by the elector, or delivered in person, to the municipal clerk issuing the ballot or ballots." Acting under the guise of state election commissioners, political campaigners violated their oath of office and sacrificed election integrity and the rule of law upon the altar of red revolution and far left dictatorship: "The RNC [Republican National Committee] is joining with the NRSC [National Republican Senatorial Committee] and the Wisconsin Republican Party to file a Supreme Court amicus brief in Wisconsin because appointed election officials have no right to circumvent election laws duly passed by state legislatures. Wisconsin has clear laws against ballot harvesting, but activist members of the unelected Wisconsin Election Commission disregarded them in the 2020 election. Republicans will not allow such undemocratic attacks on election integrity to go unchallenged." (RNC, GOP Groups Ask Wisconsin Supreme Court To Affirm Lower Court Ruling Against Ballot Harvesting by Katherine Hamilton, quoting Ronna McDaniel). Partisan bureaucrats and election officials rewrote Wisconsin's voting laws to ensure the victory of Joe Biden. The election saw maximum participation by the forces of fraud and corruption. Unsupervised drop boxes were stuffed with ballots cast for Biden. The American tradition of free, fair and secure elections was sacrificed upon the altar of the will to power of the national red establishment: "We need maximum participation in our elections with zero fraud, but we have unfortunately seen unelected bureaucrats and election officials recently carry out activities across our nation that have threatened the integrity of our votes. In Wisconsin, we are now seeing a rewrite of voting laws to include unsupervised, vulnerable drop boxes which is not only against the law but Americans overwhelmingly reject. Americans want secure elections and what's happening in Wisconsin is incredibly concerning. I'm proud to join Chairwoman McDaniel and the Republican National Committee in filing this amicus brief and hope the court acts decisively to protect our elections." (RNC, GOP Groups Ask Wisconsin Supreme Court To Affirm Lower Court Ruling Against Ballot Harvesting by Katherine Hamilton, quoting Rick Scott). The Wisconsin Election Commission manufactured election laws to ensure the victory of Joe Biden. Red fraud and red influence cast absentee ballots for Joe Biden. Unrestrained by any rules, procedures, checks, balances, inspections, scrutiny or statutory authority, the commission delivered thousands of votes for Joe Biden as it deceived the public with assurances that the presidential election was free and fair. Violating state laws and the federal constitution, the commission took away the right to vote of every citizen in the state and consolidated the red monopoly of power over the nation: "The WEC is only authorized to administer and enforce Wisconsin statutes as expressly set forth by the Legislature has no authority to promulgate new election related laws. To the contrary, WEC's new methods of delivery of completed absentee ballots—untethered to any legislative grant, authorization, or safeguards—are ripe for fraud, undue influence, or similar abuse, which is exactly what the Legislature expressly intended to prevent when it authorized voting by absentee ballots. An administrative rule in the state must be published in official registers after public hearings, written input, and a series of complicated bureaucratic checks before being implemented to ensure that an agency is acting within the bounds of its statutory authority and in an otherwise reasonable manner. As the circuit court correctly held, WEC has unilaterally created new methods of delivery of a completed absentee ballot—methods that have no trace in the Wisconsin Statutes—despite almost simultaneously publishing contradictory information to the public on the very same topic. In doing so, WEC has embraced and promoted violations of Wisconsin election laws, created significant confusion about the absentee ballot voting process, and has usurped a core legislative function, or at the very least, failed to follow mandatory rule making procedures. The circuit court should be affirmed." (Teigen Versus Wisconsin Elections Commission, amicus curiae brief filed by the Republican National Committee, the National Republican Senatorial Committee and the Republican Party of Wisconsin). In December 2020, the state of Texas filed a suit in the United States Supreme Court which sought to annul the voting processes and Electoral College results in Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan and Wisconsin. The suit was filed in response to the deviations of state elections from state laws, to violations of the rule of law by state executives, and to the assault by these states on the nation's institution of self government. Refusing to consider the merits of the case, the Supreme Court dismissed Texas Versus Pennsylvania on grounds of lack of standing. The court stated that Texas had no legal right under Article III of the Constitution to challenge the results of elections held by other states

because it was not injured by the other states' actions. Students of constitutional law were left aghast at the ruling because they know otherwise. They know that the right to vote in a free and fair election is contained in and guaranteed by the suffrage amendments to the federal constitution. They know that the right to vote is meaningless if elections are not free or fair. The Fifteenth Amendment gave former slaves the right to vote. The Nineteenth Amendment gives women the right to vote. The Twenty Third Amendment gives the right to vote to citizens of Washington DC. The Twenty Fourth Amendment establishes the right to vote without payment of a poll tax. The Twenty Sixth Amendment establishes the right to vote for all citizens eighteen years of age or older. Students of constitutional law know that every state in the union is injured, and the nation itself is injured, when the right to vote is violated because when individuals are injured groups comprised by them are necessarily injured. They know that a state is injured when its citizens' right to vote in free and fair elections is abrogated. They know that when a government acts unlawfully and certifies a fraudulent election, and dismisses all challenges to the fraud on spurious grounds of lack of standing, it is no longer a government but a lawless gang wielding power, and there is a right to block it, to obstruct it and to lead an insurrection against it. They know that an insurrection is an uprising against an authority or government, and that the riots staged on January 6 2021 were not properly an insurrection because the government had ceased to exist in all but name. The riots were an attempt to dislodge an organized group of criminals which ruled by brute force. A stain is a discoloration which is distinguished from the surface on which it is found. A stain makes materials appear used, degraded or unclean and can only be removed by the concentrated application of a detergent or solvent. The ruling handed down by a prejudiced supporter of a cause who is masquerading as a judge has placed a stain on the bench and on the nation which will endure for all time to come.

FREEDOM'S EXODUS FROM CALIFORNIA

144,000 people in 1949. 199,000 people in 1960. 207,000 people in the first seven months of 1961. 3.5 million people in total between 1949 and 1961. Conrad Schumann leaping over barbed wire into West Berlin in 1961. Peter Fechner shot dead in 1962 after trying to escape to West Berlin. The numbers are staggering and the images are horrifying, and together they tell a story of civilized people seeking freedom from the charnel house known as East Germany and the death strip known as the Berlin Wall. The greatest mass departure of people from a state in the history of mankind occurred in the twelve long years from the founding of East Germany to the construction of the Berlin Wall, and occurred in response to the founding of a regime which legalized inhumanity. A regime in which the state absorbed society, expropriated every mind and body alive, and reduced free people to the level of rightless chattel slaves of the communist collectivity. This scene will be reenacted again and again, in every instance in which a state reduces its citizens to cogs in the machinery of social command and control, and will occur until the end of time as long as socialist societies are allowed to exist and stalk the face of the earth. The wheel of history has spun round, made a frightening turn, and reenacted tragedy thirty years after the fall of the Berlin Wall and 10,000 kilometers away from it. It has reenacted the suffering and distress caused by the terrifying order of the reds in a country which the world had exalted as its Good Samaritan for the cause of human freedom and Good Neighbor for the cause of human dignity. It has landed in the Golden State of California and brought about something without precedent in the history of America and something rivalling the flight from East

Berlin. It has brought about an exodus of residents who seek to live in freedom and dignity and escape from a swampland of degeneracy filled to overflowing by the reds. A state of American dreams, which shined with an appeal to people who sought to better their lives through hard work, effort and initiative, California has declined into an epitome and representation of all that is wrong and red about America, and has in consequence provoked the greatest outward flight of people in the annals of American mass migration. They have left the state because the poor and incompetent are venerated, exalted and supported from cradle to grave by the wealthy and successful. They have left the state because these poor and incompetent are ten million strong and have made Los Angeles home of the highest poverty rate among American cities. They have left the state because these poor and incompetent have become lords and masters of the streets and transformed cities into jungles of urban terror. They have left the state because these poor and incompetent have transformed cities into camps for the homeless in which police warn tourists that they cannot protect them. They have left the state because businesses such as Walgreens have shut their doors due to rampant burglaries. They have left the state because thirty percent of the residents of Silicon Valley are supported by public welfare. They have left the state because social spending has created an inflationary crisis in which an annual salary of 40,000 dollars has become a poverty wage. They have left the state because high taxes and overregulation have reduced the rate of new corporate investment to one tenth the rate of Texas and one sixteenth the rate of Ohio. They have left the state because its renewable energy program has sent energy prices skyrocketing and reduced its power grid to the least reliable in the nation, making blackouts a normal part of everyday life. They have left the state because its far left energy policies have rendered its electrical power network null and void: "I have been warning over and over again that the policies coming out of the Democrat controlled legislature and governors' office are creating the conditions for blackouts and brownouts and here we are seeing the evidence." (California Power Troubles, Rolling Blackout Threat Draw Ire Over Renewable Energy Transition by Travis Fedeschun, quoting Jim Patterson). They have left the state because its Green New Deal policies, promoting renewable energy and the banning of fossil fuels, have confiscated household incomes: "These outcomes mean that even as many households struggle under the current economic conditions, the state's energy policies continue to take an increasing share of household incomes both directly in gasoline and utility bills and indirectly as these costs are incorporated into the prices of every other component of the costs of living." (California Energy Price Data for July 2020 by California Center For Jobs And The Economy). The people of California have left the state because its high taxes, its overregulation and its unreliable energy grid have reduced it to the rank of forty four in manufacturing sector employment growth, behind Nevada, Kentucky, Michigan and Florida. They have left the state because its housing policies have shifted the poor and incompetent to locales in every region and established an Inland Empire of subhuman dregs. They have left the state because an inflationary crisis created by massive social spending has made it home to six of the nation's worst markets for home buyers. They have left the state because it would take a hundred years for a household to save for a mortgage to buy a house. They have left the state because it ranks forty ninth in homeownership rates in the nation. They have left the state because inflation induced high rents and high house prices have made living unaffordable. They have left the state because its tax rates have confiscated the wealth of the producing class: "The tax hikes would be the tipping point for many taxpayers, prompting them to book a one way trip to one of the 49 states with lower taxes." (Tax Hike On California Millionaires Would Create 54% Tax Rate by Robert Frank, quoting Robert Gutierrez). They have left the state because its educational system has fallen victim to the red doctrine of relativism, which rejects academic excellence, and the red program of affirmative action, which levels down educational standards to accommodate nonperforming nonwhites. They have left the state because its public school students rank forty six in the nation in reading and mathematics performance. They have left the state because three out of five of its public school students are unprepared for university studies or the pursuit of a career. They have left the state because it pays its residents not to work and supports a class of brazen parasites. Because it steals wealth from the producers and gives it to the nonproducers in the name of economic empowerment. Because it allows people to live on unearned income in the name of economic security. Because it guarantees a salary, a remuneration, money on a regular basis in exchange for nothing whatever under the banners of welfare entitlement, and makes a mockery of the adage of civilized that man must earn his daily bread: "For the 125 Stockton, Calif. residents lucky enough to receive a basic income of $500 a month, time was running out. In the winter of 2018, researchers randomly selected residents of high poverty neighborhoods to participate in the Stockton Economic Empowerment Demonstration (SEED). Designed to measure the effects of universal basic income (UBI), the project was funded by the Economic Security Project, a nonprofit that supports other guaranteed income experiments, and championed by Mayor Michael Tubbs, a Democrat. The experiment—and the $500 payments—was scheduled wind down this summer after 18 months, just as a global pandemic thrust millions more into economic uncertainty. But in his State Of The City Address on May 28, Tubbs announced that the project will instead be extended until January 2021." (Stockton Extends Its Universal Basic Income Pilot by Sarah Holder). The people of California have left the state because it has legalized rank election fraud. Because it has printed corruption on ballot papers and consolidated the reds' hold on power. Because it has allowed nonresidents to vote and ensure the victory of the Democrat Party. Because it has counted votes from dead people and guaranteed perpetual governance to its far left dynasties. Because it has abolished the constitutionally guaranteed right of the people to vote in free, fair, clean elections, free from the dirt of deception, and sent the state spiralling into the jungles of banana republics: "We've got way too many people on the rolls who are residency violators who have not voted, and so if you are going to send people a ballot who don't know that ballot is coming, you are asking for trouble. Someone is going to pick that ballot up, and we have an aggressive political party, one party that controls that state of California. They have learned to manipulate all of these ballots. Gavin Newsom has now implemented emergency measures to send every single person on the voter roll a ballot. We had this recall election—the rules were you could print your ballot from home. Now you can't tell me that LA County has a clean and fair election when they are sending ballots to dead people from 12 years ago. That's unacceptable. It's against the law. It's fraud." (Ric Grenell's Three Pronged Plan To Take Back California by Katherine Hamilton, quoting Ric Grenell). They have left the state because it has enacted a political and economic regime in which every resident is owned and regulated by the community and liberty, the liberty brought by march of enlightenment and the liberty guaranteed under the nation's constitution, has been officially declared persona non grata: "If nothing else, Senator Bernie Sanders' robust showing in the California Democratic primary proves this: In the state that gave the nation Richard Nixon, Ronald Reagan and the antitax revolt, a decisive chunk of the Democratic electorate is no longer allergic to the word socialism. It's a political milestone in California history." (California Democrats Embrace A Socialist? We've Been Here Before by Ben Christopher). In the twentieth century, California's population exploded from 1.5 million to 39 million, fueled by the institutions of freedom. In the latter parts of the century the growth in population stalled, and since the 1990s, more people have left the state than moved there. Between 2007 and 2016, state lost a net one million residents. In 2020, there was a net loss of 450,000 people and the population declined for the first time in the state's history. Departures exceeding arrivals: the same story replayed throughout history, replayed in East Germany and replayed in California, whenever the iron heel of tyranny bears down upon the people.

RED LIBRARIAN BURNS BOOKS

On April 8, 1933, the Main Office for Press and Propaganda of the German Student Union proclaimed a nationwide "Action Against the UnGerman Spirit", which would involve a mass literary purge, a mass "cleansing" and a mass burning of books. The union published the Twelve Theses, which called for a "purification" of national language and culture. On May 6, 1933, the book burnings began, and in the days which followed, tens of thousands of books, condemned as the voices of the enemy, as agents of harm to the national socialist state, race and religion, would be consumed in flames. Students of history hoped and prayed that this act of suppression would never return, but they knew in their hearts and minds that it would indeed return, because they knew that reds of all stripes and varieties, reds who peddle national socialism and reds who peddle communism, reds who wear brownshirts and reds who wear redshirts, have been in control of the wheel of history for decades, and can make it spin round and visit the same scourges on mankind, again and again, without respite and without surcease. Their thoughts, fears and forebodings have all come true; in the book burnings of the Third Reich they saw an augur, a presage and a portent of nightmares to come; and in the twenty first century, in the land which the free world had venerated as its preeminent friend, guide and guardian, the nightmares have returned, and sent up columns of fire as vicious and violent as they are tragic and distressful, coming from the land of America. In April 2022, the wheel of history plucked a red suppressor from the shadows of Germany's past and deposited the figure in the corridors of the American Library Association to continue the red suppression anew. The oldest and largest library association in the world, with over 60,000 members, the American Library Association has elected a self proclaimed promoter of Marxism and gender, race and class politics as its president for the 2022-23 term. Students of history saw occultism corroborated and saw a transmigration of souls. Founded in the late nineteenth century, the American Library Association proclaimed its noble mission of liberal enlightenment: "To provide leadership for the development, promotion and improvement of library and information services and the profession of librarianship in order to enhance learning and ensure access to information for all." (American Library Association Constitution). Students of history saw the ALA president elect, Emily Drabinski, assume the mantle of impresario of red censorship and politicization and channel another impresario, active during the Third Reich, and make his spirit her own. As the flames of burning books leaped into the heavens from the square of the State Opera in Berlin, Reich Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels addressed the raging mob on doomsday and spoke into the searing heat: "And thus you do well in this midnight hour to commit to the flames the evil spirit of the past. This is a strong, great and symbolic deed--a deed which should document the following for the world to know. Here the intellectual foundation of the November Republic is sinking to the ground, but from this wreckage the phoenix of a new spirit will triumphantly rise." Students of history saw president elect

Drabinski nullify and disgrace the constitution she swore to uphold and issue a program and manifesto of red regimentation of thought which would continue the German campaign organized by Goebbels under a new guise, and lower the curtain on intellectual freedom and progress in America. The great works of reason, science and liberal humanism, the Western canon of the antireds, were consumed in Satan's light, heat and smoke as Drabinski delivered her fearsome program. She proclaimed that capitalism is a system of white supremacy, catastrophic climate change, class war against the workers, and ruthless, murderous imperialism. She proclaimed that a progressive library guides and instructs all those who seek a better world residing in the chains and shackles of communist dictatorship. She proclaimed that capitalism is a system of economic injustice, racial injustice and environmental unsustainability. She proclaimed that a progressive library is guided by a mission to overthrow the liberal order in the name of social justice, economic justice, racial equity, and the liberation of blacks and lesbians. She proclaimed that capitalism has wreaked floods, hurricanes and wildfires upon mankind and must be swept into the dustbin of history. She proclaimed that a progressive library prohibits all books which violate the tenets of Marxist equity and Marxist justice. She proclaimed that a progressive library leads a national campaign to ban books which defend the rights of individuals against the claims of communities. She proclaimed that a progressive library is dedicated to intersectional, tribal justice and places the empowerment of communist blacks, communist women, communist lesbians and communist migrants at the center of its work. She proclaimed that a progressive library promotes lesbian politics, gay politics and transgender politics. She proclaimed that a progressive library is antibusiness, pronounion and promotes socialist candidates for public office. Listen to the words of America's top librarian and hear her promote critical classification theory which criticizes noncommunist methods of classifying books. Hear her describe book classification as a social, political, ideological, Marxist undertaking. Hear her promote classification schemes which advance the far left agenda. Hear her promote classification schemes which exclude books defending liberal values and the capitalist system on the grounds that they are racist, sexist and classist, and hate women, nonwhites and the poor. Hear her promote critical pedagogy which criticizes the transmission of information uncontaminated by far left ideology. Hear her promote radical pedagogy which replaces traditional pedagogy with the methods and practices of red political indoctrination. Hear her proclaim as an unchallengeable absolute truth, not relative to gender, race, class or culture, the doctrine that all truth is socially constructed, fixed by society, and a product of gender, race and class. Hear her reduce all truth to the will to power, the will to power of genders, races, classes and sexual orientations, and advocate a revolution of radical women, radical blacks, radical lesbians, radical gays, radical transgenders and the radical poor against the traditions and institutions of Western liberal civilization: "We must get it right. Currently at stake is, first off, the problem of giving students wrong information. A class busily searching for works about WHITE WOMEN will come up empty, when a search for WOMEN would serve them quite well. A second stake, less obvious but more insidious, is the risk that by teaching a catalog uncritically, we hide and extend the universalizing, hegemonic tendencies of our classifications into our teaching. This chapter takes up the moment where critical classification theory intersects with critical pedagogy. Considering critical interruptions of classification as a social and political project, I argue that classification schemes are socially produced and embedded structures; they are products of human labor that carry traces of all the intentional and unintentional racism, sexism, and classism of the workers who create them. Political exhorts to change terminology or localize

classification schemes are inevitably limited by the nature of classification itself. We cannot do a classification scheme objectively; it is the nature of subject analysis to be subjective. Teaching, done critically and done well, offers a potential way out of this dilemma. This will require a challenge to our standards based information literacy discourse, and a turn toward radical pedagogical theory." (Teaching The Radical Catalog by Emily Drabinski). Listen to the words of America's top librarian and hear her reject the notion of objective truth. Hear her reject the notion of neutral, nonpartisan, fact based scholarship. Hear her deny that any perspectives on reality can ever be true, real or correct perspectives. Hear her proclaim that all truths are instruments of politics and ideology and advance the will to power. Hear her proclaim as an unassailable absolute truth that the forms of knowledge are nonabsolute and are products of social, racial and biological formations. Hear her advocate a revolution of the outcasts, the misfits, the marginalized, the dregs, the degenerates, and the communists among women, nonwhites, lesbians, gays and poor against decent, upstanding, virtuous, civilized society: "Critiques of hegemonic library classification structures and controlled vocabularies have a rich history in information studies. This project has pointed out the trouble with classification and cataloging decisions that are framed as objective and neutral but are always ideological and worked to correct bias in library structures. Viewing knowledge organization systems from a queer perspective, however, challenges the idea that classification and subject language can ever be finally corrected. Engaging queer theory and library classification and cataloging together requires new ways of thinking about how to be ethically and politically engaged on behalf of marginal knowledge formations and identities who quite reasonably expect to be able to locate themselves in the library. Queer theory invites a shift in responsibility from catalogers, positioned to offer functional solutions, to public services librarians, who can teach." (Queering The Catalogue by Emily Drabinski). Horror is a genre of film which elicits fear and disgust in the audience. Its dark subject matter includes monsters, folk beliefs and apocalyptic events. There is a horror film now playing in America, produced, written, starring and directed by the reds. Rejecting the existence of objective truth, natural order and fixed categories of reality, and exalting the monsters, populism and picture of world destruction derived from Marxism, its keeper of the books is Emily Drabinski.

MIGRANT CANCER CONSUMES CIVILIZATION

Cancer is the pathological proliferation of cells in a living body. The malignant tumor produced by a cancerous proliferation has the potential to spread throughout the body and destroy the organism. The treatments for cancer include surgery, chemotherapy and radiation therapy and seek to remove the center of potential invasion. Students of history have seen in the phenomenon of abnormal, cancerous cell growth a fearsome image of the subjugation of the West by unassimilated migrant hordes during its final seconds of existence, and know that no treatments can reverse its course or direction because its cause is internal moral degeneration. They have seen the cancer of uncontrolled migrant growth strike civilizations the world over and destroy their freedom. They have seen it destroy the freedom of the Western Roman Empire before an invasion of Christians from the East and barbarians from the North, groups arrayed in opposition to pagan reason. They have seen it destroy the freedom of the Eastern Roman Empire before an invasion launched by the Muslim Ottoman Empire, which saw the conquest of Constantinople in 1453 by Mehmet the Conqueror. In the new millenium, at the present hour, they have seen it strike the West in an invasion of migrants from every sewer and cesspool of the planet, and know that nothing can stop this malignancy from growing and expanding because the hand of destiny, the disease of cultural decline and degeneration, the rot of a soul blackened beyond recognition and blackened beyond hope of repair, has decreed it. Without reprieve, without appeal and without mercy of any kind, the clock of cultural doomsday has tolled the bells of Western extinction, and the incessant ringing has rung out the following story. Since President Joe Biden took office in January 2021, over 2.5 million illegal migrants have been allowed to settle in America. Thirty thousand illegal migrants per month cross America's borders. President Biden has refused to invoke Title 42 of the United States Code, first invoked by President Donald Trump, which grants to the federal government the power to expel migrants who pose a public health risk. This revocation has allowed 18,000 migrants per day to enter America from Mexico. Migrants from Mexico, Guatemala, Honduras and El Salvador, migrants of every race, ethnicity, culture and creed, migrants united by a hatred of liberal traditions and institutions, have transformed America into a high temperature swampland of bestial violence and disorder. Migrants have been allowed to settle in America and receive social welfare, social housing, social health care and social education. Migrants have been allowed to settle in America without honest skills of any kind, with no interest whatever in learning about the history, heritage or language of America, and motivated solely by a desire to undermine the nation's free institutions. By failing to defend the nation's borders from a migrant invasion reaching into the millions, President Biden has violated the constitution: "The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government, and shall protect each of them against Invasion." (Article IV, Section 4). The ruling program and plan of action of the West today proclaims that mass migration from the undeveloped world should be legalized and facilitated in order to harness the positive effects of people movement. It proclaims that a progressive society has established an open door policy to the citizens of backward lands who nourish themselves on the evil fruits of fear and superstition. It proclaims that immigration is a right and not a privilege and the host society has a moral responsibility to allow human appearing forms of the lowest order of existence, arriving from strange and distant lands, migrant beasts debased, depraved and unworthy of human life, to become citizens, lords and masters of nations. Look at the West today and see illegal migrants storm the beaches of civilization. See boatloads of scum wash on freedom's shores. See national borders dissolve before the acid of multiculturalism. See beasts of prey from far flung lands unleashed and allowed to run rampant throughout society. See border enforcement rendered null and void and police officers chased off their beats by the policies of the new red dispensation. See capital cities reduced to zones of danger and peril, rendered impossible to live in by law abiding citizens, and reserved for the wolves of brutality charging in from the jungles of the world. See the political, media and academic establishment lead an army of enemy aliens in a war to destabilize liberal order and see the powers that be plunge the West into the greatest crisis in its history: "Britain faces the prospect of a record smashing 100,000 illegal boat migrants landing in 2022, on top of other illegal entrants, visa overstayers, genuine refugees from Ukraine, and increasing legal non EU immigration. Tony Smith, former Director General of UK Border Force—and, he predicts, likely the last borders chief to have risen up through the ranks—said during a Policy Exchange think tank panel discussing his recent book on his decades long career that there 'comes a point where we need to get a grip of our border and stop the boats.' That has proven difficult, he explained, because the French government and the European Union have refused to 'play ball' on taking back migrants, leading to an increasingly out of control and

sometimes deadly crisis. 'The numbers are going up, a fourfold increase already this year—28,500 last year,' Mr Smith told The Daily Mail at the event, warning: 'That's going to be over 100,000 this year just by migrant boats alone.' Discussing 'huge community tensions' during his time in border enforcement, Smith further revealed that 'some senior police officers told me that there were no go areas' where arrests of people residing in the country illegally 'can't happen' for fear of inflaming locals—contrary to the claims of many in law enforcement and the political and media class who wish to deny that so-called no go zones exist." (Over 100,000 Illegal Boat Migrants Will Reach UK This Year: Former Border Force Chief by Jack Montgomery). Look at the West today and see the churches of the reds provide sanctuary to the dregs of the universe. See boat migrants stream in from the black holes of human nonexistence. See holy communion given to the Devil dressed in the colors of Africa. See public exchanges take place with enemy aliens who are on the moral level of animals. See the gates of civilization opened wide to savages from distant lands as a commandment from God. See the black gospel of cultural relativism preached from every radio tower in the land. See free societies descend into ashes and see death conquer life before a relentless charge of illegal migrants. See wild animals allowed to illegally enter lands and overrun governments, cultures and ways of life established to support human development. See the ingestion of poisonous, foreign particles proclaimed as a national responsibility. See the inclusion of those who cannot be included, the incorporation of those who cannot be incorporated, and the subversion of human advancement through the settlement of migrant swarms. See permission granted to alien creatures, ugly and frightening in their spirit and soul, to make decent nations their home and habitation. See the tombstone of the West garlanded with flowers laid by illegal aliens and draped over with a pall cast by communist values, Christian values and the religion of man haters voiced throughout the ages: "Archbishop Justin Welby, the de facto head of the Church of England, has used his Easter message to attack British government plans to transfer some male boat migrants to Rwanda while their asylum claims are processed, claiming the policy 'is the opposite of the nature of God'. In a highly political sermon preached at the service of Holy Communion at Canterbury Cathedral and broadcast on BBC Radio 4 on Sunday morning, the woke archbishop loosely linked the resurrection of Jesus Christ to a number of contemporary political issues he is interested in, including the conflict in Ukraine, 'the rising cost of power, fuel, and basic food', and, of course, immigration. 'This season is also why there are such serious ethical questions about sending asylum seekers overseas,' the Archbishop of Canterbury claimed, referring to the Boris Johnson administration's plans to finally do something about the ever worsening boat migrant crisis by striking a deal with Rwanda, a safe third country, to host some male asylum seekers while their asylum claims—often bogus—are processed. 'The details are for politics and politicians. The principle must stand the judgment of God and it cannot,' declared Welby, who himself has a direct role in lawmaking as a member of the House of Lords. 'It cannot carry the weight of resurrection justice, of life conquering death. It cannot carry the weight of the resurrection that was first to the least valued, for it privileges the rich and strong,' he went on, without offering a clear explanation as to how paying Rwanda to host people who illegally enter British territory from France—a safe European Union member state—is an exercise of privilege. The Anglican leader went on to assert that the Rwanda scheme 'cannot carry the weight of our national responsibility as a country formed by Christian values, because subcontracting out our responsibilities, even to a country that seeks to do well like Rwanda, is the opposite of the nature of God who himself took responsibility for our failures.' " (Woke Anglican Archbishop Uses Easter Message To Attack Border Controls by Jack Montgomery). A stampede occurs when a large group of excited animals starts running in one direction. Associated with cattle, elephants, reindeer, sheep, pigs, goats, walruses, rhinoceroses and horses, a stampede eliminates everything in its path and wreaks massive damage on human life and property. The red flags of Marxism and multiculturalism have excited a stampede of migrants from every corner of the world in the final stages of Western civilization.

RED INFLATION PLUNDERS NATIONS

The Musee Jeu de Paume in Paris. Salt mines in Merkers, Altaussee and Siegen, in Germany and Austria. The Neuschwanstein Castle in Bavaria. Flak Towers in Berlin and Hamburg. These were storage sites of art objects stolen by the Third Reich from occupied nations across Europe during World War II. Hundreds of thousands of objects were stored in these key locations in an act of officially sanctioned and organized plunder. After the Soviets invaded Poland in 1939, they looted Poland's cultural heritage. The stolen items were shipped to Soviet museums such as the Moscow Museum of History and the Central Anti Religious Museum in Moscow. The plundering would continue as the Soviets advanced across Eastern Europe. Its depth and extent, without bounds or limitations of any kind, was described in 1945 by General Aleksandr Zawadzki, Chairman of the Polish Council of State: "I was worried that the raping and looting by the Soviet army would provoke a civil war." (God's Playground: A History Of Poland by Norman Davies, quoting Zawadzki). Students of history were not in the least shocked by these nefarious acts, because they knew that red regimes of whatever variety, national socialist reds and international socialist reds, plunder as a matter of policy from the people they enslave. They knew that looting and plundering are the essence of socialism and that the single, overriding goal of a red is to use productive people as draft animals, to harness them to the carts and plows of the state, and make them drive through fields of exploitation. The looting and plundering have continued apace in the new millennium and assumed new forms and manifestations manufactured in the red arsenal of tyranny. The present day has seen the looting of the West by means of price inflation. In America, it has seen the national government spend more money than it takes in through taxation or borrowing, and inject massive amounts of money which has been printed into the economy via the Federal Reserve Bank. In America, the price of construction materials has increased by twenty percent from 2021 to 2022. The price of beef has increased by twenty one percent. The price of corn has increased by thirty nine percent. The price of wheat has increased by thirty seven percent. The price of coffee has increased by 108 percent. The inflation nightmares of Weimar Germany, Zimbabwe and Venezuela have been reenacted in the present day by governments spending money they do not have courtesy of the printing press. The newly printed money in circulation increases the demand for goods and services, and thereby raises prices, lowers the purchasing power of the currency, and robs the people of their wealth. Inflation is state sanctioned plundering: "Inflation is a way to take people's wealth from them without having to openly raise taxes. Inflation is the most universal tax of all." (Thomas Sowell). Inflation is state sanctioned confiscation: "By a continuing process of inflation, the government can confiscate, secretly and unobserved, an important part of the wealth of its citizens." (John Maynard Keynes). Inflation is state sanctioned deprivation of wealth by force: "Inflation is as violent as a mugger, as frightening as an armed robber and as deadly as a hit man." (Ronald Reagan). Inflation is caused by an improper and fraudulent expansion of a nation's currency by the issuance of paper money redeemable in nothing.

Inflation is caused by the government creation of streams of meaningless paper. Such creation is equivalent to the acts of private counterfeiting and passing checks on nonexistent bank accounts. Inflation is caused by the falsification of monetary values and the debasement and corruption of a nation's money supply. Inflation results in money losing its function as a representation of real goods, such as food, clothing or a house, and being unable to purchase anything, and becoming completely worthless. When the supply of money increases relative to the supply of goods, the prices of goods rise. In consequence, people's earnings and savings lose value. Because there is no gold standard which ties the quantity of money in circulation to a quantity of gold in reserve, there is no way to protect earnings and savings from decreasing to zero, and from being confiscated through skyrocketing prices. Inflation is caused by the creation of fiat money, which is money existing in name only, because it is money backed by no real value such as gold or silver. Fiat money is inconvertible paper money made legal tender by official decree and thus represents legalized counterfeiting. Fiat money seeks to realize the mystic's age old dream of converting nothing into something and creating something out of nothing. Fiat money possesses no intrinsic value and no use value and is a medium of exchange whose coins and notes are zeroes. Look at the world of the reds and see fiat money introduced into economies by central banks. These banks print money in order to purchase financial assets, such as government bonds which fund government programs, and to lend to commercial banks. These commercial banks lend the printed money to individuals and businesses. Derived from the Latin term fiat, which means "let it be done", let value be ordered, commanded and created without regard to the facts of reality, fiat money unleashes tidal waves of worthless currency, monetary breakdown and national bankruptcy: "Today the techniques for inflation are complicated by the fact that there is checkbook money. It involves another technique, but the result is the same. With the stroke of a pen, the government creates fiat money, thus increasing the quantity of money and credit. The government simply issues the order, and the fiat money is there. The government does not care, at first, that some people will be losers, it does not care that prices will go up. The legislators say, 'This is a wonderful system!' But this wonderful system has one fundamental weakness: it cannot last. If inflation could go on forever, there would be no point in telling governments they should not inflate. But the certain fact about inflation is that, sooner or later, it must come to an end. It is a policy that cannot last. In the long run, inflation comes to an end with the breakdown of the currency; it comes to a catastrophe, to a situation like the one in Germany in 1923. On August 1, 1914, the value of the dollar was four marks and twenty pfennigs. Nine years and three months later, in November 1923, the dollar was pegged at 4.2 trillion marks. In other words, the mark was worth nothing. It no longer had any value." (Economic Policy: Thoughts For Today And Tomorrow by Ludwig von Mises, Lecture 4). Look at the world of the reds and see the rejection of a gold standard to make monetary notes sound and worth something. See the quantity of money in circulation made independent of the existence of real values. See political powers create value out of thin air by means of the printing press. See extravagant and irresponsible governments granted a license to create unlimited quantities of false wealth by issuing unlimited quantities of paper money. See governments pull money out of hats and make it appear from the voids of cosmic space. See monetary growth controlled by governments with no constraints on their power. See governments print as much money as they need to satisfy the demands of the mob. See governments hold infinite means for the creation of fraudulent wealth. See governments manipulate money supplies and arbitrarily expand and contract economies by means of fake wealth and unbacked notes. See a system of stable money, not liable to sudden appreciations or depreciations in value brought about by the printing press, and based on values which are tangible and immutable such as gold, ignominiously consigned to the dustbin of history: "Lord Keynes was one of a long line of inflationist authors of the 20th century. They all wrote against the gold standard. When Keynes attacked the gold standard, he called it a 'barbarous relic.' And most people today consider it ridiculous to speak of a return to the gold standard. In the United States, for instance, you are considered to be more or less a dreamer if you say, 'Sooner or later, the United States will have to return to the gold standard.' Yet the gold standard has one tremendous virtue: the quantity of money under the gold standard is independent of the policies of governments and political parties. This is its advantage. It is a form of protection against spendthrift governments. If, under the gold standard, a government is asked to spend money for something new, the minister of finance can say, 'And where do I get the money? Tell me, first, how I will find the money for this additional expenditure?' Under an inflationary system, nothing is simpler for the politicians to do than to order the government printing office to provide as much money as they need for their projects. Under a gold standard, sound government has a much better chance; its leaders can say to the people and to the politicians, 'We can't do it unless we increase taxes.' But under inflationary conditions, people acquire the habit of looking upon the government as an institution with limitless means at its disposal: the state, the government, can do anything. If, for instance, the nation wants a new highway system, the government is expected to build it. But where will the government get the money? One could say that in the United States today—and even in the past, under McKinley—the Republican Party was more or less in favor of sound money and of the gold standard, and the Democratic Party was in favor of inflation." (Economic Policy: Thoughts For Today And Tomorrow by Ludwig von Mises, Lecture 4). The printing of money uncontrolled by real standards of value such as gold has produced skyrocketing inflation rates throughout the world. In Germany, the home of the Weimar inflation incubus, government spending has produced the highest increase in prices since the fall of the Berlin Wall. The Sturdivant Gang was a family gang of counterfeiters in America whose activities were known and imitated throughout the world. Taking place in a fifty period beginning in the late eighteenth century, their criminal activities reached from Connecticut to Massachusetts to Tennessee to Virginia to Illinois. Judge James Hill, in his Sketches Of History, Life And Manners In The West, describes the leader of the Sturdivant Gang, Roswell Sturdivant: "At a later period, the celebrated counterfeiter, Sturdivant, fixed his residence on the shore of the Ohio, in Illinois, and for several years set the laws at defiance. He was a man of talent and address. He was possessed of much mechanical genius, was an expert artist and was skilled in some of the sciences." Students of history have seen the fearsome and terrifying successors of the Sturdivant Gang. Skilled in the art of counterfeiting, these successors hold political power. Rejecting physical standards of monetary value which cannot be created, and effecting an artificial expansion of the money supply in order to finance deficit spending, they are statist governments in control of the free world. They have led to the moral and financial bankruptcy of the West.

CARNIVAL BARKERS PUSH CLIMATE CHANGE

The Hoaxters is a world famous documentary produced in 1952 by the legendary Dore Schary. It tells the story of the totalitarian threat posed to mankind by red religions of all stripes and varieties. Symbolized by the snake oil salesmen active in carnivals during the nineteenth century who sold worthless mineral oil as a cure for multifarious ailments, the leaders of communism and national socialism promote fraudulent political systems to the people. Born in the cesspools of hatred and discontent, these systems declare war on reason, science and civilization as they reduce whole populations to the level of slaves. Students of history have added new reels to this award winning documentary and brought it up to the present day. They have exposed the latest hoax produced by the reds and warned the world of the grave threat it poses to the survival and success of civilization. On par with the threats posed by the red ideologies of Marx and Hitler, the hoax of anthropogenic climate change has captured the imagination of the masses and become the ruling orthodoxy of the establishment. The warnings issued by historians have thus fallen on deaf ears but are out in the world for anybody remaining who still has eyes to see and a mind to think. The facts of the matter concerning global climate change speak out as clearly and distinctly as the evil deception they unmask burns with rage against the Enlightenment palaces of industrial and technological development. Fact. There is no empirical evidence of a climate emergency. Fact. Climate change is the result of natural cycles and solar activity. Fact. The increase in temperatures in the lowest region of the atmosphere is caused by land use, changes in cloud cover and exposure to the sun. Fact. Climate computer models provide a false picture of the effect of greenhouse gases on global temperatures: "A year ago, I warned that there was great risk in using computer modeling and immature science to make extraordinary claims. The empirical observations I have reviewed show very gentle warming and no evidence of a climate crisis." (Ole Humlum, University of Oslo, press release). Fact. Computer modeling fuels the fires of excessive, exaggerated claims of climate warming and conflicts with observations: "It's extraordinary that anyone should think there is a climate crisis. Year after year our annual assessment of climate trends document just how little has been changing in the last 30 years. The habitual climate alarmism is mainly driven by scientists' computer modeling rather than observational evidence." (Benny Peiser, director of the Global Warming Policy Foundation). Fact. There has been no increase or decrease in global sea levels over the centuries: "While the satellite record suggests a global sea level rise of about 3.3mm per year or more, data from tide gauges all over the world suggest a stable rise of 1–2mm per year. The tide gauges indicate no recent acceleration (or deceleration) of sea level rise." (The State Of The Climate: 2021 by Ole Humlum). Fact. Global sea ice levels are increasing: "In 2021, global sea ice cover remained well below the average for the satellite era, but is now increasing." (The State Of The Climate: 2021 by Ole Humlum). Fact. The frequency of storms and hurricanes has remained stable for over a century: "The most recent data on global tropical storm and hurricane accumulated cyclone energy (ACE) is well within the range observed since 1970. In fact, the ACE data is highly variable over time, with a significant 3.6-year variation, but without any clear trend towards higher or lower values. The number of hurricanes making landfall in the continental United States remains within the range for the entire observation period since 1851." (The State Of The Climate: 2021 by Ole Humlum). Fact. There has been a global cooling trend reaching over decades. Temperature increases in the Arctic are caused by warm ocean temperatures in the Equatorial Pacific and have no relation whatever to greenhouse gas emissions: "Considering surface air temperature records since the 19th century, 2021 was a warm year, but cooler than most years since 2016. A moderate La Niña episode played out during 2021, underlining the importance of ocean–atmosphere exchanges. Many Arctic regions experienced record high air temperatures in 2016, but since then, including in 2021, conditions have generally moved toward somewhat cooler conditions. The temperature peak in high northern latitudes in 2016 may have been affected by ocean heat released from the Pacific Ocean during the strong 2015–16 El Niño and subsequently transported towards the Arctic region. This underscores how air temperatures may be affected, not only by variations in local conditions, but also by variations playing out in geographically remote regions." (The State Of The Climate: 2021 by Ole Humlum). Fact. Global snow cover has remained stable over the past half century as greenhouse gas emissions have increased by ninety percent. Satellite observations have established this stability and refuted the theory that human activity is causing the planet to heat up: "Variations in global snow cover are mainly caused by changes in the Northern Hemisphere, where all the major land areas are located. Southern Hemisphere snow is mainly found in the Antarctic, and cover is therefore relatively stable. The Northern Hemisphere average snow cover has been stable since the onset of satellite observations, although local and regional interannual variations may be large. Since 1979, Northern Hemisphere snow cover in autumn has been slightly increasing, the mid winter cover is basically stable, and the spring cover is slightly decreasing. In 2021, the Northern Hemisphere seasonal snow cover was close to the 1972–2020 average." (The State Of The Climate: 2021 by Ole Humlum). Fact. Concentrations of greenhouse gases in the present day vastly exceed the highest concentrations recorded in ice cores during the past 800,000 years. The rates of increase in atmospheric concentrations of greenhouse gases over the past century are without precedent in the last 22,000 years. But the last six years has seen the following temperature events: temperature decreases in Russia, in the Russia-Siberia-Alaska sectors of the Arctic, at the Equator, in the Pacific Ocean, in the Southern Hemisphere, in Australia and in Antarctica. The scientific study and exploration of the ocean, and not the study of atmospheric greenhouse gas levels, reveals the causes of changes in global air temperatures: "The year 2021 was affected by a cold La Nina episode. Global average surface air temperatures were lower than in recent years, and it looks as if 2016 may have been a global temperature peak. The Northern Hemisphere was characterised by regional temperature contrasts, especially north of 30° N. The most pronounced temperature event in 2021 was the development of low average temperatures (compared to the last 10 years) in Russia and Siberia, in strong contrast to the warm conditions in these regions in 2020. These regions, together with Alaska, encompass some of the largest permafrost regions on Earth. Near the Equator, surface air temperatures were generally near or below the average for the previous ten years. In the Pacific Ocean, cooler conditions reflected the ongoing La Nina episode. In the Southern Hemisphere, surface air temperatures were near or below the average for the previous ten years. Australia, in particular, was cool. In the Arctic, the Europe-Russia-Siberia-Alaska sectors were relatively cold, while most of the Canada-Greenland sectors were relatively warm. The Antarctic saw temperatures near or below the 10 year average. In summary, global average air temperatures in 2021 were still high when framed against the full instrumental period (since 1850/1880), but exhibit a negative trend since 2016. The influence of a La Nina episode in the Pacific Ocean shows that the global surface air temperature record continues to be highly influenced by oceanographic phenomena." (The State Of The Climate: 2021 by Ole Humlum). Fact. Since the onset of the Industrial Revolution in the mid eighteenth century, carbon dioxide levels in the atmosphere have increased by over fifty percent, from 278 parts per million to 417 parts per million. Over these past centuries, global temperatures have plunged into an Ice Age. Lifting the veil of illusion brought down by the red religion of human induced climate change, clear headed people have beheld the truth: that the temperature of the atmosphere is mainly driven by solar activity: "The sun's current activity suggests that another new Little Ice Age is upon us.

The recent low activity solar cycle and expected low cycle mean we are at the early part of another Little Ice Age. There are many subcycles especially involving the magnetic solar cycle, and Timo Niroma showed that 10 Hale cycles give an approximate repeating pattern of solar activity and hence temperatures. The last 10,000 years—the relatively warm interglacial period since the last Ice Age—has had 10 sub peaks of warmth. The previous nine have all been warmer than this one while they had LESS CO2. This peak, smoothed on scales of say 60 yrs, has ended—and the true peak was probably 1930s/40s, judged by the annual number of days which 100F and 110F are exceeded in the USA. The 22 yr and 60 yr fluctuations are smaller. This says one thing. We're at the knee of the expected curve match with 221 yrs ago. Our current weather extremes match a developing Little Ice Age. This year's weather extremes and contrasts come from wild, south shifted, jet stream swings. These are the wrong type of extremes for the CO2 story which must have a generally warmer world and so a North shifted, shorter, less wavy jet stream. Occasional EXTREME hot blasts and extreme cold periods, as we have been experiencing, are a signature of Little Ice Age circulation: for example, some weeks of the hot Belgian Wind 1666 parched London but the Thames froze many times in winters around then." (Man Made Climate Change Does Not Exist! by Piers Corbyn). In the Ore Mountains between Czechia and Germany is a region which has been known since the sixteenth century to experience earthquake swarms. Numbering in the tens of thousands, these swarms last from a few weeks to a few months and reach large magnitudes of intensity. Since the early decades of the twentieth century, the West has been hit by a series of moral and political earthquakes which have shattered the foundations of civilization. These waves of violent energy were set into motion by Marxism. Successive waves have been driven by the offshoots and derivatives of this fearsome religion of class politics. The agitations of race politics, ethnicity politics, cultural politics and gender politics have successively pulverized liberal traditions and institutions. Proclaiming that industrial activity is incinerating the planet and killing all life, the activists of climate change, the avatars of Marxist hatred and discontent, have finished off the progress of mankind.

RED STORM OVER SOCIAL MEDIA

A storm is a disturbed state of a planetary body which affects its surface conditions. It is characterized by such disruptions as tornadoes, hurricanes, hail, thunder, lightning, wildfires, and heavy rain and snow. Derived from the German word sturmaz, meaning "noise, tumult", storms harm lives and property and leave a trail of devastation in their wake. Students of history have seen a storm raging whose intensity can scarcely be visualized by studying its physical analogue. They have seen a movement of attack and capture which has swept away the traditions and institutions of liberal order and installed regimes of fear and control in their place. They have seen a charge and rush made by the enemies of freedom and watched helplessly as the curtains ring down and the lights go out on ten centuries of intellectual progress. They have seen the destined end of the line of civilization, a movement of religion which has afflicted free societies down through the ages and led to their downfall and ruination, which pulverized ancient Rome beneath its relentless hammer blows, and they know that their torrents of warnings have fallen on deaf ears. They know that this present state of affairs is what the masses have decreed and that the destruction of human development has arrived in full force by the unanimous vote of the majority. The popular, ruling religion of our times is the religion of the reds and it has invaded the fortresses of the

Enlightenment and set up a holy order of official license, sanction and approval. In the most impressive exhibitions of technological achievement, on websites and applications which enable ordinary people to create and share content and participate in social networking, the monstrous face of the red religion has intruded, smashed the screens and keyboards, and brought forth a whirlwind of censorship. This violence committed against free thought is as fearsome and terrifying as it tragic and poignant because it affects the neighbors next door and the friends across the street, and students of history have come face to face with the hard, implacable truth that these friends and these neighbors have installed the reds into power, and no longer wish to listen or think except in officially prescribed ways. The new order of censorship set up by the reds has started out by defining disinformation and then proceeded to ban it through their state organs and their corporate establishment. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that Donald Trump colluded with the Russians. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that human activity has produced catastrophic global warming. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that sex is not determined by genes and that males can transform themselves into females and females can transform themselves into males. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that giving hormone blockers to children who want to become members of the opposite sex should be allowed and encouraged. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that soaring rates of inflation are transitory. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that soaring rates of inflation are not happening. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that soaring rates of inflation are caused by the war in Ukraine. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that soaring rates of inflation are not caused by massive social spending and the printing of money. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that the high prices of gasoline are caused by Russian supply cut offs. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that America withdrew from Afghanistan in an orderly and honorable manner. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that America won the war in Afghanistan. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that Black Lives Matter is not a black communist terror organization. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that Antifa is a peace loving, law abiding organization. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that social justice is superior to individual justice and group rights take precedence over individual rights. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that individuals are defined in terms of their group identities and are not physical, flesh and blood beings, and are abstract phantoms of genders, races, classes and sexual orientations. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that the capitalism is a system of immiseration and exploitation of women, nonwhites and the poor. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that America's borders are secure. Disinformation is opposition to the claim that that 2020 presidential election was not rigged and stolen despite the evidence of thousands of affidavits, reels of video footage, units of mobile phone data and pages of public testimony. The program of the reds for the censorship of opposing views is a set of policies, plans and measures for the extirpation of liberal beliefs and the creation of online communities to shout out wild, violent, hate filled content. This program proclaims that a progressive society outlaws free speech on social media on the grounds that it poses a grave threat to democracy. It proclaims that a progressive society establishes the regulation of content on social media as the only way to stop the spread of disinformation or information deleterious to the red cause. It proclaims that the nations of the West must pass censorship laws for social media in order to advance freedom throughout the world. It proclaims that the establishment of free speech in social media will bring forth a nightmare for the oppressed and the marginalized. Listen to the voices of the red establishment and hear them proclaim the need for censorship of social media content which is harmful and dangerous to the red unity of thought and belief. Hear them proclaim the need to suppress lies, conspiracy theories, junk science, quackery, white supremacist tracts and misogynist writings, while allowing and promoting: the lie of Trump's collusion with Russia; the lie that the 2020 presidential election was not fraudulent; theories peddling male conspiracies and capitalist conspiracies; the junk science which peddles the theory of man made global climate change; the quackery which dismisses nonvaccination treatment options for covid 19; the black supremacist rants shouted out by Black Lives Matter; the class supremacist tirades broadcast by Marxists; the hatred of males announced by feminists, who demand the jailing of men accused of sexual assault without eyewitness corroboration, without physical evidence, without a fair trial, and without regard to the behavior of the women complainants; and the misogyny evinced by the transgender movement, which demands that biological males be allowed to compete on women's sports teams and to use women's showers and bathrooms. Hear them take social media platforms down the paths of thought management, thought oversight, thought regulation and thought moderation, and lead it into the dark cellars of totalitarian tyranny: "No one tells us that the window is blurred, subject to unseen distortions and subtle manipulations. All we see is a constant feed of content where useful factual information and happy diversions, and cat videos, flow alongside lies, conspiracy theories, junk science, quackery, white supremacist, racist tracts, misogynist screeds. And over time, we lose our capacity to distinguish between fact, opinion and wholesale fiction. Or maybe we just stop caring. But while content moderation can limit the distribution of clearly dangerous content, it doesn't go far enough. Users who want to spread disinformation have become experts at pushing right up to the line of what at least published company policies allow. And at those margins, social media platforms tend not to want to do anything, not just because they don't want to be accused of censorship, because they still have a financial incentive to keep as many users engaged as possible. More importantly, these companies are still way too guarded about how exactly their standards operate, or how their engagement ranking systems influence what goes viral and what doesn't. Now, some companies have been taking the next step in managing toxic content, experimenting with new product designs that, you know to use just one example, add friction to slow the spread of potentially harmful content. And that kind of innovation is a step in the right direction. It should be applauded, but I also think decisions like this shouldn't be left solely to private interests. These decisions affect all of us, and just like every other industry that has a big impact in our society, that means these big platforms need to be subject to some level of public oversight and regulation." (Barack Obama Speech On In Technology And Democracy, Stanford University, April 22, 2022). Listen to the voices of the red establishment and hear them advocate state censorship of social media content to eliminate opposition to the prevailing gender, race and class orthodoxy, and set up far left thought control in the name of democracy: "Countries like Germany and France have spent decades criminalizing speech and imposing speech controls on their populations. That is why the premise of the Digital Services Act is so menacing. European Commission Executive Vice President Margrethe Vestager was ecstatic in declaring that it is 'not a slogan anymore, that what is illegal offline should also be seen and dealt with as illegal online. Now it is a real thing. Democracy's back.' " "Before It Is Too Late": Democrats Shift From Corporate Censorship To State Censorship by Jonathan Turley). Listen to the voices of the red establishment and hear them establish a Disinformation Governance Board whose goal is to suppress all views on social media which run counter to the positions promoted by Marxists and their race, gender and climate activist offshoots. Hear them march under the fearsome banners of regulation and censorship in the name of the national interest: "By all means, let's regulate social media. But let's do it with proper thought and consultation, with the nation's best interests at heart, not with the sweep of a sharpie in response to a specter of political censorship that doesn't exist" (Nina Jankowicz, director of the Digital Disinformation Board, statement on Twitter). In April 2022, Elon Musk bought Twitter in attempt to restore free speech to its social media platform. His efforts will not succeed and students of history know the reason why. They see the reason deep in the corridors of history and in its unyielding hand of destiny. In 313 AD, the Roman Emperor Constantine issued the Edict of Milan which legalized Christianity. As a result of this edict, Christianity became the state religion. The pagan gods disappeared from the coinage and the Christian symbol Chi Rho was placed on the coins, between Constantine's hands, and on his military standard. A regime of ideological thought control made its entrance onto the stage of history and lowered the curtain on the reason based order of the Classical world. The Constantines of the present day, the red censors in charge of the establishment, have reduced Musk's acquisition to a meaningless gesture and relegated free speech to the dustbin of history.

DARTMOUTH REDS TERRORIZE STUDENTS

The University of Freiburg is one of the world's oldest universities and boasts a glorious tradition of teaching the humanities, social sciences, natural sciences and technology. Its academic reputation is one of the highest in the world and among its alumni, faculty and researchers are twenty two Nobel Prize laureates and fifteen recipients of the Gottfried Wilhelm Leibniz Prize, Germany's highest research prize. In 1933, darkness descended on this citadel of enlightenment as it fell under the grip of the forces of hate. A red brownshirt regime known as the Third Reich forced it through a process of "political alignment". Jewish faculty members were dismissed and the remaining faculty were placed under the watchful eyes of the Gestapo. National socialist geneticists promoted racist theories which would later be used to support the Nuremberg Laws. The ghosts of Freiburg have sped across the ocean, raced through the leaves of time and entered into the corridors of one of the oldest and most venerable institutions of higher education in America. Founded in New Hampshire in 1769 by Congregationalist minister Eleazar Wheelock, Dartmouth College includes among its alumni members of the United States Senate and House of Representatives, United States governors, United States cabinet secretaries, United States Supreme Court justice, a United States vice president, Nobel Prize laureates, Pulitzer Prize winners, Rhodes Scholars, recipients of the Marshall Scholarship, Olympic medalists and world famous entrepreneurs and CEOs. In the twenty first century, the allies, heirs and successors of Germany's national socialists took control over this jewel in the crown of the Ivy League and effected a tragedy of unspeakable proportions. The forces of Marxist hate and terror have set up a campus regime to disinvite, censor, cancel and suppress the defenders of liberal values. Their program and manifesto is a fearsome reiteration of the totalitarian ideologies which have spelled the death of freedom and composed the disgraceful epitaph of the West. Under constant bombardment by the reds, Dartmouth College lies buried in the rubble of its former preeminence and the ruination is draped over by a gloomy pall of the constitution of tyranny. Written with the Devil's ink, with the Devil's stylus, on the Devil parchment and bound in the black volumes enclosing every red philosophy which has attacked humanity over the past one hundred years, this constitution proclaims that a progressive university employs the pretext of maintaining campus security in order to prevent antireds from speaking. It proclaims that a progressive university charges antired speakers exorbitant security fees before allowing them to speak at events which are only streamed online. It proclaims that a progressive university blocks the world famous journalist Andy Ngo from speaking on campus on the grounds that he committed the gravest of grave sins: he exposed violence committed by the communist organization Antifa in cities throughout America. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of fascism and white nationalism. It proclaims that capitalist is a system ruled by the Hitlers and Mussolinis of the world and seeks to enslave the working class. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of national socialist violence and persecution. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of right wing, reactionary politics. It proclaims that a true fighter for the people clads himself in black, covers his face with a balaclava, and smashes and burns down everything in his path. It proclaims that a progressive society promotes fascism in the name of antifascism, intolerance in the name of protecting tolerance, and aggressive violence in the name of self defense. It proclaims that a progressive society denies the voices of liberal democracy the opportunity to promote their oppressive politics. It proclaims that a progressive society shuts down the adversaries of Marxism in order to protect women, nonwhites, transgenders and the poor from acts of violence. It proclaims that a progressive society prevents people from fighting for their freedom because the horrors of liberal democracy must never be allowed to triumph. It proclaims that freedom cannot prevent a fascist seizure of power and so freedom must be eliminated. It proclaims that the capitalist system burns down Islamic centers. It proclaims that the capitalist assaults transgenders. It proclaims that the capitalist system persecutes gays and lesbians. It proclaims that the capitalist system builds walls to shut out immigrants. It proclaims that the capitalist system defaces Jewish cemeteries. It proclaims that the capitalist system shoots down Jews in the streets. It proclaims that the capitalist system is an engine of genocide which gasses the voices of justice and liberation. It proclaims that a progressive society has issued a call to arms to stamp out the armies of capitalist terror. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of mass murder committed by the alt right. It proclaims that violence is a reasonable and historically informed response to the threat posed by capitalism. It proclaims that mass murder is a legitimate practice arising out of the people's heroic struggle against capitalism. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects universal values and promotes the will to power of genders, races and classes. It proclaims that a progressive society is a party of gender, race and class militants united in their opposition to individual rights and pursuing their goals without moral restraints of any kind. It proclaims that a progressive society upholds the redemptive power of violence and has purged its ranks of the capitalist enemies of the people. It proclaims that a progressive society is governed by mysticism and myth, by a religion of gender, race and class tribes, and promotes violence against successful white males in the name of diversity, equity and inclusion. It proclaims that a progressive society has repealed individual liberty and the capitalist system and called this repeal antiracist and antifascist legislation. It proclaims that a progressive society is governed by socialist parties of all stripes and has granted them a green light to engage in direct action against the defenders of liberal order. It proclaims that a progressive society has set into motion the forces of violence, confrontation and disruption against the institutions of freedom. It proclaims that a progressive society is a pansocialist dictatorship which has pulverized constitutional rights beneath the hammer blows of gender, race and class militancy. Listen to Dartmouth professor Mark Bray and hear him reject liberal idealism and the values of the Enlightenment and condemn governments which protect the right of people to speak out freely: "At the heart of the antifascist outlook is a rejection of the classical liberal phrase incorrectly ascribed to Voltaire that 'I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it.' After Auschwitz and Treblinka, antifascists committed themselves to fighting to the death the ability of organized Nazis to say anything." (Antifa: The Antifascist Handbook by Mark Bray). Listen to Dartmouth professor Mark Bray and hear him march under the banners of illiberalism, extremism, physical disruption, criminal assault and revolutionary violence in a militant, fascist, far left campaign to ban the opposition and overthrow the traditions which crowned the progress of the West: "Thus, antifascism is an illiberal politics of social revolutionism applied to fighting the Far Right, not only literal fascists. As we will see, antifascists have accomplished this goal in a wide variety of ways, from singing over fascist speeches, to occupying the sites of fascist meetings before they could set up, to sowing discord in their groups via infiltration, to breaking any veil of anonymity, to physically disrupting their newspaper sales, demonstrations, and other activities. Militant antifascists disagree with the pursuit of state bans against extremist politics because of their revolutionary, antistate politics and because such bans are more often used against the Left than the Right." (Antifa: The Antifascist Handbook by Mark Bray). Listen to Dartmouth professor Mark Bray and hear him reject the doctrine of the universal rights of man. Hear him promote an ideology opposed to free speech and sanction violation of the chambers of the mind and conscience. Hear him promote a political project of authoritarian government and militant, fascist politics which seeks to turn back the achievements of centuries: "Ultimately, I argue that although the ideology of antiauthoritarian antifascists promotes free speech far more than that of their critics, even their liberal critics, militant antifascism refuses to engage in terms of debate that developed out of the precepts of classical liberalism that undergird both liberal and conservative positions in the United States. Instead of privileging allegedly neutral universal rights, antifascists prioritize the political project of destroying fascism and protecting the vulnerable regardless of whether their actions are considered violations of the free speech of fascists or not." (Antifa: The Antifascist Handbook by Mark Bray). Listen to Dartmouth professor Mark Bray and hear him condemn the traditions of free thought, free exchange, free debate and free discourse which have made the West the beacon, hope and envy of the world: "In fact, historically, fascist and fascistic ideas have thrived I open debate. Sometimes public discourse has been sufficient to squash fascism. But sometimes it hasn't been—which is why antifascists refuse to pin their hopes for the freedom and security of humanity on processes of public discourse that have already shown themselves to be fallible." (Antifa: The Antifascist Handbook by Mark Bray). Menticide is the attempt to alter and control the human mind through religious or political indoctrination. It seeks to change the subjects' attitudes and beliefs and destroy their capacity to think critically and independently. The Maoist government in China sought to extirpate the impulses to freedom in the name of transforming "reactionary people" into "right thinking" slaves of the communist state. The fearsome hand of red censorship, pressure, coercion and opposition to free speech has defaced the walls of Dartmouth in the twilight stage of civilization.

HARVARD REDS RESTART THE INQUISITION

In a quiet, grassy area in Massachusetts nine hectares in extent, bounded by Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge Street, Broadway and Quincy Street, is the historic center of the oldest institution of highest education in America and the most prestigious university in the world.

Students who walk through the placid confines of Harvard Yard journey through the corridors of time and history. They journey into the early seventeenth century when the Massachusetts colonial legislature authorized Puritan clergyman John Harvard to found Harvard College and spread learning and literacy into the Christian church. They journey through a timeline of glory which has seen more more Nobel laureates, Fields Medalists, Turing Award laureates, MacArthur Fellows, Fulbright Scholars, Rhodes Scholars, Marshall Scholars, Pulitzer Prize winners, and world renowned entrepreneurs and CEOs occupy the ranks of a university than any other in the world and seen the creation of the world's largest academic library system. As they stand amidst this splendor and magnificence of intellectual achievement, the civilized portion among them burst out into tears and shriek in fear and horror. For they now behold that this Harvard, this diamond of excellence and selectivity in the crown of the Ivy League, this global beacon of brilliance in teaching, learning and research, has gone up in flames and been swept up in a conflagration ignited by the reds in control of the West. As the flames reach up into the heavens and into the depths of cosmic space, the story of a red ideological takeover of the global center of higher education is broadcast to all the world, and the tragedy which is Harvard is placed on full display to the shock and disbelief of liberal minded people. The story commences with the transgender movement and its fearsome peddling of rank psychosis. Rejecting the findings of science that sex is determined by genes and is an immutable reality, transgenderism claims that human beings can transition from one sex to another by means of hormone replacement therapy and sex reassignment surgery. Look at transgenderists today and see the legitimization of a mental disorder as severe as its loss of contact with reality is complete. See the claim that sex is not biologically determined and that male and female genitalia can be attached to members of the opposite sex or be carved out in them and transform them into that sex: "DICK: We use this word to describe external genitals. Dicks come in all shapes and sizes and can belong to people of all genders. FRONT HOLE: We use this word to talk about internal genitals, sometimes referred to as a vagina. A front hole may self lubricate, depending on age and hormones. STRAPLESS: We use this word to describe the genitals of trans women who have not had genital reconstruction (or bottom surgery), sometimes referred to as a penis. VAGINA: We use this word to talk about the genitals of trans women who have had bottom surgery." (Safer Sex For Transgender Bodies, Human Rights Campaign Foundation). Look at transgenderists today and see sex redefined as nonbiological gender identity. See the proclamation that males and female can be made by man and be changed from one into the other. See the proclamation that one's biologically assigned sex possesses no meaning or significance in the determination of sex. See the proclamation that transgender women are real women and transgender men are real men and must be treated under the law, as a matter of political equality and civil rights, as real women and real men: "There's a lot to say and lot to do and much to resist, but here's the bottom line at the present moment: Resist and reject 'gender self identity' in all spheres of life, including the law. That is to say: you are not a woman because you believe you are; you're not a man because you've decided you are. You're a woman because you are an adult human female. You're a man because you are an adult human male. You may be wearing a dress and a wig, but you are still a man. Adult human male. For this—the notion that one can simply decide one's gender and then merit treatment and rights on that score—is the root of most current trans activism, including political activism, embodied in this country in the so-called Equality Act, endorsed by all the current Democratic candidates for president and passed by the House last spring. Most people don't understand this. They think that trans rights is all about not being mean to people who have gone through counseling and years of medical treatment and surgery—right? Nope. Not at all." (The Reality Of Sex And The Lie Of Gender Self Identity by Amy Welborn). Look at transgenderists today and see the wholesale rejection of reason, science and empirical investigation. See the brazen claim that sex can be changed by the concoctions of the chemist and the scalpels of the surgeon and has nothing whatever to do with information coded in genes. See an assault against reality and a descent into a maelstrom of schizophrenic breakdown, without precedent in the history of mankind, sanctioned, normalized and given the force of law: "These insane people are driving culture and even law. This stuff is only tangentially related to gay rights. It is possible to be for full rights for gay people, without having to endorse this kind of psychotic stuff. But we are not being given that choice. Every one of the Democratic House members, and all the Democratic presidential candidates, support the Equality Act, which would require everyone to accept these claims as civil rights. The HRC normalizes and amplifies this madness, and gives it serious cultural force." (The Reality Of Sex And The Lie Of Gender Self Identity by Amy Welborn). In April 2022, the transgender movement struck Harvard and forced the cancellation of a speaker who dared to challenge the tenets of the faith and dared to deny that human males can be transformed into human females and human females transformed into human males. A world renowned expert on the literature of British Romanticism, Devon Buckley was invited by Harvard's English Department to give a lecture on Lyrical Ballads, a collection of poems by William Wordsworth and Samuel Coleridge. She was then disinvited on the grounds that she rejects transgender ideology. Listen to the words of today's transgenderists and hear them blacklist those who expose the deception of transgender identity. Hear them establish hostile environments for the expression of truth. Hear them denounce speakers who champion fact and science as dangers to progressive communities and as enemies of the people who must be excluded, banned and burned at the stake: "On a more difficult note (especially for a Friday evening), I just looked up Devin Buckley so I could list the right title/affiliation on the application, and I noticed that she's on the board of a trans exclusionary radical feminist organization. I also found at least one piece of her writing online that explicitly denies the possibility of trans identity. I can't ask for funding to invite a speaker who takes the public stance that trans people are dangerous or deceptive. I think hosting her would signal the colloquium as a hostile place for community members who are trans. I also doubt that Deidre and Jim will want to sign onto the application asking for funding for her visit—it could look pretty bad for them and the department." (Erin Saladin, English Department coordinator). Listen to the voices of today's transgenderists and hear them prohibit all public debate about the truth of the doctrine that genes are irrelevant in the determination of sex, and hear them prohibit all disagreement with the fantasy of transgender identity. Hear them attack those who attack the mental disorder which denies the genetic fixity of gender. Hear them condemn those whose conscience and convictions prevent them from endorsing a religion which proclaims that reality can be erased and sex can be changed. Hear them fill public spaces with the delusions, hallucinations, incoherencies and agitations of those who deny the fundamentality of genes and proclaim that gender is mutable. Hear them deliver bad news to the defenders of science: that they are not to speak out in public about the findings of genetics, and they are not to expose the transgenderist detachment from reality, and if they do, they will be subjected to reprisals, retaliation, disinvitation and destruction: "Dear Devin, I have some bad news. As we were preparing the application for next year's funding, my coordinator looked you up on Google to include the correct details about you on the application. She was surprised to find that your public profile is largely rooted in controversial issues regarding trans identity and that you're on the board of an organization that takes a public stance regarding trans people as dangerous and deceptive. Since you're mostly engaging in the public sphere as more of a polemicist than Romanticist, this puts the colloquium and the department and myself in an uneasy position. My cocoordinator has refused to extend to you a formal offer to speak at our colloquium. I can't fight for you on this. I wasn't even aware of your online presence before Erin found it, and to be honest I didn't know this was so much a part of your public identity. Even if I were to push your visit past Erin, it will be near impossible to get our two faculty members to sign onto funding your visit once they learn of your online presence. Really, it's not so much because of your own personal conviction regarding trans identity. It's more about the public stance you've taken and how you've recently crafted a professional presence around these issues. I'm so sorry we can't extend the formal invitation I promised you. You've done cutting edge work in the study of Romanticism and religion. Maybe we can work out some other kind of engagement elsewhere in the future. I'm willing to explain further about this if you want. I'm very sorry again." (Dr Devin Buckley Deplatformed By Harvard, Women's Liberation Front). Students of history have described the return of an age of religion as the harbinger of decline of civilization. They have described the final break down of reason occurring before an onrushing tide of legends, myths and mental impairment. Founded by those who hear voices and have beliefs that they are members of the opposite sex, and who deny the reality of the genetic assignment of sex, the religion of transgenderism has buried the West.

DAYTIME NIGHTMARE

When the warmth and brilliance of summertime shine upon the world, the benevolent hand of summer camp reaches out to children. In this glittering paradise and abode of peace on earth, children swim in the sea, go sailing, hike through the mountains, race in canoes, sing campfire songs, and marvel at stories of adventure and achievement. Disporting in idylls of pure contentment, children at summer camp traditionally have had one wish and one wish alone: that these blooming fields will never die and these summers will never end. One hundred years ago, no civilized child or adult could ever have imagined the fate which would befall summer camps and the dark alleys down which campers would be led. They could never have imagined that in a few short decades, the sweet innocence of youth, frolicking in pools and lakes and laughing carefree at the water's edge, would be blackened and sullied beyond recognition and beyond repair by the entrance of a monster. They could never have imagined that a creature, large, ugly and frightening, would invade the sacred precincts protecting adolescent purity, kidnap its trusting charges, and take them on a journey into a netherworld which would poison their souls for life and inject them with a strange religion they would never forget. They could never have imagined that the isles of the bucolic and the blessed set aside for young people for their pleasure and enjoyment would be draped over by a pall of political indoctrination which would cut short the natural development of children as it would compose the final, horrifying chapter in the development of civilization. Students of history know that such development was decreed by the hands of destiny because all civilizations, through all times and ages, have crashed and burned in the charnel houses of radicalism and ended their days in an ignominious rejection of the rule of reason. Occurring during the final seconds of the West, the politicization of summer camps and the destruction of their youth is a product and symptom of the downfall of society and has painted a portrait, in the sad pastels of boys and girls in distress, of global spiritual extinction. These pastels are cries for help, but a help which will never arrive, because shot down by the rifles of the establishment. The program and manifesto of today's summer camps is a statement of cultural suicide and a command that young people join together, march en masse over society's cliff, and die before they grow up, slaughtered in the psychosis and degeneracy of a senescent social order. This program proclaims that capitalism is a system which captures, tortures and kills antifascist freedom fighters. It proclaims that capitalist society is a national socialist invasion which must be repelled with maximum force. It proclaims that capitalism is system of racism and antisemitism whose victims include Anne Frank and Harriet Tubman. It proclaims that a progressive camps stages a Peace Olympics which trains children for a gender, race and class war against the institutions of liberal democracy. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of mass murder whose monuments are Hiroshima and the Holocaust. It proclaims that a progressive summer camp teaches children about the primacy of social justice over individual justice and the fantasy of constitutional rights. It proclaims that the rich earned their wealth on the backs of the poor and are robber barons wielding the bloody daggers of exploitation. It proclaims that capitalism must be smashed and its defenders killed in a Warsaw ghetto type uprising of the downtrodden and the marginalized. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of slave labor and all capitalist enterprises must be boycotted. It proclaims that a progressive summer camp is staffed by members of socialist and communist movements who train children in the tactics of agitation and violence. It proclaims that the capitalist system is a violation of civil rights and civil liberties. It proclaims that a progressive camp forces children to share everything they own and transforms them into the rightless property of the collective. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of racism and poverty whose cruelty is seared on the faces of black, inner city children. It proclaims that a progressive summer camp is a homogeneous social body in which everybody has to raise their hands and agree on the moral superiority of the collectivist state over the liberal state. It proclaims that a progressive summer camp is a training ground for artists, writers, performers and teachers who will venture forth into the land and broadcast the red gospel of political subversion and violent revolution. It proclaims that a progressive summer camp is actuated by a vision of communism in which the soldiers of liberty are shot down by the comrades of the proletariat. It proclaims that a progressive summer camp is an Occupy Wall Street movement whose young recruits sing from song sheets of hatred and rage. It proclaims that a progressive camp is a rainbow coalition painted in the colors of transgenderism, in which children are protected from the biological reality that sex is determined by genes and cannot be changed, and those who want to change their sex or who have already changed their sex are given a safe and supportive environment. It proclaims that a progressive day camp prepares children to become far left activists who march under the banners of gender, race and class politics and target successful white males for eradication. It proclaims that a progressive summer camp provides a kind and caring environment for the children of communist parents, with unwavering reinforcement to the parents in the relentless indoctrination of their children. Look at today's summer camps and see the elimination of individual rights peddled in the name of economic, racial and social justice. See enslavement to society peddled in the name of collective responsibility. See moral relativism peddled in the name of multiculturalism. See socialist values peddled in the name of progressive values. See the devaluation of the individual and the deification of the state peddled in the name of secularism. See discrimination on the basis of race and gender, and preferential treatment given to women and nonwhites, peddled in the name of equity, diversity and inclusion. See the expropriation of private property peddled in the name of community. See gender, race and class war peddled in the name of advancing world peace. See the political indoctrination of children peddled in the name of establishing a compassionate and nurturing environment. See instruction in the arts and sciences, and outdoor camping and recreational activities, commandeered by political activists and transformed into communication channels of the red totalitarian movement: "We envision a world where all people live in peace, with economic, racial, and social justice; where children thrive in inclusive, nurturing communities that honor their individual strengths and promote collective responsibility. Camp Kinderland is a multicultural summer camp and community that honors our progressive secular Jewish roots through our commitment to economic, racial, and social justice. Kinderland's summer programming and year around activities integrate progressive values with arts, recreation, and activism in a compassionate and caring environment. Values: Child centered. Social, Economic, and Racial Justice. Community. Respect and Compassion. Diversity." (Camp Kinderland: Summer Camp With A Conscience, campkinderland.org). Look at today's summer camps and see children recruited to serve the cause of communism, to sing the songs of a fearsome religion, and to march in the footsteps of parents and their grandparents. These are the footsteps of agitation, demonstration, occupation and the destruction of civilization: "We sang for hours, our songsheets making their way far beyond our Kinderland circle in ever widening ripples, till it seemed the whole park [Zucotti Park, New York City, site of Occupy Wall Street protests] was singing along. It was a day of continuity and hope, as our youngest campers sang alongside alumni grandparents; as the words of the lyrics we sing all summer at camp took on new life and new meaning in the context of the Occupy movement spreading throughout the nation and the world." (Camp Kinderland: Summer Camp With A Conscience, 2012 Camp Newsletter, campkinderland.org). Look at today's summer camps and see individuals entrusted to guide and assist children and protect their safety and well being transformed into mortal dangers invading of their mind and conscience. See camp counselors don the mantle of partisans and sectarians and line up their charges for a parade down the boulevards of red revolution. See an abuse of authority as bold and brazen as it is wicked and cruel, and see its victims, singing hymns of praise to communist tyranny, crash through the gates of civilization: "When I first came to the camp, I was not a communist. I think that primarily through the influence of Camp Kinderland and, more specifically, the influence of my counselor, Herbert Gutman, I did eventually become a communist in succeeding years. The Soviet national anthem was sung at the camp." (Stanley Wechkin, camper at Camp Kinderland, 1947). Look at summer camps today and see them reject the findings of science and descend into the infernos of psychosis. See them teach children that sex has nothing whatever to do with genes and is not a fixed and immutable reality, but can be changed by means of chemical treatment or surgical intervention. See them teach boys how to dress up like girls and girls how to dress up like boys and how boys and girls can sit on Satan's throne. This is the throne of tribal politics, disordered expression, mental breakdown and moral degeneracy: "A Seattle museum is hosting a summer camp led by a cross sex drag artist to train children aged 12 through 18 how to 'create your own personas'. Led by local drag artist Joshua Hancock, Summer Camp: The Art Of Drag has run for the past two summers at the West Coast city's Museum of Pop Culture (MoPOP), reported on Monday. 'Calling all current and future kings and queens! Explore self expression in MoPOP's week long, dragtastic summer camp!' the site read." (Seattle Museum Hosting Sex Themed Drag Camp For Children by Amy Furr). A montage is a technique in film editing in which a series of short shots is sequenced to condense the flow of time. In popular films, montages are employed to portray such events as the rise to fame of an opera singer, the outbreak of a revolution, and the destruction of an airplane, a city or a planet. Students of history have observed a terrifying montage move across the screen of time and events. They have seen communist Young Pioneer youth camps dissolve into national socialist Hitler Youth camps dissolve into today's summer camps located in every nation in the world and seen the closing dissolves of civilization.

CHRISTIAN TOTALITARIANS STRIKE

A pincer movement is a classic military maneuver in which two separate bodies of troops converge upon the enemy. The attacking army faces the enemy on both flanks and envelops and encircles it. The most famous example of its use occurred during the war between the Romans and the Carthaginians in the third century BC. The commander of the Carthaginians, Hannibal executed the tactic and surrounded and annihilated the Roman army. Regarded as the greatest military commander in history, Hannibal has returned to the present day and students of history have seen his ghost. They have seen it enter into the arsenal of Satan and advance his campaign to destroy freedom. They have seen that this is how civilization ends, by a double envelopment and encirclement launched by the enemy, that this is how the Classical world ended, by a simultaneous attack by the forces of religion and barbarism, and this is how the West has ended, as its institutions lie prostrate and in ruins before a stampede coming from two directions. They have seen Satan's army of tyranny split up into two formations and launch an attack which has left no trace of freedom remaining. These two formations are the totalitarianism championed by Marxists and the totalitarianism championed by Christians, and students of history have issued a report on the latest assault launched by the latter, and described it as the final blow, the final shot, delivered to the wounded body of civilization, which has definitively killed it. Students of history have described the assaults launched by the reds, the censorship of free speech and thought, the expropriation of private property, and the enslavement of the individual to the collectivist religions of gender, race and class. Now they describe the Christian attack on freedom, which has arrived in the form of a draft opinion issued in February 2022 by the United States Supreme Court. In the case Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, the court ruled that states have a right to prohibit abortion. Students of history, and people of sound mind from all walks of life, understand the fundamental distinction between the actual existence of something and its potential existence. They understand that a thing which exists only potentially has no real, physical, visible existence. In the state of California, it is illegal to cut down the giant red wood trees known as sequoias without permission, and violators of the law can be fined 25,000 dollars, but it is not illegal in the state to destroy the seeds of sequoias without permission. In a woman's uterus, a zygote, a fertilized egg cell which results from the union of a female egg with a male sperm, at the moment of fertilization, is not an actual human person but only a potential human person, and has no human rights which are protectable under the United States Constitution. Potential human life does not exist; only actual human life exists; and what appears at the moment of conception is a potential human life and not an actual human life. A potential being has no existence and a potential human person has no right to life. When a woman terminates her pregnancy at the moment of conception, she has not killed an actual human life but only a potential human life and is not guilty of homicide. To equate a potential human existence with an actual human existence is to deny the facts of reality which are as plain as daylight, to detach oneself from reality, and to descend into a fever swamp of pure psychosis. The constitution protects the rights of persons and not potential persons. The latter enjoy no rights because they enjoy no actual existence. The Fourteenth Amendment of the constitution states that "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." The mention of the words life, liberty and property entails the actual existence of the rights to life, liberty and property; such words are not to be found in socialist constitutions for the reason that such constitutions do not recognize the rights to life, liberty or property. The fact, evident to plain thinking and common sense, that in a constitution the mention of a key word entails the existence of a fundamental right, provides the basis for a substantive interpretation of the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. The substantive interpretation provides that no state shall deprive any person of his or her right to life, liberty or property even if such deprivation be effected by procedures which are proper and correct. It states that every person, in every part of the nation, is guaranteed the rights to life, liberty and property. It states that persons and not potential persons have a right to life, that persons and not potential persons have a right to liberty, and that persons and not potential persons have a right to property. The right to liberty entails the right to kill the living entity which appears at the moment of conception on the grounds that such entity cannot be defined as life in any human sense of the term. The right to liberty entails the right to take the life of a nonperson existing within one's own body or it means nothing whatever and does not exist. The right to liberty entails the right of a woman to protect her uterus, containing a life which is not yet human, from state invasion, or liberty does not exist and there are no individual rights. The view that human life begins at the moment of conception is the view that a supernatural soul substance appears at the moment of conception which confers humanity on the zygote. It is a theological view which has no basis in reality and the court's ruling in Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization allowing states to prohibit abortion is an unconstitutional establishment of religion. Listen to the words of the court's Christian totalitarians and hear them proclaim that the right to abortion is not rooted in America's history or traditions. This point is without relevance or importance. The task before the Supreme Court is to enforce the constitution and not the nation's history or traditions. Under the substantive interpretation of the Fourteenth Amendment's Due Process Clause, the constitution protects every person's right to liberty without respect to whether any application of this right is recognized by the nation's history or traditions. The preservation and protection of the constitution, and nothing else, as the task before the Supreme Court is described by the court itself: "The unique position of the Supreme Court stems, in large part, from the deep commitment of the American people to the Rule of Law and to constitutional government. The United States has demonstrated an unprecedented determination to preserve and protect its written Constitution, thereby providing the American 'experiment in democracy' with the oldest written Constitution still in force." (The Court And Constitutional Interpretation, in supremecourt.gov). Listen to the court's Christian totalitarians and hear them equate fetal life with actual human personhood. Hear them describe a fertilized ovum at the moment of fertilization as an unborn human being. Hear them sanction a state violation of individual rights and intrusion into the body which occupies the top ranks of such violations and intrusions: "We hold that Roe v. Wade must be overruled. The Constitution makes no reference to abortion, and no such right is implicitly protected by any constitutional provision, including the one on which the defenders of Roe and Casey now chiefly rely—the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. That provision has been held to guarantee some rights that are not mentioned in the Constitution, but any such right must be 'deeply rooted in this Nation's history and tradition,' and 'implicit in the concept of ordered liberty.' The right to abortion does not fall into this category. Until the latter part of the twentieth century, such a right was entirely unknown to American law. Indeed, when the Fourteenth Amendment was adopted, three quarters of the States made abortion a crime at all stages of pregnancy. The abortion right is also critically different from any other right that this Court has held to fall within the Fourteenth Amendment's protection of liberty. Roe's defenders characterize the abortion right as similar to the rights recognized in past decisions involving matters such as intimate sexual relations, contraception, and marriage, but abortion is fundamentally different, as both Roe and Casey acknowledged, because it destroys what those decisions called 'fetal life' and what the law now before us describes as an 'unborn human being.' " (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, majority opinion by Associate Justice Samuel Alito). Listen to the words of Roe v Wade, the Supreme Court decision which protected a woman's right to have an abortion. Hear it recognize the fact of reality that being born means being born and that the notion of an unborn person is a contradiction in terms: "The Constitution does not define person in so many words. Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment contains three references to person. The first, in defining citizens, speaks of 'persons born or naturalized in the United States. The word also appears both in the Due Process Clause and in the Equal Protection Clause. Person is used in other places in the Constitution: in the listing of qualifications for Representatives and Senators; in the Apportionment Clause; in the Migration and Importation provision; in the Emolument Clause; in the Electors provisions; in the provision outlining qualifications for the office of President; in the Extradition provisions, and the superseded Fugitive Slave Clause; and in the Fifth, Twelfth, and Twenty Second Amendments, as well the Fourteenth Amendment. But in nearly all these instances, the use of the word is such that it has application only postnatally. None indicates, with any assurance, that it has any possible prenatal application. All this, together with our observation that throughout the major portion of the nineteenth century prevailing legal abortion practices were far freer than they are today, persuades us that the word person, as used in the Fourteenth Amendment, does not include the unborn." (Roe v. Wade, majority opinion by Associate Justice Harry Blackmun, 1973). The Myth Of The Twentieth Century is 1930 book by Alfred Rosenberg, one of the principle ideologues of national socialism. The myth referred to in the title is "the myth of blood, which under the sign of the swastika, unchains the racial world revolution." Other myths have crowded the stage of history and fired off volleys at the rule of reason: the myth of the proletariat, the myth of the state as a god, the myth of society as an organism, and the myths promoted by gender, race and class identity politics. To this arsenal of destruction of human thinking and human sanity, the Christian totalitarians have added their own contribution. Their myth that human life begins at the moment of conception has completed the work of the enemies of freedom.

Zoologists have known for centuries that wild animals can sense fear in other animals. They do so by means of smell, sight and hearing. Behavioral clues, olfactory signals and auditory stimuli tell a predator when to strike its prey. This ability to sense fear is present among the wild animals of the human race and students of history see it on display whenever civilized societies hoist the flag of appeasement and the forces of tyranny are triggered to attack. Symptomatic of a civilization in a state of terminal decline, the policy of placation, pacification and surrender adopted by the West has emboldened three aggressive powers, Russia, China and North Korea, to blot out the sun and place the West beneath the shadow of doomsday. Students of history have observed a nexus of cause and effect and observed the final terrifying chapter of the West composed before their very eyes. The cause: the betrayal of the Budapest Memorandum signed in 1994 by America, Britain and France to guarantee the security of Ukraine and defend it against aggression in exchange for its relinquishment of nuclear weapons. The cause: America's disorderly, incompetent and unconditional withdrawal from Afghanistan in 2021. The effects of these exhibitions of weakness have constructed a wall of shame around a collapsing civilization and sentenced the inhabitants inside to death. Item. The Russian occupation of Crimea in 2014. Item. Russian assassinations perpetrated from Berlin to Salisbury. Item. Russian military interventions in Libya and Syria. Item. The Russian invasion of Ukraine in 2022, which produced the greatest refugee crisis in Europe since World War II, and caused six million Ukrainians to flee the country and quarter of the population to be displaced. Item. Russia has threatened Britain with nuclear annihilation. It has threatened Britain with mass death. It has threatened to unleash a tidal wave of poison against an island of liberty and bury it at the bottom of the sea. It has threatened to murder this island's citizens with massive nuclear warheads. It has threatened to reduce one thousand years of Anglo-Saxon freedom to a toxic wasteland emitting particles of death. It has threatened to destroy this glorious country, its people, its history, its traditions and its institutions, with a launch, a missile and an impact hurtling from the fearsome domes of Satan: "Russian state media has urged Vladimir Putin to wipe the UK off the map using his most powerful nuclear weapons as the despot's propagandist machine continues to threaten mass death over support for the war in Ukraine. Dmitry Kiselyov, a man often known as 'Putin's mouthpiece', used his Sunday night show to call for attacks on Britain with a Poseidon underwater drone that he said would trigger a 1,600ft radioactive tidal wave and 'plunge Britain to the depths of the ocean.' The drone 'has capacity for a warhead of up to 100 megatons', Kiselyov claimed--several thousand times the strength of the bomb dropped on Hiroshima--which would 'raise a giant wave, a tsunami, up to 1,640ft high'--enough to reach halfway up Scafell Pike, the tallest point in England. Speaking against a background graphic showing the UK being erased from the world map, Kiselyov added: 'This tidal wave is also a carrier of extremely high doses of radiation. Surging over Britain, it will turn whatever is left of them into radioactive desert, unusable for anything. How do you like this prospect?' Kiselyov also threatened the UK with an attack by Sarmat 2, Russia's latest nuclear missile which was tested by Putin a fortnight ago, which he claimed could also completely destroy the country with just a single impact. Their island is so small that one Sarmat missile is enough to drown it once and for all,' he said. 'It is capable of destroying an area the size of Texas or England. A single launch, Boris, and there is no England anymore.' " (Russia's Chief Propagandist Threatens To 'Plunge Britain Into The Depths Of The Sea' With Underwater Poseidon Nuke That Would Trigger A 1,600ft Radioactive Tidal Wave And Wipe The UK Off The Map by Chris Pleasance and Will Stewart). Item. China has threatened to send Japan on a missile flight marked nonstop nuclear bombing and send it crashing into the eons of prehistory. China has threatened Japan with a nuclear first strike and make it grovel in the sands of unconditional surrender. China has threatened Japan with nuclear war and force it to its knees if it seeks to defend the free people of Taiwan. China has threatened Japan with nuclear attack, nuclear atrocities, nuclear cruelties and nuclear reduction to smoke and ashes to take revenge on crimes manufactured in the past, present and future: "A video reposted by a Chinese Communist Party (CCP) committee in northeastern China on Sunday (July 11) threatens to 'continuously use nuclear bombs' against Japan if it attempts to interfere with a Chinese invasion of Taiwan. On Sunday, the Baoji Municipal Committee of the CCP reposted a video to the YouTube like platform Xigua. In the five minute video, created by military commentary channel Liujun Taolue, the narrator calls for nuclear attacks against Japan if it attempts to defend Taiwan from a Chinese attack, and also proposes a Japan Exception Theory. The video starts by saying that if Japan 'dares to intervene with force' when China 'liberates' Taiwan, the communist country will respond with an all out war against Japan. It said the People's Liberation Army (PLA) will strike first with nuclear bombs and continue to use them until Japan surrenders unconditionally 'for the second time.' After boasting about sixty years of nuclear arms development, the narrator announces that 'we solemnly put forward the Japan Exception Theory, apparently suggesting that Japan become the exception to the 'no first use' (NFU) nuclear warfare policy that China declared in 1964. The narrator then gives a history lesson about atrocities committed by Japanese soldiers against the Chinese during the two Sino-Japanese wars and warns that if a third such war breaks out, the Chinese people will 'take revenge for both old and new scores.' It points out that Japan is the only country in the world to have suffered a nuclear attack, therefore, unleashing nuclear weapons upon Japan 'will yield twice the result with half the effort.' " (CCP Channel Reposts Video Threatening To Nuke Japan If It Defends Taiwan by Keoni Everington). Item. North Korea has threatened the free world with a nuclear attack if it defends its freedom. North Korea has threatened the free world with a preemptive nuclear strike if it protects civilization. North Korea has paraded nuclear missiles down boulevards of terror and pointed them at the West. North Korea has exhibited its nuclear arsenal to the world and aimed it at the native lands of progress and enlightenment. North Korea has escalated nuclear threats against the forces of liberty hostile to it. North Korea has prepared intercontinental ballistic missiles for use against the American City Upon A Hill. North Korea has loaded Satan's fuel into vehicles carrying universal death and destruction. North Korea has fired off volleys of danger and confrontation in order to force the surrender of the West. North Korea has prepared its forces on land and sea and in the air to bring an end to Western sanctions on its criminality and consolidate its regime of lawlessness and aggression. North Korea has sent into motion rockets with payloads carrying violence and disorder and sent them hurtling faster than the speed of light to take mankind, in a moment from now, back into the year zero. North Korea has brought together weapons of mass murder and psychopaths to launch them and embarked upon an unholy mission, an undertaking assigned by the Prince of Darkness, a vocation and calling minted in the depths of hell: the advancement of its will to power, the waging of universal war and the destruction of life on earth: "North Korean leader Kim Jong Un warned again that the North could preemptively use its nuclear weapons if threatened, as he praised his top army officials for a massive military parade in the capital, Pyongyang, this week. Kim expressed 'firm will' to continue developing his nuclear armed military so that it could 'preemptively and thoroughly contain and frustrate all dangerous attempts and threatening moves, including ever escalating nuclear threats from hostile forces, if necessary,' the North's official Korean Central News Agency said Saturday. KCNA said Kim called his military officials to praise their work during Monday's parade, where the North showcased the biggest weapons in its nuclear arsenal, including intercontinental ballistic missiles that could potentially reach the US homeland. The North also rolled out a variety of shorter range solid fuel missiles designed to be fired from land vehicles or submarines, which pose a growing threat to South Korea and Japan. KCNA didn't say when Kim's meeting with military brass took place. The parade marking the 90th anniversary of North Korea's army came as Kim revives nuclear brinkmanship aimed at forcing the United States to accept the idea of his country as a nuclear power and remove crippling economic sanctions. Speaking to thousands of troops and spectators mobilized for the parade, Kim vowed to develop his nuclear forces at the 'fastest possible speed' and threatened to use them if provoked. He said his nuclear weapons would 'never be confined to the single mission of war deterrent' in situations where the North faces external threats to its 'fundamental interests.' " (Kim Warns North Korea Could 'Preemptively' Use Nuclear Weapons by Kim Tong Hyung). An eclipse is the obscuring of light from a body in space by the passage of another body between it and an observer. A total solar eclipse envelops the earth in its darkness and umbra. Proclaiming that a nuclear war "must never be fought", under any circumstances, President Joe Biden is the voice of the West. Confronting an axis of savage belligerence and relentless nuclear threat making, the West has sent forth black rays of surrender which have spread across the face of the waters. The next stop: the last day, the time of final destruction, the triumph of evil throughout the world.

SOCIAL DEMOCRACY, LIBERAL DEMOCRACY, VIRTUE BASED DEMOCRACY

Democracy is a political system in which the majority possesses the primary power to make laws. Students of politics justify this system on the grounds that the people generally have a right to select and control their own leaders. Students of politics understand that democracy has limits because, on the one hand, only individuals ultimately possess rights and not majorities, and the majority cannot violate the rights of individuals for the sake of the common good; and on the other hand, the definition of man as a specific type of animal, a rational animal, with a specific type of perfection, rational perfection, precludes the majority from granting rights to nonflourishers. There are three types of democracy: social democracy, liberal democracy and virtue limited democracy. Students of politics understand that social democracy is based upon the fallacy that individuals are not primary and have no natural rights which the majority is duty bound to respect. Liberal democracy is based upon the fallacy that man has no definition, no specific end or perfection, and that human appearing animals deserve to enjoy rights and to do whatever they want with them, with the sole proviso that they respect the equal rights of other human appearing animals to do the same. The nature of man as a rational animal demarcates a natural end and perfection of man: a life of reason and rational intelligence. Individuals who do not live up to this definition do not in justice deserve to enjoy the rights to life, liberty or property, any more than biological animals deserve to possess the rights to life, liberty and property, and deserve to be treated as the moral vermin they are. Social democrats have set forth a program and manifesto of democratically enacted tyranny which has shocked the conscience of civilized people. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically mandates statist interventions against the individual. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically annuls individual rights in the name of social justice. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically mandates income redistribution into the hands of worthless scum. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically mandates socialist regulation of every aspect of the economy. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically mandates a system of Keynesianism in which the government artificially stimulates demand by social spending and the printing of money. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically mandates a system of tribalism in which the rights of the individual are sacrificed to the interests of genders, races and economic classes. They proclaim that a progressive society effects a peaceful, democratic transition from capitalism to socialism. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically mandates a cradle to grace welfare state. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically mandates a system of economic equality in which the dregs enjoy the same wealth as the dynamos. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically mandates a system of egalitarianism in which the all people are treated equally, without respect to their human status, and are given the same rights, property and opportunities. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically mandates a system of solidarity between the producers and the parasites. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically mandates a system of health care, child care, elderly care, education, housing and food provision for the lowest strata of subhuman existence. Listen to the voices of social democracy and hear them proclaim that democracy is a means to the glorious end of enslaving the individual to the needs and interests of society. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society democratically eliminates free economic activity in the name of the rights of the working class. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society democratically repeals the individual's rights to life, liberty and property in the name of empowering ordinary people. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society democratically mandates communism in order to decrease the influence of money in politics. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society democratically eliminates the right to criticize the tribes of communist women, communist nonwhites and the communist poor. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society democratically eliminates the right to engage in politically incorrect speech and to offend the sensibilities of the red establishment. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society effects a democratic restructuring of human relationships in order to make the individual the slave of tribes, the tribes of women, nonwhites, nonWestern cultures and the poor, under the banners of fairness and equity. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society is actuated by the noble vision of total collectivization, in which the individual has become the rightless, abject property of the state in his mind and in his body, and freedom, humaneness and human civilization have been banished from the face of the earth: "At the root of our socialism is a profound commitment to democracy, as means and end. As we are unlikely to see an immediate end to capitalism tomorrow, DSA fights for reforms today that will weaken the power of corporations and increase the power of working people. For example, we support reforms that: decrease the influence of money in politics; empower ordinary people in workplaces and the economy; restructure gender and cultural relationships to be more equitable. We are activists committed to democracy as not simply one of our political values but our means of restructuring society. Our vision is of a society in which people have a real voice in the choices and relationships that affect the entirety of our lives. We call this vision democratic socialism—a vision of a more free, democratic and humane society." (Democratic Socialists Of America, website). Liberal democrats have set forth a program and manifesto of individual license which has shocked the conscience of civilized people. They proclaim that a progressive society is an open society, an open manhole leading into an open sewer. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically mandates a market economy in which decisions regarding investment, production and distribution are guided by the forces of supply and demand, including the supply of vice and degeneracy and the demand for vice and degeneracy. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically establishes the right to own private property, including the right to own communist books and the right to own cannabis plants. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically establishes the right to advocate class war. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically establishes the right to advocate the extermination of the male population. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically establishes the right of courts to convict men accused of sexual assault on the basis of the word of the accuser, and without regard to whether the accuser had social relations with the accused after the alleged assault. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically establishes the right to advocate the extermination of the white race. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically establishes the right to advocate an assault on reality and to deny that sex is determined by genes and cannot be changed. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically establishes a constitution which grants the rights to life, liberty and property to moral savages simply because they do no harm to anybody else. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically establishes universal suffrage without regard to moral character. They proclaim that a progressive society democratically establishes the right to advocate the destruction of technological and industrial progress in the name of stopping global climate change and protecting the planet from imminent incineration. Listen to the voices of liberal democracy and hear them define the term person to include biological humans who live like animals at pasture and lilies of the fields. Hear them grant the right to life and property to the purveyors of socialism, statism and psychoactive weeds. Hear them grant freedom of speech to the proselytizers of totalitarian religions which crush minds and bodies beneath the steamrollers of tribal identity politics. Hear them proclaim that living a morally disordered life is an inalienable constitutional right, so long as it does not infringe upon the morally disordered lives of anyone else. Hear the voices of liberals throughout the ages, the voices of John Milton, Edward Coke, William Blackstone, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, Thomas Hobbes, John Locke, Adam Smith, Baron de Montesquieu, John Stuart Mill and Isaiah Berlin, proclaim that the highest form of civilization is a subterranean cesspool blooming with the ideas of equal freedom for all: "Constitutionalism or rule of law means that the power of leaders and government bodies is limited, and that these limits can be enforced through established procedures. As a body of political or legal doctrine, it refers to government that is, in the first instance, devoted both to the good of the entire community and to the preservation of the rights of individual persons. Constitutional government, rooted in liberal political ideas, originated in Western Europe and the United States as a defense of the individual's right to life and property, and to freedom of religion and speech. In order to secure these rights, constitutional architects emphasized checks on the power of each branch of government, equality under the law, impartial courts, and separation of church and state. The exemplary representatives of this tradition include the poet John Milton, jurists Edward Coke and William Blackstone, statesmen such as Thomas Jefferson and James Madison, and philosophers such as Thomas Hobbes, John Locke, Adam Smith, Baron de Montesquieu, John Stuart Mill, and Isaiah Berlin." (Constitutionalism: America And Beyond by Greg Russell). Rejecting both the system of social democracy, which views the individual as the rightless property of the majority, and the system of liberal democracy, in which the majority has granted liberty to the individual in the form of license, the system of virtue based democracy is a system for the promotion of human flourishing enacted by the majority. It is a system predicated upon the definition of man as a rational animal and enforces the best and truest form justice. It rewards human flourishers with liberty and refuses to protect the liberty of nonflourishers. It acknowledges that human appearing animals are not protected by the principle of nonaggression any more than biological animals are. Listen to the voice of virtue based democracy and hear it reject the liberal principle of nonaggression which protects the pursuit of license. Hear it exalt the ideal state as that which promotes the life of rational virtue, perfection and well being: "Thus it is also clear that any state that is truly so called and is not a state merely in name must pay attention to virtue; for otherwise the community becomes merely an alliance, differing only in locality from the other alliances, those of allies that live apart. And the law becomes a mere covenant, a mere guarantee of men's just claims on one another, and is not designed to make the citizens virtuous and just." (Politics by Aristotle, Book III). Recognizing that the best and highest type of state is that in which the majority has codified the principle that liberty is a means and not an end or value in itself, the system of virtue based democracy is the only path forward to social progress.

RED MOBS LYNCH FREEDOM

To die a thousand deaths is an idiomatic phrase which means to suffer something repeatedly. The phrase was popularized by the famous short story A Thousand Deaths by Jack London about the repeated death and resurrection of the protagonist by an insane scientist, who uses multiple methods in his evil experiments. Students of history have seen a death occur countless times on the scaffolds of destiny and know that it will occur countless more times as long as mankind lives and civilizations arise. This death is the death of freedom at the hands of the majority and students of history know that it will recur as long as majorities are allowed control the reins of power. Students of history have been assaulted by the dark, ugly truth that the majority is driven by the demons of envy, hatred, rancor and resentment and ever seeks to expropriate and wipe out its betters and superiors. The writers and intellectuals of Rome understood the peculiar character of the majority, its deformed and disturbed psychology, and its implacable hostility to a free society. Seneca states that "democracy is more cruel than wars or tyrants." Cicero states that "monarchy becomes despotism, aristocracy becomes oligarchy, democracy becomes mob rule, chaos and dictatorship. The man elected to lead the people is someone bold and unscrupulous, who curries favor with the people by giving them other men's property." Virgil states that Caesar and his class wars killed the Roman Republic. The wheel of history has spun round and made a sinister revolution, replaced ancient Rome with the modern world, reenacted the same tragedy, and brought forth the same tyranny. The times, dates, places, names and characters have changed but the story and theme have remained the same: the repeal of liberty by the unanimous consent of the majority. Look at the devastation wrought by the majority's attack on individual rights and see a program and manifesto for the destruction of civilization. Commenced in the early decades of the twentieth century, this program proclaims that a progressive university is an intercollegiate socialist association. It proclaims that a progressive society is a league for industrial democracy. It proclaims that a progressive democracy is an international communist conspiracy. It proclaims that a progressive democracy is a one world communist state. It proclaims that a constitutional republic is an instrument of the rich and must be replaced by a regime of unlimited majority rule. It proclaims that a progressive democracy has established a socialist utopia in which the individual has become, in his mind and in his body, in his thoughts and in his actions, the rightless property of the collective. It proclaims that a progressive democracy has enacted a graduated income tax in which more successful people are forced to pay higher taxes than less successful people on the grounds of social fairness and social responsibility. It proclaims that a progressive democracy is a platform for demagogues to ride to power by appealing to the lowest desires and prejudices of the masses. It proclaims that a progressive democracy is a red managed and red propelled drive to eliminate all checks and balances on the power of the majority. It proclaims that a progressive democracy is a communist tyranny justified in the name of the higher rights of the mystical totality. It proclaims that a progressive democracy is a mobocracy, placing unlimited power into the hands of the majority, democratically nullifying property rights, and enacting mass passion, mass impulse, mass license, mass discontent and mass anarchy as the supreme laws of the land. It proclaims that there are no inherent and inalienable rights of the individual and the majority has the right to dispose of people as it sees fit. It proclaims that a progressive society carries out the wishes of the people without regard to the nature or character of the wishes and unmindful of their consequences for the rights of man. It proclaims that a progressive democracy gives the government absolute power over credit, interest rates and the quantity of money in circulation, and allows it to print endless quantities of money without restraint by a gold standard. It proclaims that a progressive democracy allows the government to abolish free enterprise and regulate private businesses for the common good. It proclaims that a progressive democracy allows the government to breach the right to private property and outlaw the right to discriminate by private businesses. It proclaims that a progressive democracy allows the government to declare private business accommodations to be public accommodations and to order them to deal with people without regard to the wishes of the owners. It proclaims that a progressive democracy is an intersectional, identity politics fever swamp which has granted absolute power to the following demographics: communist women, communist blacks and the communist poor. It proclaims that a progressive democracy has established welfare handouts to those without desire to work or earn their daily bread. It proclaims that a progressive democracy has abolished all protections to persons and property and made them instruments in the service of the social organism. It proclaims that the notion of the natural rights of the individual is a bourgeois fiction and there exist only the divine rights of the majority. Look at the world of democracy today and see it set up government boards to spread false information and deceive people with far left propaganda. See it set up government agencies to subject texts and communications to a process of political correction and checking. See it place absolute power to control thought and speech into the hands of red commissars. See it censor opinions which have not been politically verified. See it cancel exchanges of ideas which have not been politically legitimized. See it prevent people deemed to be politically untrustworthy from speaking out in public. See it block flows of information which have not received political seals of approval. See it set up ministries of misinformation which deny facts and evidence and disseminate red editions, red translations and red constructions of reality. See it outlaw freedom of speech and prohibit the expression of content which lacks official license and certification. See it transform free societies into homelands of suppression and prohibition of politically unacceptable viewpoints and beliefs. See it confront those who speak truth to red power and place them in the grip of fear, danger and insecurity. See it seize control over social media, the world wide web and the inner sanctums of the mind and lower the curtain on one thousand years of liberal progress and enlightenment: "DHS Disinformation Governance Board Director Nina Jankowicz, better known as the Biden administration's Minister of Truth, says Twitter should allow verified users like her to edit other users' tweets to 'add context.' Jankowicz caveated her comments by stating that Twitter had verified many 'untrustworthy' people. In other words, if only people like Jankowicz were verified, the editing system would make sense. 'I am eligible for it because I'm verified, but there are a lot of people who shouldn't be verified who aren't, you know, legit, in my opinion. I mean, they are real people, but they're not, you know, trustworthy. Anyway, so verified people can essentially start to edit Twitter the same sort of way Wikipedia is, so they can add context to certain tweets. So, just as an easy example, not from any political standpoint, if President Trump were still on Twitter and tweeted a claim about voter fraud, someone could add context from one of the sixty lawsuits that went through the court, or something that an election official in one of the states said. Adding context, so that people have a fuller picture rather than just an individual claim on a tweet.' Like many of Jankowicz's public comments, her proposals attracted widespread mockery as the clip went viral on social media. Popular YouTube comedian and free speech activist Mark Meechan compared her to the sinister antagonists of the 2001 video game Metal Gear Solid 2, who propose a system of internet censorship to 'create context' around the web's rapidly increasing flow of information, to guide the public towards elites' preferred versions of the truth. Jankowicz has become a figure of fun for many on social media, both for her aspirations to further censor the web and for her history of bizarre behavior, such as her numerous musical TikToks, including a Mary Poppins themed song about disinformation. 'How did Homeland Security find one of the top ten most ridiculous people in the country to run their new Ministry of Truth?' asked journalist Glenn Greenwald earlier this month. 'Was this some sort of trolling exercise?' " (Minister Of Truth Nina Jankowicz Wants To Edit Your Tweets by Allum Bokhari). Look at the world of democracy today and see red jackboots invade private businesses wielding the truncheons of antidiscrimination. See freedom of conscience and belief violated by the commissars of political correctness. See the right to private property breached by the enforces of a religion of the state. See private service providers transformed into rightless servants of the community and drafted as voices of gender, race and class politics: "The Supreme Court has agreed to hear a new clash involving religion and the rights of LGBTQ people in the case of a Colorado web designer who says her religious beliefs prevent her from offering wedding website designs to gay couples. The high court said Tuesday it would hear the case of Lorie Smith. The Denver area designer offers graphic and website design services and wants to expand to wedding website services, but she says her Christian beliefs would lead her to decline any request from a same sex couple to design a wedding website." (High Court Takes Case Involving Refusal To Serve Gay Couples by Jessica Gresko). A perpetual motion machine is a hypothetical machine claimed to do work infinitely without an external source or cause. Promoted by occultists down through the ages, such a machine is an impossibility because it requires that something, motion and energy, be produced by nothing. Students of history have seen the operation of a perpetual motion machine in the realm of politics, an operation exempt from the laws of physics. Mass democracy is a perpetual motion machine which endlessly and of its own accord produces socialism, and will not cease its bitter fruit unless it is smashed root and branch.

MASS MURDERERS AND DOUBLE STANDARDS

A double standard is the application of different sets of principles to situations which are the same. It describes treatment in which one person or group is granted more latitude than another which exhibits the same behavior. Double standards, the twisting of facts to support beliefs, are caused by rank partisanship. The partisan for a cause excuses his own camp's actions while he condemns the same actions committed by the enemy camp, and descends into moral incoherence and unintelligibility as he defends brazen evil and brutality. Students of history have seen the operation of double standards abound in the world today and seen it as a terrifying reprise of the partisanship which has ruled the West since the dawn of the twentieth century. They have seen the establishment defend and justify acts of murder and mayhem committed by Marxists and their offshoots, while condemning in the harshest possible terms the same acts committed by the enemies of the reds. They have seen the establishment's downplaying of the crimes committed by a line of communist leaders, reaching across Lenin, Stalin, Mao, Pol Pot and the leaders of Marxist terror groups such as the Red Army Faction, produce the latest outrage in the year 2022. In that year, a lone gunman traveled several hours from his home to kill people. Describing himself as a fascist white supremacist, Payton Gendron equipped himself with guns, gear, body armor and a helmet affixed with a camera by which he could live stream his crimes, traveled to Tops Friendly Market in Buffalo, New York, and went on a rampage. Targeting and killing ten blacks, Gendron was roundly condemned by the establishment. President Joe Biden condemned Gendron's acts of hate, terror and white nationalism: "We still need to learn more about the motivation for today's shooting as law enforcement does its work, but we don't need anything else to state a clear moral truth: A racially motivated hate crime is abhorrent to the very fabric of this nation. Any act of domestic terrorism, including an act perpetrated in the name of a repugnant white nationalist ideology, is antithetical to everything we stand for in America. Hate must have no safe harbor. We must do everything in our power to end hate fueled domestic terrorism." New York Governor Kathy Hochul condemned Gendron's manifesto of race hatred, his savage killings, and the livestreaming on social media: "This manifesto tells everything to us and that is what's so bone-chilling about it. These outlets must be more vigilant in monitoring social media content. And certainly, the fact that this act of barbarism, this execution of innocent human beings could be livestreamed on social media platforms and not taken down within a second, says to me that there is a responsibility out there." Erie County Sheriff John Garcia condemned Gendron's murderous acts of unmitigated evil: "This was pure evil. It was a straight up racially motivated hate crime from somebody outside of our community, coming into our community and trying to inflict that evil upon us." March For Our Lives condemned Gendron's acts of white supremacist mass shooting: "If early reports are true then we must not mince our words: this was an act of white supremacist violence, enabled by loose gun laws and a gun culture that empowers white supremacy. The simple fact is that our leaders failed Buffalo. This unfathomable tragedy should have never happened. America's young people know the bitter truth. This act of violence was only a matter of time and unless our leaders take drastic action, it is only a matter of time until the next senseless mass shooting." Senate Majority Chuck Schumer condemned the dissemination of white nationalist ideas and accused antired news organization of spreading a loud, violent and intensifying danger of far right paranoia and conspiracy throughout the land: "For years, these types of beliefs have existed at the fringes of American life. However, this pernicious theory, which has no basis in fact, has been injected into the mainstream thanks in large part to a dangerous level of amplification by your network and its anchors. I urge you to take into consideration the very real impacts of the dangerous rhetoric being broadcast on your network on a nightly basis. I implore you to immediately cease all dissemination of false white nationalist, far right conspiracy theories on your network." (Letter to Fox News, published in The New York Times, May 17, 2022). Students of history have seen in the present day a monster rear its head, the monster of double standards, and seen it give the lie to the establishment's moral outrage at acts of political violence and expose the outrage as the sham it is. They have seen one rule applied to the Payton Gendrons of the world and one rule applied to the establishment's favorites, darlings and precious souls. Look at the apples of the establishment's eye and see their programs of hatred and violence. Hear the roaring and deafening silence of the establishment in the face of their deeds. Hear the crash of thunder brought down from clouds of discontent by the forces of the radical left and see the final chapter of Western civilization composed before one's very eyes. Force one: Black Lives Matter. This movement proclaims that capitalism is a system of racism, discrimination and inequality imposed on blacks. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of police brutality and racially motivated violence against blacks. It proclaims that the capitalist system shoots down blacks in the street and acquits their white murderers. It proclaims that a progressive society is an intersectional black totalitarian movement comprised of black communists, black hooligans, black gays, black lesbians, black transgenders and black illegal aliens. Look at the today's establishment and see it grant social justice crusaders a license to kill. See it give Black Lives matter campaigners the guns of war. See it grant black racists permission to disrupt, disturb and throw cities in disorder. See it load missiles into the cannons of a black swastika movement and let them blast capitalism, racial equality, the rule of law and liberal traditions and institutions into the dustbin of history: "And when it comes to these organizations, including Black Lives Matter, the media often seem to take their social justice posturing at face value. In the current media environment, left of center actors who claim to represent the cause of the oppressed are granted more moral license to use violence as a political tool. In September, two reports were published—one shedding light on the methods and beliefs of Black Lives Matter activists, and the other analyzing the possibility that such violence will not only be sustained in coming months, but get worse. Neither report has received much in the way of media attention, which is unfortunate, because the information they contain shows that the threat of violence won't end with the election of a new president. In fact, all of the leading leftwing groups calling for disruptive street protests (or worse) have made demands in which they explicitly reject one or more basic elements of the American social contract that are supported by both mainstream Democrats and Republicans—including capitalism, race neutrality, the right of a society to police itself, and even democracy itself." (For Five Months, Black Lives Matter Protestors Trashed America's Cities. After the Election, Things May Only Get Worse by Mike Gonzalez). Force two: Antifa. Founded in Germany in 1932 as the Antifascistische Aktion, a supplemental terror arm of the German Communist Party, Antifa has continued its campaign of terror across the nations of the free world. It proclaims that a progressive social movement is a communist movement which employs violent direct action to achieve its aims. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of white supremacy and neonazi extremism. It proclaims that a progressive social movement is a community of rabble rousers who have smashed the ramparts of law enforcement. Look at today's establishment and see it deny the opponents of communism the right of free speech. See it shout out from platforms of intolerance and suppress the voices of dissent. See it drive tanks of red propaganda through the cities of the free world and vandalize the palaces of freedom. See it hurl charters of rights and freedoms into the bonfires of communist revolution. See it agitate for a Marxist totalitarian state in the name of the political struggle against fascism. See it exalt violence as the noblest instrument of progressive politics. See it

hang Marxist swastikas from every building and rooftop in the land. See it unfurl the emblems of the Soviet Union and the international proletariat and drape them over the coffin of Western civilization: "Antifa tactics include 'no platforming,' ie denying their targets the opportunity to speak out in public; obstructing their events and defacing their propaganda; and, when antifa activists deem it necessary, deploying violence to deter them. In this setting, the First Amendment is a second order concern. 'In my opinion, no platforming fascists often infringes upon their speech,' Bray admits, 'but this infringement is justified for its role in the political struggle against fascism.' He simultaneously minimizes and affirms violence as a tool—calling it 'a small though vital sliver of antifascist activity' but asking: 'Do we need to wait until the swastikas are unfurled from government buildings before we defend ourselves?' " (The History, Theory And Contradictions Of Antifa by Carlos Lozada). On June 14, 2017, during a practice session for the Congressional Baseball Game for Charity in Alexandria, Virginia, James Hodgkinson, a far left activist and member of Bernie Sanders' presidential campaign, shot and critically wounded United States House Majority Whip Steve Scalise, United States Capital police officer Crystal Griner, Congressional aide Zack Barth and lobbyist Matt Mika. The victims were taken to hospitals and had to undergo surgery. The attack was ignored, downplayed and unreported by the establishment: "I was there at the ballfield when Steven Scalise almost died from a very, very angry, violent man who was incited, really, by rhetoric on the left. And this hasn't been reported enough: When he came on to the ball field with a semiautomatic weapon, firing probably close to 200 shots at us, shooting five people and almost killing Steve Scalise, he was yelling, 'This is for health care!' He also had a list of conservative legislators—Republicans—in his pocket, that he was going to kill." (Rand Paul, Fox & Friends, 2018). During World War II, partisans were members of communist resistance movements which fought the Axis Powers. Coordinated and controlled by the Soviets and modeled on the Red Army, the partisans helped to spread communism across Eastern Europe, from Belarus to Ukraine to Estonia to Latvia to Lithuania to Finland to Moldova to Poland. The red partisans of today have assumed control over the establishment and placed their seals of approval, their hammers and sickles, and their emblems of gender, race and class politics, on a world of destruction.

THE ABRAHAMIC FAITHS: THREE POINTS OF DARKNESS

The Icelandic Naming Committee is a government body which determines whether new given names not previously used are suitable for integration into the country's culture, and maintains an official registry of approved given names. In January 2017, the committee ruled that parents could not name their child Hel "on the grounds that the name would cause the child significant distress and trouble as he or she grows up." Hel, goddess of the underworld in Norse mythology, black in color, downcast, fierce and terrifying in appearance, adorned with severed heads and arms and the corpses of children, her lips smeared with blood, roaming battlefields, graveyards and cremation grounds for souls, haunts the minds of students of history. She torments their studies of man and society and they have seen her specter darken the corridors of time's eons and envelop the institutions of the modern world. They have beheld in fear and trembling her first appearance in the world and have described it in a state of gloom. Four thousand years ago, in a land four thousand kilometers away from the ancient Norse lands where Hel first received her name, in a land bounded by Egypt and Babylonia, by the deserts of Arabia and by the highlands of Asia Minor, in a land called Canaan, this frightful being, this spirit of total darkness, blasted through the crust of the earth and assumed control over the lives of the people. She begot a son called Abraham and ordered him to start a new religion. Named after Abraham's great grandson, Judah, Judaism was a system of belief without precedent in the history of mankind and launched a campaign which has endured up to the present day, as it has bloodied the passage ways of time and history. This was a campaign against human reason and the new Jewish body of faith and worship unleashed a plague which would spread across the face of the earth and hinder the march of progress. The first of its kind, this religion projected the existence of a supernatural reality and proclaimed it to be higher and superior to the world of the senses. Every body and particle in nature is perceivable by some manner or means. It is perceivable because it is physical. The smallest subatomic particle is perceivable because it is physical. The supernatural realm projected by the new religion of Judaism is by definition unperceivable. Confronted by the objection of sane people that this realm cannot exist because it cannot be perceived, the Jews stated that it cannot be perceived by means of ordinary sight but can be perceived by means of a higher, mystical sight. Sane people offered a reply which was irrefutable because founded in a bedrock of common sense and mental well being. They stated that on the Jewish argument, human beings are blind because they can see. Sane people understand that people are blind because they cannot see, and understand that to assert that people are blind because they can see is to descend into a realm of mental incoherence and mental destruction. In this supernatural realm constructed by the Jews, God is the ruler and creator of the natural world. Sane people understand that no such being can exist because it is unperceivable; it has no location and is not in a physical place; it could not have created the natural world out of nothing because there is no nothing; and it cannot change the laws of nature. Sane people understand that no power can violate the law of noncontradiction and make a thing to be black all over and not black all over at one and the same time, or make it be here and there at one and the same time, or make a triangle have four sides, or make one and one equal ten, or make something appear out of nothing. Sane people understand that the notion of a supernatural existence is a contradiction in terms because existence is definite and delimited, is a something, is here or there, is at a place or location, and is something which is perceivable. Listen to the words of the followers of Abraham, patriarch and prophet of the Jews. Listen to the projection of a power held to surpass the limitations imposed by sanity, logic and perceivable existence: "Who is like you, Eternal One, among the celestials?; Who is like you, majestic in holiness, awesome in splendor, working wonders?" (Exodus, 15:11). The first worshipers of the God of Abraham, the Jews begot two movements which would spread the fearsome new faith into every corner of the planet. In the first century AD, Christianity split off from Judaism and spread far and wide after a degenerate Roman Empire, in the waning days of its existence, rejected pagan reason, and in the fourth century AD adopted the worship of the Jewish God and its new incarnation Jesus as the official state religion. In the seventh century AD, Islam was founded by Muhammad and spread the Jewish faith far and wide through Muslim conquests reaching from the Levant to the Caucasus. Listen to the words of a Jewish teacher who founded a ministry and was crucified in Judea in 33 AD, and whose followers are called Christians. Listen to him condemn the natural world as Satan and command worship of the supernatural power and being of God: "Jesus again said to him, 'It is written, you shall not tempt the Lord your God'. Again, the devil took him up into an exceedingly high mountain, and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them, and said to him, 'All these things will I give you, if you will fall down and worship me'. Then Jesus said to him, 'Get you hence, Satan, for it is written, You shall worship the Lord your God, and him only shall you serve'. Then the devil left him, and, behold, angels came and ministered to him." (Matthew, 7-11). Listen to the words of the Seal of the Prophets, the last of the prophets sent by Allah to teach the Jewish faith, and hear him exalt the dogmatic projections of all the Jews who came before him: "Say, we believe in God, and in what has been revealed to us and what was revealed to Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac Jacob, and the Tribes, and in the Books given to Moses, Jesus, and the Prophets from their Sustainer. We make no distinction between one and another." (Quran, 3:84). As noonday is opposed to midnight and a proposition is opposed to its contradiction, the world of ancient Greece and Rome stood in fundamental conflict to the Jewish message of faith and supernaturalism. The gods of Classical culture were not supernatural beings and were not held to be real. They did not create the universe or make its laws or leave messages of revelation. They were not all powerful but were bound by the law of noncontradiction, and could not make a thing to be both A and non A, both black all over and not black all over, at one and the same time, and could not make a thing act against its nature, and could not make a diamond conduct electricity. There was no creation of the universe out of nothing because only nothing comes from nothing. Man is not blind because he can see and is not ignorant because he can think. All knowledge is derived from sense perception and the inferences made from it. Listen to the voice of the Classical world and hear it proclaim that to be is to be something finite and definite, to be a this or a that, and not a this and a that at one and the same time, and the essence of existence is noncontradiction. Hear him proclaim that the identification that existence is noncontradiction is the basis of all perception, thought and fundamental sanity: "Evidently then such a principle is the most certain of all; which principle this is, let us proceed to say. It is that the same attribute cannot at the same time belong and not belong to the same subject in the same respect. This then is the most certain of all principles, since it answers to the definition given above. For it is impossible for any one to believe the same thing to be and not to be, as some think Heraclitus says. For what a man says, he does not necessarily believe; and if it is impossible that contrary attributes should belong at the same time to the same subject, and if an opinion which contradicts another is contrary to it, obviously it is impossible for the same man at the same time to believe the same thing to be and not to be; for if a man were mistaken on this point he would have contrary opinions at the same time. It is for this reason that all who are carrying out a demonstration reduce it to this as an ultimate belief; for this is naturally the starting point for all the other axioms." (Metaphysics by Aristotle, Book IV). With the advent of Judaism and its offshoots, Christianity and Islam, Satan planted his seeds. These seeds flowered in the ensuing centuries, and in the nineteenth century, Satan gathered his full crop, and buried mankind in a harvest of evil. The Abrahamic faiths received a new and terrifying veneer with the advent of communism. Invented by Karl Marx, communism is a modern derivative of the religion which commenced with the Jews. In common with the Abrahamic faiths, communism rejects the law of noncontradiction. It projects reality as a "dialectical" stream and process in which A is non A, things are black all over and not black all over, and lakes are mountains, at one and the same time. It proclaims that man cannot perceive this higher "dialectical reality" because his perception is finite and he is blind because he can see, and contradictions are beyond the power of "bourgeois reason" to understand, and he is ignorant because he can think. Supreme reality resides in a supernatural being called society, which is unperceivable, omnipotent and transcends physical, flesh and blood individuals. The individual is a mere cog in the machinery of this supernatural organism and has a duty to worship it, to obey its laws and decrees, and to sacrifice his life and property upon its altar tables. Water pollution is the contamination of water bodies by human activities. It has four main sources: sewage discharges, industrial activities, agricultural activities and urban runoff. In the land of the ancient Israelite religion, the seas, lakes and rivers of human enlightenment were struck by a contaminant. Its symbol was the Star of David. Down through the centuries, it would bloom and metastasize into other faiths, whose symbols were the Christian cross, the Islamic star and crescent, the communist hammer and sickle, and communism's offshoots, the raised fists of race and gender politics. In the second millennium, the Abrahamic poisoners of peoples have lowered the curtain on civilization.

SAVAGERY AND LICENSE FROM THE CAPE TO CAIRO

Throughout history, darkness has been employed to describe states of evil, grimness, unhappiness and foreboding. In Greek mythology, Erebus was the personification of darkness. In The Divine Comedy, Dante describes hell as "solid darkness stained." In The Canterbury Tales, Chaucer states that knights must cast away the "works of darkness". In King Lear, Shakespeare constructs a character called the Prince of Darkness, and in A Midsummer Night's Dream, he describes darkness as a monster whose jaws devour the forces of love. Students of history have been assaulted by the image of darkness in their studies of a land thirty million square kilometers in extent. A land which covers six percent of the planet's total surface area and twenty percent of its land area. A land whose population of 1.4 billion accounts for seventeen percent of the world's population. They have been attacked by this image and been constrained to employ it in their reports of the largest, greatest and most populous region of hell on earth, a land whose darkness, whose absence of moral light and spiritual well being, is darker than anything perceivable or imaginable, and is a state of moral and spiritual nonexistence which defies all description. For untold millennia, this land, this continent bounded by the Mediterranean Sea, the Isthmus of Suez, the Red Sea, the Indian Ocean and the Atlantic Ocean, this Africa, vegetated in savagery and obscurity, and when Western explorers launched their wars of liberation in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, and embarked upon campaigns called the Scramble for Africa, the Partition of Africa and the Conquest of Africa, a name was forced upon them and they were duty bound to adopt it. They called this expanse of inhumanity ruled by Satan, whose extent was as vast as its population was uncontrolled, the Dark Continent. This Africa: an untamed wilderness and unmitigated nightmare. This Africa: an open zoo teeming with wild animals undisturbed by civilization. This Africa: a vast graveyard, a sprawling land of sickness and death, which tortures all those who live within it before it kills them outright. This Africa: a beast of prey's paradise and a land which time forgot. This Africa: a land of bestial force which far surpassed that of all other lands. This Africa: a land of political ineptitude which never rose above the notion of tribalism and never discovered such a thing as freedom. This Africa: a land of endless tribal wars and descents into cannibalism. This Africa: a land whose native religions demand endless blood and sacrifices. This Africa: a land of wizards and witch doctors who demanded killings by the minute. This Africa: a land stained by filth and disease. This Africa: a land stalked by superstitious atrocities. This Africa: a land without a history and without evolving civilizations. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants are devoid of constructive, creative or originative energy. This Africa: a land whose influence on human progress and enlightenment descends into triple digit negative numbers. This Africa: a land whose cults worship inanimate objects held to possess magic powers. This Africa: a land whose religions are a study of demonic beliefs. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants were unable to combat the cruelties of their environment, to resist the blazing sun or defy the ravages of malaria. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants were unable to cut down forests, lay down roads or build up cities. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants never advanced beyond the use of fire, the deployment of bows and arrows or the making of tents and huts. This Africa: a land which quaked and rumbled before the steady beat of war drums. This Africa: a land in which spears flew out of bushes and pierced the innocent who cowered in fear. This Africa: a land held back by the slow, the shiftless, the indolent and the idle. This Africa: a land disgraced by the dishonest and the untrustworthy. This Africa: a land ruled by devils, apes, monkeys and children. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants traded their friends and family for spices and salt. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants hung skeletons in their homes. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants banged drums during trade transactions and worked themselves into a frenzy. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants were trampled by rhinoceros when they were not burned alive. This Africa: a land in which danger lurked at every corner, danger from the wildlife, from the environment and from the savage natives. This Africa: a land in which a journey into the interior brought a return to nature. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants were gripped by superstitions, constructed taboos in every place around them, and died of fright when looking at the forbidden. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants trembled in fear before everything they saw, from wind and sky to clans and chiefs. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants neither cooked nor worked, and when they did not eat or sleep, made war and tortured prisoners. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants were amorphous tribal entities without rights or individuation of any kind. This Africa: a land whose inhabitants were afraid to cross rivers because devils resided on the other side. This Africa: a land in which screaming hordes rode across deserts, brandished weapons, and attacked all whom they met. This Africa: a land which throughout its history never heard a single syllable of benevolence, justice or righteousness uttered from the lips of its people. Look at the world of Africa and see cruel kings unleash rivers of tears. See campaigns of persecution leave no man safe and no man secure. See mass killings committed on a daily basis. See the victims of war and revenge buried in the darkness and the sunset. See soldiers of murder and mayhem, led by psychopathic kings, submerge a continent in torrents of blood: " 'It seems to us, Infadoos, that Twala the king is a cruel man.' 'It is so, my lords. Alas! the land cries out because of his cruelties. Tonight you shall see. It is the great witch hunt, and many will be smelled out as wizards and slain. No man's life is safe. If the king covets a man's cattle, or a man's wife, or if he fears a man that he should excite a rebellion against him, then Gagool, whom you saw, or some of the witch finding women whom she has taught, will smell that man out as a wizard, and he will be killed. Many must die before the moon grows pale tonight. It is ever so. Perhaps I too shall be killed. As yet I have been spared because I am skilled in war, and am beloved by the soldiers; but I know not how long I have to live. The land groans at the cruelties of Twala the king; it is wearied of him and his red ways.' " (King Solomon's Mines by H. Rider Haggard). Look at the world of Africa and see a black swastika movement plow through the continent and cut vast swaths of violence and destruction. See black national socialists reduce civilized societies to regions of race conflict and hack to death the rule of law. See black communists declare war on whites and make being white in Africa the most dangerous thing in the world to be. See black Marxists take control of white lives, white wealth, white property and white businesses and dig a totalitarian swampland filled with the burning malaria of the proletariat: "Thousands of mainly white, Afrikaans speaking South Africans have taken to the streets to protest the ongoing epidemic of savage farm murders sweeping the country. The October 30th #BlackMonday protests were organized after civil rights group AfriForum released figures claiming the murder rate for South African farmers was 156 per 100,000—putting it well above the already high national average and making farming in the troubled excolony arguably the most dangerous occupation in the world outside a war zone. At the same time, the number of slain farmers, farm workers, and family members—most of them white—had hit 71, surpassing the estimated death toll for 2016. However, local news outlet Times Live reported another elderly farmer hacked to death on the day of the #BlackMonday protest itself, and another three farmers were killed the day after, increasing the AfriForum total as of October 31st to 74. Definitive figures are not available, as the African National Congress (ANC) government ordered the authorities to stop releasing details about the ethnicity of murder victims in 2007." ('Outright Act of Terror'—White South Africans Protest Farm Murders, 74 Killed in 2017 So Far by Jack Montgomery). Look at the world of Africa and see Marxist dictators repeal human rights in the name of land reform. See leftist demagogues confiscate bread and grain from those who produced it. See communist presidents and prime ministers weaponize governments to wage class war and seize the yields, the products, the freedoms and the success of the people: "Zimbabwe's recent food shortages are noteworthy because the nation was previously known as the breadbasket of Africa before the devastating rule of Robert Mugabe, who occupied the nation's office of the prime minister from 1980 to 1987 and the nation's office of the presidency from 1987 to 2017. Mugabe's nearly forty year rule over Zimbabwe's government was characterized by extreme mismanagement and corruption. The leftist dictator enforced so-called land reforms beginning in 2000 that severely damaged the country's once flourishing agricultural output." (Zimbabwe: Food Shortage Fears Grow As Bird Swarms Invade Major Farms by Gabrielle Reyes). Look at the world of Africa and see Muslims masses beat down the voices of apostasy and dissent. See multitudes of the faithful prepare and organize for a campaign of killing to ensure that the light of reason never sees the light of day: "A mob of Muslim students at a college in northern Nigeria beat a fellow student to death and burned her corpse on campus on Thursday after accusing the woman of blasphemy against Islam for allegedly suggesting her peers stop posting religious content on a student run instant messaging group, the Nigerian online newspaper the Paradise News reported on Friday. 'Her protest angered some Muslim students who mobilized and subsequently killed her', the Paradise News reported. " (Nigeria: Muslim College Student Mob Beats, Burns Christian To Death Over Alleged 'Blasphemy' by Gabrielle Reyes). The Cape to Cairo Railway was a project to create a railway line crossing Africa from south to north and provide a link between Cape Town in South Africa and Port Said in Egypt. The vision of Cecil Rhodes, the nineteenth century British statesman and imperialist who conquered Africa for the cause of freedom, the railway line would symbolize a new continuum of civilization supplanting the native jungles of massacre and annihilation, and transporting Africans across fields of progress and enlightenment. This noble but naive vision of Rhodes was doomed at the outset because founded upon a contradiction. This was the contradiction inherent in the notion of a civilized African. The decolonization movement which swept through the West during its final, degenerate stages of development put an end to the liberal settlement of Africa. When the West withdrew from the continent in the twentieth century, its facade of civilization crumbled and it returned, faster than the speed of light, to its natural state of tribal tyranny, superstitious fear and moral chaos. Criss crossed by the death rays of Islam, Marxism and black nationalism reaching from the Cape to Cairo, Africa has been sealed in its benighted state since time immemorial. Liberal order can only rise to a mere outer appearance, and can only conceal, for a few brief moments and against relentless resistance, the bestial reality which resides within.

CAESARS MARCH ON CIVILIZATION

Ordinary people understand that time is an arrow, a one way direction, a continuum of events leading irreversibly from a past to a present and into a future. They understand that any reversal of the arrow of time would render the world absurd and nonsensical, which it plainly and evidently is not. In the realm of human affairs, however, the arrow of time can be said to be inoperative, in the sense that cycles of cultural downfall and decline recur without end. They recur because the same motive forces are present again and again. These motive forces reside in the disordered jungles of mass psychology, and students of history have seen a wheel of history, not an arrow of history or a direction of historical progress but a fearsome and terrifying revolution, spin round and reenact the bloody tragedies of the past. They have seen, in the declining and degenerate stages of the West, the return of the caesars and have seen the march of the strongmen and their mobs take free societies, as they took the Roman Republic, over the cliff and down into the abyss of statism and socialism. Lashed onward by the demons of envy and discontent which make them want to enslave and eradicate their betters and superiors, the masses have not changed in five thousand years of human history, and in ancient Rome, in the first century BC, the masses struck once again. Having served consecutive six month terms as Dictator, Julius Caesar, to the wild adulation of the mob, made a new office for himself. He called himself Dictator for Life, and this office would shape the politics of the succeeding centuries. His heir Octavian changed this title to Emperor and called himself Emperor Augustus, and his rule commenced a succession of emperors who would bury Rome's republican heritage forever, and render due process, the rule of law, the Senate and the constitution dead letters before the brute reality of unchecked power and strength. The rule of the caesars and the emperors was the rule of the plebeians and the populares. It was the rule of unconstitutional authority and unmitigated populism trampling individual rights underfoot. It was the rule of state regulation of private property and private business. It was the rule of leaders who embodied the mob and crushed the voices of liberty. It was the rule of land seizures and land redistribution into the hands of the lower classes. It was the rule of conquest, plunder, killing and enslavement which reached into Gaul to appease the mob at home. It was the rule of massive property confiscation through a massive reduction of the mob's debts. It was the rule of massive welfare rolls numbering in the hundreds of thousands in which the dole was made hereditary. The emperors' new welfare state is described by Henry Hazlitt in Poor Relief In Ancient Rome: "Two pounds of bread were issued daily to all registered citizens who applied. In addition, pork, olive oil, and salt were distributed free at regular intervals." The onset of the twentieth century set the stage for the cycle of history to begin anew and bring back the communist caesars and their communist mobs. Ordained by the hand of destiny, and repeated without fail throughout history as long as the masses rule, the red rounds and red rotations of Rome placed new caesars on the throne beginning a century ago, and the course of history has been a violent, lawless, downhill ride ever since. Composing the final, fiery chapter of the West, the mass movement of the reds saw the arrival of the following: Mussolini's Duce; Stalin's Vozhd; Hitler's Fuhrer; the presidency of Franklin Roosevelt; China's Chairman Mao; Cambodia's Pol Pot, Brother Number One; Fidel Castro's El Comandante; the presidency of Barack Obama; Vladimir Putin, Russia's New Czar; Xi

Jinping, China's New Emperor; Recep Erdogan, Turkey's New Sultan; Venezuela's Eternal Commanders, Hugo Chavez and Nicolas Maduro. Look at the world of the caesars and their mobs and see the establishment of states enforcing obedience to authority and the common good. See the outlawing of freedom and the pursuit of self interest. See totalitarian enslavement marching under the banners of fascism, national socialism and the New Deal. See the mass mobilization of a nation under a tribune wielding untrammelled executive power. See a populist leader state enact round the clock discipline and sacrifice for the totality. See a mass leader and his mass army invade the citadels of liberal order and declare war on civilization: "The chief Nazi newspaper, Volkischer Beobachter, repeatedly praised 'Roosevelt's adoption of National Socialist strains of thought in his economic and social policies' and 'the development toward an authoritarian state' based on the 'demand that collective good be put before individual self interest.' In Rome, Berlin, and Washington DC, there was an affinity for military metaphors and military structures. Fascists, National Socialists and New Dealers had all been young during World War I, and they looked back with longing at the experiments in wartime planning. In his first inaugural address, Roosevelt summoned the nation: 'If we are to go forward, we must move as a trained and loyal army willing to sacrifice for the good of a common discipline. We are, I know, ready and willing to submit our lives and property to such discipline, because it makes possible a leadership which aims at a larger good. I assume unhesitatingly the leadership of this great army. I shall ask the Congress for the one remaining instrument to meet the crisis—broad executive power to wage a war against the emergency, as great as the power that would be given to me if we were in fact invaded by a foreign foe.' " (Hitler, Mussolini, Roosevelt, review by David Boaz of Three New Deals: Reflections on Roosevelt's America, Mussolini's Italy, and Hitler's Germany, 1933–1939 by Wolfgang Schivelbusch). Look at the world of the caesars and their mobs and see them expropriate the wealth of intelligent and successful people. See them traffic in class envy and peddle the filth that entrepreneurs do no work. See them traffic in class hatred and peddle the pornography that business people are parasites on society. See them proclaim that running a business has nothing whatever to do with hard work, initiative, effort or intellectual capacity. See them proclaim that all wealth is a community creation and all the marvels and wonders of the world, the automobiles, rocket ships and channels of mass transportation and communication, were created by proletarians, multitudes, the state and society. See them proclaim that all thoughts are social thoughts, all actions are social actions, all effort is social effort, all inventions are social inventions, all production is social production, and a progressive social system allows the government, and the government alone, to thrive and succeed: "There are a lot of wealthy, successful Americans who agree with me—because they want to give something back. They know they didn't—look, if you've been successful, you didn't get there on your own. You didn't get there on your own. I'm always struck by people who think, well, it must be because I was just so smart. There are a lot of smart people out there. It must be because I worked harder than everybody else. Let me tell you something—there are a whole bunch of hard working people out there. If you were successful, somebody along the line gave you some help. There was a great teacher somewhere in your life. Somebody helped to create this unbelievable American system that we have that allowed you to thrive. Somebody invested in roads and bridges. If you've got a business, you didn't build that. Somebody else made that happen. The Internet didn't get invented on its own. Government research created the Internet so that all the companies could make money off the Internet." (Remarks By The President At A Campaign Event In Roanoke, Virginia, July 13, 2012). Look at the world of the caesars and their mobs

and see socialist dictators plow swaths of mass murder and turn countries into graveyards. See the voices of freedom tortured, silenced and removed from society. See communist swine gorge themselves at the tables of confiscated wealth. See Marxists seize power and grind the people's rights, dignity and quality of life into dust. See nationalization, collectivization, equalization, malnutrition and poverty enacted as the supreme laws of the land. See criminal enterprises and cartels of terror cast shadows of fear across the land and reverse the progress, production and wealth of centuries: "Maduro has governed Venezuela since the death of socialist dictator Hugo Chávez in a tenure marked by the mass killing of children, torture and disappearance of political dissidents, and widespread malnutrition (which Venezuelans, including Maduro, refer to with the euphemism 'the Maduro diet'). The Maduro regime has taken no significant action to improve the quality of life of Venezuelans—citizens of a country that was Latin America's wealthiest before the socialists took power—but regularly engages in ostentatious displays of wealth, including broadcasting Maduro gorging on a lavish birthday cake and visiting the wildly overpriced restaurants of Nusret Gokce, a Turkish communist chef known as Salt Bae. The US Department of the Treasury's Office of Foreign Asset Control (OFAC) lists Maduro as a Specially Designated Nationals and Blocked Person (SDN), which freezes all assets he may have in the United States and bans Americans from doing business with him. The State Department also announced a $15 million reward for information leading to Maduro's arrest in 2020. 'Maduro negotiated multiton shipments of FARC [Revolutionary Armed Forces of Columbia] produced cocaine; directed the Cartel of the Suns to provide military grade weapons to the FARC,' the State Department detailed." (Venezuelan Dictator Nicolás Maduro Says He Wants US Visa For NYC Salsa Festival by Frances Martel). In film making, a dissolve is a transition in which one sequence fades out over another sequence. A dissolve overlaps two shots, one shot at the end of one scene, and another shot at the beginning of the next. In the theater of history covering the past one hundred years, the masses have been dazzled by a succession of dissolves. Wearing the terrifying armbands of the reds, the symbols of communism, fascism, national socialism, social democracy and identity politics, a rogues' gallery of caesars has dissolved, transitioned, overlapped and crowded onto stage. A jumble of popular images and sequences of mob leaders has broadcast the final chapter of civilization.

RED ACTIVIST OPENS FIRE

An encore is an additional performance given after a planned show has ended, in response to extended applause by the audience. Encores started in the eighteenth century with arias in operas, and at the premiere of Mozart's Marriage of Figaro, on May 1, 1786, "many pieces were encored, almost doubling the length of each performance." (Mozart: A Life by Solomon Maynard). Students of history have observed in the concerts and symphonies of red violence staged since the early decades of the twentieth century, a succession of encore performances demanded by the mobs in their wild ovations. They have observed a succession of audience riots and encore performances which have lowered the curtain on civilization and made human decency leave the planet. They have observed mobs applaud and demand greater and greater acts of red criminality, stamp their feet and cry for more, and seen after the curtains shut, free societies submerged in rivers of blood, cities and neighborhoods rendered uninhabitable, and nations rendered unrecognizable. Brought by a sustained and enthusiastic show of appreciation by the mob, the latest encore was staged at the Robb Elementary School in Uvalde, Texas on May 24, 2022. Carrying an automatic weapon and copious amounts of ammunition, Salvador Ramos unleashed forty five minutes of horror near the border with Mexico. Pulling Satan's chariot and lashed onward by the demon of red revolution, Ramos had selected his victims before he commenced his rampage. These were the children of United States Customs and Border Patrol agents and the wife of a local law enforcement officer, and Ramos was on a mission of mass murder in protest against borders which block the free flow of illegal aliens and prevent raw sewage from spilling freely into America. A sunny school day ended in bloodshed, in one of America's deadliest mass shootings, by the actions of a student campaigner who supported the current migrant nightmare created by the reds in their hundred year war against liberal order. This is a nightmare in which a migrant catch and release policy has been codified into law. A nightmare in which asylum officers grant asylum at the nation's southern border to all who demand it. A nightmare in which there is a mass entry of migrants into the nation while their asylum claims awaiting decision. A nightmare in which asylum seekers are released into the nation pending the outcome of their cases and are not held in custody. A nightmare in which unconstitutional changes are made to immigration laws which allow asylum officers to award green cards to millions of newly arrived aliens. A nightmare in which immigration control has been replaced by a policy of lawless open borders. A nightmare in which President Joe Biden has released one million migrants into border states since his inauguration in January 2021. A nightmare in which over one million immigrants are awarded green cards every year, seventy percent of whom have arrived via chain migration in which citizens who are newly naturalized can bring unlimited numbers of relatives into the nation. A nightmare in which border officers welcome illegal migrant mothers and children as they cross the border and seek to join their illegal migrant husbands and fathers who work in the country. A nightmare in which border officers release into the nation any migrant who shows any verbal or nonverbal fear of being expelled from his or her country. A nightmare in which migrants who pose public health risks are no longer excluded from the nation, and Title 42 of the United States Code, which authorizes this exclusion, has been rendered a dead letter. A nightmare in which migrants from Central and South America are allowed into the nation on the grounds that Mexico cannot support them. A nightmare in which illegal migrant children, youths and males under eighteen are released into the nation. A nightmare in which border officers are diverted from their border duties and ordered to assist migrant families to get registered and travel to their destinations. A nightmare in which border officers are prohibited from chasing smugglers transporting illegal aliens across the border. Look at the frightening new landscape created by the reds and see a world in which illegal migrants cross through borders by the thousands every nanosecond. A world in which aliens charge across borders and are never apprehended. A world in which aliens escape from the forces of the law as captured fish escape through gaping holes in nets. A world in which migrant control agencies are overwhelmed by a deluge of aliens let in through wide open borders and can no longer function in any proper manner. A world in which alien hordes invade a nation and every tenth drowns like a rat in the open sea. A world in which aliens are rescued and sheltered as a nation descends into total dissolution. A world in which border patrol has been removed and freedom's watchtowers have been toppled into the dustbin of history: "Del Rio Sector Border Patrol officials report that more than 4,700 migrants illegally crossed into Texas over the past weekend and, of those, at least 1,600 'got away' without being apprehended. Del Rio Sector Chief Patrol Agent Jason D. Owens tweeted a video in which he reported that his agents apprehended 3,133 migrants over the weekend. An additional 1,614 migrants are classified as 'got aways.' Got aways are a term

Border Patrol officials utilize to estimate the number of migrants who cross without being apprehended. They include migrants observed on patrol or by surveillance technology but manage to escape or agents are not able to get to because of other assignments—including the processing of large migrant groups. In addition, Del Rio Sector agents rescued 11 migrants. These include seven migrants rescued by BORSTAR Border Patrol agents early Saturday morning, Breitbart Texas reported. Through April 30, Border Patrol agents rescued more than 10,500 migrants along the southwest border with Mexico. This compared to 12,833 for the entire FY21. During FY20 and FY19, agents rescued 5,071 and 4,920 respectively. Not all migrants are as lucky as these seven. Earlier last week, Breitbart Texas reported that Del Rio Sector agents recovered the bodies of three migrants. Two of the migrants drowned and agents found the third on a ranch near Uvalde, Texas. Chief Owens reported four more deaths over the weekend—two from drowning and two others found dead on interior ranches miles from the border." (1600 Migrants Crossed Into West Texas And 'Got Away' Over Weekend by Bob Price). Look at the migrant world created by the reds and see America under attack by forward movements from Satan's southern nations, and upward movements from Satan's nether regions below, spreading a black gospel of regressive, illiberal cultures. See bacteria from distant swamplands cross and stream into America without let or hindrance of any kind. See migrant swarms surpass records of invasion minute after minute. See endless cycles of migrant apprehension and migrant escape form razor sharp clusters and cut America into shreds. See tidal waves of aliens, uncontrollable, unmanageable, unshelterable, untransportable, undetainable and unprocessable, blot out the sun of freedom and eclipse the rule of law. See law enforcement authorities stand down, fold up, lie prostrate and hoist the flag of surrender before an invasion of animal people without precedent in the history of the nation: "Whether Title 42 ends or not, migrants say they are tired of waiting and surged across the Rio Grande into the Eagle Pass, Texas, area of operations. As many as 3,600 crossed so far this weekend—eclipsing last weekend's total of just over 2,800 migrant apprehensions in the Del Rio Sector—according to a source operating within US Customs and Border Protection. Border Patrol officials called in all available agents in Eagle Pass on Sunday as increasing numbers of migrants crossed the border illegally from Mexico into Texas. Sunday evening, a large group of more than 250 migrants crossed near Normandy, Texas, while others streamed across into Eagle Pass. Another group of approximately 300 migrants are crossing the border as this article was published. And at a nearby hydro plant, agents found another large group of 100 migrants. That brings the total to more than 700 migrant apprehensions in a couple of hours on Sunday evening. Agents identified most of the migrants crossing on Sunday evening as Honduran nationals. Some Colombian migrants also crossed. Another source told Breitbart dozens of migrants have been waiting for hours for transportation as the Eagle Pass Station focuses its attention on large group crossings in more public areas. National Guard soldiers operating under Texas' Operation Lone Star also are available to detain migrants until transportation eventually arrives. On May 17, Del Rio Sector Chief Patrol Agent Jason D. Owens tweeted that agents under his command apprehended 2,849 migrants last weekend, Breitbart Texas reported. That number will be eclipsed as it appears the total could approach 4,000 this weekend. The migrants did not appear to know or understand that the Title 42 will not end on Monday due to a federal court order. They expressed they were simply tired of waiting. The source stated resources were not available to transport migrants from the border to the processing station. It also appears the NGOs who regularly shelter the migrants are overloaded as migrants are reportedly being dropped off at an Eagle Pass Stripes convenience store." (Migrants Tire Of Waiting For Title 42's End, Surge Across Border Into Texas by Bob Price and Randy Clark). On May 24, 2022, evil swept across the town of Uvaldes and grief engulfed its decent, law abiding citizens. Carrying an AR 15 automatic rifle, Salvador Ramos barricaded himself inside a classroom and began shooting. His victims were the children of United States Customs and Border Patrol agents and a teacher whose husband is an officer in the school district's police department. The national media establishment proclaimed that the shooting was perpetrated by an "evil", "disturbed", "troubled" and "deranged" individual who had no political motives of any kind. Students of history were left scratching their heads in puzzlement and disbelief at this proclamation. They asked the establishment to show them the difference between an evil, disturbed, troubled and deranged individual and a red political activist, and they would show them the difference between Venus and the Morning Star. The Salvador Ramoses of this world have been blasting rifles of rejection at the system of freedom and law for the past one hundred years. The victims of their political murders have buried civilization in its final hour.

THE PANDEMIC OF TRANSGENDERISM

A pandemic is an epidemic of an infectious disease which has spread throughout the world and affected large numbers of people. The most famous pandemic in history was the Black Death, a bubonic plague which killed one hundred million people in Eurasia and North Africa in the mid fourteenth century. Students of history have observed the spread of a moral and ideological plague which dwarfs the earlier killer in range, extent and lethality. Carried by the fleas of unreason living on the black rats of cultural degeneration, the pandemic of transgenderism has spread into every nook and cranny and corner of the planet, into every aspect of the state and society, and left the dead body of science and sanity in its wake. In their stage of decline and fall, civilizations throughout history have been stricken by the plague of unreason and have feasted like swine at its troughs. Ordinary observation has established the biological basis of sex and the findings of science have confirmed its immutable reality. Science has discovered such things as genes and chromosomes. Genes contain information about the characteristics of an organism, and chromosomes are threads which carry sequences of this information, and are found in the nucleus of every cell in the body. The genes which determine male sexual characteristics are contained in the Y chromosome, while the genes which determine female sexual characteristics are contained in the X chromosome. Females contain two X chromosomes, while males contain an X chromosome and a Y chromosome. In the absence of an X chromosome, a fetus will undergo female sexual development. Science has determined that sex is a genetic assignment and is thus unchangeable. The denial of the biological basis of sex, and the transgender assault on reality, struck ancient Rome during its final, degenerate Age of the Emperors, following the overthrow of the Republic by Julius Caesar in 44 BC. The historian Edward Gibbon describes Emperor Elagabalus: "He abandoned himself to the grossest of pleasures and affected to copy the dress and manners of the female sex." Elagabalus depilated, wore cosmetics, identified as a woman, referred to himself as a lady, queen, wife and mistress, and ordered his doctors to equip him with female genitalia. In the second millennium, the fate of Rome, the fate of all civilizations when reason is abandoned and resistance to insanity is reduced and vanishes, has struck the West, and as Western civilization has spread across the planet, it has carried in its train a fearsome religion of transgenderism, and installed it as a religion worshiped by all mankind. Look at the voices of a global pandemic and see them promote transgenderism in school classrooms throughout the world. See them stage Transgender Days of Visibility in which children are indoctrinated to believe that they can change their sex. See them tell children that they must express the gender they choose to become freely and openly: "Many of us take our gender identity for granted, but for many children it is not so easy. It's a matter of daily survival, a daily struggle. Children all around the world must be supported in expressing their identity freely." (Mahesh Mahalingam, UNAIDS Director of Communications and Global Advocacy). Look at the voices of a global pandemic and see them proclaim that gender psychosis, the desire to become a member of the opposite sex and the belief that one can become a member, is a spiritual treasure shining within the palaces of the soul, and must be proudly displayed and be the object of social inclusion and acceptance: "The Unbox Me campaign advocates for the rights of transgender children. Most children love to have boxes or hidden places in which they can hide precious trinkets or prized possessions safely and securely. The hidden objects can reveal a lot about the child—who he or she is, what he or she likes and what his or her dreams are. For some transgender children, this act of hiding treasures in a box becomes a way of hiding their identity from disapproving eyes. Unbox Me is about giving transgender children visibility. It is a call for inclusion and acceptance." (UNAIDS Launches Unbox Me To Advocate For The Rights Of Transgender Children, Press Statement, March 30, 2022). Look at the voices of a global pandemic and see them proclaim that males who dress up as females should be encouraged to do so. People can create their own gender identity, and gender confusion and gender rejection are not symptoms of sickness or derangement, but are mirrors and reflections of a beautiful soul: "This campaign is part of an ongoing UNAIDS collaboration with advertising agency FCB India. Last year, UNAIDS partnered with FCB and released a successful short film, The Mirror, as part of the #SeeMeAsIAm campaign about a young boy looking in the mirror and dressing up as a woman. The film served to raise awareness among parents, teachers and the wider community about gender identity during childhood. Building on the film, Unbox Me seeks to bring home the reality of the many transgender children who are denied their true identity." (UNAIDS Launches Unbox Me To Advocate For The Rights Of Transgender Children, Press Statement, March 30, 2022). Look at the voices of a global pandemic and see them proclaim that the desire to violate the laws of biology and change one's sex is not a mental disease. The denial of the evidence of the senses is not a mental disorder. The desire to become what one is not and what one can never be is not a mental health condition. The feeling of pain and anguish at the sex one is biologically should not be an occasion for psychological counseling, because the sex one is biologically can be changed at will. The sex which one has been assigned by one's genes can be changed by surgical and chemical interventions. People who believe that they are members of the opposite sex and seek to transform themselves into that sex should not be called what they are, or be diagnosed as mentally ill or disordered, and should not suffer any form of shame or disgrace, but should be granted the same legal rights as gender adjusted people: "The update to the International Classification of Diseases (ICD-11) has reclassified gender identity disorder, or identifying as transgender, in terms of sexuality, not a mental disorder. Classified now as 'gender incongruence', Lale Say, the Coordinator of WHO's Department of Reproductive Health and Research, explained that the move came about because the UN health agency now had a 'better understanding that it was not actually a mental health condition'. On 25 May, WHO approved a resolution to remove gender identity disorder from ICD-11 and created a new chapter dedicated to sexual health. The reclassification will 'reduce the stigma' while ensuring 'access to necessary health interventions', according to Ms Say. Gender incongruence can be described as a feeling of anguish when an individual's identity conflicts with the sex they were assigned at birth." (A Major Win For Transgender Rights: UN Health Agency Drops 'Gender Identity Disorder' As Official Diagnosis, in UN News: Global Perspective. Human Stories). Look at the voices of a global pandemic and see them proclaim that the rejection of one's biological reality is not in any sense a mental pathology, and those who reject their biological sex and seek to change it should not be classified as in any way sick. Sex change operations, surgical and chemical procedures which attempt to do the impossible, should be celebrated as contributions to gender diversity and lifestyle pluralism. The recognition that one's real, biological sex has in fact no meaning, significance or reality represents a major discovery and development in the field of progressive science. Human bodies are plastic and indeterminate and their sex can be changed as one pleases. Human nature is disturbed and abnormal and creates sexual realities unconstrained by the facts of reality. Transgender individuals, who possess as much reality as dragons or unicorns, should be protected from discrimination and be allowed to use the public facilities and accommodations of their choice: "Moving the disorder into WHO's new chapter for sexual health will also help lift discrimination, a major barrier to accessing prevention services, HIV testing and treatment and care 'We expect that this reclassification will impact very positively the wrong perception that some forms of gender diversity are pathologies, or sickness, and that it will facilitate access to better health care,' said Victor Madrigal-Borloz, Independent Expert on protection against violence and discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity, and Dainius Puras, Special Rapporteur on the right to health. The UN experts welcomed the 'major breakthrough' and called on states to 'review their medical classifications and adopt strong proactive measures' to eliminate the social stigma associated with gender diversity. They stressed that denying the existence of diversity or lifestyle choices 'leads to violence, including so-called corrective rape and conversion therapy, and to forced, coercive and otherwise involuntary treatments and procedures to normalize sexual attraction or human bodies. It is time for the world to recognize and celebrate the rich diversity of human nature.' " (A Major Win For Transgender Rights: UN Health Agency Drops 'Gender Identity Disorder' As Official Diagnosis, in UN News: Global Perspective. Human Stories). Religion is a system of blind belief unsupported by and contrary to the facts of reality. There are 10,000 religions operative throughout the world, ranging from Christianity to Islam to Marxism. A new religion has made its appearance in the twenty first century. It proclaims that sex has nothing whatever to do with genes. It proclaims that birth sex holds no meaning or significance. It proclaims that people can change their sex and those who have changed their sex are entitled to be legally recognized as members of their new sex. This new religion, the myth, dogma and disorder of transgenderism, has draped its pride flags across the coffin of civilization.

SOCIAL ENTREPRENEURS FIGHT FOR COMMUNISM

The Trojan Horse was a wooden horse used by the Greeks during the Trojan War to enter the city of Troy and win the war. The Greeks constructed a wooden horse, hid a select striking force inside, and stationed it at the gates of Troy. The main army pretended to sail away. The Trojans pulled the horse into their city and used it as a victory trophy. At night the select force inside the horse left it and opened the gates for the main army. The army entered and together with the select force destroyed the city. Used as a figure of speech, a Trojan horse describes any trick or stratagem which causes a target to invite an enemy into its ranks. Students of history have observed the operation of a trojan horse in the field of business and observed an act of infiltration which has signalled the definitive end of the capitalist system. They have observed the entrance into the private sector of individuals disguised as supporters of freedom but dedicated to its total destruction. They have observed the activities of individuals masquerading as entrepreneurs but agitating for the overthrow of the system which allows people to set up their own businesses, assume financial risks and work for profit. They have observed the aims and actions of the sworn enemies of private economic existence as they gain access to this world and subvert it from within. They have observed the enemy not simply at the gates of civilization, but well past the gates, organizing, undermining and destabilizing inside the institutions of freedom, and carrying out a program and manifesto of human enslavement composed in the dark chambers of its founder. From the silent reading rooms of Karl Marx to the noisy video conferences held by today's social entrepreneurs is a short but frightening distance traversed by Satan's red army, which has secreted select striking forces within the offices of private commercial organizations, and then unleashed them in a blinding flash of lightning which has sent civilization crashing into oblivion. Seeking to bring about the downfall of the enemy, the communists who have penetrated the walls of human dignity, and concealed themselves in the statues of human liberty, call their front religion social entrepreneurship. Listening to its tenets, students of history understand with terrifying clarity that this is how civilization has ended, by a nightmare of all nightmares, by a process of drilling and boring conducted from within, by a series of explosions detonated in the centers of capitalism, by breaches of security perpetrated by shams, frauds and pretenders who occupy the production factories, managers' rooms, executive suites and corporate boardrooms of the free world. Dressed in the standard civilian suits and ties of those who work in industry and commerce, Marx's military men and soldiers of world revolution are diligently at work spreading and implementing the doctrine of the faith. This doctrine proclaims that a progressive business rejects the traditional metrics of success, profits, revenues and stock prices in favor of measurements of the returns to the state and society. It proclaims that a progressive business is actuated by social goals and seeks to alleviate poverty, develop the community, and provide health care for all. It proclaims that a progressive business is a charity enterprise which provides housing and employment to the homeless and operates free restaurants for the hungry. It proclaims that a progressive business is an altruistic enterprise which is focused exclusively upon achieving benefits for society. They proclaim that a progressive business is focused exclusively upon promoting the happiness and welfare of mankind. They proclaim that a progressive business is a social endeavor, a social network, a social identity and a set of interpersonal relationships. They proclaim that a progressive business utilizes social capital to address social problems and has nothing whatever to do with generating a profit or compensating the owners. They proclaim that a progressive business mobilizes all its resources to support the scum who rule the global village. They proclaim that a progressive business sacrifices profits and productivity upon the altars of social satisfaction. They proclaim that a progressive business raises billions of dollars for the deprived communities of the world. They proclaim that a progressive business grants free, unlimited and unconditional credit and loans to the primitive, backward nations of the world. They proclaim that a progressive business is a social effort to provide social services to the flotsam floating in the cities of the world. They proclaim that a progressive business is motivated by a social ethics and a social vision and is focused exclusively upon achieving social impact. They proclaim that a progressive business produces social output in place of profit output. They proclaim that a progressive business adheres to social standards in the measurement of performance and is unconcerned with whether the business is profitable or productive or whether it succeeds or fails. They proclaim that a progressive business is a revolutionary change making process inspired by a set of social objectives to push freedom, profit and private existence into the dustbin of history. They proclaim that a progressive business rejects the traditional exchange of money for goods and services and gives away its products to the poor. They proclaim that a progressive business tackles the problems created by capitalism, the problems of chronic food shortages and mass impoverishment, with the antidote of totalitarian regimentation. They proclaim that a progressive business is staffed by socially committed employees who seek only than to carry out the dictates of the state and society. They proclaim that a progressive business is a social mission and a social passion to create social value and reject the capitalist values of personal profit and just reward. They proclaim that a progressive business is a social foundation which is responsive to public needs. They proclaim that a progressive business is a corporation dedicated to national and community service. They proclaim that a progressive business is a social sector whose goal is to care for the poor and tend to the needy. They proclaim that a progressive business is a community center and philanthropic organization. They proclaim that a progressive business rejects the world of capitalist freedom in favor of philanthrocapitalism, nonprofit organization, and socialist service and sacrifice. They proclaim that a progressive business is a public interest company funded by social donors and state planners. They proclaim that a progressive business is a social task force supported by public funds. They proclaim that a progressive business is a vehicle to create social benefits and solve social ills and has nothing whatever to do with rewarding effort, compensating initiative or remunerating risk taking. They proclaim that a progressive business is an organization which promotes the welfare of others, donates money to good causes, and is completely unconcerned with whether it earns a profit. They proclaim that a progressive business is a social innovation society which promotes new methods, ideas and practices for the benefit of the state. They proclaim that a progressive business is an organization of friends, neighbors and families to help the denizens of the sewers and slums. They proclaim that a progressive business is a nonprofit business because for profit businesses are wrong, and wrong because they are not desirable, proper or appropriate from a socialist point of view. They proclaim that a progressive business is not driven by monetary profit and assists the government in providing goods and services to the poor. They proclaim that a progressive business is an organization motivated by social responsibility in which individuals work and cooperate for the benefit of the state. They proclaim that a progressive business is a run by a new breed of entrepreneur who seeks to solve the world's economic, social, and environmental problems by means of socialist control, regulation and redistribution. Look at the world of social businesses and see a rejection of the capitalist system. See a rejection of owners, investors and shareholders. See a rejection of profit maximization in favor of socialist maximization. See a rejection of private objectives in favor of state objectives. See a rejection of compensation for commercial initiative and dividends for commercial inventiveness. See an agent of red world revolution masquerading as a business organization and dedicated to service to the state, to society and to the poor, and to the destruction of free nations and free institutions: "In the capitalist system, two extreme types of corporate bodies can be distinguished. On the one hand, companies can be seen as profit maximizing businesses, whose purpose is to create shareholder value. On the other, nonprofit organizations exist to fulfill social objectives. A social business borrows from both these entities: it has to cover its full costs from its operations, and its owners are entitled to recover their invested money, but it is more cause than profit driven. It has both the potential to act as a change agent for the world, and sufficient business like characteristics to ensure it survives to do so. The managerial mindset must be the same as in a business: when you are running a social business, you think and work differently than if you were running a charity, even though your objective is different from a profit maximizing company. At the same time as trying to achieve their social objective, social businesses need to recover their full costs so they can be self sustainable. Their owners never intend to make profits for themselves (there are no dividends), but they are entitled to get their money back if they wish. It is a no loss, no dividend, self sustaining company that sells goods or services and repays investments to its owners, but whose primary purpose is to serve society and improve the lot of the poor." (Building Social Business Models: Lessons From The Grameen Experience by Muhammad Yunus, Bertrand Moingeon and Laurence Lehmann-Ortega). Squaring the circle is a problem in geometry first proposed in ancient Greek mathematics. It is the problem of constructing a square which is equal in area to a given circle. The phrase became a metaphor for the attempt to do that which is impossible to do. The social entrepreneurs of today have established beach heads of socialist attitudes and beliefs in the territories of free commercial activity. They have established defended positions of red enslavement, positions labeled social stakeholders, community interest, collective well being and not for profit businesses, from which attacks against freedom have been launched from within. These communist front organizations, these living, breathing, walking contradictions called social enterprises, have hollowed out the institutions of freedom and sent the gutted buildings tumbling into the abyss.

HENRY KISSINGER: DIPLOMAT OF AMORALISM

A precedent is a principle established in a previous legal case which is held to be binding on all subsequent cases. Legal systems normally place great value on deciding cases according to consistent principles, so that the same facts yield the same outcomes, and the observance of precedent is the means by which this is done. The observance of precedent is only rejected if the initial case is judged to have been decided wrongly. Students of history have observed the acceptance of something without precedent in the field of American foreign policy. They have observed something happen which had never happened before. They understand why it never happened before, and understand that its rejection of precedent was decided wrongly, was without moral ground or justification, and represented a wholesale rejection of the founding values and ideals of the world's arsenal of liberty. In 1969, a breaker of precedent became the eighth national security affairs advisor to the United States government; in 1973, he was sworn in as the nation's fifty sixth secretary of state; and between 1969 and 1977, he played a prominent, directing role in American foreign policy. When Henry Kissinger introduced realpolitik to the nation, he broke with a tradition born with the nation's founding, and sent it tumbling into fields of decision and action unconcerned with issues of right or wrong, and into a world ready to hoist the white flag of surrender and appeasement to the forces of evil. Rejecting one hundred and fifty years of American idealism in the defense of liberty, a struggle which culminated in Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' policy of rollback of communism in place of containment and coexistence, Henry Kissinger enunciated and carried out a program of unprincipled foreign policy pragmatism which was as alien to the spirit of America as it was criminal in its aims and outcomes. Invented by German writer and politician Ludwig von Rochau in the nineteenth century, the term realpolitik described Kissinger's religion of rejection of moral values which placed the nail in the coffin of America's foreign policy idealism, held for decades to be a necessary and indispensable adjunct to a free society. As unAmerican and antiAmerican as it is bestial and immoral, the program of Henry Kissinger, the age old program of liberty's opposers and rejectionists masquerading as statesmen and diplomats down through the centuries, is a series of rules and principles fit for the jungles of civilization's decline. This program proclaims that the law of power and not the law of morality must govern the world of states. It proclaims that the goals of liberal enlightenment are a fiction because the world does not and should not follow such goals. It proclaims that the great achievement of the Enlightenment, which was to show that might does not make right, is fantasy which must be consigned to the dustbin of history. It proclaims that the highest law of morality is the law of the strong and the powerful. It proclaims that the best foreign policy is based on the pursuit, possession and application of power. It proclaims that the best foreign policy is based on the pursuit of survival and security. It proclaims that diplomatic processes should be based on considerations of given circumstances and factors and should not be bound to moral concepts or premises. The career of Henry Kissinger was a meteor of surrender and appeasement, launched from the darkness of moral relativism, hurtling across the autumn and winter skies of the West, and crashing into a civilization in ruins. This body of moral antimatter streaming out of Satan's space brought a black gospel of detente, a policy of dialogue, negotiation, summit meetings and bilateral agreements, with the Soviet Union. It saw Soviet Premier Leonid Brezhnev visit President Richard Nixon in Washington DC in 1973. Kissinger's detente brought conferences, reapprochments, compromises and a formalization of relations with Maoist China. It saw Kissinger visit China and meet with Chinese Premier Zhou Enlai and Communist Party Chairman Mao Zedong. It saw Kissinger proclaim that Ukraine must adapt itself to Russian needs, interests and a Russian sphere of security. It saw him proclaim that Ukraine must appease Russia and cede to it the territory it has held, Crimea, Luhansk and Donetsk, since 2014, in the manner that Neville Chamberlain appeased Hitler in the 1938 Munich Agreement, which ceded the German speaking Sudetenland region of Czechoslovakia to Germany. Listen to the official voice of American realpolitik and hear him reject the world of moral truths and moral responsibility. Hear him deny the spiritual nature and essence of man. Hear him reject the Enlightenment notion of moral and intellectual progress. Hear him reject America's historical mission to defend global liberal order. Hear him define self interest as the achievement of power and advantage without ethical justification of any kind. Hear him define rationality as the rejection of moral claims and virtuous conduct. Hear him advocate peace at any price, stability without honor, and security through placation and surrender. Hear him reduce nations to the level of animal tribes and exalt a vision in which the tribes possess equal power and strength, and the rule of law and right has been consigned to meaninglessness and irrelevancy: "Nixon did not accept the Wilsonian verities about the essential goodness of man or the underlying harmony among nations to be maintained by collective security. Wilson had perceived a world progressing inexorably toward peace and democracy; America's mission in it was to help the inevitable along. For Nixon, the world was divided between friends and antagonists; between arenas for cooperation and those in which interests clashed. In Nixon's perception, peace and harmony were not the natural order of things but temporary oases in a perilous world where stability could only be preserved by vigilant effort. Nixon sought to navigate according to a concept of America's national interest—repugnant as that idea was to many traditional idealists. If the major powers, including the United States, pursued their self interests rationally and predictably, Nixon believed that an equilibrium would emerge from the clash of competing interests. Like Theodore Roosevelt—but unlike any other twentieth century American president Nixon counted on a balance of power to produce stability, and considered a strong America essential to the global equilibrium." (Diplomacy by Henry Kissinger). Listen to the official voice of American realpolitik and hear him reject moral missions and moral strength. Hear him surrender to the forces of communist conflict and subversion at home and reject the pursuit of liberal idealism abroad. Hear him reject America's global role as the defender of liberty and hoist the flags of stalemate, deadlock and the surrender of the West: "For twenty years, Wilsonian idealism had enabled American leaders to conduct their global role with missionary vigor. But the America of the late 1960s—stalemated in Indochina and torn by domestic conflict—required a more complex and nuanced definition of its international enterprise. Wilson had guided a country that was new to international affairs and confident in its ability to follow any problem through to its final resolution; Nixon inherited a society rent by frustration, whose future would depend on its ability to frame attainable long term goals and to persevere in those goals even in the face of adversity without yielding to self doubt." (Diplomacy by Henry Kissinger). Listen to the official voice of American realpolitik and hear him condemn the defense of liberty as an expression of unsophisticated religious belief without rational ground or justification of any kind. Hear him hoist the white flag of surrender to Soviet world domination. Hear him reject moral foundations for foreign policy and advocate negotiations, diplomacy, dealings and discussions with the red enemies of civilization: "The fathers of containment—Acheson and Dulles and their colleagues—had, for all their sophistication on international affairs, conceived of their handiwork in essentially theological terms. Since they deemed the Soviet proclivity for world domination to be congenital, they did not consider Soviet leaders as suitable negotiating partners until the Kremlin had abandoned its ideology. And since the principal task of American foreign policy was seen as achieving the overthrow of the Soviets, comprehensive negotiations, or even a diplomatic blueprint for them, were pointless (if not immoral) until positions of strength had brought about a change in Soviet purposes." (Diplomacy by Henry Kissinger). Listen to the official voice of American realpolitik and hear him deny that human interests can possess a moral character. Hear him deny the validity of universal moral claims and commitments. Hear him reduce relations between states to struggles of amoral and immoral interests. Hear him promote the doctrine of moral relativism, the view that all values, beliefs and policies are morally equivalent, and there are no transnational standards of right and wrong. Hear him proclaim that freedom is morally equal to slavery, law to lawlessness, order to chaos, and virtue to license, and that an enlightened foreign policy demands accommodation to and appeasement of the communist enemies of civilization: "The most important vehicle for this effort was the annual presidential foreign policy report. Four such annual reports on American foreign policy were issued starting in 1970. Drafted by my staff and me, these reports reflected the President's views and were issued in Nixon's name. 'Our objective, in the first instance, is to support our interests over the long run with a sound foreign policy. The more that policy is based on a realistic assessment of our and others' interests, the more effective our role in the world can be. We are not involved in the world because we have commitments; we have commitments because we are involved. Our interests must shape our commitments, rather than the other way around.' 'We will regard our communist adversaries first and foremost as nations pursuing their own interests as they perceive these interests, just as we follow our own interests as we see them. We will judge them by their actions as we expect to be judged by our own. Specific agreements, and the structure of peace they help build, will come from a realistic accommodation of conflicting interests.' " (Diplomacy by Henry Kissinger, quotes from Richard Nixon). An anachronism is a chronological inconsistency in the presentation of objects or events, a juxtaposition of things from different periods of time. A famous example of an anachronism occurs in a seventeenth century painting by the Italian baroque painter Cesare Gennari. It presents Orpheus, the ancient Greek poet and musician, playing a violin. Students of history understand that the doctrine of realpolitik has been an anachronism in every civilized society in which it has appeared, since civilized societies first blessed and graced the face of the earth. Dredged up from the dark, churning swamplands of the primordial past, when might was worshiped as the father of right and the only law was the law of expediency, Henry Kissinger made realpolitik the foundation of American foreign policy. He toppled the global citadel of liberal idealism and sent it crashing into a void of nonresistance and capitulation to evil.

REDS MARCH THROUGH THE MODERN AGE

Evolution is the development of something from a simpler to a more complex state. It is a positive concept and implies the existence of progress. The evolution of technology has seen the development of supersonic air flight, interplanetary space travel and high speed digital communications. The opposite of evolution is regression. The regression of civilization leads to the destruction of law abiding communities, the rejection of freedom, the revolt against reason and the return to the law of the jungle. The process of cultural decline is an iron law of history as long as the masses remain in control of society and drive events onward. The pathologies of mass psychology led to the fall of the Classical world. The moral diseases of the common man led to the rejection of Rome's Senate, republic and constitution; the rise of caesars, emperors and their mobs; the acceptance of religious mysticism and dogma in the form of Christianity; and abject surrender to invading Germanic barbarians. In the West over the past one hundred years, the winter age has descended, brought down by the pressure of the masses, and produced the final chapter of a one thousand year old saga. Commencing in the early decades of the twentieth century and accelerating in the new millennium, the decline and fall of the West has seen the following. It has seen proletarian rebellion staged in the form of the New Deal. It has seen the rise of identity politics and red cultural revolution. It has seen the rise of the Black Panthers, the Black Liberation Army and the Weather Underground. It has seen the promotion of the views of communist theorist Antonio Gramsci: "We must capture the culture via infiltration of schools, universities, churches, and the media by transforming the consciousness of society." It has seen children in public schools divided in accordance with their race and seen white children condemned as the oppressors of blacks. It has seen the teaching of critical race theory in primary and secondary schools, in colleges and universities, and in business establishments and government institutions. According to this theory, the only legitimate social theory is race theory which criticizes liberal order from the standpoint of black nationalism. Human beings are not equal in dignity and do not deserve to enjoy equal protection under the law, and blacks are superior to whites and must be given special rights and privileges. The liberal order is racist and oppressive and must be replaced by a regime of racial segregation and black supremacy founded in the name of social justice. All white people are racist and oppressive and must be deprived of their fundamental rights and freedoms. Whites must be held responsible for the institution of black slavery practiced over a century ago and be forced to pay reparations to blacks. The decline of the West has seen children in primary schools taught that sex has nothing to do with genes, is not a fixed biological reality, and can be changed at will by surgical and chemical means. It has seen the subversion of a certain company, the most famous children's entertainment company in history, founded one hundred years ago and associated throughout the world with the promotion of wholesome family values. This company is Walt Disney and in the declining days of the West, Disney has condemned America as a racist nation. It has forced its white employees to complete a "white privilege checklist". It has forced its employees to "decolonize" their bookshelves and remove the canon of Western classics, from Chaucer to Milton to Locke to Jefferson, on the grounds that they are the works of white males and promote white male liberal values. It has forced its employees to undergo indoctrination in critical race theory. It has included characters which cannot exist in reality, characters who are transgender, nonbinary and lacking in sexual characteristics, in its children's programming. It has enforced a "not at all secret gay agenda" in its children's programming. It has eliminated words which suggest biological realities, such as boys and girls and ladies and gentlemen, from its theme parks. The decline of the West has seen corporations require employees to participate in "racial reeducation" programs in which they are taught that racism is a uniquely white trait and blacks by definition cannot be racist. It has seen corporations advocate defunding and dismantling the police. It has seen corporations condemn capitalism as a system of white racism and white privilege. It has seen corporations reject the liberal order and advocate an intersectional revolution of black and women communists. It has seen corporations require employees to sign a pledge to "keep pushing for change" and keep fomenting world red revolution. It has seen corporations require employees to police each other's language for speech which is offensive to black communists, because "If you don't do it, you're racist." It has seen corporations tell employees that white people are the source of all black oppression: "White America, if you want to know who's responsible for racism, look in the mirror. White people, you are the problem. Regardless of how much you say you detest racism, you are the sole reason it has flourished for centuries." (Dahleen Glanton, AT&T). It has seen corporations condemn capitalism as a system of white supremacy and slander of blacks: "White women have been telling lies on black men since they were first brought to America in chains. They enjoy the opportunities and privileges that white supremacy affords." (Dahleen Glanton, AT&T). Listen to the voices of today's corporations and hear them condemn capitalism as synonymous with systemic racial injustice. Hear them condemn capitalism as a system of racial inequality. Hear them condemn capitalism as the enemy of people of color. Hear them condemn capitalism as a system of police brutality. Hear them accuse capitalism of white racism, white exploitation and white oppression and find it guilty as charged: "Almost a year ago, the killing of George Floyd catalyzed people to speak out and take action to end systemic racial injustices experienced by people of color in this country for more than four centuries. It sparked much needed conversations about race and racism, police reform and all that must be done to address the root causes of inequality and injustice. Our thoughts are with George Floyd's family as they receive news of today's verdict. We hope that the verdict brings some measure of closure. This but one moment. As nation, we face a difficult road ahead in healing the wounds of racial inequality and injustice. It is on us, collectively, as a society to continue to do the hard work necessary to address this and even more recent tragedies." (A Message From John Stankey, AT&T). Listen to the voices of today's corporations and hear them proclaim a moral and business obligation to condemn the capitalist system. Hear them promote communism as a noble stand for the cause of justice and equality. Hear them condemn capitalism as the weaponization of law enforcement and a police department to hound and lynch blacks. Hear them condemn capitalism as an unreformable and irredeemable system and advocate for a social, cultural, economic and political structure to establish red totalitarian tyranny: "As I said last summer, we have a moral and business obligation to engage on this issue of racial injustice, to live up to our value to Stand for Equality for our employees and to actively participate in helping create an equitable society. And we have worked to do just that, inside and outside of AT&T. But we have much more to do. In the past year, we have put AT&T resources and leadership to work toward initiatives that we believe can advance economic opportunity, overcome systemic educational barriers, and help to reform law enforcement. The vast majority of law enforcement officers do good work to serve and protect all of us equally. But it's also clear from the disturbing racial injustices that continue to happen that we need systemic reforms in police departments across the country. This is where we've been most involved. At the national level, we led the work with other large companies to advocate for a consistent national framework on police reform as outlined in the Business Roundtable principles. And we've played the same role in major cities where we have large operations, helping to enact policing reforms in fifteen states." ' (A Message From John Stankey, AT&T). Listen to the voices of today's corporations and hear them reject clear and convincing evidence, establishing beyond all reasonable doubt, that the 2020 presidential election was fraudulent. Hear them reject evidence establishing the use of mail in ballots, privately funded drop boxes and ballot traffickers to arrange the election for Joe Biden. Hear them reject the evidence provided by cellphone data, video surveillance footage, and thousands of pages of depositions, affidavits and public testimony establishing that the 2020 presidential election was managed and conducted to ensure the victory of Joe Biden. Hear them condemn those who sought to stop the certification of the election as criminal rioters and insurrectionists. Hear them reject the truth that the protesters were patriotic citizens defending the constitutional right to vote in free and fair elections who sought to overthrow a government which had degenerated into a lawless gang, which had rejected all challenges to the election on fabricated, pretextual grounds, and which had ceased to exist in all but name: "In January, as Congress assembled to certify the results of the 2020 presidential election, we spoke out against efforts to delay or overturn the clear outcome of the election. Claims of electoral fraud had been fully considered and rejected by federal and state courts and state government officials, and an objective reading of the integrity of the 2020 presidential election was not in doubt. And after the January 6 insurrection at the Capitol, we applauded all those who stood strong to thwart this appalling effort to block the peaceful transfer of power following a free and fair election." (A Message From John Stankey, AT&T). Elitism is the doctrine that a select group of people, possessing high intellect and moral character, deserve to wield greater influence and authority than all others. As long as the masses rule in place of elites, the reds will continue to undermine the institutions of civilization and push free societies into the abyss.

REDS UNLEASH GLOBAL FAMINE

In the late nineteenth century, Russian artist Viktor Vasnetsov produced The Four Horsemen Of The Apocalypse. Painted in vivid colors with precisionist technique, this world famous oil painting, hanging somberly in the State Central Museum in Moscow, depicts four allegorical mounted figures, Death, Famine, War and Conquest, whose arrival signals the end of the world. Dressed in the hammer and sickle and blood red garb of communism, Famine galloped over the horizons of the twentieth century and claimed the lives of tens of millions of people throughout the world. It struck in Soviet Ukraine and brought forth the Holodomor, the Great Famine and the Terror Famine, an act of genocide against the Ukrainian people which killed ten million people under the banners of collectivism and class war. Famine next raced into Maoist China in 1958 and brought forth the greatest famine of all time. Perpetrated under the banners of collectivism, class war and a Great Leap Forward, it killed forty million people. Famine raced into Cambodia in 1975. Perpetrated under the banners of collectivization, class war and communist utopia, the Khmer Rouge claimed the lives of one million people through starvation, which was a grim addition to the one and half million people killed directly in fields and prisons as enemies of the class. In the twenty first century, Famine has returned to the world, dressed in the same red garb and colors, and cast a shadow of death across lands of plenty and prosperity. Look at the demons who have sent this horseman riding furiously throughout the world and see impresarios of human desolation at work as they lower the curtain on civilization. The covid shutdowns, promoted by the World Health Organization, the Centers for Disease Control and other red health authorities, disrupted the planting, harvesting, processing and transportation of food ingredients. The shutdowns led to famines leaping out from ancient books on doomsday: "In a worst case scenario, we could be looking at famine in about three dozen countries. There's a real danger that more people could potentially die from the economic impact of covid 19 than from the virus itself. The world could face multiple famines of biblical proportions within a few short months." (David Beasley, executive director of the UN World Food Program). The shutdowns of restaurants, cafeterias and local farmers' markets forced farmers to destroy massive amounts of produce together with their livestock and many farms went bankrupt. The shutdowns of service industries diverted consumer spending into manufactured goods, which in turn led to supply chain bottlenecks, which in turn led to soaring costs of farm trucks, farm equipment and food processing machinery. The printing of trillions of fiat dollars out of thin air in America, in the form of social spending and stimulus programs, has led to massive price inflation which has made food unaffordable. According to the Federal Reserve Bank, the M1 money supply, comprised of notes, coins and checks, totaled four trillion dollars in January 2020. By January 2021, it had increased to eighteen trillion dollars, and by January 2022, it had increased to twenty trillion dollars. According to the United States Bureau Of Labor Statistics, American consumers have faced the highest food prices in forty years, with increases reaching into the double digits: "The food at home index rose ten percent over the last twelve months, the largest twelve month increase since the period ending March 1981. The index for meats, poultry, fish, and eggs increased 13.7 percent over the last year as the index for beef rose sixteen percent." (Consumer Price Index Report, April 2022). The West's unwillingness to roll back the Russian invasion of Ukraine, and expel the invaders from the country, has prevented Ukraine, which produces forty six percent of the world's sunflower and safflower oils, from processing and shipping millions of tons of these. The shortage of these oils has produced a run on olive and rapeseed oil and resulted in shortages of these. Ukraine is a major global supplier of wheat, corn, rye, barley and oats and shipments of these have been dramatically reduced. President Joe Biden's executive orders shutting down the Keystone XL pipeline, halting oil and gas development in Alaska's Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, and halting oil and gas leases on federal lands, have led to massive fuel shortages and resulting increases in fuel prices. These price increases have led in turn to massive increases in operational costs for farms, including costs of soil preparation, planting, harvesting, processing and the transportation of farm products to markets. The violation of water rights in California, and the diversion of water needed for farm irrigation to the support of the delta smelt and sucker fish, has led to thousands of almond trees across the state being cut down and farms in Central Valley and the Klamath Basin going bankrupt. The Biden administration has payed farmers not to farm on 2.4 million acres of cropland, under the Conservation Reserve Program, and has allowed 1.275 million acres of farmland to remain uncultivated, under the Wetland Reserve Program. The federal mandate that ethanol be added to gasoline in America, and the resulting diversion of forty percent of America's corn crop to ethanol production, has led to the prices of meat and eggs doubling over the past decade. The mandated production of corn ethanol has endangered America's food supplies: "The science has long pointed out that this is not where we want to go. In the long run corn ethanol has done almost nothing for our energy independence, and it has a large, disproportionately negative impact on the environment and food security." (Biofuels Are Getting A Second Look—And Some Tough Questions by Matt Reynolds, quoting Jason Hill). Look at the West today and see its refusal to defend the freedom of Ukraine against Russian aggression and uphold the international rule of law. See the result of its refusal in the onset of a global food catastrophe. See the result in skyrocketing global food prices. See the result in a scarcity of food striking nations from Europe from North Africa to the Middle East. See the result in an unimpeded Russian campaign to destroy crops, farms, food stores, farm animals and the chief cereal producer of the world. See the result in Russian conquest, Russian suppression, and Russian scythes cutting down human sustenance and spreading hunger and starvation throughout the world: "The European Union's agriculture chief accused Russia of deliberately attempting to cause famine through its tactics in Ukraine, as international organizations warn shortages caused by the invasion may cause a global food crisis. The attack on a country long known as the breadbasket of Europe has already sent up food prices, and there are concerns the disruption could cause instability and famine in vulnerable countries across North Africa and the Middle East that rely on it for staples like cooking oil and wheat. 'The Russian aggressor is destroying the possibility to produce these crops. And indeed they are also deliberately destroying stores, and they're also destroying holdings that have animals,' said EU agriculture commissioner Janusz Wojciechowski, who is from Poland. 'It seems quite deliberate. They want to create famine. And this is something that Ukrainians have already lived over the last 100 years or so. This is a method that Russia uses for conquest, and they quite deliberately use that tool of hunger.' The accusation carries a weighty historical resonance, as millions died in Ukraine in successive famines under Soviet rule during the twentieth century, considered by Ukrainians a tactic to suppress national independence movements." (Russia Accused Of Deliberately Trying To Cause Famine In Ukraine by Naomi O'Leary). Look at the West today and see its refusal to stop Russia from blocking grain exports from Ukraine. See the result in the willful Russian destruction of the breadbasket of the free world. See the result in plummeting global grain production. See the result in global grain supply interruptions. See the result in global food instability and insecurity. See the result in terrifying waves of death by starvation sweeping across the world: "The world may be careering towards global famine as Russia blocks ships exporting grain from Ukraine. Famine is now on the cards for many across the world, with food insecurity dramatically increasing as a result of the ongoing invasion of Ukraine. Known as the breadbasket of Europe, Ukraine is responsible for a significant share of the world's grain production, with both it and Russia usually exporting over thirty per cent of the world's wheat alone. However, according to a report by Deutsche Welle, that vital supply is now being threatened, with Russian forces blocking Ukrainian grain exports from traversing the Black Sea. 'Zero [grain] is currently being exported from the ports of Ukraine—nothing is leaving the country at all,' the publication reports Jorg-Simon Immerz, who heads up grain trading agency BayWa, as saying. The crop trading czar also noted that exports from Russia had become 'very limited' which will likely add to supply disruptions. As a result, a number of locations across the world are looking at serious issues regarding food security, with the UN's special rapporteur on the right to food, Michael Fakhri, now warning that global famine is on the cards as a result of the ongoing Russian invasion of Ukraine." (Global Famine Feared As Russian Fleet Blocks Ukrainian Grain Ships by Peter Caddle). Murder is the unlawful killing of a human being without justification and with malice aforethought. It is the killing of a human being with premeditation, predetermination and evil intent. In civilized societies, people convicted of murder face long prison sentences or capital punishment. Through their programs, policies and acts of commission and abdication, today's reds have evinced a design to commit mass murder through the perpetration of a global famine. Inspired by the deeds of their predecessors in Russia, China and Cambodia, today's mass murderers have unleashed a global nightmare and closed the story of civilization.

BLACK KLAN RIDES THROUGH CHICAGO

The American South in the mid nineteenth century. Men dressed in robes, masks and conical hats hide their identities as they gallop across villages and towns and terrify black populations. They carry crosses burning with mob violence, stage rallies shouting out race hatred and promote a religion of white supremacy. A tragic symbol of their creed: the lifeless body of a black man dangling from a rope, his neck broken, his face bloodied, his body hanging from a railing or a tree. Founded by Confederate veterans from Tennessee, this was the Ku Klux Klan and for decades its robed and hooded crusaders placed blacks throughout the South in the grip of fear and foreboding. The wheel of history has spun round and placed the same drama, the same play and the same series of events on stage, and changed only the names, characters and locales. The theme has remained the same. It is the theme of race as the alpha and omega of existence, and its latest practitioners wear the frightening armbands of black power, and have descended on a locale one thousand kilometers north of the Klan's homeland. The Klan's engines of race power are roaring through the streets of Chicago a century and a half after they first roared through Tennessee, and have left the city's school system unrecognizable, irreparable, irredeemable and in total ruination. Horsemen breathing flames of hatred have taken control over the Oak Park and River Forest High School and established a policy of racial discrimination which has indicted the nation's educational establishment as it has draped a pall of tribalism over the coffin of civilization. The new policy promulgated by the school administration is a program and manifesto of educational regression and a clarion call for global war against the dying remnants of liberal order.

Created by a latter day hate movement in pursuit of a black supremacist agenda, this program has issued the following statements in its campaign to overturn centuries of Western race blind education. It proclaims that a progressive school system requires teachers to adjust classroom grading to account for the race of the students and to give higher than deserved grades to blacks. It proclaims that a progressive school system equalizes test scores among races and excludes behavioral assessments, such as for misbehaving, missing class and failing to turn in assignments, which affect black students more than white students. It proclaims that the traditional practice of grading students in accordance with their academic performance and without favor or prejudice of any kind produces gross inequity and opens huge opportunity gaps for black students. It proclaims that a progressive school system eliminates zeros from the grade books for black students. It proclaims that a progressive school system rejects instruction in academic subjects, such as reading, writing and arithmetic, and focuses exclusively on indoctrinating students in black political ideology. It proclaims that a progressive school system awards its black students the highest grades in the name of socially just evaluation. It proclaims that inasmuch as seventy seven percent of black students fail the Scholastic Aptitude Test versus twenty five percent of white students, black students must be awarded a sufficient number of passing grades in order to bring their failure rate down to the white level. It proclaims that a progressive school system has established an equity based grading system which raises the grades of black students while it lowers the grades of white students to make the grades of the two racial groups equal. It proclaims that a progressive school system has established race based grading criteria which award automatic high grades to black students in the name of diversity, equity, inclusion and justice. Look at the knights and dragons of today's Klan and see them give special treatment to black students in the name of equitable grading. See them improve black students' grades by means of grade inflation. See them advance black high school students into college and university by awarding them grades they do not deserve. See them establish different assessment standards for black students and white students, require class participation and on time homework submission from white students but not from blacks, and graduate unqualified, nonperforming black students from high school: "Course failure rates more than doubled during the pandemic, reducing student confidence in school and their chances of pursuing post secondary education. But lack of learning isn't the only driver of course failures. Up to forty percent of traditional student grades include nonacademic criteria that do not reflect student learning gains—including participation and on time homework submission. As a result, traditional grading may inadvertently penalize underprivileged students who struggle to meet nonacademic expectations. To improve student grades and propel students toward post secondary success, district leaders will need two approaches: 1. Deploy a comprehensive learning recovery strategy. 2. Adopt equitable grading practices this year. While the first is foundational to minimizing the number of course failures moving forward, don't let the second step remain unaddressed. Equitable grading is a highly effective yet underutilized strategy that is proven to improve student grades and minimize grading biases. In this practice, districts remove nonacademic performance from final grades so that Grade Point Averages only reflect learning mastery." (Why Equitable Grading Policies Matter More Than District Leaders May Think by Margaret Sullivan). Look at the knights and dragons of today's Klan and see them alter grading policies to ensure that all black students graduate from high school. See them condemn equal discipline for students without regard to race as an outdated practice which unfairly penalizes misbehaving black students. See them establish assessment biases in favor of black students. See them order teachers to overlook and ignore acts of violence and disruption by black students, and the failure of black students to show up for classes, and graduate antisocial, offensive and shiftless black students in the name of diversity, equity, inclusion and justice: "Districts who want to take bolder action toward diversity, equity, inclusion and justice should reexamine their grading policies to ensure low income students and students of color are not inadvertently penalized by outdated practices. Equitable grading helps keep student evaluations and scoring more objective and less prone to unconscious biases. For example, teachers may unintentionally let nonacademic factors—like student behavior or whether a student showed up to virtual class—interfere with their final evaluation of students. By training teachers to remove the nonacademic factors from their grading practices and recognize when personal biases manifest, districts can proactively signal a clear commitment toward DEIJ." (Why Equitable Grading Policies Matter More Than District Leaders May Think by Margaret Sullivan). Look at the knights and dragons of today's Klan and see a regime of racist grading, assessment, point awarding and mark recording justified in the name of racial equity, and set up by the teachers and administrators of black power: "Grading and Assessment. During the 2020/2021 school year, a team of teachers and administrators read and discussed five texts, including: ● Grading for Equity--Joe Feldman ● Get Set, Go--Thomas Guskey ● Pointless--Sarah Zerwin ● What We Know About Grading--Thomas Guskey & Susan Brookhart ● On Your Mark--Thomas Guskey. During the 2021/2022 school year: ● Utilized the text Get Set, Go by Thomas Guskey to continue discussions ● Panel discussion--three students shared their experiences with grading and assessment while at OPRFHS ● Collaborative team leaders recently participated in a learning opportunity with Dr. Douglas Reeves ○ discussed grading with equity and shared practical issues for immediate impact with the group." (Oak Park And River Forest High School, District 200, in go.boarddocs.com). Look at the knights and dragons of today's Klan and see traditional grading practices based on student achievement and competence condemned as unfair and discriminatory to black students. See the traditional practice of meritocratic advancement condemned as unfairly depriving failing black students of educational opportunities. See a system of race based grading established to prevent black students from failing. See racist beliefs and policies justified in the name of equity. See school teachers and administrators in the service of black nationalism lower the curtain on liberal education: "● Traditional grading practices perpetuate inequities and intensify the opportunity gap ● Integrating equitable assessment and grading practices into all academic and elective courses requires the collaborative effort of a team of educators committed to improvements that benefit all students ● Many OPRFHS teachers are successfully exploring and implementing more equitable grading practices such as: utilizing aspects of competency based grading, eliminating zeros from the grade book, and encouraging and rewarding growth over time ● Teachers and administrators at OPRFHS will continue the process necessary to make grading improvements that reflect our core beliefs." (Oak Park And River Forest High School, District 200, in go.boarddocs.com). Look at the knights and dragons of today's Klan and see the rejection of student learning and proficiency in favor of racist grading, racist reporting, racist analysis and a philosophy of race power. See academic excellence impaled on black swastikas ignited by teachers and administrators of racial world revolution: "Oak Park and River Forest High School administration and faculty will examine grading and reporting practices in academic and elective courses utilizing evidence backed research and the racial equity analysis tool. The examination and reflection of practices will require that OPRFHS administration and faculty clearly define the following: ● Purpose for grading● Proficiency Oak Park and River Forest High School will establish a Philosophy of Grading that reflects a rigorous, meaningful, and evidence based process by which student learning is understood." (Oak Park And River Forest High School, District 200, in go.boarddocs.com). In ancient Greek mythology, caverns were held to exist just below the surface of the earth and served as entrances leading into the underworld, the world of the dead below the world of the living. These caverns were located throughout Greece, in Lakonia, Argolis, Thesprotia, Pontos and Ermioni. In the twenty first century, in a city 8,500 kilometers away from Greece, a void has appeared and marked an entrance into death. Assassinated by a black Hitler movement which has assumed control of its school system, the city of Chicago has descended through the darkness of a tunnel leading into the collapse of civilization.

IMPLOSION USA

Implosion is a process in which objects are destroyed by collapsing in on themselves. The opposite of explosion, implosion reduces the volume of space occupied and concentrates matter. Examples of implosion are a submarine being crushed by the surrounding water and the collapse of a star under its own gravity. Students of history have seen a nation implode with a speed which has defied the imagination and plumbed the depths of tragedy. They have seen the shining beacon of the free world and the global arsenal of liberty drugged with the methamphetamine of red radicalization collapse into a vanishing point in nanoseconds of historical time. They have seen a velocity and depth of national destruction which is as stunning as it is evil, which has occurred in a thousand different points at one and same time and taken people's breath away, and portends the imminent death of Western civilization. As clear and unmistakable as the noonday sun, the hurricanes and hammer blows sweeping across America have composed a black book of public surrender whose pages have carpeted villages, towns and urban sprawls and buried America for all time to come. The red masses in control of America's streets and America's establishment have attacked their nation in a lightning war which has made it disappear into thin air in an instant and placed the Grim Reaper in every capital city of the West. Students of history have seen the fires rage, the smoke rise, the skies blacken, the dust settle and the rubble entomb a nation, and have compiled their report on American cultural degeneration for all the world to read and future generations to preserve. It will be read and preserved as a chronicle of history repeating itself and visiting the same blight on America as it visited upon previous societies in decline since the masses, the fundamental cause of decline, first stepped foot on the face of the earth. The disease: the loss of physical, mental and moral qualities essential for the creation and continuance of a civilized society. The symptoms. The printing of unbacked fiat money has increased consumer spending, raised prices across the board and devalued the nation's currency. President Joe Biden has declared war on oil and natural gas. He has shut down oil and natural gas pipelines, shut down oil fields such as the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, and ended oil and gas drilling licenses. Welfare programs and stimulus payments have induced people not to work, induced employers to raise wages to entice them to work, and these wage increases have increased spending and caused prices to rise on all goods and services. The American establishment condemns capitalism as a lash of white supremacy. It proclaims that the nation's wealth must be redistributed from those who have produced into the hands of those who have not in accordance with the demands of social justice. Violating America's race blind and gender blind constitution, President Biden has allocated 7.5 billion dollars to placing a black female on the moon to advance race and gender politics. The establishment condemns capitalism because its charters of rights and freedoms, such as America's constitution and Declaration Of Independence, were written by white slave owners. The establishment defends the looting of cities by black power communists as an act of social justice which has exacted reparations from white capitalist society. The establishment defends the slaughter of hundreds of millions people in class wars launched by communist regimes as an imperative of progressive politics. The establishment indoctrinates homes, schools, offices and businesses in the tenets of critical race theory. According to this theory, the sole progressive social theory is race theory which criticizes capitalism from the standpoint of black power communism. America's constitution is a charter of white supremacy and must be replaced by a black communist manifesto. President Biden appointed Ketanji Brown Jackson to the Supreme Court in order to fulfill a triple quota mandated by the reds and place a black, female communist on the nation's highest bench. According to Brown, capitalism is a system of white racism; the word woman cannot be biologically defined because sex has nothing whatever to do with genetic determinations and can be changed by surgical and chemical means; and natural rights do not exist, and the rights to life, liberty and property are granted by society and can be revoked by society. The American establishment proclaims that a progressive society is a socialist, communist, fascist and jihadist society which commits mass genocide in pursuit of a newer, better and juster world. A communist coalition in Congress, called the Progressive Caucus, led by Bernie Sanders, Alexandra Ocasio Cortez, Pramila Jayapal, Rashida Tlaib, Ilhan Omar and Ayanna Presley, supports Hamas and the Palestinian Authority in their campaign to destroy Israel, expel its Jews and overthrow its capitalist system. In 1979, Sanders supported the Islamist regime in Iran when it took fifty two American diplomats and embassy staff hostages and chanted "Death to America" and "Death to Israel". Sanders condemns capitalism as a warhead of oppression of the working class launched by Wall Street, multinational corporations, billionaires, the ultrarich, and those who work with their minds and display the requisite energy and initiative to start businesses: "Throughout his career, Bernie has fought on the side of working people and against the influence of both the powerful ultrarich and giant corporations who seek only to further their own greed. The record shows that from the very beginning, Bernie anticipated and worked to combat the rise of a billionaire ruling class and the exploding power of Wall Street and multinational corporations. Whether fighting to lower energy prices or expand access to capital for local development, Bernie's first priority has always been--and will always be--defending the interests of working people across the country." (Josh Orton, statement to CNN News). Sanders condemns as morally unacceptable the capitalist system which awards greater compensation to those who possess greater talents and abilities: "CEOs at large corporations are paid 350 times more than what their average worker makes. Is that the kind of economic reality we should accept? I don't think so." (Twitter, April 5, 2022). State governments throughout the nation have canceled student debts and enacted moratoriums on rent payments. President Biden has enabled two million illegal immigrants from countries throughout the world to enter America every year through the southern border. This invasion of aliens includes hundreds of thousands of violent street criminals, Islamist terrorists and peddlers of illegal drugs. Sanctuary Cities have been established throughout the nation which prevent federal immigration officials from deporting illegal immigrants. In 2010, President Barack Obama signed into law the Affordable Care Act which established, for the first time in the history of the nation, a right to receive health care from the state and levied mandates, taxes and sky high insurance premiums to pay for it. Violating the constitution's guarantee of personal liberty under the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments, the Affordable Care Act requires all adult Americans to purchase health insurance. Violating these amendments' guarantee of economic liberty, the Affordable Care prevents health insurance companies from calculating insurance rates from the medical conditions of applicants and from refusing to grant coverage to high risk applicants. In 2014, President Obama issued an unconstitutional "executive branch memorandum", called Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals. Usurping the law making power reserved to Congress, this order granted amnesty to 800,000 people who had entered the United States illegally as minors. It allowed them to acquire legal status, work permits, access to welfare services and protection from deportation. In 2016, President Obama issued a second unconstitutional executive order, called Deferred Action for Parents of Americans and Lawful Permanent Residents, which granted amnesty to four million illegal aliens. In 2020, President Biden issued an executive order which allowed all migrants from South America, including unaccompanied children, to enter America anonymously. President Biden condemned capitalism as a system of which reduces blacks to insignificance and periphery of social existence: "America is a white supremacist society which marginalizes and underserves people of color." President Biden proclaimed that capitalism equals systemic white racism and a progressive society redistributes income and wealth into the hands of blacks. In violation of the Fourteenth Amendment, the United States Supreme Court ruled, in Grutter vs Bollinger, that race and gender are legitimate criteria and plus factors in student admissions procedures. The American establishment proclaims that a progressive society is an intersectional society ruled by radical feminists and black power communists. It proclaims that white people are racist, are unconsciously racist and unintentionally racist, and must be deprived of their rights and freedoms. It proclaims women comprise a master race and men charged with sex crimes against women must be denied due process of law, must be presumed guilty as charged, must be convicted on the word of an accuser or series of accusers, and must be convicted in the absence of fundamental fairness and despite the fact that the accusers had consensual sexual relations with the accused after the alleged incidents. The establishment proclaims, in violation of the findings of science, that sex has nothing whatever to do with the genes contained in chromosomes and is not a fixed and immutable biological reality, and can be changed by surgical and chemical means. It proclaims that transgender women are equal to real, biological women, and transgender men are equal to real, biological men, and these transgender individuals are entitled to enjoy the same rights and privileges as biological men and women. Lightning is a sudden, naturally occurring flow of electricity between two charged regions in the atmosphere or between the atmosphere and the ground. This blinding flash of megapower superheats the air and causes shock waves audible as thunder. In the new millennium, America has been struck by a dramatic blaze of red subversion striking from thunderclouds massed within. The light and pulses have incinerated America's liberal order.

THE TWO HEADED SERPENT

Venus is the second planet from the sun and the brightest object in the sky after the moon. Because it disappears for many days at a time due to its nearness to the sun, and then reappears on other side of the sky, many cultures believed it was two separate objects on each side. These objects were named the morning star and the evening star. The discovery that they were a single object was made by Pythagoras in the sixth century BC. In the twentieth century, two figures made their appearance on the stage of history and sent out waves of death and destruction whose shocks enveloped every nation on the planet and set the course of all succeeding events. Students of history saw them as ghosts and apparitions of a single figure and saw this composite creature as the Grim Reaper of the West. In the night skies which have descended on mankind over the past one hundred years, these two stars have shined a black light of cultural degeneration into every corner of the state and society in every society on earth, and composed the final chapter of a one hundred year old tragedy entitled Mass Politics. Merging and dissolving into one ugly, frightening, inhuman form, their stories are the stories of the West during the wintertime of its existence and have marked out the timeline of its dissolution. The first figure. International revolutionist number one. He spread a gospel of class war throughout the world and popularized programs of genocide in the name of the proletariat which would claim the lives of hundreds of millions of people. The second figure. International revolutionist number two. Inspired by the first revolutionist, he changed the name of the first crusade but not the essence, and spread a gospel of race war throughout the world, which commenced with a holocaust against the Jews. The leaders of a Communist International and a Fascist International, resurrecting religious wars in the name of the class and the race, Joseph Stalin and Adolf Hitler wrote the history of the West during its final stages of development, and their heirs and descendants have buried civilized liberty and ensured the triumph of barbarism for all time to come. The Stalin-Hitler colossus, the leviathan of class war, race war and their offshoots and derivatives placing free societies in the grip of terror, has issued a program and manifesto of antienlightenment which has consigned human progress to the dustbin of history. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of fascism and white supremacy. It proclaims that the suppression of free speech is a necessity to stop capitalist, neonazi organizing. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of white nationalism, antisemitism and Islamophobia. It proclaims that capitalism is a lash of persecution in the hands of the alt right. It proclaims that a progressive society is a terror organization which employs direct action to eliminate the global poisoner of the oppressed: the class of wealthy, successful, white, nontransgender males. It proclaims that a progressive society is a unite the left rally led by demagogues dedicated to fomenting hatred and violence against rich people, white people and defenders of liberal values and ideals. It proclaims that the highest type of critical thinking and critical theory is black communist thinking and black communist theory which seeks to smash the liberal order with the cudgels of intersectional politics. It proclaims that human history must be viewed through the lenses of race and class and these lenses have revealed the mountain peaks of social progress in a global revolution of black proletarian power. It proclaims that the liberal democratic order advances the interests of white people and must be smashed. It proclaims that the liberal notion that the law must be neutral and color blind has established a society which discriminates against blacks. It proclaims that the capitalist system is a white racist power structure. It proclaims that a progressive society is antiliberal, anticapitalist, villainizes white people and indoctrinates its citizens in the tenets of black swastika politics. Look at the blended, mixed, compound Stalin-Hitler figure of unmitigated evil and see it stalk the earth and mangle the souls of the people. Look at climate change activists condemn industrial and technological progress as the source of catastrophic carbon emissions and proclaim that civilization must be eradicated. Look at black clad communists spread terror from dark shadows. Look at black bloc hoodlums transform peaceful venues into theater of violence. Look at class warriors, race warriors and ecowarriors join in a common cause and launch a war against reason, science, freedom and technological mastery. Look at the voices of race and blood agitate for a return to the soil of primitive existence. Look at radical environmentalists agitate for the destruction of material advancement and prosperity. Look at latter day Stalinists agitate for class totalitarian enslavement in the name of fighting fascist capitalism. Look at latter day Hitlerites agitate for black totalitarian enslavement in the name of fighting fascist capitalism. Look at the campaigns of Stalinist and Hitlerite movements and see disruptions, rebellions, uprisings and upheavals spread like wildfire across the world. Look at Marxist movements, far left movements, student movements, green movements, redshirt movements, brownshirt movements and blackshirt movements smash through the gates of civilization with clubs marked class power, climate protection, race power and renewable energy sources: "The chancellor of Germany has been accused of comparing radical climate change activists to the Nazis after he criticized black bloc protesters who attempted to disrupt a panel discussion. Chancellor Olaf Scholz condemned far left activists clad in Antifa style black bloc gear for trying to break up a talk in Stuttgart, Germany at which he was invited to attend as a speaker. Scholz described the protest as 'theatrically practiced', saying per Deutsche Welle: 'I have to say honestly, these antics, staged at various events but always by the same black clad people, remind me of an era that is, thank God, long past.' The chancellor added that the protesters should participate in the discussion rather than attempting to 'manipulate an event to serve one's own purposes.' While the German leader did not specify which historical organization he was comparing the ecowarriors to, over the weekend, climate activist Luisa Neubauer posted footage of the incident and accused Scholz of comparing them to the Nazis. 'He stylizes climate protection as an ideology with parallels to the Nazi regime. In 2022. Jesus. This is such a scandal,' she added. The black bloc gear used by the climate radicals also evokes comparisons to the far left Antifa movement, which had its origins in Weimar Germany in the 1930s, first appearing as Antifaschistische Aktion—a paramilitary wing of the pro Soviet German Communist Party (KPD)—and which has been accused of creating the environment in which the far right was able to thrive, giving rise to Hitler and the Nazi Party through its violent tactics. Indeed, the relationship between Nazi theories on the land, environment and power has been identified as a forerunner of the green movement, with Hitler—an ardent vegetarian—stressing the need for renewable energy sources such as wind power under the assumption of running out of coal power." (German Chancellor Scholz Accused Of Comparing Climate Crazyies To Nazis by Kurt Zindulka). Look at the Stalin-Hitler monster which rules the present age and see it place a cloak of fear over the free and open exchange of ideas. See it cast a shadow of violence over the voices of reason and dissent. See it peddle mental disorder, detachment from reality and descent into psychosis in the claim that sex has nothing whatever to do with genetic determinations and can be changed by chemical and surgical means. See it take away the defenders of sanity who acknowledge the immutable character of genetically determined sex and burn them at the stake. See it enforce as sacred dogma the claim that transgender individuals exist and transgender women are as real as real, biological women. See it prohibit the dissemination of proscience, proenlightenment, anticommunist and antitransgender views. See it bring down upon the West a moral and political eclipse, a region of darkness, oppression and gloom, a religion of Marxism, neoMarxism and gender, race and class politics, a Soviet style system of ideological lockstep and regimented unity of thought and action which has tolled the bells of civilization: "Harry Potter author J. K. Rowling has compared the current climate of fear surrounding the discussion of transgender issues to the Soviet Union, quoting an anticommunist hero and leader of the Velvet Revolution. 'A specter is haunting Eastern Europe: the specter of what in the West is called dissent.' These words were penned by playwright and Czechoslovakian President Vaclav Havel in his 1978 essay The Power Of The Powerless to describe the brutal drive for conformity in all things enforced by the communist Soviet Union in his homeland, and elsewhere across the Soviet bloc. Now, it seems, Havel's words are being once again used by dissenters, but this time against the modern woke push for conformity in the ostensibly liberal West. In a Twitter thread responding to a post declaring that the statement 'transwomen are women' is being used to force biological women into bowing before the woke mob, author J.K. Rowling shared Havel's parable of a greengrocer who hung up the Marxist creed Workers of the World Unite in his shop window in order to passively conform with the groupthink of the Soviet Union." (J. K. Rowling Compares Transgender Wokism to Soviet Union, Quotes Anti Communist Hero by Kurt Zindulka). Dante Gabriel Rossetti was an eminent English painter and illustrator in the nineteenth century. His most famous work was How They Met Themselves, a watercolor painted in 1864. It depicts a couple in an evil, gloomy, unearthly forest at twilight as they encounter their doubles, exactly alike in dress and face. As identical in their criminal aims and methods as they are far removed from the moral order of mankind, Stalin and Hitler laid down a highway of cultural collapse to the wild and ecstatic applause of the masses. Their heirs and descendants have sent civilization careening into the rubble of mental and physical nonexistence.

RED COMMITTEE TARGETS TRUMP

A kangaroo court is a tribunal which ignores recognized standards of justice, carries no standing in the country in which it resides, and has been convened on an ad hoc basis. It is a tribunal which ignores due process of law and arrives at predetermined conclusions. The term is derived from the fact that its proceedings jump by leaps, in the manner of a kangaroo, over evidence which favors the defendant and returns the judgment: guilty as charged. On January 9, 2022, a House of Representatives Select Committee convened to investigate the January 6, 2021 attack on the Capital and immediately placed a frightening picture before the minds of civilized people. It was the picture of a kangaroo court in operation whose aim was to condemn the protests against the certification of the 2020 presidential election and to condemn Donald Trump as the leader of an insurrection. Committee member Jamie Raskin described the task of the committee: "We are going to tell the story of a conspiracy to overturn the 2020 presidential election and block the transfer of power. The panel has found evidence of concerted planning and premeditated activity related to the protests." Committee Chairman Bennie Thompson condemned the protests and Trump's role in them: "January 6th was the culmination of an attempted coup, a brazen attempt, as one rioter put it shortly after January 6th 'to overthrow the government'. The violence was no accident. It represents Trump's last stand, most desperate chance to halt the transfer of power." Selected, organized and convened by the national red establishment to the wild applause of the Main Street masses who voted the establishment into power, the House Select Committee is a living, breathing, walking, speaking ostensive definition. It defines by its own example, by its own aims and actions, without additional words or commentary being necessary, the meaning of the term perversion of law and justice, and has broadcast on worldwide television, before an audience reaching into the tens of millions, the final descent of America into the abyss of unconstitutional rule. The United States Constitution contains five amendments which relate to the right to vote. The Fifteenth

Amendment allowed former slaves the right to vote. The Nineteenth Amendment gives women the right to vote. The Twenty Third Amendment gives residents of Washington DC the right to vote. The Twenty Fourth Amendment establishes the right to vote without payment of a poll tax. The Twenty Sixth Amendment establishes the right to vote at eighteen years of age. Implicit in the right to vote is the right to vote in a free and fair election. The right to vote is the right to vote in a free and fair election or there is no right to vote. The right to vote in an unfree and unfair election is a meaningless right and does not exist. In its campaign to condemn the Capital protests and Donald Trump's role in them, the House Select Committee ignored evidence of vote fraud and the unlawful refusal by the Supreme Court and Vice President Mike Pence to invalidate the election on the grounds of fraud and process fouls, and gave an official seal of approval to an unconstitutional election and the subversion of democracy in America. Fact. Ballot harvesting, the practice in which political operatives collect absentee ballots from voters' homes and drop them off at polling places, manipulated the 2020 presidential election and delivered thousands of votes for Joe Biden. Fact. Video surveillance shows that ballot harvesters traveled directly from far left organization to ballot drop boxes on a regular basis. Fact. Video surveillance shows political operatives, wearing gloves to conceal finger prints, deposit mail in ballots in drop boxes. Fact. On Election Day throughout the nation, voting was halted in the middle of the night so that fraudulent votes could be delivered for Joe Biden. Fact. Throughout the nation, voter identification laws went unenforced and ineligible people were allowed to vote, which resulted in thousands of votes delivered for Joe Biden. Fact. In Arizona, Georgia, Nevada and Pennsylvania, fake ballot manufacturing and the destruction of legally cast real ballots delivered thousands of votes for Joe Biden. Fact. In Arizona, Georgia and Nevada, ineligible voters and voters who voted in multiple states delivered thousands of votes for Joe Biden. Fact. In Arizona, Georgia, Michigan, Nevada and Pennsylvania, dead voters and ghost voters delivered thousands of votes for Joe Biden. Fact. In Michigan, Nevada, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, the tabulation of ballots multiple times delivered thousands of votes for Joe Biden. Fact. In Arizona, Georgia, Nevada and Pennsylvania, illegal out of state voters delivered thousands of votes for Joe Biden. Fact. In Georgia, Michigan, Nevada, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, ballot mishandling delivered thousands of votes for Joe Biden. Fact. In Arizona, Georgia, Michigan, Nevada, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, process violations delivered thousands of votes for Joe Biden. Fact. In Arizona, Georgia, Michigan, Nevada, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, Equal Protection Clause violations delivered thousands of votes for Joe Biden. In Arizona, Georgia, Michigan, Nevada, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, voting machine irregularities delivered thousands of votes for Joe Biden. Look at the 2020 presidential election and see thousands of illegal ballot traffickers fix the election for Joe Biden. See geotracking data and surveillance video pinpoint a coordinated an illegal, vote rigging operation. See manufactured votes for Joe Biden stored in the inner sanctums of red organizations. See manufactured votes for Joe Biden dumped in mail in drop boxes. See red organizations select, organize, prepare and present ballots for Biden by the thousands. See red organizations hire ballot traffickers to bring in votes for Joe Biden. See incontrovertible, incriminating evidence of ballot manufacturing for Joe Biden established by means of mobile telephone identifications of ballot traffickers. See ballot traffickers paid to deliver votes for Joe Biden. See money paid in exchange for votes for Joe Biden. See Joe Biden's victory purchased by the agents and operatives of the far left. See ballots rendered invalid and illegal by their reduction to the status of paid goods. See a system of interconnected agents representing the Democrat Party finance votes for Joe Biden and

defeat Donald Trump in a fraudulent landslide. See a criminal complex unleash armies of ballot traffickers to stampede across the institutions of free and fair elections. In December 2020, the United States Supreme Court rejected a lawsuit launched by Texas which challenged election results from Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan, and Wisconsin. The suit claimed that the four states made changes to the voting rules through the courts instead of through state legislatures and thereby violated the Electors Clause in the constitution, that the differences in voting rules in different counties violated the constitution's Equal Protection Clause, and that there were voting irregularities in these states. In its ruling, the court stated the following: "The State of Texas's motion for leave to file a bill of complaint is denied for lack of standing under Article III of the Constitution. Texas has not demonstrated a judicially cognizable interest in the manner in which another State conducts its elections." Defenders of constitutional rights were left aghast at the court's decision. They understood that the right to vote in free and fair elections is implicit on the suffrage amendments to the constitution, and that every state and every individual in the nation has an interest and has standing to ensure that this right is respected. They understood that the task of the court is to nullify unconstitutional actions, full stop, and failure to do so represents an abdication of the court's responsibility and renders judicial review a sham. In January 2021, Vice President Mike Pence stated that he would not decertify the electoral college votes for President elect Joe Biden during a joint session of Congress. He stated the following: "I do not believe that the Founders of our country intended to invest the Vice President with unilateral authority to decide which electoral votes should be counted during the Joint Session of Congress, and no Vice President in American history has ever asserted such an authority. It is my considered judgment that my oath to support and defend the Constitution constrains me from claiming unilateral authority to determine which electoral votes should be counted and which should not." Defenders of constitutional rights were left aghast at Pence's statement. The Twelfth Amendment states the following: "The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted;--the person having the greatest number of votes for President, shall be the President." The amendment is as clear as daylight in its stipulation that the vice president has the right to decertify fraudulent electoral votes. The words certificates and votes used in the amendment refer to valid certificates and to valid votes, for a fraudulent certificate and a fraudulent vote are a certificate and vote which exist in name only and refer to nothing in reality. The terms fraudulent certificate and fraudulent vote are contradictions in terms. A political candidate who wins an election by means of fraudulent votes has not in reality won the election, for he has in reality not received any votes. On January 6, 2021, the defenders of constitutional rights staged a riot in the Capital against Vice President's Pence's failure to carry out his constitutional duty and decertify the electoral college votes cast for Biden. They sought to stop the fraudulent certification of the election and overthrow a government which had ceased to exist in all but name. They were compelled to their actions by the truth that riots are the language of the oppressed and violence is the voice of those who have no voice. They were compelled to their actions in the knowledge that, in the pursuit of a just cause, when peaceful means are rendered ineffectual, insurrection becomes a moral necessity. The January 6 riots and attempted insurrection led by Donald Trump were the greatest popular movement to reestablish constitutional government in the history of the nation. Their failure signaled the definitive end of the American liberal democratic system.

LAND WITHOUT HOPE

Twenty three degrees south of the equator lies a point at which the sun can be seen directly overhead. This subsolar point is closest to the sun and is the point at which the sun's rays strike the planet exactly perpendicular to its surface. Called the Tropic of Capricorn, this searing, scorching, merciless point of death demarcated a boundary. Beneath the skies of the cultural universe, this was a point directly above which the black rays of Satan, morally searing, scorching and death dealing, demarcated his empire in the south. The northern boundary lay at the Rio Grande River. These northern and southern lines enclosed a vast block of land known today as Latin America and which for centuries was the home of the ancient Maya, Inca and Aztec nations. The story of these lands of unyielding darkness is the story of savagery ruling over peoples for whom the hands of time lay frozen until they were unlocked and allowed to race forward by the ministrations of the Spanish Conquistadores. Brought by the West in its campaign of global liberation, the Spanish Conquest of the New World confronted a story of evil which run unimpeded for centuries and sought valiantly to write its final chapter. This was a story of wild, fierce nomads. A story of peoples dwelling for centuries in the age of bronze and stone. A story of lands devoid of law and order in which castes charged with frenzy fought to the death. A story of the rule of law mangled to death by the hyenas of anarchy. A story of a land transformed by the West and given, for the first time in its ignominious existence, clean streets, washed people, commercial freedom, and quiet, pleasant public places, presided over by dedicated and impartial officers of the law: "Landing at the port of Valparaiso, I was struck by signs of English influence. On the commercial streets every third man suggests the Briton, while a large proportion of the business people look as if they have their daily tub. The cleanliness of the streets, the freshness of the parks and squares, the dressing of the shop windows, and the style of the mounted police remind one of England." (South of Panama by Edward Alsworth Ross). The story of the New World is the story of lands whose normal state is moral disorder, brought by private mobs and public dictators. The story of lawless, disintegrating, adult appearing children, given to aimless dreaming, talking and singing, incapable of industry, commerce, agriculture, critical thinking, long range planning or civilized work of any kind, and under the permanent spell of leaders despotic, paranoiac, obsessive and out of touch with reality: "Precocious, sensual, impressionable, the Americans of these vast territories devote their energies to local politics. Industry, commerce, and agriculture are in a state of decay, and the unruly imagination of the Creole expends itself in constitutions, programs and lyrical discourses; in these regions anarchy is sovereign mistress. The tropical republics display a tendency toward atomic disintegration. Given to dreaming, they are led by presidents suffering from neurosis." (Latin America: Its Rise and Progress by F. Garcia-Calderon). The story of the New World is the story of endless, meaningless, bloody revolutions. The story of Satan levying a tax of premature death upon every man, woman and child. The story of dirty, torn, ragged armies fighting with machetes in the year zero and turning villages and towns into pitiless battlefields and endless scenes of fear and horror. The story of peaceful, civilized, productive activity placed into charnel houses marked: state seizure, state arson, state invasion, state violence, state assassination and state destruction of a free man's right to live, work and flourish for himself: "The stock feature of the tropics is, of course, the revolution. These senseless and perennial outbursts are often ridiculed in the United States as comic opera, but the grim truth of the matter is that few Latin American revolutions are laughing matters. The numbers of men engaged may not be very large according to our standards, but measured by the scanty populations of the countries concerned, they lay a heavy blood tax on the suffering peoples. The tatterdemalion armies may excite our mirth, but the battles are real enough, often fought out to the death with razor edged machetes and rusty bayonets, and there is no more ghastly sight than a Latin American battlefield. The commandeerings, burnings, rapings, and assassinations inflicted upon the hapless civilian population cry to heaven. There is always wholesale destruction of property, frequently appalling loss of life, and a general paralysis of economic and social activity." (The Rising Tide Of Color by Lothrop Stoddard). The story of the New World is the story of moral swamplands, mudlands and fearsome boggy grounds trapping and burying populations for all time to come. The story of state violence surpassing the annals of political crime. The story of reckless, extravagant maladministration enacted, without precedent in the history of mankind, as the supreme law of the land. The story of endless cycles of crime created and sustained by Satan, cycles of robbing, killing, ambushing, cruelty and revenge, enveloping, encoiling and strangling the people to death. The story of the forests, mountains and jungles of savagery relentlessly advancing and crushing the people's yearning for freedom. The story of populations dying impoverished and enslaved and engines of economic production and resource exploitation smashed by the chariots of war and conquest. The story of violence and revolution exalted as a way of life, fanning out in jets of white hot flame, and laying waste to a thousand years: "Most of the countries clustering about the Caribbean have sunk into deeper and deeper mires of misrule, unmatched for profligacy and violence anywhere on earth. Revolution follows revolution; one band of brigands succeeds another; atrocities revenge atrocities; the plundered people grow more and more abject in poverty and slavishness; vast natural resources lie neglected, while populations decrease, civilization recedes, and the jungle advances." (Our Danger In Central America by W. B. Hale). The story of the New World is the story of anarchy and dictatorship drawing and quartering the rule of law. The story of captive peoples rendered miserable and disheartened before the permanency of tyranny. The story of ugly, frightening creature wearing the robes of state power and plunging societal existence into a dystopian wasteland. The story of political power placed into the hands of violent, savage, cold blooded killers. The story of vampires occupying the thrones of chieftains and kings, plundering the land and bleeding the people white. The story of public thieves stealing from their nations and storing the loot in dark vaults hidden abroad. The story of state corruption surpassing the imagination and state crimes shocking the conscience. The story of retrograde lands trapped in the eons of the primitive past, morally and spiritually empty, devoid of the qualities of decency and virtue, and blackening the earth with the blasts of unrestrained brutality and unending revolution: "Another important point should be noted. I have said that Latin American anarchy was restrained by dictatorship. But the reader must not infer that dictatorships are halcyon time. On the contrary, they are usually only a trifle less wretched and demoralizing than times of revolution. The caudillos are nearly always very sinister figures. Often they are ignorant brutes; oftener they are bloodthirsty, lecherous monsters; oftenest they are human spiders who suck the land dry of all fluid wealth, banking it abroad against the day when they shall fly before the revolutionary blast to the safe haven of Paris and the congenial debaucheries of Montmartre. The millions amassed by tyrants like Castro of Venezuela and Zelaya of Nicaragua are almost beyond belief, considering the backward, bankrupt lands they have administered." (The Rising Tide Of Color by Lothrop Stoddard). The story of the New World is the story of packs, gangs and their bloodthirsty leaders slashing civilization with the daggers of tribal politics and unabashed corruption. The story of maladministration and unconstitutional rule casting a permanent shadow across the land. The story of unprincipled caesars sweeping away the dying remnants of lawful government. The story of brazen savages ignorant of morality and contemptuous of freedom flattered and fawned over by their followers as they ruthlessly crush the spirit of the people. The story of strongmen unable to earn a living through work and production plunder the honest toilers and lord over their wealth. The story of free enterprise, commerce and manufacturing outlawed and the producing class placed under the control of thugs who feed like swine at the trough of the nation. The story of political wickedness and instability bringing launching volleys of violent chaos, rank injustice and crimes against humanity to the wild applause of the masses: "When an ignorant and brutal man, whose entire knowledge of the world is confined to a few Indian villages, and whose total experience has been gained in the raising of cattle, doffs his alpagartes, and, machete in hand, cuts his way to power in a few weeks, with a savage horde at his back who know nothing of the amenities of civilization and care less than they know—when such a man comes to power, evil and evil only can result. Even if the new dictator were well intentioned, his entire ignorance of law and constitutional forms, of commercial processes and manufacturing arts, and of the fundamental and necessary principles underlying all stable and free governments, would render a successful administration by him extremely difficult, if not impossible. But he is surrounded by all the elements of vice and flattery, and he is imbued with that vain and absurd egotism which makes men of small caliber imagine themselves to be Napoleons or Caesars. Thus do petty despotisms, unrestrained by constitutional provisions or by anything like a virile public opinion, lead from absurdity to outrage and crime." (American Supremacy by G. W. Critchfield). In the January 1949 issue of The Wasps, the world renowned critic, journalist and novelist Jean Baptiste Alphonse Karr composed an epigram which would resound down the corridors of literature and provide a perceptive guide to the understanding of history: The more things change, the more they remain the same. In the savage lands of the red man, a succession of Montezumas, Castros, Ortegas, Chavezes and Maduras, reaching over the centuries, has given terrifying reality to Karr's epigram and painted portrait of a people doomed to live in evil.

ATTACK OF THE RED MANAGERS

Management is the art and science of administrating a business and running its resources. It includes the activities of setting strategy, coordinating the work of employees, and adapting the goods or services produced by the business to the changing needs and desires of consumers. The purpose of these tasks is to protect and advance the bottom line, and management which abdicates them, and fails either to run its business or to change its business to respond to new market trends, places the business in grave jeopardy, and casts a shadow of bankruptcy across its offices and factories. Students of history have observed a strange anomaly appear in the twenty first century. They have observed business managers renounce the defining goals and responsibilities of management, fail to faithfully serve the businesses they are supposed to run, and render the science of management, established over the centuries as an indispensable adjunct of the capitalist system, a purely theoretical exercise and in practical terms, ineffectual and defunct. They have observed the entrance of politics into business, the transformation of businesses into red propaganda centers, and the perpetration of a fraud in the spectacle of political operatives masquerading as corporate managers and subverting the fundamental mission of their organizations. They have observed that in today's businesses, the goal is anything but business, and is centered upon the embrace and dissemination of radical aims and ideas, and the overthrow of free societies which alone make private business and human flourishing possible. They have recorded the program and manifesto promulgated by today's business managers and set down its declaration of war against the world inaugurated by the Industrial Revolution, which made the West the business fairground, workshop and venue of the world. This program proclaims that a progressive corporation condemns the liberal order of race blind and gender blind selection as an instrument of white male privilege. It proclaims that a progressive corporation has gone woke and become a seminar on social justice. It proclaims that a progressive corporation is a university advocating critical race theory. According to this theory, legitimate social theory is critical of capitalism and promotes black communist power. Legitimate social theory includes historical, sociological and political analyses predicated upon black nationalism, hatred of whites and hatred of the liberal democratic system. The program of today's red managers proclaims that a progressive corporation establishes race conscious hiring policies. It proclaims that a progressive corporation promotes racism and sexism in order to achieve diversity. It proclaims that a progressive corporation discriminates against white males in order to achieve inclusion. It proclaims that a progressive corporation gives preferential treatment to women and nonwhites in order to achieve equity. It proclaims that a progressive corporation justifies racism and sexism in the name of affirmative action. It proclaims that a progressive corporation sets up race and gender based goals and timetables for the exclusion of white males from the workforce. It proclaims that a progressive corporation issues manuals containing the dos and don'ts of hiring and promotion: hire and promote blacks and women and reject white males from consideration. It proclaims that a progressive corporation rejects equal opportunity in favor of preferential treatment. It proclaims that a progressive corporation establishes a regime of quotas, ratios, percentages and numerical requirements based on race and gender. It proclaims that a progressive corporation employs numerical objectives to track the progress of women and nonwhites in getting jobs on the basis of their race and gender. It proclaims that a progressive corporation creates a workplace submerged in a demographic tidal wave which hires only nonwhites. It proclaims that progressive business management is workplace diversity management which ensures that only women and nonwhites receive job boarding passes and job upgrades. It proclaims that a progressive corporation establishes a diverse, heterogeneous, black and female workplace regardless of whether it is productive or not. It proclaims that a progressive corporation ignores individual talents and abilities and judges employees solely on the basis of their race and gender. It proclaims that a progressive corporation establishes a diverse work environment in place of a meritocratic work environment. It proclaims that a progressive corporation promotes race and gender diversity despite the fact that employment not based on merit endangers corporate performance and innovation by placing unqualified individuals in charge. It proclaims that a progressive corporation is unconcerned with achieving business success and is concerned solely with achieving proportional representation of blacks and women in its workforce. It proclaims that a progressive corporation renounces the pursuit of efficiency and productivity and promotes myths and ceremonies celebrating feminist politics and black communist power. It proclaims that a progressive corporation renounces the goal of profit making in favor of service to the cause of racial and gender tribal justice. It proclaims that a progressive corporation is a social corporation and an antibusiness corporation and faithfully serves the communist cause. It proclaims that a progressive corporation establishes employment quotas

based on ethnicity, race, religion, and sexual preference and discriminates against white, Christian, heterosexual males. It proclaims that a progressive corporation replaces meritocracy with diversity in the selection of its executives and board members in order to protect the rights of women, blacks, Muslims, homosexuals and transgenders. Look at today's corporations and see race consciousness established in the name of justice. See racism established in the name of antiracism. See employees treated prejudicially on the basis of race justified in the name of combating prejudicial treatment. See discrimination against white employees established in the name of equity. See reverse discrimination established in the name of diversity. See employees indoctrinated in the tenets of critical race theory which promotes criticism of whites, criticism of capitalism and criticism of the Western Enlightenment, liberal order. See the prices of goods and services established the basis of race and nonwhite customers charged lower prices. See capitalism condemned as a system of white privilege and marginalization of blacks. See employees ordered to give preferential treatment to black customers and black coworkers. See a far left black power ideology advanced in place of serving customers and earning profits. See the policing of workplace speech and the prohibition of words and thoughts critical of black affirmative action policies and supportive of race blind meritocracy. See criticisms of race based hiring condemned as forms of violence and aggression. See employees ordered to wear the swastika armbands of Black Lives Matter and carry the torches of a black Marxist and Hitlerite movement. See a nonstop corporate express train fueled by the blazing coals of red propaganda crash into the institutions of liberal order and scatter the pieces into the dustbin of history. See the products of capitalist freedom and opportunity, private, profit earning, economic enterprises, promote an agenda which is as radical and revolutionary as it is subversive, treasonous and unAmerican: " 'Enough with the racism, serve your customers' is the theme Consumers' Research is using to call out woke financial services company American Express during its annual shareholders' meeting Tuesday, running an ad highlighting discrimination against white employees. Pointing out that the company has been investigated by the federal government, 'caught processing a Soviet era politician's dirty money,' and 'paid hundreds of billions in fines for deceiving customers,' the ad charges that 'rather than clean up their act, American Express has gone woke. Employees say people are promoted and told to offer lower premiums based on race,' the narrator of the ad says, and then quotes a Fox Business article that states, 'American Express engages in reverse discrimination against white people.' It also points out the company has pushed critical race theory training on its employees and told them that 'capitalism is racist.' The ad, called UnAmerican Express, is set to air in New York. As the group has pointed out, American Express CEO Stephen Squeri has been pushing for diversity, inclusion, and equity initiatives, saying its 'Anti Racism Initiative is designed to have privileged employees defer to marginalized groups.' In training sessions, white employees were told to 'identify the privileges or advantages you have.' 'American Express is the direct product of capitalism, yet under CEO Steve Squeri, American Express has abandoned a fiduciary duty to shareholders like myself, labeling capitalism as racist while simultaneously pressuring employees to take actions based on race,' Consumers' Research Executive Director Will Hild told Breitbart News. 'According to American Express' backward logic, employees should be treated differently based on race in order to solve racism. This hypocrisy cannot stand; Consumers Research is calling for American Express to say enough to the racism and start serving its customers.' Consumers' Research has also deployed a mobile billboard to the company's New York City headquarters to circle the building during the shareholder meeting. American Express has also trained their employees in 'microaggressions' and told them to support Black Lives Matter." (Consumer Group Calls Out Woke American Express During Shareholder Meeting by Breccan Thies). A perfect mirror reflects all the light incident upon it and absorbs nothing. A substance coated with dielectric material, which transmits electricity, conducts nothing internally and acts as an insulator, is a perfect mirror. Today's corporations have declared war on the capitalist system. They have advanced the agenda of gender, race and class agitators. They have rejected meritocracy and promoted racism, sexism and national socialism under the banners of equity, diversity and inclusion. They are perfect mirrors and reflections of the state of the world today and have thrown back the death rays of civilizational collapse into the faces of those who study them.

PROPHET OF INTERSECTIONAL POLITICS

Clouds float above the city and above the assembling masses below. A cruciform shadow of the fuhrer's airplane is cast across the city and across the tiny figures marching. Upon arriving at Nuremberg, the fuhrer emerges from his airplane to waves of thunderous applause from the people. On day four of the National Socialist Party Congress, the fuhrer walks through an expanse of SA and SS troops standing at attention. The Blood Flag, carried during the Munich Beer Hall Putsch of 1923, consecrates a fluttering forest of new party flags. The fuhrer delivers his closing speech where he reaffirms the primacy of national socialist ideology and its political party: "The party will for all times be the leadership reservoir of the German people, unchangeable in its teachings, hard as steel in its organization, pliable and adaptable in its tactics, and in its total appearance the manifestation of the spirit of the nation. Again it must be that all decent Germans become national socialists. Only the best national socialists become party members." This 1934 congress, attended by a million people and led by German Chancellor and Fuhrer Adolf Hitler, was the rally and triumph of a nightmare which had enveloped Germany and would soon march across the world and define the politics of every nation. This nightmare was invented by Hitler and installed him as the preeminent heir and successor of Karl Marx. It made him the greatest contributor to political theory since Marx. While Marx had set the stage for Hitler's religion by inventing identity politics, Hitler effected a logical development of Marx's original version which would shape all subsequent political movements for all time to come. While Marx had projected class as the fundamental concept of politics and history, Hitler built upon this and combined two concepts and projected these as the fundamental concepts. While Marx had projected the primacy of a single entity, a socioeconomic class called the proletariat, and called this the essence of human reality, Hitler projected the primacy of two entities, a class and a race combined, and called this the essence. While Marx first poured the asphalt of totalitarian tyranny and paved a road called class collectivism, Hitler widened the road into a boulevard which included other forms of collectivism. Hitler combined the concept of the proletariat with the concept of the Aryan race and invented the ideology of Aryan proletarianism. Hitler's national socialism is a doctrine of proletarianism for the Aryan race, a doctrine of national Bolshevism, and sought to communize Germany along racial lines. Hitler was as opposed to capitalism and individualism as his master Marx, and his hybrid ideological development of Marx's ideas had to happen, as simple organisms naturally develop into complex organisms, and he sought to bring about an anticapitalist revolution of race based communism. Racist and communist rolled into one, Hitler started a movement which would overrun academic politics departments as it would flood the main streets of every city in the world and sit at the table of every home and family. This is the movement of intersectional politics, the politics where various tribes combine and intersect, and its multifarious progeny form a three headed monster which currently rules the world. Two heads of the monster are race communism and gender communism and the full creature is called gender, race and class politics. One third Marx and two thirds Hitler, gender, race and class politics is illustrated by a series of circles, representing tribal groups, endlessly combining and intersecting, and forming an infinitely ramified and interconnected web which has defined civilizational collapse as it has strangled and suffocated free institutions. Look at the circles, look at the web, and see the Hitlerian world of intersectionality advance relentlessly through the thoughts and actions of the late Western man during the final, arctic wintertime of his existence. Look at the religion of intersectionality and see swastikas and hammer and sickle flags merge, dissolve and form a black burial cloth draped over a coffin, a casket, a tomb, a grave and a wasteland called the West. Born in the movement which swept across Germany a century ago, this religion proclaims that the essence of a person resides in his multiple social and political identities. It proclaims that a person is his gender, race, ethnicity, class and sexual orientation. It proclaims that a progressive society is ruled by women of color, women who are poor and women who are migrants. It proclaims that a progressive society is a black communist dictatorship. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of triple oppression against women, nonwhites and the poor. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the real, flesh and blood existence of individuals and reduces them to abstract demographic factors. It proclaims that truth is a product of subjective standpoints, and there as many truths as there are genders, races, classes, cultures, religions and sexual orientations, no one of which is more true or more valid than any other. It proclaims that progressive social theory is critical race theory which criticizes capitalism and white people as sources of oppression and advocates the establishment of black communist power. It proclaims that a progressive society places absolute power into the hands of black factory workers. It proclaims that a progressive society declares war on white capitalist men and women and places absolute power into the hands of black socialist women, Chicano socialist women, Latino socialist women, Asian socialist women and indigenous socialist women. Listen to the voices of today's Hitlerites and hear them worship at the altars of Marx and Lenin in their campaign to install black communism into power: "Social movements all over the world have used Marx and Lenin as a foundation to interrupt these systems that are really negatively impacting the majority of people." (The Bay Area Roots Of Black Lives Matter by Julia Carrie Wong, quoting Alicia Garza). Listen to the voices of today's Hitlerites and hear them proclaim that capitalism is a system of racial oppression and black lives are respected only under a system of black communism: "We're talking about changing how we've organized this country, so that we actually can achieve the justice that we are fighting for. I believe we all have work to do to keep dismantling the organizing principle of this society, which creates inequities for everyone, even white people. It is not possible for a world to emerge where black lives matter if it's under capitalism, and it's not possible to abolish capitalism without a struggle against national oppression." (Alicia Garza, statement at the Left Forum, 2015). Listen to the voices of today's Hitlerites and hear them condemn the capitalist system and freely earned wealth and advocate a system of black communist redistribution: "Am I a Marxist? I do believe in Marxism. It's a philosophy that I learned really early on in my organizing career. The US is so good at propaganda. It has sold the idea of the American dream, and that's tied into capitalism and wealth. It's much harder to sell communism." (Patrisse Cullors, video statement, December 14, 2015). Listen to the voices of today's Hitlerites and hear them declare war on white people. Hear them condemn capitalism as a system of whiteness. Hear them indoctrinate students in the tenets of black nationalism and hatred of whites. Hear them advocate black racism in the name of decolonization. Hear them advocate white exclusion in the name of diversity. Hear them condemn liberal democratic governments as instruments of white supremacy. Hear them organize presentations, sessions and courses for students advocating hatred and violence against whites under the guise of inclusive play and antiracist practice. Hear them poison race relations and promote prejudice and discrimination against whites as an imperative of social justice. Hear schools and nurseries transformed into hothouses and incubators for the development of black power revolutionaries. Hear government officials promulgate antiwhiteness as the supreme law of the land. Hear state and local authorities worship at the altars of black racial myths as ignorant and uncorroborated as they are brutal and intolerant. Hear evil, harmful figures masquerading as teachers and pedagogues pound a religion of black supremacy into the minds of students and send breakers of black Marxism, black Maoism and black swastika politics crashing through the gates of civilization: "Officials in leftist led local authorities hired a Maoist consulting firm which focuses on anti whiteness to run nursery diversity training, a report has found. A report by British newspaper The Telegraph has found that a number of British local authorities hired a firm which focuses on the issues of 'whiteness' and 'decolonizing' the mindset of very young children to run diversity training for nursery staff. The Black Nursery Manager—a firm described as providing 'very Maoist' training by one critic—was hired to do the courses by officials despite the fact that the firm's head, Liz Pemberton, publicly stated online that she hates the government, and believes it to be an agent of 'white supremacy'. According to the newspaper's report, at least four public sector authorities headed up by officials from the United Kingdom's leftist Labor Party have employed the firm, which a former education minister has since branded as 'brainless nonsense' and 'deeply sinister'. The organization's website describes it as offering a number of childhood education related services, ranging from ninety minute presentations to a three session course focusing on 'antiracist practice' and 'inclusive play' for children under the age of five, with the firm's head reportedly denouncing 'how early the violence of whiteness starts' in little children." (UK Officials Hire Maoist Anti Whiteness Firm for Nursery Diversity Training by Peter Caddle). In 1938 Time magazine selected Adolf Hitler as its Man Of The Year. The magazine's criterion for selection is "The person or persons who most affected the news and our lives, for good or evil. Arguably you could do a bad guy every year and be justified." Despite the condemnatory portrait of Hitler in the article, howls of protest coursed through the world at the selection. Such protests did not erupt when Joseph Stalin was chosen Man Of The Year twice, in 1939 and in 1942. The reason is as plain as daylight and as clear as an arithmetical proposition. The world condemned the choice of Hitler but not Stalin because the communism had captured the world's heart and soul and formed the basis of the global cultural establishment. Unbiased students of history, in contrast, have found Time's selection to be woefully inadequate. They understand that Marx's greatest heir and successor, the founder of the Aryan proletariat and first proselytizer of race war in place of class war, was the spark of a fearsome new religion. They understand that historical accuracy demands that Hitler be selected as Man Of The Century. His descendants' blazing swastikas of race and gender politics have incinerated the progress of civilization.

THE WRECKAGE OF THE WEST

A depth charge is an antisubmarine warfare weapon which destroys a submarine after it is dropped into the nearby water and detonated. Depth charges employ high explosives and a fuze to detonate the charge at a set depth. During World War II, the famous Mark IX depth charge made by America was equipped with fins to give it rotation as it fell through the water, which enabled it to fall in a straight trajectory to the target. In the early decades of the twentieth century, a depth charge marked Rejection Of Reason was dropped near the ship of the West as it sailed down the seas of time and history. It was set to explode a century later, and when it finally exploded, the West had been in a state of increasing turbulence and agitation inflicted by repeated attacks from the precursory demons of antireason. Civilization is a product of reason and no movement of will, faith, feeling or supernatural intuition can ever bring it into being or sustain its existence. The acceptance of reason lays the basis for a civilization, while the rejection of reason lowers the curtain on it. Thus it has always been and thus it ever will be. In the waters of ancient Rome, the depth charge of antireason was dropped when the Romans overthrew their republic and stampeded down the path of unconstitutional caesarism, emperorism, welfare statism, mob rule and military dictatorship. It finally exploded in the triumph of two alien movements of antireason, German barbarism and Christianity, which buried the Classical world forever. The depth charge was dropped on Rome by a pilot sent from Satan who wore the insignia of destiny. Students of history have known for thousands of years that civilizations are bound to collapse because there can never be sufficient intelligence to sustain them forever. They understand that destiny has decreed that civilizations degenerate into mass rule and its attendant war on reason. They understand that it was destiny that Roman freedom fell before a mighty stampede of the masses, and it is destiny that the West has fallen before a stampede of its masses who have overrun its free institutions. Blasted with deafening force and shattering every home, school, office, institute and factory in the world, the explosions of antireason, ushering in the final stage of the West, have brought forth the following program and manifesto. These symptoms of terminal decline, known by decent, upstanding people as predictors of certain civilizational death, have proclaimed that a progressive society rejects the grand narratives of reason and truth and descends into the jungles of identity politics. They have proclaimed that the notion of a single, universal truth is a bourgeois fantasy and there are as many truths as there are races, genders and classes, and there is a proletarian truth, a bourgeois truth, a black truth, a white truth, a male truth and a female truth, no one of which may be held to be more correct or more valid than any other. They have proclaimed that a progressive society consists of political power celebrations by competing gender, race and class demographics. They have proclaimed that a progressive society is an intersectional regime in the service of black communist power. They have proclaimed that a progressive society is an intersectional regime in the service of feminist Marxism. They have proclaimed that a progressive society is a totalitarian society which polices thoughts and actions to ensure that they do not offend the sensibilities of communists, egalitarians, transgenderists, radical feminists, black nationalists and technology hating ecowarriors. They have proclaimed that a progressive society is a deranged, feverish mob which has launched a war of annihilation against the liberal tradition of reason, humanism, science and freedom. They have proclaimed that liberal democracy is a system of cultural racism and oppression. They have proclaimed that Aristotle, who championed a system of ordered liberty in the service of rational flourishing, was the father of white racism and capitalist oppression. They have proclaimed that the leading thinkers and philosophers of the West, with the exception of Karl Marx and his fellow communists, were the voices of white racism. They have proclaimed that the Western Enlightenment was a movement of white males to provide the philosophic foundations of capitalist, patriarchal imperialism and oppression. They have proclaimed that the notion of objective truth is a product of intellectual bigotry and intolerance and must be swept away by a system of thoroughgoing relativism in which there are my truths, your truths, society's truths and the culture's truths, and no set of truths can be privileged over any other. They have proclaimed the belief in absolute truth is elitist, privileged, sexist and racist. They have proclaimed and the belief that the following statements are absolutely true, that one and one make two, that water conducts electricity, that matter occupies space, and that a thing cannot be both black all over and white all over at one and the same time, promotes white supremacy, is a Western hegemonic construct, and excludes other ways of thinking and knowing. They have proclaimed that those who believe in absolute truth are homophobic, transphobic, misogynist and avatars of Western cultural arrogance. They have proclaimed that the world of Western liberalism, the world of individual rights, diversity of viewpoints and the rule of law, is a lash of white supremacist suppression. They have proclaimed that the blessings conferred by the West, the blessings of science, technology, medical advancement and the free market which enables people to work and flourish for themselves, represent an establishment of tyranny over the progressive forces of communist blacks, communist women, communist homosexuals and the communist poor. They have proclaimed that a progressive society allows unrestricted, unvetted, mass migration from the world's jungles of ignorance, illiberalism, intolerance and antienlightenment. They have proclaimed that truth is given apriori and is a product of language, communication and majority vote and has nothing whatever to do with the nature of reality. They have proclaimed that truth is given apriori and is a product of "communicative reason" and "communicative rationality" and has nothing whatever to do with the structure of the cosmos. Look at the state of the world today and see the liberal order fall under sustained bombardment and attack. See communist women attack liberalism as a male structure. See communist women condemn liberal women as traitors and enemies of their gender. See communist homosexuals attack liberalism as homophobic. See a coalition of gender, race and class stormtroopers launch a movement to overthrow Western capitalism and demolish the institutions of freedom: "Now people were being told to consider themselves as members of other specific groupings. They were gay or straight, men or women, black or white. These forms of belonging were also loaded to lean in an antiWestern direction. Gays were celebrated so long as they were 'queer' and wanted to pull down all existing institutions. Gays who just wanted to get on with life or actually liked the Western world were sidelined. Likewise, so long as feminists were attacking 'male structures,' Western capitalism, and much more, they were useful. Feminists who didn't toe that line or thought they were comparatively well off in the West were treated as sellouts at best, enemies at worst." (The War On The West by Douglas Murray). Look at the state of the world today and see the voices of black power take control over publication communication and debate. See black swastika radicals smash the institutions of liberty and law. See black Marxists and black Hitlerites condemn black dissenters from the party line, black defenders of liberal democracy, as traitors to their race and agitate for the destruction of civilization: "The discourse on race grew even worse. Racial minorities who had integrated well in the West, contributed to the West, and were even admiring of the West were increasingly treated as though they were race traitors. As though another allegiance were expected of them.

Radicals who wanted to tear everything down were venerated. Black Americans and others who wanted to celebrate the West and add to it were talked to and about as though they were apostates. Increasingly, they were the ones called all the worst names. Love of the society they were in was treated as a point against them." (The War On The West by Douglas Murray). Look at the state of the world today and see a ferocious global war underway. See an international ideological assault at the height of activity. See the cultural, academic, educational and media establishments in every nation of the West reject the values of the Western liberal order and led a red revolution. See the leader of the West, the keeper of the world's arsenal of liberty, President Joe Biden, denounce capitalism as a synonym for systemic racism and advocate black communist totalitarian tyranny in the name of racial justice and equity: "There are many facets to this war on the West. It is carried out across the media and airwaves, throughout the education system, from as early as preschool. It is rife within the wider culture, where all major cultural institutions are either coming under pressure or actually volunteering to distance themselves from their own past. And it now exists at the very top of the American government, where one of the first acts of the new administration was to issue an executive order calling for 'equity' and the dismantling of what it called systemic racism. We appear to be in the process of killing the goose that has laid some very golden eggs." (The War On The West by Douglas Murray). Marine salvage is the process of recovering a ship after a shipwreck. Performed by expert, specialist, dedicated crew, it involves towing the ship, refloating the ship and effecting repairs to the ship. Proclaiming that the concepts of reason, truth, empiricism and individual rights are embarrassing, anachronistic and refuted by the primary reality of gender, race and class power, the masses of the West today have torpedoed the traditions and institutions of the Enlightenment. No dedicated crew of cultural saviors can recover or rehabilitate the stricken vessel.

REDS TAKE OVER PRIVATE SCHOOLS

In ancient times, a citadel was the core fortified area of a city. Derived from the words little city, it was an inner castle or fortress which served as the city's last line of defense during an attack. The most famous citadel in the world was the Acropolis in ancient Greece. Located in every city in Greece, it was a commanding eminence, a refuge and stronghold in times of peril, a royal palace, and the shrine of the city's protecting god. Students of history have observed the breaching and smashing of a citadel in the twenty first century and observed widespread intellectual devastation in the wake of the attack. They have observed an invasion without precedent in the annals of education and observed the collapse of the last stand of reason in a collapsing civilization. Privately funded, independent and nongovernmental, renowned throughout the world for their academic standards, selectivity and commitment to excellence, private schools have fallen before a general, universal stampede of red partisans and their occupation represents the final flattening of the cultural landscape of the West. The high ground of schooling for university bound students, private schools have come under the control of the red enemies of liberal order, and these enemies have manned the former bastions, battlements and bulwarks for the protection of young minds, and fired away from atop with high powered rifles at the last fleeing voices of civilization. The reds have taken over private schools and completed their subversion of the West from within, and the cancer of their movement, blackening the souls of gifted, elite high school students, has produced a program and manifesto of antienlightenment which has sent children and parents running for their lives. Preached in the revered halls of what formerly was the preeminent system of education for adolescents and young adults, this program proclaims that a progressive society demonizes the capitalist system. It proclaims that the capitalist system is synonymous with systemic racism and injustice. It proclaims that all thoughts, words and actions which are critical of gender, race and class politics and support liberal democracy are expressions of bias, aggression, microaggression and outright racism. It proclaims that communism is an antiracist system which protects the rights of people of color. It proclaims that a progressive society is an antiintellectual, antiliberal, black supremacist mob. It proclaims that a progressive society judges people by the color of their skin and gives privileged treatment to blacks. It proclaims that a progressive society views human history through the lens of skin color agitates for the triumph of the black will to power. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the notion of universal civil rights and reduces whites to the status of a subaltern race. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of racial discrimination which relegates blacks to separate schools and lunch counters. It proclaims that a progressive society is a race conscious society which discriminates against whites and institutes affirmative action for blacks. It proclaims that a progressive society has abolished the principle of meritocracy and ensured that in all colleges, universities, occupations and professions, blacks are represented in proportion to their presence in the general population. It proclaims that liberal democracy is a system of white supremacy and brutal suppression of blacks. It proclaims that it is unjust to grant success to people by virtue of their talents, skills or hard work; success should be granted to people on the basis of their race; and blacks should be allowed to succeed simply because they are black as a matter of racial justice. It proclaims that blacks are the helpless victims of capitalism and require special government assistance to succeed. It proclaims that a progressive school is a program of indoctrination in the tenets of critical race theory. According to this theory, the only legitimate social theory is critical of whites, capitalism and the liberal order and advocates a regime of black proletarian dictatorship and genocide against whites. The program of the reds proclaims that a progressive school establishes admissions preferences for blacks, hispanics and people of color in the name of equity, diversity and inclusion. It proclaims that a progressive society is a Marxist and national socialist revolution which has outlawed rational analysis and freedom of thought, and promoted the doctrine that capitalism is a system of gender, race and class oppression whose victims are communist women, communist transgenders, communist homosexuals, communist blacks and the communist poor. It proclaims that a progressive society is a Black Lives Matter movement which promotes the intersectional politics of black Marxism, black Bolshevism and black communist dictatorship. It proclaims that a progressive school is a program in black swastika politics which teaches black history, black literature and black citizenship; lowers standards for the admission of students and the hiring of teachers in order to admit blacks; and eliminates rigor in classwork and engages in grade inflation to benefit black students. It proclaims that a progressive society is a totalitarian cancel culture presided over by the high priests of social justice and woke ideology. Listen to the voices of today's private schools and hear them teach brazen tribalism in the name of academic excellence and the development of moral character. Hear them advocate preferential treatment for blacks in the name of diversity. Hear them advocate hatred of whites in the name of equity. Hear them advocate race politics in the name of inclusion. Hear them advocate bigotry and intolerance of whites in the name of instilling empathy and humanity. Hear them advocate political correctness and the censorship of antired ideas in the name of encouraging openness to different perspectives. Hear them advocate black violence against white people and mass

terror in the streets in the name of healthy self expression. Hear them advocate the isolation, exclusion, dismissal and lynching of whites in the name of learning and caring for others and understanding oneself: "Diversity, equity, and inclusion are integral to Harvard-Westlake's mission in both our pursuit of excellence and our development of character. Abundant research demonstrates that diversity improves educational outcomes for all students. Furthermore, we aim to instill empathy and humanity, encourage curiosity and openness to different perspectives, and enable our students and all members of our community to discover and express their full selves. Stated most simply, DEI commitments at Harvard-Westlake help us to learn from others, care for others, and understand ourselves." (Anti Racism At Harvard-Westlake School). Listen to the voices of today's private schools and hear them advocate preferential hiring on the basis of race and sex in order to achieve a diverse student body and workforce. Hear them advocate a recruitment policy which favors communist blacks and communist women. Hear them require the indoctrination of employees in the tenets of race and gender discrimination in the name of diversity, equity and inclusion. Hear them order their employees to reject freedom of speech, reject the free and open exchange of ideas and opinions, reject the dignity and worth of liberal minded members of the school community, reject anticommunist points of view, and shout down, threaten and violently assault the voices of dissent in the name of holding a courageous conversation: "The faculty and staff of Harvard-Westlake is committed to: • Recruiting and supporting a diverse faculty and staff in which all are treated equitably. • Requiring DEI training for all employees. • Fostering authentic and inclusive professional relationships. • Supporting each employee's sense and expression of self in accordance with the following values: • Respect for the dignity and worth of all members of the school community. • Respect for differing points of view that are offered appropriately and in good faith. • Respect for the agreements of courageous conversations." (Anti Racism At Harvard-Westlake School). Look at private schools today and see students brainwashed, propagandized and taught to accept gender, race and class politics completely, uncritically and without doubt or hesitation of any kind: "One private school parent, born in a communist nation, tells me: 'I came to this country escaping the very same fear of retaliation that now my own child feels.' Another joked: 'We need to feed our families. Oh, and pay $50,000 a year to have our children get indoctrinated.' A teacher in New York City put it most concisely: 'To speak against this is to put all of your moral capital at risk.' " (The Miseducation Of America's Elites by Bari Weiss). Look at private schools today and see a program of racial segregation, monologues of race hate and black power building sessions. See a curriculum which has swept away the classics of Western literature and replaced them with impassioned shouting and ranting by the fuhrers of a black Reich: "Brentwood, a school that costs $45,630 a year, made headlines a few weeks back when it held racially segregated 'dialogue and community building sessions' But when I speak with a parent of a middle-school student there, they want to talk about their child's English curriculum. 'They replaced all the books with no input or even informing the parents.' The curriculum no longer features classics such as The Scarlet Letter, Little Women, To Kill A Mockingbird, and Lord Of The Flies. New books include: Stamped, Dear Martin, Dear Justice, and Yaqui Delgado Wants To Kick Your Ass." ' (The Miseducation Of America's Elites by Bari Weiss). The protection of student safety is a vital component of today's educational systems. Waves of violence against students, in the form of shootings, bombings and gang activities, have crashed through school gates, and together with acts of vandalism, such as graffiti, smashed windows and break ins, have turned schools into veritable jungles. No amount of safety procedures, resource officers or proactive policing can protect the prestigious private schools of the world, the Phillips Academies, the Harvard-Westlake Schools, the Merchant Taylors' Schools and the Warwick Schools, from the destruction of young minds wrought by the reds in their relentless march against civilization.

RED POLICIES BANKRUPT AMERICA

Bankruptcy is a legal process through a person or a business which cannot repay its debts is subjected to asset seizure for the benefit of creditors. The word is derived from the Italian words banca rotta, which mean broken bench or broken bank. In Renaissance Italy, it was customary to smash a banker's bench if he defaulted on payment, so that people could see that the banker, the owner of the bench, was unfit to continue his business. Students of history have observed that bankruptcy, a descent into moral, spiritual and economic nothingness, is the fated end stage development of civilization. They have observed this to be the case simply by virtue of the fact that in any social organization, from a small shop to a global civilization, the supply of reason and intelligence at some point in time, over the course of events, becomes exhausted, and ignorance and incompetence commence a reign of disaster. In the twenty first century in America, in the world's arsenal of liberty and beacon of hope to the oppressed, the hand of destiny has brought down its sentence of doom. It has not spared the leader of the free world and its sentence has thereby assumed additional tragedy. It has decreed that America's reserves of reason and intelligence run down to zero and public affairs fall under the control of the mob. It has decreed that a red movement stampede into the councils of state and enact programs and policies which send America spiraling into economic bankruptcy. It has decreed national bankruptcy through two means: through massive government spending and through skyrocketing fuel prices brought about by a war on energy development. Under the administration of President Joe Biden, there has been a more rapid increase in the quantity of money than in productive output. As a result of excessive government printing of money, soaring into the stratosphere of trillions to fund stimulus payments and welfare programs, there has been excessive consumer spending. This has increased the Consumer Price Index by 8.5 percent in 2022, the largest increase since 1981. In this year, wages have increased by only 5.6 percent, which has signaled a real wage decline. Inflation cost consumers 3,500 dollars in 2021 and 5,200 dollars in 2022. President Biden's fiat money presses have rolled out of control as his central bank has printed counterfeit notes by the nonillions, and laid economic waste to the nation: "By the end of the year, the year over year inflation rate will be at least 6% and possibly as high as 9%. China, Japan and Switzerland also face elevated oil prices, supply chain problems and fallout from the war in Ukraine, but their annual inflation rates are 2.1%, 2.5% and 2.5%, respectively. They have avoided the ravages of inflation because their central banks haven't produced excessive quantities of money." (Too Much Money Portends High Inflation by John Greenwood and Steve Hanke, in Wall Street Journal). President Biden's money presses have generated hundreds of billions of dollars in covid relief programs for states. This state spending has induced excessive consumer spending which has led to rampant inflation. This rampant inflation has forced people to reduce spending on a range of goods and services. This reduction in spending has pushed the nation into the abyss of economic downturn, decline and ruination: "On Tuesday's broadcast of the Fox Business Network's Mornings with Maria, Representative Greg Murphy (R-NC) stated that inflation will increase due to states spending unallocated coronavirus relief funds and that due to people cutting spending on disposable goods due to inflation, 'we will be going into a recession.' Host Maria Bartiromo asked, 'All of that money hasn't even gone out yet. One of your colleagues told me the other day that some states have gotten hundreds of billions of dollars and that money hasn't been appropriated yet. So should we expect that inflation worsens from here?' Murphy responded, 'I think it does. And this fantasy that we're not going to go into a recession is absolutely absurd. Secretary Yellen said that. Biden has said that. You know guys, when prices are so high and consistently high, people have to choose between gas, food and other disposable items, well, disposable items are going to go out the window. They're not going to purchase this. So, we will be going into a recession. I'm not an economist. It doesn't take an economist's degree to see that, but this inflation is not going away any time soon. And so, that's what we're going to face.' " (GOP Representative Murphy: Inflation Will Increase As States Spend More COVID Money And 'We Will Be Going Into A Recession' As A Result by Ian Hanchett). President Biden's money presses have flooded state governments with multibillion dollar covid relief funds. President Biden has stoked the fires of raging consumer spending and signed price inflation into law. He has sent the Consumer Price Index soaring to record breaking heights. He has released massive quantities of money to the states, money which does not exist because it is backed by nothing. He has brought about an economic calamity in the spectacle of an inundation of counterfeit fiat money chasing an insufficient quantity of goods. He has dug a channel marked government printing, filled it to overflowing with covid stimulus payments, and placed the nation on a timeline to a terminal state which betokens national economic ruination: prices skyrocketing to infinity and the purchasing power of the dollar contracting to zero: "On Tuesday's broadcast of the Fox Business Network's Mornings With Maria, Senator Bill Hagerty (R-TN) stated that as states spend unappropriated COVID relief funds, there will be 'more inflation in the pipeline yet to come.' Host Maria Bartiromo asked, 'I spoke with the Ranking Member in the House on the Budget Committee, Jason Smith (R-MO), who told me that out of that COVID relief package that the president signed into law back in March of 2021, several states received hundreds of billions of dollars in money, and he says that that money hasn't even been appropriated yet. So, we look at the inflation timeline of how inflation has been stoked by all of this spending over the last year, obviously, we're at 8.6% right now on the Consumer Price Index. Do you think inflation gets worse because that money has not been appropriated yet in many of those states?' Hagerty responded, 'Well, absolutely, to extent that those states are going to release that money into the economy. Again, more dollars chasing fewer goods. On the regulatory side, the Biden administration is choking off supply, and then adding more and more stimulus. These states are not going to be inclined to give this money back. The Democrats in Congress are not going to allow that to happen. We've already seen that. So, this, again, is going to have more inflation in the pipeline yet to come.' " (Hagerty: 'More Inflation In The Pipeline' As States Spend Unspent COVID Relief Money by Ian Hanchett). Under the administration of Joe Biden, energy production has come under federal government attack. President Biden has canceled the Keystone Pipeline. He has canceled federal leases for oil and natural gas drilling. He has canceled leases in the the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. He has burdened the nation's energy industry with increased taxes and regulations and halted onshore and offshore energy exploration: "Our members believe that the administration's attack on American oil and natural gas, starting with Day 1 has been relentless. They really had the goal of shackling the industry with increased taxes, increased regulations and limiting access on federal lands both onshore and offshore to allow our members to get out and operate."

(Dan Naatz, executive vice president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America). President Biden has detonated an explosion which made America the site of devastation of its energy industry and the start of an antiindustrial revolution. He has canceled energy permits, canceled energy drilling, canceled energy capital, regulated energy production out of existence, shut down the nation's network of energy delivery from producers to consumers, and set into motion record breaking increases in the price oil, gasoline and natural gas. In consequence of his policies, American consumers have paid 450 dollars more for gasoline in 2022 than in 2021: "The Biden administration is making matters worse. And no doubt the Biden administration's canceling of the Keystone XL pipeline and other energy infrastructure projects, its stonewalling of 4,400 permits to drill right now, its refusal to issue new lease sales for oil and gas. All of that is no doubt contributing to these high in record gas prices and energy prices and compromising the reliability of our electrical grid. But make no mistake about it, Maria. Ground zero for Biden's war against American energy is the weaponization of financial regulation at the Securities and Exchange Commission and at other regulatory agencies. Secretary Yellen is at the center of this. In addition to Chairman Gensler at the FCC, there is a concerted effort, as you say, and all the government efforts to weaponizing financial regulation to redirect capital, politicized the allocation of capital away from fossil energy. That's why Americans are feeling the pain at the pump right now." (Biden's 'Ground Zero' In US Energy War is 'Weaponization' Of Financial Regulation, Representative Barr Warns by Fox News, quoting Andy Barr). Soviet leader Vladimir Lenin famously said that the "the best way to destroy the capitalist system is to debauch the currency." President Joe Biden's social programs and spending policies have been financed by the creation of seven trillion dollars out of thin air. The nation's deficits are the highest since World War II, the national debt will double in 2031, and the Federal Reserve Bank prints one hundred billion dollars every month. In addition to a money press induced inflation, President Biden's energy policies fueled record breaking increases in the price oil, natural gas and gasoline. These policies have included increasing the private and public financing costs of oil drilling, halting oil drilling on public lands, and canceling the Keystone pipeline. Fiat money creation and a national war on the energy industry: a double garrote which has strangled the economic life of America.

SUPREME COURT GREENLIGHTS THEOCRACY

Seismic waves are disturbances which travel through the earth's layers and are caused by earthquakes, landslides, explosions, volcanic eruptions and magma movements. These disturbances are enormous in their proportion and effect and can cause massive damage to natural and man made structures. The deadliest earthquake in history occurred in 1556 in Shaanxi, China, and led to the deaths of 850,000 people and the generation of seismic waves recorded throughout the world. Students of history have observed the detonation of an explosion whose cultural and political repercussions will be recorded for all time to come. They have observed the eruption of an earthquake whose seismic waves have toppled the world's fortress of liberty and caused the traditions and institutions of Western liberal order to tumble to the ground. On June 24, 2022, the United States Supreme Court overruled the 1973 Roe v. Wade decision which recognized, under a substantive interpretation of the Fourteenth Amendment's Due Process Clause, a constitutional right to obtain an abortion under the right to liberty. In the new case, Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, the court has upheld a Mississippi law which bans abortion after fifteen weeks of pregnancy, asserted that the constitution does not protect a right to obtain an abortion, and given state legislatures the right to ban the procedure. At the basis of the court's decision is the religiously inspired assertion that an actual human person appears at the moment of conception. This assertion is as absurd and unempirical as it is a symptom of a detachment from reality and a descent into psychosis. The precepts of sanity affirm that what appears at the moment of conception is a potential human life as opposed to an actual human life. The counsels of science affirm that what appears at the moment of conception is a prehuman life as opposed to an actual human person. The judgment of common sense affirms that what appears at the moment of conception is a possible human being as opposed to an unborn human being. A potential human life or a prehuman life possesses no constitutional rights. A potential existence is an actual nullity and possesses no actual legal protections of any kind. There is no moral question presented by abortion because a potential human person possesses no actual, legal, moral existence: "The Court considers whether a right to obtain an abortion is part of a broader entrenched right that is supported by other precedents. The Court concludes the right to obtain an abortion cannot be justified as a component of such a right. Attempts to justify abortion through appeals to a broader right to autonomy and to define one's 'concept of existence' prove too much. (Casey). Those criteria, at a high level of generality, could license fundamental rights to illicit drug use, prostitution, and the like. What sharply distinguishes the abortion right from the rights recognized in the cases on which Roe and Casey rely is something that both those decisions acknowledged: Abortion is different because it destroys what Roe termed 'potential life' and what the law challenged in this case calls an 'unborn human being.' None of the other decisions cited by Roe and Casey involved the critical moral question posed by abortion. Accordingly, those cases do not support the right to obtain an abortion, and the Court's conclusion that the Constitution does not confer such a right does not undermine them in any way." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, decided June 24, 2022, majority opinion by Associate Justice Samuel Alito). In its decision, the court asserts that a claimed right which is unenumerated, not specified in the eight amendments to the constitution, must be rooted in the history and traditions of the nation in order to be protected by the constitution. This opinion flies in the face of the Supreme Court's constitutionally mandated function. In addition to interpreting the meaning of laws passed by Congress, the function is to guard and interpret the constitution. The text of the constitution says what it says, and the words of the constitution mean what they mean, independently of the history and traditions of the nation. Nowhere in the constitution is it written that a right must be grounded in the history and traditions of the nation in order to be protected. The fact that abortion was a crime when the Fourteenth Amendment was adopted in 1868, and continued to be a crime when Roe v. Wade was decided in 1973, is irrelevant to the court's function of guarding and interpreting the constitution. A historical understanding of liberty has no bearing whatever on a textual understanding of liberty and the court is charged with a textual understanding of liberty independently of the nation's history or traditions. The Fourteenth Amendment protects a person's rights to life, liberty and property, and life, liberty and property mean life, liberty and property. A means A. Because an actual human life does not appear at the moment of conception, a woman has a property right over this potential, prehuman life and has the right to abort it: "The Court examines whether the right to obtain an abortion is rooted in the nation's history and tradition and whether it is an essential component of 'ordered liberty.' The Court finds that the right to abortion is not deeply rooted in the Nation's history and tradition. The underlying theory on which Casey rested—that the Fourteenth Amendment's

Due Process Clause provides substantive, as well as procedural, protection for liberty—has long been controversial. The Court's decisions have held that the Due Process Clause protects two categories of substantive rights—those rights guaranteed by the first eight Amendments to the Constitution and those rights deemed fundamental that are not mentioned anywhere in the Constitution. In deciding whether a right falls into either of these categories, the question is whether the right is 'deeply rooted in [our] history and tradition' and whether it is essential to this Nation's 'scheme of ordered liberty.' (Timbs v. Indiana). The term liberty alone provides little guidance. Thus, historical inquiries are essential whenever the Court is asked to recognize a new component of the liberty interest protected by the Due Process Clause. In interpreting what is meant by liberty, the Court must guard against the natural human tendency to confuse what the Fourteenth Amendment protects with the Court's own ardent views about the liberty that Americans should enjoy. For this reason, the Court has been 'reluctant' to recognize rights that are not mentioned in the Constitution. (Collins v. Harker Heights). Guided by the history and tradition that map the essential components of the Nation's concept of ordered liberty, the Court finds the Fourteenth Amendment clearly does not protect the right to an abortion. Until the latter part of the twentieth century, there was no support in American law for a constitutional right to obtain an abortion. No state constitutional provision had recognized such a right. Until a few years before Roe, no federal or state court had recognized such a right. Nor had any scholarly treatise. Indeed, abortion had long been a crime in every single State. At common law, abortion was criminal in at least some stages of pregnancy and was regarded as unlawful and could have very serious consequences at all stages. American law followed the common law until a wave of statutory restrictions in the 1800s expanded criminal liability for abortions. By the time the Fourteenth Amendment was adopted, three quarters of the States had made abortion a crime at any stage of pregnancy. This consensus endured until the day Roe was decided. Roe either ignored or misstated this history, and Casey declined to reconsider Roe's faulty historical analysis." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, decided June 24, 2022, majority opinion by Associate Justice Samuel Alito). In its decision, the court asserts that the doctrine of substantive due process has been subject to reasonable disagreement by constitutional scholars and is far from settled in their eyes: "The underlying theory on which Casey rested—that the Fourteenth Amendment's Due Process Clause provides substantive, as well as procedural, protection for liberty—has long been controversial." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, decided June 24, 2022, majority opinion by Associate Justice Samuel Alito). In point of fact, the doctrine has been anything but controversial in the eyes of constitutional scholars. The doctrine rests upon the fact that, in nonfiction literature and texts, the use of a word entails its reference to reality. The clause in the Fourteenth Amendment which prohibits states from depriving a person of his "life, liberty or property without due process of law" refers to the existence of, and therefore the rights to, life, liberty and property. On the left hand side of the conjunction without are the words life, liberty and property. On the right hand side of the conjunction is the phrase due process of law. The words on the left hand side refer to the existence of the things named. The phrase on the right hand side refers to a fair and impartial adjudication process for depriving a person of his rights. This clause no person shall be deprived of his life, liberty or property without due process of law would not be found in a communist constitution, because such constitution would not recognize the reference of the words, life, liberty and property, and therefore the existence of the rights to which the words refer. The words life, liberty and property may only be found in constitutions which govern free societies. The doctrine of substantive due process was enshrined in American jurisprudence in the landmark Supreme Court decision Lochner v. New York in 1905. In its decision, the court ruled that a New York state law which set maximum working hours for bakers violated the right to liberty under a substantive interpretation of the Due Process Clause of the Nineteenth Amendment: "The law constitutes an unreasonable, unnecessary and arbitrary interference with the right and liberty of the individual to contract." (Lochner v. New York, 1905, majority opinion by Associate Justice Rufus Peckham). The fundamental symptom of a civilization in decline is the rejection of reason. Since the early decades of the twentieth century, America has been under attack by the two flanks of a fearsome pincer movement. These flanks are manned by religious movements which reject reason and seek to impose their dogmas upon society. One flank is manned by materialists who advocate communism. They celebrated their first Supreme Court victory in Nebbia v. New York in 1934. In its decision, the court rejected the substantive component of the Due Process Clause, rejected liberty of contract. and stated that "due process demands only that the law shall not be unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious, and that the means selected shall have a real and substantial relation to the object sought to be attained." The other flank of the pincer movement is manned by spiritualists who project the primacy of a supernatural dimension. In 2022, they celebrated their first Supreme Court victory in Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, which authorizes states to ban abortion on the grounds that human life is a supernatural substance which mystically appears at the moment of conception. The worshipers of a god called Society and the worshipers of a God in Heaven have closed in on America and killed off the soul of reason.

THE 2020 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION: FRAUD AT THE POLLS

In 1858, in Clinton, Illinois, during a debate with Stephen Douglas, Abraham Lincoln uttered the most famous words of his career: "Judge Douglas cannot fool the people: you may fool people for a time; you can fool a part of the people all the time; but you can't fool all the people all the time." Students of history have long known Lincoln's dictum to be true by virtue of the common sense which all people have the power to exercise. The masses do not exercise this power and opt for the rejection of reality which religions of various stripes offer to them: today's social religions of the reds and the old time, otherworldly religions of the Abrahamic cultures. A small minority of enlightened souls embraces the counsels of common sense and this is the minority to which Lincoln referred. In America, this minority has observed the results of the 2020 presidential election and observed the perpetration of the greatest act of election fraud in the history of modern democracies. It has observed an election which was stolen and resulted in the fraudulent victory of Joe Biden. It has reviewed the evidence of fraud and found it as clear and incontrovertible as the world of sunrises, sunsets and the laws of logic confirmed by common sense. The voices of the minority, the voices of common sense, are filled with outrage at evidence that voting systems deleted votes, lost votes, changed votes and compromised votes. They are outraged that twenty seven terabytes of geospatial locating data, ten million mobile phone pings and four million minutes of videos have revealed the actions of 244 ballot traffickers in Georgia making 5000 illegal ballot dumps for Joe Biden. They are outraged that state courts, state officials and county officials changed election rules without the consent of state legislatures, in violation of the federal constitution. The constitution states: "Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the Congress." (United States Constitution, Article Two, Section 1). They are outraged that states lowered or eliminated signature verification standards for mail in ballots. They are outraged at the massive, nationwide practice of third party ballot harvesting. They are outraged that unsupervised drop boxes replaced polling stations in locales throughout the nation. They are outraged that states throughout the nation failed to remove from their voters' rolls dead voters and voters who had moved out of state. They are outraged that in locales throughout the nation there was no independent oversight of the vote counting process. They are outraged that in locales throughout the nation, election observers were told that vote counting had stopped for the evening when in fact it had not. They are outraged that in locales throughout the nation, election observers were kept at a reasonable distance from voting stations. They are outraged that improperly completed mail in ballots were counted. They are outraged that 20,000 mail in ballots in Maricopa County, Arizona were received after the legal deadline. They are outraged that an additional 18,000 late ballots in Maricopa County were not counted. They are outraged that 56,000 ballots in Maricopa County were undeliverable and unretained. They are outraged that 740,000 ballots in Maricopa County had no documented chain of custody, in violation of state law, so that there is no means of verifying the origin of the ballots. They are outraged that in Pennsylvania there were 121,240 votes cast which were unexplained and undocumented: "For the 2020 General Election, Pennsylvania requires a count of 7,035,796 ballots to explain their election results. This includes ballots with votes for one of the three major presidential candidates, all write in votes, all over votes, all under votes (as reported by the 67 counties), and the 71K late mail ballots. After all counties closed the election in SURE, only 6,914,556 voters were credited with participation in the 2020 General Election. This reveals a voter deficit of 121,240." (Verify Vote: Election Integrity, Research and Investigations). The voices of common sense are outraged that in Wisconsin, 205,000 votes were cast by unregistered, undocumented, ineligible voters. These were phantom figures who did not respond to mailings and did not correspond to reality: "Wisconsin elections officials said Wednesday that they have removed more than 205,000 voters from the rolls as part of routine work to keep the state's registration lists up to date. Purging voters from the rolls has been a point of major contention in the perennial swing state. Conservatives filed a lawsuit in 2020 demanding that the Wisconsin Elections Commission remove voters from the rolls if they didn't respond to mailings within thirty days. The lawsuit ultimately failed and Democrat Joe Biden went on to beat Donald Trump by about 20,000 votes. Commission officials announced Wednesday that they deactivated 174,307 voter registrations on Saturday because the voters hadn't cast a ballot in four years and didn't respond to a mailing. They said they are required by law every two years to identify registered voters who haven't voted in the previous four years and deactivate them unless they wish to remain registered." (Swing State Wisconsin Removes 205,000 Voters From The Rolls, The Washington Examiner). The voices of common sense are outraged that Joe Biden was elected president in an illegitimate, fraudulent election. They are outraged that four states, Georgia, Michigan, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania, seized their legislature's power by executive order and changed their state's election laws, in violation of the Electors Clause of the federal constitution. They are outraged that these states, through their actions, mortally wounded the institutions of election honesty and security swept them away in thunderstorms of lawlessness. They are outraged that these states eliminated signature verification and witness requirements. They are outraged that these states manufactured millions of votes for Joe Biden through mail in ballots and unsupervised drop boxes. They are outraged that the constitution was reduced to a meaningless scrap of paper and the nation's constitutional democracy was reduced to a farcical shadow play: "Our Country stands at an important crossroads. Either the Constitution matters and must be followed, even when some officials consider it inconvenient or out of date, or it is simply a piece of parchment on display at the National Archives. We ask the Court to choose the former. Lawful elections are at the heart of our constitutional democracy. The public, and indeed the candidates themselves, have a compelling interest in ensuring that the selection of a President—any President—is legitimate. If that trust is lost, the American Experiment will founder. A dark cloud hangs over the 2020 Presidential election. Here is what we know. Using the COVID 19 pandemic as a justification, government officials in the defendant states of Georgia, Michigan, and Wisconsin and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (collectively, Defendant States), usurped their legislatures' authority and unconstitutionally revised their state's election statutes. They accomplished these statutory revisions through executive fiat or friendly lawsuits, thereby weakening ballot integrity. Finally, these same government officials flooded the Defendant States with millions of ballots to be sent through the mails, or placed in drop boxes, with little or no chain of custody and, at the same time, weakened the strongest security measures protecting the integrity of the vote—signature verification and witness requirements." (STATE OF TEXAS v. COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, STATE OF STATE OF GEORGIA, STATE OF MICHIGAN, AND STATE OF WISCONSIN, filed by Kenneth Paxton, Attorney General of Texas). The voices of common sense are outraged that Republican election observers, authorized by court orders to enter, were blocked or evicted from polling stations, to the wild cheers of the workers inside. They were outraged that suitcases full of ballots were pulled out from underneath tables after independent witnesses had been ordered to leave. They are outraged that thousands of votes were run through tabulation machines multiple times. They are outraged that thousands of votes were dumped at polling stations in the dead of night. They were outraged that thousands of votes were illegally stamped with dates earlier than the actual dates. They were outraged that signature verification requirements were disregarded. They were outraged that 173,000 ballots cast in Wayne County, Michigan corresponded to no registered voters. They were outraged that the forces of corruption flourished unchecked in the 2020 presidential election and rendered the constitution's guarantee of free and fair elections a nullity: "The rampant lawlessness arising out of Defendant States' unconstitutional acts is described in a number of currently pending lawsuits in Defendant States or in public view including: • Dozens of witnesses testifying under oath about: the physical blocking and kicking out of Republican poll challengers; thousands of the same ballots run multiple times through tabulators; mysterious late night dumps of thousands of ballots at tabulation centers; illegally backdating thousands of ballots; signature verification procedures ignored; more than 173,000 ballots in the Wayne County, Michigan center that cannot be tied to a registered voter; • Videos of: poll workers erupting in cheers as poll challengers are removed from vote counting centers; poll watchers being blocked from entering vote counting centers—despite even having a court order to enter; suitcases full of ballots being pulled out from underneath tables after poll watchers were told to leave." (STATE OF TEXAS v. COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, STATE OF STATE OF GEORGIA, STATE OF MICHIGAN, AND STATE OF WISCONSIN, filed by Kenneth Paxton, Attorney General of Texas). The big lie is a gross distortion of facts used as a propaganda device by governments. Its success is predicated upon its constant repetition and the motivation of the masses to believe it. Its use is prevalent in communist states where it is employed to promote the myth of a mystical proletariat and a capitalist conspiracy set upon destroying it. Inspired by the communist playbook, the reds in control of America have spread the big lie that the 2020 presidential election was conducted freely and fairly, was constitutionally sound, and was not marked by massive fraud. The circumvention of state legislatures by state executives and state courts in establishing rules for the conduct of elections, in violation of the constitution, and the substantial election fraud perpetrated throughout the nation, attested by volumes of witness testimony and digital data, are the facts which have buried this big lie and the American republic which promotes it.

TYRANNOSAURUS REX

A monster is a fictional creature found in folklore, myth and religion, depicted as dangerous, aggressive and grotesque. It is an object of terror and fear and is morally and spiritually deformed. The fundamental symptom of a civilization in decline is the appearance of monsters. Emerging from the womb of antireason, monsters stalk the land and battle for control over people's souls. Born from the rejection of reason which marks the frightful senescence of a culture, monsters fall into two fundamental categories: the monsters of materialism and the monsters of spiritualism. The progeny of mental instability, derangement and rank psychosis, these are monsters which worship at the altars of matter in the absence of mind, and mind in the absence of matter. Representing two sides of the same schizophrenic coin, marked the denial of ordinary experience and common sense, these are the monsters of reductionism and supernaturalism, and their denial, on the one hand, that man possesses an intellect, and on the other hand, that man possesses bodily senses, has spelled the death of every civilization which has let them through its gates and fallen under their control. During the dying days of Rome, they celebrated their final victory, the monsters of materialism appearing in the form of Germanic barbarians, and the monsters of spiritualism appearing in the form of Christians, their final victory over the Classical world of sound mental health. The world of the Greeks and Romans affirmed man as a rational animal possessed of both body and mind, matter and spirit, functioning together and in harmony to enable man to flourish in a human manner and to acquire true knowledge about the nature of reality. In the present day, these monsters have been unleashed anew and have devoured civilized institutions, and prevented people from thinking and behaving in a normal, sane, rational manner. Coming back to life from the graveyards of Classical civilization, these monsters are back in business, reinstalled into power by the wheel of history spun round by the masses driven by their inveterate and notorious rejection of reason, and have together lowered the curtain on the West. Their rampages comprise the story of the West in its final stage of development, and these creatures of an unbalanced mind, these voices of material existence uninformed by the intellect, and spiritual existence uninformed by empiricism, have pushed the West into the tar pits of total extinction. These monsters have reappeared in the present day in the form of Marxism and its derivatives, and the form of a resurgent Christian movement, plucked from the West's Dark Ages and granted a new lease on life. Listen to their words and hear the voices of a deceased civilization echo across the abandoned streets of reason and sanity, as they resounded a thousand years before across the desolate ruins of ancient Rome. Listen to the words of today's reductive materialists, today's Germanic barbarians, and hear them proclaim that the state is a god on earth. Hear them proclaim that intellectual labor produces nothing, intellectual laborers are idlers, exploiters and parasites, and all wealth comes from the muscle labor of the proletariat. Hear them proclaim that there is no individual responsibility but only social responsibility. Hear them proclaim that there is no individual justice but only social justice. Hear them proclaim that there are no individual human beings but only members of genders, races and classes. Hear them the proclaim that people should be selected for jobs on the basis of their race or gender and not their talents or abilities. Hear them the proclaim that capitalism is synonymous with structural, systemic and institutionalized racism. Hear them the proclaim that capitalism is the relentless, merciless lash of the white man. Hear them the proclaim that social justice demands a system of positive, affirmative discrimination in favor of blacks. Hear them the proclaim that a progressive society is a tribal society which has abolished the liberal order of individual rights and equal protection of all before the law. Hear them the proclaim that a progressive society is a welfare state which confers the rights to health care, education and cradle to grave economic security upon all people. Hear them proclaim that freedom of speech is dangerous to a socialist society and must be abolished. Hear them proclaim that criticisms of radical feminism, black nationalism and the communist poor are forms of violence and aggression and must be prohibited. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society is a censorious society which enforces a code of political correctness against the voices of liberal dissent. Hear them the proclaim that criticism of gender, race and class politics is a form of hate speech and people who engage in it must be blocked from using the internet and be forced to reveal their passwords to the state's internet thought police. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society has abolished the right to private property and forced the owners of private businesses to open their doors to anybody who walks through. Hear them proclaim that there is no such thing as a private business accommodation and all so-called private business accommodations are in fact public accommodations and must to do business with every member of the public. Hear them proclaim that there are no such things as sex genes, that X chromosomes and Y chromosomes are mere fabrications, and that sex is not fixed or immutable but can be changed by surgical and chemical means, and that males and females can transform themselves into members of the opposite sex. Look at today's neoMarxist transgenderists and watch them silence those who affirm the genetic basis of sex. Watch them censor the opponents of gender ideology. Watch them suppress those who accept the facts of biological reality and reject the dogma that sex can be changed by means of sex hormones and surgery. Watch them chastise these dissidents, burn them at the stake, prevent them from pursuing a livelihood, and drum them out the human race: "The Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction is threatening to revoke the teaching license of a school counselor who spoke out against the predations of gender ideology at a feminist rally. Marissa Darlingh, the Milwaukee Public Schools counselor, spoke out against the ideology at a rally in Madison, Wisconsin, saying she 'opposes gender ideology,' telling the crowd that young children should not be 'exposed to the harms of gender identity ideology' or provided 'unfettered access to hormones—wrong sex hormones—and surgery.' The WDPI appears to be retaliating by opening an investigation into Darlingh's 'immoral conduct' and threatening to revoke her teaching license." (Wisconsin Threatens Livelihood Of Teacher Who Spoke Out Against Gender Ideology by Breccan Thies). Look at today's resurgent Christian movement and see it achieve victory on the streets and in the law. The crown jewel of its victory was achieved on June 24, 2022, when the United States Supreme Court overruled Roe v. Wade and held that the constitution does not confer a right to obtain an abortion. In Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, the court authorized states to declare that abortion is murder and to outlaw abortion at any stage of a pregnancy. The court authorized states to declare that a fertilized ovum, at the moment of fertilization, is an actual human person with a right to life which states may protect. The court authorized states to declare that a human person mystically appears at the moment of conception, and to enforce religious dogma, and to establish religion, in violation of the constitution's requirement, set forth in the First Amendment, of a wall of separation between church and state. Mental illness is an impairment in mental functioning which leads to a detachment from and rejection of reality. The culmination of mental illness is a state of schizophrenic breakdown marked by total mental withdrawal and collapse. It is marked by a rejection of pictures of the external world and a denial of the doctrine of empiricism. Sane people affirm that the greatest argument for the existence of something is a picture of it. A picture of a fertilized ovum at the moment of fertilization is a picture of a prehuman entity. It is the picture of a potential human being. It is not the picture of an actual human person. In the Dobbs decision, the court authorized states to declare that this picture of potentiality represents a lower reality and is transcended by a higher supernatural reality in which an actual human person appears. This higher reality cannot be seen and the court authorized states to declare that its lack of visibility is irrelevant because man is blind because he sees. The court authorized states to sanction and institutionalize mental illness and schizophrenic breakdown. Listen to the court's decision and hear it authorize states to declare that a potential human life is equal in value to an actual human life, that rights pertain to potential human beings and not just to actual human beings, and that a fertilized egg, at the moment of fertilization, is an actual yet unborn human being: "What sharply distinguishes the abortion right from the rights recognized in the cases on which Roe and Casey rely is something that both those decisions acknowledged: Abortion destroys what those decisions call 'potential life' and what the law at issue in this case regards as the life of an 'unborn human being'." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, opinion of the court delivered by Associate Justice Samuel Alito). Listen to the court's decision and hear it declare that the right to obtain an abortion is not protected by the Fourteenth Amendment's guarantee of liberty because the right was not recognized at the time of the adoption of the amendment. Supporters of logic, language and the constitution reply that words mean what they mean, that A means A, that liberty means liberty, regardless of traditions, practices, history or intentions: "Abortion couldn't be constitutionally protected. Until the latter part of the twentieth century, such a right was entirely unknown in American law. Indeed, when the Fourteenth Amendment was adopted, three quarters of the States made abortion a crime at all stages of pregnancy." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, opinion of the court delivered by Associate Justice Samuel Alito). From the far horizons of the distant past have stampeded the purveyors of antireason. Under the guise of materialists and spiritualists, cavemen and shamans, Marxists and Christians, they have advanced upon the West and assumed control over its final hours.

REUTERS RED PRESS

In 1851 in Aachen, Germany, a book publisher named Paul Julius Reuter made history. He founded a news agency which transmitted information by telegraphic link. Transmitting messages electronically by the use of codes, Reuter's News Agency soon reached across Europe, from Berlin to Paris to London, with its lightning speed news reporting. In the late nineteenth century, the new Reuters Limited Company expanded into the Far East and South America and provided news to the world through its wires. This global service, with over two hundred locations in every corner of the earth, has set forth its official aims and policies.

It has claimed to strive for truth, honesty, accuracy, fairness and freedom from bias: "The Ten Hallmarks of Reuters Journalism: 1. Follow the Trust Principles in all activities related to Reuters News. 2. Hold accuracy sacrosanct. 3. Seek fair comment. 4. Correct errors transparently. 5. Strive for balance and freedom from bias. 6. Disclose potential or actual conflicts of interest to a manager. 7. Avoid injecting unattributed opinion in a news story. 8. Do not fabricate or plagiarize. 9. Do not alter still images or video footage beyond the methods normally used to prepare content for editorial use. 10. Do not pay for information or accept a bribe or trade on privileged information." (Standards & Values, Reuters). In the twenty first century, this pioneer news organization has rendered its official commitment to truth a dead letter and fallen under the control of ideological forces dedicated to the destruction of free societies. In the twenty first century, this organization, the leading source of news and information throughout the world, has become a global beacon of red propaganda, transmitting messages of revolution, received by families, homes, offices and businesses, as they descend into the general doom of the West. It has become a warning, signal and celebration by the reds of the global destruction of liberal order, a round the clock, perpetual motion tower whose pulses have broadcast to a Titanic and pointed the Titanic's way downward into the abyss of totalitarian lockstep. Powered by the engines of red fanaticism, Reuters transmissions at the end of the age have hammered into the consumers of its words and images a program and manifesto for the abolition of the government, the system and the social order of human flourishing whose culmination was the Age of Enlightenment. Made by, of and for the masses who have declared war on the progress of man built up over the centuries, Reuters program of moral and political subversion proclaims that a progressive company does not tolerate employees who criticize Black Lives Matter. This organization maintains that capitalism is a system of racism and discrimination against blacks. It maintains that capitalism is a system of racially charged violence and police brutality against blacks. It maintains that blacks comprise a master race which must be granted immunity from prosecution by the criminal justice system. It maintains that a progressive society rejects the bourgeois notions of individual rights and establishes national Bolshevism and black communist power. Reuters' program proclaims that employees who criticize Black Lives Matter will be given a chance to reform their thoughts and recant their heresies, and if they refuse to do so, will be locked out of the company's servers, denounced by their colleagues, and immediately dismissed via email. It proclaims that a progressive news organization promotes the Black Lives Matter swastika representation of liberal democracy as a sword of oppression hanging over the heads of blacks. It proclaims that a progressive news organization gives favorable coverage to Black Lives Matter protests, no matter how violent, and gives unfavorable coverage to the defenders of law and order. It proclaims that a progressive news organization colors its reports with politically biased writing in the service of black nationalist revolution. It proclaims that a progressive news organization exhibits blatant left wing bias in its features and reports and reprograms its keyboards to sound the trumpet for communism. It proclaims that a progressive news organization is a red church of the air and a proselytizing agency through its wires and cablegrams, and promotes race and gender politics and discrimination against white males under the banners of diversity and inclusion. It proclaims that a progressive news organization issues clarion calls for protests, riots and the defund the police agitation as part of its campaign to overthrow the capitalist system. It proclaims that a progressive news organization is the voice of minority communities in their promotion of the communist party line. It proclaims that a progressive news organization is a celebration of black communist lives and demands that every employee of the organization, down to the charwomen and the caretakers, climb on board its ideological express train. It proclaims that a progressive news organization is a seminar on race whose tone, theme and keynote is the innate superiority of blacks and the primacy of the black will to power. It proclaims that a progressive news organization offers its employees a course of lectures and training sessions which the promote the intersectional politics of Hitler combined with Marx, swastikas combined with sickles, nationalism combined with communism, and an assault on civilization conducted by a pincer movement led by the fuhrers of race and class. It proclaims that a progressive news organization is an interactive, participative panel on Hitler politics where race and class meet, and it seeks to whip up employees to a fever pitch of hatred of successful, white males. It proclaims that a progressive news organization unlocks the satanic powers of virulent race hatred and organizes street rampages targeting whites. It proclaims that a progressive news organization demands the confiscation of white wealth and its transfer to blacks as reparations for slavery. It proclaims that a progressive news organization promotes race hatred in the name of race equity. It proclaims that a progressive news organization tells its white employees that the only way to be a better white person is to renounce one's rights and freedoms and place oneself in passive service to the black master race. It proclaims that a progressive news organization indoctrinates its employees in the tenets of critical race theory. According to this theory, all legitimate social, political and legal theory is a body of criticism of the liberal order from the standpoint of race. It is a theory of black intersectional politics which condemns capitalism is a system of oppression of blacks and advocates a dictatorship of black communist power. Reuters' program proclaims that a progressive news organization has dismissed its white staff on the grounds that white employees fill their black colleagues with pain, trauma and fright and make them unable to show up for work. It proclaims that a progressive news organization orders its white employees to apologize for their whiteness, to confess their complicity in the oppression of blacks, and to repent and become subalterns of their black colleagues. It proclaims that a progressive news organization tells its white employees that they bear collective responsibility for the enslavement of blacks and must renounce their lives and careers as just punishment. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of racism and is built and controlled by whites. It proclaims that a progressive news organization tells its black employees that their white friends, relatives and coworkers are racist and must be renounced. It proclaims that capitalism is a white sickness which can only be cured by black communist revolution. It proclaims that a progressive news organization has abandoned objective news reporting and writes its stories from a black Marxist perspective. It proclaims that a progressive news organization is a revolutionary outlet which promotes communist myths and legends. It proclaims that black looting and vandalism, black riots and violence in the streets, and black killing of whites, are necessities to correct racial injustice. It proclaims that a progressive news organization altars and processes its reports by adding black racist ideology. It proclaims that a progressive news organization writes reports which are black nationalist in substance, syntax and style. It proclaims that a progressive news organization promotes the overthrow of the government and the establishment of Marxist autonomous zones throughout the nation. It proclaims that the system of liberal law and governance must be diminished, defunded, dismantled and destroyed. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of lethal police violence directed against women, nonwhites, transgenders and the poor. It proclaims that a progressive news organization advocates Marxist totalitarian dictatorship in the name of antifascist action. It proclaims that capitalism is a system which targets blacks for searches, seizures, harassment and arrest. It proclaims that a progressive news organization rejects data based reporting and fact checks and delivers stories which promote the black fascist point of view. It proclaims that the liberal order is rooted in racism and its criminal justice system is incapable of being reformed. It proclaims that a progressive news organization aligns itself with black identity politics rhetoric and bigoted black social media posts. It proclaims that a progressive news organization pushes the black party line, advanced without evidence, that blacks are shot by the police in massive and disproportionate numbers and that white political officials are one and all racist. It proclaims that capitalism is a system which overpolices black neighborhoods and places black families in the grip of fear. In the Reuters House in Aachen is preserved a breathtaking piece of history. Tourists from every nation on earth marvel at the miracle machines which first transmitted news to the world through the use of electric currents. Today's this premier news and information provider has donned the mantle of propagandist and publicist. Rejecting its founder's ideals of truth and accuracy in the reporting of news, its cause is global revolution and the destruction of freedom.

WALMART'S RED WARES

It is the world's largest retailer by revenue, earning 600 billion dollars per year in 11,000 stores. It is the world's largest private employer, with 2.2 million employees. In America, it is the largest grocery retailer. Founded in 1962 in the small town of Rogers, Arkansas, the company sells products at low prices in what its founder a half a century ago called a "crusade for the consumer". This paragon of capitalist initiative and entrepreneurship and benefactor of consumers in every corner of the planet is Walmart, and since its founding from the humblest of circumstances, it has been a beacon of inspiration to those who seek to benefit from the system of freedom and build businesses from nothing with their energy, intelligence and will to succeed. In the twenty first century, this great American institution plunged into a state of free fall which was as tragic as it was evil, and broadcast to the nations of the earth, through its gargantuan logo and world renowned, round the clock, blazing neon signs, the moral and political degeneration of the West. This Walmart, this brainchild and willchild of Sam Walton born on the counters of his early five and dime shops, has descended into the inferno of a red menace which has subverted free institutions throughout the world. This global hypermarket has issued a program and manifesto of Marxist and neoMarxist politics which has disgraced the family name as it has brought shame and discredit upon an organization originally dedicated to the American way and the American ethos, adhering to the principles of life, liberty and individual flourishing and success. The new Walmart manifesto of unAmerican values and ideals proclaims that a progressive corporation has established training sessions in critical race theory and made them mandatory for all employees. According to this theory, the sole legitimate social theory is based on thoroughgoing criticism from the standpoint of race and class. Championing intersectional politics, it criticizes the liberal order from the standpoint of black communism and advocates the destruction of freedom by the establishment of a black communist totalitarian dictatorship. The Walmart manifesto proclaims that capitalism is a bloody scourge of white supremacy. It proclaims that a progressive corporation teaches its white employees that they are guilty of "white supremacy thinking", "internalized racial superiority" and "internalized racial oppression". It proclaims that a progressive corporation promotes as thought provoking and constructive training in black chauvinist, antiwhite, anticapitalist thinking. It proclaims that a progressive corporation promotes discrimination against whites in the name of antiracist development. It proclaims that capitalism was invented by white Europeans in order to establish and maintain white access to power and privilege. It proclaims that the history of America is a history of oppression of blacks, beginning with the founding of white power settlements by English colonists in 1680, and progressing through the covid stimulus payments which were race neutral and distributed to whites and blacks equally. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of racist conditioning which indoctrinates people in the tenets of white supremacy and teaches them that whites and their ideas, thoughts, beliefs and actions are superior to those of blacks. It proclaims that capitalism rests upon the myth that wealth and success are earned by merit and hard work when in point of fact they are earned by the exploitation of blacks and the poor. It proclaims that the notions of reason, truth, objectivity and individual rights are products of white Enlightenment thinking and present a mortal danger to the black community. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of white power amassing and hoarding. It proclaims that a progressive corporation establishes racially segregated affinity groups for its employees so that blacks can get together and rant hatred and bigotry toward whites, openly, honestly, without restraint or inhibition, and without fear of reprimand or reprisal. It proclaims that capitalism teaches blacks that there is something wrong with them; it sends them into fits of anger and rage; it makes them hate themselves and eliminates their self esteem; and it reduces their expectations in life to zero. The Walmart manifesto proclaims that a progressive corporation teaches its white employees that they must feel shame and guilt at being white and adopt the notion that "white is not right." It proclaims that a progressive corporation teaches its white employees that they are complicitous in the oppression of blacks and must take collective action and hand over their wealth and property to blacks. It proclaims that capitalism is a system invented by white consciousness which has eliminated ladders of empowerment of blacks. It proclaims that a progressive corporation teaches its employees that there is no such thing as a universal human essence, that people are not all the same, and the blacks are innately superior to and more human than whites. It proclaims that a progressive corporation teaches its employees to become virulent haters of whites and venomous supporters of blacks in the name of creating a new "antiracist identity". Listen to the chief executive officer of Walmart and hear him condemn capitalism in the name of forward thinking. Hear him condemn electronic cigarettes in the name of political correctness. Hear him condemn as dangerous and outdated the constitutional right to keep and bear arms. Hear him advocate the regimentation of private businesses to the aims of red public policy. Hear him proclaim that true ethics is concerned with community service, that all legitimate morality is social morality, and requires that the state become the sole shareholder of businesses. Hear him seek to transform corporate executive suites and global business associations into command centers for a campaign to abolish the private sector and the free institutions of the West: "Being a CEO isn't just about leading a company—it's about being the face of that company. And that includes social media. In Walmart's case, president and CEO Doug McMillon cares about his Facebook, Instagram, and LinkedIn accounts. He has also gained a reputation as a forward thinking leader by taking a stand on controversial issues, according to Bloomberg. That same report also called him 'emblematic of a younger generation of business leaders who are more woke than their pusillanimous predecessors in the executive suite.' On Friday, Walmart announced it would stop selling ecigarettes after vaping related lung injuries reached a total of 530 hospitalizations and eight deaths. Walmart also changed course on guns, announcing earlier this month that it would limit sales of guns and ammunition in the wake of two deadly shootings at Walmart stores in El Paso, Texas, and Southern, Mississippi. But McMillon isn't just changing Walmart's practices. On Thursday, he was named the incoming chairman of Business Roundtable, a nonprofit whose only members are CEOs and that promotes business through public policy. The group sparked conversations about the role of big business in society when they announced that shareholder value is no longer the driving force of business—ethics is." (Walmart's Doug McMillon Has Been Called One Of The Most 'Woke' CEOs In The Country—And His Social Media Accounts Show Why by Ivan De Luce). Listen to the chief executive officer of Walmart and hear him proclaim opposition to the notion of private spheres of conscience and belief. Hear him proclaim opposition to business owners' right of free association. Hear him condemn in the name of inclusion the right of business owners to determine their clientele. Hear him defend statist who violate constitutional rights and smash private businesses with the police truncheons of antidiscrimination laws. Hear him proclaim that private business accommodations are public accommodations and have a duty to provide services to anyone the state decrees. Hear him proclaim that private employers are state employers, that private shops are state shops, and are controlled by the state's Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender equal protection laws. Hear him proclaim that there is no difference between private existence and public existence, private spaces and public spaces, private commerce and public commerce, private discrimination and public discrimination, and every aspect of society is owned and controlled by the state, and there exists no intellectual freedom, no religious freedom, no economic freedom, and no freedom of any kind: "WalMart CEO Doug McMillon is joining the chorus of CEOs voicing their opposition to religious freedom bills. On Tuesday, the company's Twitter account shared a statement from McMillon, in which he asked Governor Asa Hutchinson to veto HB1228, the Arkansas religious freedom bill that passed the state legislature on Tuesday and is awaiting Hutchinson's signature. Passage of that law, he said in the tweet, 'threatens to undermine the spirit of inclusion present throughout the state of Arkansas and does not reflect the values we proudly uphold.' Such laws, opponents say, will give legal cover to those who decide not to provide services to LGBT people if they think doing so would 'substantially burden' their religious freedom. In Indiana, Governor Mike Pence has come under significant fire for signing his state's version of the bill into law. And in Arkansas, it could hardly go unnoticed that WalMart is now voicing opposition as well. The retailer, which is based in Bentonville, Arkansas, is the largest private employer not only in the state but in the entire country." (WalMart CEO Speaks Out Against Religious Freedom Bill In Arkansas by Jena McGregor). At the checkout counters of its superstores throughout the world, Walmart's cashiers perform a special and unusual task. The change they make for customers is out of the ordinary. After scanning and ringing up items and collecting payments, they return coins stamped with the slogans of intersectionality, tribal politics, Marxism and its offspring, and world red revolution.

IRELAND'S HIGH SCHOOLS HIJACKED BY THE REDS

A high school diploma is the symbol of having completed the basic education required by law for young people. The presentation of the diploma is a ritual of passage into adulthood and the academic entrance into meaningful employment and a career. The ceremony at which the diploma is given is called a graduation. At this ceremony, students' names are called out; they walk across a stage; and they are handed their diplomas wrapped in ribbons and leather binders. Awarded by the educational establishment and steeped in the traditions of centuries, this certificate marks an achievement which becomes an enduring source of pride and satisfaction for the student. Hallowed by the highest standards reaching across millennia, the high school diploma has been desecrated in the twenty first century and reduced to a document attesting to ideological indoctrination without academic meaning or significance of any kind. On its sheepskin and parchment, rolled, tied and framed with wood and glass, are printed the letters of a global religion and campaign of mental destruction which has produced the unspeakable evil of mangled young minds as it has provided official documentation of the demise of civilization. The tragedy of a high school diploma symbolizing moral and political subversion is displayed in its darkest and most satanic colors when the diploma is awarded in lands in which freedom in the West saw its birthplace. The second largest island in the British Isles, colonized by England and implanted with English values after the Anglo-Norman invasion in the late twelfth century, Ireland has seen a sustained attack by the reds, which has rendered its high school diplomas educationally worthless, and made the twenty first century calamity of high school politicization all the more distressing and foreboding. As Ireland goes, so goes the West, and an examination of its high school diplomas provides a view into a moral sewer flowing onward into an ocean churning with the dregs of cultural degeneration. Establishing the post secondary education a school leaver is entitled to attend, and on par with England's Advanced Level examination, Ireland's Leaving Certificate examination has become a manifesto of gender, race and class politics which has discredited Anglo-Saxon education, disgraced the islands of the Atlantic Archipelago, and signaled that their free institutions have tumbled into the dustbin of history. Students taking Ireland's state examination are confronted with the following declaration of red aims, ideas, platforms and policies. They are confronted with a manifesto which proclaims that capitalism is a system of white privilege and all words in support of it are forms of aggression and microaggression and must be prohibited. It proclaims that a progressive society is a Black Lives Matter movement which recognizes that blacks form a master race and capitalism is a system of racism, discrimination and violence against blacks. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of homelessness and violation of the rights of children. It proclaims that industrial civilization is a system of economic development which cannot be conducted without depletion of the world's natural resources. It proclaims that industrial civilization is a system of man made climate change whose greenhouse gas emissions are incinerating the planet. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of unequal covid vaccine distribution which favors the white nations of Europe and North America. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the principle of meritocracy and establishes gender quotas in order to increase female representation in business. It proclaims that the notion of universal human rights is a Western Enlightenment construct and its imposition in a culturally diverse world is an act of Western imperialism. It proclaims that nations benefit by membership in the European Union by being part of a progressive, social solidarity, welfare statist, communist organization. It proclaims that a progressive society is an open borders society which gives immediate citizenship to illegal migrants. It proclaims that a society which draws a distinction between legal and illegal migrants is an unjust society because it subjects illegal migrants to long working hours, low pay and pitiless exploitation. It proclaims that a progressive society allows illegal migrants to legally work. It proclaims that a progressive society lifts the fear of deportation from its community of illegal migrants. It proclaims that the abject condition of illegal migrants is a human rights issue because illegal migrants should enjoy the same rights as legal migrants and citizens. It proclaims that online reports of far left violence and the destruction of cities by Antifa and Black Lives Matter are examples of misinformation and fake news and must be taken down. It proclaims that a progressive society establishes state control over the media and fills books, columns, airwaves and cyberspace with red content, red bias, red propaganda, red satire and red fake news. It proclaims that industrial civilization is a system of climate injustice and young people throughout the world must band together, take climate action and dismantle it. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of discrimination against women. It proclaims that capitalism is a system in which children have no rights. It proclaims that capitalism is a system which deprives working people of food, health and economic security. It proclaims that capitalism is a system which marginalizes minority communities. It proclaims that capitalism is a system which denies that people are born free and equal in dignity and rights. It proclaims that capitalism is a system which discriminates against senior citizens. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of mass impoverishment. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of debt slavery. It proclaims that capitalism is a system which withholds vaccines and medicines from the poor. It proclaims that capitalism is a system which rejects the principle of equal pay for equal work. It proclaims that capitalism is a system which discriminates against disabled people. It proclaims that capitalism is a system in which the majority lives below the poverty line. It proclaims that capitalism is a system in which the majority is homeless. It proclaims that capitalism is a system in which the majority lives in emergency accommodations. It proclaims that capitalism is a system in which the majority is deprived of a minimum standard of living. It proclaims that capitalism is a system in which the majority is unable to keep its homes warm during the winter. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of legal assault against women and nonwhites. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of discrimination against people on the basis of their ethnic and national background. It proclaims that capitalism is a network of racism whose ugliness is manifested in action, policy, law and speech. Look at the red takeover of Irish high schools and see the values, practices and progeny of Marxism hammered into students from every paragraph and page of state examination papers. See an educational system transformed into a subservient voice of street hoodlums and urban guerrillas. See volleys of red propaganda shatter the institutions of academic excellence and bury their grounds and buildings in rubble. See the principles and beliefs of the far left bake blocks in ovens marked class war, race war, gender war, man made climate change, a socialist European Union and unrestricted mass immigration, and construct a monstrous tower: a communist dictatorship in the service of women, nonwhites, radical environmentalists, illegal aliens and the poor. See red activists advocate the dissolution of national borders and smashing the gates of human development with bomb detonations marked multiculturalism and migrant rights. See the worshippers of omnipotent government and a redistributionist state shout down the defenders of individual rights. See words in praise of freedom, liberty and the rule of law censored as missiles of violence launched against progressive communities. See the school curriculum transformed into a course of study, subjects, content and skills designed to mass produce young communists and intersectionalist agitators demanding global race, gender and class revolution. See ruthless red Jesuits masquerading as teachers take charge over young minds, rob them of their critical faculties, subvert their powers of reason, discredit their use of common sense, cast aspersions on their sound judgment, undermine their empirical attitudes, equip them with automatic weapons marked identity politics, transgender rights and Black Lives Matter, and give them orders to open fire into the heart and soul of civilization: "The examinations are clearly not about education and debate but the regurgitation of a worldview and value system formed by cultural Marxism. This is pure propaganda well off the Richter scale, and worthy only of a communist state. All the far left shibboleths are in there: class war, climate action, gender ideology, proEU empire, pro mass immigration. The most outrageous section is the fawning survey by Migrant Rights Center about people living in Ireland illegally, what it calls the undocumented. The state is using the education system to form the minds of impressionable and idealistic teens to become handmaids of big government and compliant repeaters of the latest thing, be it trans rights or BLM, when it arrives over from the USA. Parents need to object to the infiltration of this material into the curriculum of schools. It is parents, not the state who are responsible for their child's education. Time for them to take this task seriously." (State Exams Slammed For Containing 'Propaganda' Pushing BLM, 'White Privilege', 'Micro Aggressions' by Peter Caddle, quoting Hermann Kelly). For decades, the national flag of Ireland was a tricolour of green, white and orange. First flown in 1848, the flag signified the rejection of sectarianism and the aspiration toward liberal values. The green stood for Catholics, the orange stood for Protestants and the white stood for peace between the two. In the twenty first century, a fearsome and terrifying new flag has taken the place of the traditional tricolor. It is the flag of global red revolution with its gender, race and class religions and it flies over the ruins of the nation's free institutions.

INDEPENDENCE DAY DISHONORED

Independence Day is a national holiday in America which commemorates the Declaration of Independence, ratified by the Second Continental Congress on July 4, 1776. On this day, the Founding Fathers declared that the thirteen colonies were no longer subject to Britain and were free and independent states. This holiday is celebrated with fireworks, parades, barbecues, picnics and political speeches in praise of the government and traditions of the nation, proclaimed by the people to be institutions of liberty and arsenals of the progress of mankind. Two and half centuries after the first declaration, Independence Day has been rendered a dead letter, a day without force or authority, before a tidal wave of totalitarian politics emanating from religious movements on all sides. Two and a half centuries after the thirteen colonies formed a new nation, the United States of America, the values and ideals for which the revolutionaries died on the fields of Lexington and Concord have been renounced, rejected and tossed into the dustbin of history by a pincer movement of activists worshipping at two satanic altars. Marked Spirit Without Matter and Matter Without Spirit, these altars are tables forming a church constructed upon a dead civilization's rejection of reason. The rejection of reason is the preeminent cause, symptom and death knell of a society in a state of decline and points a path of free fall into total ruination. The rejection of reason is brought by two avatars, by those who reject the world of matter and exalt a supernatural dimension, and by those who reject the world of mind and exalt a jungle of matter and muscles, and these products of mental disintegration have taken charge of America in the present day and ferried it across the rivers of the underworld. Look at their platforms and manifestos, these worshippers of God in Heaven and Government on earth, and see an attack on human cultural development which felled the ancient Romans, overrun by Christians, caesars, mobs and barbarians, and has presently struck America and the West.

Listen to the words of the supernaturalists and the materialists and hear them declare war on the world of common sense, sound judgment, ordinary experience, and mental health and well being. Hear them revere an abode of the dead stalked by spectacles of horror, by heads without bodies and bodies without heads, and promote their terrifying creeds of derangement and disorder. Listen to the monster materialists and hear them promote the religion of their master, Karl Marx, and his heirs and descendants. This creed proclaims that wealth is produced by muscular labor and has nothing whatever to do with intellectual, managerial or entrepreneurial processes. It proclaims that machines create man's ideas and what is called a thought is nothing more than a structure or superstructure of matter. It proclaims that man's machines and his means of production magically change and move by themselves, without the actions of phantom minds or wills, and societies change when changes in these self moving machines bring different economic classes into power, and the highest stage of human development is reached when machines instal the muscular laboring proletariat upon the throne of absolute power. It proclaims that a progressive society has abolished individual rights and freedoms and established social ownership of the mind and body. It proclaims that a progressive society forces the individual to surrender his dignity and take orders from the public, the cooperative and the collective. It proclaims that a progressive society is a democratic socialist society which robs the individual of his freedom through the tabulations of the ballot box. It proclaims that a progressive society is a Soviet socialist society which robs the individual of his freedom through the bayonet formations of an armed minority. It proclaims that the only true form of justice is social justice which distributes wealth, opportunities, rights and privileges on the basis of gender, race or class group membership. It proclaims that a progressive society is a tribalist society which establishes preferential treatment for women, nonwhites and the poor and targets successful, white males for annihilation. It proclaims that a progressive society is an intersectionalist society which places absolute power into the hands of a black proletariat. It proclaims that a progressive society is an intersectional feminist society controlled by proletarian women. It proclaims that a progressive society is a welfare state which establishes cradle to grave economic security for a class of idlers and parasites paid for by confiscatory taxation levied upon the class of producers. It proclaims that a progressive society is a mixed economy in which private businesses are regulated by and subserve the state. It proclaims that a progressive society is a Keynesian society in which government stimulates demand through monetary policy involving printing massive quantities of fiat currency and putting it into the hands of the masses. It proclaims that progressive social theory is critical theory which criticizes the liberal order from the standpoint of race and class and advocates the establishment of a black communist dictatorship. It proclaims that sex has nothing whatever to do with genes, as the findings of science have conclusively demonstrated, and can be changed by means of surgical and chemical interventions. It proclaims that a progressive society is an open borders society whose gates receive the savages of the world invading from all directions. It proclaims that progressive society allows mass unvetted immigration, stampeding plagues of violence, vice, iniquity, terror and superstition, in the name of multiculturalism and moral relativism. It proclaims that a progressive society is a gender tribalist society in which women hold the reins of power and men accused of sexual assault are denied due process of law, are assumed to be guilty as charged, are convicted on the basis of the word of an accuser or upon mass allegations without eyewitness corroboration, are convicted in unfair verdicts which disregard the existence of sexual relations between the accuser and accused after the alleged assaults, are convicted of touching offenses without force or violence, are branded with a permanent mark of Cain and Yellow Badge, and are expelled from the human race. Look at the state of America today and see health care proclaimed as a universal human right to be financed by robbing Peter to pay Paul. See statist government exalted as a friend of the people. See social progress defined as the redistribution of hard earned wealth and an inexorable, straight line development into an egalitarian swampland. See a progressive society proclaimed to be a social welfare program and administration of entitlements designed to place the masses on emperors' thrones and feed money into the troughs of swine: "Hugs, backslapping, and a generous side portion of dewy eyed reminiscing. All that and more will be on the menu Tuesday when former President Barack Obama visits the White House for lunch with President Joe Biden ahead of an event touting the Affordable Care Act (ACA), also known as Obamacare. 'They are real friends, not just Washington friends,' White House press secretary Jen Psaki confided at Monday's briefing as she detailed the planned event. Biden and Obama are joining over a meal to mark the twelfth anniversary of the law that back in 2010 the then vice president had memorably called a 'big (expletive) deal.' Vice President Kamala Harris will also be there to offer her applause. Psaki finished by hailing the ACA as an example of Democrat political achievement. 'President Biden and former President Obama both see the Affordable Care Act as an example—a shining example—of how government can work for the American people.' While Obama might not be a regular visitor to the White House, that does not mean his influence on the current administration is in any way diminished. Obama sees the Biden administration as simply a linear progression of his own. As Breitbart News reported, Obama said in an interview published last year his former vice president was finishing the work he began to redistribute wealth through programs like Obamacare. 'I think that what we're seeing now, is Joe and the administration are essentially finishing the job,' he said in an interview with New York Times columnist Ezra Klein. 'And I think it'll be an interesting test. Ninety percent of the folks who were there in my administration, they are continuing and building on the policies we talked about.'" (Barack Obama-Joe Biden Reunion Lunch Hailed By White House: 'They're Real Friends, Not Just Washington Friends' by Simon Kent). Listen to the words of the monster supernaturalists and hear them celebrate victory after a landmark decision handed down by the United States Supreme Court on June 24, 2022. The decision held that the Constitution of the United States does not confer a right to an abortion: "Roe and Casey are overruled; and the authority to regulate abortion is returned to the people and their elected representatives." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, June 24, 2022, Opinion of the Court, written by Associate Justice Samuel Alito). Lauded by the Catholic Church, the Southern Baptist Convention and Christian totalitarians of all stripes and denominations, the decision authorized states to breach the wall of separation between church and state, mandated by the constitution, and establish religion as the law of the land. The decision held that states have the power to declare what the evidence of the senses denies, that an actual human person appears at the moment of fusion of a spermatozoon and an ovum, and that an abortion of this fertilized egg, this zygote, is an act of murder. The decision allows states to declare that what the senses observe as a potential human life is in fact an actual human life, and that an "unborn human being" is a supernatural substance which mystically appears at the moment of conception: "What sharply distinguishes the abortion right from the rights recognized in the cases on which Roe and Casey rely is something that both those decisions acknowledged: Abortion destroys what those decisions call 'potential life' and what the law at issue in this case regards as the life of an 'unborn human being'." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, June 24, 2022, Opinion of the Court, written by Associate Justice Samuel Alito). Conducted under the shadow of a despotism imposed by triumphant factions of Marxists and Christians, America's annual Fourth of July celebrations have been transformed. In the final hours of the nation and the West, they have been reduced to an empty, meaningless charade.

CHINA DOOMSDAY

In the lands of the Far East, bounded by soaring mountains, burning deserts and a vast ocean, a civilization developed which would declare war on the West. Sundered from the rest of mankind by these natural barriers, it had no interest in developing an advanced scientific, technical society and showed fierce hostility whenever it came into contact with the expansive, Faustian spirit which animated Europe. This was the world of China and its attitude toward the West was hatred combined with a desire to steal and appropriate what it would not and could not produce by its own initiative. Worshiping a world of aimless, passive, disorganized wandering, a striving after a mystical Way without meaning or goal, an endless yin-yang oscillation, a limitless, flowing river without order or destination, and a world of landscapes and gardens devoid of individual existence, this civilization never knew such a thing as rational freedom, and for thousands of years never showed interest in such a thing as industrial development, two products of the Western soul. But after its first contact with the West in the late nineteenth century, it decided to acquire the West's technology to add to the arsenal of its all powerful state, while it forever dismissed the West's ideal of freedom. Maintaining its system of subordination of the individual to the state through a nonstop tyranny of dynasties, emperors, revolutionaries, presidents and communist party bosses, China decided to acquire by imitation and theft, and not by independent creation or adoption of the Western spirit, the material fruits of Faustian striving. The early decades of the twentieth century saw Chinese schoolchildren chant prayers and dream of their Dragon, breathing the fire of chaos and evil, subjugating the West, covering the planet through its fearsome combat, and lording over a universal empire: "I pray that the frontiers of my country become hard as bronze; that it surpass Europe and America; that it subjugate Japan; that its land and sea armies cover themselves with resplendent glory; that over the whole earth float the Dragon Standard; that the universal mastery of the empire extend and progress. May our empire, like a sleeping tiger suddenly awakened, spring roaring into the arena of combats." (The Fight For The Pacific by Rene Pinon). The early decades of the twentieth century saw the rise of a generation of Chinese who were as ignorant of and incurious about Western science as they were determined to take it over and feast upon its fruits: "One of the things that most disquiet thinking men is that this new generation, completely neglecting Chinese studies while knowing nothing of Western science, yet convinced that it knows everything, will no longer possess any standard of values. We can only await with apprehension the results of such ignorance united with unbounded pride as characterize the Chinese youth of today." (French Asia by Jean Rodes). The early decades of the twentieth century saw lightning speed progress in China in its appropriation of Western technology: "Could the sage, Confucius, have returned a decade ago, he would have felt almost as much at home as when he departed twenty five centuries before. Should he return a decade from now, he will feel almost as much out of place as Rip Van Winkle, if the recent rate of progress continues." (China And The Powers Since the Boxer Movement by W. R. Manning, in American Journal Of International Law, October, 1910). The early decades of the twentieth century saw Chinese hordes on the march. Armed with Western science, technology and weapons of war, about which they knew nothing and merely worshiped as forms of deadly magic, they hoisted the flag of global subjugation and struck fear into the hearts of civilized people. Seizing the outward forms of the West without their substance or soul, a stampede of barbarians from the Asian steppes advanced across the world and terrorized it with their bloodthirsty cruelty: "The twentieth century Jenghiz Khan threatening the Sun Flag with a Mongol horde armed with Krupp guns may possibly strike the Western sense of humor. But it is not altogether pleasing to contemplate a neighbor of 400,000,000 population with modern armament and soldiers trained on the modern plan. The awakening of China means all this and a little more which we of the present are not sure of. Japan cannot forget that between this nightmare of armed China and herself there is only a very narrow sea." (Does Japanese Trade Endanger The Peace Of Asia? by Adachi Kinnosuke, in World's Work, April, 1909). The twenty first century has seen the shadow of China widen across the West and crash through its gates. It has seen the monstrous face of the far East move into the inner precincts of the free world and threaten its security, infiltrate its politics, subvert its institutions and pirate its technology. It has seen Chinese companies send agents to dig up genetically modified seeds in farms across the West and use them in Chinese agriscience. It has seen Chinese cyber espionage deploy hacking programs to steal Western aerospace secrets. It has seen Chinese intelligence agencies utilize Chinese aircraft companies as fronts in order to extract information on military aircraft from Western aviation experts. It has seen Chinese companies steal technology from Western engineering firms and force them into bankruptcy. It has seen the Chinese government interfere in a Congressional election in New York in order to prevent a critic of the government and former protestor at Tiananmen Square from being elected. It did this by manufacturing a sex scandal and planning an automobile accident. The twenty first century has seen dozens of Chinese military agents masquerade as students and enter the West on student visas. Look at China today and see a juggernaut expand across the waters, islands, straits and archipelagos of the free world. See armies of enslavement march into the territories of civilized nations. See patrols, exercises and missions of subjugation launched against societies dedicated to the preservation of liberal order. See warships and naval activities spread terror in noonday lands lit up by the sacred fires of human rights. See the sovereignty, security and development of the West threatened beneath the dark skies of an Eastern danger. See raging waters churned by vessels of intimidation submerge the progress of lands liberated from fear of the state and bring down the final day of existence: "China's state run Global Times on Wednesday suggested that a recent increase in Chinese naval activity near waters surrounding the Japanese archipelago will soon 'become routine,' as Beijing ramps up its militaristic ambitions across the greater Pacific Ocean. 'The growing capabilities of the PLA [People's Liberation Army] Navy will mean that such activities become routine,' the Global Times quoted Chinese military analysts as saying on July 6, including Song Zhongping, a Chinese 'military expert and TV commentator.' Continuing, the Chinese Communist Party run newspaper explained why Beijing will likely continue to order naval patrols near Japan's maritime territory despite repeated diplomatic protests by Tokyo: 'Japan has been hyping PLA naval activities to raise rhetoric on the China threat theory, but it is Japan that has been repeatedly provoking China over Taiwan and other questions in the first place.' Chinese warships' activities are more than about deterring Japan, as China is aiming to build a blue water navy that goes farther into distant waters for alert patrols, exercises and missions to safeguard China's sovereignty, security and development interests, Song said, noting that Japan only feels it is special because of its location, as Chinese vessels that want to enter the Pacific Ocean need to make transits through these straits near Japan." (China Tells Japan To Get Used To 'Routine' Military Threats by Gabrielle Reyes). Look at China today and see its spies hound the voices of freedom to the ends of the earth. See its intelligence services pursue protestors on behalf of human rights. See its agents harass dissidents from tyranny. See its thugs travel to distant lands and persecute the opponents of an authoritarian state. See its enforcers slander activists for a free government. See its operatives spread misinformation on the champions of a civilized society. See its officers seek to capture the campaigners for law and morality and bring them back to its prison. See an immense ganglion of fear and intimidation reach out from Beijing and strangle the traditions and institutions of human advancement: "As a long time dissident and California based opponent of the Chinese government, Arthur Liu--the father of US Olympic figure skater Alyssa Liu--was not particularly surprised when a phone call came from the FBI. 'They told me that the Chinese government had sent spies over to the Bay Area to gather me and my daughter's passport information,' he told the BBC. 'I wouldn't say I was shocked. But I thought to myself, 'wow'--they're taking this very seriously.' At first, Mr Liu didn't make the connection: A 'fishy' phone call from a man claiming to be from the US Olympic and Paralympic Committee, claiming to be conducting a 'preparedness check' ahead of his daughter's trip to the Beijing Winter Olympics in February 2022. 'I didn't completely realize that it was from someone other than the Olympic committee,' Mr Liu recalled. 'I just decided to do the right thing and not give up any information. That's just not how we normally submit passports.' The man on the other end, US authorities believe, was Anthony Ziburis, a 49 year old former Florida correctional officer and bodyguard. His mission: To spy on and discredit Chinese dissidents on behalf of China's intelligence service. The dissidents reportedly included two American citizens--Mr Liu and Yan Xiong, a retired US Army chaplain and congressional candidate who'd previously been involved in the 1989 Tiananmen Square protests." (Americans In The Crosshairs Of China's Spy Game by Bernd Debusmann). In 1900, China set into motion a fearsome and terrifying organization. Called the Society of the Righteous and Harmonious Fists, it staged a rebellion against the spread of Western influence. The Boxers killed Westerners, destroyed Western property and placed the Western district of Beijing under seige. In the twenty first century, this monster from the Far East has continued its war against modernization and blasted it into the theater of the world. Utilizing the weapons, technology and know how of the West, it has built a global empire of regression in the final hour of mankind.

HARVARD REDS RALLY JEW HATERS

On February 20, 1939, a national socialist rally was staged at Madison Square Garden in New York City. Organized by the German American Bund, 20,000 people attended and were haranged by the Bund's leader, Fritz Julius Kuhn. Flanked by national socialist flags and swastikas, Bundesfuhrer Kuhn boomed Jew hatred through massive loudspeakers and condemned President Franklin Roosevelt, Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, the news media, Hollywood and the capitalist system as the fearsome tentacles of a global Jewish conspiracy to enslave and destroy mankind. The Jew haters are back in business and the public address systems have been turned up to maximum amplification in an Ivy League university in America, in the oldest institution of higher learning in the nation, and in the most prestigious university in the world. The flags, emblems, salutes and martial music which blazed and roared through Bundesfuhrer Kuhn's New York rally have merged and dissolved in an elite college whose alumni, faculty and researchers have included Nobel laureates, Fields Medalists, Turing Award laureates, MacArthur Fellows, Rhodes Scholars, Marshall Scholars, Pulitzer Prize winners, major global entrepreneurs, members of the US Congress and political leaders throughout the world, the most of any university, and reenacted a tragedy of tragedies, a spectacle of horror without precedent in the annals of educational history: the elitest of elite educational institutions renouncing its founding values and ideals and descending into a fever swamp of raw, unvarnished red politics. This is the politics of hatred, hatred of freedom, capitalism and the ideals of the Enlightenment, and it is presently manifested in Harvard, as it was in national socialist Germany and throughout the communist bloc, in an abiding hatred of Jews and Israel, viewed as symbols and embodiments of Western liberal traditions and institutions. Revered throughout the world for providing its students with knowledge, skills and experiences which will enrich them throughout their careers, Harvard has disgraced the license granted to it by the Massachusetts colonial legislature way back in the seventeenth century, and blasted out a manifesto of antiliberal, anticapitalist antisemitism worthy of the communist and fascist movements which have darkened the skies of the West over the past one hundred years. This manifesto proclaims that a progressive university is committed to an unremitting vilification of Israel. It proclaims that a progressive university is the academic arm of Hamas, Hezbollah and Iran, and assists them on campus in their campaign to destroy Israel. It proclaims that a progressive university is a movement for social justice which demands antisemitism as part of its struggle against capitalist oppression and exploitation. It proclaims that Israel is a spearhead of Western capitalist, colonialist cruelty and injustice which has invaded and occupied the homeland of the Palestinian people, and must be subjected to a global campaign of boycott, divestment and sanctions. It proclaims that Israel's settler, colonialist, capitalist society has undermined the health and well being of the native Palestinian population. It proclaims that a progressive university is a seminar, platform and speakers' gallery which advocates the deliberalization, decolonization and deJudaisation of Israel. It proclaims that Israel is a genocidal, capitalist state which has perpetrated a holocaust against the Palestinians. It proclaims that a progressive university teaches its students that a certain equation is necessary to understand in order to achieve human liberation: the equation that capitalism equals zionism equals racism equals mass murder. It proclaims that Israel is a capitalist apartheid state which has locked the Palestinians behind a wall of discrimination. It proclaims that Israel is the world's worst violator of human rights and international law. It proclaims that a progressive university is a fortress and bulwark of anticapitalist, antiIsrael ideology. It proclaims that a progressive university is a Palestinan solidarity committee which organizes hourly demonstrations demanding Palestinian freedom and solidarity and the destruction of Israel. It proclaims that a progressive university is a wall of resistance to global capitalism and its Middle Eastern outpost, Israel. It proclaims that in its campaign to abolish sectarian persecution and religious fear, and establish freedom throughout the length and breadth of its lands, Israel has committed crimes against humanity. It proclaims that capitalist Israel occupies the people's progressive socialist state of Palestine and subjects its citizens to daily acts of violence. It proclaims that the forces of social justice form a raging wildfire which will engulf and incinerate the capitalist, bellicose state of Israel. It proclaims that Israel's policies of liberal democracy and capitalist freedom pose a grave threat to the Palestinians and must be resolutely opposed. It proclaims that the capitalist soldiers of Israel murder dozens of Palestinian freedom fighters every day and must be blown up. It proclaims that the Israel-Palestine conflict is a conflict between an oppressive capitalist state and an oppressed socialist people, and progressive forces throughout the West must give their support to the cause of Palestine. It proclaims that the Palestinians must be liberated from Israel just as blacks in South Africa were liberated from apartheid. It proclaims that freedom and justice demand the defeat of capitalism in the Middle East and the spread of Palestinian socialism throughout Israel, the Gaza Strip and the West Bank. It proclaims that a progressive society hears Palestine's cry for freedom above the din of Israel's engines of capitalist war and oppression. Look at Harvard's reds and see them condemn capitalism as a system of settler colonialism. See them condemn capitalism as a system of racism. See them condemn capitalism as a system of health inequity. See them condemn capitalism as a system of health deprivation of native, nonsettler communities. See them condemn capitalism as a menace to global health and well being. See them condemn capitalism as a plague of illness and injury to the public. See them radicalize public policy, legal scholarship and health advocacy in a campaign to overthrow capitalist Israel and the capitalist West and lower the curtain on civilization: "Course Purpose and Description Health inequities within and between societies are garnering increased attention, but some historical and structural processes are insufficiently considered despite their significant contributions. This course introduces students to the concept of settler colonialism and its health equity implications for indigenous and settler populations. Utilizing case studies from the United States and Palestine/Israel, comparative analyses in this discussion and lecture based seminar will elucidate universal and particular elements of settler colonial societies while drawing causal chains to their perpetual outcomes: poorer health for indigenous and other nonsettler (arrivant) communities. This course is open to graduate students across the University and is especially salient for those aspiring to engage in public or global health, public policy, legal scholarship, advocacy and activism, human rights, or for anyone eager to explore an alternative framework for understanding the enduring structures that generate racial health inequities in multiple global contexts. Interested undergraduate students will require approval from the Instructor." (The Settler Colonial Determinants Of Health, Winter Session, January 3-7, 2022, Harvard School Of Public Health). Look at Harvard's reds and see them hold seminars, conferences and faculty meetings to slander Israel and the capitalist system. See them demand the destruction of Israel in the name of peace and justice. See them promote anticapitalist, antizionist activism. See them proclaim eternal solidarity with Palestinian socialists. See them store weapons of mass destruction in radical synagogues and commence an assault against Israel and the West. See them promote a religion of Arab, Islamic socialism and launch a boycott, divestment and sanctions movement against Israel, Jews and the traditions and institutions of the Enlightenment: "The Harvard Divinity School program of Religion and Public Life is running events presenting Israel in a negative light. The Religion and Public Life initiative was established in 2019. It integrates a number of existing Harvard Divinity School programs along with seminars, conferences and other activities initiated by faculty, intending to 'strengthen the public understanding of religion across multiple sectors, toward a more creative, just, and peaceful future.' Instead of focusing on peace, they trash Israel. This is not surprising because Palestinian American Hilary Rantisi is the associate director. The radical Israeli academic activist is Atalia Omer, a senior fellow. She was interviewed in 2019 in an article by The Nation on BDS and antiZionist activism, where she discussed her book Days of Awe: Reimagining Jewishness in Solidarity With Palestinians. She revealed that 'the radical synagogue I attend, Tzedek Chicago, invited Omar Barghouti, the cofounder of the BDS movement.' " (Bashing Israel

At The Harvard Divinity School Program by Israel Academic Monitor, February 22, 2022). The University of Berlin was established in 1810 by Frederick Wilhelm III. During the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, it was the world's preeminent university in the natural sciences. Its past and present faculty and alumni include fifty seven Nobel Prize laureates. It is Germany's most prestigious institution of higher education and holds the title of University of Excellence. During the Third Reich, the university went up in smoke before a blaze of antisemitism. Jewish professors were dismissed; doctorates conferred on Jewish students were withdrawn; and tens of thousands of books by Jewish authors were burned. Condemning Israel as a land of occupation, injustice and illegality, the reds in control of Harvard Yard have channeled the 1933 book burners at Berlin's Opernplatz. Behind the dark mask of antisemitism lurks the ugly face of anticapitalism, and the anticapitalists and Jew haters of Harvard have revived the spirit of Berlin in their war against the West.

MORAL RELATIVISM AND ITS MURDEROUS HARVEST

Harvesting is the process of gathering a ripe crop from the fields. It marks the end of the growing season and throughout history has been the focus of celebrations. In Europe, traditional harvest festivals are held in the autumn and involve singing hymns and decorating buildings with baskets of fruit and food. In Satan's dark fields in the depths of space, the Grim Reaper stands with his scythe. He cuts and gathers violence and chaos from the seeds he has sown. As there is no action, phenomenon or condition without a cause which gives rise to it, the whirlwind of bloodshed which has presently engulfed the world is the result of a principle. Implanted by Satan in the black farmlands of the Faustian West, in a culture defined by the belief, by Faust's belief, in the primacy of will and subjectivity, it is the principle of moral relativism. Nothing like this appeared in the springtime of Classical culture, where the ideals of Apollo held sway. This preeminent god of the Greeks symbolized the recognition that the rules of morality are determined by reason and are absolute, and that the essence of man as a rational animal determines what is right and wrong, good and evil. Apollo symbolized the belief that the good of man consists in rational flourishing and whatever thwarts or inhibits the life of reason is evil. The belief that there are no rational rules to determine whether something is right or wrong, that what is considered right and wrong depends on feeling, decision, context or culture, and has nothing whatever to do with the rational nature of man, appeared only during the wintertime of Classical culture, during the dying days of Rome. By contrast, the doctrine of moral relativism is part and parcel of the intellectual fundament which defines the West, comprising a core belief of Faust, and has been a cancer which has haunted the West for the thousand years of its existence, commencing in the evening lands of Germany in 1000 AD. Listen to the voices of Faust and hear them advocate moral relativism in one form or another. Listen to the ideologues of liberalism and hear them proclaim that morality is a purely personal, private, individual affair, that an individual is morally entitled to live any type of life he chooses, and to live a life of an animal, provided simply that he obeys the principle of nonaggression and respect the equal rights of others to live like animals. Listen to the ideologues of socialism and hear them proclaim that morality is purely social in character and is determined by the whims and dictates of society, the state, or a gender, race or class group. Listen to the ideologues of otherworldly religions and hear them proclaim that morality is purely mystical in character and is determined by the whims and dictates of God, and that God can make any action whatever, including mass murder, to be good, and that the individual's sole moral duty is to obey the commands of God, regardless of what these commands are and regardless of the consequences. Listen to the philosophy of David Hume and hear him proclaim that moral values do not rest upon any facts of reality and are merely products of our emotions and sentiments, that statements of facts can never produce normative conclusions of what ought to be done, and that "reason is, and ought only to be, the slave of the passions." (A Treatise Of Human Nature: Being An Attempt To Introduce The Experimental Method Of Reasoning Into Moral Subjects by David Hume). Listen to the preeminent voice of moral relativism in the West and hear him distill the essence of the Faustian creed and encapsulate, in a way no other philosopher has ever done, what it means to be a Westerner and to reject the noonday world of Apollo. Hear him proclaim that man has a single moral obligation, called a categorical imperative. The categorical imperative is a command which must be obeyed in all situations and circumstances without regard to the consequences produced. The categorical imperative comes from the will; it is the product of feeling, intuition and subjective conscience; and has no relation whatever to the objective facts of man's nature as a rational animal. The categorical imperative states: "One must act only according to that command whereby one can, at the same time, will that it become a universal law." (Groundwork For A Metaphysics Of Morals by Immanuel Kant). The categorical imperative states that one should never lie because if everyone was permitted to lie whenever he wanted to, the institution of promise keeping would collapse. The categorical imperative states that one should always obey the orders of one's superiors because if everyone was permitted to disobey orders whenever he wanted, the command structures necessary to organizations would collapse. Focusing on obedience to commands to the exclusion of consequences, Kant's categorical imperative violates the principles of common sense as it throws sanity to the winds. Recognizing that a morality which is unconcerned with consequences is a morality which places itself in the service of evil and is unconcerned with the production of real, actual goodness in the world, sanity and common sense refute Kant's categorical imperative. Sanity and common sense affirm that one should never tell a lie unless there is a rational warrant for doing so, in order to prevent an injustice from taking place, for example, in order to shield an innocent person from inquiries made by a communist secret police. Sanity and common sense affirm that one should never disobey the orders of one's superiors unless there is a rational warrant for doing so, unless, if by obeying, there occurs a violation of fundamental justice, human rights or the rule of law. The Kantian argument that orders are orders is false. An order the implementation of which results in a violation of fundamental justice, human rights or the rule of law is not a legitimate order but a series of sounds which grate in the air and a series of words which deface a page. Lacking rational warrant, it lacks moral authority and moral reality, and must be disobeyed. Sanity and common sense affirm that legitimate orders are legitimate orders, while illegitimate orders are illegitimate orders. Exalting the performance of duty without the concern for consequences, Kant's morality transforms man into a robot equipped with a flamethrower ready to incinerate free people and reduce the innocent to ashes. Denying that morality has anything to do with doing good in the world or enabling man, the rational animal, to flourish in a rational manner, the philosophers of the Faustian West have thundered their creeds from the Mount Sinai of pure subjectivity and sent them roaring down the corridors of history. Elevating the forces of feeling, intuition, passion, decision and the legislation of the will to the status of holy absolutes, the voices of Faust have brought forth a whirlwind of horror which has submerged the world in blood. Look at the world of

Faust, a world without precedent in the history of mankind, and see an epidemic mass murder follow from moral relativism as surely as a conclusion in logic follows from its premises. See Robert Crimo, the perpetrator of a mass shooting at an Independence Day parade in Highland Park in 2022 which claimed the lives of seven people. See Crimo's online videos, images, messages and songs, which one and all reveal a morbid fascination with violence. Look at a civilized nation and see it transformed into a crime scene pock marked by acts of senseless cruelty. See people struck down by missiles bearing twisted whims. See savages armed with arrows and crossbows propel an assault commanded by feeling and will through shops and squares. See monsters unbound by any concern for the consequences of their acts walk through city centers and claim their victims. See the dead, the dying, the wounded and the hospitalized bury the march of human advancement. See Western culture become dangerously ill, flail about in need of moral observation and treatment, and descend into violent convulsions which destroy the world: "A man armed with a bow fired arrows at shoppers in a small Norwegian town Wednesday, killing five people before he was arrested, authorities said. The police chief in the community of Kongsberg, near the capital of Oslo, said there was 'a confrontation' between officers and the assailant, but he did not elaborate. Two other people were wounded and hospitalized in intensive care, including an officer who was off duty and inside the shop where the attack took place, police said. 'The man who carried out the act has been arrested by the police, and there is no active search for more people. Based on the information we have, there is one person behind this,' Police Chief Oeyving Aas said. Acting Prime Minister Erna Solberg described the attack as 'gruesome' and said it was too early to speculate on a motive. The prime minister designate, Jonas Gahr Stoere, who is expected to take office Thursday, called the assault 'a cruel and brutal act' in comments to Norwegian news agency NTB. According to police, the suspect walked around downtown Kongsberg shooting arrows. Aas declined to comment on reports that the man used a crossbow, saying only there were 'several crime scenes.' " (Assailant With Bow And Arrows Kills Five people In Norway by Jan Olsen). Look at a civilized nation and see it descend into a maelstrom of mass shootings. See violence break all world records, the use of force propel statistics into the stratosphere and compose new annals of crime, and uncontrolled brutality blast out of the barrels of guns forged in factories churning out doctrines which exalt decision above deliberation, actions above consequences, and obedience to rules unconstrained by reason, sanity or common sense: "Mass shootings like the horrific attack that killed 19 children and 2 teachers at Robb Elementary School in Uvalde, Texas, or the murder of 10 people at a grocery store in Buffalo, New York the week prior, are all too common in the US. There have been 214 mass shootings—defined by Gun Violence Archive as one in which at least 4 people were shot—in the US within the first 145 days of the year. These types of tragedies feel unique to America. In reality, gun violence is a huge issue in many other countries—just none that the US would consider peer. Gun deaths are high in places like El Salvador, Guatemala and Colombia, where gang violence and drug trafficking are prevalent. Among developed economies, no others have nearly as many violent firearm deaths as the US." (Gun Violence In The US Far Exceeds Levels in Other Rich Nations, Bloomberg, May 26, 2022). A picture gallery of agricultural harvesting shows a world being nourished. This is a collection of promise and progress providing for the welfare of mankind: corn harvesting in Finland, rye harvesting in Sweden, sugar beet harvesting in Germany and rice harvesting in Spain. These scenes of reason and science at work and producing have been blackened by a reaping of evil without precedent in the history of mankind. In the twenty first century, one thousand years of Faustian scattering and planting, using seeds marked self expression, individual lifestyles, to each his own, who am I to judge?, obedience to the decrees of society, and obedience to one's passions, laws and will, have brought forth a forest of savagery which has blotted out the sun.

THE RED TOWERS OF AT&T

On March 10, 1876, in Boston, Massachusetts, an inventor and scientist named Alexander Graham Bell entered the annals of history. As Prometheus took fire from the heavens and gave it to mankind, Bell took currents and surges of electricity and gave them to the human voice. On this fateful day, in his laboratory, Bell spoke through a microphone, spoke with electricity, and uttered the words which would extend human communication across the planet: "Mr. Watson, come here, I want to see you." In 1878, Bell's master telephone patent number 174465 became the basis of the Bell Telephone Company. Known today as the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Bell's company established the telephone industry, connected every corner of the earth to the miracle which transmitted voices through wires, and sold telephone equipment to the peoples and nations of the world. In the twenty first century, Bell's company commenced an operation which has defiled and disgraced the vision of its founder. Rejecting Bell's glorious plan for the future, his aim to convert sounds into signals in order to spread, at lightning speed, the voices of knowledge and enlightenment throughout the world, AT&T has become the preeminent voice of red revolution and race politics in the communications industry, and has promoted a manifesto of subversion which has shattered the foundations of the liberal order. The new AT&T, a Bell corporation in name only, utilizing the word and the sound while rejecting the spirit and substance, has transmitted through cable, telegraph, telephone and broadcasting a manifesto to incinerate the values and ideals which have animated free nations for over five centuries, and forge in their place a neoMarxist, neoHitlerite philosophy which voices only the words of rage. This manifesto issued by the transformed and politicized successor of Bell's pioneering company, this declaration of treason against the West, proclaims that racism is a uniquely white trait and blacks by definition cannot be racist. It proclaims that whites must make reparations to blacks for the slavery which existed over a century ago and must give blacks all their money and property. It proclaims that a progressive society has demoralized, defunded, dismantled and disbanded the police. It proclaims that a progressive society is a transgender activist society which rejects the findings of science that sex is genetically determined, and thus innate and immutable, and promotes sex change by means of surgery and hormonal therapy. It proclaims that a progressive society indoctrinates its employees in the tenets of critical race theory. According to this theory, the only legitimate social theory is based on criticism, criticism of reason, freedom and the liberal democratic system, and promotes an intersectional tribal system of black proletarian power in its place. The AT&T manifesto proclaims that capitalism is a scourge of racism and white privilege. It proclaims that a progressive corporation agitates for black Marxism in the name of combating the capitalist system of racial injustice. It proclaims that whites cannot confront the reality that they are racist, capitalist oppressors of blacks because they are stricken by white fragility and are mortally afraid of the truth. It proclaims that police departments cannot be reformed because they are weapons of white capitalist power and must be abolished. It proclaims that a progressive corporation mandates that its employees participate in racist programs comprised of black discussion groups, black book clubs, black mentorship programs and black education exercises. It proclaims that a progressive corporation mandates that its white employees confess their complicity in the capitalist system of white privilege, and if they refuse, they will receive negative performance reviews which will result in dismissal. It proclaims that a progressive corporation mandates that its employees sign a pledge to read and study the white racism at the heart of the capitalist system and to "keep pushing for change" to overthrow liberal traditions and institutions. The desire for change should include constant policing of colleagues' speech in order to expose all forms of criticism of gender, race and class politics, which are, one and all, forms of hate speech. If employees refuse to don the mantle of language police, they will be dismissed on the grounds that they themselves are racist. The AT&T manifesto proclaims that if white people want to discover who is responsible for the evil and oppression which afflict the world today, they should look in the mirror, because they are the white racist culprits driving the engines of the capitalist system. It proclaims that white people constitute the fundamental problem which plagues blacks because they are the agents of racism and the wielders of its capitalist police truncheons. It proclaims that capitalism places blacks in chains and bloodies their bodies with the lash of white supremacy. It proclaims that a racist and sexist company which discriminates against white males is a progressive, equitable company. It proclaims that a progressive company has a diverse and inclusive workforce, as opposed to a meritocratic workforce, because it is conscious of race and gender and does not view people as individuals. Look at the world of AT&T and see a corporate communications behemoth reject liberal philosophy and broadcast from its world wide towers words of difference and division. See it reject meritocracy in the name of encouraging diversity. See it champion Mein Kampf style race consciousness in the name of prioritizing equity. See it reject Enlightenment universalism and disconnect people on the basis of race, ethnicity and gender. See it establish a policy of race and gender discrimination, promote preferential treatment for women and nonwhites, and draw up a model, plan and design for the destruction of civilization, entitled: Diversity, Equity And Inclusion: "At AT&T, we're in the business of connecting people. We know that to connect the world, we must reflect the world. For over five decades, we've prioritized equity and encouraged diversity and inclusion. Bringing people together from diverse backgrounds isn't always easy, and it doesn't just happen. But when we take the time to make meaningful connections and understand one another, we often find that our differences are the source of our greatest strengths. In 2021, we continued to rewrite the blueprints for what it means to be a truly diverse, equitable, and inclusive company that brings people Together by Design." (2021 Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Annual Report: Together By Design, AT&T). Look at the world of AT&T and see a global telecommunications giant sullied by a policy of race and gender representation. See race and gender politics dominate every aspect of the workforce, from the frontline to senior management, from the shop floor to the executive suite. See a policy of diversity and inclusion take the place of treating people as individuals and not members of race or gender formations. See the traditional policy of hiring the best and the brightest replaced by the enforcement of race and gender quotas and percentages. See a program of conferences, initiatives and benchmarking surveys established to abolish equal opportunity for all, give preferential treatment to blacks, hispanics and people of color, and sweep away the meritocratic principle at the heart of the liberal order: "Overall, women make up 33% of our global workforce, a percentage that compares favorably to the average across companies in our industry. While the number of women in our US frontline jobs decreased in 2021, representation of women in senior leadership positions increased. The percentage of diversity in our US workforce increased to 47% last year, driven by employees in frontline and management positions. While we still have an opportunity to improve diversity at the senior leadership level, overall the representation of people of color in our workforce significantly exceeds that of other telecommunications companies. To build a diverse and inclusive workforce, we prioritize recruiting and hiring talented people who reflect the world in which we live and work. In 2021, we collaborated with Historically Black Colleges & Universities (HBCUs) and Hispanic Serving Institutions (HSIs), sponsored conferences, completed benchmarking surveys, and supported organizations and initiatives committed to providing an equal opportunity for all. When you look at the results, the extra effort was all worth it." (2021 Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Annual Report: Together By Design, A T & T). Look at the world of AT&T and see a program to lead, sponsor, teach and advise the forces of race hatred. See a policy of rejection of the principle of race blind, meritocratic selection of employees. See a plan to advance black learning, black opportunity, black talent, black leadership and the black destruction of civilization: "At AT&T, we value Historically Black Colleges & Universities (HBCUs) as a rich source of the diverse talent we need to drive future innovation. Today, more than 2,600 HBCU graduates work at AT&T. Since creating opportunities requires investment and nurturing of talent, in February 2021 we launched AT&T University's HBCU Future Leaders Program, a multiyear mentoring and workforce readiness initiative for HBCU students. Through this program, mentees gain access to senior leaders and experts in technology and innovation and benefit from experiential learning and leadership skills development. In November of 2021, we introduced our inaugural class of AT&T Dream in Black Rising Future Makers, recognizing 25 HBCU students who are making a positive impact on their campuses and in their communities." (2021 Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Annual Report: Together By Design, A T & T). In downtown Dallas at the Whiteacre Tower, rising thirty seven stories into the air, is the headquarters of world's largest telecommunications company and the largest provider of mobile telephone services in America. Beginning its history as the Bell Telephone Company founded over a century ago by Alexander Graham Bell, AT&T has changed its line in the the twenty first century. Reaching across the length and breadth of the planet, its columns and pillars of pulsating energy broadcast a message of Marxist culture war during the final seconds of the West.

A MAN AND A WOMAN

The exception that proves the rule is a well known saying which means that the presence of an exception proves that a general rule exists. It was invented by the Roman statesman and lawyer Cicero in the first century BC, when it made its first appearance in a courtroom: exceptio probat regulam. The saying does not apply to the world of nature, where actions invariably follow from the natures of the things which act, so that water always conducts electricity and two and two always make four, but applies to the world of man and society. In the present day, the saying is preeminently illustrated by the general political affiliations of women and blacks. The rule is that women and blacks support red ideologies and vote for the candidates of the left. The radicalization of blacks commenced in the 1930s, and the radicalization of women commenced in the 1980s, and for the past half century, women and blacks have turned out in lopsided numbers in support of the Democrat Party, and no other gender or racial group has been as consistent as these in their support for the party. In the 2020 presidential election, ninety percent of black voters and sixty percent of women voters supported Joe Biden, and the founder of Black Lives Matter, Patrisse Cullors, proclaimed: "black people won this election." In the present day, tiny exceptions which prove this rule have made their appearance on the highest court in the land, and taken their place as parts of the legal arm of a resurgent Christian totalitarian movement which vies with the totalitarian left in a struggle to overthrow free peoples and free institutions. Sitting on the United States Supreme Court, Associate Justices Clarence Thomas and Amy Barrett have declared war on the constitution and given voice and expression to the orthodoxies of the Christian church in its revived campaign, after five centuries of dormancy, to reimpose the Dark Ages on the world's arsenal of freedom, and to lower the curtain on the American liberal order. Peddling Christian dogma under the guise of constitutional law, Justices Thomas and Barrett have raised a clarion call in the august sanctum of the nation's highest court to the forces of a primitive faith, and led an assault against the secular order, established by the constitution, which the members of the court have sworn to uphold and defend. Listen to the words of this black and female Christian cohort, these exceptions to the rule of black and female support for communism, and hear its members hoist the banners of otherworldly dogma over the ruins of a nation conceived in the secular world of the Enlightenment. In Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, decided on June 24, 2022, this cohort joined the majority in a landmark decision. Overruling Roe v. Wade and Planned Parenthood v. Casey, the court held that the constitution does not confer a right to obtain an abortion and authorized states to outlaw the procedure. The court's opinion serves as a case study of legal reasoning perverted in the service of religious dogma and the championship of faith to subvert the rule of law. The voices of religion: "What sharply distinguishes the abortion right from the rights recognized in the cases on which Roe and Casey rely is something that both those decisions acknowledged: Abortion destroys what those decisions call 'potential life' and what the law at issue in this case regards as the life of an 'unborn human being'." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, June 24, 2022, Opinion of the Court by Associate Justice Samuel Alito). Sane people are constrained by the counsel that photographs of reality serve as irrefutable arguments for or against the existence of something, and that the method of empiricism provides the only path to knowledge. People of sound mind are compelled to the recognition that there is no substitute for experience in the adjudication of claims about the world, and that the evidence of the senses is the irrefutable stamp and imprimatur which confers truth upon a proposition. Citizens of the world of mental health who have looked at pictures of human fertilization, pictures of human reproductive cells combining pictures of a human sperm and human ovum fusing, do not see any such entity as an "unborn human being". They see the creation of a potential human life and understand that the difference between a potential human life and an actual human person is the difference between an actual zero and an actual something. The voices of religion assert that at the moment of fusion of a sperm and an ovum a mystical substance appears which confers personhood upon the fused zygote. When confronted by the reality that this substance cannot be perceived and is not perceivable, they reply that physical reality is unimportant because man is blind because he sees. While people of sound mind understand that a person is blind because he cannot see, the voices of religion peddle the assertion that a man is blind by virtue of the fact that he sees. In the Dobbs decision, the court allowed states to declare that an actual human person appears at the moment of conception and that an abortion performed at any stage of a pregnancy is murder: "Abortion presents a profound moral question. The Constitution does not prohibit the citizens of each State from regulating or prohibiting abortion. Roe and Casey arrogated that authority. The Court overrules those decisions and returns that authority to the people and their elected representatives." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, June 24, 2022, Opinion of the Court by Associate Justice

Samuel Alito). In its decision, the court allowed states to deny the evidence of the senses and to impose the dogma that the nature of man is that of a supernatural substance and this substance appears at the moment when two gametes combine in the fallopian tube, and allowed states to breach the separation between church and state and establish religious belief as official doctrine, in violation of the First Amendment. The attributes of personhood are the capacity for rational thought and the capacity for independent existence. These attributes do not appear at the moment of conception and do not together appear at any time until birth. A woman in consequence has a right under the Fourteenth Amendment's guarantee of liberty to terminate her pregnancy at the moment of conception or at any time until birth. In the Dobbs decision, the court stated that the right to obtain an abortion is not "deeply rooted in this nation's history and tradition" and is thus not a constitutionally protected right: "That provision [the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment] has been held to guarantee some rights that are not mentioned in the Constitution, but any such right must be 'deeply rooted in this Nation's history and tradition' and implicit in the concept of ordered liberty. Abortion couldn't be constitutionally protected. Until the latter part of the twentieth century, such a right was entirely unknown in American law. Indeed, when the Fourteenth Amendment was adopted, three quarters of the States made abortion a crime at all stages of pregnancy." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, June 24, 2022, Opinion of the Court by Associate Justice Samuel Alito). Justices of the United States are required to take two oaths before they assume office: the Constitutional Oath and the Judicial Oath. The Constitutional Oath, appearing in Article VI, states: "The Senators and Representatives before mentioned, and the Members of the several State Legislatures, and all executive and judicial Officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by Oath or Affirmation, to support this Constitution." The Judicial Oath, set forth in 28 USC Section 453, states: "I, _____, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will administer justice without respect to persons, and do equal right to the poor and to the rich, and that I will faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent upon me as _____ under the Constitution and laws of the United States. So help me God." Nowhere in these oaths is a pledge to protect only those rights which are rooted in the history or traditions of the nation. These oaths are pledges to uphold rights enumerated or implied by the constitution, whether or not they are rooted in the history or traditions of the nation. The substantive interpretation of the Fourteenth Amendment recognises the right of the individual to enjoy life, liberty and property. The rights to life, liberty and property mean the rights to life, liberty and property. Liberty means liberty; A means A; whether or not its scope has been recognized in the history and traditions of the nation. Since human life does not commence at the moment of conception, abortion is not murder, and the right to obtain an abortion is implicit in the concept of liberty. In his concurring opinion to Dobbs, Associate Justice Thomas rejected the right to obtain an abortion because he rejected that the doctrine of substantive due process: "As I have previously explained, 'substantive due process' is an oxymoron that lacks any basis in the Constitution. Text and history provide little support for modern substantive due process doctrine. The notion that a constitutional provision that guarantees only process before a person is deprived of life, liberty, or property could define the substance of those rights strains credulity for even the most casual user of words." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, June 24, 2022, Concurring Opinion by Associate Justice Samuel Alito). In the field of nonfiction literature, all words used have reference to reality. Words without reference to reality, such as unicorn or dragon, appear only in works or contexts of fantasy. The Fourteenth Amendment states: "Nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law." The words life, liberty and property refer to the rights thereof and would not and could not be found in a socialist constitution. In the Soviet Constitution enacted under Stalin in 1936, the phrase life, liberty or property does not and could not appear because the rights implied do not and cannot exist in a socialist society. In the Nineteenth Amendment, the conjunction without is a point of demarcation on either side of which is a right. On the left hand side of the conjunction are the substantive rights to life, liberty and property, while on the right hand side is the right to a fair process before any deprivation of these rights. The 2020 appointment of Associate Justice Amy Barrett gave the Christian totalitarians on the high court the majority needed to overturn Roe v. Wade and Planned Parenthood v. Casey. Associate Justices Thomas and Barrett have made history as a black and female cohort bucking the trend of these two demographics to support communism. Together with the black and female communist majority, they have sought to repeal freedom in America.

REDS TAKE OVER LOS ANGELES

The climate in Los Angeles is hot and dry all year round. It is a Mediterranean climate, a subtropical climate, a climate where the temperatures soar to forty degrees Celsius. In this City of Angels, this Big Orange, this Entertainment Capital of the World, the political temperatures have reached extraplanetary levels and incinerated the free institutions of the city. Set into motion by the radicalization of the nation and the radicalization of the times, a scorching gale force has arrived in the city which has made the early decades of the twenty first century its final decades as a liberal polity. Look at this sprawling metropolitan area, this largest city in California, this second largest city in America and this city with the third largest GDP in the world, and see an expansion of red power which has converted electoral ballots into rifle barrels and blasted a crater of lawlessness and regression across its endlessly spreading 1,200 square kilometers. Look at a city whose four million inhabitants have made communism the unequivocal winner in their elections and installed gender, race and class politics as the supreme law of their charter and home rule. Look at the items of a red capture of the land of Hollywood and see Satan filming, directing and starring in a story whose moving images have sped backward into the nameless eons of communist existence and descended in free fall into the decline of the West. Item. The city's reds have authorized third party ballot harvesting and unguarded drop boxes and have abolished signature verification requirements for mailed in ballots. Item. The candidates for the city's public offices are agents of the Democratic Socialists of America. Item. In Council District 1, red activist Eunisses Hernandez has won office. Proclaiming herself to be an "abolitionist", she advocates the abolition of the police and the prisons. She works for the organization La Defensa, which agitates for this abolition and for the election of communist judges throughout the state. She has authored Measure J, approved in a landslide by city voters in 2020, which ordered Los Angeles County officials to take away 100 million dollars from the jail budget and place the funds into community services. She ordered the county to shut down the city's largest men's jail and replace it with a social services agency. Item. Red activist Kenneth Mejia, running for city controller, advocates the defunding of law enforcement and a guaranteed annual income for all residents. Item. Red activist Paul Koretz, running for city attorney, advocates a one hundred day moratorium on criminal law enforcement in the city and condemns all restrictions on homeless encampments as illegal and immoral. Item. In Council District 11, red activist Erin Darling, supporter of Black

Lives Matter founder Melina Abdullah, is the front runner. Item. In Council District 13, red activist Hugo Soto Martinez is the front runner. Martinez has pledged to fire all police officers and hire social workers in their place. Item. The city's political candidates and officials advocate the unionization of all schools and the abolition of private schools. Item. The city's political candidates and officials support the Democratic Socialist of America's rejection of property rights and the free enterprise system: "We oppose the dominant mode of housing under which most residents of LA must rent their housing from landlords or banks. We support new housing that is permanently affordable and not operated for profit." Item. The city's political candidates and officials support the manifesto of the Democratic Socialists of America. This manifesto advocates collectivism in the name of democracy. It advocates deprivation of individual freedom in the name of advancing the rights of the working class. It advocates universal health care entitlement financed by robbing Peter and to pay Paul. It advocates universal housing entitlement financed by robbing Peter and to pay Paul. It advocates the abolition of industrial civilization in the name of protecting environmental justice and establishing a Green New Deal. It advocates defunding the police and abolishing the jails. It advocates the cancellation of student debt and student responsibility to be financed by those who work. It advocates mandatory unionization of all companies and the reduction of worker productivity in the name of increasing worker protection. It advocates the dissolution of the nation's borders, the abolition of Immigration and Customs Enforcement and the abolition of detention centers for illegal aliens in the name of protecting immigrant rights. It advocates the establishment of an international communist movement dedicated to the destruction of the liberal order in the name of antiimperialism. It advocates a prohibition on campaign contributions to anticommunist candidates for public office. It advocates a campaign to elect communist candidates to all levels of government: "At the root of our socialism is a profound commitment to democracy, as means and end. DSA fights for reforms today that will weaken the power of corporations and increase the power of working people, so that we can enact system change and build a better, socialist world. For example, we support: Medicare for All. Environmental justice and a Green New Deal. Strong unions and worker protections. Defunding police and reallocating funds into communities. Canceling student debt. Housing as a human right. Immigrant rights and abolishing ICE and detention centers. Antiimperialism and international solidarity. Prison abolition. Decreasing the influence of money in politics. Electing democratic socialists to all levels of government." (Democratic Socialists Of America, website). Item. Los Angeles voters have moved to the far left and installed communism at every level of power. They have cast red ballots by the thousands for the totalitarian enemies of America. They have answered the door knocks of those who seek to repeal freedom and greeted them with open arms. They have emboldened a movement to communize the nation under the banners of progressive politics and supported this movement in every district of the city. They have launched a wave of communist revolutionaries, impossible to stop or prevent, which has swept into every office in the city. They have fought for communist enslavement in the name of fighting against capitalist reaction. They have created a snow slide of socialist votes which has buried liberal institutions. They have championed communist dictatorship in the name of the rights of the working class. They have advocated confiscating hard earned wealth in order to provide housing for all. They have rejected the principle that when someone breaks the law and does harm to others he should suffer in return, and advocated, in the name of restorative justice, a system in which the offender is treated as a victim and is let off scot free. They have

condemned capitalism as a system of landlord lobbies, police unions and fossil fuel interests. They have organized meetings, memberships and mass vote drives to harass, persecute, slander and defeat the voices of liberty and to fill the streets with office holders whose flag of shame is red totalitarian tyranny: "Results will continue to come in as mail ballots get counted over the next several weeks, but after election night, we are so excited about Los Angeles' early election results. In Council District 13, hundreds of long time and brand new DSA-LA members knocked 35,000+ doors to elect DSA member Hugo Soto-Martinez, and he is well on his way to the general election. At the end of election night, the gap between Hugo and the incumbent was fewer than 400 votes, and that gap has closed more and more with each new ballot release. The incumbent spent nearly $2.5M in this primary, raised from big dollar donations outside of the district, but even that's not enough to beat a movement. This coalition of socialists and LA's progressive labor movement is going to be unstoppable. Though some media are eager to interpret California's election results as evidence that voters are moving to the right, Hugo's victory shows that voters respond to socialists when we organize thoughtfully and root ourselves in the lived material conditions of working class voters. When reactionaries have money and lies they can get ahead like Caruso, and even overwhelm progressive incumbents like Chesa Boudin. But you can't fool all the people all the time. Taking on well established incumbents, LA Council District 1 candidate Eunisses Hernandez and Assembly District 65 candidate Fatima Iqbal-Zubair mobilized DSA members across our chapter to knock doors and build broad coalitions. In CD1, Eunisses faced an avalanche of smear mailers, with nearly $2 million spent supporting the incumbent or attacking her directly, while Fatima's opponent is one of the most heavily funded by fossil fuel money legislators in the state. It's too early to call for Eunisses as each vote bulletin narrows the gap between her and the incumbent, but voters in CD1 showed that many support ideals like restorative justice and housing for all, and are not cowed by tough on crime fear mongering. Fatima's campaign against a heavily fossil fuel funded incumbent progresses to a runoff, and we'll have an opportunity to unseat him with a champion for working people in November. All three of our endorsed member candidates faced massive spending against them from landlord lobbies, police unions, and fossil fuel interests, at times with cartoonish smears and red baiting, but we're demonstrating that organized people can and will defeat them. Capitalist interests are scared of us. Congratulations to all three of our endorsed candidates Hugo Soto-Martinez, Eunisses Hernandez, and Fatima Iqbal-Zubair, and congrats to our membership--we are demonstrating to the people of Los Angeles what the working class is capable of when we organize." (Democratic Socialists Of America, website). Dante Alighieri's fourteenth century epic poem Divine Comedy describes hell. This abode of the dead consists of nine concentric circles of torment located within the earth: "Hell is the realm of those who have rejected spiritual values by yielding to bestial appetites or violence, or by perverting their human intellect to fraud or malice against their fellowmen." An ocean blazing with unholy rejection. A sea of sulphur combusting liberal order and the spirit of reason. A vast expanse of fire burning with communist religion, communist impulses, communist animality, communist violence, communist fraud and communist mental corruption. Such is the sprawl into which Los Angeles has descended by the unanimous consent of its people.

CORPORATE HITLERS PROMOTE DIVERSITY, EQUITY AND INCLUSION

A virus is an infectious agent which reproduces only within the cells of a living organism.

Once inside a host cell, a virus uses the cell to multiply and produce thousands of copies of itself. A virus is a hijacker. It invades living cells, uses those cells to reproduce, and then damages and kills the host. The twenty first century has seen the spread of an ideological virus within the host cells of Western civilization. It has invaded and overwhelmed these cells and placed civilization beneath a shadow of doom. The large scale, corporate controlled business activities of the West are its preeminent engines of wealth creation and technological progress. These corporate activities are more productive than small enterprises; they create massive cost and price reductions through the achievement of economies of scale; they pay higher wages; they generate higher profits; and their research and development arms have led the way in innovation and produced the wonders and marvels of high technology and medical advancement. In the present day, this world of big business, this beneficial concentration of industrial and financial power, has been consumed and blackened by a virus. Serving the masses, staffed by the masses, owned through its shares by the masses, and a faithful window into the soul and psyche of the masses, this world has been invaded and attacked by a red ideological virus which has perverted its traditional aims and missions and composed the final chapter of the story of the West. Big business has become red because the masses who own it and work for it have become red, and its new commitment to the promotion of red ideology has brought forth the end of business as business and its transformation into a political and ideological crusade coordinated with the red takeover of the culture. Every major corporate sector in the world, from agriculture to manufacturing to financial services to energy production, has been stricken by a diversity and inclusion ideology which has festooned executive suites with race and gender swastikas and placed massive, influential, prestigious economic groups in the service of tribalism, illiberalism and hate. Civilized people understand three points about diversity and inclusion policies. They understand that the concern to achieve race and gender diversity and inclusion requires the cultivation of race and gender consciousness. They understand that race and gender consciousness is another name for racism and sexism. They understand that racism and sexism have been outlawed and condemned by every liberal society which has ever been founded at any time and in any place in the history of mankind. In America, this condemnation of racism and sexism is codified in the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution, whose Equal Protection Clause states: "nor shall any state deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." In the European Union, this condemnation of racism and sexism is codified in Article Twenty One of the Charter of Fundamental Rights: "Any discrimination based on any ground such as sex, race, color, ethnic or social origin, genetic features, language, religion or belief, political or any other opinion, membership of a national minority, property, birth, disability, age or sexual orientation shall be prohibited." In the United Nations, this condemnation of racism and sexism is proclaimed in Article Two of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights: "Everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth in this Declaration, without distinction of any kind, such as race, color, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national or social origin, property, birth or other status." In today's corporate establishment, the ideology of diversity and inclusion has assumed control over every aspect of its operations and become the guiding orthodoxy in place of business success and performance. Peddled in the name of equity, this corporate program of race and gender diversity and inclusion is the heir and successor to the Marx and Hitler programs of tribal politics and has produced a manifesto of social regression which has sent civilization racing backward into the dark, nameless eons of violent, communist, caveman existence. This manifesto

proclaims that the business of business is not business but the management of race and gender politics. It proclaims that a progressive corporation is governed by the tenets of critical race theory. According to this theory, the only legitimate social and political theory is based upon a thoroughgoing criticism of the liberal order from the standpoint of intersectional politics. This standpoint sanctions the overthrow of the liberal order by a regime of national socialism, national bolshevism, national communism, national Marxism and black proletarian power. The manifesto of today's corporations proclaims that a progressive corporation is governed by the tenets of gender ideology. According to this ideology, society must be dominated and controlled by women and the term woman includes men who have changed their sex and become women, and such is possible because sex is not a fixed, immutable, genetically determined reality, as science has demonstrated it is, but can be changed by means of surgical and chemical interventions. The manifesto of today's corporations proclaims that capitalism is a system of white supremacy. It proclaims that a progressive corporation teaches its white employees that they are guilty of internalized white supremacy. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of white male privilege. It proclaims that a progressive corporation has prohibited the use of the terms boy and girl in its theme parks on the grounds that these terms imply a genetic, biological basis of sex which does not exist, and can be offensive to transgender individuals who have changed their sex. It proclaims that a progressive corporation promotes the superiority of homosexual to heterosexual relationships in its children's programming. It proclaims that a progressive corporation settles all race and sex discrimination lawsuits in favor of women and nonwhites. It proclaims that a progressive corporation is run by race and gender activists who have transformed it into a platform for the promotion of black and female supremacy. It proclaims that a progressive corporation is a Black Lives Matter protest movement which commits acts of violence and disruption and silences speech in the name of black liberation. It proclaims that a progressive corporation is a center for race politics which promotes black supremacy and calls it racial equity. It proclaims that a progressive corporation rejects the value of customers and ignores the bottom line and promotes, in place of the traditional concerns of a business, the tenets of anticapitalism and the points of the communist party line. It proclaims that a progressive corporation promotes the scapegoating, stereotyping and harassment of whites in the name of achieving racial justice. It proclaims that a progressive corporation avoids disparate impacts upon two groups, upon white males and women and blacks, and ensures that women and blacks achieve equal outcomes, equal hiring, promotion and advancement, with white males, in the name of nondiscrimination. It proclaims that a progressive corporation seeks to achieve a communist impact and governance upon society. It proclaims that a progressive corporation promotes the primacy of radical politics over business excellence. It proclaims that a progressive corporation promotes a communist culture war without regard to whether it suffers in the marketplace for its actions. Look at today's corporations and see a pall of identity group quotas descend upon business operations like a black cloth spread over the coffin of civilization. See corporate boardrooms festooned with diversity and inclusion swastikas. See the principles of meritocracy incinerated in the charnel houses of identity politics and inclusive representation. See hiring and promotion policies controlled by diversity and inclusion statistics. See the executive suite patrolled by diversity and inclusion police. See stock exchanges, listing requirements and government commissions placed in the service of a national socialist movement to impose tribal consciousness and discrimination upon every aspect of society: "Justin Danhof, executive vice president of the National Center for Public Policy Research (NCPPr) and director of the Free Enterprise Project, told Breitbart News on Sunday the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) is allowing the Nasdaq stock exchange to discriminate against 'white straight Christian men' in pursuit of quotas related to ethnicity, race, religion, and sexual preference. In December 2020, Nasdaq proposed changing its listing requirements for corporations on its exchange in pursuit of diversity on corporate boards. The SEC approved Nasdaq's request in August for new disclosure requirements pertaining to the ethnic, racial, religious, and sexual composition of company executives. Nasdaq described its proposal as advancing the cause of diversity to enhance 'inclusive representation' of minorities and the LGBTQ+ community: 'Nasdaq today filed a proposal with the US Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) to adopt new listing rules related to board diversity and disclosure. If approved by the SEC, the new listing rules would require all companies listed on Nasdaq's US exchange to publicly disclose consistent, transparent diversity statistics regarding their board of directors. Additionally, the rules would require most Nasdaq listed companies to have, or explain why they do not have, at least two diverse directors, including one who self identifies as female and one who self identifies as either an underrepresented minority¹ or LGBTQ+. Foreign companies and smaller reporting companies would have additional flexibility in satisfying this requirement with two female directors.' The NCPPr, a conservative think tank that advocates free market policies, sued the SEC on Tuesday after its approval of Nasdaq's proposal to impose ethnic, racial, religious, and sexual quotas in corporate boardrooms." (Justin Danhof: SEC's Diversity Quota Rule Discriminates Against White Straight Christian Men by Robert Kraychick). The first corporate collapse in the West occurred in the late fifteenth century and involved the Medici Bank. The largest and most respected bank in Europe, this Florence company ran up immense debts due to the Medici's family's extravagance and its failure to control the company's managers and declared bankruptcy. Five centuries later, during the wintertime of the West, corporations throughout the world have collapsed. Within an expanse of darkness labeled Diversity, Equity and Inclusion, they have declared moral and spiritual bankruptcy.

CVS DISPENSES RAGE

CVS Health Corporation is the largest pharmacy chain in America. With over 10,000 locations and over 300,000 employees, the company is the nation's largest provider of prescription drugs, over the counter drugs, virtual care services, wellness services, health plans and covid 19 vaccines. Founded in 1963 and headquartered at 1 CVS Drive in Woonsocket, Rhode Island, this fifth largest American corporation has in the twenty first century renounced its founding aim of offering to the public the wondrous results brought from the linkage of medical science and chemistry. It has renounced its founding mission to offer high quality health care to the people and commenced the sale of a new line of drugs for which the people have clamored. Greeted by millions of takers from coast to coast, CVS has become the nation's leading peddler of the drugs of red revolution. Rejecting the traditional aims of science and business, it has perverted the noble callings of the chemist, pharmacist, healer and shopkeeper and transformed its operations into populist platforms for the overthrow of the liberal order. Providing the masses with what they desire most of all during the twilight stages of civilization, it has issued the manifesto of a radical religion. Pandering and gratifying the bestial impulses of the masses and not satisfying their rational needs, it has milled and pounded with its mortars and pestles the dark intoxicants of gender, race and class politics and distributed in every outlet in the land the compounds at the heart of mass rule, molecules minted in Satan's depths which have poisoned the foundations of civilized society. The CVS manifesto for the twenty first century proclaims that a progressive corporation establishes mandatory training programs for its white employees in order that they may reject the white privilege which forms the basis of the capitalist system. It proclaims that a progressive corporation has a mandatory race reeducation program which indoctrinates employees in the tenets of critical race theory. According to this theory, the sole legitimate political theory is based on thoroughgoing criticism of the liberal order and the capitalist system. It launches this criticism from the standpoint of intersectional politics and advocates the establishment of a regime of black Marxism, black Bolshevism, black national socialism and black proletarian dictatorship. The CVS manifesto for the twenty first century proclaims that whites have an unconscious bias against blacks and are hopelessly and ineradicably racist. It proclaims that to be born in the West is to be born into a racist, capitalist system and to see hatred of blacks rain down without surcease from all directions. It proclaims that the liberal order saturates its citizens with racist ideologies and programs young children to hate blacks. It proclaims that a progressive corporation diagnoses the illness afflicting its white employees, the illness of supporting the racist capitalist system, and helps them to become well by voicing unwavering support for black swastika politics. It proclaims that whites constantly hurt blacks by their support for the capitalist system and can only become antiracist by becoming procommunist. It proclaims that individuals are not flesh and blood entities but mere abstractions, networks of group identities, and the class of successful, white males forms an oppressor class and must be subjugated in order to achieve liberation for the oppressed classes of poor, nonwhites and women. It proclaims that whites have no right to feel safe in their streets because they are inherent racist, capitalist oppressors of blacks. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of oppression and injustice against the lords of the earth: women, nonwhites, homosexuals, transgenders, Islamists and illegal aliens. It proclaims that capitalism means systemic racism and is a system of unfair disparagement of blacks, Africans and their savage cultures. It proclaims that a progressive corporation rejects the liberal notion of colorblindness and institutes affirmative discrimination in favor of blacks. It proclaims that a progressive corporation stands up for minorities and the marginalized and reduces its successful, white, male, cisgender employees to the status of a subaltern class. It proclaims that a progressive corporation polices its employees' words and speech and prohibits all forms of criticism of gender, race and class ideology on the grounds that they are forms of violence and aggression against the oppressed classes of women, nonwhites, transgenders, homosexuals and the poor. It proclaims that a progressive corporation requires that its employees engage in politically correct speech which does not offend the sensibilities of far left women, blacks or indigenous people. It proclaims that the history of the West is a history of racist oppression of blacks. It proclaims that a progressive corporation ensures the psychological safety of the underprivileged among its ranks, women, nonwhites, transgenders, homosexuals and the poor, by prohibiting all forms of support for the liberal Enlightenment system which has victimized and oppressed them. It proclaims that a progressive corporation is a politicized corporation which is governed by affirmative action programs which discriminate in favor of women and nonwhites, and is committed to the continuance of race and gender politics despite the fact that it brings about a brain drain in the corporation, and talented employees leave, morale goes down, resentment spreads and business performance suffers. It proclaims that a progressive corporation forces its employees to exhibit racist and sexist behavior and give preferential treatment to women and nonwhites, and to peddle this racism and sexism

under the slogan diversity, equity and inclusion, and it dismisses employees who refuse to engage in "noninclusive behaviors" and insist on treating people equally and with regard only to their talents and abilities. Look at CVS today and see racism and sexism preached in the name of eliminating race and gender bias. See social justice peddled in place of individual justice and people treated as members of groups and not as individuals. See people viewed as community abstractions and not as flesh and blood realities. See employees ordered to implement inclusion policies aimed at women and nonwhites and practice blatant, overt discrimination against white males. See racism and sexism peddled as solidarity and allyship with blacks and women. See capitalism condemned as a system of white power. See the promotion of a diverse workforce in place of a talented and competent workforce. See employees placed under the guidance of experienced, dedicated, trusted proselytizers for the cause of race consciousness, gender consciousness and discrimination against white males. See race based and gender based selection prioritized over the selection of the best and the brightest. See people treated as networks of intersectional identities and special treatment given to black women. See people hired and promoted on the basis of an intersectional checklist and successful, white males excluded from all consideration. See the concern for individual intelligence and competence, to the exclusion of race and gender identity, condemned as noninclusive behavior. See race based and gender based judgment and evaluation permeate every level of the organization, from the senior directors to the shop floor workers. See managerial decisions which discriminate against white males praised as inclusive leadership behavior. See capitalism condemned as a system of oppression and marginalization of women, nonwhites, homosexuals and transgenders. See employees ordered to advertise their identities and demand special treatment if they are black, female, lesbian, transgender or Muslim. See employees ordered to police each other's behavior and to hold each other accountable for noninclusive behavior, and demand the immediate dismissal of anyone who insists on treating his coworkers with equal dignity and respect, without regard to race or gender, and to judging them on the basis of their character and performance and not on the basis of their racial or gender identity. See employees pledge to discriminate against white male coworkers and make personal commitment plans to ensure that CVS is the most racist, sexist, antiwhite, antimale corporation in the world: "A recording from within the confines of CVS Health corporation shows CVS employees receiving 'woke training' pressing them to make 'a personal commitment plan' to 'mitigate bias.' 'Understanding your privileges and how to leverage them so we can support others is a key component in being an active ally,' CVS employees were told on an online call obtained by Fox Business. 'Allyship is the act of advocating for as well as supporting communities other than your own,' the instructor added. 'So being an ally means that we're aware of our own identities as well as the intersectional identities of others. We're recognizing and actively mitigating bias, and we're modeling inclusive leadership behaviors.' At another point in the recording, employees were told to fill out a 'personal commitment plan' outlining ways they pledge to 'take specific action' to 'mitigate bias' and 'practice conscious inclusion' in the next five days, five weeks and five months. 'Making those measurable commitments is an important step to actually making sure that you are moving forward in this journey,' the instructor told employees. 'Wherever you currently are in the journey. We all have room to grow.' Fox Business also obtained slides from the presentation, which provided instructions on how to carry out 'allyship,' including 'seeking to learn about and understand the needs of marginalized people.' Another slide instructs employees in leadership roles to 'source diverse talent' and 'prioritize promoting diverse talent.' " (CVS

Health Training Tells Employees To 'Understand Their Privilege' And Hire Based On Diversity by Andrew Miller and Samuel Dorman). The Green Pharmacy Cross is the universal sign of the pharmacy and appears on pharmacy shops throughout the world. It is overlaid with the Bowl Of Hygieia and the Rod Of Asclepius, ancient symbols of healing, medicine, health and hygiene. At CVS in the twenty first century, these symbols have been disgraced and rendered dead letters. Condemning reason, liberalism and Enlightenment progress in the name of tribal religions and intersectional politics, and this seventh placed corporation on the Fortune Global 500 list has filled the world with poison.

GOOGLE'S RED ALPHABET

Search engine technology, online technology, cloud computing, quantum computing, computer software, ecommerce, artificial intelligence and consumer electronics. These are the activities of the most powerful company and most valuable brand in the world. It is the most visited website in the world, the largest search engine, the largest mapping and navigation application, the largest email provider, the largest office suite, the largest video sharing platform, the largest photo and cloud storage provider, the largest mobile operating system, the largest web browser, and the largest AI virtual assistant provider. Alongside Amazon, Apple, Meta and Microsoft, it is one of the world's Big Five information technology companies and occupies the topmost rank. Its name is Google and a quarter of a century after its founding by two doctoral students at Stanford University in California, it has disgraced its world famous motto and the leading phrase in its code of conduct. "Don't be evil. Googlers generally apply those words to how we serve our users. But Don't be evil is much more than that. The Google Code of Conduct is one of the ways we put Don't be evil into practice." A quarter of a century after Larry Page and Sergey Brin began a research project to devise an optimum search engine, Google has rendered its motto a dead letter by spreading an ideological poison among its staff, its users and throughout the world. Willful, deliberate and malicious, Google's campaign seeks to tear down the structures of liberal, Enlightenment order and construct in their place a regime of cultural regression sped on its way backward by the engines of gender, race and class politics. Headquartered at the Googleplex, at 1600 Amphitheater Parkway in Mountain View, California, a sprawling 200,000 square meter expanse of technological giantism, Google has composed a manifesto of red revolution which has cast a pall over free societies and lowered the curtain on the traditions and institutions of Western civilization built up over the centuries. As wicked and immoral as it is conscious and planned, Google's manifesto has composed a new chapter in the history of evil, a final division, number and title which exalts the appearance of Satan himself, scythe in hand, reaping his harvest of dedicated agitators and propagandists, and ushering the Arctic wintertime of the West. Exposed by decent, educated, law abiding people as Do Evil and Do The Wrong Thing, Google's manifesto for the twenty first century proclaims that capitalism is a system of white supremacy and all people raised under the system are raised to be racist. It proclaims that a progressive corporation has established a racial reeducation program designed to indoctrinate employees in the tenets of critical race theory. According to this theory, the only legitimate political theory is based upon thoroughgoing criticism of liberal values and ideals. It is based upon criticism launched from the standpoint of intersectional tribal politics and it advocates the establishment of a regime of black Marxism, black communism, black fascism, black national socialism and black proletarian politics. Google's manifesto for the twenty first century proclaims that a progressive corporation requires its employees to examine their racial and gender identities and if they are white males to feel shame and embarrassment, to cry, breathe deeply and crawl mournfully, and to place themselves in a subaltern class. It proclaims liberal democracy equals systemic racism and white privilege. It proclaims that the African slave ship White Lion, which landed in America in 1619, encapsulates the capitalist system. It proclaims that every tradition and institution of the capitalist system can be traced back to black slavery. It proclaims that white people and white people alone are the beneficiaries of the capitalist system. It proclaims that all whites are racist in their thoughts, engage in racist behavior, and are the lords and masters of the Enlightenment system of liberal democracy. It proclaims that a progressive corporation is an allyship and comradeship with women and blacks in a campaign to overthrow the capitalist system. It proclaims that all members of the capitalist system are raised to be racist and infant children raised in the system have racist ideas. It proclaims that capitalism is the source of all the world's racism and supporters of the system who deny they are racist evince further proof that they are racist. It proclaims that supporters of the capitalist system who deny their own inherent own racism or the racism inherent in the system must be subjected to round the clock drumbeats of black communist indoctrination. It proclaims that a progressive corporation provides its employees with charts, graphics, exercises and reading lists to make them prejudiced against whites and racist in their thoughts and behavior in the name of being antiracist. It proclaims that a progressive corporation is run by red ideologues who advocate diversity and inclusion in place of race and gender blind selection, and peddle their racism, sexism and preferential treatment of women and blacks as a policy of fairness and equity. It proclaims that America is exceptional in one manner and in one manner only: in the extent of the persecution of women, nonwhites and the poor perpetrated under it. It proclaims that Columbus Day is a commemoration of the white capitalist conquest of the noble savages of the New World and should be abolished. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of weaponized whiteness. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of covert white supremacy. It proclaims that Donald Trump's program to Make America Great Again is a program to intensify the mass murder and genocide perpetrated by the capitalist system. It proclaims that capitalism is a white supremacy pyramid which has buried the life and liberty of women, nonwhites and the poor. Look at Google today and see the prohibition of a free and open exchange of ideas on the grounds that such jeopardizes the psychological safety of the Marxists who staff and run the organization. See an organization in which red beliefs are amplified, reinforced and insulated from all rebuttal. See an organization in which conversations and discussions are placed in a vice grip of censorship and clamped to take out every last ounce of truth and sanity. See an organization in which the rantings of gender, race and class activists endlessly reverberate within a closed system. See an organization in which communists encounter opinions that reflect their own and encounter no other opinions. See a systematic shaming of the voices of liberal dissent. See viewpoint diversity sacrificed upon the altar of political correctness. See the defenders of race blindness, gender blindness and equal treatment to all greeted with open and unremitting antagonism. See red authoritarians enforce ideological lockstep in every office, laboratory and chatroom in the organization. See the defenders of race blind and gender blind meritocracy reduced to outcasts and pariahs and drummed out of the human race. See discrimination on the basis of race and gender defended on the grounds of equity and equality. See liberal policies which prohibit race and gender consciousness swept away by programs to achieve race and gender inclusion and diversity. See illegal and immoral policies of race and gender discrimination defended as social progress, commanded from the boardroom and executive suite, and enshrined in the company's charter and code of conduct. See all criticisms of tribal politics and race and gender bias prohibited as forms of violence and aggression against their proponents. See an organization renounce its mission to advance the world of information technology and don the fiery robes of agitation, propaganda, hatred, prejudice, division, cultural regression and the destruction of Enlightenment traditions and institutions: "Google's political bias has equated freedom from offense with psychological safety, but shaming into silence is the antithesis of psychological safety. This silencing has created an ideological echo chamber where some ideas are too sacred to be honestly discussed. The lack of discussion fosters the most extreme and authoritarian elements of this ideology. Extreme: all disparities in representation are due to oppression. Authoritarian: we should discriminate to correct for this oppression Stop alienating conservatives. Viewpoint diversity is arguably the most important type of diversity and political orientation is one of the most fundamental and significant ways in which people view things differently. In highly progressive environments, conservatives are a minority that feel like they need to stay in the closet to avoid open hostility. We should empower those with different ideologies to be able to express themselves. Alienating conservatives is both noninclusive and generally bad business because conservatives tend to be higher in conscientiousness, which is require for much of the drudgery and maintenance work characteristic of a mature company. Stop restricting programs and classes to certain genders or races. These discriminatory practices are both unfair and divisive. Instead focus on some of the nondiscriminatory practices I outlined. Have an open and honest discussion about the costs and benefits of our diversity programs. Discriminating just to increase the representation of women in tech is as misguided and biased as mandating increases for women's representation in the homeless, work related and violent deaths, prisons, and school dropouts. There's currently very little transparency into the extend of our diversity programs which keeps it immune to criticism from those outside its ideological echo chamber. Microaggression training incorrectly and dangerously equates speech with violence and isn't backed by evidence." (Google's Ideological Echo Chamber by James Damore). In 2015, Google became a subsidiary of a new company called Alphabet. Under the terms of the restructuring, the two founders of Google relinquished their executive posts and became controlling shareholders of the new entity. Students of history saw through this veil of corporate reshuffling and reconstitution and saw the real forces at work which own and control Google. They saw through the screen of holding entities, nominal shareholders and executive titles and saw a monster leering back at them: the activists of gender, race and class world revolution.

RED ARSONISTS INCINERATE AMERICA

A wildfire is an uncontrolled, unpredictable fire in a region of combustible vegetation. Wildfires break out when an ignition source is brought into contact with the vegetation and given sufficient oxygen. Spreading at a rate of 11 kilometers per hour in forests and 22 kilometers per hour in grasslands, wildfires inflict immense damage to human health and property in urban and rural areas. There is a vast, destructive fire sweeping across the world today created and sustained by the vegetation, the dryness, the oxygen, the lightning and the volcanic ignitions supplied by the establishment in its campaign to finance socialism and bankrupt civilization. This is the wildfire of inflation and in America, the leader of the free world and the most prosperous nation on earth, it commenced with the policies of President

Joe Biden. Inflation is caused when the demand for labor and goods rises faster than the supply. This increased demand is caused by massive government spending and the printing of money. When this stimulus is present, an inflationary conflagration commences which devalues the currency to zero and leads to national economic ruination in which people are unable to pay for anything. Look at the sparks, the dryness and the oxygen and see an inferno engulf every man, woman, child and institution in America. Look at the 1.9 trillion dollar American Rescue Plan sponsored by Joe Biden, a fiscal multiplier which has overheated the economy to a state of extraplanetary white heat. Look at the constraints on supply brought about by Joe Biden's war on fossil fuels. These constraints have caused fuel shortages, increased energy prices, and in consequence inhibited production. Look at the wealth taxes, windfall profits taxes and corporate income taxes imposed by Joe Biden, which have caused a reduction in investment and production. Look at the stimulus payments, unemployment benefits, student loan cancellations and moratoriums on tenant eviction, which have artificially increased leisure and consumer spending, while decreasing the supply of labor and the processes of production. Look at the policy of the Federal Reserve Bank to keep on printing money in order to artificially create jobs for blacks. Look at official reports and statistics and see accounts, announcements and analyses of numerical data tell a story of mass impoverishment and mass immiseration brought by the Grim Reaper of a debased fiat currency and government reduced production and their inflationary whirlwind. See the highest price increases recorded in forty years. See the Consumer Price Index increase by nine percent. See food prices increase by twelve percent. See energy prices increase by forty two percent. See gasoline prices increase by sixty percent. See the prices of shelter, transportation and medical care increase by ten percent. See hourly and weekly earning fall in real terms by thirteen percent. Look at a wildfire called inflation and see it blaze out of control across the length and breadth of America's economy. See a lack of proportion between supply and demand and a state of abnormal demand fueled by the state's money presses. See price movements engulf the merchandise shelves of the nation. See across the board price surges make basic goods unaffordable. See a horizontal expansion of skyrocketing prices bring back the nightmare of Weimar Germany. See inflation refusing to moderate and intensifying by the nanosecond. See nationwide inflation calculations consuming gigawatts of power and sending computers into overdrive. See inflation percentages across industries break all bounds and mock all records. See the prices of goods and services throughout the country, the measures and indices of inflation from coast to coast, scale peaks of infinity as the purchasing power of dollars earned through honest work plummets into the abyss. See one dollar spent at the grocery store today purchase ten percent less than it did one year before. See baskets of life's necessities, from food to clothing to medicines, purchased in tens of thousands of retail stores in all fifty states, together with house prices and apartment rents, paint a portrait of a currency worthless, debauched and in terminal decline. See housing costs climb, rents climb, the means of sustenance climb, and consumers in every corner of the nation ground into the dust and disgrace of begging and bankruptcy: "But the White House and the Fed should be careful about declaring 'mission accomplished' when it comes to inflation. Because while the extreme price movements in some items may have peaked in May and June, inflation seems to be broadening out and in the process is likely becoming stickier. As a team of economists at the Dallas Fed recently explained, 'narrowly based, extreme price surges often reflect supply/demand imbalances that can potentially affect prices for a broader range of goods and services. While these imbalances initially show up in PCE components with more flexible, faster moving prices, they eventually bleed into more moderate increases in a broader range of slower moving prices.' Evidence that this is happening now can be seen by looking at two inflation calculations from the Cleveland Fed that attempt to look past the moves at the extremes. The median CPI change was 0.3 percent for the month and 2.3 percent annually, both up from the prior month. The '16% Trimmed Mean CPI'—which ignores prices that move at the extremes—rose 0.4 percent month over month, down slightly from June, and is up three percent annually, a tick above June. In other words, what we saw in July's CPI was not just a fading or moderating of inflation but a horizontal expansion. What's more, particularly stubborn price hikes continued. Housing costs, for example, climbed, with rent rising 0.16 and owners equivalent of rent climbing 0.29 percent. Prices for professional service jumped 0.4 percent and hospital prices rose 0.5 percent. 'Bottom line, this report shows persistent inflation holding firm while transitory inflation ebbed and is likely to soften further going forward,' analysts of Bank of America assert." (Transitory Inflation Is Fading, Sticky Inflation Is Growing by John Carney). Look at America today and see a malignant growth called inflation consume the lives and fortunes of the people. See roaring rates of inflation caused by constraints on production brought about by confiscatory taxation and asphyxiative regulations. See an inflationary monster fed by artificial consumer demand brought about by out of control government spending and money presses running as perpetual motion machines. See people's pocketbooks emptied by the bandits of government induced inflation. See the Federal Reserve Bank create fiat notes out of thin air to finance deficit spending. See a far left agenda to roll back industrial civilization declare war on oil and gas production, create oil and gas shortages, and send oil and gas prices skyrocketing to infinity. See a regime of anticapitalist rules and directives and the nonstop creation of unbacked currency transform the freest and richest nation in the world into a dust bowl of inflation induced poverty blackened by the clouds of state tyranny. See the American Dream, a noonday world of soaring aspirations achieved through hard work and equal opportunity, swept away by an ugly, frightening creature from the swamps which has degraded America's system of money as it has smashed its citadels of freedom: 'During a Tuesday interview on Fox News Channel's Jesse Watters Primetime, Senator John Kennedy (R-LA) weighed in on the record high inflation, which he argued was 'a direct result' of President Joe Biden's policies. Kennedy emphasized that inflation from the Biden administration's policies was 'a cancer on the American Dream.' 'After 18 months, we know what President Biden stands for,' Kennedy stated. 'If you don't know by now, you are as thick as a brick. He believes in bigger government, higher taxes, more spending, more debt, more regulation, open borders, a weaker military and turning cops into social workers. And those policies have hurt the American people deeply. But in no respect, none, has President Biden hurt the American people more than in their pocketbooks. And I'm talking about inflation. Inflation, which is a direct result of the president's policies, is a cancer on the American Dream. And it is rampant. It is unrestrained.' According to Kennedy, the fix to the current inflation crisis is 'pretty straightforward.' He called on the Federal Reserve to 'stop spending.' He also suggested reducing the deficit, freezing all federal proposed federal regulations, returning to energy independence, and extending the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act to lower inflation. 'If you do those things, in my judgment, inflation will start to abate in a matter of months. And if you don't do them, we are just going to continue to be face down in the desert,' he added." (Kennedy: Biden-Created Inflation 'A Cancer On The American Dream' by Trent Baker). Arson is the crime of deliberately setting fire to property. It is the intentional burning of buildings, boats, automobiles or forests. Arsonists use substances such as gasoline and kerosene to ignite, propel and give direction to their fires, and the detection of residues produced by these is a major part of a fire investigator's work. Students of history have investigated the fires of inflation which have ravaged America. They have identified the perpetrators and detected the residues which pave the streets. Government induced inflation through the creation of money first occurred in the early 1970s to finance an exploding welfare state. In the twenty first century, a major attack occurred in the fiscal crisis of 2008 to 2009. At this time, the Federal Reserve lowered interest rates to zero, the government ran up immense deficits through social spending, and the Federal Reserve purchased billions of dollars in bonds to finance this spending. This introduction of new money through a reduction of interest rates and the financing of social spending was called by red economists "quantitative easing." In the past five years, the Federal Reserve has purchased five trillion dollars in government debt and engaged in a massive digital printing of money. America's economy has been set ablaze and burned to the ground by the arsonists and accelerants of communism.

WHITE FLAG OVER UKRAINE

Red Square is the oldest and largest square in Russia and one of the most famous squares in the world. Located in Moscow's historic center, behind the eastern walls of the Kremlin, it is the city landmark of Moscow and its icons include Saint Basil's Cathedral, the most popular cultural symbol in Russia. On May 9, 2022, the annual Victory Day Parade was held in Red Square and Russian President Vladimir Putin had much to celebrate. He celebrated the West's policy of appeasement and surrender in the War in Ukraine and the victory of Russia over the free world. He celebrated the control of the West by the forces of the far left who will not allow the victory of Ukraine. He celebrated the refusal of President Joe Biden to supply Ukraine with a sufficient number of High Mobility Artillery Rocket System units to alter the balance of power on the battlefield. He celebrated the West's refusal to provide Ukraine with necessary long-range air defenses and artillery. He celebrated Italy's promotion of a peace plan which would compel Ukraine to surrender Crimea and Donbas to Russia. He celebrated the policy of Italy and Germany to undermine sanctions by allowing their energy companies to open ruble accounts to pay for Russian oil and natural gas. He celebrated the declaration by French President Emmanuel Macron that Russia should not be humiliated by the West by any demand that it roll back its invasion and withdraw from Ukraine. He celebrated the control of one fifth of Ukraine by Russia. He celebrated Russia's outnumbering of Ukraine's artillery by a factor of twenty to one. He celebrated that the West seeks to achieve peace at any price in Ukraine and views Russia as a rational, moral actor even as it continues its campaign of indiscriminate bombing of Ukrainian civilians. He celebrated that the West lacks the will, the determination and the leadership to defend Ukraine, to defend the rule of law, to defend the principle of nonaggression, and to keep the flame of freedom and civilization burning brightly: "The war in Ukraine puts before us one crucial question: Does the transatlantic free world still want to occupy a position of leadership? Do we still believe in the universality of values such as freedom and the right of national self determination? Do we have determination to defend them? If not, we have already lost our future. However, if the flame that has enlivened our civilization for centuries is still smoldering, it is high time we rekindled it and did everything in our power to save Ukraine." (The Future Of The West Is In Question by Mateusz Morawiecki). At the Victory Day Parade, President Putin celebrated Russia's destruction with impunity of cities and civilian homes throughout Ukraine, a destruction without precedent in Europe since World War II. He celebrated Russia's committing of war crimes with impunity, its coffin cloth of body bags, tied hands and mass graves cast over Ukraine, which reduced a sunlit, free and vibrant land to a dark and silent field of death: "Now that the Russians have left, bodies are being collected by searchers wary of booby traps and mines. The body bags are placed in rows at a cemetery. Some bags aren't fully closed. A glimpse shows the bloodied face of a young person. Another shows a pair of white sneakers. Mayor Anatoliy Fedoruk said the count of dead civilians was 320 as of Wednesday. Most died from gunshots, and some corpses with their hands tied were 'dumped like firewood' into mass graves." (War Crimes Watch: A Devastating Walk Through Bucha's Horror by Cara Anna). At the Victory Day Parade, President Putin celebrated Russia's salvos of slaughter and campaign of genocide, the deliberate destruction of a nation, perpetrated with impunity against the men, women and children of Ukraine: "I am actually a firm believer that we are dealing with a genocide. For me as an external but well informed observer, the tipping point was yesterday morning,' he told Newsweek, following reports from Ukrainian officials that Russian soldiers killed at least 400 Bucha residents as they withdrew from the region amid shocking images of the carnage." (Russia Committing Genocide In Ukraine, Says Holocaust Expert by Brendan Cole, quoting Eugene Finkel). At the Victory Day Parade, President Putin celebrated the deportation of two million Ukrainians to prison camps in Siberia. He celebrated Russia's violation with impunity of the Budapest Memorandum, signed in 1994, which committed it to respect the borders of Ukraine. He celebrated Russia's illegal annexation of Crimea in 2014 and its illegal invasion of Ukraine in 2022. He celebrated Russia's campaign, conducted with impunity, of annihilating Ukraine's infrastructure and industrial base. He celebrated Russia' blocking with impunity of the export of Ukrainian wheat and its creation of a famine in the Arab world, in subSaharan Africa and in Asia. He celebrated the agreement Russia signed with impunity with Chinese President Xi Jinping, which sets forth plans for a new world order controlled by Russia and China, which will outlaw freedom and the rule of law. He celebrated the success of Russia's nuclear blackmail in deterring effective Western support for Ukraine. Look at the policy of the West toward Russia and see talks and negotiations take place for the greenlighting of aggression and the annulment of the global moral order. See banners of disgrace, fluttering in the wind, stained with the colors of placation and pacification. See the bitter fruits of this policy of surrender: the blockage of grain shipments from Ukraine and a shadow of starvation lengthening across the nations and continents of the world. See the evil harvest reaped by this policy of appeasement: the end of Ukraine's freedom, the end of freedom in the West, and the destruction of civilization: "America and the nations of the world cannot continue the pretense that the war in Ukraine can end in a negotiated peace, which mollifies Russia. For such a peace cannot be negotiated with Vladimir Putin. Ukraine must win this war. It must win this war decisively if it is to realize peace, independence and freedom. Same goes for Europe. The transit of ships today carrying grain from Ukraine must be guaranteed by the international community. Over forty percent of Ukrainian wheat is exported to Africa. I know a little bit about wheat, having lived in the state of Kansas. Russian denial of these wheat shipments may result in starvation across multiple continents. Consideration must be given to convoying shipments of grain out of Ukraine. For Ukraine to be victorious, it must be provisioned with the weapons that it needs. And I don't just mean talks inside the Oval Office or the West Wing. You have to deliver the goods." (Speech On Ukraine And A Global Alliance For Freedom by Mike Pompeo, Hudson Institute). Look at the policy of the West toward Russia and see a reprise of the weakness and withdrawal America showed in Afghanistan. See the same music America played in Afghanistan, the music of cowardice and irresponsibility, roll across the blood stained fields of Ukraine. See a repetition of America's performance in Ukraine, a failure to support diplomacy with power and a fear to confront and defeat the enemies of freedom, gave sanction and permission to a murderous rampage conducted by Russia in its attack on international law: "American military power has been the guarantor of my country's promises for decades. It's been the means to give body and shape to my nation's obligations by supporting diplomacy. I used it well for my 1,000 days as Secretary of State. It remains a tool without equal if properly understood, Sadly, the fall of Kabul and the creation by force of an undemocratic government in Afghanistan are assaults on the international system. I believe deeply that the weakness that was expressed in America's undisciplined withdrawal from Afghanistan was interpreted by Vladimir Putin as a green light, recovering from a doomed strategy that spanned decades. The administration which I serve sought to reduce our commitment there in a responsible manner. This planning was cast aside for reasons that seemed to hinge on expectations of or appearances rather than the discernment of realities." (Speech On Ukraine And A Global Alliance For Freedom by Mike Pompeo, Hudson Institute). Look at the West's policy toward Russia and see America's force reduction without order and force withdrawal without fiasco in Afghanistan return in spirit and doom the people of Ukraine. See America's abandonment of Afghanistan return in essence and condemn the soldiers of Ukraine fighting the forces of imperialism and aggression. See America's refusal to defend the people of Afghanistan who fought for their liberty return in substance and condemn Ukraine's war of self defense. See America's inability to respond to and deter the tyranny of the Taliban return as a greenlight by the West to the villains of the Kremlin in their war to upend the peace and security of the free world: "As Secretary of State, I built upon my work as the director of the CIA to aid President Trump in formulating concrete terms that would've allowed for force reductions and withdrawal from Afghanistan but without the debacle and the hard one progress that had been made in that country. And without the risk that we told bad guys all around the world that America was abandoning our friends. What a help established was the certainty of action that should the Taliban renounce operationally or operationally rescind what was agreed, that we would with certainty respond in a way that restored the heart of deterrence. And we did it at a tactical level time and time again. Russia's assaults have exposed the sinners against global security affecting every single American. The United States should never again fight another nation's war. But we must stand ready when people who are willing to fight for their own liberty request support that will not require the dispatch of our armed forces." (Speech On Ukraine And A Global Alliance For Freedom by Mike Pompeo, Hudson Institute). In 2005, President Putin declared that the demise of the international communist movement led by the Soviet Union was the greatest tragedy in history. Since that time, he has sought to reconstitute the Soviet empire. In 2014, he annexed Crimea and occupied eastern Donbas. On February 24, 2022, he launched a full scale invasion of Ukraine. In the grip of cultural reds and civilization degeneracy, the West has allowed Russia's obliteration of freedom in Ukraine to succeed.

DEGENERACY IN DRAG

The Course Of Empire is a series of five paintings created by world renowned American painter Thomas Cole in the early nineteenth century. It depicts the rise and fall of civilizations and the onset of the process of cultural degeneration. Displayed in the picture gallery of the mansion of Cole's patron Luman Reed at 13 Greenwich Street, New York City, the paintings horrified spectators with their depictions of the destruction and desolation of civilization wrought by the Grim Reaper of unreason, vice and corruption. The waning light, the dying day, the late afternoon, the last rays of sunset, moonrise, the dark sky, the savage enemy entering through the gates, and the dissolution of man and his works of reason into the ground of elemental nature. These are the symbols and allegories of downfall and decline depicted in Cole's masterpiece which have cast a pall over civilizations throughout the ages, whenever they have renounced the noonday world of rational intelligence and descended into the Arctic wastelands of religion. The harsh future which awaits civilizations whenever they bid farewell to sanity and enter into the trick mirrors and shifting floors of a mind detached from the outer world has arrived in full force in the West in the present day. It has arrived and crumbled the institutions of man and cast the shades of evening across every aspect of life. It has arrived and thrust aside a fundamental truth known for centuries to civilized people and replaced it by a movement of mental disorder which has composed the tragic epitaph of the West as nothing else has. It has rejected the findings of science that it is impossible for a male to become a female or for a female to become a male. It has rejected the findings that sex is determined by genetic information contained in microscopic threads called chromosomes, and is thus a fixed and immutable reality. It has rejected the findings that the forty trillion cells present in an adult male's body are encoded with XY chromosomes which cannot be changed, while the forty trillion cells present in an adult female's body are encoded with XX chromosomes which cannot be changed. It rejects the findings that a man who takes estrogen and has his genitals surgically changed does not become a woman, and a woman who takes testosterone and her genitals surgically changed and her breasts removed does not become a man. It has established a religion called transgenderism whose manifesto of metastasizing madness has severed gender from birth sex and transformed it into an object of psychotic creation. Composed as the final rays depart from the sun of sound mental health and night glides over a shattered world, this manifesto proclaims that progressive science enables people to medically transition to a gender of their choice. It proclaims that a progressive society enables people to change their sex by changing their first names and pronouns. It proclaims that a progressive society indoctrinates, grooms and recruits children into the cause of transgenderism. It proclaims that a progressive school encourages children to identify themselves as transgender. It proclaims that an official recognition in society that sex is genetically determined constitutes a violation of the human rights of transgender people. It proclaims that biological sex does not exist and gender is an arbitrary social construct. It proclaims that sexual dimorphism has no genetic basis and the differences between men and women in size, appearance and sexual organs can be changed by medical treatment. It proclaims that a progressive school rejects the biological basis of sexual duality and promotes an ideology of gender change whose first targets are children. It proclaims that a progressive school captures children's minds, turns them away from science and reality, and teaches them that sex can be changed by appropriate medical therapy. It proclaims that a progressive school allows students to use the bathrooms and locker rooms of their choice, in accordance with their gender identity, as opposed to their biological sex. It proclaims that a progressive society protects people's gender expression from the demands of reality that they recognize the genetic basis of sex. It proclaims that a progressive society organizes pride parades and drag queen story hours promoting transgenderism. It proclaims that a progressive society establishes taxpayer funded surgical procedures and hormonal treatments for children who seek to become members of the opposite sex. It proclaims that a progressive society encourages transgender activists to utilize social media platforms to persuade girls to undergo double mastectomies and receive injections of testosterone to become boys, and persuades boys to castrate themselves and receive injections of estrogen to become girls. It proclaims that a progressive society enacts a transgender bill of rights which allows transgenders to play on the sports team and the use the public facilities of their choice. It proclaims that a progressive school establishes transgender closets for students which contain clothing, brassieres, underwear, makeup and chest binders to enable them to transition to the opposite sex. It proclaims that a progressive society encourages children to chat about their desire to obtain sex changes and to hide their conversations from their parents. It proclaims that a progressive health agency establishes an infinite number of genders besides male and female. It proclaims that a progressive science recognizes that men can give birth. It proclaims that parents who refuse to validate their children's claims to be transgender must lose custody of them. It proclaims that parents who insist, against their children's wishes, on viewing their children in accordance with their real sex, must pass a series interviews, psychological tests and home visits conducted by mental health professionals before they are allowed to see their children. It proclaims that parents must lie to courts and swear that there are such things as children who are born transgender and that their biological girls and boys may not really be girls or boys. Look at the world today and see the enactment of gender recognition laws which proclaim that people can do the impossible and change their gender. See adolescents encouraged to do the impossible and change their gender. See the proclamation that medical procedures can do the impossible and change people's gender. See the proclamation that corrective medical treatments exist to do the impossible and change people's gender. See the proclamation that there are such things as sex reassignment surgeries which can do the impossible and change people's gender. See the proclamation that hormone therapy can do the impossible and change people's gender. See the proclamation that hospitals can do the impossible and provide services which enable people to change their gender. See people risk multifarious ailments, place themselves in harm's way, bring down the furies of cardiovascular disease, osteoporosis, infertility, cancer, thrombosis and side effects of all stripes and varieties, in their pursuit of the impossible: the transition to a different gender. See public boards, committees, departments and ministries of health and welfare allow individuals to request and obtain the impossible and change their gender. See far left governments in control in every locale in the West, from Spain to Sweden to Sacramento to San Francisco, establish repositories, archives, certificates and data bases to record the impossible, the change of a person's gender, and to set down the unthinkable: the destruction of civilization: "Sweden's leftist government has proposed lowering the age limit for people legally changing gender from 18 to 16 as part of a new gender recognition law. Minister of Social Affairs Lena Hallengren announced the proposal this week, saying the Swedish Social Democratic Party government wishes to allow sixteen year olds to be able to legally change their gender. 'There is a big difference in changing legal gender, where we make the assessment of being able to lower that age limit from 18 to 16 years. When, on the other hand, we talk about the medical sex, which is preceded by doing gender correcting treatments and medical procedures, the age limits remain,' Hallengren suggested. The new law will also make changes to the provision of sex reassignment surgeries, allowing the healthcare system to decide if the person should be allowed the surgery without needing a permit from the National Board of Health and Welfare, broadcaster SVT reports. 'This is an issue where it is the healthcare system that makes the assessment of which care or possibly treatment is the very best. Not politics,' Hallengren claimed. While Sweden was one of the first European countries to see hospitals approve of hormone therapy for children, the Karolinska hospital announced a U turn on the issue last year after reports of side effects on children that had undergone treatment. The hospital changed its guidelines to note that possible side effects of hormone therapy could include cardiovascular disease, osteoporosis, infertility, cancer and thrombosis. Sweden is not the only European country to propose new legislation on legally changing gender: Spain's leftist government has also pushed for a new transgender law that would allow anyone over the age of 16 to change their gender with the Spanish Civil Registry without needing medical treatments. Under the Spanish proposal, a 16 year old would simply need to request their gender be changed and then return in three months to confirm their decision. The individual would then have six months to decide if they wanted to reverse their decision." (Sweden: Leftist Govt Proposes Allowing 16 Year Olds To Legally Change Gender by Chris Tomlinson). History has recorded significant dates marking the paths of civilizational decline. In Classical culture, the path of decline saw the Edict Of Toleration issued by Emperor Galerius in 311 AD, which legalized Christianity in the Eastern Roman Empire. It saw the Edict Of Milan issued by Emperor Constantine in 313 AD, which legalized Christianity in the Western Roman Empire. It saw the Edict Of Thessalonica issued by Theodosius I, emperor of the East, and Gratian, emperor of the West, in 380 AD, which made Christianity the official religion of the Eastern and Western Roman Empires. In the West, the year 2013 marked a milestone on the path of decline. As religion officially displaced reason in the emperors' decrees during the Roman Empire, religion officially displaced reason in 2013. This was the year the American Psychiatric Association removed gender identity disorder from its world famous Diagnostic And Statistical Manual Of Mental Disorders, and no longer considered the desire to reject reality and change one's sex to be a mental illness. This was the year transgenderism was officially declared to be a normal, reasonable, sane belief. This was the year a page was changed in a psychiatric handbook and affixed to the final chapter of the West.

THE NEW RED FBI

On September 6, 1901, Leon Czolgosz took a train to Buffalo, New York and bought a pistol. Eight days later, while President William McKinley was visiting the city, Czolgosz shot him dead. Calling for the overthrow of capitalism and the establishment of communism, Czolgosz sought by his assassination to bring down the government. America was now under attack by the forces of red violence and conspiracy, and on July 26, 1908, Charles Bonaparte, attorney general of the United States, wrote a memorandum. Describing the creation of a "regular force of special agents" to combat the new red menace, this memorandum marked the official birth of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. One hundred years later, in the bitterest of bitter ironies and in a tragedy of epic proportions, this FBI, this federal law enforcement and domestic intelligence agency set up by President Theodore Roosevelt to defend the nation's security from the new and growing threat posed by communism, has fallen under the control of the enemy, and rendered its motto, Fidelity, Bravery, Integrity, a dead letter, as it has disgraced its special agent badges and its official flag. One hundred years later, the FBI has become a rogue, politicized agency devoid of all credibility, an intelligence and security organization serving not the interests of justice but the interests of the reds and their Democrat Party, and has in its headquarters in the J. Edgar Hoover in Washington DC, and in its field offices located coast to coast, placed the rule of law, the constitution, and the survival of liberty under surveillance and under arrest. The items of the FBI's violation of its mission are as numerous as they are frightening, and compose a catalog of treason whose relentless, consecutive entries have strangled and buried the traditions and institutions of freedom. Item. In August 2020, FBI Supervisory Intelligence Analyst Brian Auten falsely described negative information on Hunter Biden as disinformation and caused investigations into Biden to be terminated. In September 2020, the FBI placed its false assessment that negative information on Hunter Biden was disinformation in a secret, special file not subject to ordinary review: "Second, it has been alleged that in September 2020, investigators from the same FBI Headquarters team were in communication with FBI agents responsible for the Hunter Biden information targeted by Auten's assessment. The FBI HQ team's investigators placed their findings with respect to whether reporting was disinformation in a restricted access subfile reviewable only by the particular agents responsible for uncovering the specific information. This is problematic because it does not allow for proper oversight and opens the door to improper influence." (Letter to Attorney General Merrick Garland and FBI Director Christopher Wray from Senator Chuck Grassley, July 25, 2022). In October 2020, Assistant Special Agent in Charge Timothy Thibault ordered that negative information on Hunter Biden, which was verified, corroborated and supported by the execution of criminal search warrants, be permanently sealed and shielded from independent review: "In October 2020, an avenue of additional derogatory Hunter Biden reporting was ordered closed at the direction of ASAC Thibault. My office has been made aware that FBI was responsible for this information were interviewed by the FBI HQ team in furtherance of Auten's assessment. It's been alleged that the FBI HQ team suggested to the FBI agents that the information was at risk of disinformation; however, according to allegations, all of the reporting was either verified or verifiable via criminal search warrants. In addition, ASAC Thibault allegedly ordered the matter closed without providing a valid reason as required by FBI guidelines. Despite the matter being closed in such a way that the investigative avenue might be opened later, it's alleged that FBI officials, including ASAC Thibault, subsequently attempted to improperly mark the matter in FBI systems so that it could not be opened in the future." (Letter to Attorney General Merrick Garland and FBI Director Christopher Wray from Senator Chuck Grassley, July 25, 2022). Item. The FBI deploys counterterrorism weapons to target parents concerned with the spread of Marxist influence in public primary and secondary education. The FBI condemns as domestic terrorists parents who oppose the teaching of gender, race and class ideologies in local school districts. The FBI's Counterterrorism and Criminal Divisions created a threat tag, EDUOFFICIALS, to track parents who sought to halt the political indoctrination of their children. The FBI launched a program to spy on parents who come out in opposition to the social justice agenda promoted by the far left. The FBI commenced investigations of parents opposed to the implementation of covid mask mandates and the teaching of critical race theory in public schools. According to critical race theory, legitimate political theory promotes criticism of capitalism from the standpoint of black communist intersectional politics. In place of liberal democracy, it advocates the establishment of a black proletarian, black national socialist, black swastika dictatorship. The FBI condemns parents opposed to mask mandates on the grounds of unproven health claims and constitutional liberty, and parents to the inclusion of critical race theory in school curricula, as perpetrators of hate crimes and violent criminal conduct: "United States Attorney General Merrick Garland is taking action aimed at addressing the growing number of showdowns taking place between concerned parents and local school administrators over the implementation of critical race theory and other radical leftist curricula and policies. In a memo sent from Garland to the FBI director and United States attorneys on Monday, Biden's attorney general announced a 'partnership among federal, state, local, tribal and territorial law enforcement to address threats against school administrators, board members, teachers and staff.' Garland's memo also teases 'a series of measures designed to address the rise in criminal conduct directed toward school personnel' in the Biden administration's response to a National School Boards Association letter claiming parental opposition to school mandates and woke ideology 'could be the equivalent to a form of domestic terrorism and hate crimes.' " (DOJ Launches Assault On Parents Opposing CRT, COVID Mandates In Schools by Spencer Brown). Item. The FBI downplays violence committed by communist organizations. It minimizes Marxist attacks on lives, property and private businesses. It ignores far left campaigns of vandalism and plunder. It refuses to carry out its law enforcement responsibilities and defend the nation against disturbances and disorders wrought by the reds. In a brazen show of double standards, it condemns crimes committed by white supremacists but not crimes committed by black supremacists or by communists. It pretends not to notice the fear and terror sweeping the nation before a juggernaut of communist revolution. It disregards the antigovernment rampages perpetrated by radical hoodlums. It places the uproars and ransacking staged by gender, race and class activists into categories and subcategories of nonexistence. It pays no attention to movements of brute force and bloody street protests organized by the voices of socialism. It is indifferent to campaigns of subversion launched by the anticapitalist enemies of constitutional liberty. It refuses to acknowledge the Arctic wintertime of hate, communist class hate and communist race hate, which has descended upon America and paralyzed its free institutions. In an act akin to Holocaust denial, it denies the existence of Antifa and Black Lives Matter and the murder, mayhem and crime statistics they inflict upon every nation in the world: "During the misnamed 'Summer of Love', riots, looting, vandalism and political violence was carried out by radical leftists under the (often literal) Antifa and Black Lives Matter banners. The violent leftists besieged federal property, private businesses, law enforcement, and private citizens with costly, deadly, and devastating outcomes. Joe Biden and other Democrats turned a blind eye to the violence for political reasons in a stunning show of hypocritical double standards. In too many cases, Democrats even encouraged more leftist violence. As it turns out, the Federal Bureau of Investigation turned a blind eye to those carrying out the riots and looting too. In a congressional hearing last week titled Confronting Violent White Supremacy (Part VI): Examining the Biden Administration's Counterterrorism Strategy, FBI Assistant Director of Counterterrorism Timothy Langan said that the Bureau doesn't consider Antifa to be an organization, and as such does not have specific information on the group's activities. In response to a question about how much violence or domestic terrorism Antifa committed in recent years from Representative Nancy Mace (R-SC), Langan had nothing to offer. 'Under the antigovernment category or subcategory of domestic terrorism—would that include groups like Antifa or Black Lives Matter, folks who commit violence or acts of domestic terrorism?' Mace asked. 'Well, we don't identify groups but individuals' actions,' Langan responded. 'So if individuals are committing actions that would be in furtherance of antigovernment or anarchist ideals then they would fall into that category.' " (FBI Admits It Doesn't Track Leftist Violence by Spencer Brown). From its inception, the FBI led the West's struggle against communism. It established programs of wiretaps, surveillance and the infiltration of communist organizations. The information obtained by the FBI was instrumental in the conviction in 1949 of twelve leaders of the American Communist Party on charges of seeking to overthrow the government, and the conviction of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg in 1951 on charges of espionage for the Soviet Union. In the twenty first century, this premier law enforcement agency with a national and international footprint was transformed by the new spirit of the times. The unbelievable, unthinkable, unimaginable and inconceivable occurred. This FBI, this global paradigm of a security and intelligence service, became a clear and present danger to the free world.

WHITES WEAR THE JEWISH STAR

On October 24, 1939, in the town of Wloclawek, Poland, SS Oberfuhrer Joseph Kramer issued an order that every Jew in the town had to wear a distinctive sign on the back in the form of a yellow star. On November 23, 1939, the Governor General of Poland, Hans Frank, issued the order for the Jewish Star to apply to all Jews in the country. On September 1, 1941, Reinhard Heydrich, chief of the Reich Security Main Office, decreed that all Jews in the Reich had to wear the Jewish Star. The purpose of this special sign was to stigmatize, humiliate and segregate Jews, to enable the government to watch and control their movements, and to prepare them for deportation to concentration camps and killing centers. Less than a century after the fall of the Third Reich, the spirit of hatred and discrimination has returned to the world, brought by the same religion which created national socialist Germany. The name of this religion is Marxism and, in a first in the history of mankind, it brought the dark furies of class hatred sweeping into free institutions. This fearsome religion commenced the politics of tribalism and rejected the liberal ideals of the Enlightenment. In the twentieth century, a natural, logical and inevitable development occurred and Marxist class tribalism produced offspring. The Marxist path of loyalty to one's tribe and social group veered into the blazing streets of race and gender tribalism, and led to the movements of feminism and black power. The black power swastika bearers, Hitlerites and neoMarxists of the present day have assumed control over society and promoted a plan to stigmatize, persecute and liquidate white people. Rolling into every institution of modern life, this is a plan to establish a black communist dictatorship upon the ruins of liberal democracy and construct a new black Aryan Third Reich upon the final, charred pages of Western civilization. Look at universities across the West and see the establishment of White Accountability Groups which tell white students that capitalism is a system of white privilege and tell them to become allies in antiracism by hating capitalism and hating themselves. Look at the University of Texas and see it proclaim that white people are lashes of racial oppression, injustice, inequity and inequality. See it proclaim that whites must be held accountable for their whiteness and be made to atone for their sin of existing. See it proclaim that whites must become allies and accomplices of blacks in the commission of violent crimes against members of their race "The White Accountability Employee Resources Group at UNT exists to promote allyship, accompliceship, and antiracist work among white employees for racial and ethnic minorities at UNT. It is a space for learning about and combating racial injustice, inequity, and inequality in UNT's programs, policies, processes, and people. Members of the White Accountability ERG will hold fellow white employees accountable for oppressive behaviors and the systems in which those behaviors are tolerated." (University of Texas, Division of Inclusion, Diversity, Equity and Access). Look at the University of California at San Diego and see a program of discrimination against whites peddled in the name of diversity and inclusion. See talks and exchanges held between blacks and whites in which blacks vow to expropriate and destroy whites. See support given to people of color at the expense of the rights of white people and the principle of meritocracy. See whites told to become allies of blacks in a campaign of violent action against whites in order to hold whites accountable for their crime of being white. See capitalism condemned as a system of structural inequity and racism. See whites harassed and persecuted in the name of racial justice. See nonwhites of all stripes and varieties join together in a dedicated, coordinated, cooperative campaign to reduce whites to the status of a subaltern race. See a world war against whites declared in the name of the salvation of mankind: "Why does effective allyship, action and accountability matter for UC San Diego? While our university has made notable strides to becoming a more diverse and inclusive campus, there is still opportunity to advance our efforts in support of our campus community members of color. A look back at Section 4 of the Chancellor's 21 Day AntiRacism Challenge reminds us that one must be willing to engage in effective allyship, action and accountability to help advance racial justice. We start with examining the attitudes, beliefs and behaviors we hold that make us complicit in perpetuating structural inequity and racism. We must then take steps to ground ourselves in the terminology to expand our thinking and enable us to have constructive conversations that support antiracism and ally work. Above all, this work must be done in coordination, cooperation and community with people of all racial and ethnic identities. We are allies, not saviors." (University of California at San Diego, Office for Diversity, Equity and Inclusion). Look at Loyola University in Maryland and see whites told to engage in concentrated thought, reflection, discussions and conversations about the essential evil of being born white. See whites condemned as a plague on nations, cities, colleges and neighborhoods. See capitalism condemned as a system of white oppression. See constitutional government condemned as a system of white supremacy. See a campaign of indoctrination to eliminate the politically incorrect thinking which upholds merit based advancement and equal opportunity for blacks and whites. See the proclamation that society must be purged in every nook and cranny and in every last area and expanse of the twin evils of capitalism and the white race and be rendered the black power equivalent of Judenrein: "It is clear that as a community we are in deep thought and conversation about the injustices that continue to plague our country, our communities, and our campus. Many resources have been offered as we all work to dismantle oppression in our own lives and institutions; we would like to offer white and white passing folks the opportunity to put those resources into action by engaging in deep, meaningful conversations and exercises on antiracism. This will be a brave space to reflect, discuss, learn, grow, and most importantly, keep ourselves and our campus accountable as we continue to work towards dismantling white supremacy in all the spaces that it lives, even (and especially) when that space is inside of us." (Loyola University, Office of Equity and Inclusion). Look at the University of Saint Thomas in Minnesota and see students guided and mentored on how to install hatred of whites as the controlling idea in all their thoughts, feelings, decisions and relationships. See the promotion of hatred of whites as the essence and definition of mental health and well being. See workshops held to encourage students to be brave, bold and unafraid of the law and commit violent crimes against whites. See fiery, intensive discussions held in rooms screaming from every wall with the sights and sounds of race hate, discussions designed to promote antiwhite actions and attitudes in the name of antiracist awakening, and the renunciation of freedom in the name of the black Aryan common good: "White Accountability Workshop is a monthly workshop in a counselor facilitated brave space for students to explore how whiteness and racism show up in our daily lives and systems to affect our thoughts, feelings, relationships, health & well being, community and much more. This is an interactive workshop with video clips, discussion and resources for continued antiracist awakening and action steps to benefit both yourself and the common good." (University of Saint Thomas, White Accountability Workshop). Look at Dominican University and see white students told to confess the sins of their whiteness and to renounce the capitalist system as a lash of white privilege: "Dominican University will be facilitating a series of White Accountability Groups (WAG). The small groups are an opportunity for individuals who identify as white to participate in dialogue on recognizing their whiteness and white privilege. Small groups will meet for eight sessions, over Zoom, every other week on Mondays from 4-5:15 PM, beginning on January 31." (Dominican University To Host White Accountability Groups, in River Forest, January, 11, 2022). Look at the University of South Carolina and see students told to dismantle capitalism in the name of dismantling racism. See students told to speak the words of race hate, communicate with the brass knuckles of brute force, and develop the skills necessary to overthrow the citadels of meritocracy and liberal order. See students told to foment violence in their classrooms, among their peers, among their friends, among their associates and throughout the streets, and launch a holocaust against whites in the name of racial equity and justice: "The purpose of engaging in this project is three fold: 1. To help social work students recognize both their contribution to and responsibility to dismantle racism in our practice and everyday lives; 2. To encourage students to use their voice, power and privilege to enact change in their classrooms, community and practice; 3. To support students in developing skills to host similar groups among peers or colleagues to expand the community dedicated to racial equity and justice." (University of South Carolina, College of Social Work). The Ring Of Thoth is a classic story by Arthur Conan Doyle. It is the story of a man named Sosra, a high priest of the god Osiris, born 3,500 years ago, who discovered an elixir against death. He was unable to administer this elixir to his fiancée, Atma, because she had died before his discovery. Tribal politics has received the elixir of mass culture and become a monster which will never die. Advocating the segregation of the races, forcing white people to confess and atone for the crime of their color, and demanding the establishment of safe and supportive spaces for the commission of murder and mayhem against whites, black power tribalism lords over the world and will sit upon its throne until the end of time.

VERIZON: GLOBAL CARRIER OF RED REVOLUTION

In 1984, the United States Department of Justice mandated that the AT&T Corporation break up its Bell System into regional operating companies. The largest of these Baby Bells was Bell Atlantic, and in 1983, the company changed its name to Verizon. A portmanteau of veritas, Latin for truth, and horizon, the company is the largest wireless carrier in America, with 121 million subscribers, and the largest local telephone company in the nation. Headquartered in Midtown Manhattan, at 1095 Avenue of the Americas, this multinational telecommunications behemoth has dishonored the blend of words which produced its name. The list of its products includes cable television, digital television, internet protocol television, digital media, landlines, mobile phones and telematics. What is conspicuously and disgracefully absent from this list is truth. This preeminent successor to the Bell System, the namesake of the man who gave the world instantaneous, accurate voice communications transcending the bounds of space and time, has cast correctness, precision and commitment to reality to the winds by a new program for employees which promotes far left causes and proclaims that America is a racist nation and capitalism a racist system. This corporate colossus which transmits news and information into every corner of the planet has transformed its premises into a platform for the dissemination of red propaganda and the agitation of its workforce, and shrouded its offices in the darkness of a terrifying religion. This religion of the reds is the ruling orthodoxy of the nation's greatest Bell subsidiary and is broadcast round the clock to the distant reaches of the planet. The program of Verizon, the plan and scheme of the biggest and most prestigious child of the Bell family, involves anything but the imparting of real sights and real sounds of the world, and is focused exclusively upon fomenting revolution and composing the final chapter of civilization in which the institutions of freedom have disappeared forever. Verizon has produced a manifesto of overthrow which has sent the liberal order speeding to the bottom of the ocean of cultural nonexistence, and consumed the daylight waters of reason within the black currents of tribal politics. The manifesto proclaims that a progressive corporation is a race and social justice movement which has declared war on the white world of liberal democracy. It proclaims that a progressive corporation indoctrinates its employees in the tenets of critical race theory. According to this theory, the only valid and legitimate political theory is that which criticizes liberal democracy from the standpoint of intersectional politics and advocates the establishment of a black communist, black proletarian, black Marxist and black Bolshevik dictatorship. The manifesto of Verizon proclaims that capitalism is another word for systemic racism. It proclaims that a progressive corporation practices a conscious inclusion of blacks and women in its workforce and a conscious exclusion of white males. It proclaims that a progressive corporation promotes discrimination against whites in the name of antiracism. It proclaims that a progressive corporation employs diversity trainers to tell white male employees to apologize for their racial and sexual identities and embark on an antiracism and antisexism journey in which they renounce their freedom, dignity and worth. It proclaims that a progressive corporation requires its employees to reveal their race, gender and sexual orientation on an official record in order to facilitate a program of discrimination against white, heterosexual males. It proclaims that individuals are not real but are abstract networks of identity categories, and networks which fall into the categories of white and male form an oppressor class which must be eliminated. It proclaims that capitalism is a system in which blacks are viewed as inhuman, inferior to whites and bereft of souls. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of weaponized white privilege which places black lives in the gravest danger. It proclaims that a progressive corporation is run by race and gender jackboots who enforce discrimination against white males in order to achieve diversity and inclusion. It proclaims that a progressive corporation mandates that its employees engage in conversations about race in which white employees abase themselves and talk about the inferiority of whites to blacks, and black employees vent hatred and rage and talk about the superiority of blacks to whites. It proclaims that a progressive corporation forbids all criticisms of race and gender policies which discriminate against white males on the grounds that such constitute "microaggressions" and "microinequities" against women and nonwhites, and are "indirect expressions of racism and sexism" which make women and nonwhites "feel different, violated or unsafe." The Verizon manifesto proclaims that a progressive corporation mandates that its white employees engage in a "lifelong process of demonstrating accountability with marginalized individuals" by surrendering their jobs, careers, livelihoods and fortunes to women and nonwhites. It proclaims that America needs a new origin story which, unlike the traditional story, comports with the facts of reality. The fact is that

America was not founded on the idea of liberty, as taught in textbooks written by whites, but was founded on the capitalist system of racism and exploitation, and this system forms the basis of present day American life and society. The Verizon manifesto proclaims that America's founding fathers created a capitalist slave economy which inspired the present day system of global capitalism, in which multinational corporations exploit the poor in the same manner as America's original capitalist slave owners. It proclaims that America's police forces were created to protect a two tier society composed of rich whites and poor blacks. It proclaims that America's police forces were created to ensure that poor blacks are segregated geographically from rich whites and that poor blacks are locked up if they do not stay in their designated communities. It proclaims that America's police forces are inherently racist and biased against blacks and must be defunded and abolished. It proclaims that crimes committed by blacks are justified on the grounds that they are protests against the capitalist system of inequality, racism and discrimination. It proclaims that a progressive corporation seeks to accelerate systemic change and overthrow the capitalist system of racism and exploitation. Look at Verizon today and see it place the channels of liberty on its enemies list. See it don the mantle of a far left support group. See it transform itself into a communist pressure organization. See it condemn the voices of freedom as offensive and unacceptable and block them from speaking. See it deprive liberal democracy's media of a public forum. See it take the defenders of constitutional government off the air. See it bankrupt cable frequencies which deliver news undistorted by red propaganda and opinions unclouded by red advocacy. See it shut down political campaigns dedicated to the restoration of individual rights. See it contaminate political discourse with the poison of socialist and tribalist crusading. See it employ communications technology in the service of gender, race and class war. See it bring down the dark hand of suppression upon viewpoints which challenge the radical party line. See this global communications conglomerate, this international paradigm of corporate leftism, this titanic business organization which combines all stages of communications production and distribution in a fearsome concentration of vertical power, this multinational, multibillion dollar cable, satellite and broadcasting monster, spread deception, misreportage and misrepresentation across the world and impel the millions who receive and access its services to invade the citadels of liberal institutions: "One America News (OAN) is at risk of being completely blacklisted by the corporate left after Verizon Fios, the largest pay TV network still carrying OAN, effectively blacklisted the conservative channel following pressure from leftist advocacy groups. A channel carriage contract between Verizon and OAN was set to expire at the end of this month, and Verizon says it will not reach a deal with OAN to renew it. Verizon's decision came after relentless pressure from leftist organizations like Media Matters and Free Press, as well as Democrat politicians. It also followed AT&T owned DirecTV dropping OAN earlier in the year, amid similar political pressure. The blacklisting by two dominant cable carriers in the US is part of a rapidly escalating trend in the deplatforming of conservative media—an attempt to take major conservative cable channels off the air, or to bankrupt them by denying them the cable carriage revenue enjoyed by other channels. As Breitbart News reported last month, Democrat House members Representative Anna Eshoo (D-CA) and Representative Jerry McNerney (D-CA) used their clout as members of the House Energy Committee's Subcommittee on Communications and Technology, which oversees telecom regulators, to pressure carriers into dropping OAN. Via Breitbart News: 'Telecom companies have already had an impact on national politics, with Verizon and AT&T briefly shutting down Trump's campaign texts during the 2020 election, costing him millions of dollars. These conglomerates are vertically integrated, with the major companies also distributing Cable and Satellite TV. As with other concentrations of corporate power, the left hopes to use this to censor conservative viewpoints.' " (Verizon Blacklists One America News Network Following Democrat Pressure by Allum Bokhari). "Mr Watson, come here, I want to see you." Thus were the first words spoken through a telephone, words spoken from its inventor, Alexander Graham Bell, to his assistant, Thomas Watson, in 1876. These words were as clear and distinct as if Watson had been physically present beside Bell. One hundred and fifty years after Bell's communications conquest of time and space, his heirs and descendants at Verizon have blocked the portals of informational accuracy and peddled red distortion to the people of the world.

REDS SHUT DOWN NUCLEAR POWER

Progress is the movement of man toward an improved state. It consists in advancements in science and technology which result in a better human condition. Ages and civilizations predicated upon the power of the mind to think, to understand and to form judgments value the march of progress. Guided by the spirit of Apollo, the ancient Greeks exalted the progress driven by the engines of rational intelligence: "For them, the earliest condition of men resembled that of the beasts, and from this primitive and miserable condition they laboriously reached the existing state of civilization, not by external guidance or as a consequence of some initial design, but simply by the exercise of human intelligence throughout a long period." (The Idea Of Progress by J. B. Bury). During the Age of Enlightenment, Voltaire exalted the progress whose fountainhead was reason and science. In the twenty first century, in the twilight hours of Western civilization, the progress of mankind has been halted by a red attack on energy development. The environmentalist movement has declared war on the supreme form of energy production necessary for the maintenance of modern life because it has declared war on the forms and lineaments of modern life. It has declared war on nuclear energy precisely because of its record and efficacy, and has succeeded in its campaign to discredit the cleanest, safest and most reliable source of energy known to modern man. Demonizing man and civilization as the mortal enemies of Mother Earth, the environmentalist movement has stifled progress for all time to come and sent the West on a fearsome and terrifying course racing backward into the nameless eons before the year zero. Item. The construction of nuclear power has been halted on the grounds that they endanger the habitats of snails and slugs. Item. For the past decade, Germany has been plagued by blackouts, brownouts, shutdowns, energy rationing and skyrocketing utility bills because of the atomausstieg, the nuclear phase out, ordered by Chancellor Angela Merkel in 2011 on the grounds that nuclear power plants cause earthquakes and tsunamis. In consequence, Germany has to import nuclear generated electricity from neighboring countries. Item. In Texas, wind power produces twenty percent of the state's energy. During the winter storm of 2021, wind turbines froze and the resulting power outages led to the deaths of dozens of people. The unreliability of wind power is described in the Dallas Morning News: "Wind power is failing Texas during a record setting heat wave with turbines producing only eight percent of their potential energy output. 'The hottest days have by far the highest demand, but typically have little wind to produce wind power.' (Myron Ebell, Competitive Enterprise Institute)." Item. The waste produced by nuclear plants is five million times smaller by weight and billions of times smaller by volume than the waste produced by coal plants. The waste produced from one year of operation of a nuclear plant occupies less than one cubic meter of space. If the waste produced by a coal plant in one day were inhaled, it would kill one million people; by contrast, if the waste produced by a nuclear plant in one day were inhaled, it would kill one hundred thousand people. Nuclear waste buried in the ocean causes 0.6 deaths per year, as compared with 75 deaths per year caused by coal plant emissions. If all the world's electricity was produced by nuclear power and the waste generated for the next hundred years was buried in the ocean, the radiation exposure to sea animals would increase by under one percent above the present level which is caused by natural radioactivity. Item. Nuclear power has the best safety record of any major source of power generation. During a time span of a half a century, a span of thousands of reactor years which have reached across every region of the planet, nuclear power plants have defined the term safety. While tens of thousands of people have died in coal mining accidents and at oil and natural gas facilities throughout the world, the death toll in nuclear accidents has been forty five, and occurred in consequence of the Chernobyl plant accident in Ukraine in 1986. If allowed to replace the use of fossil fuels and dominate the energy mix used by modern civilization, nuclear power will save countless lives every year: "Those responsible for nuclear power technology in the West devoted extraordinary effort to ensuring that a meltdown of the reactor core would not take place, since it was assumed that a meltdown of the core would create a major public hazard, and if uncontained, a tragic accident with likely multiple fatalities. In avoiding such accidents the industry has been very successful. In the 60 year history of civil nuclear power generation, with over 18,500 cumulative reactor years across 36 countries, there have been only three significant accidents at nuclear power plants: Three Mile Island (USA 1979) where the reactor was severely damaged but radiation was contained and there were no adverse health or environmental consequences. Chernobyl (Ukraine 1986) where the destruction of the reactor by steam explosion and fire killed two people initially plus a further 28 from radiation poisoning within three months, and had significant health and environmental consequences. Fukushima Daichi (Japan 2011) where three old reactors (together with a fourth) were written off after the effects of loss of cooling due to a huge tsunami were inadequately contained. There were no deaths or serious injuries due to radioactivity, though about 19,500 people were killed by the tsunami. The use of nuclear energy for electricity generation can be considered extremely safe. Every year several hundred people die in coal mines to provide this widely used fuel for electricity. There are also significant health and environmental effects arising from fossil fuel use. Contrary to popular belief, nuclear power saves lives by displacing fossil fuel from the electricity mix." (Safety Of Nuclear Power Reactors, World Nuclear Association). Item. Nuclear power plants are shut down on the grounds that any dose of radiation whatever, no matter how miniscule, no matter if it approaches and merges into zero, will cause cancer and birth defects in man. Item. Nuclear power can provide the power necessary to maintain the forms of modernity, the world of information technology, telecommunications networks, teeming offices, humming factories and fully equipped homes, without emitting greenhouse gases. Item. Nuclear power generates cheaper electricity on a larger scale than wind or solar power. The latter require tens times more government subsidies than nuclear power to deliver one kilowatt of electricity. Item. The reds have declared the West a nuclear free and civilization free zone. They have shut down nuclear reactors and shut down the modern age. They agitate in the streets for the abolition of cheap, safe, clean and reliable nuclear power because it supports what they hate most of all: the forward and onward movement of man. They have banished the miracle of the atom because they have targeted the miracle of human success for destruction and stage global celebrations marking their victory. They have sacrificed economic growth on the altar of renewable energy. They have constructed a religion of the mountains, forests, jungles, deserts and oceans and crucified the spirit of man. They have sought to power homes and businesses by endless expanses of nothingness. They have buried the greatest power source of industrial civilization in a cemetery paved with Satan's asphalt of windmills and solar panels. They have dismantled human achievement in the name of saving the planet. They have deported the supreme achievement of energy technology, the production of electricity by means of nuclear fission, to the wilderness of civilizational regression. They have slowed down and halted the development of modern industry in the name of the air, the trees, the water and the animals. They have composed a fearsome agenda and carried it out to completion. The monstrous item implemented is the elimination of all advanced sources of energy, the compelling of people and industries to utilize inferior and unreliable sources of energy, and the forcing of mankind back into the dark ages of superstition, stagnation, primitivism and prehistory: "I just got back from an economic conference in Korea. While I was there the newly elected left of center president, Moon Jae-in, announced a 'nuclear free' era for the nation, starting with the shutdown of a major nuclear reactor. The greens were practically dancing in the streets. But why? Few nations have been as reliant on nuclear power as Korea. In many ways, cheap and reliable atomic energy helped make possible the 'miracle on the Han River'—ie, the swift post World War II economic surge of Korea. President Jae-in says that renewable energy will take its place. From an environmental perspective what is happening in the US, Korea and around the world is asinine. Why would you want to shut down a nuclear plant, which requires at most about 1 square mile of land, to replace that power source with windmills, which would require 300 square miles of land to be paved over? Do environmentalists really believe that green progress means looking out at America's majestic mountains, forests, green oceans, wilderness areas and deserts and viewing miles upon miles of nothing but windmills and solar paneling? The radical environmentalists are insisting that the only energy alternative that will save the planet is wind and solar power—the two options guaranteed to most decelerate modern industrialization and economic progress across the globe. Perhaps that is what the far left really wants: to force mankind to slow down growth and human advancement. If that is their real agenda, then forcing businesses and families to use inferior and expensive energy is a smart strategy." (Why The Greens Hate Nuclear Power by Stephen Moore). The Encyclopedia was a world renowned general reference work published during the Enlightenment. Composed by the leading lights of the age, it reached a mass audience throughout Europe. The Enlightenment's ruling creed of reason is described by contributor Cesar Chesneau: "Other men walk in darkness. The philosopher, who has the same passions, acts only after reflection; he walks through the night, but it is preceded by a torch. The philosopher forms his principles on an infinity of particular observations. He does not confuse truth with plausibility; he takes for truth what is true, for forgery what is false, for doubtful what is doubtful, and probable what is probable. The philosophical spirit is thus a spirit of observation and accuracy." Rejecting the findings of science and the glorious pace of human progress, the reds have spread the cloth of a new religion across the coffin of civilization. It is the worship of caveman existence and it has closed the story of the West.

AMERICA'S RED ARMY

The Red Army was the main military force of the Soviet Union and the main enforcer of communist terror from the Adriatic to the Arctic. Marching under the banners of Marxism, the Red Army cast a pall of massacre in the areas under its control and claimed the lives of millions of people. Marked by ruthless discipline and strict subservience to ideology, the army was a formidable institution and wherever it advanced, millions of men, women and children fled for their lives. Founded by Leon Trotsky, People's Commissar for Military Affairs, in 1918, this body of communist crusaders, this "radical people's militia", this fearsome multitude created to support "the coming socialist revolution in Europe and the world", has returned to life on the shores of the freest nation on earth, and composed for America and the West an epitaph like no other. Commenced in the early years of the twentieth century, the undermining of the authority of America's constitutional system by a mass movement which first peddled communism as a policy of Progressivism, has culminated in the present day in the red takeover of the nation's military. Sending subversion to the ultimate depths of infamy, the transformation of the military into a fighting service fighting for Marxism and its terrifying race and gender offspring has inscribed death by suicide on the tombstone of the nation in letters chiseled and embossed which will thunder out their message forever. Composing a chapter in the history of treason which has surpassed all previous chapters in history in the boldness, brazenness and epic tragedy of its killing and overthrow, staged in the world's arsenal of liberty and the rule of law, the placing of America's warriors under the command of gender, race and class commissars has signaled the irreversible implosion of the West, an unstoppable free fall backward through the corridors of time, and the fearsome onset of the year zero. A cannon blasting out the black fire of a nation brainwashed, indoctrinated and dissipated by red dogmas, the manifesto of the America's new enemies in uniform proclaims that a progressive military rejects meritocracy and in the name of affirmative action and hires and promotes unqualified nonwhite and women candidates. It proclaims that a progressive military stages homosexual pride parades as a central component of the nation's defense. It proclaims that a progressive military promotes the tenets of transgenderism. According to this, sex is not assigned by genes, as the findings of science irrefutably demonstrate, and is thus not a fixed and immutable reality, but can be changed by surgical and chemical means or by simple declarations. The manifesto of America's enemies in uniform proclaims that a progressive military promotes the tenets of critical race theory. According to this, the sole valid and legitimate political theory is based on criticism of capitalism from the standpoint of intersectional politics, and seeks to establish a black proletarian, black Bolshevik and black Marxist dictatorship upon the ruins of liberal democracy. The manifesto of America's enemies in uniform proclaims that a progressive military terminates tens of thousands of high ranking, highly qualified personnel on the grounds that they have refused to take covid vaccinations. It proclaims that a progressive military enforces the proper use of pronouns which reflect the transitions of men into women and women into men. It proclaims that a progressive military tells its members that capitalism is a system of white supremacy, that America's capitalist constitution is racist, and that racist, capitalist America is not worth defending. It proclaims that a progressive military tells its members that America is a white nationalist state and must be transformed into a black communist regime. It proclaims that a progressive military is an arm of Black Lives Matter. According to this movement, capitalism is a system of inequality, racism, discrimination and police brutality against blacks. The manifesto of America's enemies proclaims that a progressive military requires the display of Black Lives Matter flags and shirts, while it bans the display of the slogans All Lives Matter and Make America Great Again. It proclaims that the capitalist system must be overthrown in the name of the liberation of blacks and the poor. It proclaims that a progressive military is a partisan military which promotes the social and political agenda of Marxism and demonizes the liberal democratic system. It proclaims that a progressive military rejects the Enlightenment ethos that there exist individual rights, values and actions and promotes the tribal collectivist politics of gender, race and class. It proclaims that a progressive military tells its members to utilize social media platforms to agitate for social justice and overthrow the nation's system of constitutional rights. It proclaims that a progressive military tells its members that those who are opposed to Marxism are racists, fascists, right wingers, white supremacists and white nationalists and must be immediately and dishonorably discharged. It proclaims that America has traditionally supported a white supremacist military which has defended a systemically racist nation, and the military has happily now been transformed into a black communist fighting force dedicated to the overthrow of capitalism. It proclaims that our racial and gender identities define us, and not our common status as human beings. It proclaims that white males form an oppressor class and must be deprived of all their rights and freedoms. It proclaims that a progressive military compels its members to participate in seminars which state that capitalism is a racist system and all white people in the system are privileged. It proclaims that a progressive military compels its members to spy on each other and report any reading or display of white supremacist literature, which means any literature which defends the capitalist system. It proclaims that far left organizations such as Black Lives Matter and Antifa do not promote extremism and hate but promote liberation for the oppressed and the exploited. Look at America's military today and see the promotion of diversity in place of meritocracy. See the promotion of race consciousness and gender consciousness in place of viewing people as flesh and blood individuals. See capitalism condemned as a scourge of white privilege. See the promotion of race theory and communist theory which criticize liberal values through the lens of black proletarian power. See the organization of red agitation and propaganda training sessions. See the capitalism condemned as an intrinsically racist and evil system. See the promotion of race and gender prejudice and the targeting of white males for exclusion and disenfranchisement. See white males marched up to red Calvary, placed upon the cross of a neoMarxist religion, and made to bear the blame and suffer for all the evils of the world. See the promotion of racism and sexism against white males as a vital strength and necessity for the nation. See the practice of assessing personnel on the basis of race and gender, and promoting negative attitudes toward white males, peddled as diversity, inclusion and equal opportunity education. See military performance, service professionalism and mission success sacrificed on the altars of race and gender politics. See indoctrination in antienlightenment, antiindividualist and anticapitalist ideologies. See the creation of a culture in which people are judged in accordance with their race and gender, an environment in which offensive images of white males multiply and intensify unchecked and unchallenged, and a habitat in which hatred and fanaticism are allowed to grow and flourish and the thoughts and actions of reason's red enemies have assumed command and control: "The Defense Department has resumed its diversity training efforts, after the Biden White House acted swiftly to reverse the Trump administration's controversial curtailment of such programs. The Trump administration moved last September to halt training on subjects including critical race theory and white privilege, and vehemently denounced such training programs as 'unAmerican propaganda training sessions.' In a Sept. 4, 2020, memo, former Office of Management and Budget Director Russell Vought said executive branch agencies had spent millions of taxpayer dollars 'training government workers to believe divisive, antiAmerican propaganda.' In his memo, Vought ordered agencies to identify and then cancel or defund contracts or agency spending for training on critical race theory, white privilege 'or any other training or propaganda effort that teaches or suggests either that the United States is an inherently racist or evil country or that any race or ethnicity is inherently racist or evil.' Within a week, the Air Force began moving to cancel such contracts, as the OMB memo required. And Trump issued an executive order later in September 'to combat offensive and antiAmerican race and sex stereotyping and scapegoating,' which more formally barred federal workplaces, uniformed services and federal contractors from promoting such 'divisive concepts.' However, that has now changed. On his first day in office, President Joe Biden signed an executive order that revoked Trump's order, declaring, 'Our diversity is one of our country's greatest strengths.' Defense Secretary Lloyd Austin followed with a memo rescinding the Trump administration's restriction on diversity training, and the services followed suit. Air Force spokeswoman Captain Leah Brading said in a February 24 email to Military.com that the service followed Austin's instructions. On January 29, the Air Force sent a message to the field allowing units to immediately go back to the kind of training that existed before last September's order, she said." (The Military Is Resuming The Diversity Training That Trump Banned by Stephen Losey). In April 1945 in Berlin, a member of the Soviet Red Army raised the communist Red Flag on the roof of the Reichstag. Emblazoned with the unholy stars of gender, race and class politics, the Red Flag is back in business, unfurled across America's armed forces.

REDS RAID TRUMP

Severe weather is any meteorological phenomenon which causes damage, disruption and loss of human life. Such phenomena include thunderstorms, ice storms, snowstorms, duststorms, hurricanes, cyclones and tornados. Devastating wide geographic areas, these scourges of nature require the sustained intervention of the authorities to protect cities and countries and commence the process of reconstruction. On August 8, 2022, an attack was staged on America which exceeded the damage caused to man by an act of nature because it left free institutions in ruin, could not be mitigated by the authorities because it was staged by the authorities, and portended the end of civilization beyond which reconstruction will be impossible. On this day, under the dark skies of the wintertime of the West, amidst the evening lands of a new anticonstitutional and antiliberal order, the Federal Bureau of Investigation executed a search warrant at Mar a Lago, the personal residence of former president Donald Trump, in Palm Beach, Florida. Involving the opening of Trump's safe and the searching of his wife's closet, the search focused on documents Trump brought to Mar a Lago after he left office which are alleged to be classified. On August 8, 2022, the FBI violated the Constitution. Under the Fourth Amendment of the Constitution, a search warrant may only be issued upon the establishment of probable cause or reasonable belief that a crime has been committed: "The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by Oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized." Under Article II of the Constitution, the president has the power to determine the status of any document, whether it should be judged classified or not, and to move it to any location he deems proper: "The executive Power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America." (Section One). "The President shall be Commander in Chief of the Army and

Navy of the United States, and of the Militia of the several States, when called into the actual Service of the United States." (Section Two). The president is the final authority on the classification of documents in accordance with national security. The president has the power to classify or declassify documents by executive order. The power exercised by the archivist of the National Archives and Records Administration is given to him by the president. The president's judgment concerning the classification or declassification of documents may not be challenged or overruled by any officer, branch, department or administration of the government: "The president's authority to classify and control access to information bearing on national security flows primarily from the constitutional investment of power in the president and exists quite apart from any explicit congressional grant." (Navy v. Eagan, United States Supreme Court, 1988). In consequence of the president's constitutional authority, the search warrant against Trump's residence was illegal and should not have been issued or executed, and any classified documents seized will not provide proof of any illegal behavior. The Presidential Records Act states: "The United States shall reserve and retain complete ownership, possession and control of Presidential records; and such records shall be administered in accordance with the provisions of this chapter." Violating the president's plenary power to judge any document to be classified or unclassified, this act is unconstitutional. The FBI raid on Donald Trump's Mar a Lago residence plunged America into the final chapter of its history. Unpleasant and repulsive to the forces of freedom, this division is composed on Satan's parchment by the hand of the mob. It is bordered and framed by the black lines of extralegal action, unconstitutional abuse, and the application of force and violence: "Joe Biden, Merrick Garland and their henchmen have brought America to a new phase of its history, and it is not likely to be one that is marked by respect for the rule of law or defense of the rights of individual citizens. Instead, we are entering an ugly age of authoritarianism, in which the brute force of the state is used to bend the people to the will of the tyrant." (End Of The Republic by Robert Spencer). In 1913, President Woodrow Wilson commenced a series of military interventions in Latin America which sought to establish the rule of law in Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico and Nicaragua: "We are friends of constitutional government in America; we are more than its friends, we are its champions. I am going to teach the South American republics to elect good men." A century later, the American government has abandoned its commitment to the rule of law and become a weapon in the hands of the red enemies of freedom. The American government refused to raid the home of Sandy Berger, national security affairs advisor in the Clinton administration, who intentionally removed classified documents from the National Archives, concealed the documents on his person and in construction sites, and destroyed them. The American government refused to raid the homes of Hillary Clinton, secretary of state in the Obama administration. Clinton used a private email server to conduct official communications in place of the official State Department server. Clinton's server contained over one hundred emails with classified information, including sixty emails marked Secret and twenty two emails marked Top Secret. Clinton deleted and acid washed 33,000 emails which had been subpoenaed by Congress as part of its investigation into her acts. These acts violated 18 US Code § 1924 regarding the unauthorized removal, retention and destruction of classified documents. The American government has refused to prosecute members of Black Lives Matter and Antifa who staged riots, arson, assaults, occupations and murders in cities across the nation and sent crime rates soaring into the stratosphere. The American government has refused to prosecute Black Lives Matter for its transformation of America into a burning, gutted, looted theater of war blackened by the stench of the dead: "The archeuroseptic [Nigel Farage] urged viewers fixated on the January 6th unrest to compare it to 'the massive rising crime rate, homicides, all of those things happening in American cities, places like Portland—ungovernable, people setting fire to courthouses—I mean, under Biden and under BLM and the plan to defund the police, many American cities are becoming total and utter disaster zones. Trump gets it, he understands it.' " (Farage: Trump Will Run Again, Will Fight On Disaster Zone Cities Ruined By Biden And BLM by Jack Montgomery). The American government has refused to prosecute Antifa for its campaign to destroy freedom in the nation. Rejecting the liberal order and institutions of constitutional government born in the Age of Enlightenment, and worshiping a religion of tribe, class, community and collectivity, the American government has descended into the fever swamps of the far left and its wirepullers in Antifa and the Democrat Party have pushed the nation into the year zero: "Barr [Attorney General William Barr] compared the nationwide riots organized by Antifa to 'a new form of urban guerrilla warfare. The way the guerrilla.hides out among the people as a fish in the ocean. What they do is they are essentially shielding themselves or shrouding themselves in First Amendment activity. They go into the demonstrations, which are exercising First Amendment activity, and they insinuate themselves in there to shield themselves. That's where they swim. And what they do is they hijack these demonstrations and they and they provoke violence.' The group's radical leanings are reflective of the Democratic party's far left shift in recent years, Barr said. The left has 'pulled away from the umbrella of classical liberal values that have undergirded' America and made a 'secular religion' out of seeking 'complete political victory,' he argued." (AG Barr: US Facing New Form Of 'Urban Guerrilla Warfare' Driven By Left's 'Lust For Power' by Yael Halon). The American government has prosecuted the members of the January 6, 2021 United States Capital attack for performing their duty as law abiding citizens by seeking to prevent Congress from certifying the fraudulent victory of Joe Biden. They sought to stop the certification of a fraudulent election which Vice President Mike Pence refused to stop, in violation o his duty under Article II of the Constitution to certify only valid votes: "The President of the Senate [Vice President] shall, in the Presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the Certificates, and the Votes shall then be counted. The Person having the greatest Number of Votes shall be the President, if such Number be a Majority of the whole Number of Electors appointed." (Section One). They sought to stop the certification of an election in which Biden's victory was manufactured by mail in votes, drop boxes and ballot traffickers and the electoral process was sent careening down the dark paths of organized crime: "Dirty voter rolls, the mass use of mail in ballots, and privately funded drop boxes 'combined together to create an easy pass lane for fraud,' as mules—or ballot traffickers—trafficked thousands of ballots, likely altering the outcome of the 2020 election, True the Vote president and founder Catherine Engelbrecht told Breitbart News Saturday." (True The Vote's Catherine Engelbrecht: Mules Went On Routes Trafficking Ballots 'Repeatedly, Day After Day' Ahead of the 2020 Election by Hannah Bleau). On April 12, 1861, the South Carolina Militia artillery opened fire on the Union garrison in Fort Sumter, and these shots, this attack, commenced the American Civil War. The Civil War was a struggle between the forces of freedom, fighting for the Union, and the forces of slavery, fighting for the Confederacy. The FBI raid on Donald Trump's Mar a Lago residence was the start of a second civil war. The forces of freedom are determined to achieve victory and banish the reds from their positions of power and their control over the establishment. In the waning hours of a nation under the antigovernment regime of a gender, race and class religion and its fearsome mobs and emperors, the forces of freedom have no hope of success and no chance to change the world for the better.

BIDEN'S INFLATION PRODUCTION ACT

Traffic is the sum total of vehicles which use public ways for transportation. One way traffic moves only in one direction and is directed by a one way street, and this special type of street is marked not only by unidirectional flow but by dangerous high speeds which place pedestrians in harm's way. Students of history have known for centuries that civilizations in decline are on one way streets heading inexorably and at lightning speed into jungles growing wild from the rejection of reason. This rejection has brought forth the cancer of socialism financed by excessive taxation and by the excessive printing of money, and like the vehicular traffic speeding down one way streets killing pedestrians, it has ruthlessly run down the voices of freedom and sound governance standing in its way. The one way street marked socialism and fiat money was dug by the masses in the early years of the twentieth century and its blazing hot pavement has been pounded by one hundred years of radical politics paraded as progressivism, which have sent the West careening, white hot with mob rule, into the abyss. The latest death cargo to race down the freeways of mass degeneracy and governmental malfeasance commenced its journey on August 12, 2022, when the House of Representatives passed the Inflation Reduction Act. Sponsored by President Joe Biden, this act is a red spending package which will push the nation into cultural and economic doom. The policies enacted comprise a list of items which will spend billions of dollars on radical environmentalist and health care entitlement programs as they raise taxes on individuals, manufacturers and energy producers. Item. The act establishes a fifteen percent minimum income tax on corporations. This will raise taxes on corporations by 313 billion dollars and kill 27,000 jobs. It will exacerbate the nation's supply chain problems and raise energy costs by crushing the coal, automobile and utilities industries. Item. The act will increase taxes on the profits earned in investment funds paid to the managers of the funds. This tax increase will kill jobs, reduce wages and cause pension funds to lose billions of dollars. Item. The act will allocate eighty billion dollars to hire 87,000 additional Internal Revenue Service agents to surveil and harass working people. It will enable the IRS to spy on people who engage in financial transactions exceeding 10,000 dollars. Item. The act will extend Affordable Care Act subsidies and force taxpayers to continue financing and enslaving themselves to the health care needs of others. Item. The act will provide tax subsidies for green energy technologies. It will force taxpayers to subsidize green energy corporations in the amount of sixty million dollars. It will inhibit oil and gas development, raise oil and gas prices, and raise the cost of living for ordinary working people. Item. The act will establish an "environmental justice solar and wind capacity limitation program" which will force taxpayers to subsidize solar and wind energy production. Item. The bill will extend the Nonbusiness Energy Property tax credit to 2032 and increase it by 140 percent. It will force taxpayers to subsidize the purchase of energy efficient home improvements. Item. The act will extend the Residential Clean Energy Credit to 2034. It will force taxpayers to subsidize the purchase of green energy features for homes, such as solar panels and wind turbines. Item. The act will increase the Energy Efficient Commercial Buildings deduction and force taxpayers to subsidize the installation by corporations of interior lighting, building envelopes, and heating, cooling, ventilation and hot water systems which reduce energy consumption. Item. The act will extend and increase the New Energy Efficient Home Credit and force taxpayers to subsidize the construction of energy efficient homes. Item. The act will force taxpayers to subsidize the purchase of electric vehicles. Item. The act will force taxpayers to subsidize inefficient green energy projects. It will force taxpayers to subsidize wind and solar panel replacements for oil and natural gas which are incapable of meeting the energy requirements of modern civilization: "Scientists have yet to discover, and entrepreneurs have yet to invent, anything as remarkable as hydrocarbons in terms of the combination of low cost, high energy density, stability, safety and portability. In practical terms, this means that spending $1 million on utility scale wind turbines, or solar panels will each, over thirty years of operation, produce about fifty million kilowatt hours (kWh)—while an equivalent $1 million spent on a shale rig produces enough natural gas over 30 years to generate over 300 million kWh." (The New Energy Economy: An Exercise In Magical Thinking by Mark Mill). Item. The act will raise the Superfund excise tax on oil from 9.7 cents/3.8 liters to 16.4 cents/3.8 liters and result in further increases in historically high gasoline prices. Item. The act will force taxpayers to subsidize inefficient carbon neutral electricity generation plants. Item. The act forces taxpayers to subsidize the development and construction of zero carbon emission energy systems and carbon capture and storage systems in rural areas. Look at the Inflation Reduction Act and see a red partisan movement to increase taxes, extend socialist control and intensify the environmentalist war on civilization. See the extension and expansion of health care subsidies which rob Peter to pay Paul and call the robbery social responsibility. See billion dollar spending on green energy programs which seek to halt the wheels of modernity in the name of fighting climate change. See the creation of an army of jackboots in the Internal Revenue Service, larger than the staff of the Defense Department, the State Department, the FBI and the Border Patrol combined, to spy on citizens and confiscate their wealth. See a campaign to plunge America into an economic downturn, and bring on the doom of mass unemployment, mass poverty, mass homelessness and mass bankruptcy, beneath the shadow of state tyranny and an antiindustrial revolution: "The House on Friday passed the $700 billion Inflation Reduction Act, which, unlike its moniker, would not reduce inflation, and instead spends hundreds of billions of dollars on climate change and Obamacare programs. The House passed the legislation along partisan lines, 220-207. The vote featured no Democrats voting against the bill and no Republicans voting for the bill This includes Representative Jared Golden (D-ME), a swing district Democrat who voted against the American Rescue Plan and the Build Back Better Act. Breitbart News reported on Thursday that House Republican leadership would whip Republicans against the legislation to ensure that zero Republicans vote for the bill. Since the legislation uses budgetary reconciliation, Republicans cannot stop Democrats from passing the bill; however, one senior House Republican staffer explained that they plan on making Democrats own the bill, which includes highlighting the deleterious effects of the bill. The legislation would: Extend enhanced Obamacare subsidies for three years, which would cost $64 billion. Increase taxes while America just entered a recession. Boost funding for the IRS by $80 billion, which would make the agency larger than the Pentagon, State Department, FBI, and Border Patrol combined Create hundreds of billions of dollars in green energy slush funds for the federal government to dole out." (Congress Passes $700 Billion 'Inflation Reduction' Act by Sean Moran). Look at the Inflation Reduction Act and see a campaign to smash the wheels of technological and industrial development with the Luddite clubs of a Green New Deal. See a crusade to render the nation bereft of value and send it hurtling into the black waters of moral and economic bankruptcy. See massive government spending fan the fires of inflation. See across the board tax increases halt the processes of production and grind families into poverty. See the enactment of a green agenda to abolish oil and natural gas, increase energy costs to infinity and push the nation into the year zero. See a red stampede to kill America's businesses, consumers, workers, goods and services, and make the world's fortress of freedom and prosperity a deceased relic of a bygone age: "In Tennessee, folks are frustrated with President Biden for willingly breaking his campaign promises. While he repeatedly stated he wouldn't raise taxes on Americans making less than $400,000 a year, this month's Build Back Broke rehash makes struggling households foot the bill. More than half of the bill's tax revenue will come from families earning under $400,000, and middle income households can expect billions in new tax increases. Tennesseans already know that the Democrats' spending habit is bad news for their budgets, and economic analysts are quick to agree. The San Francisco Federal Reserve and Morgan Stanley blamed Biden for causing 41 year high inflation, and economists warn that persistent spending could put even more pressure on the economy. Democrats know all this, but in Congress they are fighting to make a bad problem worse. On top of spending induced inflation, our nation is facing a critical supply chain crisis. Build Back Broke will levy new tax hikes on already struggling American businesses. This will in turn push supply chains past their breaking point and force consumers to pay more money for fewer goods. With all but guaranteed economic carnage, why is the left charging ahead with their plan? Democrats in the White House and Congress know it's their last chance to pass the Green New Deal." (Latest Build Back Broke Bill Will Bankrupt Nation by Marsha Blackburn). In 64 AD a sect from the East known as the Christians was making plans and predictions. Its members hoped and prayed that Rome, the citadel of reason in the Classical world, would soon be destroyed by fire, and they sought to make their hopes and prayers come true. On the night of July 19, 64 AD, a fire broke out among the shops of the Circus Maximus. Ignited by the enemies of enlightenment, the Great Fire of Rome raged for nine days. When the smoke cleared, Rome's districts were in ruins, the Temple of Jupiter was gone, the hearth of the Vestal Virgins was gone, and two thirds of the Eternal City and the Capital of the World had been destroyed. The heirs and descendants of Rome's Christians, the communists of today, brandishing the torches of the Inflation Reduction Act, have set fire to the house of American liberty and progress, and closed the story of the nation.

RED IMPERIALISTS INVADE AMERICA

Occupation is the control by a state over another state which is outside the occupier's territory. Annexation is the forcible annexation of one state by another state. Colonialism is the control of one state over another state by the establishment of a colony, with the aim of imposing the colonizer's language and culture. The developments in America over the past one hundred years have necessitated the unimaginable and the unthinkable: the application of these terms to the freest nation on earth and the arsenal of liberty whose cannons have protected the free world. These developments have necessitated the acknowledgement the onset of a nightmare of all nightmares and the perpetration of a crime which has plumbed the depths of evil. Civilized people have looked at the reality of America in the twenty first century, have seen the culmination of a century long march by Marxists and their progeny into free institutions, have seen the bitter harvest of mass rule poison the channels of thought and action, and have fled from the arms of a rampaging monster which has devoured the world's premier constitutional government, and gone on to close off the story of the West. Civilized people have beheld the horror that America has been occupied, annexed and colonized by the forces of the far left, and felt the fear, shock and disgust, which no words can describe, at the knowledge that the nation's most sacred institution, the formal, organized choice by vote of candidates for political office, has been perverted beyond recognition, and transformed into a coronation process to instal the enemies of freedom into power. They have borne witness to a campaign to rig and arrange a presidential election to ensure the perpetual victory of red enslavers who parade their religion of enslavement under the banners of progressivism and view free and fair elections as a grave danger to the successful implementation of their plans. Civilized people saw the 2020 presidential election rigged to ensure the victory of Joe Biden by the placement of illegal drop boxes in Democrat precincts. They saw it rigged when the Pennsylvania legislature unconstitutionally authorized no excuse absentee voting. They saw it rigged when Philadelphia election clerks illegally inspected ballots and told Biden campaigners which voters for Biden needed to correct their ballots. They saw it rigged in Wisconsin and saw the rigging exposed by the Wisconsin Senate's Office of Special Counsel in its report filed on March 1, 2022. The report describes rigging through the following means: absentee ballot drop boxes; bribery of election officials; false databases; unauthorized use of databases; unsupervised voting in residential care facilities, resulting in Biden tallies of one hundred percent from ineligible voters; illegal voting by ineligible wards under guardianship; noncitizens voting, in violation of state law; and preferential treatment given to Biden voters by correcting their defective ballots, in violation of state and federal equal protection laws: "Some unlawful conduct and irregularities outlined in this Report include: 1. Election officials' use of absentee ballot drop boxes in violation of Wisconsin Statutes. § 6.87(4)(b)1 and § 6.855. 2. The Center for Tech and Civic Life's $8,800,000 Zuckerberg Plan Grants being run in the Cities of Milwaukee, Madison, Racine, Kenosha and Green Bay constituting Election Bribery Under Wis. Stat. § 12.11. 3. WEC's failing to maintain a sufficiently accurate WisVote voter database, as determined by the Legislative Audit Bureau. 4. The Cities of Milwaukee, Madison, Racine, Kenosha and Green Bay engaging private companies in election administration in unprecedented ways, including tolerating unauthorized users and unauthorized uses of WisVote private voter data under Wisconsin Elections Commission (WEC) policies, such as sharing voter data for free that would have cost the public $12,500. 5. As the Racine County Sheriff's Office has concluded, WEC unlawfully directed the municipal clerks not to send out the legally required special voting deputies to nursing homes, resulting in many nursing homes' registered residents voting at 100% rates and many ineligible residents voting, despite a guardianship order or incapacity. 6. Unlawful voting by wards under guardianship left unchecked by Wisconsin election officials, where WEC failed to record that information in the State's WisVote voter database, despite its availability through the circuit courts—all in violation of the federal Help America Vote Act. 7. WEC's failure to record noncitizens in the WisVote voter database, thereby permitting noncitizens to vote, even though Wisconsin law requires citizenship to vote—all in violation of the Help America Vote Act. Unlawful voting by noncitizens left unchecked by Wisconsin election officials, with WEC failing to record that information in the State's WisVote voter database. 8. Wisconsin election officials' and WEC's violation of Federal and Wisconsin Equal Protection Clauses by failing to treat all voters the same in the same election." Civilized people saw the presidential election of 2020 rigged when Biden campaigners, working in county clerks' offices across the nation, collected voter data to benefit the Biden camp. They saw it rigged when Georgia election officials violated the state's election laws and abolished signature verification requirements for mail in ballots. They saw it rigged when the Georgia State Supreme Court ignored evidence that 35,000 illegal votes had been counted and delayed a hearing on Donald Trump's challenge until after the fraudulent certification had been conducted. On January 6, 2021, following Donald Trump's defeat in a presidential election which had been rendered fraudulent by illegal last minute changes to voting rules, ballot harvesting, ballot drop boxes and nonexistent voter identification requirements, a group of his supporters attacked the Capital Building in Washington DC. They sought to prevent a joint session of Congress from counting the electoral college votes to formalize the fraudulent victory of Joe Biden. Prior to the attack, Vice President Mike Pence had refused to perform his constitutional duty and halt the certification of the election. His duty to do so is set forth in Article II, Section One of the Constitution, which implicitly mandates that electoral votes and certificates be legal and legitimate: "The President of the Senate [Vice President] shall, in the Presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the Certificates, and the Votes shall then be counted." Prior to the attack, the United States Supreme Court had refused to perform its constitutional duty and invalidate the results of the presidential election in Georgia, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, despite the fact that these states had violated the Constitution by changing election procedures through nonlegislative means. On December 11, 2020, the Court dismissed the suit brought by Texas on the grounds that the state lacked standing to sue: "The State of Texas's motion for leave to file a bill of complaint is denied for lack of standing under Article III of the Constitution. Texas has not demonstrated a judicially cognizable interest in the manner in which another State conducts its elections. All other pending motions are dismissed as moot." (Texas v. Pennsylvania). Law abiding Americans were left aghast at the Court's decision. They understood that the Court has a duty to ensure that the voters of nation are not cheated in fraudulent elections. They understood that the Suffrage Amendments to the Constitution, the Fifteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty Third, Twenty Fourth and Twenty Sixth Amendments, guarantee a right to vote, which means a right to vote in free and fair elections, or it means nothing whatever. They understood that every person and every state in the nation has standing to sue to ensure that the Constitution is obeyed and that no voter's right to vote in a free and fair election is injured. On June 9, 2022, the United States House Select Committee on the January 6 Capital Hill Attack began holding live televised public hearings in which it condemned the attempts by law abiding Americans to stage an insurrection against a regime which had refused to protect the right to vote in free and fair elections, and had ceased to be a lawful government. On August 8, 2022, the Federal Bureau of Investigation executed a search warrant at Mar a Lago, the residence of Donald Trump, in Palm Beach, Florida. According to its search warrant, the FBI was investigating Trump for three federal crimes: removal or destruction of government records; destroying or concealing records "with the intent to impede, obstruct or influence" federal government activity; and violating the Espionage Act regarding unauthorized retention of national defense information. Law abiding Americans were left aghast at the FBI's actions. They understood that the Constitution confers executive power on the president and the power of commander in chief of the nation's defenses: "The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America." (Article II, Section One). "The President shall be commander in chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into the actual service of the United States." (Article II, Section Two). As the holder of plenary executive and commanding power, the president has the right to handle, retain, remove, classify, declassify and dispose of federal documents as he deems fit, and federal laws, such as the Presidential Records Act and the Espionage Act, which forbid him to do so, are unconstitutional. The red regime in control of America and its transformation of the national government into a missile of tyranny and persecution is described in letters written on August 15, 2022 to United States Attorney General Merrick Garland, FBI Director Christopher Wray and White House Chief of Staff Ron Klain by United States Representatives Jim Jordan, Steve Chabot, Louie Gohmert, Darrell Issa, Matt Gaetz, Mike Johnson, Andy Biggs and Tom McClintock: "The American people deserve answers for the Biden administration's continued misuse of law enforcement resources against political opponents." "The FBI's unprecedented raid of President Trump's residence is a shocking escalation of the Biden administration's weaponization of law enforcement resources." For over a half a century across Eastern Europe, the Far East and Latin America, a Soviet empire reached across satellite states, destroyed their freedom and independence, and compelled them to advance the cause of communism. Parading as progressivism, communism and its progeny have become the policy and ethos of America, installed by the majority, during the final stage of its democracy.

THREE THEORIES OF VALUE: CAPITALIST, COMMUNIST AND CLASSICAL

A price is a quantity of payment given in return for a good or service. Expressed in terms of money, a price indicates value or worth. A subjective theory of value sanctions prices which are detached from all reality, as does an objective theory which selects the wrong factors. In the history of economics, there have been three main theories of value, the capitalist theory, the communist theory, and the Classical, common sense theory, only one of which is based on reality and reflects the true value of a commodity. The capitalist theory of value states that the value of a commodity is defined simply by supply and demand. Commodities possess no objective value and their value is determined by subjective choice and whim. The price of a commodity is simply the function of market processes in which the price varies until it settles at a point at which the amount demanded equals the amount supplied. The only legitimate price of something is its market price, which is established by what consumers want to pay and for any reason they want to pay it, and the notion of a fair price or a just price based upon real or intrinsic value is a phantom of religious thinking and has no place in modern economics. Look at the capitalist theory of value and see the rejection that commodities possess intrinsic worth independently of people's decisions. See the proclamation that value is determined by popular demand and not by objective reality. See the proclamation that value is determined by consumers responding to supply and not by the nature of the commodities supplied. See the proclamation that the value of commodities is a function of people's subjective opinions and has nothing whatever to do with what the mind, looking at reality, judges about them. See the proclamation that the monetary worth of goods and services is decreed by marketplace voting and by nothing else. See the proclamation that Marx's labor theory of value, according to which the value of a commodity is determined by the amount of muscular labor needed to produce it, is the sole objective theory of value, and that no other objective theories, concerned with the contribution of skilled, intellectual labor, are possible or imaginable. See the spurious argument that an objective theory of value inevitably leads to the use of force against people and eventuates in totalitarian government, and that it is impossible or inconsistent to establish a society which, on the one hand, allows free markets to function, but on the other hand, shames outcomes which create unfair wages, prices or profits: "So, what gives something value? It was not until almost a century later after the publication of The Wealth Of Nations that, working independently, three economists made what is called 'the subjective value breakthrough.' Menger was the most clear: a product's value was determined by the demand for it by consumers in the marketplace and its marginal supply. Hence, value could change moment by moment and was ultimately determined by consumers responding to the current supply. Both Jevon and Walrus also argued in favor of the subjective value theory of value. Together Menger, Jevons, and Walrus created the Marginalist Revolution of the 1870s and transformed political economy (as it was called back then) to the science of economics. This was a radical departure from the Labor Theory of Value, and it had important political implications. If value is subjective, then one person cannot tell another what the worth of something is. Ultimately, it gave an individual the right to voice opinions on what was of value, and these could change and no doubt would. People were free as consumers. This scenario became the basis for voluntary trade. When values are objective, on the other hand, it gives the government the right to tell its citizens what the monetary worth of goods and services are and, by extension, how the citizens should best spend their time and earn their livelihoods. This scenario became the basis for totalitarianism, both communism and fascism. Under communism, the Labor Theory of Value became a science of oppression." (Subjective Versus Objective Costs: How The Labor Theory Of Value Almost Destroyed the World by Steve Mariotti). Denying the fact of reality that things are as they are independently of human decision, the capitalist theory of value sanctions the establishment of arbitrary prices and makes markets immune from moral judgment. The communist theory of value states that the value of a commodity is defined by the muscular labor which produced it. The communist theory of value is based on an ontology of materialism and thus fails. According to communism, reality is constituted of pure matter and what is called mind is nothing more than an expression, a reflection, an epiphenomenon and a superstructure of matter, and has no reality whatever and no power to produce or cause anything. Since only matter exists, the only type of labor which exists is muscular labor and this muscular labor is the source of all wealth and value. The calculation of the value of a commodity, and thus its price, is determined by the calculation of the amount of muscular labor which produced it. Socalled intellectual labor is illusory labor and those who claim to perform it in fact and in reality perform no work at all. The class of socalled intellectual laborers, such as entrepreneurs, managers, executives and directors, constitutes a class of parasites and exploiters who live off the profits they steal from the class of muscular laborers. The class of parasitical intellectual laborers is called the bourgeois, while the class of value producing muscular laborers is called the proletariat. Look at the communist theory of value and see the proclamation that wealth is created by masses of muscular laborers. See the proclamation that intellectual laborers such as industrial capitalists are the enslavers of the value producing muscular laborers and are their merciless lords, commanders, officers and overseers. See the proclamation that modern factories and industries consist of armies of the downtrodden, muscular laboring proletariat together with their intellectual laboring, bourgeois oppressors. See the proclamation that the culmination of history will bring forth a mass revolt by the exploited and enslaved proletariat against their bourgeois exploiters and enslavers, and will see the wholesale destruction of human freedom, rational flourishing, constitutional rights and the liberal, Enlightenment order: "Modern Industry has converted the little workshop of the patriarchal master into the great factory of the industrial capitalist. Masses of laborers, crowded into the factory, are organized like soldiers. As privates of the industrial army they are placed under the command of a perfect hierarchy of officers and sergeants. Not only are they slaves of the bourgeois class, and of the bourgeois State; they are daily and hourly enslaved by the machine, by the overlooker, and, above all, by the individual bourgeois manufacturer himself. The more openly this despotism proclaims gain to be its end and aim, the more petty, the more hateful and the more embittering it is. The proletariat goes through various stages of development. With its birth begins its struggle with the bourgeoisie. At first the contest is carried on by individual laborers, then by the workpeople of a factory, then by the operative of one trade, in one locality, against the individual bourgeois who directly exploits them. They direct their attacks not against the bourgeois conditions of production, but against the instruments of production themselves; they destroy imported wares that compete with their labor; they smash to pieces machinery; they set factories ablaze; they seek to restore by force the vanished status of the workman of the Middle Ages." (Manifesto Of the Communist Party by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels). Resting upon the doctrine that nothing exists except matter and its movements and modifications, the communist theory of value founders in incoherence. The theory is a mental phenomenon, a product of a spiritual process, and exists in minds and nowhere else, and thus refutes itself in its own statement, formulation and communication. The Classical, Greco-Roman theory of value is based on the common sense recognition that commodities are realities which are as they are and exist independently of human choice and action. Notwithstanding the interplay of supply and demand, it is an objective fact that water is more valuable than diamonds and should in consequence have a higher price. Notwithstanding the interplay of supply and demand, it is an objective fact that neurosurgeons perform a more valuable service than film actors and should in consequence be paid a higher salary. Because all things are as they are, and possess the value and worth they possess, there are unfair prices and fair prices, moral prices and immoral prices, and in opposition to capitalism, the Classical, Greco-Roman theory of value distinguishes between the two. Look at the Classical theory of value and see its acknowledgment that the fair price of a commodity reflects its intrinsic nature and attributes and is independent of its exchange price or its market price. See its acknowledgment that the fair price of a commodity reflects what is special and peculiar to it and not the level of consumer demand for it: "With every article of property there is a double way of using it. Both uses are related to the article itself, but not related to it in the same manner: one is peculiar to the thing, and the other is not peculiar to it. Take for example a shoe. There is its wear as a shoe, and there is its use as an article of exchange. Both are ways of using a shoe, inasmuch as even he who barter a shoe for food with the customer that wants a shoe, uses it as a shoe, though not for the use peculiar to a shoe, since shoes have not come into existence for the purpose of barter." (Politics by Aristotle, Section One). Rejecting both the capitalist subjective theory of value and the communist theory of muscular labor as the determinant of value, the Classical theory of value, which reflects the contribution of mental labor and intrinsic attributes to value, is the indispensable precondition for a fair, just and flourishing society.

CHILD KILLERS TURNED LOOSE

M is a classic 1931 thriller film directed by Fritz Lang. It is about the manhunt for a serial murderer of children and the efforts by the police and the criminal underworld to bring him to justice. The film was widely criticized at the time for its message that criminals are not responsible for their actions and should not be punished for them: "I cannot help myself! I have no control over this evil thing that is inside me—the fire, the voices, the torment! Who knows what it is like to be me?" (Murderer Hans Beckert). Proclaiming that crime is caused by medically diseased minds and must be cured and not punished, the film is condemned by a vanishing minority of civilized people today who are determined to bring the killers of the innocent to justice. Civilized people today confront a movement of child murderers who commit their crimes wearing the white coats of doctors and the scrubs of patient care and they demand punishment without mercy for this unspeakable evil. The child murderers of today mutilate children's bodies and snuff out their souls in theaters of war called transgender surgery centers and their crimes against people and reality exemplify the moral breakdown of the modern world as nothing else does. They commit their crimes under the cover of the law, with a license from their profession and with the sanction of the establishment, and they have composed the final chapter of a degenerate age which has gone completely out of control. Science has known for decades that sex is determined by genes. A gene is a unit of heredity which is transferred from parent to offspring and determines the characteristics of the offspring. A chromosome is a thread of genes. Sex genes are present in X threads or X chromosomes and in Y threads or Y chromosomes. The sex of any individual is determined by a pair of these threads or chromosomes: females possess two of the same kind of sex chromosome, XX, while males possess two different kinds of sex chromosomes, XY. Being determined by genes, sex is a fixed and immutable characteristic of individuals and cannot be changed by any surgical or chemical means. The spectacle of medical professionals, ostensibly concerned with the promotion, maintenance and restoration of health, wielding knives and chemicals in operations to do the impossible and change people's sex, harming and destroying their patients in the process, and given the full approbation of society for their deeds, is a terrifying signal that the end of civilization is near and at hand and the end has arrived, and is a signal whose starkness and clarity have shaken the most complacent people out of their slumbers and sent them reeling back in fear and horror. Boston Children's Hospital, located in Boston, Massachusetts, is ranked as the best children's hospital in America and has the largest hospital based pediatric research program, in staff and space, in the world, occupying 93,000 square meters and employing over 3,000 scientists. This prestigious medical center, caring for children since its founding in 1869, has emerged in the spotlight and center stage of cultural degeneracy. Home to the first pediatric and adolescent transgender program in America, it reveals, as nothing else does, the criminal character of the transgender movement and the tragedy of epic proportions which marks the decline and fall of the West. Listen to the hospital's message and hear a manifesto of antisience as brazen as it is insane, and hear the shutting down of medicine by the proselytizers of a new religion of danger and harm. Hear the proclamation that sex genes have no reality, and reality has no reality, and individuals can be transgender and gender diverse. Hear the proclamation that gender identity is changeable and people who want to change their gender must be allowed to grow and thrive in the thickets of their psychosis and receive maximum love and support: "You may be aware that in states across the country there is a recent increase in proposed legislation aiming to restrict the rights of transgender and gender diverse youth. Many of these bills aim to restrict access to medical care and limit children and adolescents who identify as gender diverse from participation in sports. Boston Children's Hospital has always been and always will be committed to providing the best care for ALL of our patients, regardless of their gender identity. The belief that all children deserve the opportunity to live, grow and thrive with love and support, is foundational to who we are and what we do." (Boston Children's Hospital, Center For Gender Surgery, website). Listen to the hospital's message and hear the proclamation that individuals need not affirm the which is gender fixed for them by their genes because gender is something which can be changed. Hear the proclamation that individuals should identify with the gender they want to identify with and seek out medical treatment to change themselves into that gender. Hear the proclamation that scientific evidence which irrefutably establishes the genetic determination of sex should be ignored and denied in the name of a new progressive movement of political correctness and antiempiricism. Hear the proclamation that medical procedures which purport to change sex protect and enhance the well being of the psychotics who refuse to accept the reality of their genetically determined sex. Hear the proclamation that the transgender community must stand together, united against the defenders of genetic reality, and effect the obliteration of science and the radicalization of society: "At Boston Children's, we are proud to be home to the first pediatric and adolescent transgender health program in the United States, the Gender Multispecialty Service (GeMS), which has cared for more than 1,000 families to date. We believe in a gender affirmative model of care, which supports transgender and gender diverse youth in the gender in which they identify. This is a standard of care grounded in scientific evidence, demonstrating its benefits to the health and well being of transgender and gender diverse youth. In addition to supporting our patients and families, we stand with our colleagues who may identify as transgender or gender diverse, those who provide care to transgender youth and who are allies to the transgender community." (Boston Children's Hospital, Center For Gender Surgery, website). Listen to the hospital's message and hear the proclamation that the findings of science that sex is a fixed and immutable genetic reality must be rejected in the name of advancing equity, diversity and inclusion. Hear the proclamation that transgender women, who are not real women, have a right to participate on sports teams comprised of real women, and transgender men, who are not real men, have a right to participate on sports teams comprised of real men. Hear the proclamation that transgender pseudowomen and transgender pseudomen have a right to utilize facilities, such as showers, bathrooms and locker rooms, which are normally reserved for real women and real men. Hear the proclamation that a progressive society has enacted legislation which establishes the right of transgender pseudowomen and transgender pseudomen to utilize any public or private accommodation they choose and, in the name of human rights, to invade the privacy of real women and men: "The proposed bans on medical care, sports participation and other legislation aiming to restrict the rights of transgender and gender diverse youth are in direct opposition to our commitment to equity, diversity and inclusivity, as well as the standard of care that we live by. Here in Massachusetts, we have been fortunate—there has not yet been movement on any of these initiatives. You may recall that in 2016, Massachusetts voters upheld legislation designed to protect the rights of transgender residents in public accommodations. Boston Children's was proud to be part of the coalition that worked in support of that ballot question." (Boston Children's Hospital, Center For Gender Surgery, website). Listen to the hospital's message and hear the proclamation that a progressive society has established legal nondiscrimination protection for people who claim the impossible, to be members of the opposite sex who have transitioned by means of medical interventions. Hear the proclamation that a progressive society is an equalitarian society and is committed to protecting the civil rights and spiritual welfare of those who are detached from reality and have purported to erase the genetic basis of sex determination: "I also want to let you know that Boston Children's has signed on as an endorsing organization of the Equality Act, which is federal legislation that would provide affirmative, legal nondiscrimination protections for LGBTQ Americans both in the workplace and the community by adding sexual orientation and gender identity to the list of protected characteristics in federal civil rights laws. We are here to affirm, uplift, and advocate for transgender and gender diverse youth, and we remain committed to doing all we can to support their care and well being." (Boston Children's Hospital, Center For Gender Surgery, website). The past one hundred years has seen a sustained attack against science. Marking the degenerate stage of civilization, this attack commenced in the 1930s with the denial of the reality of genes and the promotion of the discredited theory of Lamarckism by Soviet Marxist biologist Trofim Lysenko. In the twenty first century, the attack against science has culminated in the denial of the reality of sex genes by the transgender movement. Chest reconstructions, breast augmentations, hysterectomies, vaginoplasties, phalloplasties, puberty blockers and hormone therapies. Such is the arsenal of human destruction wielded by the transgenderist monsters in charge of the medical profession in the free fall age of the West.

BLACK POWER COMMUNISTS ATTACK THE WEST

Terrorism is the use of violence against innocent people under the cover of achieving a social or political aim. Since the dawn of the twentieth century, the West has been under attack by the forces of red terror which have appeared in the form of both state and nonstate actors. The state actors included the Soviet Union and Maoist China, while the nonstate actors included the German Red Army Faction and the Italian Red Brigades. Alongside these traditional Marxist terror movements, there have developed mutated forms which advocate violence against the innocent in the name of race and gender. Over the past half century, a neoMarxist, intersectional politics of black communism and black proletarian revolution has spread across the world and placed free societies in the grip of fear. Race and gender politics is the logical, natural, inevitable result of class politics. When universalism is rejected in favor of camp divisions of humanity, the logic of secession demands an endless multiplication of warring groups. Thus it was decreed by the terrifying essence of Marxism that race and gender politics would emerge from its satanic womb. Set into motion by Marxism, the movement of social and political balkanization is unstoppable and will eventuate in a global war of all against all, as gender, race, class and ethnicity groups vie for power and domination. Rampaging across the earth with hatred and gore dripping from its jaws, the most powerful monster produced by Marxism is the hybrid black communist movement, and its manifesto of black supremacism combined with anticapitalism has pushed civilization into its final epoch and sent the last vestiges of liberal enlightenment spiraling into the abyss. Proclaiming that freedom is a system of white privilege and white supremacy, the black communist manifesto which has captured the world shows what ensues when an evil seed is planted and germinates in the soul of the people. This seed was the Marxist religion of the proletariat and its worst problem child, the religion of black colored proletarianism, is the last creature of the night to stalk the free world, and its declaration of beliefs, policies and aims has cast the pall of doomsday across every tradition and institution of modern life. This manifesto proclaims that black communists have a right to torture animals and subject them to unspeakable cruelty, and those who condemn these acts and bring the perpetrators to justice are the police truncheons of racist and capitalist oppression: "Rashad Gober, a gay BLM supporter, is seemingly blaming his arrest and charge of animal cruelty for torturing three different cats on police racism. Cambridge Police announced the arrest of Gober, 31, at his home on Thursday, and charged him with four counts of animal cruelty, dating from March to May of this year. The investigation was initially opened after the discovery of a cat called Gosha on May 6th, who was huddled underneath a car, with her legs bound by masking tape. Further analysis on the deceased cat found a large percentage of her fur missing, also concluding that she had been shot repeatedly with a BB gun, with officers concluding that she had been subject to cruel torture." (Gay Black Lives Matter Activist Arrested And Charged With Cat Torture And Murder, Blamed Police Racism For Arrest by National File News, February 17, 2022). The black communist manifesto proclaims that the enjoyment of French cuisine is a flag of white racial identity and capitalist class exploitation and must be policed and prohibited to achieve the liberation of the black working class: "Law professor Mathilde Cohen of the University of Connecticut recently gave a talk at Sciences Po Paris and the University of Nanterre in which, according to The Times, she argued 'French eating habits reinforced the dominance of white people over ethnic minorities. By this I mean the use of food to reinforce whiteness as a dominant racial identity. The French meal is often presented as the national ritual to which every citizen can participate equally. But French food ways are shaped by white middle and upper class norms and the boundaries of whiteness are policed through daily food encounters.'" (The Latest Example Of White Privilege: Eating French Food by David Huber). The black communist manifesto proclaims that the sun is an inferno of political oppression and brings the scourge of racist, capitalist exclusion and refusal during the course of its diurnal journeys: "Extreme heat is a justice issue. Within the same city, some neighborhoods can be up to 20°F hotter than others. Studies have shown that heat risk is disproportionately distributed to communities of color in patterns associated with segregation and redlining." (Senator Ed Markey, Twitter, June 29, 2021). The black communist manifesto proclaims that the term black hole, used to describe a region of space containing a compact mass in which gravity is so strong that nothing can escape from it, is a racist term and must be rejected. It proclaims that though history tells us that the term was coined in the early 1960s by the physicist Robert Dicke to describe this unusual phenomenon, black communist theologians, ideologues, agitators, propagandists, artists, musicians and literary professors have decreed otherwise and established that the term is a product of the oppression of blacks under the capitalist system and has no place in a progressive physics: "Conventional wisdom would have it that the black in black holes has nothing to do with race. Surely there can be no connection between the cosmos and the idea of racial blackness. Can there? Contemporary Black Studies theorists, artists, fiction writers implicitly and explicitly posit just such a connection. Theorists use astronomy concepts like black holes and event horizons to interpret the history of race in creative ways, while artists and musicians conjure blackness through cosmological themes and images. Cotaught by professors in Comparative Literature and Astronomy, this course will introduce students to the fundamentals of astronomy concepts through readings in Black Studies. Texts may include works by theorists like Michelle Wright and Denise Ferreira da Silva, authors like Octavia Butler and Nalo Hopkinson, music by Sun Ra, Outkast and Janelle Monae. Astronomy concepts will include the electromagnetic spectrum, stellar evolution, and general relativity." (Black Holes: Race And The Cosmos, Astro 2034, Cornell University). The black communist manifesto states that apple pie is the symbol and product of a horror. This is the horror of capitalist violence and exploitation of blacks. Symbolizing capitalist profits, land and wealth flowing plentifully into the palaces of the white man, drained from the blood stained backs of mass black impoverishment, apple pie must be expunged from society and consigned to cultural oblivion: "In the drama of nationalist culture, the bloody and international origins of the apple pie are subject to a collective amnesia. In the imagining of American community, the dish is transformed into a symbol of domesticity. By 1910, it's possible for a theater review

to celebrate a wholesome play, 'as American as apple pie'. Guardian readers ought by now to be familiar with the exercise of undoing the commodity fetish. Scratch the surface of a bar of chocolate, a tuna, or even a chicken nugget, and you find the horrors of international trade: violence, exploitation, poverty and profit. Capitalist logic is everywhere the same, but countries are capitalist in their own ways. The apple pie is as American as stolen land, wealth and labor. We live its consequences today." (Food Injustice Has Deep Roots: Let's Start With America's Apple Pie by Raj Patel). The black communist manifesto proclaims that the use of capital letters is a symbol of white, capitalist colonialism, exclusion and hierarchy. It proclaims that the use of lower case letters must be mandated as an act of resistance to liberal culture which for centuries has kept the black man in chains. It proclaims that the use of lower case letters is an act of indigenization, decolonization and emancipation of black slaves from the sweatshops of the whites. It proclaims that capital letter punctualization expresses discrimination against the black working class, violates the principles of equity, diversity and inclusion, and has no place in progressive literature: "The LGBTQ movement has bastardized pronouns, now indigenous social justice warriors are coming for capital letters. This outlandish notion comes from Dr Linda Manyguns, the new associate vice president of Indigenization and Decolonization at Mount Royal University in Calgary, Canada. In one of her first acts of decolonization, on August 30, she put out a statement about the use of lower case as 'resistance.' The poorly written piece starts: 'this [sic] is a beginning effort at describing the use of lower case on the website of the office of indigenization and decolonization.' So far, the effort is not going well. But, at least, she seems to acknowledge this nonsense will take a long term effort to attempt to explain. It goes on: 'the goal of equity, diversity and inclusion of all people is synonymous with the interests of Indigenous people. we support and expand the goal of equality and inclusion to all forms of life and all people. we join leaders like e. e. cummings, bell hooks, and peter kulchyski, who reject the symbols of hierarchy wherever they are found and do not use capital letters except to acknowledge the Indigenous struggle for recognition.' " (Capitalization Is Oppression: Using Only Lower Case Latest Act of 'Resistance' by Alexa Moutevelis). On January 15, 1889, in Jefferson County, Alabama, the body of a black man dangled from a rope beneath a tree. A victim of hatred and prejudice, George Meadows would never see tomorrow, would never feel the warmth of a summer day, would never touch the grass which gave life to the fields and meadows. In the twenty first century, the haters of today, the torch bearers of a midnight religion of black communist revolution, have fashioned a noose. They have placed it around the white population and the liberal order which mandates racial equality and liberty for all, and closed off the story of civilization.

THE FBI: PUBLIC ENEMY NUMBER ONE

On March 14, 1950, the Federal Bureau of Investigation announced the creation of a list to aid in the apprehension of America's most dangerous criminals. This list is called the Ten Most Wanted Fugitives and the first criminal to appear was Thomas Holden, founding member of the notorious Holden-Keating Gang and described by the FBI as "a menace to every man, woman and child in America." In the twenty first century, a fearsome and terrifying mutation has occurred and the nation's principal law enforcement agency has assumed the character of a lawless monster and become a danger without equal or precedent to the nation's free institutions. It has become a weapon of mass destruction against restrictions on the arbitrary exercise of power and a guided missile launched from the vehicle assembly buildings of red subversion, exploding in the heart and soul of constitutional government. This FBI, this Al Capone, John Dillinger, Pretty Boy Floyd, Baby Face Nelson, Alvin Karpis and Joaquin Guzman rolled into an organization whose seals, flags and special agent badges, officially dedicated to its motto, Fidelity, Bravery, Integrity, belie the communist reality lurking within, has become the gravest threat ever to the nation's two century old liberal order. It has become an ugly, frightening creature of the night emerging from the darkness of an America which has abandoned its storied commitment to individual rights and honest governance and descended into the jungles of rank politicization overgrown with red oppression. This FBI was protector of Hillary Clinton. Item. While she was secretary of state, Hillary Clinton kept a secret, personal server by which she handled classified government documents and communications. During an investigation by the United States House of Representative of the attack on the American embassy in Benghazi, Libya, Clinton destroyed, through physical smashing and the use of the software BleachBit, 33,000 emails which the House had subpoenaed. The FBI refused to prosecute her. It refused to search her homes. FBI Director James Comey authorized the destruction of laptop computers which belonged to Clinton's aides and had been subpoenaed. This FBI was manufacturer of the Trump-Russia collusion scandal. Item. Text messages between Deputy Director of Counterintelligence Peter Strzok and FBI lawyer Lisa Page reveal a plan to frame Donald Trump on the charge of colluding with Russia during the 2016 presidential campaign: "I want to believe the path you threw out for consideration in [Andrew McCabe's] office—that there's no way [Trump] gets elected—but I'm afraid we can't take that risk. It's like an insurance policy in the unlikely event you die before you're 40." (Text from Peter Strzok to Lisa Page, August 15, 2016). Item. The FBI's case against Trump was based on slander contained within the covers of a document written by a Clinton partisan. Masquerading as an intelligence officer, Christopher Steele rejected the notion of verified, fact based intelligence and compiled a smear file on Trump which was supported by the FBI: "At the heart of the Russia collusion scheme is the FBI's utilization of a document paid for by the Clinton campaign and the Democratic National Committee. Called the Steele Dossier because it was written by former British MI6 officer Christopher Steele, this document contains unsubstantiated information designed to taint Trump and his presidency. While Clinton partisans point out that candidate Clinton never referred to the Steele Dossier in her speeches, the fact is that she did not have to—the FBI hierarchy was doing it for her! Indeed, FBI General Counsel James Baker was recently reassigned because of his having leaked information about the Steele Dossier to the magazine Mother Jones." (The Politicization Of The FBI by Joseph DiGenova). Item. The FBI placed false accusations against Trump into the nation's intelligence and law enforcement communities and into the channels of the nation's mass communications. It placed them into court tribunals, search warrants, wiretaps, intercepts, computer programs, the rows, columns and grids of electronic documents, and into the rifles of malice loaded by the yellow press. It gave credibility to content sullied beyond salvaging and blackened beyond repair which disgraced the councils, the agencies, the discourse, the nation, the state and the society in which it appeared: "Comey and then CIA Director John Brennan laundered the Steele Dossier through the US intelligence community to give it an aura of credibility and get it to the press. It was also used by the FBI and senior DOJ officials to secure wiretap warrants from a secret Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA) court. Then its contents, via court authorized FISA warrants, were used to justify the illegal unmasking of the identities of wiretapped Trump officials. The contents of these National Security Agency intercepts were put on spreadsheets and

presented to members of President Obama's National Security Council (NSC)—specifically Susan Rice and Ben Rhodes—and subsequently leaked to the press. According to former NSC staff, President Obama himself read the FISA intercepts of Trump campaign personnel. Unsurprisingly, there was no request for a leak investigation from either the FBI or the DOJ." (The Politicization Of The FBI by Joseph DiGenova). The Trump campaign was exonerated of all charges of collusion by Special Counsel Robert Mueller: "The investigation did not establish that members of the Trump Campaign conspired or coordinated with the Russian government in its election interference activities." (Report On The Investigation Into Russian Interference In The 2016 Presidential Election by Robert Mueller). This FBI protected Joe Biden and his son, Hunter. Item. A laptop abandoned by Hunter Biden in the Mac Repair Shop in Wilmington, Delaware in 2019 contains messages describing a corrupt enterprise managed by the Bidens. A receipt showing Hunter's signature for work done on the laptop establishes his ownership of it. An email describes Hunter introducing a Ukrainian energy magnate to Joe Biden and arranging a meeting with Joe Biden. An email describes an executive from the Ukrainian energy firm Burisma thanking Hunter for introducing him to Joe Biden: "Dear Hunter, thank you for inviting me to DC and giving an opportunity to meet your father and spent [sic] some time together." (Vadym Pozharskyi, April 17, 2015). An email describes an international influence peddling operation involving the Bidens in which Joe Biden was given a share of the profits: "10 [percent] held by H[unter] for the Big Guy." (James Gilliar to Hunter Biden, May 13, 2017). The use of Big Guy as a code name for Joe Biden is described by Hunter's business partner Tony Bobulinski at a press conference in October 2020: "Hunter Biden called his dad 'the Big Guy' or 'my Chairman,' and frequently referenced asking him for his sign off or advice on various potential deals that we were discussing." A WhatsApp message describes Joe Biden's involvement in the operation: "Don't mention Joe being involved, it's only when u are face to face, I know u know that but they are paranoid." (James Gilliar to Tony Bobulinski on May 20, 2017). The FBI's refusal to investigate the Biden family's dealings is described in a letter from Senator Ron Johnson to Inspector General Michael Horowitz on August 23, 2022: "Recently, my office heard from individuals with knowledge of the FBI's apparent corruption. After the FBI obtained the Hunter Biden laptop from the Wilmington, DE computer shop, these whistleblowers stated that local FBI leadership told employees, 'you will not look at that Hunter Biden laptop.' and that the FBI is 'not going to change the outcome of the election again.' Further, these whistleblowers allege that the FBI did not begin to examine the contents of Hunter Biden's laptop until after the 2020 presidential election—potentially a year after the FBI obtained the laptop in December 2019." The FBI slandered the revelations of the Biden's family's corruption as Russian disinformation: "Facebook limited the visibility of the New York Post's story about Hunter Biden's laptop on the social media platform while it was being fact-checked after receiving warnings of disinformation campaigns from the FBI, Meta CEO Mark Zuckerberg told the Joe Rogan Experience on Thursday." (Zuckerberg: Yes, Facebook Kept Hunter Biden's Laptop Under Wraps by Laura Dobberstein). This FBI executed an unconstitutional search warrant at Mar a Lago, the personal residence of Donald Trump, on August 8, 2022. Authorized by Attorney General Merrick Garland and approved by Magistrate Judge Bruce Reinhart, the search was based on a complaint by the National Archives and Records Administration. The FBI accused Trump of committing three federal crimes: the unauthorized removal of government records; the unauthorized concealment of records "with the intent to impede, obstruct or influence" federal government activity; and the unauthorized retention of national defense information, in violation of the Espionage Act. These crimes have no constitutional basis. Article Two of the United States Constitution describes the powers of the president: "The executive Power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America." (Section One, Clause One). "The President shall be Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the Militia of the several States, when called into the actual Service of the United States." (Section Two, Clause One). As the executive and commander in chief of the nation's defenses and civil service, the president possesses plenary power to classify, remove and otherwise dispose of government documents as he deems fit. Immediately after its establishment in 1908, the FBI became the law enforcement bulwark of the civilized world against the forces of red revolution. It protected America against enemies within and without, against spies, saboteurs, agents and activists, determined to overthrow the institutions of freedom. In the twenty first century, this celebrated organization has fashioned a battering ram, marked justice not blind, justice not equal, justice not fair and justice in the service of red politics, and broken into the homes of the people.

BIDEN'S DEBT RELIEF FOR DEADBEATS

Bread and circuses is a figure of speech which refers to a government's appeasement of a mob. It refers to a political leader's generation of public approval, not by doing justice, but by creating diversion and satisfying economic needs through the redistribution of wealth. Coined by the Roman poet Juvenal, the phrase described the degenerate stage of Roman civilization, when the people sought welfare support and mindless entertainment above all else: "Already long ago, when the people still refused to sell their votes to leaders, they began to abdicate their responsibilities. Nowadays, the people, who once handed out military command, high civil office, legions, everything of value, do nothing whatever but anxiously hope for just two things: bread and circuses." (Juvenal, Satire X). In the twenty first century, the freest and most prosperous nation on earth, the beacon for the downtrodden and the oppressed huddled in fear in every corner of the globe, has descended into the stage of mass placation through public welfare and tolled the death knell of the West. The latest pealing of cultural decline occurred on August 25, 2022, when President Joe Biden made an announcement in the White House Briefing Room: "When I campaigned for President, I made a commitment—I made a commitment that we'd provide student debt relief. And I'm honoring that commitment today. Using the authority Congress granted the Department of Education, we will forgive $10,000 in outstanding federal student loans. In addition, students who come from low income families which allowed them to qualify to receive a Pell Grant will have their debt reduced $20,000. Both of these targeted actions are for families who need it the most—working and middle class people hit especially hard during the pandemic making under $125,000 a year. Here's what that means: If you make under $125,000, you'll get $10,000 knocked off your student debt. If you make under $125,000 a year and you received a Pell Grant, you'll get an additional $10,000 knocked off that total for a total of $20,000 relief. Ninety five percent of the borrowers can benefit from these actions. That's 43 million people. Of the 43 million, over 60 percent are Pell Grant recipients. That's 27 million people who will get $20,000 in debt relief. Nearly 45 percent can have their student debt fully cancelled. That is 20 million people who can start getting on with their lives." Ten, twenty, thirty, forty million people, a veritable nation of the idle, the feckless and the disreputable, granted a public bailout for an economic plight caused by nobody but themselves. The unfairness of forcing people to pay for predicaments they had no hand in creating is matched only by its rank illegality. The United States Constitution expressly forbids the president from appropriating public money without the approval of Congress: "No Money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in Consequence of Appropriations made by Law." (Article I, Section 9, Clause 7). A debt cannot be cancelled or forgiven in and of itself because a debt is a reality which has occurred and the past cannot be erased. Student debt exists; it is money which has been loaned by banks and spent by students; and it cannot be magically made to vanish but can only be transferred from one party to another, from the debtor to the creditor or to the guarantor of the loan. The taxpayers guaranteed the student loans made by the nation's banks and it is the taxpayers who will now be forced to repay the loans to the banks. This coerced support of students by taxpayers, this robbing of Peter to pay Paul commanded by socialism, is justified in the name of social responsibility. The notion of social responsibility has no basis in reality. The evidence of the senses reveals that individuals are the primary existents. It reveals a world of individual tables, chairs, atoms and people, and does not reveal any such things as collective tables, collective chairs, collective atoms or collective people. There is no such thing as a collective person and such an entity would be the projection of a contradiction, for it would include everybody and nobody, and everybody and nobody would inhabit it. Since only individuals exist and there is no such thing as a mystical, supernatural person, society is only a collection or summation of separate individuals; it is not a thing or person itself; and one individual's life, problems or issues are not the life, problems or issues of any other individual. One individual's sins are not the sins of any other individual and no individual should be forced to pay for the sins of any other. There exists no mystical social responsibility but only physical, flesh and blood, individual responsibility, and a secular society, unguided by social religions of the state or the people, enforces the justice one person owes to another in compensation or exchange, and rejects any such notion as social justice, which makes the individual responsible for the welfare of a mystical group, and for correcting deeds, ameliorating situations or righting wrongs he did not create. Listen to the words of the proponents of student debt relief and hear them proclaim that taxpayers owe hundreds of billions of dollars to students to repay loans which taxpayers never took out. Hear them proclaim that forcing Neighbor A to pay Neighbor B's debts is eminently fair, just and reasonable. Hear them proclaim that those who are careful and prudent have a responsibility to pay the debts of those who are reckless and irresponsible. Hear them proclaim that students who saved for the future and paid their college debts have a responsibility to pay the debts incurred by students who lived wastefully, extravagantly and lived like animals for the range of the moment. Hear them proclaim that people who chose to go out and work and not attend university have a responsibility to pay the tuition of those who chose not to work and chose to attend university. Hear them proclaim that those who never took out student loans have a responsibility to pay the debts of those who did. Hear them proclaim that a progressive politician is a social justice warrior who bribes voters with the coin of student debt cancellations in order to win over their votes. Hear them proclaim that people who lived frugally, worked while attending university, attended inexpensive universities, attended trade schools and paid their tuition have a responsibility to support student rogues who did none of these things. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society is a far left society which can make reality disappear and cancel student debts by forcing those who did not incur them to repay them. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society forces taxpayers to subsidize the cost of higher education for loungers and idlers who refused to pay their way. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society forces parents who saved money and paid their children's student loans to pay the debts of students whose parents did not save money and who themselves did not save money. Hear them proclaim that a progressive society is a giveaway society, a society which grants red agitators a free education, communist philosophers free courses of study, and gender, race and class activists free seminars and megaphones, and finances this by picking the pockets of the sacrificial lambs who work for their daily bread and live as honest, upstanding, law abiding citizens opposed to the Marxist slavery bells tolling the end of civilization: "According to an analysis from the Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget, President Biden's debt cancellation plan will cost between '$440 billion and $600 billion over the next ten years,' and Republicans are continuing to warn that the move is not fiscally responsible or fair. President Biden on Wednesday announced his plan to forgive a portion of student loan debt for those earning less than $125,000 per year. According to a graphic shared by Biden, under the plan, those making less than $125,000 will see $20,000 forgiveness if they went to college on a Pell Grant, and $10,000 for those who did not receive Pell Grants. While some Democrats say the plan does not go far enough, most are celebrating it as a step in the right direction, while conservatives continue to warn that it is yet another irresponsible and unfair fiscal move at the hands of Democrats. 'Why should a machinist in Ohio pay for the student loans of a jobless philosophy major in Los Angeles?' Representative Jim Jordan (R-OH) asked on Thursday. 'I joined the Army instead of taking out another loan when I was in medical school. Many Americans make the same decision I did. At a time when every service branch is struggling to meet recruitment goals, Joe Biden's student loan giveaway will make this problem worse,' Senator Roger Marshall (R-KS) warned. Senator Tom Cotton (R-AR) referred to the plan as nothing more than a 'shameless bribe,' while Representative Lee Zeldin (R-NY) described it as a 'slap in the face to people who sacrificed to pay loans, worked through college, went to a less expensive school or skipped college altogether. Magically canceling loans is bad, far left policy & just flat out wrong.' 'Here's what President Biden's so-called canceling of student debt really means: Americans who already paid off their debt, worked through college, went to a trade school, or chose to not go to school will pay off the loans that other people incurred. On what planet is that fair?' Senator John Kennedy (R-LA) asked." (Analysis: Biden's Student Loan Forgiveness Will Cost Half A Trillion Dollars by Hannah Bleau). The most advanced stage of human development occurs when human freedom is valued, property rights are respected, and people keep their promises and pay their debts. Issuing an executive order which forgives 10,000 to 20,000 dollars in debt for people who took out student loans, Joe Biden committed an act without moral or constitutional authority. He unilaterally changed the terms of contracts between lenders and borrowers and allocated money to cover loans which only Congress can allocate. He transferred repayment obligations to people who never signed the contracts and forced taxpayers to pay for the sins of students. Promulgating blatant unfairness and flagrant illegality under the banners of social responsibility, Joe Biden has composed an end of Rome scenario for America in the new millennium.

SUBVERSION IN SACRAMENTO'S SCHOOLS

Harvey Willson Harkness was a preeminent American scientist known throughout the world for his research into the natural history of the American Pacific States. Lecturing throughout Europe and North Africa, he shared his pioneering knowledge of fungal species, volcanic cones and fossil footprints. In 1853, he was elected first president of the Sacramento board of education and sought to establish a school system which would inculcate the values of science, enlightenment and liberal order. Inspired by his vision, the city commissioners opened Sacramento's first public school in 1854 and mandated that education in the city be race blind and gender blind. The commissioners established coeducational instruction and forbid racially segregated classrooms. In the twenty first century, the spirit of Harvey Willson Harkness has been cast to the winds by a frightening new dispensation and the halls of his venerable schools have been defaced with the graffiti of this new order's slogans. In the twenty first century, a public school system with 50,000 students in eighty one schools, in the eleventh largest school district in California, has consigned the vision and values of Harvey Willson Harkness to the dustbin of banned ideas and set forth in their place the vision and values of the radical left. In the twenty first century, the Sacramento City Unified City School District has adopted a pedagogy which has replaced the methods and practices of traditional academic teaching with a course of indoctrination in subjects and concepts minted in the factories of gender, race and class politics, and launched a crusade to tear down the walls of Western liberal democracy. It has promoted, promulgated and put into practice a manifesto of moral and pedagogical subversion which has tolled the death knell of education in the city and mirrored the impending ruination and actual collapse of liberal education throughout the West. Listen to its aims, policies and public pronouncements and hear a declaration of total war against everything Harvey Willson Harkness believed in and fought for during the radiant springtime of American culture. The Arctic wastelands of red ideologies have engulfed America in the twenty first century and the curriculum established by the Sacramento City Unified City School District has brought down permanent winter upon the lives and careers of its students. The new terrifying approach to teaching adopted by the district's schools proclaims that a progressive education promotes the tenets of queer theory, which assert that heterosexual impulses are not normal and homosexual impulses must be encouraged. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of heterosexual oppression. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of oppression against women. It proclaims that a progressive education teaches transgenderism and facilitates children's transitions to the opposite sex. Science has known for decades that transgenderism is a false doctrine. It has known that sex is determined by threads of genes called chromosomes, that males possess XY chromosomes or gene threads while females possess XX chromosomes, and that in consequence sex is a fixed and immutable biological reality which cannot be changed by any surgical or chemical means. It has known that people who have undergone so-called transgender therapy remain XX or XY throughout their lives and ever remain the sex they genetically are. The red manifesto of the Sacramento City Unified City School District proclaims that capitalism is a lash of power and privilege in the hands of nontransgender people. It proclaims that capitalism is an oppressive system of patriarchy, homophobia and transphobia. It proclaims that a progressive education rejects the principles of sanity, science and common sense and promotes gender change and gender nonconformity. It proclaims that a progressive education fills school libraries with books promoting transgenderism and removes from the shelves books which acknowledge the empirically grounded genetic basis of sex. It proclaims that a progressive education empowers equity task forces to ensure that every student in every classroom accepts the truth of transgenderism. It proclaims that a progressive education instructs teachers to be staunch allies in the cause of transgenderism and to promote the legends of bigenderism, two spirit genderism and drag queens. It proclaims that a progressive education encourages students who experience gender dysphoria to explore options for gender change and to utilize hormones and surgery to validate their feelings. It proclaims that a progressive education teaches students a code of polite and proper behavior toward transgender individuals. It teaches them never to ask a transgender individual what his or her real name is, never to ask a transgender male if she has female genitals or a transgender female if he has male genitals, and never to exhibit shock or dismay at the sight of a transgender male using facilities reserved for males or the sight of a transgender female using facilities reserved for females. The red manifesto of the Sacramento City Unified City School District proclaims that a progressive education instructs teachers to refer to students by their chosen gender pronouns and other gender markers, and to refer to transgender males using him, transgender females using her, transgender waiters using waitress, and transgender waitresses using waiter. It proclaims that a progressive education encourages students to undergo hormonal and surgical treatment purporting to change sex without the knowledge or consent of their parents. It proclaims that a progressive education is a safe space in which students who wish to change their sex are shielded from questions or comments from those who adhere to the findings of science and acknowledge the fixed, immutable, genetic reality of sex. Look at the Sacramento City Unified School District and see a sanctuary for the insane in which students who refuse to accept the reality of genetically determined sex are protected from criticism, challenge, discussion or debate by those who accept this reality. See the rejection of science in the proclamation that gender is not assigned by genes and can be changed by chemical and surgical interventions. See the psychosis of transgenderism granted official advocacy, approval and support. See school teachers and administrators placed in the service of a new religion of Lysenkoism which, like its forerunner, denies the reality of genes, and peddles pseudoscience in the final century of civilization: "Students who have same sex attractions, who are uncomfortable with their assigned gender, or who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender, face enormous social pressures and challenges that affect their school success, health and well being. As a result, LGBTQ youth are more vulnerable to such issues as school dropout, bullying, academic failure and parental rejection. SCUSD's LGBTQ Support Services program offers students, families, school staff and community professionals a centralized source of information and support regarding issues facing LGBTQ students that attend SCUSD schools. Services include information/referral, short term counseling, Infinite Campus Name and Gender Update form, and advocacy (eg Safe Zone trainings). All services are confidential and are provided free of charge." (Sacramento City Unified School District, website). Look at the Sacramento City Unified School District and see the abrogation of the constitutional right to free speech and the censoring of words, images, conversations, comments, communications, posters, notes, stories, cartoons, jests, drawings, gestures, pictures, displays, descriptions and propositions deemed to be offensive to the orthodoxy of radical feminism: "Types of conduct which are prohibited in the District and which may constitute sexual harassment include, but are not limited to: 1. Unwelcome leering, sexual flirtations, or propositions. 2. Sexual slurs, epithets, threats, verbal abuse, derogatory comments or sexually degrading descriptions 3. Graphic verbal comments about an individual's body, or overly personal conversation 4. Sexual jokes, derogatory posters, notes, stories, cartoons, drawings, pictures or obscene gestures, or computer generated images of a sexual nature 5. Spreading sexual rumors 6. Teasing or sexual remarks about students enrolled in a predominantly single sex class. 10. Displaying sexually suggestive objects. 12. Electronic communications containing comments, words, or images described above." (Sacramento City Unified School District, website). Look at the Sacramento City Unified School District and see the banning of speech which criticizes gender, race and class ideologies and promotes liberal values on the grounds that such is harmful, threatening, harassing, abusive, denigrating and disruptive: "Students may not produce, distribute, access, use or store information that is determined to be any of the following: • Harmful, threatening, harassing, abusive, or denigrating to others • Obscene, pornographic or inappropriate in language • Disruptive to the work of others." (Sacramento City Unified School District, website). Sacramento is the capital of California, the seat of its legislature, governor and high court, and the center of lobbying and think tanks in the state. Located at the confluence of the Sacramento and American Rivers, the city lies submerged beneath a rising tide of red politics whose streams have poisoned its school system and flowed in the final hours of the West.

THE BIDEN REGIME

A regime is a form of government characterized by violations of individual rights and a rejection of the rule of law. A regime is an authoritarian government which is opposed to liberal, constitutional order. In the twenty first century, the unthinkable, the inconceivable and the unimaginable has occurred and America, once the freest nation on earth and the world's arsenal of liberty, has descended into the jungles of governance by a regime, and forsaken its founding institutions and ideals. America has become a mirror, reflection, symptom and bellwether of the general decline of the West, and the partisan weaponization of its government, and concentration of power into the hands of a corrupt president and his law enforcement officers, has created a tragedy of epic proportions and cast down a nightmare of nightmares, as it has signaled the onset of doomsday for the cause of civilization. This is how it ends, this is how civilization falls, this is how ancient Rome collapsed, in a state of moral and political disintegration which gives rise to uncontrolled caesars and their praetorian guards, placating, appeasing and deriving their dark powers from communist mobs. In the grip of communist mobs since the early decades of the twentieth century, when communism, peddled as progressivism, first made its entrance into American political life, America has installed a line of caesar figures into power over the past one hundred years, and the latest in this line, President Joe Biden, has encapsulated and intensified all the caesars who preceded him, and his crimes against the constitution have definitively closed off the story of America. A recital of the wrongdoings committed by Biden and officials in his regime is a litany of disgrace of a nation which once led the way in adherence to the law and respect for the rights of the people, and is a procession into the destruction of mankind's development, a destruction decreed whenever free societies are taken over by communist majorities. Item. The federal government's suppression of Joe Biden's corrupt dealings. In April 2019, Joe Biden's son Hunter brought a water damaged laptop into a computer repair shop in Wilmington, Delaware owned by John Paul Mac Isaac. The cache of emails discovered in the laptop revealed the following. It revealed that Hunter Biden introduced his father, then Vice President Joe Biden, to an executive at the Ukrainian energy company Burisma, Vadym Pozharskyi, eight months before the Joe Biden pressured Ukraine government officials into firing a prosecutor who was investigating corruption at Burisma. It revealed a message of appreciation to Hunter from Pozharskyi for having arranged the meeting: "Dear Hunter, Thank you for inviting me to DC and giving an opportunity to meet your father and spend some time together. It's really an honor and pleasure. As we spoke yesterday evening, would be great to meet today for a quick coffee. What do you think? I could come to your office somewhere around noon or so or on my way to the airport. Best, Vadym." (April 17, 2015). The cache of emails revealed that Joe Biden, code named "the big guy", expected a ten percent share of the profits generated by a Chinese investment firm: "The equity will be distributed as follows: 20 H [Hunter], 20 RW [Robert Walker], 20 JG [James Gilliar], 20 TB [Tony Bobulinski], 10 Jim [Jim Biden], 10 held by H for the big guy [Joe Biden]." (Email from James Gilliar, May 13, 2017). In a press conference in October 2020, Bobulinski revealed the various code names for Joe Biden: "There is no question that 'the big guy' is Joe Biden. Hunter Biden called his dad 'the Big Guy' or 'my Chairman,' and frequently referenced asking him for his sign off or advice on various potential deals that we were discussing." The FBI stated its intention to use violence against John Paul Mac Isaac if he revealed the contents of the laptop to the press or public: "Hunter Biden's laptop repairman, John Paul Mac Isaac, said an FBI agent threatened him to stay silent after Isaac told the agent he would change the FBI agents names when he published a book about 'the laptop from hell.' During an FBI visit to Isaac's laptop repair shop in December of 2019 to collect Hunter's laptop and subpoena, Isaac recorded in his book that Agent DeMeo threatened Isaac to not speak of the incident. 'Hey, lads, I'll remember to change your names when I write the book,' Isaac reportedly told the FBI agents while they were heading for the door. 'Agent Wilson kept walking but Agent DeMeo paused and turned to face me,' Isaac recounted. In response, DeMeo said, 'It is our experience that nothing ever happens to people that don't talk about these things.' Isaac wrote in his book he had to 'digest the encounter' due to the ominous statement. 'Was I being paranoid, or had what the agent just told me been a direct threat, or at best a thinly veiled one?' Isaac said he wondered." (Hunter Biden Laptop Repairman Says FBI Agent Threatened Him by Wendell Husebo). The FBI and the Department of Justice sought to suppress the facts and denied the evidence of corruption contained in Hunter Biden's laptop. Discrediting, devaluing, disparaging, deceiving and labeling as disinformation: such were the tactics employed by the government in its campaign to cover up Joe Biden's malfeasance, mercilessly detailed on every paragraph and page of the emails found in his son's laptop: "Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) claimed that 'highly credible' whistleblowers informed him of efforts within the FBI and the Justice Department to downplay or dismiss negative information about Hunter Biden. According to letters reviewed by CBS News, Grassley, the ranking member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, wrote FBI Director Christopher Wray and Attorney General Merrick Garland alleging that sources within the FBI presented to him evidence of attempts to downplay or discredit information about Hunter Biden. 'The information provided to my office involves concerns about the FBI's receipt and use of derogatory information relating to Hunter Biden, and the FBI's false portrayal of acquired evidence as disinformation. The volume and consistency of these allegations substantiate their credibility and necessitate this letter,' wrote Grassley. 'First, it's been alleged that the FBI developed information in 2020 about Hunter Biden's criminal financial and related activity. It is further alleged that in August 2020, FBI Supervisory Intelligence Analyst Brian Auten opened an assessment which was used by an FBI Headquarters (FBI HQ) team to improperly discredit negative Hunter Biden information as disinformation and caused investigative activity to cease.' " (Chuck Grassley: 'Highly Credible' Whistleblowers Say FBI, DOJ Downplay Negative Hunter Biden Information by Paul Bois). Item. On August 8, 2022, the FBI executed a search warrant at Mar a Lago, the residence of Donald Trump, in Palm Beach, Florida. Authorized by Attorney General Merrick Garland, approved by Magistrate Judge Bruce Reinhart, and recommended by the National Archives and Records Administration, the search warrant alleged that Trump violated federal laws contained in 18 USC, paragraphs 793, 1519 and 2071. Each charge fails in the case of Trump. Section 793, from the Espionage Act, prohibits the removal and misuse of defense documents when done "with the intent or reason to believe that the information is to be used to the injury of the United States, or to the advantage of any foreign nation." It is patently absurd that Trump was a spy for a foreign government or endeavored to harm America. Section 1519 states: "Whoever knowingly alters, destroys, mutilates, conceals, covers up, falsifies, or makes a false entry in any record, document, or tangible object with the intent to impede, obstruct, or influence the investigation or proper administration of any matter within the jurisdiction of any department or agency of the United States or in relation to or contemplation of any such matter or case, shall be fined under this title, imprisoned not more than twenty years, or both." Proving this charge requires what the FBI does not have: direct independent evidence or a confession of intent. Section 2071 does not apply to the president but covers documents "filed or deposited with any clerk or officer of any court of the United States, or in any public office, or with any judicial or public officer of the United States." The charge as well fails because it requires proof of intent. It requires proof that Trump "willfully concealed, removed, mutilated, obliterated, or destroyed, or attempted to destroy a protected document." These charges finally fail by virtue of the powers granted to Trump under Article Two of the Constitution: "The executive Power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America." (Section One, Clause One). "The President shall be Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the Militia of the several States, when called into the actual Service of the United States." (Section Two, Clause One). These powers establish that the president, as the executive officer of the federal government and commander in chief of the nation's defenses, possesses plenary power to handle, classify, remove, use or dispose of federal documents as he deems fit. Item. The Department of Justice refused to prosecute Hillary Clinton for her violation of the Espionage Act through her intentional transfer of classified emails from the State Department server to her private server, and her intentional destruction of mass quantities of email evidence during the course of an FBI investigation by means of BleachBit software and hammers. Item. The Department of Justice has refused to prosecute Joe Biden for his violation of the Foreign Emoluments Clause of the Constitution through the money making operations conducted with his son. In criminal law, a homicide is justified when it was reasonable for the subject to believe that he was in imminent danger of death or grave bodily harm at the hands of the person he killed. Ignoring the provisions of the Constitution regarding presidential authority, politicizing the pursuit of justice, and rejecting the principle of equal treatment under the law, the federal government under Joe Biden has murdered America's liberal order. It must be killed, overthrown and swept away by a movement of the people.

THE DEVIL FROM KONIGSBERG

On April 22, 1724, in Konigsberg, Germany, a boy was born who would grow up and destroy the world. He was raised in a family which extolled pietism, devotion, humility and a literal interpretation of the Bible. His education was strict; his life was disciplined; his routines were unvarying; and his neighbors set their clocks by his daily walks. His name was Immanuel Kant and he propounded a philosophical system which instantiated like no other system the Faustian subjectivism at the heart of Western culture, and systematically and methodically, imitating his stern upbringing and his singleminded patterns of behavior, dismantled every tenet and tradition of sanity and common sense. Faust: a German alchemist, astrologer and magician who was dissatisfied with the course of ordinary life. One day at a crossroads he made a pact with the Devil and exchanged his soul, exchanged his rationality and soundness of mind and judgment, for the possession of unlimited power and will. This man Faust and his adjective Faustian distinguish the culture of the West, which emerged in the dark woods and evening lands of ancient Germany when the bells in Europe tolled 1000 AD, from the culture of the Greeks and Romans, which emerged in the noonday fields of the god Apollo. This philosopher Kant and his adjective Kantian distilled the essence of Faust's harvest of the Devil and formulated the most influential philosophical system in the history of the West, a system whose students, followers and multifarious progeny have served as riflemen and flamethrowers, leaving in their wake the charred, bullet ridden house of mental health and well being. This philosopher Kant propounded the essence of Faust, subjectivism, in every field of philosophy and made Western man definitively close the door on reality. Kant proclaimed that physical objects are not real but are created by man's perception, while reality is that which cannot be perceived and is nonphysical. He proclaimed that what we perceive are mere "appearances", while reality consists of "things in themselves". Listen to his words and hear him proclaim that consciousness does not conform to physical reality because physical reality does not exist, and what is called physical reality is a purely mental reality which conforms to and is created by consciousness. Hear him proclaim that the act of perception generates objects and does not perceive objects, as the naive and the ignorant believe. Hear him proclaim that the world of cognition is the only world which is accessible to man and what is called physical nature is a delusion and a world of man's creation: "Up to now it has been assumed that all our cognition must conform to objects; but all attempts to find out something about them apriori have come to nothing. Hence let us once try whether we do not get farther by assuming that objects must conform to our cognition. This would be just like the first thoughts of Copernicus, who, when he did not make good progress in the explanation of celestial motions when he assumed that celestial bodies revolve around the observer, tried to see if he might not have greater success if he made the observer revolve and left the stars at rest. Now in metaphysics we can try in a similar way regarding the perception of objects. If perception has to conform to the constitution of the objects, then I do not see how we can know anything of them apriori; but if the object conforms to our perception, then I can very well represent this possibility to myself." (Critique Of Pure Reason by Immanuel Kant). Common sense understands that perception is the perception of something physical or there is no such thing as an act as perception. It understands that perception which perceives nothing is a contradiction in terms. It understands that to say that man does not perceive physical objects is to say that man is blind because he sees. It understands that an entity possessing eyes is blind when it does not see, and not when it does see, and is blind when its eyes do not function, and not when they do function. Listen to Kant's words and hear him proclaim that man knows nothing whatever, that he perceives no world of physical objects and does not even know himself, but only how he appears to himself: "The objects we perceive in space and time are appearances, not objects that exist independently of our perception (not things in themselves). The mental states we perceive in introspection are also not real; in introspection, I perceive only how I appear to myself, not how I am in myself." (Critique Of Pure Reason by Immanuel Kant). Common sense understands that the notion of apriori knowledge, or knowledge which is acquired by inference from innate forms independently of perception, leads to subjectivism and the abolition of knowledge and is a contradiction in terms. For if man possessed innate forms, these could never be removed and checked against reality. Man could never escape these forms or take a position outside them and perceive a world of objects. Kant derives his morality from his theory of knowledge. Since all perception is subjective and man can know nothing about reality, the only good of man is his internal will and obedience to its laws. Kant proclaims that the foundation of all morality is obedience to a series of categorical imperative issued by the will. A categorical imperative is an imperative which must be obeyed regardless of consequences, either to oneself or to others. Listen to Kant's words and hear his exaltation of the will: "It is impossible to think of anything at all in the world, or indeed even beyond it, that could be considered good without limitation except a good will." (Foundations Of The Metaphysics Of Morals by Immanuel Kant). Kant proclaims that the basic categorical imperative is the following: "Act only according to a law by which you can at the same time will that it become a universal law." Thus one should never tell lies because if any person were morally permitted to tell lies whenever he or she chose to do so, the institutions of telling the truth would break down. Thus as well one should always keep one's promises because if any person were morally permitted to break promises whenever he or she chose to do so, the institution of promise keeping would break down. Thus as well one should always obey the orders issued by one's superiors because if any person were morally permitted to disobey these orders whenever he or chose to do so, the structure of organizations would break down. Thus as well one should always obey the laws of the state because if any person were permitted to disobey such laws whenever he or she chose to do so, law and order would break down and chaos and violence would ensue. Common sense understands that telling a lie to a murderer, or breaking one's promises to a murderer, in order to save an innocent human life, are both morally obligatory, if one is committed to achieving the ends of justice. Common sense understands that disobedience of orders issued by one's superiors, or laws established by the state, if such orders or laws would result in the commission of immoral acts or violations of human rights, is likewise morally obligatory. Common sense understands that a rule which commands telling the truth to a murderer which enables him to take the life of an innocent person is a rule not worth preserving; that an army which commands acts which violate human rights is an army not worth fighting in; that a business enterprise which commands acts which are fraudulent or dishonest is a business enterprise not worth working in; and that a state which establishes laws which oppress and persecute innocent people is a state not worth living in. Common sense sets forth the following universal moral laws with consequentialist qualifications. An individual should tell the truth, keep his or her promises, obey the orders of his or her superiors, and obey the laws of his or her state unless and until there is a rational warrant for not doing so. Common sense understands that obedience to rules, orders or laws without regard to consequences, and though innocent people may suffer, die or be defrauded, lowers one's stature as a rational being and is opposed to one's interests rationally understood. Listen to the words of Kant and hear him disparage rational aims, rational purposes, rational inclinations and rational self interest, and exalt the performance of duty which sacrifices all of these: "I omit here all actions which are already recognised as inconsistent with duty, although they may be useful for this or that purpose, for with these the question whether they are done from duty cannot arise at all, since they conflict with it. I also set aside those actions which really conform to duty, but to which men have no direct inclination, performing them because they are impelled thereto by some other inclination. For in this case we can readily distinguish whether the action which agrees with duty is done from duty, or from a selfish view." (Foundations Of The Metaphysics Of Morals by Immanuel Kant) Kant derives his esthetics

from his theory of knowledge. Since all perception is subjective and man can know nothing about reality, man's judgements of beauty are purely subjective. Beauty is not a state of order or harmony inhering in objects in reality because all such objects are human constructs, but is rather the pleasure produced by the "free play" of the mind and imagination. There is no objective property, purpose or end of a thing which makes it to be beautiful. Beauty is nothing more than a subjective judgment of taste. Esthetic judgments are not rational judgments but are purely emotional judgments. Listen to the words of Kant and hear him proclaim that judgments of beauty have no basis in reality: "It is an empirical judgment that I perceive and judge an object with pleasure. But it is an a priori [subjective] judgment that I find it beautiful, that is, I attribute this satisfaction necessarily to every one." (Critique Of Judgment by Immanuel Kant). An incubus is a male demon who impregnates a sleeping woman. The result of the union is the birth of evil, deformed offspring. On April 22, 1724, Anna Regina Kant was entered by a being swirling up from the depths of Faustian hell. Morally and spiritually deformed, this child would grow up and set into motion a whirlwind of horror. The man Kant would formulate a subjective theory of knowledge, which would give rise to conventionalism and doctrines of the relativity of truth to genders, races, classes, cultures, nations and ethnicities. The man Kant would formulate a subjective theory of morality sacrificing the achievement of rational self interest to obedience to rules, which would give rise to massive global crime waves justified in the name of my rules, your rules, anybody's rules, society's rules and the state's rules. The man Kant would formulate a subjective theory of esthetics projecting art as the free play of pure forms, which would give rise to the psychotic formalism of abstract art, music without melody, and literature and film without meaning, plots, stories or connected sequences of events. Columns of darkness moving round and round at lightning speed, breaking apart civilized existence, seeded by Faust's emissary in Königsberg.

BERLIN 1936: THE WORLD'S GREATEST OLYMPICS

King Kong was a fictional monster resembling a gorilla who made his first appearance in the classic 1933 eponymous film. Kong is an inhabitant of Skull Island in the Indian Ocean, where he lives and fights with dinosaurs. An American film crew captures him and takes him to New York City in order to exhibit him as the Eighth Wonder Of The World. Kong escapes from the crew and climbs the Empire State Building in an attempt to protect Ann Darrow, a beautiful actress who had been kidnapped by the natives on the island and offered to Kong as a sacrifice. While he is climbing the building, he is attacked by airplanes with guns and falls to the ground dead. Upon seeing his dead body, the leader of the film crew proclaims: "It wasn't the airplanes, but beauty which killed the beast." In the real world in the twentieth century, the strange and terrifying love of bestial forces for the avatars of goodness and beauty was nowhere more on display than during the 1936 Olympic Games held in Berlin, Germany. Inspired by the ancient competitions held in Olympia, Greece from the eighth century BC to the fourth century AD, the modern Olympics have been the leading international sports competitions since their inception in Athens in 1896 by the International Olympic Committee, and the Games of the XI Olympiad, held in Germany's capital city from August 1 to August 16, 1936, were a sports celebration like no other. They were a celebration of the beauty of the human form which had not been seen before in the modern Olympics and have not been seen since, and brought back the spirit of the Classical world as no other sports competition ever has. But they took place in a context which belied their humanity and presented a challenge to civilized people to separate the content from the context, and exalt the former as a beacon to mankind, while condemning the latter as the arrival of civilizational doomsday and destruction. The content. Classical Greece and Rome, the noonday meadows blazing with perfection, the temple to the god Apollo, sanctifying the intellect of man. The context. A murderous regime born in the satanic womb of Marx, which retained Marx's methods but changed the names and figures, and worshiped the Aryan race in place of Marx's proletarian class, targeted the Jews in place of Marx's bourgeois, fomented race war in place of Marx's class war, and launched a campaign of annihilation against the enemies of the Aryan nation. Civilized people have removed the Classical soul of the 1936 Olympics from its corrupted, goose stepping, seig heiling, Hitlerian body, beheld its fourteen day story of human skill and excellence, and for a brief, fleeting, shining moment, beheld an oasis in the desert, a path through the dark woods, the sun on the distant horizon and the stars breaking through a cloud filled night, before they vanished in a Marxist inspired whirlpool of horror which engulfed the final age of civilization and composed its closing chapter. The story of the 1936 Berlin Olympics. The Classical past, Classical ruins and Classical statues. The human body is celebrated as static perfection in the epic stance. The human body is celebrated in motion by means of the discus throw, the shot put and the javelin. The statues metamorphose into athletes. The Olympic torch is ignited, carried from Greece, and carried in a relay run, the first of its kind in the history of the modern Olympics, across the nations of Europe, its journey symbolizing the universal essence of man, before being deposited in Germany. On July 26, 1936, the Olympic torch is lit in Olympia, Greece by a mirror focusing the rays of the sun. The torch travels through southeastern and central Europe, passing through Greece, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Austria and Czechoslovakia. It is carried from Greece to Berlin through a distance of three thousand kilometres by three thousand runners in twelve days and eleven nights. The route is divided into sections, each one kilometer long, which the relay runners traverse in five minutes. On August 1, 1936, the final relay runner lights two urns in the center of Berlin, and they commence the games and burn for their duration. Pioneered at the 1936 Berlin Olympics, the torch relay symbolized the Promethean fires of human skill and achievement, uniting in antiMarxist fashion all genders, races and classes, which the Berlin games exalted as no other games had done or have done since that time: "The Olympic Torch Relay is now a powerful symbol of understanding and brotherhood among peoples. Contrary to what people could imagine, this tradition does not go back to the Games in Olympia. A modern invention (the first Relay was held in 1936 and the Olympic Movement recognized its great symbolic value in 1948), the Torch Relay is, however, inspired by several ancient practices. There were never any relays held at the ancient Olympic Games nor at the Pan Hellenic Games (held in Nemea, Delphi and the Isthmus of Corinth. However, in Athens there were torch races (Lampadedromia) held in honor of certain gods, including Prometheus. The flame was passed on by relay runners and the first to arrive at the altar of the god had the honor of rekindling the fire." (The Olympic Flame And The Torch Relay by Olympic Museum). During the Berlin games, a sports battle between knights is staged. This battle brings the combatants together in understanding, respect and fundamental humanity. Transcending the categories of gender, race and class, it unites the combatants in the spirit of liberal peace and benevolence. During the games, the high jump is a ballet in the air. The hurdles, relays, long jump, throwing the hammer and pole vaulting are performed by superhuman bodies. The athletes burst out of the stadium in untrammelled strength and exuberance. The runners' marathon is the mark of human achievement and endurance. The runners' feet pound the pavement. Their leg muscles pulsate. Their bodies tense. Every movement of surges with energy and drive. Endless power radiates from them, while weakness and exhaustion drain out of them. In the rowing and riding events, the contestants are pure dynamic flows. In the swimming events, the divers defy the law of gravity. They appear in the sky from nowhere. They burst out like firework displays. They perform twists, twirls and arcs and refuse to descend. In their sailings, swoopings and climbings, they epitomise the qualities of grace and elegance. Look at the world of the Berlin Olympics and see a lyric poem and an address to mankind on the beauty of the human form. See an exaltation of athletic excellence and soaring heights of the human ability. See competitions of men and women of all races united by the universal essence of reason. See sportsmen and sportswomen scaling peaks of preternatural skill. See relentless blasts of athletic brilliance and sports mastery. See human muscles break through the bounds of space and time. See vaulters mock the hurdles before them. See sports records shattered by human embodiments of suppleness and agility. See equestrians undeterred by dangerous courses. See leapers and springers race through wind and sky, propelled by indomitable energy, unconquered by darkness, perform better than any predecessors in the depths of night. See track and field achievements light up the temples of stamina and endurance. See athletes lean, tough and sinewy, dive through the air, curve, bend and change direction, display deftness beyond words, and defeat the pull of mass and weight. See illuminations of sports talent, pyrotechnics of athletic accomplishment, exhibitions of courage and determination, and a triumph of the human will, without precedent in the history of modern sports: "Although originally commissioned by Hitler, who is seen briefly in the opening ceremony sequences, Olympia is not an ode to fascism. Instead, it is a brilliant film record of the human spirit and athletic excellence, documenting the achievements of men and women of all races and colors. This is something that Hitler never imagined, hence his conspicuous absence from most of the film as the German team loses event after event! Compared with today's overcommercialized sports industry, Olympia is a blast of vintage fresh air. The competitors are not the surly, greedy, muscle bound characters of today, but rather an amazing group of wiry, spunky amateurs. They competed without aiming for broadcast and endorsement deals, which makes their accomplishments all the more remarkable. Thanks to Riefenstahl's groundbreaking direction (rich with slow motion photography, low angle camera placement, and ingenious tracking shots), the athletes are conveyed with a sense of artistry never seen before or since in a sports documentary. Olympia showcases Jesse Owens's legendary track and field achievements, which shattered sports records as well as Hitler's lunatic myths of Aryan supremacy. Owens's brilliance, which outlasted the Nazi policy of racism, is captured here in full, along with other highlights, such as Glenn Morris's come from behind victory in the decathlon; the often hilarious equestrian events, in which several horses protest the hazardous course by dethroning their riders before reaching the toughest hurdles; and a pole vault competition that lasted well into the night, with athletes charging out of the darkness and flying through the night sky, their lithe bodies twisting and turning in almost erotic slow motion." (Golden Days by Phil Hall). In 1933, national socialism assumed power in Germany and great curtains of rain came crashing down upon the nation, and it was submerged in waves of hatred and violence. Three years later, a light emerged from this darkness, a foxfire began to glow from the decayed matter, and a white lotus appeared in the slime. For two weeks in August 1936, the cataclysm paused. The Berlin Olympics beautified the world.

COMMUNIST NIGHT RIDERS TERRORIZE WHITES

"What they did is hurting my family." Thus stated Patrick Tanner to members of the Joint Select Committee Inquiring Into the Affairs of the Late Insurrectionary States on July 7, 1871. In his testimony before Congress, Tanner described a gang of armed and masked white men which had attacked his family. He described night riding and waves of terror undertaken by the Ku Klux Klan which had swept across the former slaveholding states after Congress passed the 1867 Second Reconstruction Act, which required these states to recognize the black man's right to vote. He described organized white supremacists who had led a war across the South to take away the freedom and liberty of black people. In twenty first century America, the race haters are back in business, leading a movement of violence, assault and brazen discrimination, mounting their horses under the banners of a new type of Marxism, changing the names and characters of Marx's proletarian class war into a race war fought by black nationalists, and seeking the black nationalist destruction of the liberal order. This is how civilizations end, in maelstroms of tribal wars, as the masses storm the ramparts of constitutional law, and demand the abolition of the institutions which characterize advanced human development: meritocracy, individual rights, and the equal protection without regard to race. Adopting the methods of their master Marx, the method of rejecting individual existence and viewing reality through the lens of tribal politics, the method of seeing mystical group abstractions in place of real, flesh and blood people, Marx's second generation warriors, the warriors of race, have blasted out a manifesto of black power which has set back the progress of centuries and tolled the death bell of civilization. As a conclusion logically proceeds from its premises, race war logically proceeds from class war; it proceeds with the iron necessity of evil bearing multifarious fruit; and the proponents of today's race wars have carried Marxism to its ultimate stage and made the annihilation of whites the culminating chapter of the story of the West. Graduating with honors from the school of Marx, and exalting race insanity in place of class insanity, the manifesto the new black Klan proclaims that a progressive society distributes rights and privileges on the basis of race and mandates racism, bigotry and unjust, prejudicial treatment of whites in every aspect of life. It proclaims that a progressive airline recruits pilots on the basis of race, and not flying ability, and has an all black flying crew. It proclaims that a progressive airline ensures that fifty percent of its pilots are black, whether or not they are qualified to fly. It proclaims that a progressive airline prioritizes race in its hiring, gives preferential treatment to black candidates, and places its passengers' lives at risk in the name of being socially responsible. It proclaims that a progressive corporation establishes racial quotas in hiring, promotion and the distribution of bonuses and gives special treatment to blacks. It proclaims that a progressive corporation signals to its white employees that being white presents an insuperable obstacle to receiving promotions and rising through the ranks. It proclaims that a progressive corporation offers its executives raises and bonuses if they reduce the percentage of white employees in their departments. It proclaims that a progressive school system demotes its white teachers or dismisses them outright. It proclaims that a progressive school system facing budget cutbacks protects black teachers from dismissals and only dismisses white teachers. It proclaims that a progressive school system indoctrinates its students with the tenets of critical race theory. According to this theory, progressive social theory is critical of liberal enlightenment values and advocates the establishment of a race and class based legal, political and economic system carrying the banners of black communist dictatorship. It proclaims that a progressive school system segregates students on the basis of race and gives black students superior instruction and facilities. It proclaims that capitalism is antiblack and is a lash of white exploitation and oppression. It proclaims that our race defines us and marks us as superior or inferior beings, according to whether we are black or white. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the principle of racial equality and robs whites of their civil rights. It proclaims that a progressive society is a far left, wokeist, racist society alert to the injustice of the liberal order and constructed on the basis of black racial supremacism. It proclaims that a progressive school system increases the presence of black students in order to establish black representation based on black proportion in society. It proclaims that a progressive corporation lowers its barriers to entry in order to hire unqualified black candidates. Look at corporations today and see color blind civil rights laws cast to the winds. See a war launched against white employees by far left management. See racist policies promoted in the name of antiracism and favored treatment given to blacks. See white employees informed that they will never be promoted or treated fairly because they are white. See a poison spread unchecked into every desk and cubicle of the workplace and destroy meritocracy: the poison of hatred of whites, inequity toward whites, and the advancement of blacks because they are black. See a business organization buried inside a coffin and overlaid with a pall: the pall of black racial quotas, discrimination against whites, and condemnation of the liberal opposition as racist fascists. See disparate treatment dispensed to black and white employees in an atmosphere of implacable hostility to whites. See white employees treated as members of a subaltern race and told to abase themselves before blacks, walk behind blacks, and apologize to blacks for the crime of being white. See corporate executives paid extra money to fire white employees and enforce a blacks only hiring policy. See white employees worked to exhaustion, subjected to nonstop scolding, criticism and persecution, and tarred and feathered with fabricated negative performance assessments. See senior positions filled with blacks because they are black and executive suites, shop floor stations, conference rooms and the institutions of liberal governance set on fire by the incendiaries of black swastika politics: "A former American Express employee filed a class action complaint Tuesday alleging that the credit card company exhibited 'callous indifference' to civil rights law by terminating him because he is white and spoke out against its 'racially discriminatory' policies. Brian Netzel, who worked a decade for Amex until he was terminated in 2020, told FOX Business that he sued the company on behalf of himself and potentially thousands of other similarly situated employees following 'an avalanche of bad things coming to white people in that company once George Floyd was killed.' The lawsuit alleges that amid the racial tensions roiling the US in 2020, Amex implemented 'antiracism' policies throughout its corporate structure that 'gave preferential treatment to individuals for being black and unambiguously signaled to white employees that their race was an impediment to getting ahead in the company.' Netzel said such policies fostered a workplace rife with 'a tremendous amount of animosity' in which white employees were unfairly punished or passed over for promotions, while some black employees were promoted merely to meet racial quotas and employees were encouraged to 'root out in McCarthy era fashion people who didn't agree with this overall philosophy.' Netzel pinpointed the origin of such policies at the top, recalling company town halls in which CEO Stephen Squeri reportedly engaged in 'what amounted to an emotional tirade against police, against systemic racism in the US and within American Express.' 'He made it clear that you needed to fight this with him, or you needed to find another place to work,' Netzel said of Squeri, who assumed his current position at the company in 2018. Netzel maintained that this created an atmosphere in which white employees were treated disparately and forced to undergo training in which they were told to treat black coworkers differently. 'We weren't allowed to talk before they talked in a meeting,' he said, adding that they were explicitly advised against things such as touching black people's hair, as if it were a frequent occurrence. According to the lawsuit, 'no admonishments were given to black employees nor did the training direct black employees on how they should conduct themselves around other races.' Netzel also noted that Squeri was open about the company's intention to fill the company's leadership roles with more African Americans. Netzel alleged in his complaint that his female manager, who is black, would 'aggressively harass and berate white employees,' overworking them and retaliating with poor performance reviews. He also claims that Amex was aware of her behavior, and that she was one of the executives who received financial incentives to reduce the number of white people in her department." (American Express Slapped With Lawsuit Alleging Discrimination Against White Employees by Jon Brown). In 1835, in Saint Louis, Missouri, the first recorded lynching took place in America. A black man named McIntosh was captured, chained to a tree, and burned to death before a crowd of one thousand cheering people. In the twenty first century, the riders of racial supremacy have returned to America, carrying the trees and ropes of black power. Masked in the fearsome hoods of a Hitlerian Marxism and critical race theory, they have brought forth a holocaust.

BIDEN'S MAY DAY SPEECH RALLIES REDS

On May 1, 1886, at the Haymarket Square in Chicago, Illinois, a communist riot commenced which demanded the overthrow of the government. On May 4, the rioters threw a bomb at police as they sought to end the violence, and the bombing resulted in the deaths of seven police officers and four civilians. In 1889, the Second International in Paris voted to commemorate the Haymarket bombing and to establish May 1 as the date for International Workers' Day, a celebration of the communist movement's campaign to abolish liberal democracy. Since that time, May 1 has been observed as a national holiday by reds throughout the world. In America, under pressure from patriotic citizens, International Workers' Day was moved to September 1, but the move did not succeed in altering the communist character and coloration of the holiday, and the America's Labor Day has been a rallying day ever since for reds throughout the nation. On September 1, 2022, at the Independence National Historical Park Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, the place where the Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution were adopted by America's Founding Fathers, and the Liberty Bell rang out on July 4, 1776, President Joe Biden delivered a speech which reaffirmed the subversive spirit of the holiday and disgraced the venue, the nation and the law abiding citizens which stood diametrically opposed to this spirit. Joe Biden launched an attack on the nation's free institutions and system of constitutional governance in an attempt to solidify the red grip on power and ensure the perpetual victory of gender, race and class activism in the world's erstwhile fortress of human rights and the rule of law. The United States Constitution contains seven guarantees of suffrage: two in articles in the original text and five in the amendments. Article Two establishes the electoral college and sets forth the powers of the vice president in certifying a presidential election: "The Electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by Ballot for two Persons. The President of the Senate [the vice president] shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted." Article Four establishes the right of the people in every state to have a democratic form of government in their state: "The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government." Fifteenth Amendment, ratified in 1870, allowed former slaves the right to vote. The Nineteenth Amendment, ratified in 1920, gave women the right to vote. The Twenty Third Amendment, ratified in 1961, gave presidential electors and the right to vote to residents of Washington DC. The Twenty Fourth Amendment, ratified in 1962, eliminated the payment of a poll tax as a condition for voting. The Twenty Sixth Amendment, ratified in 1971, established the right to vote at eighteen years of age. The right to vote and the existence of an electoral college presuppose the right to vote in free and fair elections and require the existence of honest ballots. In the absence of free and fair elections, the right to vote is meaningless and the act of casting ballots is a meaningless charade. Votes, ballots and certificates which are fraudulent are votes, ballots and certificates which exist in name only, and if the vice president does not have the right to withhold congressional certification of a presidential election on the grounds that the electors were fraudulently chosen, then he has the duty to count nonexistent certificates and count nonexistent votes, which means the duty to perform no tasks and to perform nothing whatever, which contention is without meaning. Listen to Biden's speech and hear the assertion that the 2020 presidential election was free and fair, that it was an exercise in true democracy, and that there was no right of the people to stage an insurrection to overturn the results: "And here, in my view, is what is true: MAGA [Make America Great] Republicans do not respect the Constitution. They do not believe in the rule of law. They do not recognize the will of the people. They refuse to accept the results of a free election. And they're working right now, as I speak, in state after state to give power to decide elections in America to partisans and cronies, empowering election deniers to undermine democracy itself. They look at the mob that stormed the United States Capitol on January 6th—brutally attacking law enforcement—not as insurrectionists who placed a dagger to the throat of our democracy, but they look at them as patriots. And they see their MAGA failure to stop a peaceful transfer of power after the 2020 election as preparation for the 2022 and 2024 elections. They tried everything last time to nullify the votes of 81 million people. This time, they're determined to succeed in thwarting the will of the people. This is a nation that respects free and fair elections. We honor the will of the people. We do not deny it. And this is a nation that rejects violence as a political tool. We do not encourage violence." (Remarks By President Biden On The Continued Battle For The Soul Of The Nation, White House, September 1, 2022). The record of fraud in the 2020 election is as clear and convincing as it is tragic and portentous, signaling the definitive end of American democracy, beacon of the free world, and the onset of a final age of extralegal and unconstitutional red control over the nation. Item. In Texas, ballot traffickers were paid $55,000 to collect 5,000 votes for Biden. Item. In Minneapolis, a ballot trafficking operation paid $300 for every ballot cast for Joe Biden. Item. In Georgia, a whistleblower admitted that he received $45,000 for stuffing ballot boxes with votes for Joe Biden. Item. In Louisiana, public officials paid ballot traffickers to identify Biden voters who had not voted, transport them to the polls and back to their homes, and pay them for their votes for Biden. The traffickers were paid $20 for every Biden vote they obtained. Item. In Michigan, surveillance videos reveal that voters were paid to vote for Joe Biden, paid to deposit their votes in unsecured receptacles, and paid to stuff drop boxes with Democrat Party fraud: "Michigan Citizens for Election Integrity reviewed thousands of hours of surveillance video obtained by The Gateway Pundit from 19 Detroit drop boxes for the November 2020 election. These videos covered a time span of 24 hrs a day for 37 days. Numerous people were found taking pictures with their phones of themselves with their ballots as they were depositing them in the drop boxes. Or they would simply take a picture of the ballot as they dropped it in. Were they just proud Detroiters showing the world that they had voted or was it something more? Was it required for payment for the ballot they deposited into the drop box? It was evident that many were trying to be surreptitious in the way they were taking their pictures so as to be out of view of the surveillance cameras. Phones were sometimes hidden close to their bodies or awkwardly in the palms of their hands. Some individuals had an accomplice walk up to the drop box with them and take a picture. Some had a person in their vehicle who took a picture of them. People were also recording the dropping off their ballots at the drop boxes and appeared to be face timing with someone who seemed to be talking them through the process. People were observed to be scanning QR codes given to them on pieces of papers with their phones after dropping their ballots. There were a lot of photographers who obviously appeared to be professionals being paid to take pictures of people depositing their ballots and/or the drop boxes." (Surveillance Videos Show Alleged Ballot Traffickers Take Photos of Their Ballots in Detroit, Michigan by Jim Hoft). Item. In Wisconsin, election officials violated state law and told nursing homes that they could ignore the requirement that special voting deputies supervise elections in their facilities. In consequence, ballot harvesters manufactured thousands of votes for Joe Biden. Item. In Arizona, Maricopa County Supervisor Steve Chucuri stated in an audio recording that the audit performed by the county after the 2020 election was "pretty bullshit" and said that votes for Joe Biden had been manufactured through fraudulent ballot collection and dead people voting: "I think it was done through dead people voting. I think it was multifaceted, including ballot harvesting." Item. Joe Biden's victory in the 2020 election was made possible by a campaign of wrongdoing which saw Democrat Party operatives, without legal authorization, collect fraudulent absentee ballots cast for Biden and deposit them in ballot boxes or at polling stations: " 'America needs to wake up' and take the malfeasance that occurred in the 2020 election—most notably through ballot traffickers—seriously, or it could happen again in future elections, True the Vote president and founder Catherine Engelbrecht told Breitbart News Daily. Engelbrecht spoke to Breitbart News Daily host and Editor in Chief Alex Marlow ahead of the release of the upcoming film by Dinesh D'Souza, 2,000 Mules, which analyzes obtained by True the Vote, showing how ballot harvesting manipulated the 2020 election." (True The Vote's Catherine Engelbrecht: 'America Needs To Wake Up' Or Election Malfeasance Could Occur Again by Hannah Bleau). On December 11, 2020, the United States Supreme Court issued a decision which shocked and dismayed law abiding citizens. In the case Texas v. Pennsylvania, the court pounded the gavel against the rule of law: "Texas lacks Article III standing to sue other states over how they conduct their own elections. Case dismissed." Texas had filed the lawsuit because Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan and Wisconsin violated the United States Constitution by changing election rules in the 2020 presidential election through nonlegislative means. The constitution stipulates that only a state's legislature, not a state's executive branch, judiciary or body such as a commission, has the power to change election rules: "The Times, Places and Manner of holding Elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof." (Article 1, Section 4). "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress." (Article 2, Section 1). The function of the Supreme Court is to ensure that the constitution is followed by governments at all levels, and every voter and every state in the nation possesses natural standing to protect the right to vote in free, fair and constitutionally sanctioned elections. On January 6, 2021, Vice President Mike Pence shocked and dismayed law abiding citizens and violated his oath of office to defend the constitution and enforce Article 2, which grants to the vice president the power to reject fraudulently chosen electors, without which power electoral certification is the certification of nothing. Pence stated in a letter to Congress: "It is my considered judgment that my oath to support and defend the Constitution constrains me from claiming unilateral authority to determine which electoral votes should be counted and which should not." On January 6, 2021 in Washington DC, Donald Trump led his supporters in an attack on the Capital Building and an attempted insurrection. After the abdication by the Supreme Court and Mike Pence of their responsibility to ensure free, fair and constitutionally sanctioned elections, after all peaceful means of overturning a fraudulent election had been exhausted, Donald Trump and his supporters sought redress in the only means which remained. They sought redress in violence. Civilized people have known for thousands of years that violence is the necessary language of victims of injustice who cannot obtain justice through peace. Confronting a criminal organization masquerading as a government, Donald Trump and his supporters sought help in the use of force. Following in the footsteps of the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising and the uprisings against communism staged throughout the East Bloc, Donald Trump and his supporters on January 6, 2021 strode into the field of battle against the murderers of the republic. Joe Biden's May Day—Labor Day speech galvanized the murderers.

RED QUEEN DIES

On June 2, 1953, a coronation took place at Westminster Abbey in London, England. During the ceremony, Elizabeth II took an oath, was anointed with holy oil, was invested with robes and regalia, and was crowned queen of the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Pakistan and Ceylon. The coronation took place before television cameras, the first coronation to be televised, and 300 million people throughout the world, from Canada to Cape Verde, saw live the formal investiture of Elizabeth Alexandra Mary Windsor. For the next 70 years and 214 days, the longest reign of any British monarch, the television cameras whirled, rolled and recorded, first in black and white and then in living color, something without precedent in the history of the British crown. The world had never witnessed anything like this, not in 1,200 years since the time when Alfred the Great in 886 AD assumed the title of King of the English. The miraculous medium for instantaneously transmitting sounds and pictures presented to a worldwide audience a timeline of treason against the founding ideals of Britain and the Enlightenment which made civilized people see and hear the death bells toll for the final act of civilization, and made them run for their lives. Broadcast in real time, broadcast as they happened, broadcast in the present, broadcast without rehearsing and without editing, were events which defined shame on the throne and illustrated, as nothing else had, the thousand year old proverb that a fish rots from the head down. Scene One. In November 1961, Elizabeth traveled to Ghana and to express her support for the Marxist dictator of the nation, President Kwame Nkrumah. Opposition to Elizabeth's visit and to her support for the enemies of the West was voiced by Winston Churchill in a letter to Prime Minister Harold MacMillan on October 19: "I have the impression that there is widespread uneasiness both over the physical safety of the queen and, perhaps more, because her visit would seem to endorse a regime which has imprisoned hundreds of Opposition members without trial and which is thoroughly authoritarian in tendency." The Marxist press in Ghana honored Elizabeth: "You are the greatest socialist monarch in history." Nkrumah toasted Elizabeth: "The wind of change blowing through Africa has become a hurricane. Whatever else is blown into the limbo of history, the personal regard and affection which we have for Your Majesty will remain unaffected." Elizabeth shared the dance floor with Nkrumah: "Elizabeth also captured attention by dancing with Nkrumah. Having the queen and a former colonial subject arm in arm on the dance floor was a way to demonstrate her acceptance of a new footing between their countries." (How Queen Elizabeth II's Controversial Trip To Ghana Changed The Future Of The Commonwealth by Sara Kettler). Scene Two. On May 27, 1965, Elizabeth traveled to West Berlin but, alone among the guests, refused to climb on the platform to view the oppression of the East Berliners, and refused to send any messages of solidarity with the oppressed: "'Contrary to other celebrated guests, Elizabeth II did not leave her seat to climb on the platform from which one can see what is happening in East Berlin. That would not have been worthy of the queen,' Agence France-Press wrote. Her speech for the occasion did not follow that of US president John F. Kennedy who on a 1962 visit won praise for his message of solidarity: I am a Berliner. 'The queen does not use slogans', AFP wrote." (Queen Elizabeth's Politically Charged Visits, Breitbart News). Scene Three. In 1986, 48 out of the 49 members of the British Commonwealth voted to impose economic sanctions on South Africa in protest against its system of apartheid. The sole holdout was Britain. To the cheers of freedom fighters throughout the world, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher opposed the sanctions on the grounds that they were hypocritical because the Commonwealth had never voted to impose sanctions on communist states: "The Commonwealth meeting opened with forty five countries seeking extensive trade and economic sanctions against South Africa. Sanctions will continue to be pressed at the United Nations. I am resolved to continue to resist that pressure, and I was encouraged to find president Reagan similarly determined when we discussed the matter in New York last week." (Letter from Margaret Thatcher to South African President P. W. Botha, October 31, 1986). The sanctions were opposed by both Thatcher and United States President Ronald Reagan, who were condemned for their opposition by the Soviet bloc, the nonaligned bloc, the African National Congress bloc, the Commonwealth bloc and the United Nations bloc in their campaign to abolish the traditions and institutions of Western liberal democracy: "The United States and Britain have blocked at least a dozen resolutions in the UN Security Council which would have imposed economic sanctions on South Africa in retaliation for its apartheid policies. The vetoes were a serious challenge to any UN action aimed at ending apartheid. Angolan Ambassador Elisio de Figueiredo, who addressed the 15 nation council in a voice trembling with emotion, said the vetoes gave him a feeling of 'frustration and despair.' The two Western powers last month vetoed a similar resolution that sought also to ban the sale of the Krugerrands and granting of guaranteed export loans, to restrict sports and cultural relations and prohibit new nuclear contracts with South Africa. The United States, Britain, France, China and the Soviet Union are the permanent members in the council which have power to veto any resolution. Soviet bloc and nonaligned nations have tried in the past to have the council adopt harsh economic measures against South Africa but their attempts were thwarted when they came up for a vote before the council. While protests against racial policies of the white minority government in South Africa intensified, pressure on UN organizations to seek changes in that country mounted. A great show case was held last week in Paris where 120 nations attended a UN conference designed to map economic punitive actions against South Africa. But it was boycotted by the United States,

Britain and West Germany. African National Congress Acting President Oliver Tambo, when confronted with the US, British and West German boycott, told the Paris conference that 'those governments remain determined to persist in their ignoble and dishonorable role as allies of a truly murderous regime.' The ANC is the chief black African movement fighting against apartheid. At UN headquarters, the US and British vetoes were decried by the Soviet Union as blind support for South Africa's 'bankrupt regime.' Czech delegate Bronislav Kulawiec told the Security Council that the 'growing financial and strategic involvement of the United States and Great Britain in South Africa would undoubtedly result now, as before, in vetoing proposals for the adoption of such sanctions.' (US And Britain Block UN Sanctions Against South Africa by J. T. Nguyen). Elizabeth condemned the Thatcher's opposition to the sanctions on the grounds that they disrupted the consensus which colored and characterized the Commonwealth, the consensus of support for communism: "The Queen has been described in recent press reports as worried that Mrs Thatcher's firm opposition to sanctions threatened to break up the 49 nation Commonwealth." (Newspaper Says Queen Is Upset By Thatcher by Reuters, July 20, 1986). Scene Four. Elizabeth condemned Thatcher's rejection of the Keynesian doctrine that prosperity could be achieved by creating money out of thin air and giving this money in the form of state welfare payments to people who are unemployed. Elizabeth condemned Thatcher's rejection of the Marxist doctrine that utopia consists in the expropriation of the earnings of the producers and their transference into the hands of the nonproducers. Elizabeth condemned Thatcher's championing of sound money, work above welfare, production above consumption and liberty above equality as uncompassionate, uncaring, unbenevolent, divisive, confrontational and destructive to the essential structure of the people's progressive, communist, welfare state: "The Sunday Times said the queen considers the prime minister's approach to domestic policy often uncaring, confrontational and divisive. It did not identify the advisers it attributed the reports to, but said they specifically mentioned the queen's misgivings about allowing US bombers to use British air bases for their raid on Libya in April. According to the newspaper, the aides also said the queen feared long term damage was done to Britain's social fabric during the year long miner's strike in 1983 and 1984, and the monarch felt the government lacked compassion toward the less privileged." (AP News). Scene Five. On June 27, 2012, Elizabeth shook hands with Martin McGuinness, former commander of the Irish Republican Army. "Hello, are you well?" McGuinness asked her. She replied: "Thank you very much. I am still alive anyway." This was the IRA which had conducted a thirty year terror campaign beginning in 1969, in which it killed one thousand civilians, with the aim of unifying Northern Ireland with Ireland and establishing a Marxist dictatorship over the island. This was the IRA which had killed Elizabeth's cousin, Louis Mountbatten, in a bomb attack in 1979. For ten centuries, the British Empire had given life and limb so that those who suffered in savage societies could be free. In the mid twentieth century, the empire and its mission disintegrated before a rising tide of communist trade unions, the collective, communist provision of services, and the creation of a universal, communist welfare state. The moral and political rot which blackened the British state and economy swept into the monarchy. Beneath the stable rhythms performed by the royal family, beneath a thousand year old veil stitched by Christmas at Sandringham, New Year's Day at Sandringham, Easter at Windsor, the summer break at Balmoral, Trooping the Color, the Royal Ascot, the Investitures, the Changing of the Guard and Remembrance Sunday, lay a maelstrom of subversion. Elizabeth was its avatar.

ROYAL FAMILY OF RADICALS

Devolution is the doctrine that species can revert to more primitive forms over time. It is the opposite of evolution, which is held to be progressive and to culminate in the advancement and perfection of life. The doctrine of devolution first appeared in the nineteenth century in the works of world famous palaeontologists such as Carl Eigenmann, and in recent times has appeared in Kurt Vonnegut's 1985 novel Galapagos, which portrays a society whose members have degenerated in intellectual functions and possess smaller brains. On September 8, 2022, King Charles III succeeded his mother, Queen Elizabeth II, following her death at Balmoral Castle, and became the head of a family which has illustrated the doctrine of moral, spiritual and intellectual degeneration as no family in the history of monarchies ever has. The degeneration commenced with the accession of Elizabeth in 1952, and splashed down into the depths of epic tragedy as the new head of state and head of the Commonwealth, succeeding her father King George VI, repudiated what Britain had stood for during the span of a thousand years. It had stood for human liberty under the rule of law, gave its life and limb so that savage societies throughout the world could receive the blessings of this liberty and this law, and formed an empire reaching into the darkest jungles of the planet's seven continents which armed liberty and law with the loudest cannons they had ever had. Opening the first act of the tragedy of the royal family, Elizabeth faithfully reflected the sentiments of the new red Britain over which she ruled. The scale of her treason was revealed in her words and actions in Ireland. In a speech she delivered at Dublin Castle in 2011, she apologized for Britain's war on IRA terror and extended her sympathy and condolences to the friends, families and activists for the cause of terror: "To all those who have suffered as a consequence of our troubled past, I extend my sincere thoughts and deep sympathy. With the benefit of historical hindsight, we can all see things which we would wish had been done differently or not at all." In 2012, she shook hands with Martin McGuinness, former commander of the IRA, which had killed her cousin, Louis Mountbatten, in a bomb attack in 1979. The second act of this tragedy was opened with the accession of Charles upon the death of his mother. The head of the United Kingdom and the head of a worldwide association consisting of fifty six nations and 2.4 billion people, Charles is the paterfamilias of the next generation of reds who have faithfully followed in the footsteps of the new king and his deceased mother. Act Two, Scene One: Charles. Listen to the new king's words and hear him condemn the noonday world of the Enlightenment, the forward march of reason, science and technological mastery, and exalt a higher reality which reveals the dark, mystical oneness of things: "The eighteenth century agenda of the Enlightenment, based predominantly on the pursuit of progress through science and technology, is so much a part of the furniture today that we do not even question it as an ideology. And yet it is as if we peer at the world through a letterbox, believing that what our science reveals to us is the whole picture even though science does not itself deal with the meaning of things, nor does it encourage a very joined up way of working. As a result, time and again one problem is solved, but in its wake many others are created, often far worse than the one we set out to resolve." (Harmony: A New Way Of Looking At Our World by Charles III, Tony Juniper and Ian Skelly). Listen to Charles and hear him condemn the use of reason as fragmenting, distorting and destructive of the world. Hear him condemn rational occupations in favor of religious callings. Hear him condemn science as an examiner and deleter which pulls people away from mystical feeling and intuition, which alone reveal the divine, infinite scheme of things existing beyond the veil of physical objects: "This fragmented view of the world extends to the way people are expected to behave. I come across many instances when the absence of this understanding of how we really fit within the great scheme of things forces people to censor what their intuition might be telling them, to the point where I sometimes wonder if there are a considerable number of people living an almost schizophrenic like existence. The pressure can be enormous on individuals to draw a very clear line between their private feelings and their public, professional occupation. I have lost count of the number of people I have spoken with who tell me quietly of how, even though privately they may feel deeply anxious inside themselves about the consequences of this whole mechanistic approach, when at work they are expected to lock those feelings away and follow the corporate diktat, which so often reflects the mechanistic mindset that can be so destructive of nature and her systems." (Harmony: A New Way Of Looking At Our World by Charles III, Tony Juniper and Ian Skelly). Listen to Charles and hear him condemn the progress of industry and technology as a generator of greenhouse gas emissions leading to environmental catastrophe. Hear him support the cause of violent action, ecofascism and the extinction of civilization: "The Prince of Wales has told the BBC he understands why campaigners from organizations like Extinction Rebellion take to the streets to demand action on climate change. Speaking in the gardens of his house on the Balmoral estate in Aberdeenshire, the prince said it had taken too long for the world to wake up to the risks of climate change. And he worried that world leaders would 'just talk' when they meet in Glasgow in November for a crucial UN climate conference. 'The problem is to get action on the ground,' he said. Asked if he sympathized with Greta Thunberg, the climate campaigner who has also criticized leaders for failing to act, he said: 'Of course I do, yes. All these young people feel nothing is ever happening so of course they're going to get frustrated. I totally understand because nobody would listen and they see their future being totally destroyed.' " (Prince Charles: I Understand Climate Activists' Anger by Justin Rowlett). Act Two, Scene Two: Prince Harry. The second in line to the British throne has tolled the bell of environmental doomsday in a campaign to reduce greenhouse gas emissions to zero and turn back the clock of human progress. He calls on people throughout the world to unite in "repairing our planet" by outlawing modern industry and technology. He proclaims that industrial and technological progress are incinerating the planet and all life will become extinct in ten years unless mankind reverts to a caveman existence: "We are alive in the most consequential time in human history. The actions we choose or choose not to take in the next ten years will determine the fate of the planet for the next 1,000." (Climate Change: Prince William To Make Stark Warning At Star Studded Award Ceremony by Rhiannon Mills). Act Two, Scene Three: Prince Harry and Meghan Markle. The royal couple are supporters of black power communism and its Black Lives Matter movement. According to Black Lives Matter, capitalism is a system of white supremacy. Capitalism is a system of violence against blacks committed by the police and vigilantes. A progressive society is a safe space for the commission of black violence in the name of black joy and black liberation. A progressive society encourages and gives free rein to the black imagination as it seeks to envision all the possible ways in which blacks can oppress and persecute whites. A progressive society is an intersectional coalition of the black poor, black women, black homosexuals, black transgenders and black fugitives from justice who stand united in their hatred of whites and desire to liquidate them. Look at Harry and Meghan Markle and watch them lead movements to overthrow the structures, systems, traditions and institutions of freedom. Watch them drive action to transform the liberal order and reduce it to the color of communism. Watch them condemn capitalism as a racist problem and campaign vigorously to defund the law, deplatform dissent and set fire to civilization: "Royal expert Katie Nicholl has revealed Prince Harry and Meghan Markle will be focusing more on Black Lives Matter activism, as the former praised young people for 'leading the movement'. 'Part of this work, part of this moment that we're in, is that making sure from analysis to action that we drive action toward structural and systemic change. Changing the rules that have held people back,' said Rashad Robinson, a race activist who was at the forefront of efforts to deplatform US conservative Pat Buchanan from MSNBC, in a clip of an interview with the prince for the Color of Change organization. 'You say this so beautifully Rashad, and it's so true,' replied Harry, a hereditary millionaire who owes his public profile to the fact he is a relation of Queen Elizabeth II—although he has now abandoned his royal duties to pursue activism. 'There's so much that has happened for so long and once those problems exist, charity is crucial in so many ways but it can't fix the problem. The problems already exist, and are too big,' the prince told Robinson, whose organization is lobbying to defund the police. 'As I've said to you before, it's like bringing a bucket of water to a forest fire,' Harry said, adding: 'We have to go to the root of the problem, the source of the problem, and actually fix it there.' " (Harry And Meghan To Focus On Black Lives Matter Activism, Says Royal Expert by Jack Montgomery). The Kallikak Family was a 1912 book by renowned psychologist Henry Goddard. In this pioneering study, Goddard demonstrated the inheritance of intellectual disabilities and mental illness. Headed by Charles, Britain's royal family is a shameless household of second generation reds. Like mother, like son, like grandsons and granddaughters, during the dying days of Britain and the West.

DEATH OF A FORMALIST

The king is dead, long live the king! is a traditional proclamation made after a king's accession. First declared upon the death of the French King Charles VI in 1422, proclaiming his son, Charles VII king, the phrase is a guarantee to the people of national stability and continuity. On September 13, 2022, a film director died, the most influential film director of all time, but his death served only to underscore the enduring character of the psychosis he brought into being, its fundamental immunity to the demise of its agents and avatars, its ineradicable persistence across the vicissitudes of time, space and current events, and its static rootedness in the cultural landscape as that landscape is engulfed in the wintertime of a collapsed civilization, and descends into the Arctic wastelands of moral, spiritual and intellectual bankruptcy. The founder of the New Wave film movement, hailed by his followers as a film pioneer who "revolutionized the motion picture form", Jean-Luc Godard was as much as part of the topography of the West, during its final stages of development, as the mountains and valleys of its mass politics and its Marxist agitations, and his brand of radicalism proceeded, as the branches of a tree grow out of its trunk and roots, from the Faustian premises at the heart of this Germanic, romanticist, evening land culture. Faust, symbol of the primacy of the will which the West, and only the West, exalted, begot a son, and this son begot a son, and this grandson went on to shape the final stage of filmmaking during the dying days of this culture. The son of Faust was the philosopher Immanuel Kant. Listen to the son and hear him proclaim that art has nothing whatever to do with reality and is the free play of pure forms, figures and subjective sensations: "Every form of the objects of sense is either figure or play. In the latter case, it is either play of figures or the mere play of sensations. The charm of colors may be added, but the delineations in the composition constitute the proper object of the pure judgment of taste." (Critique Of Judgment by Immanuel Kant). Now listen to the son of Kant and the grandson of Faust and the hear a manifesto of subjectivism for the silver screen which has spelled the death of this young art form for all time to come. This manifesto of motion picture implosion proclaims that progressive filmmaking is experimental filmmaking which rejects narrative, continuity, consistency, rational camerawork and purposeful sequences of events. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking rejects all traditions of quality and parades shoddy, substandard production in the name of innovation. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking utilizes handheld cameras to record the action. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking mounts cameras on shopping carts to take panning shots. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking features extra footage from before the beginning of a take, while the actors are preparing their roles, and extra footage from after the end of a take, when the actors are coming out of character. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking rejects smooth editing and continuous time and makes incessant use of jump cuts, which make time leap forward by vast, jarring amounts. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking features character asides to the audience. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking rejects the traditional match between what characters see off screen and what the audience sees immediately after. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking features elliptical editing, nonfluid narratives and asynchronous sound. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking allows the director to write the script each day, to create the film as he goes along, and to feed new lines to the actors on a continuous basis. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking rejects the traditional visual presentations of a film composed before shooting, the presentations known as storyboards, which detail everything the film will contain, and allows random and arbitrary developments of the story. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking is based upon abstract painting, a grammar of incoherence and a mathematics of pure chance. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking leaves the clapperboard, which marks scenes as they are filmed and recorded, inside the scenes for the audience to see. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking is a projection of the subjective, incomprehensible universe of the director. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking is audacious, challenging and radical in its rejection of linear, logical, chronological development. It proclaims that progressive filmmaking rejects preplanned, precompleted productions and allows the audience to participate in the creative process and compose the film every night. Look at the filmmaking of Jean Luc-Godard and see arbitrariness peddled as freedom. See disorder peddled as spontaneity. See anarchy peddled as high art. See the projection of existence without existence, existence as nothingness, existence without identity, intelligibility, stability or determination of any kind. See the exaltation of will above reason, change for the sake of change and decision without prudence or judgment. See an exhibition of existentialism with its categorical imperatives and its advocacy of action without regard to content or consequences. See a screening of antiplots, antistories and anticinema, which are shabby, untidy, dirty and disordered. See films without scripts, without purpose, without planned dialogue, and cameras endlessly rolling and recording nothing: "In the decades since its premiere, Breathless has stood as an appropriately scruffy monument to the eminently Godardian values of aesthetic freedom, cinematic spontaneity, and profoundly personal expression. While that is entirely justified, there's a certain irony in the canonization of such a zestfully anarchic work from such a strenuously uncategorizable director. Influenced by the existentialist philosophy of Jean-Paul Sartre and his ilk, Breathless takes it for granted that existence precedes essence--ie human realities seem preordained but are actually mutable, unstable, and shaped by the choices we make in the moment by moment flow of experience. Godard directed the film in precisely that spirit, spurning the security of studio production for off the cuff shooting from a scenario so sketchy that Godard had to call out the dialogue to his actors as the camera rolled, dubbing in the sound of their voices after filming was over." (Forty Years Ago, 'Breathless' Was Hyperactive Anarchy. Now It's Part Of The Canon by David Sterritt). Look at the filmmaking of Jean-Luc Godard and see the prophet of the cult of formalism lead a resistance movement against reason and assassinate the art of filmmaking. See a cultural radical lead a revolution of nihilistic destruction. See the hero of antiart and negative cinema revered by the establishment during the twilight, degenerate stages of civilization. See a wave of rejection launched which crashed into the silver screen and scattered the celluloid across the padded cells of psychotic breakdown. See filmmaking descend into jungles of illogic and incoherence. See a director armed with the rifles of arbitrary choice blast plots, stories and rational sequences of events into the trash heap of film history. See filmmaking bid farewell to reality and ascend into spheres of derangement without reference or content of any kind. See the craft of cinematic storytelling blown up beneath the fireworks of rank schizophrenia. See a criminal surgeon, rejecting the rule book of cinematic sanity and uneducated in the existence of objective reality, mutilate the marvel of moving pictures beyond recognition and cut out their essence and soul: the achievement of meaning and purpose. See a diabolical madman, armed with the weapons of disorder, digression, discontinuity, nonselection, nonnarrative, nonediting, nonsense dialogue and the abandonment of postproduction, plan and carry out the greatest cultural crime in the past half century: the murder of the motion picture art: "The last great twentieth century modernist is dead. At the last, Jean-Luc Godard had become like a charismatic but remote cult leader; it was as if Che Guevara had evaded assassination and grown old hiding out in the Bolivian jungle: less visible, less important, but still capable of masterminding from afar those bank heists and spectacular acts of armed resistance which reminded people of his revolutionary vocation. Godard was at first hero worshiped and adored and then shrugged at and yawned at: as unthinkingly mocked and jeered at as he was once unthinkingly swooned over. He was influential in the sense that the French New Wave shook up Hollywood and all filmmakers; his own rarefied experimental procedures have nowadays migrated to video art. Godard exploded on to world cinema with À Bout De Souffle, or Breathless, in 1960, from a treatment by François Truffaut, the story of a young American girl in Paris, played by Hollywood star Jean Seberg, and her doomed affair with a sexy tough guy on the run, played by Jean-Paul Belmondo. Godard tore up the rule book without troubling to read it: his wild digressions, offbeat dialogue scenes, verite location work, nonnarrative excursions and jump cuts—the inspired, semideliberate wrong editing created by an intuitive, untutored auteur." (Jean-Luc Godard: A Genius Who Tore Up Rule Book Without Troubling To Read It by Peter Bradshaw). In the fiery depths of Satan's paradise lies a tomb whose epitaph reads: A story should have a beginning, a middle and an end, but not necessarily in that order. This is the tomb of the founder of cinematic formalism. Voted by the sights and sounds of the establishment as number one in the top ten directors of all time, Jean-Luc Godard did to motion pictures what James Joyce did to literature and Samuel Beckett did to theater: he imprisoned the art form within a sealed capsule of mental disorder. Commencing with Breathless, the inaugural statement of the New Wave movement he set into motion against rational filmmaking, the cinema of Jean-Luc Godard is the cinema of today, and its directors, from Martin Scorsese to Quentin Tarantino to Francis Ford Coppola to Rainer Werner Fassbinder, were his acolytes. At his home in the Swiss town of Rolle, on Lake Geneva, Godard chose to end his life through assisted suicide. In the suicide of the cinema which took place in the twentieth century, Godard, the instigator, had no assistance. He accomplished his task single handedly.

THE BIDEN CRIME FAMILY

In 1951, a United States Senate committee, chaired by Senator Estes Kefauver, made a determination which shocked and horrified the American people. It determined that a sinister criminal organization, known as the Mafia, operated throughout the nation. In televised hearings which captured the attention of the people as nothing else ever had, the United States Special Committee To Investigate Crime In Interstate Commerce compelled the FBI for the first time to investigate organized crime, and in consequence of the hearings, the bureau initiated a Top Hoodlums Program. The Mafia, Murder Inc, the National Crime Syndicate, La Cosa Nostra, the Five Families, the black hands of gangsters which cast a pall of fear and terror across the lives of decent, law abiding citizens, and followed them relentlessly in their day by day activities, has seen an addition to its ranks in the twenty first century. One hundred years after the Mafia arrived on the shores of America, the nation's First Family has entered the top ranks of organized crime, forever sullied the credibility of America as rule of law nation, and plunged it into the depths of governmental malfeasance. One hundred years after an invasion of lawlessness from distant lands, America's First Family has rewritten the book of lawlessness to encompass realms of iniquity never before traversed, and made Biden a synonym for the financial exploitation of high office like no other word, referring to its pure, distilled nature and essence, as the famous flaming, horned and tailed figure describes the devil with a vividness no other image can match. Hunter Biden. Immediately after his father, Joe Biden, became vice president, Hunter Biden received one billion dollars from a Chinese state owned bank, CERF, was appointed to the board of a Chinese investment firm, Bohai Harvest RST, and received a ten percent equity in the company. He had no experience working in China and no qualifications to hold a seat on the board. While applying for a handgun, Hunter lied by answering in the negative a question about whether he had a history of drug use. To protect Hunter from this felony, Joe Biden ordered the Secret Service to enter the gun shop and seize all records of the gun purchase. Hunter sold paintings he produced at prices ranging from 75,000 dollars to 500,000 a piece in an attempt to sell influence with President Joe Biden: "Meanwhile, a leading ethics expert told The Post that Biden's recent schmoozing with attendees at his debut exhibition showed that a White House attempt to prevent influence peddling by keeping buyers anonymous won't work and should be scrapped in favor of a Plan B." (Hunter Biden Sells Five Art Prints For $75K Each As NYC Show Pushed Back by Emily Smith and Bruce Golding). Hunter and his uncle James effected over 150 wire transactions with a value of over 10,000 dollars each, which were flagged as suspicious by United States banks. Hunter and James were paid 165,000 dollars in retainer fees by Chinese companies. Text messages from Hunter's telephone describe Joe Biden's extortion of his family: "I have paid for everything for the entire family for [the last] 30 years and pop [Joe Biden] has been making the family pay him half of [their] salaries." In 2017, Hunter was gifted a 2.8 karat diamond by Ye Jiaming, founder of China Energy. Emails from Hunter's laptop reveal a discussion of a deal with China Energy in which Joe Biden was scheduled to receive a ten percent stake in the company. While his father was vice president, Hunter took twenty three flights aboard the vice president's official airplane, Air Force Two, in order to arrange global business proceeds for his father: "According to Hunter's Secret Service travel records, which were obtained by Judicial Watch, he took 411 trips across 29 countries between 2009 and the middle of 2014. That includes twenty three flights into or out of Joint Base Andrews—home to Air Force One and Air Force Two. Did any of the journalists who sought to suppress the Hunter Biden story as Russian disinformation investigate exactly where Hunter was going on these trips and with whom? It didn't matter to the people who had an election to win and a public to misinform. Hunter said he never spoke to his father about business. But he revealed to the New Yorker that he introduced his father to his Chinese business partners during an official visit in December 2013." (Breaking The News by Alex Marlow). Look at the Biden family and see Hunter peddling the influence of his father. See messages of appreciation to Hunter from those who purchased Joe Biden's influence. See Hunter corruptly appointed to the board of Burisma, a Ukrainian energy company, at a salary of $50,000 a month, as a result of the influence of his father. See Joe Biden pressure the Ukrainian government, by withholding one billion dollars in loan guarantees, to fire a prosecutor who was investigating Hunter's corrupt position in Burisma. See the contents of a laptop owned by Hunter reveal the criminal dealings of a father and son operation which disgraced the highest office in the land: "Hunter Biden introduced his father, then Vice President Joe Biden, to a top executive at a Ukrainian energy firm less than a year before the elder Biden pressured government officials in Ukraine into firing a prosecutor who was investigating the company, according to emails obtained by The Post. The never before revealed meeting is mentioned in a message of appreciation that Vadym Pozharskyi, an adviser to the board of Burisma, allegedly sent Hunter Biden on April 17, 2015, about a year after Hunter joined the Burisma board at a reported salary of up to $50,000 a month. 'Dear Hunter, thank you for inviting me to DC and giving an opportunity to meet your father and spent [sic] some time together. It's really [sic] an honor and pleasure', the email reads. An earlier email from May 2014 also shows Pozharskyi, reportedly Burisma's number three executive, asking Hunter for 'advice on how you could use your influence' on the company's behalf. The blockbuster correspondence—which flies in the face of Joe Biden's claim that he's 'never spoken to my son about his overseas business dealings'—is contained in a massive trove of data recovered from a laptop computer. The computer was dropped off at a repair shop in Biden's home state of Delaware in April 2019, according to the store's owner. The customer who brought in the water damaged MacBook Pro for repair never paid for the service or retrieved it or a hard drive on which its contents were stored, according to the shop owner, who said he tried repeatedly to contact the client. Photos of a Delaware federal subpoena given to The Post show that both the computer and hard drive were seized by the FBI in December, after the shop's owner says he alerted the feds to their existence. But before turning over the gear, the shop owner says, he made a copy of the hard drive and later gave it to former Mayor Rudy Giuliani's lawyer, Robert Costello. Steve Bannon, former adviser to President Trump, told The Post about the existence of the hard drive in late September and Giuliani provided The Post with a copy of it on Sunday. Less than eight months after Pozharskyi thanked Hunter Biden for the introduction to his dad, the then vice president admittedly pressured Ukrainian President Petro Poroshenko and Prime Minister Arseniy Yatsenyuk into getting rid of Prosecutor General Viktor Shokin by threatening to withhold a $1 billion US loan guarantee during a December 2015 trip to Kiev. 'I looked at them and said: I'm leaving in six hours. If the prosecutor is not fired, you're not getting the money,' Biden infamously bragged to the Council on Foreign Relations in 2018. 'Well, son of a bitch. He got fired.' Shokin has said that at the time of his firing, in March 2016, he'd made 'specific plans' to investigate Burisma that 'included interrogations and other crime investigation procedures into all members of the executive board, including Hunter Biden.' " (Smoking Gun Email Reveals How Hunter Biden Introduced Ukrainian businessman To VP Dad by Emma Jo Morris and Gabrielle Fonrouge). Frank Biden. Immediately after his brother Joe became vice president, Frank Biden set up companies in Costa Rica funded by loans guaranteed by American taxpayers. One of his companies developed land for the establishment of charter schools and received grants from the Department of Education. James Biden. While Joe Biden was vice president, his brother James, vice president of Hillstone International, received one billion dollars in government contracts, including a contract to build 100,000 homes in Iraq. At a White House meeting in 2010, the president of the company, Kevin Justice, met Michelle Smith, a senior aide to Joe Biden, who served as a contact between government officials and business executives. Valerie Biden. Joe Biden's sister directed two communications firms, Citizens for Biden and Biden for President, which received millions of dollars in political donations which Biden did not need or use, and were directed into her coffers. Ashley Biden. While he was vice president, Joe Biden used his office to help Howard Krein, the husband of his daughter Ashley, launch a health care company called StartUp Health in 2011. Biden arranged for a meeting between Krein and President Barack Obama, which meeting got Krein an invitation to attend the Healthcare Data-Palooza, a healthcare summit between health care officials in government and health care leaders in industry. Millions of eons ago, an interstellar cloud collapsed and created a sun orbited by a disk of gas and dust. Driven by gravity, planets grew out of this disk, and the eight planets of the solar system were born. Code named the Big Guy in messages describing his cut in foreign enterprises set up by his family, Joe Biden is the black sun around which revolve his children in a system of family corruption which has banished America to the jungles of a failed state.

RED ALERT: RED ATTACK

Civil defense is the effort to protect the citizens of a state from a disaster. Civil defense ranges from joining the armed forces to constructing fallout shelters to protect against radioactive debris. Seeking to bring public attention to the threat of German aerial bombardment, a British World War I poster proclaimed: It is far better to face the bullets than to be killed at home by a bomb. Join the army at once and help stop an air raid. In Switzerland, there are presently over 300,000 air raid shelters located in 8.5 million places across the country, covering 114 percent of the population. The West is presently under attack, and under attack as it has never been under attack before, because the enemy lies within, the advance has come from the man on the street, and the aggressive action has been launched by the neighbors next door. The West lies defenseless because it has been stricken by the operations of a fifth column undermining its traditions and institutions of freedom, and thus all efforts at civil defense are pointless. The vanishing minority of civilized people remaining in society has sounded a red alert in the face of this terrifying danger but their alarm bells have fallen on deaf ears. Their alarm bells have been drowned out by a revolt of the masses against the world of the Enlightenment which brought the West to its highest state of glory. Their alarm bells have been mocked and ignored by a majority intent on pulling down every last stone of reason and liberty and constructing upon the ruins a red tyranny of tribal formations sacrificing moral progress upon the altars of gender, race and class ideologies. Civilized people have not been shocked at the treason of their compatriots because they know the character of the masses, their hatred of intellect and individuality, and their passion to submerge themselves within primitive social organisms which take them back to their beloved caveman existence. Civilized people have read the manifesto of the masses and seen history repeat itself. They have heard the masses' declaration of war against the liberal order and seen the flames which engulfed ancient Rome return to claim the palaces of constitutional rights and the arsenals of human liberty. They have been bombarded by slogans and doctrines which reek of the jungles of the Roman emperors and their mobs, and they understand, as they understand nothing else, as they understand with the crystal clarity of the noonday sun, that the coffin of civilization is marked with the words religion and barbarism, and whether the religion refers to the Christianity peddled in Rome back then or to the gender, race and class religions peddled nowadays, and whether the barbarism refers to the Germanic tribes invading Rome back then or to the illegal migrants streaming across borders by the millions nowadays, the end will fall, and will fall pitilessly and dark, and will fall as surely and irrevocably as wintertime falls after the twilight days of autumn. Composed by the masses during the final hours of the West, this manifesto proclaims that capitalism is a system of white privilege. It proclaims that a progressive university is a college of religious instruction which indoctrinates students in the tenets of Marxism and its race and gender derivatives. It proclaims that capitalism is a system which reduces blacks the status of a permanent class of victims. It proclaims that a progressive society is an authoritarian society which has locked down and shut down human rights in the name of fighting covid 19. It proclaims that a progressive society rejects the findings of science that gender is determined by genes and is fixed and immutable, and embraces the dogma of transgenderism that gender can be changed by human intervention involving chemical and surgical treatment. It proclaims that transgender women are as real as biological women, and have a right to use women's facilities and accommodations, and compete on women's sports teams, and transgender men are as real and biological men, and have the same corresponding rights. Look at the campaign of the reds and see school children ordered to condemn in speech, song, meter and rhyme the British empire of liberty and British colonial expansion which spread the rule of law into the distant reaches of the planet. See far left professors and teachers' unions march into every corner of society with their stunted, brainwashed student victims marching faithfully behind them. See school curriculums forged in the blazing furnaces of swastika hate politics, and molded and shaped to produce a new Hitlerite syllabus featuring black philosophy, black history, black mathematics, black humanities and black natural sciences. See school instruction purged of all truth and objectivity and reduced to black racist indoctrination under the banners of declonization and deWesternization. See prejudices and preconceptions, rejecting reason and experience, peddle the legends that blacks constitute an Aryan master race which created the world of the pyramids, temples, cathedrals, universities and every military, scientific and technological discipline known to man. See black colonialists and race activists create death squads and carry out an agenda of extermination of the white race at the national socialist end of the age: "Primary school children in England have reportedly been asked by the National Trust to write poems 'denigrating' the British Empire, as campaigners attempt to convince the heritage charity to abandon its increasingly woke agenda. A group of one hundred children were led by controversial left wing professor Corinne Fowler, of Leicester University, on a tour of country houses in order to inspire them to write poems chastising the former owners for their connections to colonialism, according to The Times. The woke march through the institutions in Britain has also seen a recent effort to introduce leftist ideology to young school children, with a leading teachers' union calling for all curriculum to be 'decolonised' by teaching black history in every subject, including maths and science. The former president of the NASUWT union, who brought forth the proposal, Michelle Codrington-Rogers, said: 'We built the pyramids, developed modern numbers, built universities. Our ancestors were philosophers, scientists, military strategists, authors, writers, activists and so much more. We have a responsibility to be inclusive for all of our students and this starts with us ensuring that there is black visibility for our children and young people. Not just black children, but all children. It is crucial to recognize that black history is all of our history.' " (Children Asked To Write Anti Britain Poetry By Woke National Trust by Kurt Zindulka). Look at the campaign of the reds and see an attack on science without precedent in the history of mankind. See an environmental movement which has declared war on industry and technology. See governmental panels and intergovernmental panels place themselves in the service of a crusade against human progress. See the United Nations wind up a doomsday clock and set it ticking against human achievement. See pseudoscientists peddle legends of global catastrophe at the hands of human advancement and prosperity. See meteorological organizations reject the method of empiricism and proclaim that human activity is causing global warming, when the record shows that areas on the planet are colder now than before, that Arctic ice expands and the polar bear population are increasing, that global warming is a natural periodic phenomenon which occurs every thousand years, and at 1000 AD the planet was much warmer than it is now. See man haters target oil, natural gas, nuclear energy and plastics, select the forms and lineaments of human life on earth, for condemnation, proscription and total destruction. See an advertising, agitation, propaganda and fundraising campaign to manufacture a climate crisis, to ignite a firestorm of climate fear and hysteria, to sound the alarm bells of a climate emergency, and to wipe out the development, organization and economy of man: "Patrick Moore, one of the founders of Greenpeace, laments that the environmental movement has been hijacked by the left, whose goal is to instill fear and guilt into the public. While Greenpeace started as a science based organization, it evolved into a 'political fundraising organization,' which led to Moore leaving the group fifteen years after its founding, he said in an email made public this week by The Epoch Times. Similarly, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) is 'not a science organization,' Moore explained. 'It is a political organization composed of the World Meteorological Organization and the United Nations Environment Program. The IPCC hires scientists to provide them with information that supports the climate emergency narrative,' he asserted. Moore said that environmental campaigns against fossil fuels, nuclear energy, CO₂, and plastic are designed 'to make people think the world will come to an end unless we cripple our civilization and destroy our economy.' Green policies advocated by the left 'are not technically achievable,' he declared, as evidenced by Europe's energy crisis, 'which Putin is taking advantage of.' The crisis is of their own making by 'refusing to develop their own natural gas resources, opposing nuclear energy, and adopting an impossible position on fossil fuels in general,' he stated. Moore, whose formal science education includes a BSc Honors in science and forestry and a PhD in ecology, said that virtually all of Greenpeace's extensive advertising and fundraising campaigns are based on false narratives, such as that of the alleged polar bear crisis. 'In fact, the polar bear population has increased from 6,000 to 8,000 in 1973 to 30,000 to 50,000 today. This is not disputed. But now they say the polar bear will go extinct in 2100 as if they have a magic crystal ball that can predict the future. In fact, this past winter in the Arctic saw an expansion of ice from previous years, and Antarctica was colder during the last winter than in the past 50 years.' " (Greenpeace Founder Laments Hijacking Of Ecology By

The twenty first century has seen the establishment of the biggest religion of all time, a worldwide church of the reds, located in every nation on earth, an organization whose clergy, congregations and doctrine demand the destruction of humanity and its works.

WORLD COMMUNIST FORUM

The Communist International was a Soviet controlled international organization founded in March 1919 which advocated a world communist empire. It was founded in response to a radio broadcast from Moscow on December 24, 1918: "We call upon communists of all countries to rally around the revolutionary Third International." At its Second Congress, the Comintern called for violent revolution to overthrow the free world: "We resolve to struggle by all available means, including armed force, for the overthrow of the international bourgeois and the creation of an international Soviet Republic." In 1943, Soviet leader Joseph Stalin dissolved the Comintern to appease his Western Allies, but in 1947, he revived it under a new name, the Communist Information Bureau, and continued its mission of world revolution. In 1956 following the death of Stalin, the Cominform was dissolved. In the late twentieth century, the world communist movement moved into a new organization under the auspices of a professor of business policy at the University of Geneva. In 1971, Klaus Schwab peddled communism under a new name and founded a global organization to promote it. The name was stakeholder capitalism. It was a new name coined by a new generation of reds, dressed in academic suits and fronting in business schools, peddling century old red ways of thinking, and was the name of a manifesto of antiliberalism and antiEnlightenment reaction which would have made the founder of communism, Karl Marx, proud. Schwab's new communist manifesto proclaimed that in a progressive society, the state and community have a stake in corporations and these stakeholders determine its aims, course, direction and profits. It proclaimed that a progressive society is based on the notion of mystical, social responsibility in place of empirical, individual responsibility, and forces corporations to engage in communist activism, communist philanthropy and communist public service. It proclaimed that in a progressive society, corporations resolutely reject the rights of shareholders and volunteer enthusiastically to serve the interests of the state. It proclaimed that a progressive business model is a communist business model which is opposed to the true interests of the corporation and promotes actions in the service of society. It proclaimed that a progressive corporation issues public reports on a regular basis on the success of its socialist endeavors. It proclaimed that a corporation which works for and represents the interests and desires of its shareholders is morally objectionable. It proclaimed that the real owners of a corporation include parents, children, customers, employees, associates, partners, contractors, suppliers, government officials, the community of plants and animals, and anybody and anything, except the people who bought actual shares in the corporation and trade these shares on the stock exchange. It proclaims that a progressive corporation is managed for the sake of the public and not for the sake of the people who lawfully acquired stock in it. It proclaimed that a progressive corporation satisfies employee's needs and not stockholders' wants. It proclaimed that the employees of a corporation contribute everything to the success of the corporation while the employers contribution nothing whatever. It proclaimed that a progressive corporation is a nonprofit organization and government agency which exists to further the power of the totality and is deaf to the protests of free people. It proclaimed that a progressive corporation is owned by multifarious constituencies to the exclusion of private investors. It proclaimed that the public is the real owner of a corporation and deserves to hold a one hundred percent stake in it. It proclaimed that a progressive corporation is concerned solely with social performance to the exclusion of financial performance. It proclaimed that a progressive corporation is a communist corporate citizen with a communist corporate conscience. It proclaimed that a progressive society has abolished the free enterprise system in the name of socially conscious capitalism. It proclaimed that a progressive society requires that corporate directors serve the public interest and renounce private profit. It proclaimed that in a progressive society corporations are not owned by private shareholders but are merely held on trust by private shareholders on behalf of the state. It proclaimed that a progressive corporation sacrifices the pursuit of private profit upon the altar of the people. It proclaimed that a progressive corporation is a socially and politically compliant corporation which has renounced the pursuit of free, private economic activity. It proclaimed that in a progressive corporation is an engine of red agitation and propaganda. It proclaimed that a progressive corporation is a sociopolitical movement of world revolution. It proclaimed that a progressive corporation is a latter day church of public service which carries out its economic, legal, moral and philanthropic responsibilities to the state. It proclaimed that a progressive corporation is a servant of the environment and the community, renounces progress and innovation in the name of pollution reduction, and establishes educational and social programs for the advancement of communism. In 1971, Charles Schwab invited 450 executives from corporations across Europe and established a successor to the Comintern. Creating a name which implemented a revolutionary new strategy, seeking to peddle communism under the guise of capitalism, Schwab called his organization the European Management Symposium. Holding its annual meetings at the Davos Convention Center in Davos, Switzerland, the new organization drew together politicians, professors, public policy officials, think tank experts and business leaders from around the world and sent them on a mission to dismantle the structures of freedom and construct upon the ruins a world communist order dressed up as "entrepreneurship in the global public interest." In 1987, Schwab changed the name of his organization to the World Economic Forum to emphasize the global character of his revolutionary struggle while maintaining the window dressing and front terms of capitalist economics. Listen to the words of the World Economic Forum and hear it reject the rights of corporate shareholders and promote communist theory as stakeholder theory. Hear it proclaim that businesses must be accountable to and controlled by the state and society: "Our activities are shaped by a unique institutional culture founded on the stakeholder theory, which asserts that an organization is accountable to all parts of society. The institution carefully blends and balances the best of many kinds of organizations, from both the public and private sectors, international organizations and academic institutions." (Mission, World Economic Forum, website). Listen to the words of the World Economic Forum and hear it proclaim that corporations should not be free entities but instruments of the state. Hear it proclaim that corporate directors should not be free agents but administrators for the people. Hear it renounce private profit in the name of public service. Hear it peddle communism under the banners of stakeholder capitalism and advocate the abolition of liberal order and technological progress in the name of meeting social and environmental challenges: "What kind of capitalism do we want? That may be the

defining question of our era. If we want to sustain our economic system for future generations, we must answer it correctly. Generally speaking, we have three models to choose from. The first is 'shareholder capitalism,' embraced by most Western corporations, which holds that a corporation's primary goal should be to maximize its profits. The second model is 'state capitalism,' which entrusts the government with setting the direction of the economy and has risen to prominence in many emerging markets, not least China. But, compared to these two options, the third has the most to recommend it. 'Stakeholder capitalism,' a model I first proposed a half century ago, positions private corporations as trustees of society, and is clearly the best response to today's social and environmental challenges." (Why We Need The Davos Manifesto For A Better Kind Of Capitalism by Klaus Schwab, World Economic Forum website). Listen to the words of the World Economic Forum and hear it proclaim that corporations should not be freedom seeking entities but passive units of a communist leviathan. Hear it proclaim that the world of economic liberty, called shareholder capitalism, is not socially or environmentally sustainable and must be replaced by a regime of state control and the totalitarian economy of the reds: "Shareholder capitalism, currently the dominant model, first gained ground in the United States in the 1970s, and expanded its influence globally in the following decades. Its rise was not without merit. During its heyday, hundreds of millions of people around the world prospered, as profit seeking companies unlocked new markets and created new jobs. But that wasn't the whole story. Advocates of shareholder capitalism, including Milton Friedman and the Chicago School, had neglected the fact that a publicly listed corporation is not just a profit seeking entity but also a social organism. Together with financial industry pressures to boost short term results, the single minded focus on profits caused shareholder capitalism to become increasingly disconnected from the real economy. Many realize this form of capitalism is no longer sustainable." (Why We Need The Davos Manifesto For A Better Kind Of Capitalism by Klaus Schwab, World Economic Forum website). Christian mythology worships the Righteous Lazarus whom Jesus restored to life four days after his death. As Lazarus vanquished death, communism refuses to die when a civilization is descending into its final days. A half a century after the dissolution of the Comintern, the organization has come back to life. Under the auspices of a new generation of professional, well educated, white collar, upper class, corporate, academic, public sector and nongovernmental organization reds, communist revolution has been given a new company, a new firm and a new organized body of activists. Marching under banners marked Stakeholder Capitalism, Social Entrepreneurship and the Great Reset, the World Economic Forum has given communism the highest profile in its history as the curtain lowers on civilization.

REDS SHATTER THE WORLD

Communism is a political religion which advocates a collectivist, totalitarian society in which freedom has been abolished forever. Springing out of the works of Karl Marx in the nineteenth century, communism took hold of civilization in the twentieth century as civilization entered upon its stage of decline. Installed into power upon waves of mass culture, championing and reflecting what the masses have always desired throughout their sordid history, communism was peddled as progressivism, the third way, the welfare state and the administrative state, and it engulfed nations in rank tyranny, starting in Russia in 1917, and reaching across China, Korea, Cuba and the Eastern Europe. Launched from Lenin's October Revolution and spreading into America's New Deal, America's Fair Deal,

Britain's "cradle to grave" welfarism, Germany's "social market" and China under Mao, the global revolution of communism has been the defining religion of our times, and its cenotaph soars into the heavens upon the ruins of the West. For over a century, communism has been at war against free people and violence and deception have been the weapons in its armory. The record of communist terror and lies is the criminal record of a monster which has rampaged into every aspect of society, into every sector public and private, into every enterprise, project, endeavor and activity, and left fear and suppression in its wake. Item. Mao's satanic dictum inspirational to political gangsters throughout the world: "Political power grows out of the barrel of a gun." Item. A cancel culture which has expelled anticommunists from social and professional circles, online and in person. Item. Rioting across capital cities staged by Antifa and Black Lives Matter. Item. The censorship of viewpoints and information unfavorable to communism by the Tech Giants, Alphabet, Amazon, Apple, Microsoft and Twitter. Item. A Green New Deal which seeks to dismantle modern industry, technology and progress. Item. A campaign to defund of the police and disband immigrations and customs enforcement authorities. Item. The passage of Equality Acts which reject the findings of science that sex is determined by threads of genes called chromosomes, XX chromosomes determining females and XY chromosomes determining males, and is fixed and immutable, and require that so-called transgender individuals be allowed to use the lavatories, shower rooms and accommodations reserved for members of the opposite sex, and play on sports teams reserved for members of the opposite sex. Item. The shooting of Representative Steve Scalise at a congressional baseball game by James Hodgkinson, Bernie Sanders supporter and member of Terminate the Republican Party. Item. The targeting and murder of Aaron Danielson, Trump supporter and member of the anticommunist Patriot Prayer and Blue Lives Matter, in Portland, Oregon, in 2020: "A man was shot and killed as protesters and pro Trump supporters clashed on the streets of the US city that has seen its 95th night of unrest. US media has named the victim who died in Portland, Oregon, on Saturday as Aaron 'Jay' Danielson, but he was also understood to have used the name Jay Bishop. He was pictured lying on the ground wearing a Patriot Prayer cap and a Blue Lives Matter patch on his pants." Police say the woman was unsuccessful in her efforts to rob the child of the campaign sign. The Daily Camera reports the incident occurred around 3 pm local time when the boy was riding his bicycle and carrying a yard sign promoting President Trump's reelection campaign. The woman allegedly saw the sign, made a U turn on her moped, and began assaulting the child over the boy's political poster, according to police. Police identified the suspect as a white woman in her 20s or 30s, last seen wearing blue jeans, a blue shirt, and a tan jacket. The boy's father was notified of the alleged attack, and police say the case remains under investigation. If the Bradley effect exists at all, surely it's in full effect during a time when Trump supporters are routinely assaulted, beaten, and killed by leftists over their support for the president." (Not Even Children Are Safe From the Left's Violence Toward Trump Supporters by Bronson Stocking). Item. In the 2020 presidential election, evidence of voter fraud was as massive and widespread as it was as clear as the noonday sun. Geotracking data acquired from mobile phone apps, together with surveillance footage, pinpointed the locations and movements of fraudsters between October 1, 2020 and election day on November 3, in Arizona, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. The evidence established the operations of 2,000 people, hired by nonprofit organizations, who conducted ballot trafficking and stuffed drop boxes with fake absentee ballots for Joe Biden, and established that these operatives were paid ten dollars for every fake ballot for Biden they submitted. On January 6, 2021, Vice President Mike Pence refused to perform his constitutional duty by refusing to certify the election and sending the certification process back to the states. He released a statement: "It is my considered judgment that my oath to support and defend the Constitution constrains me from claiming unilateral authority to determine which electoral votes should be counted and which should not." Law abiding citizens were left shocked and horrified at Pence's abdication of his constitutional responsibility. The Twelfth Amendment to the United States Constitution states: "The President of the Senate [Vice President] shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted." A vote which is fraudulent is a vote which exists in name only. The Twelfth Amendment establishes the duty of the vice president to count votes, that is to say, real votes, and the corresponding duty to refuse to count unreal or fraudulent votes. The Electoral Count Act of 1887 states: "Two tellers shall be previously appointed on the part of the Senate and two on the part of the House of Representatives, to whom shall be handed, as they are opened by the President of the Senate [Vice President], all the certificates and papers purporting to be certificates of the electoral votes, which certificates and papers shall be opened, presented, and acted upon in the alphabetical order of the States, beginning with the letter A." This act establishes the duty of the vice president to open, present and act upon real votes and the corresponding duty to refuse to present or act upon unreal or fraudulent votes. Law abiding citizens were startled at the admission by the establishment that the vice president does indeed possess this power to overturn the results of a fraudulent election. The establishment seeks to take away this power it admits is implied in the Constitution and the Electoral Count Act by passing an amendment to the act which states that the role of the vice president in the counting of votes is purely passive and excludes the power to reject unreal or fraudulent votes: "House and Senate committees starting this week will begin work on measures to change how US presidential election votes are counted and certified—including possibly amending the 135 year old Electoral Count Act and clarifying the vice president's role in the process. The House Rules Committee will take up the the Presidential Election Reform Act with a floor vote as early as Thursday, according to The Hill. January 6 committee members Liz Cheney, R-Wyoming, and Zoe Lofgren, D-California, introduced the plan on Monday. Their legislation seeks to clarify the role of the vice president in certifying the election as solely 'ministerial' in nature. The efforts follow the 2020 elections in which lawyers for then President Trump and other legal experts had varying interpretations of the Electoral College law including the authority in the process of a vice president. Rioters on January 6, 2021, attempted to stop Congress' certification of the Electoral College results. Ten GOP senators have reportedly agreed to the upper chamber bill, which would give the Senate's 50 Democrats the 60 votes needed to at least get a final vote for passage." (House, Senate Panels Start This Week Considering Changes To 135 Year Old Electoral Count Act by Joseph Weber). Item. Advocating the abolition of individual rights in the name of the greatest good of the greatest number, the state as a divinity on earth, and the rights of the international proletariat, the utilitarians, Hegelians and Marxists who run the establishment have been assiduously at work since the dawn of the twentieth century carrying out their criminal plans. Prioritizing groups above individuals and staging riots in support of socialism, the establishment has shredded liberal constitutions and charters of rights and scattered the debris across the ruins of civilization: "Some however, see the Constitution as a barrier to their ideas of social order. These opponents of our US Constitution seek its destruction to allow for a new type of social contract. One inspired by utilitarianism, Hegelianism and Marxism, where socialist priorities outweigh natural rights endowed by our Creator. Wokeness, economic policies, and even riots are all part of their plan to destroy the Constitution in order to usher in an era of despotism that our Founders sought to protect us from. Politicians and others inspired by Marxist ideologies have been developing this plan for almost a century." (Left Close To Breaching Nation's Sacred Social Contract by Cory Mills). War is an armed conflict between states and societies. It is marked by massive violence and destruction and high rates of mortality. The deadliest war in history has been the red war against freedom which has resulted in the deaths of over 100 million people since its inception a century ago. This war launched by the far left, this war staged by gender, race and class activists, this total war targeting soldiers and civilians alike, has buried the new millennium.

THE LABORATORY VERSUS THE MYSTIC

Psychosis is a disorder of the mind which results in an inability to differentiate what is real from what is unreal. The psychotic is trapped within an antiworld of delusions, hallucinations, incoherent speech and disorganized thinking and is unable to function in a rational, human, day to day manner. Entertaining false beliefs, seeing and hearing things which do not exist, and collapsing in corners screaming with schizophrenic breakdown, the psychotic denies the existence of separate physical objects and projects reality as a single, mystical, supernatural substance. The hallmark of the psychotic, the mystic, the supernaturalist and the schizophrenic is a monistic view of reality which denies the evidence of the senses establishing the existence of separateness and multiplicity in space and time. Proclaiming that reality is Nature, God, an absolute mind, a single atom, a single sphere, a single monad, a pure continuum, pure space, pure geometry, a pure field of force, pure waves, pure vibrations, pure one dimensional strings, or pure dynamic flows, the psychotic has throughout history been confronted, challenged and refuted by the findings of common sense, codified and enshrined in the scientific laboratory. Listen to the voice of psychosis and hear it proclaim that the world we perceive is an nonexistent and that man is blind because he sees. Hear it proclaim that normal, functioning eyes present a veil of illusion because they are normal and functioning. Hear it proclaim that the existence of physical objects in space and time is a product of false ways of thinking and the mystical Whole enjoys ontological priority and alone really exists. Hear it proclaim that what the ignorant and the untutored see as tables, chairs, clouds and mountains are in reality unreal fragments of a single, supernatural entity. Hear it proclaim that reality is pure unity with nothing which is united, and pure integration with nothing which is integrated. Hear it proclaim that oneness alone is fundamental, while individuality is secondary, derivative, dependent and deceptive. Hear it proclaim that there are no separate beings in the universe, no individual parts, no empirical bodies, no perceived plurality, nothing optically present, no objects here or there, but only an infinite, indeterminate, undifferentiated union felt and intuited outside the prisonhouse of sound minds and sound eyesight: "The debate between monists and pluralists has long occupied philosophical center stage, with William James considering it 'the most central of all philosophic problems, central because so pregnant.' The monistic side can claim an intellectual pedigree tracing from Parmenides, Plato, and Plotinus, to Spinoza, Hegel, and Bradley. During the nineteenth century, the monistic side had achieved a position of dominance. I will claim that monism was never refuted but only misinterpreted. Monism is now usually interpreted as the view that exactly one thing exists. On such a view there are no particles, pebbles, planets, or any other parts to the world. There is only the One. Perhaps monism would deserve to be dismissed as obviously false, given this interpretation. But how uncharitable! The core tenet of historical monism is not that the whole has no parts, but rather that the whole is prior to its parts. As Proclus says: 'The monad is everywhere prior to the plurality. In the case of bodies, the whole that precedes the parts is the whole that embraces all separate beings in the cosmos.' Such a doctrine presupposes that there are parts, for the whole to be prior to them. The historical debate is not a debate over which objects exist, but rather a debate over which objects are fundamental. I will defend the monistic view, so interpreted: the world has parts, but the parts are dependent fragments of an integrated whole." (Monism: The Priority Of The Whole by Jonathan Schaffer). Listen to the voice of psychosis and hear it proclaim that physical objects do not exist. Hear it proclaim that matter is an illusion. Hear it proclaim that particles are products of finite perception and the shadow play of eyes which are deceptive because they function. Hear it proclaim that reality, that which is not revealed by the eyes, is pure energy, pure field, pure force, pure frequency and pure vibration which surrounds, subsumes and is all things, and that the sane, common sense notion of separate, discrete, physical entities must be consigned to the museum of Enlightenment prejudices and preconceptions: "Albert Einstein said, There is no place in this new kind of physics (Quantum Physics) both for the field and matter, for the field is the only reality. Seymon Kirlian, the Russian scientist who invented Kirlian photography, demonstrated using his technique, that all living things are surrounded by a biofield. Once we can accept the idea that all bodies have energy fields, we can understand how fields are as important as Einstein said, The field is the only reality. Vibrational medicine and healing focuses on healing the field of human beings, animals, and plant life, with harmonic frequencies rather than with chemical medicine. Einstein further stated, The field is the sole governing agency of the particle. Healing the field is the true way we can heal the body!" (Einstein And Energy Fields, in lifeshieldlaser.com). The common sense ontology that physical particles are the primary existents, that there are no motions or fields existing per se, that motion implies something which moves, that activity implies something which acts, and that a field presupposes something which carries it, runs through the thought of the Classical world as sunlight runs through the meadows at noonday. Listen to the words of the supreme expositor of common sense, Aristotle, and hear him proclaim that existence is noncontradiction, definition and determination, and that an actually infinite body would be everything and everywhere at one and the same time, would be simultaneously both A and non A, and is a contradiction in terms: "Things are said to exist both potentially and actually. A thing is infinite either by addition or by division. Now, as we have seen, magnitude is not actually infinite. But by division it is infinite. There is no difficulty in refuting the theory of indivisible lines. The alternative then remains that the infinite has only a potential existence." (Physics by Aristotle, Book III). Listen to Aristotle and hear him proclaim that the notion of actual infinity is the notion of actual contradiction, while what exists are definite, noncontradictory bodies in place and time: "We must not construe potential existence in the way we do when we say that it is possible for this to be a statue—this will be a statue, but something infinite will not be in actuality. Being is spoken of in many ways, and we say that the infinite is in the sense in which we say it is day or it is the

games, because one thing after another is always coming into existence. For of these things too the distinction between potential and actual existence holds. We say that there are Olympic games, both in the sense that they may occur and that they are actually occurring." (Physics by Aristotle, Book III). Listen to Aristotle and hear him proclaim that existence is a this, a that, a body here and a body there, and that the notion of infinity refers simply to a series without end, such as a number series, a temporal series and a series of points in space, and does not refer to an existence which is this, that, here and there at once and same time: "The infinite exhibits itself in different ways: in time, in the generations of man, and in the division of magnitudes. For generally the infinite has this mode of existence: one thing is always being taken after another, and each thing that is taken is always finite, but always different. Again, 'being' is spoken of in several ways, so that we must not regard the infinite as a 'this', such as a man or a horse, but must suppose it to exist in the sense in which we speak of the day or the games as existing—things whose being has not come to them like that of a substance, but consists in a process of coming to be or passing away, finite, yet always different.] (Physics by Aristotle, Book III). The march of empirical science has trampled underfoot doctrines which purport to deny the ontological primacy of particles. Empirical science has shown that there exist no fields without particles to cause them and no action without particles to cause it. It has shown that outside the mind, everything is particles, and that physics is the physics of particles or it is the physics of nothing. It has shown that gravitation is mediated by gravitons, electricity is mediated by electrons, magnetism is mediated by magnetons, electromagnetic radiation is mediated by photons, the strong nuclear force, which holds the nucleus of an atom together against the repulsion between protons, is mediated by gluons, and the weak nuclear force, which causes elementary particles to transform into each other through repulsion and decay, is mediated by W and Z bosons. It has shown that action is not a thing but is quantized, or performed by discrete entities which act, and that all physics is quantum physics in the sense that it is the physics of particles, and no physics is field physics, insofar as fields are not things but are caused by things. It has shown that the universe is constructed out of particles, from quarks to electrons, and that forces and interactions are carried by particles or there are no forces or interactions whatever, and the perception of motion in nature is an illusion. Nuclear colliders are invaluable tools of empirical research which accelerate elementary particles to super high speeds and force them to collide into each other. Analyses of the byproducts of these collisions provide detailed knowledge of the basic building blocks of the universe. Involving tens of thousands of scientists and operating at trillions of electron volts in laboratories throughout the world, nuclear colliders have smashed the dogmas of mystical monism and their field theories and accelerated the debris into a dustbin marked pseudoscience.

REDS SHUT DOWN AMERICA

Free fall is the motion of a body acted upon by gravity and gravity alone. An object in free fall near the earth begins accelerating at 9.8 meters per second and reaches an astounding terminal speed of 53 meters per second just prior to crashing onto the surface. Since the dawn of the twentieth century, America has been in a state of moral, political and economic free fall, and in the twenty first century has crashed into the Arctic wastelands of failed nations, brought into this wilderness by the terrifying propulsions of mass culture. No Deep State was at work here causing the crash, no global elite, no Big Tech giants, no corporate-government axis, but only the agitations of the man on the street and the neighbors next door. As it was in ancient Rome, so it is in the present day, the masses seek to repeal the rule of reason and sweep away the governance of liberty, and substitute the dark forces of religion and communism in their place. In Rome, the agents of free fall were Christianity and the Germanic tribes, acting together with the tyranny of the emperors, and their high taxation, bread and circuses mob rule. In the present day, the agents of free fall are the red tribes of gender, race and class, and this latter day movement of religion and barbarism has brought low the greatest arsenal of liberty the world had ever seen, and staged a tragedy of epic proportions, impressive and remarkable in the negative sense for its destruction of the strongest palace of Enlightenment ideals which had ever protected the free world. The final collapse and crash of America was the crescendo of a century old development, the loudest point reached in a century of mob screams for red religions, the jungle plumbed at the bottom of a valley of mass cultural degeneration, which has composed the epitaph and tombstone of Western civilization. In the twenty first century, America is a failed nation, a nation morally and cognitively impaired, a nation whose death was announced by ominous music played for a century by an orchestra conducted by the Devil. It was played by an orchestra whose string, woodwind, brass and percussion sections worked in unison and blasted out a performance which reduced the theater to ruins and sent civilized people running for their lives. Peddled for a century as progressivism, communism in America has reached the end of the line and crashed on the rocky shoals of gender, race and class politics. Item. By virtue of the covid shutdown of public schools and the mandate for remote learning under President Joe Biden, two decades of progress achieved in mathematics and reading scores have been erased. Item. Under Joe Biden, the Department of Justice has condemned parents attending school board meetings who are opposed to red indoctrination of students as domestic terrorists. Item. Under Joe Biden, health insurance premiums have increased by seventeen percent as people are forced to pay for the health care of others in the name of social responsibility and health care entitlement. Item. Reflecting the desires of the masses, Big Tech has silenced and canceled those with viewpoints opposed to the far left. Item. Google has consigned to spam folders seventy percent of Republican campaign emails, as compared to consigning ten percent of Democrat Party emails. Item. Big Tech has suppressed proRepublican election content on social media platforms sixteen million times. Item. Under Joe Biden, total government spending has increased by over nine trillion dollars. Item. Under Joe Biden, inflation has increased by 550 percent as a result of this spending. Item. Under Joe Biden, America has lost its energy independence and position as the largest oil and natural gas producer in the world. American energy production has been halted, canceled, shutdown and regulated out of existence: "Not long ago, America was the largest energy producer in the world and gas was affordable. Americans shouldn't have to choose between driving to work and putting food on the table." Instead, the Biden administration wants to take the California model national, trade American energy for foreign dependence, and make US energy more expensive and less competitive." At the same time, illicit fentanyl is flowing into our country and robbing an entire generation of Americans from a chance at the life they deserve." He failed to stand up to the brutal Chinese Communist Party, sought to cut deals with the radical Iranian regime that would endanger America and our ally Israel, and directly caused the disastrous withdrawal from Afghanistan that killed thirteen brave US service members. This America Last foreign policy endangers us all." (Commitment To America, republicanleader.gov). Item. A cult of indolence, masquerading as working from home, has taken hold of America. Refusing to return to the office after the covid pandemic and pretending to work in front of laptops stationed in their kitchens, basements, bedrooms and living rooms, Americans no longer earn their wages; they have cast output, efficiency, capacity and yield to the winds; and ground the nation's economy to a screeching halt. The cessation of oil and gas production, in obedience to a green agenda, combined with a shameless retreat from the workplace impelled by the masses' perennial desire to consume without producing, and to enjoy bread and circuses in the absence of labor and effort, have plunged the nation into permanent economic downturn and depression and the reduction of meaningful activity to zero: "On Thursday's broadcast of the Fox Business Network's Mornings with Maria, Professor of Economics at Harvard University and former International Monetary Fund Chief Economist Ken Rogoff stated that the output growth and labor force numbers show that 'we're in a productivity recession, productivity growth's just awful.' And said that while some of it is due to the pandemic, part of the reason is that some policies on fossil fuels 'aren't doing a lot to contribute to growth either.' Rogoff said, 'Well, there [are] definitely conflicting data. On the whole, if you look at output growth, it's really slow, maybe even negative. On the other hand, the labor force is red hot. I think the only way to square the circle is that we're in a productivity recession, productivity growth's just awful.' He elaborated that 'some of it is coming out of the pandemic. There is more work from home, where people like it, but they probably produce less. It makes effective wages higher than they seem. Firms have to be more generous in giving time off, etc, etc. I'm not criticizing these things, but they make growth less. And, of course, some of the policies about fossil fuels and such aren't doing a lot to contribute to growth either.' " (Harvard Professor, Former IMF Economist Rogoff: 'We're In A Productivity Recession,' And 'Policies About Fossil Fuels' Are Part of the Problem by Ian Hanchett). An automobile is careening down a freeway. The man at the wheel is intoxicated and the automobile is swerving in all directions. The amphetamines fueling his wild ride are packaged in brightly colored

The rejection of the findings of science that sex is determined by genes, by male genes and female genes, located in chromosomal threads, and is thus fixed and immutable, and the normalization of deviant transgender ideology and behavior. Critical race theory which condemns liberal democracy from the standpoint of black, swastika, Hitlerite race ideology. Crime allowed to run rampant in the streets, and the legal system upended, in the name of black power, proletarian power and women's power. A Marxist-Islamist axis whose target is the Enlightenment order of science and freedom. Excited and exhilarated by these far left drugs of chaos, revolution and rebellion against reality, the driver veers over a cliff and the car bursts into flames. Blazing wreckage, wheels spinning and a driver slumped dead over a steering wheel: the last scene and last act of civilization.

THE AXIS RETURNS

September 27, 1940. Germany, Italy and Japan sign the Tripartite Pact. In this pact between the Axis powers, Japan recognizes "the leadership of Germany and Italy in the establishment of a new order in Europe" while Germany and Italy recognize "Japan's right to establish a new order in greater East Asia." In addition, the members of the pact agree to defend each other in the event of an attack by an external nation. Less than a century after the formation of this axis against the West, the wheel of history has spun round and brought forth a new alliance forged by the enemies of freedom. Impelled by the masses with their rejection of reason and their politics of tribes and tyrannies, the events of recent history have not marched forward in linear progression but moved round and round and enacted cycles, and while the names and characters have changed, the story and essence have remained the same. Repeated again and again during the twilight stages of civilization, it is the story of criminal entities facing a common enemy and forming a coalition to destroy it. During World War II, the criminal entities were fascist powers bent on territorial expansion and their common enemy was the liberal order. In the twenty first century, the communist establishment in control of the West has made common cause with the establishment in control of the Arab world, Islam, in a campaign to destroy their common enemy, the liberal order once again. A world ruled by free people, guided by human reason, judging one another in accordance with their rational character and not their membership in race, gender or religious groups, and establishing a capitalist system which rejects the worship both of God and the State, is the world targeted for destruction by the latest axis front formed by Islamists and the reds. Entering, invading, infiltrating and corrupting the institutions of freedom like a cancer, this latest ideological monster breathing the fires of Marxism and the Red Crescent has given its support to a fellowship of satanists whose program is as stark in its simplicity as it is unspeakable in its unmitigated evil: the spread of terror into every nation on earth. Founded in Egypt in 1928 with the motto, The Koran is our law, jihad is our way, dying in the way of Allah is our highest hope, this fellowship is the Muslim Brotherhood. Look at this organization supported by the Marxists and their race and gender derivatives in control of every campus and community in the West. Given aid and comfort by the propaganda factories of the far left, which condemn the voices of liberal order as the lashes of Islamophobia, the Muslim Brotherhood is the preeminent incubator of Islamist terror in the world. It is the command and control center of Al Qaeda, the Islamic State, the Islamist Jemaah Islamiyah and the Egyptian Islamic Jihad. It is Murder Incorporated dedicated to wiping out every anti-Muslim and proliberal voice on the planet. It is an order of executioners and assassins created in the image of the communist Secret Apparatus. It is a church of eschatology which seeks to bring forth the end of times and the abolition of modern life. It seeks to establish a global Islamic caliphate enforcing Sharia law. It kidnaps and tortures people throughout the Middle East who are opposed to its aims and methods. It has named its attack on the West Civilization Jihad Operation. In a document entered as court evidence during the Holy Land Foundation trial in 2008, the largest terrorism financing prosecution in America, it described its mission: "We seek to destroy Western civilization's miserable house from within by its own hands, to be delivered by the hands of the believers." It has entered college campuses where its professors justify acts of mass murder and maiming: "When you look at academia, someone like me has much of a less chance of finding a position as a professor than an Islamist. Here, for an Islamist, all the doors are open. A professor at Union College in New Jersey is a self admitted member of the Muslim Brotherhood and, according to his own allegations, was involved in one of the worst terrorist attacks in Egypt, which killed and maimed 506 people. That man is teaching American college kids because he has more access than I ever could to academia. And that's the kind of situation we are in today. It's more culturally acceptable to associate with mass murderers and terrorists than people who speak the truth." (Counterterrorism Expert Cynthia Farahat Reveals Muslim Brotherhood Plan To 'Destroy West-Like Cancer' by Joshua Klein, quoting Farahat). Supported by tax dollars and given a green light by the global communist establishment, it promotes and recruits agents for its terror campaigns in public squares across the West, while its opponents cower in fear beneath any shadow they can find: "Bahgat Saber, the most prominent terror recruiter in the US, publishes violent and threatening clips daily ranting and inciting for jihad while using taxpayer funding even as authorities are aware of his activities. It actually disgusts and horrifies me on so many levels that he is able to stream—from Times Square—Islamic terrorism and recruitment and encouraging lone wolf terrorist attacks to take place. Yet a man like Salman Rushdie is not granted the same type of freedom in America." (Counterterrorism Expert Cynthia Farahat Reveals Muslim Brotherhood Plan To 'Destroy West-Like Cancer' by Joshua Klein, quoting Farahat). It has been granted by Joe Biden and the establishment a license to kill the voices of freedom and the enemies of terror active in the Republican Party: "President Joe Biden has created [an atmosphere] that encourages that way of behavior [violence] and rewards it. So he's basically telling the world, if you're going to come and slaughter my Republican opponents, I'm going to try to give you billions of dollars to reward you for it. That's basically the message that the world is seeing right now coming from the Biden regime, that it's open season on anyone who speaks against Islamism, or who's on the right basically." (Counterterrorism Expert Cynthia Farahat Reveals Muslim Brotherhood Plan To 'Destroy West-Like Cancer' by Joshua Klein, quoting Farahat). Look at the world today and see communists join hands with a red crescent brotherhood of terror. See an extremist organization of Islamist man haters receive help and encouragement from the global far left dispensation. See the West under attack by two foreign terror movements, founded by the followers of Marx and the followers of the Prophet. See a pincer movement encircling and engulfing the institutions of freedom, one flank of which proclaims that the Communist Manifesto is our law, class war is our way, dying in the way of the people's revolution is our highest hope, while the other flank proclaims that the Koran is our law, jihad is our way, dying in the way of Allah is our highest hope. See free people under round the clock bombardment from rocket launchers manned by the prophets of Allah and the prophets of the People. See the Arab world and the communist world form a coalition and wage war to the death against the world of enlightenment. See activists on behalf of gender, race and class politics and activists on behalf of the Community Of The Faithful forge an alliance against their common enemy: the liberal order of human freedom and human flourishing. See two groups of psychopaths work together to advance their common political aims, the destruction of freedom, and cooperate in financing, furthering and setting into motion global violence, horror, doomsday and apocalypse: "Senator Ted Cruz (R-TX) and Representative Mario Diaz-Balart (R-FL) called on the State Department to designate the radical Muslim Brotherhood a terrorist group last week, as the Biden administration is accused of boosting the extremist group in the Middle East. The bill, which was reintroduced by the two last Thursday, and is titled Muslim Brotherhood Terrorist Designation Act, demands the State Department designate the group as a Foreign Terrorist Organization. The move would also require the State Department to report to Congress over the possibility that the Muslim Brotherhood—whose motto declares, The Koran is our law, jihad is our way, dying in the way of Allah is our highest hope—meets the 'legal criteria for designation' of a terrorist organization, thereby enabling the US to 'take action that could stifle the funding they receive to promote their malign activities.' Cosponsors of the bill, all belonging to the Republican party, include Senators Jim Inhofe (R-OK) and Ron Johnson (R-WI), as well as Representative Guy Reschenthaler (R-PA), and others. Senator Cruz, who is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, introduced the bill by emphasizing the need to recognize the group for what it is and pursue the American fight against 'radical Islamic terrorism': 'It's high time we join our allies in the Arab world in formally recognizing the Muslim Brotherhood for what they truly are—a terrorist organization. So today, I'm proud to reintroduce this bill to urge the Biden administration to designate them as such, and advance our nation's fight against radical Islamic terrorism. We have a duty to hold the Muslim Brotherhood accountable for their role in financing and promoting terrorism across the Middle East.' Representative Diaz-Balart accused the group of its role in instigating terror and supporting other terror groups: 'The Muslim Brotherhood continues to instigate acts of terrorism and supports other terrorist organizations responsible for horrific acts of violence around the world.' (Senator Ted Cruz Calls To Designate Radical Muslim Brotherhood A 'Foreign Terrorist Organization' by Joshua Klein). The world's biggest pedestrian intersection is located at the Shibuya Crossing in Tokyo, Japan. Overlooked by immense television screens and advertising signs, the crossing is inundated by tens of thousands of people per day, and dwarfs the Times Square intersection in New York City and the Piccadilly Circus intersection in London. In the universe of man and society, located at the intersection of Marxism and Islam, are stationed the biggest, loudest and most powerful cannons the world has ever seen. They have blasted civilization into the dustbin of history.

BROTHERS RED AND BLACK

October 28, 1922. Paramilitary Blackshirts of the National Fascist Party of Italy, led by Benito Mussolini, conquer strategic points across the country and gather outside Rome. On October 29, they enter the city, stage an insurrection, lead a coup d'etat, and take over the government. January 30 1933. Adolf Hitler, leader of the German National Socialist Party, is appointed chancellor by President Paul von Hindenburg. Paramilitary SA and SS forces stage torchlit processions across Berlin celebrating the national socialist machtübernahme or "take over of power". Battling in the streets, battling for the reins of government, and battling in every home and office in the land are two forces which rule and define the age in which we live. They are the avatars of a psychosis which took hold of the West in the twentieth century and in the new millennium has sealed the coffin of civilization. Created by the masses, they are two rival gangs fighting over the same territory, two variants of the same political system, two voices of the same principle. Both are socialist but promote their religion of human enslavement under different banners and slogans. Both confront a common enemy, freedom, and they offer mankind a choice between two forms of dictatorship. Promoted by the fascists who achieved power in Italy and Germany in the early twentieth century, one form is a dictatorship in the name of the race. Promoted by the communists who achieved power in Russia at the same time, the other form is a dictatorship in the name of the class. Listen to the voice of communism and it hear it launch a campaign of attack and assault against freedom and capitalism. Here it proclaim a program of restriction, elimination and extermination of the class of producers of wealth and the inauguration of a holocaust without precedent in the history of mankind: "The characteristic feature in the work of our Party during the past year is that we, as a Party, as the Soviet power: a) have developed an offensive along the whole front against the capitalist elements in the countryside; b) that this offensive, as you know, has yielded and continues to yield very appreciable, positive results. What does this mean? It means that we have passed from the policy of restricting the exploiting tendencies of the kulaks to the policy of eliminating the kulaks as a class. It means that we have carried out, and are continuing to carry out, one of the decisive turns in our whole policy." (Speech On Agrarian Policy by Joseph Stalin, December 27, 1929). Listen to the voice of fascism and hear it proclaim a war against global capitalism and liberal institutions through a program of race genocide and the extermination of the Jews: "One thing I should like to say on this day which may be memorable for others as well as for us Germans. In the course of my life I have very often been a prophet, and have usually been ridiculed for it. During the time of my struggle for power it was in the first instance the Jewish race which only received my prophecies with laughter when I said that I would one day take over the leadership of the state, and with it that of the whole nation, and that I would then among many other things settle the Jewish problem. Their laughter was uproarious, but I think that for some time now they have been laughing on the other side of their face. Today I will once more be a prophet. If the international Jewish financiers in and outside Europe should succeed in plunging the nations once more into a world war, then the result will not be the Bolshevization of the earth, and thus the victory of Jewry, but the annihilation of the Jewish race in Europe!" (Speech To The Reichstag by Adolf Hitler, January 30, 1939). The fascists and the communists, collectivists championing the primacy of a nation and race, and collectivists championing the primacy of the proletariat, are shaping the world of the twenty first century as they shaped the world of the twentieth century, and are riding the West into its doom. In the present day, the story of this poison manufactured by the masses, who hate reason, freedom and personal responsibility more than they hate anything else in the world, has brought forth new names and new faces, agitating and propagandizing on behalf of the same essence and the same theme, played over and over again over the past one hundred years. Marching under the fearsome banners of the hammer and sickle, President Barack Obama proclaims that all thought is collective thought, all decision is collective decision, all initiative is collective initiative, all action is collective action, all creation is a collective creation, and the real producers of wealth and value are the collectivities of the masses, the government, the state and the society: "If you've been successful, you didn't get there on your own. You didn't get there on your own. I'm always struck by people who think, well, it must be because I was just so smart. There are a lot of smart people out there. It must be because I worked harder than everybody else. Let me tell you something-- there are a whole bunch of hardworking people out there. If you were successful, somebody along the line gave you some help. There was a great teacher somewhere in your life. Somebody helped to create this unbelievable American system that we have that allowed you to thrive. Somebody invested in roads and bridges. If you've got a business, you didn't build that. Somebody else made that happen. The Internet didn't get invented on its own. Government research created the Internet so that all the companies could make money off the Internet." (Remarks By The President At A Campaign Event In Roanoke, Virginia, July 13, 2012). Marching under the terrifying banners of the Red Star, the European Union proclaims that welfare is a right and an entitlement to be paid for by others. It proclaims that the state has a right to outlaw private existence, confiscate private wealth and redistribute the proceeds in programs marked social security, social insurance, social assistance, social justice and combating social exclusion. "1. The Union recognizes and respects the entitlement to social security benefits and social services providing protection in cases such as maternity, illness, industrial accidents, dependency or old age, and in the case of loss of employment, in accordance with the rules laid down by Union law and national laws and practices. 2. Everyone residing and moving legally within the European Union is entitled to social security benefits and social advantages in accordance with Union law and national laws and practices. 3. In order to combat social exclusion and poverty, the Union recognizes and respects the right to social and housing assistance so as to ensure a decent existence for all those who lack sufficient resources, in accordance with the rules laid down by Union law and national laws and practices." (Charter Of Fundamental Rights Of The European Union, Article 34). Marching under banners blazing with the Tricolor Flame, representing the eternal fire burning on Mussolini's tomb in Predappio, Italy, Giorgia Meloni, leader and cofounder of the Brothers Of Italy, is Italy's new prime minister. Listen to her words and hear her condemn capitalism as a system of financial speculation, consumer enslavement, national and racial rootlessness, and total dehumanization which reduces human beings to sets of numbers. Hear her condemn liberal society which views people as flesh and blood individuals, possessing rights, freedoms and dignity all their own, and exalt identity politics in its place. Hear her proclaim that individuals must be defined in terms of their group identity, in terms of their race, gender, ethnicity, family and religion, and that a progressive state has a holy and sacred assignment to turn back the clock of history. It is has a mission of destruction of Enlightenment civilization: "Why is the family an enemy? Why is the family so frightening? There is a single answer to all these questions. Because it defines us. Because it is our identity. Because everything that defines us is now an enemy for those who would like us to no longer have an identity and to simply be perfect consumer slaves. And so they attack national identity, they attack religious identity, they attack gender identity, they attack family identity. I can't define myself as Italian, Christian, woman, mother. No. I must be Citizen X, Gender X, Parent 1, Parent 2. I must be a number. Because when I am only a number, when I no longer have an identity or roots, then I will be the perfect slave at the mercy of financial speculators. The perfect consumer. That's why we inspire so much fear. That's why this event inspires so much fear. Because we do not want to be numbers. We will defend the value of the human being. Every single human being. Because each of us has a unique genetic code that is unrepeatable. And, like it or not, that is sacred. We will defend it. We will defend God, country and family. Those things that disgust people so much. We will do it to defend our freedom because we will never be slaves and simple consumers at the mercy of financial speculators. That is our mission." (Speech by Giorgia Meloni at the World Congress of Families, 2019). Marching under the iron heel of the Black Hundreds and shouting its slogan Orthodoxy, Autocracy and Nationality, Russian President Vladimir Putin condemns Western liberal enlightenment values and proclaims the primacy of the national soul, national consciousness, national faith, national culture, national language and national history: "There is nothing stronger than the willingness of millions of people who culturally--in their faith and their language, in their traditions--consider themselves to be part of Russia. The destruction of this Western hegemony is irreversible, the world will never be the same. For great, historic Russia, for future generations, for our children and grandchildren we need to protect them from these experiments which aimed to break their soul and their consciousness. We are fighting for our culture, for our language so that it's impossible to cancel it and remove it from history." (Speech by Vladimir Putin during a ceremony marking the annexation of Ukraine's four regions to Russia, September 30, 2022). In the early decades of the twentieth century, the West constructed a church of Satan and has lived there ever since. Within its impenetrable darkness are master organists playing hymns of hate. Their poems in praise of class hate, race hate and gender hate have silenced the voices of freedom for all time to come.

TODAY'S VOICE OF THE FRANKFURT SCHOOL

A code is a system of rules to convert one form of information into another for communication through a channel or storage in a medium. Encoding converts information from a source into symbols, while decoding converts code symbols back into a form the recipient understands, such as an ordinary language. In use for over one hundred and sixty years, longer than any other electrical code, the Morse Code encodes ordinary letters and numbers as two different signal durations, called dots and dashes, and is used by pilots, military forces and amateur radio operators throughout the world. In 1923, the communist underground in Europe invented a code for the establishment of a communist propaganda and agitation machine in the heart of the continent. The code was invented to conceal the true nature of the organization from the public. Finding sympathetic ears at the University of Frankfurt, the underground implemented its code on the campus of the university. Thus were born the Institute for Social Research, the Frankfurt school of philosophy, and critical theory, three code phrases for the dissemination of communism in the West. Under the leadership of Max Horkheimer, the institute, its Frankfurt school and its critical theory comprised a thoroughgoing criticism and rejection of the capitalist system. It condemned the modern day culture of the West, its philosophies, jurisprudence, psychological research, social sciences, music, film, literature, theater, popular entertainment and economic systems, as a lash of capitalist exploitation and oppression, and sought to establish a Marxist beachhead and Soviet branch office dedicated to the overthrow of the free world and the establishment of a global red totalitarian empire: "It was interdisciplinary body comprising specialists in such fields as philosophy, economics, political science, legal theory, psychoanalysis, and the study of cultural phenomena such as music, film, and mass entertainment [intended to be the] Western European equivalent of the Marx-Engels Institute in Moscow. The intellectual labor of the Institute in Frankfurt thus explicitly aimed at contributing to the overthrow of capitalism and the establishment of socialism." (Frankfurt School And Critical Theory, in Internet Encyclopedia of Philosophy). When it was shut down in 1933 by the brownshirt rivals of the redshirts, by the national socialist government of Germany, the fearsome, competing brother of the communist government in Russia, the institute moved to New York City. Finding sympathetic ears at Columbia University, the institute moved to the university's campus and renewed its mission to disseminate communism under a code phrase, but this time around, it had to use a new phrase after the first encoding had been exposed. The new communist front was christened the New School for Social Research. Generations of communists graduated from the original Institute for Social Research in Germany and from its American reincarnation, and from the institutes' Frankfurt school and critical theory, and these included, after Horkheimer, Theodor Adorno, Herbert Marcuse, Walter Benjamin, Friedrich Pollock, Leo Lowenthal, Eric Fromm, Jurgen Habermas, Klaus Offe, Josef Fruchtl, Hauke Brunkhorst, Klaus Gunther, Axel Honneth, Alessandro Ferrara, Cristina Lafont, Rainer Forst and Richard Bernstein and Andrew Feenberg. The most influential member of the Frankfurt school in the present day is part of its third generation. Mentor and teacher of academics throughout the world, from Berlin to Boston to Chicago to London, and recipient of prestigious awards given by the academic and cultural establishment, including the Gottfried Wilhelm Leibniz Prize, the Sonning Prize, the Kyoto Prize in Arts and Philosophy and the European Prize for Political Culture, Jurgen Habermas has faithfully carried on the mission of his masters and declared total war on the capitalist system and the correspondence theory of truth at the basis of the system. Item. Habermas rejects the empiricist view that knowledge is the knowledge of something and is a mirror of reality, and proclaims that consciousness and reality exist in the dialectical relation described by Marx and that consciousness manufactures and transforms what is real. Item. Habermas proclaims that reality is created and structured by social experience, social interests and social subjectivity. Item. Habermas proclaims that it is an Enlightenment superstition that knowledge is objective and descriptive. In point of fact, knowledge is a product of social values, social facts and social preferences and is incapable of rational justification. Item. Habermas proclaims that morality is not rooted in the facts of reality, for there are no such facts, but is the product of public, democratic discussion. Item. Habermas proclaims that physical objects do not exist and reality is a creation of sociocultural forms of life. Item. Habermas proclaims that knowledge is constituted of social interests, social instincts and social impulses. Item. Habermas proclaims that there is no such thing as knowledge which knows the world of nature, for there is no such world, and all knowledge is a product of social perspectives. Item. Habermas proclaims that there is no such thing as a science of objective reality and all science is subjective hermeneutics and the product of social interpretations and social texts. Item. Habermas proclaims that capitalism is a system in which large corporations control the state and society. Item. Habermas proclaims that capitalism is a system in which large corporations manipulate and manufacture public opinion and bribe politicians. Item. Habermas proclaims that capitalism is a system in which atomized consumers pursue their private interests at the expense of the public good. Item. Habermas proclaims that perception is not an objective act; it is not the perception of physical objects; but is the product of social activity and social utility. Item. Habermas proclaims that reality is a product of public consensus, collective choice and mutual understandings. Item. Habermas proclaims that reality is a product of social interaction. Item. Habermas proclaims that all so-called facts are subjective in nature and are established on the basis of majority vote. Item. Habermas proclaims that reality is communicatively structured and has no physical existence outside the mind. Item. Habermas proclaims that reality is a product of society and changes with the evolution of society. Item. Habermas proclaims that there are no real, objective perspectives on the world but only democratically sanctioned perspectives. Item. Habermas proclaims that the correspondence theory of truth, according to which truth is the correspondence of thought with reality, is based upon the false Enlightenment premise of the reality of physical objects, and must be replaced by a pragmatic theory of truth, according to which truth is that which advances social interests and is useful to society. Item. Habermas proclaims that language states nothing about the world and no propositions can be held to be objectively true or false, and propositions can only be held to be contextually true, socially true and pragmatically true. Item. Habermas proclaims that when using words, we mean nothing and express nothing real, for words cannot be held to representations of anything outside themselves, and are determined by the needs and interests of society. Listen to the philosophy of Habermas and hear it reject the common sense view that consciousness is conscious of something outside itself and that words refer to things. Hear it proclaim that truth is that which is made by the community, society and social agreement. Hear it proclaim that there exist no objective meaning, knowledge, norms or justification and all such are purely social and cultural in character. Hear him proclaim that reality is a construct of deliberation, consensus and the ballot box. Hear him condemn the concern for objective facts and the representation of reality. Hear him reject an ontology of physical objects and proclaim the subjective nature of all perception and communication, and the pragmatic nature of all truth: "Jurgen Habermas is the philosopher who is perhaps best known for thinking that community, sociality and agreement were more important when thinking about truth than the metaphysical speculation about the relationship between words and things. For Habermas, meaning, knowledge, justification, and the full range of norms that comprise social and political value systems are mediated by practices rooted in what he famously termed 'communicative action'. Briefly put, this type of action is aimed at establishing consensus (ie mutual understanding) through the slow and often painful deliberative process of establishing legitimate and valid norms for language using individuals. Simply put, a purely theoretical conception of truth is not fit for social and philosophical purposes. Communication and discourse for Habermas are products of what he called 'postmetaphysical thinking'. Broadly speaking, this is very similar to the neopragmatist idea that thought and language have a significant expressive function, as opposed to being principally representational. Postmetaphysical thinking is perhaps most clearly exemplified in Habermas's self description as the late twentieth century resurrector of the Intersubjectivist Turn. As Habermas conceives it, the Intersubjectivist Turn—which began in early nineteenth century Prussian philosophical circles—involves moving away from Cartesian habits to the pragmatics of communication." (Truth Isn't Correspondence With The Facts: Habermas And The Social Nature Of Truth by Paul Giladi). A century ago, in the heart of Europe, an institute and a movement were born which fueled a cultural revolution and led to the downfall of civilization. Setting into motion the woke politics, the cancel culture, the enforcement of political correctness and the gender, race and class activism which hold in thrall the world of the present day, the Institute for Social Research and its Frankfurt school are the red star around which the powers that be orbit. Its most influential expositor today is Jurgen Habermas.

THE SWASTIKA AND THE RED CRESCENT

An overture is the instrumental introduction to an opera. Invented in the seventeenth century, it saw its greatest development in the nineteenth century in the einleitung and vorspiel composed by Richard Wagner. Wagner's overture to Lohengrin is the greatest introductory movement in the history of opera and has moved and transported audiences throughout the world. The past one hundred years have seen an overture and opera composed in Satan's chambers which have tolled the death knell of civilization. The overture set the stage for the opera and showed the world the common cause uniting two totalitarian monsters and the common enemy they confronted and vowed to annihilate. The cause was liberal capitalist order and the enemy was Israel and the Jews, seen by these powers as the embodiments of this order, which opposed everything they stood for and sought to block their designs for world domination. The overture was played for thirteen years, from 1933 to 1945, in the infernal orchestras of the Third Reich, and served as a prelude and template for the same campaign, conducted on a vaster and wider scale by the red empire which succeeded it, a campaign which commenced in the late 1940s, receiving the baton passed to it upon the ashes of Germany's defeat. During both the overture and the main act, there was an external partner in evil utilized in equal measure by these two powers. This partner was Islam and both the Third Reich and the communist bloc made common cause with the Islamist antisemites of the Arab world. First forged by the Germans, this partnership saw the grand mufti of Jerusalem, Amin el-Husseini, commence collaborations with the Third Reich in 1941. It saw his hate filled diatribes to kill the Jews broadcast in Arabic to points throughout the Middle East over the Third Reich's shortwave radio transmitters. It saw his receipt of 90,000 reichmarks per month from the Third Reich from 1942 to 1945. It saw his collaboration with Heinrich Himmler and his establishment of the Handzar Bosnian-Muslim SS Division in Yugoslavia. It saw his assistance with German intelligence and sabotage operations in North Africa. It saw his meeting with Adolf Hitler at the Berlin Chancellery on November 28, 1941 during which Hitler promised that when German forces reached the Caucasus, they would exterminate the Jews in North Africa and the Middle East, and Hitler would appoint the mufti as leader of the Arab world. It saw his efforts to establish a German-Arab Legion in the Middle East to exterminate the Jews. It saw his letter to Hitler on December 11, 1942 in which he supported Hitler's war against the liberal order and the Jews which represented it, and prayed for the victory of the Axis Powers: "I seek close cooperation between the millions of Muslims in the world and Germany with its Allies in the Tripartite Pact, which is directed against the common enemies, Jews and Anglo-Saxons. With God's help this cooperation will lead to a victorious outcome of this war for the Axis Powers." Listen to the words of Adolf Hitler and hear him proclaim eternal solidarity with Islam in its struggle against the global liberal order represented by the Jews. Hear him join forces with Islam and declare war against "Jewish interests" or the interests of the free world. Hear him promote the formation of a German-Islamist axis whose mission is the annihilation of the Jews and a holocaust against Western civilization: "Germany stands for an uncompromising struggle against the Jews. It is self evident that the struggle against the Jewish national homeland in Palestine forms part of this struggle, since such a national homeland would be nothing other than a political base for the destructive influence of Jewish interests. Germany also knows that the claim that Jewry plays the role of an economic pioneer in Palestine is a lie. Only the Arabs work there, not the Jews. Germany is determined to call on the European nations one by one to solve the Jewish problem and, at the proper moment, to address the same appeal to non-European peoples." (Letter from Adolf Hitler to Amin Al-Husseini, November 28, 1941). Listen to the German-Arab overture to the communist-Arab opera and hear the sounds of Jew hatred rising from the darkness of a war to destroy everything good and noble in the world, a war conducted beneath swastika torchlights and atop the minarets of Allah's faithful. Listen to Arabists and Islamists exalt

Adolf Hitler and vow to continue his unholy mission. This was a mission against Israel, the Jews, zionism and the West: "Hitler's and Mussolini's defeat did not frighten you. Your hair did not turn gray of fright, and you are still full of life and fight. What a hero, what a miracle of a man. We wish to know what the Arab youth, cabinet ministers, rich men, and princes of Palestine, Syria, Iraq, Tunis, Morocco, and Tripoli are going to do to be worthy of this hero. Yes, this hero who challenged an empire and fought zionism, with the help of Hitler and Germany. Germany and Hitler are gone, but Amin Al-Husseini will continue the struggle." (Letter from Hassan al-Banna, leader of the Muslim Brotherhood, to Amin el Husseini, the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, June 11, 1946). Look at the German-Arab overture to the communist-Arab opera and see Amin al-Husseini show triumphant elation and jubilation at the sight of Jewish concentration camp inmates. See him collaborate with the swastika system of forced labor and terror against the Jews. See him tour scenes of state criminality with satisfaction surging through his soul and gleefully inspect Germany's cities of death: "In 2017, Jerusalem's Kedem auction house posted three of six previously unknown photos on the internet, in which the grand mufti of Jerusalem, Amin al-Husseini, inspects a Nazi concentration camp along with Nazi senior officials and government figures. According to the auctioneers, an expert was of the opinion that these inmates performed forced labor at the Trebbin camp near Berlin, which was, from 1942 to 1945, an SS artillery training place with a branch of the Sachsenhausen concentration camp in Oranienburg. Built after World War I as a Christian City of Peace, it was taken over by the SS in 1935. Among the prisoners were Jews from Hungary. Forced labor, terror and violence characterized their daily lives." (Photographic Evidence Shows Palestinian Leader Amin al-Husseini At A Nazi Concentration Camp by Wolfgang Schwanitz). Look at the German-Arab overture to the communist-Arab opera and see death squads armed under the signs of the swastika and the red crescent moving against the Jews. See Germans and Arabs launch a war against the world the Jews embodied. See soldiers fighting for Hitler and Allah plan and carry out a mission of destruction whose target was Jewish stores, Jewish lands, Jewish lives and Jewish places of worship, signposts, one and all, of Western freedom and progress: "During the Second World War, the Nazis and Palestinian Arab leader Haj Amin al-Husseini, mufti of Jerusalem, planned and executed a commando mission whose primary objective was killing Jews in the land of Israel. The five men who were parachuted into Palestine had all lived there for much of their lives and knew the territory well. Their plan was to incite Palestinian Arabs against Jews and to attack individual Jewish targets, such as synagogues and Jewish owned stores. The operation was codenamed Atlas and took place in October 1944. This is the story of an event that has been all but lost to history, but which casts important light on the global dimensions of Nazi war planning—and the key role played by their willing accomplices." (Operation Atlas Casts Light On Nazi Attempts To Squelch The Jewish State by Marc Goldberg). Look at the German-Arab overture to the communist-Arab opera and see special forces of hate organized against freedom. See operations of mass murder organized against the voices of enlightenment. See German officials train Arabs to kill Jews. See German regiments and the masses of Palestine form a coalition against a common enemy: Jews, liberalism, capitalism and the West: "[Lieutenant Kurt] Wieland had wanted to lead a commando mission to Palestine for some time. Through his cousin, an SD official, he'd managed to get himself in front of [Sicherheitsdienst lieutenant colonel] Beissner. The interview went well enough that Wieland was transferred from the Brandenburg Special Forces regiment to the SD and given control of an operation targeting Palestine called Elias. Wieland promptly changed the name to Atlas and focused it on a Special Forces mission to train and incite the Arabs of Palestine against the Jews. He would later write that the military aim of the operation was to cause 'the greatest possible damage to the common enemies (Jews, English, Americans and the Allies).' " (Operation Atlas Casts Light On Nazi Attempts To Squelch The Jewish State by Marc Goldberg). Heinrich Hoffmann was Adolf Hitler's official photographer and member of Hitler's intimate circle. In 1941 he took a photograph which sent shock waves coursing through the civilized world as it spoke, in a photographic instant, a thousand words about the enemies of civilization. This was a picture of Hitler talking to Amin el-Husseini at the Berlin Chancellery. It was a picture of two satanic forces aligned against a common enemy. It was a picture of expulsion and killing of the symbols of freedom. In a brief moment in time it captured the commencement of a campaign which spanned decades, launched by totalitarian movements, to push the West into the dustbin of history.

SOUTHERN POVERTY LAW CENTER: REDS IN CHARGE

During the Cold War, a communist front was an organization under the control of a communist party or the Communist International. It attracted individuals who were either party members or fellow travelers. The idea for such an organization originated with Vladimir Lenin way back in 1902, when he advocated the use of legal cover for an illegal organization: "I propose to reach the masses through a large number of other organizations intended for wide membership and, which, therefore, can be as loose and as public as possible" (What Is To Be Done? by Vladimir Lenin). Communist fronts drew in the masses by the millions and were as mainstream and popular as they were dedicated to the communist cause and weapons of communist subversion: "Thousands of Americans joined communist fronts during the 1930s. Few of them realized the true nature of the organizations they joined. The fronts paraded as independent, nonpartisan groups under the facade of noncommunist control. They were actually satellites of the Communist Party whose primary aim was to create the impression of mass support for an essential part of the party line. To maintain the illusion of noncommunist control, the formal leadership of these organizations was almost invariably composed of nonparty members; the actual control was, however, in the hands of party activists." (A Documentary History Of The Communist Party Of The United States edited by Bernard Johnpoll, Volume Three). With the fall of the Soviet Union, communist fronts did not die but simply changed form. Masquerading as legitimate organizations, communist fronts are now controlled by private actors, by unaffiliated, domestic communist partisans and sympathizers, but their mission is unchanged and focused on carrying on the Soviet plan to overthrow the free world, and as before, they attract members reaching into all walks of life. The most prominent and influential communist front organization operating in America today was founded over a half a century ago. Ostensibly dedicated to the cause of civil rights, public interest litigation and the classification of hate groups, the Southern Poverty Law Center has been promoting communism from the very first day of its existence, when communist lawyers Morris Dees and Joseph Levin set up shop in Montgomery, Alabama, and started an organization which would open up branch offices in Atlanta, Tallahassee, Miami, New Orleans and Jackson, Mississippi. Cited, accepted and exalted as authoritative by the academic, media and political establishment, its assessments have emerged from the blazing infernos of communist partisanship and are dedicated to advancing the communist agenda to abolish America's constitutional government. A billion dollar, tax exempt, communist propaganda apparatus masquerading as a public charity dedicated to the protection of human rights, the Southern Poverty Law Center has attacked Aryan Nations, White Aryan Resistance and United Klans of America, while remaining deafeningly silent about the terror organizations Antifa and Black Lives Matter, and has attacked as racist and Islamophobic those who are opposed to affirmative action racial quotas, to illegal immigration and to Islamic terror. It has attacked as extremists, hate mongers and kindlers of prejudice and injustice the supporters of individual rights, meritocratic achievement, the duty of the West to defend itself against the forces of Islamic revolution, and the findings of science which teach that sex is determined by genes and is thus fixed and immutable: "The conservative individuals listed as 'hate mongers' and 'extremists' include famed brain surgeon and Trump cabinet member Ben Carson, Somali born, former Dutch Parliament member and human rights crusader, Ayaan Hirsi Ali, former Attorney General Jeff Sessions, and former Ohio Secretary of State Kenneth Blackwell who, like Carson, is black." (Using Horowitz To Defame DeSantis (Again): The Leftist Smear Machine Goes Into High Gear by David Horowitz). The organization has condemned as fascist, national socialist and members of the radical right organizations such as American Enterprise Institute and the Federation for American Immigration Reform which promote liberal order, capitalist freedom and vetted immigration. Listen to SPLC operative Mark Potok and hear him proclaim that the purpose of the organization is to cancel and destroy those whose views imperil the survival and success of communism: "The center's Hate Watch lists have nothing to do with criminality or violence, or any kind of guess we're making about 'this group could be dangerous.' It's strictly ideological. Our aim in life is to destroy these [conservative] groups. To completely destroy them." (Using Horowitz To Defame DeSantis (Again): The Leftist Smear Machine Goes Into High Gear by David Horowitz, quoting Potok). The organization has attacked as blind, unreasoning haters and bigots those who support the Enlightenment values of reason and individualism and are opposed to the incursions of Islamic fanaticism and tribalism: "It is sad but telling that the SPLC's so-called field guide to Muslim haters is not a list of violent extremists—who certainly do exist—but is instead a blacklist of prominent writers whose opinions on a range of cultural and political issues are offensive to the SPL. The SPLC blacklist contains practicing Muslims like Maajid Nawaz, ex-Muslims like Ayaan Hirsi Ali, foreign policy think tankers like Frank Gaffney and Daniel Pipes, and right wing firebrands like David Horowitz—none of whom could be reasonably described as anti-Muslim bigots." (A New Blacklist From The Southern Poverty Law Center Marks The Demise Of A Once Vital Organization by Lee Smith). Listen at the organization which the SPLC proclaims "is not a hate group". Listen to Black Lives Matter and hear it condemn capitalism as a system of white supremacy. Hear it condemn liberal democracy as a system of white violence. Hear it proclaim that a progressive community has abolished freedom and equality and established a racist, totalitarian dictatorship which encourages blacks to imagine, plan and carry out criminal acts, to innovate and refine techniques of violence against whites, and to feel pleasure and happiness at the sight of whites being murdered by the millions: "#BlackLivesMatter was founded in 2013 in response to the acquittal of Trayvon Martin's murderer. Black Lives Matter Global Network Foundation, Inc is a global organization in the US, UK, and Canada, whose mission is to eradicate white supremacy and build local power to intervene in violence inflicted on black communities by the state and vigilantes. By combating and countering acts of violence, creating space for black imagination and innovation, and centering black joy, we are winning immediate improvements in our lives." (Black Lives Matter, website). Listen to Black Lives Matter and hear it promote black liberation from the shackles of civilized society. Hear it seek to organize black communist women, black communist hoodlums, black communist outcasts, black communist fugitives, black communist transgenders, black communist homosexuals, black communist psychotics, black communist illegal aliens and the black communist poor in a movement to storm the ramparts of liberal democracy and construct upon the ruins an empire of race hatred, black rage, moral degeneration and mass violence: "We are expansive. We are a collective of liberators who believe in an inclusive and spacious movement. We also believe that in order to win and bring as many people with us along the way, we must move beyond the narrow nationalism that is all too prevalent in black communities. We must ensure we are building a movement that brings all of us to the front. We affirm the lives of black queer and trans folks, disabled folks, undocumented folks, folks with records, women, and all black lives along the gender spectrum. Our network centers those who have been marginalized within black liberation movements." (Black Lives Matter, website). Look at the organization which the SPLC refuses to condemn as a hate group and hear it proclaim that those who dissent from the tenets of Marxism are racist and fascist and must be silenced and deplatformed by physical force. Hear it condemn the liberal system of nonviolence, tolerance and freedom of speech. Hear it exalt brass knuckles and gun barrels as the highest forms of political argumentation. Hear it defend street brawling and rivers flowing with blood in the name of fighting the far right. Hear it defend criminality in the name of communism and advocate red revolution and the totalitarian destruction of society: "At the heart of the antifascist outlook is a rejection of the classical liberal phrase incorrectly ascribed to Voltaire that 'I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it.' Auschwitz and Treblinka, antifascists committed themselves to fighting to the death the ability of organized nazis to say anything. Thus, antifascism is an illiberal politics of social revolutionism applied to fighting the far right, not only literal fascists. As we will see, antifascists have accomplished this goal in a wide variety of ways, from singing over fascist speeches, to occupying the sites of fascist meetings before they could set up, to physically disrupting their newspaper sales, demonstrations and other activities." (Antifa: The Antifascist Handbook by Mark Bray). Promoting expropriation and confiscation in the name of social justice and exalting tribal groups above individual rights, the communist threat to freedom is championed today by America's foremost legal advocacy organization. The Southern Poverty Law Center has declared war on the nation.

ELON MUSK: INVESTOR, MAGNATE AND CEO OF COMMUNISM

Cancer is an abnormal cell growth within an organism which can spread into every part of it and kill it. Caused by damage to the genes which gives them faulty instructions and makes them divide uncontrollably, the spread of cancer is called metastasis. The cancerous tumors which spread are called metastatic tumors and their terrifying career originates from the primary tumor. The death of the organism is caused by this metastasis. A civilization on its way down has been stricken by a cancer which has spread into every sector of its population and every aspect of its activity. The site of the primary tumor is the masses and the fallen civilization has been laid low by the metastatic tumors emanating from the diseased viewpoints and attitudes of the majority. The moral and spiritual degeneration of the majority invades the professional and intellectual classes and transforms the establishment, causing it to blacken and rot. The fall of Rome occurred when the masses decided that they no longer wanted to live in a free, reason based society and voted for the enemies of reason and freedom, and voted into power their emperors, their mob rule, their welfare entitlements, their grain doles, their bread and circuses, their Christian superstitions and their Germanic rampages, and took the constitution of their republic, shred it to ribbons and hurled it into the dustbin of history. The cancer of religion and collectivism which struck ancient Rome has struck the present day; its cells are dividing without check and without surcease; and from the site of the primary tumor, the man on the street and the neighbors next door, it has invaded every occupational sector of society and spread into the highest levels of government, business, academia and the arts. The relentless, all encompassing character of this cancerous invasion, sparing no person high or low, is illustrated, as it cannot be more accurately and tellingly illustrated, in the career of a person who occupies the highest reaches of business power and success. Elon Musk has a net worth of $240 billion and is the wealthiest person in the world. He controls the following companies, SpaceX, Tesla, OpenAI, Neuralink and the Boring Company, with a combined worth reaching into trillions of dollars. He is a fellow of the Royal Society. He holds an honorary doctorate from Yale University and is an honorary member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers. He is a recipient of the George Low Transportation Award of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, the Gold Space Medal of the World Air Sports Federation and the Gold Medal of the Royal Aeronautical Society. His grantmaking Musk Foundation awards billions of dollars every year in support of renewable energy research and advocacy, human space exploration research and advocacy, pediatric research, science and engineering education, and the development of artificial intelligence. He was listed in Time magazine's 100 Most Influential People in 2010, 2013, 2018 and 2021. He was selected as Time's Person of the Year in 2021: "The Person of the Year is a marker of influence, and few individuals have had more influence than Elon Musk on life on Earth, and potentially life off Earth, too" (The Choice: Elon Musk by Edward Felsenthal, December 13, 2021). Look at this titan who bestrides the world and sits atop its towers, spanning the heavens, pulsating with scientific and industrial capacity. Look at his political and ideological sympathies and see the incursion of a cancer like no other, an attack and invasion of communism bringing down the owner, tycoon and entrepreneur of the planet par excellence, and bringing down Western civilization along with him. He voted for Hillary Clinton in the 2016 presidential election. He voted for Joe Biden in the 2022 presidential election. This highest of the world's high profile technological innovators proclaims that a progressive society has established a universal, guaranteed basic income financed by government confiscation of wealth. He proclaims that a system of wealth redistribution into the hands of the masses, the robbing of the productive Peters to pay the nonproductive Pauls, will compose the glorious culminating chapter of human life, entitled Social Justice. He proclaims that the transformation of individuals into wards of the state cosseted by looted tax money is a moral necessity which will allow vast layers of dirt to flourish in the enjoyment of leisure time while their moral betters and superiors toil day and night to support them: "Tech innovators in the self driving car and AI industries talk a lot about how many human jobs will be innovated out of existence, but they rarely explain what will happen to all those newly jobless humans. As usual, Tesla and SpaceX founder Elon Musk responds to an obvious question with an answer that may surprise some. In an interview with CNBC on Friday, Musk said that he believes the solution to taking care of human workers who are displaced by robots and software is creating a (presumably government backed) universal basic income for all. 'There's a pretty good chance we end up with a universal basic income, or something like that, due to automation,' said Musk. 'I'm not sure what else one would do. That's what I think would happen.' The idea sounds great, and makes perfect sense in an emerging jobs landscape where automation in fast food, banks, customer service and, soon, deliveries are slowly erasing the incomes of vast swaths of middle and low income US citizens. However, Musk's vision doesn't really track with current trends, especially when you remember that services like health care and college education—things other rich nations offer for free to citizens—are still services that can drive many in the US into huge debt and sometimes bankruptcy. If the US government won't install free health care and education, what are the chances we'll see a universal basic income anytime soon? There's also the tricky question of how companies pushing automation will make money if most citizens survive on a fixed, universal basic income. The good news is that one of the most high profile innovators on the planet is finally pushing this issue out into the spotlight, while many other CEOs continue to ignore the looming human jobs crisis that automation threatens to bring about. How, exactly, Musk thinks we'll get to that universal income status is unclear, but if we do get there, he believes it could open up a new chapter in human life. 'People will have time to do other things and more complex things, more interesting things,' said Musk. '[They will] certainly have more leisure time.' " (Elon Musk Thinks Universal Income Is Answer To Automation Taking Human Jobs by Adario Strange). This generator of the untold financial profit and recipient of the world's highest honors and rewards proclaims that rising levels of greenhouse gases emitted by modern civilization will lead to the incineration of the planet and the extinction of all life, and that the only way to confront this crisis is through a policy of large scale, gigatonne carbon removal involving the dismantling of the technological and industrial progress of mankind: "[Man made] Climate change is real. Leaving Paris [Paris Climate Accords] is not good for America or the world". (Tweet, June 1, 2017). He proclaims this in the face of scientific evidence that global warming is part of a natural warming and cooling cycle which extends back millions of years, that global warming will occur on a regular basis whether or not there are greenhouse gas emissions, and that in order for greenhouse gas emissions to cause global warming, the quantity emitted would have to be far greater than anything produced thus far: "But in seeking to understand recent warming, we also have to consider the natural factors that have regularly warmed the climate prior to the industrial revolution and, indeed, prior to any human presence on the earth. After all, the geological record shows a persistent 1,500 year cycle of warming and cooling extending back at least one million years. What about the fact that carbon dioxide levels are increasing at the same time temperatures are rising? That's an interesting correlation; but as every scientist knows, correlation is not causation. During much of the last century the climate was cooling while CO2 levels were rising. And we should note that the climate has not warmed in the past eight years, even though greenhouse gas levels have increased rapidly." (Global Warming: Man Made Or Natural? by Fred Singer). He proclaims the necessity of repealing the Industrial Revolution while falsely claiming that climate scientists employed by the United Nations Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change have reached a consensus that human activity is causing global warming. In point of fact, no such consensus exists among the qualified professionals employed by the panel: "In identifying the burning of fossil fuels as the chief cause of warming today, many politicians and environmental activists simply appeal to a so-called 'scientific consensus.' There are two things wrong with this. First, there is no such consensus: An increasing number of climate scientists are raising serious questions about the political rush to judgment on this issue. For example, the widely touted consensus of 2,500 scientists on the United Nations Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) is an illusion: Most of the panelists have no scientific qualifications, and many of the others object to some part of the IPCC's report. The Associated Press reported recently that only 52 climate scientists contributed to the report's Summary for Policymakers." (Global Warming: Man Made Or Natural? by Fred Singer). This top ranking member of the Bloomberg Billionaires Index and Forbes' Real Time Billionaires has condemned social media platforms which champion constitutional government in a free society: "It [Truth Social] is essentially a rightwing echo chamber. It might as well be called Trumpet." (Interview with the Financial Times, October 7, 2022). Emanating from the marshes, miasmas and putrescent matter of the masses, the disintegration of civilization has reached into the highest levels of power. Achieving the most immense wealth imaginable through the establishment of multibillion dollar communist subsidized projects, from electric vehicles without speed or range, to autonomous automobiles which crash, collide and kill people, to space rockets which soar into realms of nothingness, meaninglessness and nowhere, Elon Musk commands the heights of the West's free fall into doomsday.

RED REVOLUTION AT YALE LAW SCHOOL

The National Lawyers Guild is an association of communist lawyers and law students in America. It was founded in 1937 as an alternative to the American Bar Association in consequence of the latter's exclusion of communists from membership. The character of the guild as a communist front is described by the House Committee On UnAmerican Activities: "The National Lawyers Guild, despite being promoted as a professional organization of liberal lawyers, has proven itself by its actions to be just one more highly deceptive communist operated front organization, primarily intended to serve the interests of the Communist Party of the United States." (Investigation Of UnAmerican Propaganda Activities In The United States: Special Committee On UnAmerican Activities, House of Representative, Seventy Eighth Congress, 1944). In 1950, the House Committee described the guild as "the foremost legal bulwark of the Communist Party" and in 1953, Attorney General Herbert Brownell described the guild as "the legal mouthpiece of the Communist Party". (Anatomy Of A Counter Bar Association: The Chicago Council Of Lawyers by Michael Powell, Law and Social Inquiry, Volume 4, Number 3). The fall of the communist bloc and the end of the Cold War did not result in the demise of communist fronts but simply brought about a change in leadership. Too popular and pervasive in the West, too much a fixed temple in the miasma of mass culture, too deeply entrenched in the late stage development of a civilization in ruins, communism is a monster which will never die, and in the twenty first century it has achieved its unholy mission: the extinction of moral life on Earth. The communist fronts in operation today are not controlled by Moscow but by native reds carrying the torch for the deceased Soviets, working assiduously day and night to ensure that the cause of totalitarian subversion is never forgotten and continues to grow ever stronger and ever more dedicated. The fearsome and terrifying extent of the communist rampage which has rushed wildly across the free world, leaving no tradition untouched and sparing no institution high or low, has produced a crime scene like no other in New Haven, Connecticut. Known as quiet and leafy Elm City, and billed as the Cultural Capital of the state, New Haven is home to Yale University. Established in 1824, the university's law school is the top ranked law school in America, and with an acceptance rate of four percent, is one of the most selective academic institutions in the world. Its alumni include presidents, governors, senators and Supreme Court justices, from America and throughout the world. Its flagship Yale Law Review is the most cited legal publication in the nation. In the twenty first century, this soaring Ivory Tower of legal scholarship has become the foremost legal voice of communism in America, and has disgraced the English Inns of Court, founded in the twelfth century by King Henry II to teach liberal common law, from which it arose. A list of the school's communist activities and agitations is as voluminous as it is asphyxiating and has cut off the moral air supply of the nation. Look at the world of Yale Law School and see communist students shout down the advocates of free speech. See red ruffians intimidate the supporters of constitutional rights. See red totalitarians hunt down the champions of human reason and human goodness. See red subversives massacre the soldiers of liberty. See red agitators declare liberal constitutions and courts of law null and void. See red hoodlums storm panels of civil libertarians. See red propagandists protest against the open exchange of ideas and opinions. See red vandals assault those who defend the right of free speech against unconstitutional nondiscrimination laws. See red assassins violate the right of the people to hear the words of freedom and the right of fighters for freedom to be heard. See red hecklers fill academic halls with terror and fear. See red gangsters defend violations of free speech in the name of exercising free speech. See red thugs pull down the watchtowers of law and order. See red protestors send audiences running for their lives. See red delinquents cancel discussions with the brass knuckles of brute force. See uncontrolled red excitement take over a college campus. See wild red behavior grab, push and kill the opponents of censorship. See red mobs attack police and endanger the security of civilized people. See red psychopaths block doors and windows and fill auditoriums with the poison gas of black communist power. See red incendiaries blow up the most prestigious law school in the nation and bury it beneath rubble and debris marked tribalism, transgenderism, antireason and antienlightenment: "More than 100 students at Yale Law School attempted to shout down a bipartisan panel on civil liberties, intimidating attendees and causing so much chaos that police were eventually called to escort panelists out of the building. The March 10 panel, which was hosted by the Yale Federalist Society, featured Monica Miller of the progressive American Humanist Association and Kristen Waggoner of the Alliance Defending Freedom (ADF), a conservative nonprofit that promotes religious liberty. Both groups had taken the same side in a 2021 Supreme Court case involving legal remedies for First Amendment violations. The purpose of the panel, a member of the Federalist Society said, was to illustrate that a liberal atheist and a conservative Christian could find common ground on free speech issues. 'It was pretty much the most innocuous thing you could talk about,' he added. That didn't stop nearly 120 student protesters from crowding into the event. When a professor at the law school, Kate Stith, began to introduce Waggoner, the protesters, who outnumbered the audience members, rose in unison, holding signs that attacked ADF. The nonprofit has argued—and won—several Supreme Court cases establishing religious exemptions from civil rights laws, most famously Masterpiece Cakeshop v. Colorado Civil Rights Commission in 2018. As they stood up, the protesters began to antagonize members of the Federalist Society, forcing Stith to pause her remarks. One protester told a member of the conservative group she would 'literally fight you, bitch,' according to audio and video obtained by the Washington Free Beacon. With the fracas intensifying, Stith reminded the students of Yale's free speech policies, which bar any protest that 'interferes with speakers' ability to be heard and of community members to listen.' When the protesters heckled her in response—several with their middle fingers raised—she told them to 'grow up,' according to a video of the event obtained by the Free Beacon. The comment elicited jeers from the protesters, who began shouting at the panelists and insisting that the disturbance was 'free speech.' Eventually, Stith told them that if the noise continued, 'I'm going to have to ask you to leave, or help you leave.' The protesters proceeded to exit the event—one of them yelled 'Fuck you, FedSoc' on his way out—but congregated in the hall just outside. Then they began to stomp, shout, clap, sing, and pound the walls, making it difficult to hear the panel. Chants of 'protect trans kids' and 'shame, shame' reverberated throughout the law school. The din was so loud that it disrupted nearby classes, exams, and faculty meetings, according to students and a professor who spoke on the condition of anonymity. Ellen Cosgrove, the associate dean of the law school, was present at the panel the entire time. Though the cacophony clearly violated Yale's free speech policies, she did not confront any of the protesters. At times, things seemed in danger of getting physical. The protesters were blocking the only exit from the event, and two members of the Federalist Society said they were grabbed and jostled as they attempted to leave. 'It was disturbing to witness law students whipped into a mindless frenzy,' Waggoner said. 'I did not feel it was safe to get out of the room without security.' As the panel concluded, police officers arrived to escort Waggoner and Miller out of the building. Three members of the Federalist Society say they were told that the Dean of Yale Law School, Heather Gerken, called the police, though the law school declined to comment on who asked for extra security. " (Hundreds Of Yale Law Students Disrupt Bipartisan Free Speech Event by Aaron Sibarium). Look at the world of Yale Law School and see administrators who have sworn to uphold the right of free speech denounce this right as a product of right wing political agendas. See the head of the school sanction communist violence in the name of protecting deliberation and defending due process. See a venerable academic institution register for service in a red army dedicated to the destruction of a free society: "In our statement hungry culture, university leaders are constantly asked to be referees, encouraging our students to appeal to a higher authority rather than to engage with one another and tempting outsiders to enlist academic institutions in their own political agendas. Statements are expected instantly from institutions whose core values include deliberation and due process—values that are essential where, as here, the reporting has been so contradictory." (A Message From Dean Gerken On The March 10 Protest, March 28, 2022). Beneath the placid squares and noonday brightness of Yale Law School lies a dark, turbulent swampland. It swims with strange creatures and frightening forms. Race politics. Class politics. Gender politics. Political Indoctrination. Suppression of dissent. Cancellation of debate. Veto over speech exercised by the heckler and the hoodlum. At the bottom of the darkness sits an octopus devouring the world outside: the red menace.

HIGH SCHOOL THEATER IN MASSACHUSETTS: STARRING BLACK POWER

Aryan Paragraphs were clauses in the legislation of the Third Reich which excluded Jews from participation in specified activities. In successive statutes, culminating in the Nuremberg Laws of 1935, which sought to achieve "the final separation of Jewry from the German People", the Aryan Paragraphs barred Jews from all aspects of society, from education, the civil service, the public health system, editorial offices, films and theaters, barred them from marrying members of the Aryan race, and mandated the creation of Aryan certificates, which attested to the racial purity of those who held them. Rising from the ashes of war and defeat, the spirit and soul of the Third Reich has haunted the world for over a half a century as race and gender politics have become the religion of our times, and its assembled, marching, goosestepping, street brawling swastika soldiers who terrorized Germany for twelve years have returned, donning the mantles of social justice warriors, intent on abolishing every last trace of liberal governance, and enforcing their neoMarxist creed on a terrorized population of civilized people. In the village of Newtonville, in the state of Massachusetts, in the largest, most expensive and best equipped high school ever built in America, the actors, directors, playwrights and producers of national socialism have returned by popular demand and given an encore performance. To the wild acclaim of the mobs in the gallery and the mob's agents in the nation's cultural establishment, Theatre Ink, billed as "Newton North High School's Teaching and Working Theatre", has scheduled a student production which prohibits participation by whites and places black Aryan politics before the klieg lights of a new order. Founded in 1859 under the motto Learning Sustains The Human Spirit, Newton North High School has rewritten its motto and disgraced itself in the twenty first century. Replacing academic learning with red agitation, and nullifying the human spirit of liberal enlightenment, it has constructed a stage, a deck, a space and a platform for the performance of race power and race hate and invited the Third Reich's brownshirts to share the standing ovations. Equipped with classrooms which receive copious amounts of natural light, and with light fixtures which automatically dim during periods of noonday brightness, Newton North High School has shut out the light of civil rights and equal protection which for decades had bathed its students in hope and given the promise of a feast of freedom. It has shut out the world of liberal aspirations and scheduled a dramatic performance within a sealed, airless, lightless, dimmed, darkened theater which will stage the slogans of a black communist revolution. Look at the world of Newton North High School and see a play set to premiere in January 2023. See this play, called Lost And Found: Our Stories As People Of Color, and see a black cast, a black theme and a black call to arms against whites. See a play, performing poems of race hate, songs of race hate, scenes of race hate and monologues of race hate, staged by people of color and people of communism. See a play provide an environment where black bigots can come out of hiding and share their fantasies of violence and tell stories of hate crimes without fear of reprisals or discrimination: "Time and time again, the stories of people of color are swept under the rug and lost. It is about time we found them. What is Lost and Found? Lost and Found is a cabaret style show featuring stories of people of color by people of color at North. The show is a compilation of original and published poems, songs, monologues and scenes. The goal of the process and show is to provide a safe community space for students of color to express themselves and tell their stories through the performing arts." (Theatre Ink, website). Look at the world of Newton North High School and see racial discrimination justified in the name of creating an inclusive environment. See whites excluded from performing in school plays in the name of achieving diversity of participation. See casts and crews selected, not on the basis of their talents or abilities, but on the basis of their race, politics, culture and experiences, and how these points serve to advance the cause of black colored Marxism. See staff and students join together in a production whose script dramatizes black proletarian intersectional politics and a program whose fearsome book is doomsday: "Theatre Ink values and celebrates diversity of all kinds. Encouraging diversity of participation is an overall goal of the program. Theatre Ink actively encourages all students to participate in productions as members of cast or crew. All students who audition are considered equally in an inclusive environment and in accordance with Theatre Ink casting principles. Theatre Ink hopes to be a reflection not only of the varied backgrounds and experiences of Newton North's staff and students but also of diverse world cultures, life experiences, and theatrical traditions. By carefully selecting a range of different shows each year we strive to tell theatrical stories that represent the richness of our world while offering a wide range of opportunities. With these ideals and practices we hope to provide equal access for all students both on and off stage." (Theatre Ink, website). Look at the world of Newton North High School and see race and color occupy center stage. See the notions of equal protection and nondiscrimination thrown to the mobs and mangled beyond recognition. See the traditions of civil rights shouted down by audiences and cast to the winds. See plays propagandize on behalf of black power politics. See theater auditions present the rantings of black communist youth. See students on stage declaim against a liberal, race blind society, while audiences eat and drink at tables of hatred and rage. See stories of hate crimes perpetrated by blacks, found in back alleys, collected from the gutter, and placed on stage before cheering spectators. See a safe space created for students of color and students of black revolution to incite violence against whites and advocate the forcible overthrow of free societies. See racism enacted as official school policy and white students excluded from participation in school plays. See school performances open to black klansmen, black segregationists, black incendiaries, black psychopaths, black national socialists, black swastika bearers, black street agitators, and open to nobody else: "This is a federal civil rights complaint pursuant to the US Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights' (OCR) discrimination complaint resolution procedures. Parents Defending Education (PDE) brings this complaint against Newton North High School in Newton, Massachusetts for discrimination on the basis of race, color or national origin in programs or activities that receive Federal financial assistance in violation of both Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment to the US Constitution. PDE makes this complaint as an interested third party organization that opposes racial discrimination and political indoctrination in America's schools. Attached to this complaint is supporting evidence in the form of an audition packet for the school sponsored performance of Lost and Found, as well as a form for students to apply to audition. These exhibits reveal that Newton North High School is sponsoring a performance of a show, Lost and Found: Our Stories as People of Color, on January 19-21, 2023. The performance's tag line is 'Time and time again, the stories of people of color are swept under the rug and lost. It's about time we found them.' The description of the performance notes that 'Lost and Found is a no cut cabaret style show for students of color at North. This show was created two years [ago] to provide a safe community space for students of color to express themselves through the performing arts. Lost and Found will be a reserved safe space for this exploration and for people of color to be vulnerable and support one another.' In addition, the application to register for an audition slot requests a headshot ('You can take a selfie with a phone if you choose'), which appears to reinforce the identity based nature of this event; furthermore, it asks students how they 'identify racially/ethnically.' The performance description does not assert that participation in this performance is open to all. As the Department of Education is no doubt aware, segregation on the basis of race raises concerns that Newton North High School has received federal funds in violation of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which declares that 'no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance.' In addition, Section 1 of the 14th Amendment to the US Constitution asserts that 'No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.' " (Letter from Nicole Neily, president of Parents Defending Education, to the United States Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights, October 4, 2022). The theater at Newton North High School is noisy and crowded. Alongside of student writers, actors, directors, producers, managers and designers, it is filled with the voices of the past. Stampeding from all directions in the universe of hate politics are Kremlin's communist marches and Hitler's fascist storm troops. They have crisscrossed and dissolved into black power communism at the fiery conclusion of civilization.

PARKLAND KILLER SET FREE

At Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland, Florida, a makeshift memorial is cluttered with flowers, candles and mementos. They are commemorating the dead. They are small, silent, still reminders of February 14, 2018, when Nikolas Cruz took an AR-15 semiautomatic rifle to the high school and murdered seventeen people. On October 13, 2022, one of the deadliest mass school shootings in American history, perpetrated by a poster boy for Satan's flames of unspeakable horror, went unpunished. On that day, a jury of seven men and five women refused to send Cruz to his death. It refused to make him join the three hundred and five prisoners awaiting execution on Florida's death row. Representing a variety of occupational categories and drawn from all walks of life, the members of the jury were united by adherence to a single religion. This is the religion of our time and it serves, like no other religion, to define the age in which we live. This is the religion of communism and its fundamental tenet is that individuals are not responsible for their actions and society and the environment are to blame for the evil things people do and for the crimes they commit. Before he embarked upon his rampage, Nikolas Cruz had spent hours doing research on mass murders and the people who commit them. He studied the shootings at Colorado's Columbine High School in 1999, the shootings at Virginia Tech in 2007, the shootings at a cinema in Aurora, Colorado in 2012, and the shootings at a music festival in Las Vegas in 2017. He modified his rifle to increase its accuracy. He kept a huge store of ammunition. He calculated the probable police response time to a mass shooting. He concealed a tactical vest within his backpack. He wore a Marjory Stoneman Douglas JROTC polo shirt to blend in with the students. He took an Uber taxi to the school and told the driver to drop him off at a pedestrian gate which he knew would be open before the school let out students. He made the following statements on YouTube: "I am going to be a professional school shooter". "I will go on a killing rampage". "I am a psychopath." He chose Valentine's Day on which to spray his bullets of hate. Inspired by the red doctrine of nonresponsibility, the jury excused Cruz for his crimes. It decided that the facts of the case were irrelevant. It decided that the facts which showed the shootings were planned, premeditated, cold blooded and cruel did not exist. It decided, in faithful communist fashion, that Cruz's crimes were the product of a problematic birth, a troublesome childhood and diminished mental health. It agreed with Florida's communist law which allows for a mitigation of punishment and the avoidance of the death penalty on grounds of impaired capacity to appreciate one's acts, in the absence of any medically established brain illness, and on grounds of the defendant's negative family background: "F. The capacity of the defendant to appreciate the criminality of his or her conduct or to conform his or her conduct to the requirements of law was substantially impaired. H. The existence of any other factors in the defendant's background that would mitigate against imposition of the death penalty." (2022 Florida Statutes, Title XLVII: Criminal Procedure And Corrections, Chapter 921: Sentence). The jury heard the communist voice of the age which frees individuals from culpability for their misdeeds and they accepted its precepts in their deliberations. Channeled by the defense lawyers at the trial, and coursing through the political, academic and media establishment of the West, this voice proclaimed the following. It proclaimed that Nikolas Cruz did not deserve to die because he suffered from poor mental health. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because he suffered from maturation and developmental issues. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because his mother had abused drugs and alcohol when he grew up. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because he was raised in a hostile family environment. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because his mother had addiction problems. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because he suffered from fetal alcohol disorder. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because he suffered from prenatal exposure to alcohol. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because he suffered from alcohol induced neurological disorder. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because he was not allowed to grow and develop properly in his mother's womb. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because he presently required the care of a psychologist and a psychiatrist. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because his moral character, but not his physical brain, was damaged, ill and broken. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because a civilized society does not execute murderers who have deranged moral characters. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because his execution would be vengeful and unmerciful. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because the human heart says no. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because true morality is based upon feelings and not upon reason and true morality forbids the execution of murderers who take medication and suffer from mental health issues. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because he could be rehabilitated in jail. It proclaimed that he did not deserve to die because all killing is an act of murder, all human life is innocent human life, and the execution of a mass murderer is the most odious and wicked crime imaginable: "The defense's main factual argument was that Cruz had mental health and developmental issues. Danielle Woodard, Cruz's sister, similarly testified her mother abused drugs and alcohol throughout their childhood, creating a hostile environment for the children. 'She had an addiction. She always put that first, before me, or him, or Zach (Cruz), or anybody,' she said. Brenda Woodard, who died last year, gave up Cruz for adoption when he was born in 1998. From an early age, Cruz had developmental delays and emotional and behavioral issues connected to fetal alcohol spectrum disorder, the defense argued. Several defense witnesses, including two expert doctors, disagreed on his exact diagnosis but said it was related to his mother's alcohol use during pregnancy, noting that his mother actually admitted to alcohol use on his birth records. 'I have never, ever, in my life seen an individual who has been affected by prenatal exposure to alcohol in which there is documentation, and I think pretty darn good documentation of alcohol exposure,' testified Dr. Kenneth Lyons Jones, a leading voice in alcohol related neurological disorder. 'I know I have never seen so much alcohol consumed by a pregnant woman.' In closing arguments, the defense said he was 'doomed from the womb' because of his mother's actions. 'There is no time in our life when we are more vulnerable to the will and the whim of another human being than when we are growing and developing in the womb,' McNeill said. The defense argued that a sentence of life in prison without parole is sufficient to protect the public. They also argued that Cruz is under the care of a psychologist and psychiatrist, was compliant with his medications and had the ability to succeed in a structured and supervised environment like prison, according to the jury instructions. 'And in a civilized humane society, do we kill brain damaged, mentally ill, broken people?' McNeill asked Tuesday. 'Do we? I hope not.' In closing arguments, McNeill said that the prosecution was trying to make the jurors angry and emotional by playing horrific video and audio of the shootings. She instead pressed them to take a breath, open their hearts and minds and make a moral decision for mercy. 'In a death penalty sentencing proceeding, you have to use your heart, because you're making an individualized moral decision,' she said. Indeed, the brother of one of the victims told CNN last week that he did not support the death penalty for Cruz due to its immorality. 'Logically, it doesn't follow for me that we say, Murdering someone is this horrible, heinous, awful, terrible thing, and in order to prove that point, we're going to do it to someone else, said Robert Schentrup, whose sixteen year old sister Carmen was among those killed. 'And I understood that if this is something that I felt that I believe, that it needed to apply in my personal case and beyond,' he said. 'I had to look deep into my values and say, is this something that connects with it? And if so, live through that.' " (How Nikolas Cruz's Defense Persuaded A Jury To Spare His Life by Erik Levenson). Refusing to send Nikolas Cruz to his death, the jury in Fort Lauderdale, Florida set him free. While in jail, Nikolas Cruz will be free to eat three square meals per day. He will be free to work or not to work. He will be free to educate himself in the library. He will be free to attend college courses and earn a degree. He will be free to participate in job training. He will be free to obtain comprehensive medical treatment. He will be free to listen to music on iPods. He will be free to watch wide screen television. He will be free to entertain himself with state of the art game consoles. He will be free to utilize high speed internet connections. He will be free to participate in sports events and to utilize exercise rooms. An inverse relation between two variables exists when the higher values of the one are associated with the lower values of the other. Examples of inverse relations include the number of workers and the time taken to finish the work, and the speed of a vehicle and the distance traveled. There is an inverse relation existing between the level of communism present in a society and the society's support for the death penalty. Over the last decades in America, as the level of communism has skyrocketed, death sentences and executions have plummeted, and more states have abolished the death penalty than in any other period in the history of the nation. Absolving individuals of responsibility for their crimes, the new communist landscape fixed in America and the West has uprooted the hold of justice and set free the Nikolas Cruzes of the world.

COMMON SENSE AND THE CHARACTER OF TIME

Empiricism is the doctrine that all knowledge of the world is derived from sense experience and that the human mind is blank at birth and develops its thoughts only through experience. Empiricism forms the basis of the scientific method. Championed by such luminaries as Aristotle and Francis Bacon, the method of science is the method of inferring universal laws from the data of the senses and the method which rejects all doctrines which rely on feeling, intuition, revelation or apriori reasoning to acquire knowledge. The method of empiricism is the method of common sense and is based on the recognition that the mind knows nothing until it knows something, that knowledge held to be acquired independently of experience is knowledge produced by internal forms, filters or screens and is knowledge confined to such forms, filters and screens, and is not knowledge of reality, and that any attempt to refute empiricism refutes itself because it rests upon arguments based on experience. Empiricism is realism, empiricism is sanity, and empiricism would not be empiricism if it did not recognize the distinction between perception and the object of perception, and if it held that all we perceive are our own perceptions and not any objects or properties of the world.

Empiricism would not be empiricism if it held that there is no difference between a measurement and the thing measured and that there is no world which exists apart from our measurements of it. Everything utilized by science, every term and every law, must be acquired by the method of empiricism, in the absence of which science has no basis in reality and is the science of nothing. The empirical definition of time is as follows: time is the indefinite, continued progress of existence from the past, through to the present, and into the future. Time exists independently of the measurements of it and is a property of objects in motion and would flow on its way whether or not there existed any clocks to measure it. The universe is not pure mathematics but consists of physical, qualitative bodies, and time is not a mathematical construct but is a qualitative reality. Time properly is not operationally defined, as being whatever clocks read, but is empirically defined, as being an objective property of events in nature. The arrow of time is irreversible and runs one way, from the past to the present to the future, for a sequence of backward running time would mean that the past is present and the future has already happened and is no longer the future. Time is not discrete or discontinuous because the change of which time is a property is not discrete or discontinuous. Time like existence is indefinite, for any time point in time, X, can always be succeeded by another point X+1, or be preceded by another point, X-1. The empirical view of time is championed by Aristotle. According to Aristotle, time is not a number, a counting or a measurement but is that which is numbered, counted and measured. Time is not movement; it is not a clock; but is an attribute of movement, the attribute of continuous, successive existence. Time is the succession of before and after which characterize change. Time is perceived with the perception of events. Time is eternal and uncreated because existence is eternal and uncreated. Just as there is nothing before, after or outside of existence except more existence, so there is nothing before, after or outside of time except more time: "Now we perceive movement and time together: for even when it is dark and we are not being affected through the body, if any movement takes place in the mind we at once suppose that some time also has elapsed; and not only that but also, when some time is thought to have passed, some movement also along with it seems to have taken place. Hence time is either movement or something that belongs to movement. Since then it is not movement, it must be the other. But we apprehend time only when we have marked motion, marking it by before and after; and it is only when we have perceived before and after in motion that we say that time has elapsed. Now we mark them by judging that A and B are different, and that some third thing is intermediate to them. When we think of the extremes as different from the middle and the mind pronounces that the nows are two, one before and one after, it is then that we say that there is time, and this that we say is time. For what is bounded by the now is thought to be time--we may assume this. When, therefore, we perceive the now one, and neither as before and after in a motion, no time is thought to have elapsed, because there has been no motion either. On the other hand, when we do perceive a before and an after, then we say that there is time. For time is just this--number of motion in respect of before and after. Hence time is not movement, but only movement insofar as it admits of enumeration. A proof of this: we discriminate the more or the less by number, but more or less movement by time. Time then is a kind of number. Number, we must note, is used in two senses--both of what is counted and that with which we count. Time obviously is what is counted, not that with which we count. Just as motion is a perpetual succession, so also is time. The now measures time, insofar as time involves the before and after. It is clear, then, that time is 'number of movement in respect of the before and after', and is continuous since it is an attribute of what is continuous." (Physics by Aristotle, Book IV, Part 11). The advent of mathematical physics in the seventeenth century produced false mathematical conceptions of time. Inaugurated by Galileo Galilei, who proclaimed in The Assayer that the "book of nature is written in mathematics", mathematical physics provides a powerful tool for the prediction of events but does not provide a picture of reality. The book of nature is not written in mathematics but written in physical, qualitative characters. In these characters, at least one color has to be real, on the grounds that an extended body which had no color would be transparent and be identical to space. The history of mathematical physics records a struggle between two false mathematical conceptions of time, a struggle between the mathematical absolutists and the mathematical relativists. Led by Isaac Newton, the absolutists proclaimed that real time is a single, universal number and is the same for all observers: "Absolute, true and mathematical time, of itself, and from its own nature flows equably without regard to anything external, and by another name is called duration." (The Mathematical Principles Of Natural Philosophy by Isaac Newton). Empiricism recognizes that time is indeed the same for all observers but recognizes that time is physical and not mathematical in character. Led by Albert Einstein, the relativists proclaim that real time is defined by the operations used to measure it, and real time is thus nothing more than clock time and can vary with observers, because clock readings so vary. Presently in charge of the scientific establishment, the operationalists and relativists have created a world of contradiction and unintelligibility and written this world down in a manifesto of psychosis. Listen to the relativists proclaim that because time is synonymous with the measurement of time, time will come to an end when measurements come to an end. Listen to them proclaim that reality can move backward. The afternoon can arrive before the morning. The morning can arrive after the evening. Objects can move upward when dropped. The past and future are interchangeable. The past can occur after the future. The future can occur before the past. Effects can occur before their causes. The direction of time is arbitrary and reversible. The future can be photographed. There is no real way to distinguish between the present, the past and the future. Existence is deranged, absurd and is nothingness: "The arrow of time began its journey at the Big Bang, and when the universe eventually dies there will be no more future and no past. In the meantime, what is it that drives time ever onward? When Isaac Newton published his famous Principia in 1687, his three elegant laws of motion solved a lot of problems. Without them, we couldn't have landed people on the Moon 282 years later. But these laws brought to physics a new problem, which wasn't fully appreciated until centuries after Newton and still nags at cosmologists today. The issue is that Newton's laws work about twice as well as we might expect them to. They describe the world we move through every day--the world of people, the hands that move around a clock and even the apochryphal fall of certain apples--but they also account perfectly well for a world in which people walk backwards, clocks tick back afternoon to morning, and fruit soars up from the ground to its tree branch. 'The interesting feature of Newton's laws, which wasn't appreciated till much later, is that they don't distinguish between the past and the future,' says the theoretical physicist and philosopher Sean Carroll, who discusses the nature of time in his latest book The Biggest Ideas In The Universe. 'But the directionality to time is its most obvious feature, right? I have photographs of the past, I don't have any photographs of the future.' " (Why Does Time Go Forwards, Not Backwards? by Martha Henriques). Mathematical physics has scaled mountain peaks of predictive success and brought forth the marvels of modern technology. In the absence of the common sense, empirical recognition that time is a sequence of existence and not a sequence of clock readings or a pure mathematical line, its pictures will be trapped forever within realms of unreality.

RED BALLOTS BURY THE WEST

The use of force and violence to achieve political power has been a fundamental, long standing tactic of communists. For over a century, leftists old and new have rejected the institution of democracy. In his speech Liberty, Karl Marx rejects the peaceful establishment of communism: "We must also recognize the fact that in most countries on the Continent the lever of our revolution must be force; it is force to which we must some day appeal in order to erect the rule of labor." (Speech delivered by Marx on September 8, 1872). Herbert Marcuse proclaims that the proletariat supports capitalism and therefore communism must be established by force: "If the worker and his boss enjoy the same television program and visit the same resort places, if the typist is as attractively made up as the daughter of her employer, if the negro owns a Cadillac, if they all read the same newspaper, then this assimilation indicates not the disappearance of classes, but the extent to which the needs and satisfactions that serve the preservation of the establishment are shared by the underlying population." (One Dimensional Man by Herbert Marcuse). Throughout history, the record of democracy peacefully enacting communism, and human rights being voted away by the silent ballots of the majority, is too clear and unequivocal to be denied, and refutes the proposition that communism can only be established by undemocratic means and by the use of force. Communism was enacted by Rome's caesars in response to the demands voiced by the mob and was clamored for unanimously in Rome's amphitheaters of degeneracy and decline, and communism in the present day has been checked off on ballots, ballots mailed in and ballots submitted in person, ballots physically penned and ballots electronically registered, and become the law of the land in solemn democratic parliaments throughout the world. A review of the actions taken by majorities over the past one hundred years to establish communism has brought forth the inescapable conclusion that communism does not require bullets to be enacted and luxuriates freely in the hothouses and fevers swamps of mass democracy. The masses love communism and could not live without communism, and would collapse in impotent rage if they were not allowed to vote communism into power, and were instead forced to support themselves by their own efforts, were prevented from picking their neighbors' pockets to finance their health care, education and welfare, and were forced to treat each other as flesh and blood individuals and not as members of gender, race and class groups. Since the dawn of the twentieth century, the majority has enacted communism as Progressivism, as a New Deal, as a National Health Service, as a social market, as a welfare state, as the national interest, as managed competition, as a mixed economy, as a Third Way, as a Great Society, as an Affordable Care Act, as race and gender admissions and employment quotas, and as public accommodation laws regulating private business establishments. Count the raised hands of the majority today, walk through their councils of state, sit before their judicial panels, look inside their voting booths and open up their absentee ballots, and see communism established peacefully, democratically, correctly and properly as regards procedure, established in every nook and cranny of society, and established as the fearsome and terrifying religion of our time. Look at what the majority has wrought and see the establishment of "transformational change" by the abolition of individual rights. See the destruction of the fossil fuel backbone of modern economies in the blazing infernos of green politics. See the refusal to prosecute crimes committed by black power hoodlums. See the surrender of national borders and the resulting mass invasions by terrorists, jihadists, drug traffickers and the scum of the earth. See the elimination of race blind and gender blind justice. See the censorship of anticommunist opinions on the grounds that they represent hate speech. See the indoctrination of students to accept the view that capitalism is a system of racism and fascism. See the rejection of the findings of science that gender is determined by genes and is fixed and immutable and see the propagation of the dogma of transgenderism. See the proclamation that dependence on government welfare is superior to self reliance. See the rejection of fairness in the prosecution of sex crimes and see male defendants jailed on the basis of uncorroborated mass accusations, jailed for the crime of improper touching in the absence of violence, and jailed in the face of evidence establishing that the accused waited years before making the accusations and had social relations with the accused after the alleged crimes. See the proclamation that the worth of a person is defined by his or her support for efforts by gender, race and class activists to overthrow liberal constitutional republics. See the passage of the Inflation Reduction Act in America. Its name belies its reality and is a cover for virulent green politics and massive tax persecution. The law raises $20 billion in revenue by establishing an 80,000 strong Internal Revenue Service army of auditors and increasing tax audits on people earning under $400,000 per year. The law allocates $369 billion for tax credits, subsidies and outlays with the aim of eliminating fossil fuels. The law increases the superfund tax on crude oil and imported petroleum. The law increases taxes and fees on fossil fuel businesses. The law increases the minimum corporate income tax to fifteen percent. Look at what the majority has wrought and see an invasion of human rights without precedent in the history of mankind, involving lockdowns, shutdowns, social distancing and restrictions on home visitations, in the name of fighting the a pandemic, covid 19, whose fatality rate is under two percent: 625 million cases worldwide producing 6.57 million deaths. See the proclamation that the world will soon come to an end unless greenhouse gas emissions produced by human activity are sharply curtailed and industrial civilization is dismantled. The assertion that anthropogenic greenhouse gas emissions have an influence on global climate is put forth in the face of scientific evidence that global warming is a cyclical phenomenon occurring over hundreds of thousands of years and over the past one hundred years, global temperatures have shown no connection with increasing carbon dioxide levels: "And while carbon dioxide levels have been constantly increasing, most of all estimated warming since 1900 occurred before the mid 1940s. Despite those continuously rising CO2 levels, global mean temperatures have been flat over at least the past decade. Keep in mind that cyclical, abrupt and dramatic global and regional temperature fluctuations have occurred since long before humans invented agriculture, industries, internal combustion engines and carbon trading schemes. Yet atmospheric CO2 levels have remained relatively low over the past 650,000 years, even during the six previous interglacial periods when global temperatures were as much as 9°F warmer than temperatures we currently enjoy." (The Feverish Hunt For Evidence Of A Man-Made Global Warming Crisis by Larry Bell). Look at what the majority has wrought and see the proclamation that the police are truncheons of a racist capitalist system and must be defunded, dismantled and dissolved. See the proclamation that private business establishments are public accommodations and are not protected by the right to private property or by freedom of conscience and belief. See the proclamation that nondiscrimination laws apply to private business establishments. See the proclamation that a private bakery is not a private bakery, a private lunch counter is not a private lunch counter, and the state has a right to smash through the windows of private business establishments, violate private spheres of thought, action, enterprise and activity, and enforce nondiscrimination: "A top flight legal team has joined the request to the US Supreme Court to take further action on the violence done against an Oregon baker, Sweet Cakes by Melissa, by the state's labor department. That agency found that the bakery owners, Melissa and Aaron Klein, must violate their faith if someone asks them to create a cake for a same sex wedding. They refused, and the state fined them $135,000, putting them out of business. The state, after an earlier Supreme Court decision that faulted Colorado for its state hostility to Christianity in a similar case, later reduce the fine to $30,000. But the Kleins have returned to the Supreme Court now, because of the ruling that the state has the authority to force them to violate their faith. The legal team at Law and Freedom, also William J. Olson, PC, has filed a brief also requesting the court take up the arguments again. 'The Kleins petitioners have suffered an egregious constitutional wrong committed by the Oregon BOLI. Petitioners have been sanctioned by the state of Oregon for acting in accordance with their deeply held and sincerely held religious belief that they cannot participate in a 'same-sex' marriage ceremony. The First Amendment promises Americans that 'Congress shall make no law prohibiting the free exercise [of religion].' The Free Exercise Clause imposes a jurisdictional barrier on the powers of government.' " (Key Legal Team Joins Request For Supremes To Restore Oregon Baker's Life by Bob Unruh). An avalanche is a rapid flow of snow down a mountain. The worst avalanches in history occurred during World War I, when 80,000 soldiers were killed during a mountain campaign in the Alps at the Austrian-Italian front as a result of avalanches caused by artillery fire. Flowing out of polling stations in every city and state in the West, an avalanche of red ballots has crushed the institutions of freedom, destroyed the lives of millions of people, and sent the ideals of the Enlightenment plunging into extinction.

FREE FALL

Autumn is one of the four temperate seasons and marks the transition into winter. The temperature cools, the duration of daylight becomes shorter and the length of night increases. This season is a time of glitter and a time of decay. Blazing orange leaves shine with bright reflected light and riots of colors dazzle the eyes. But the colors reveal the onset of death as the leaves prepare to wither and shed and the world moves into the depths of darkness and frigidity. The picture of autumn is a metaphor of a civilization in ruins and provides a terrifying guide to the future. The radiant displays of human achievement form a death mask of a civilization which has bid farewell to reason, law and freedom. The Colosseum of Rome was the largest and most impressive amphitheater in the ancient world. Constructed from the finest materials, from travertine limestone, volcanic rock and brick faced concrete, it held 80,000 spectators and was a mighty venue for the staging of gladiatorial contests, public spectacles, reenactments of famous battles and dramas from Roman mythology. Exalted as one of the Wonders of the World, its autumn leaves concealed the death of a culture. This culture, at this time, was postrepublican Rome. It was Rome which a century before had abandoned its constitution and its rule of law and descended into the raging infernos of mob rule, bread and circuses, welfare statism and caesar worship. Two centuries after the completion of the Colosseum, Rome would abandon pagan reason, would dissolve its borders, would collapse into an Arctic wasteland of Christian superstition and Germanic settlement, and would construct two thrones upon its tragic ruins, seating the malignant gods of Religion and Barbarism. The fate of the Colosseum symbolized the fall of the Classical world. This massive pagan achievement constructed in the center of Rome would become, after the death of Classicism, a sordid open pit mine and an ignominious shrine for Christianity. The West today is locked in the depths of a Roman type decline and is speeding downward through the rungs of hell. Look at its brilliant autumnal colors, its electronics industries, its photonics industries, its nuclear technology, its quantum technology, its companies called Alphabet, Amazon, Apple, Microsoft and Meta, and its automotive plants utilizing industrial robotics, and see at work alongside these the dark processes of downfall and destruction. See professors of philosophy teach their students that physical objects do not exist, that the perceived world is a construct of society and culture, that truth has nothing whatever to do with any correspondence between thought and reality, that truth is internal, arbitrary, subjective and relative in character, that truth is determined by consensus, convention, vote taking and public communication, that truth is determined by the black will to power, that truth is determined by the female will to power, and that reality is anything it is declared to be in any one of an infinite number of gender, race and class constructions, no one of which can be held to be more true or more valid than any other. See the proclamation that physics and mathematics consist in disorder, uncertainty, random fractals, dimensionless geometries, nonexistent numbers and percentages of probability. See the proclamation that art consists in pure journalism or in pure formalism and has nothing whatever to do with the depiction of ideality and perfection. See the proclamation of a Great Global Reset away from capitalism and toward communism. See the proclamation of a Green New Deal which calls for the renunciation of modern industry and modern technology. See campaigns to defund the police and force law and order to stand down. See national borders dissolved to allow the mass settlement of illegal aliens, unassimilated bacteria and the enemies of civilization. See a campaign to ban pesticides and fertilizers and bring modern agriculture to a halt. See the proclamation that man made greenhouse gas emissions are causing the planet to heat up and incinerate, in the face of scientific evidence that global warming has been occurring with global cooling on a cyclical basis for hundreds of thousands of years and is caused by sunspot activity. See a campaign to ban the internal combustion engine on the grounds of the myth of man made global warming. See a campaign to ban coal and halt the drilling for oil and natural gas on the grounds of the myth of man made global warming. See a campaign to shut down nuclear power plants on the pretext of protecting public health and safety in the face of the actual safety record of nuclear power, which is the best record of any major source of energy. See President Joe Biden's administration allow oil fields to lie fallow, cancel new federal oil and gas leases, halt oil pipeline construction and order investors to avoid involvement with fossil fuels. See America's military force, once the world's arsenal of liberty, transformed into a league of red combatants which indoctrinates recruits in the tenets of critical race theory. According to this theory, progressive social theory is critical of universal liberal democracy and promotes an intersectional politics of black Marxism, black communism and black totalitarian dictatorship in its place. Look at the downfall of the West and see a resurgent Christian totalitarian movement, which in America has taken over the Supreme Court and allowed states to declare that abortion is murder and to outlaw it. This movement has peddled the insanity that at the moment of conception, at the moment of fusion of a sperm with an ovum, there is produced, at that moment, an actual human person. This movement has peddled the insanity that the killing of a potential human life is on par with the killing of an actual human life. Look at the downfall of the West and see the onset of transgender ideology which rejects the findings of science that gender is determined by genes and is fixed, intrinsic and immutable, and proclaims that gender can be changed by chemical and surgical interventions or by a mere act of gender identification. See law schools indoctrinate students in the tenets of critical legal theory. According to this theory, progressive legal theory is critical of universal liberal democracy and views it as a lash of prejudice against the "marginalized and the oppressed", against women, nonwhites, homosexuals, transgenders and the poor, and advocates the establishment of a jurisprudence of gender, race, class and culture in its place. Look at the downfall of the West and see cities taken over by Black Lives Matter and Antifa, movements which proclaim a gospel of black power, proletarian power and black proletarian power, and see cities transformed into open sewers strewn with violence, vandalism, alien sanctuaries and lawless occupation movements. See America's retreat from Afghanistan, which resulted in the abandonment of tens of billions of dollars of advanced military equipment and the deaths of thirteen American soldiers. See a regime of human rights invasions without precedent in the history of mankind, a regime of business shutdowns, personal lockdowns, home visitation restrictions, compulsory social distancing, compulsory mask wearing and compulsory vaccinations, enacted in the name of fighting the covid 19 disease pandemic, whose fatality rate is under one percent: 6.58 million deaths world wide out of a total of 627 million cases. See the United States Supreme Court in two rulings save a popular communist program and uphold the individual mandate to purchase health insurance under the Affordable Care Act. In its first ruling, the court did so by claiming that A is non A, that the penalty imposed for not purchasing health insurance is not a penalty but is a tax, and is therefore authorized under the taxing power of Congress set forth by the constitution: "The most straightforward reading of the individual mandate is that it commands individuals to purchase insurance. But, for the reasons explained, the Commerce Clause does not give Congress that power. It is therefore necessary to turn to the Government's alternative argument: that the mandate may be upheld as within Congress's power to 'lay and collect Taxes.' In pressing its taxing power argument, the Government asks the Court to view the mandate as imposing a tax on those who do not buy that product. Because 'every reasonable construction must be resorted to, in order to save a statute from unconstitutionality,' the question is whether it is 'fairly possible' to interpret the mandate as imposing such a tax." (National Federation Of Independent Business v. Sebelius, decided June 28, 2012, Opinion of the Court delivered by Chief Justice John Roberts). In the court's second ruling, it saved the individual mandate by ruling that a mandate stripped of its penalties is no longer a mandate which can nullified by the Supreme Court, because the constitution requires that plaintiffs suffer actual injury from a law they contest: "Article III standing requires identification of a remedy that will redress the individual plaintiffs' injuries. No such remedy exists here. To find standing to attack an unenforceable statutory provision would allow a federal court to issue what would amount to an advisory opinion without the possibility of an Article III remedy. Article III guards against federal courts assuming this kind of jurisdiction." (California v Texas, decided June 17, 2021, Opinion of the Court delivered by Associate Justice Stephen Breyer). In point of fact, Article III of the constitution authorizes the Supreme Court to issue rulings in all "cases" and "controversies" arising between the several states or between the individual and the government, and a challenge to the constitutionality of a law is a case and controversy or else nothing whatever is a case or controversy. A law is either constitutional or it is unconstitutional, whether or not it carries penalties against noncompliance, and whether or not it is enforceable. The nullification of a law which is unconstitutional, though without any penalties attached, is declaratory and binding and not merely advisory. In the city of Leipzig, a world famous, state of the art BMW plant manufactures automobiles using robots. In the same city, professors at the University of Leipzig, one of Europe's oldest universities, indoctrinate their students in the tenets of gender, race and class theory and teach them that truth and reality are social constructs. At the city's Saint Nicholas Church, one of Europe's oldest churches, constructed in 1165, scene of the baptism of Gottfried Wilhelm von Leibniz, priests teach their congregations that an actual human life appears at the moment of conception and therefore all abortion is an act of murder. Three scenes, painting a portrait of shining technical achievement existing alongside of unmitigated philosophic degradation, crowding into the final days and death of Western civilization.

REDS JAIL STEVE BANNON

A premise is a statement which helps form the body of an argument. If a premise is true, the conclusion which follows is true, while a false premise leads to a false conclusion. Called the father of logic, Aristotle stated that any argument can be reduced to two premises and a conclusion, and he gave a famous example of this: Because all men are mortal, premise one, and Socrates is a man, premise two, therefore, conclusion, Socrates is mortal. An argument looms over the political landscape in America today. This argument has opened up its jaws and devoured the democratic system. This argument cannot be evaded; it must be accepted; and obedience to its counsels provides the only hope of doing justice and doing right to a free nation. Differing in form but not in spirit from the classic example given by Aristotle, this argument consists of a chain of premises and conclusions, and to follow them all and adhere to them all is to enable America's tree of liberty to draw continued sustenance from America's constitution. This argument runs as follows. Premise. The victory of Joe Biden in the 2020 presidential election was based on fraud, irregularities and on practices put into place by courts and executives which never received legislative approval, as required under the United States Constitution. This requirement is set forth in Article Two, Section One: "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress." The 2020 presidential election was as unfree, unfair and unconstitutional as it was transgressive of international norms and standards: "Democrats and their media satraps are trying to censor anyone who supports what they call the Big Lie—the idea that the 2020 presidential election was stolen. But the real Big Lie is that the 2020 presidential election was free and fair. The 2020 presidential election violated internationally accepted criteria for a free and fair election. Voters were denied the absolute right to a secret ballot [through vote by mail systems]. Voting rules were changed in the middle, at the insistence of one party and over the objections of the other." (The Real Big Lie Is That The 2020 Election Was Free and Fair by Joel Pollak). Premise. Peaceful means to overturn the illegal victory of Joe Biden were not available. On December 8, 2020, Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton filed a lawsuit at the United States Supreme Court contesting the administration of the 2020 presidential election. The lawsuit was based on the fact that Georgia, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin had violated Article Two of the United States Constitution by changing election procedures through nonlegislative means. On December 11, 2020, in Texas v Pennsylvania, the court issued its ruling: "The State of Texas's motion for leave to file a bill of complaint is denied for lack of standing under Article III of the Constitution. Texas has not demonstrated a judicially cognizable interest in the manner in which another State conducts its elections. All other pending motions are dismissed as moot." Legal scholars were left aghast at the court's abdication of its responsibility to uphold the constitution. The constitution recognizes the right to vote in its articles and amendments. It contains five suffrage amendments. The Fifteenth Amendment allowed former slaves the right to vote. The Nineteenth Amendment allows women the right to vote. The Twenty Third Amendment gives the residents of Washington DC the right to vote. The Twenty Fourth Amendment establishes the right to vote without the payment of a poll tax. The Twenty Sixth Amendment establishes the right to vote for all citizens who have reached their eighteenth birthday. The right to vote proclaimed in these amendments refers to the right to vote in free, fair and lawfully held elections or it refers to nothing whatever. There is no such thing as a right to vote in an unfree, unfair and illegal election. The constitution guarantees democracy for every state: "The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government." (Article Four, Section Four). A democracy whose elections are unfree, unfair and illegal is a democracy which exists in name only. The constitution establishes the right of the people to vote for members of the House of Representatives: "The House of Representatives shall be composed of Members chosen every second Year by the People of the several States." (Article One, Section Two). A vote which was unfree, unfair, fraudulent or irregular is a cipher and a vote which exists in name only. The Supreme Court is duty bound to protect the right of any citizen, anywhere in the nation, in any election, local, state or federal, to vote in free, fair and lawfully held elections, and any election brought to the attention of the court which was unfree, unfair or illegal must be overturned by the court. The party which files a suit challenging the fairness or legality of an election automatically and necessarily possesses standing to sue under the constitution, on the grounds that unconstitutional government actions are unconstitutional government actions, and do not cease to be unconstitutional government actions if a party held to lack standing challenges them. Any party, anywhere in the nation, automatically and necessarily possesses standing to challenge an act of governmental illegality on the grounds that A is A. On January 6, 2021, in a statement issued before he began presiding over a joint session of Congress to count the electoral college votes for president, Vice President Mike Pence abdicated his constitutional duty to send fraudulent votes back to the states and demand recertification: "I do not believe that the Founders of our country intended to invest the Vice President with unilateral authority to decide which electoral votes should be counted during the Joint Session of Congress, and no Vice President in American history has ever asserted such authority. Instead, Vice Presidents presiding over Joint Sessions have uniformly followed the Electoral Count Act, conducting the proceedings in an orderly manner ever where the count resulted in the defeat of their party or their own candidacy." Legal scholars were left aghast at Pence's abdication of his responsibility to uphold the constitution. Adding to procedures set out in the constitution for the counting of electoral votes, the Electoral Count Act of 1887 is unconstitutional. The Constitution gives the vice president the power to decide the outcome of a presidential election. It gives him the power not simply to count electoral votes certified by the states' executives but to halt the certification process in Congress if there is evidence of fraud or irregularity in the election: "The Electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by Ballot for two Persons, of whom one at least shall not be an Inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a List of all the Persons voted for, and of the Number of Votes for each; which List they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the Seat of the Government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate [vice president] shall, in the Presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the Certificates, and the Votes shall then be counted." (Article Two, Section One). Conclusion. Because all peaceful means to redress fraud in the 2020 presidential election had been exhausted, and because the United States government, by its inaction to redress a fundamental grievance, had transformed itself into an illegal regime, patriotic, law abiding citizens staged an insurrection on January 6, 2021 on Capital Hill to prevent a joint session of Congress from counting the electoral college votes and formalizing the fraudulent victory of Joe Biden. Conclusion. Because the insurrection was justified as the sole remaining avenue to reverse an election which had been rigged and stolen, the public hearings of the United States House Select Committee on the January 6 Attack were illegitimate. Refusing to recognize that the election had been stolen, the hearings distilled the essence of corruption and put it on display on national television. The hearings were convened as a red partisan lynch mob and witchhunt, without fairness and without law, whose sole purpose and reason for existing was to condemn the insurrectionists: "This is a corrupt process that the Democrats have put together. No court of law would ever permit this kind of process in trying to discern what the truth is. The Republicans were denied a chance to be represented on the committee in proportion to their membership in the House. That means that you're having a one sided, lynch mob type of mentality instead of a true search for the truth." (Mo Brooks Says He Ignored 'Witch Hunt Propaganda Committee' Hearing About January 6 by Mike Cason). Conclusion. Because the 2020 presidential election was fraudulent, and the attempt at an insurrection on Capital Hill on January 6, 2021 was justified, and the subsequent House committee investigation of the insurrection was illegitimate because it was biased, the events which subsequently befell Steve Bannon, former chief strategist in the Trump administration, composed a timeline of tyranny which lowered the curtain on the rule of law in America. In October 2021, Bannon was held in contempt of Congress after he refused to comply with a subpoena ordering him to testify before the House committee and provide documents to it. On November 12, 2021, he was indicted by a federal grand jury on two counts of criminal contempt: on one count of not providing the documents and one count of not testifying. On November 15, he surrendered to the FBI. In April 2022, a federal court rejected his appeal against the indictments. In July 2022, a jury found him guilty on both counts. In October, he was sentenced to four months in prison. In handing down the prison sentence, US District Judge Carl Nichols said Bannon had "expressed no remorse" for refusing to comply with the subpoena. No remorse for refusing to comply with a subpoena issued by a band of hangmen which refused to look at evidence of election fraud and was intent on condemning a justified insurrection and defending a fraudulently elected president. No remorse for having supported an insurrection against a government which had refused to redress a legitimate grievance and had ceased to exist in all but name. A political prisoner is a person who is imprisoned for his political activities in defense of freedom. The most tragic political prisoners in history were the tens of millions of people imprisoned in communist countries because they opposed the doctrines of class conflict and the dictatorship of the proletariat. Victims of red terror, they filled a global network of slave labor camps. Emerging from the United States District Court for the District of Columbia condemned to serve a term of imprisonment, Steve Bannon joined their ranks.

REDS REPEAL THE RULE OF LAW

The rule of law is the doctrine that all citizens of a state must be subject to the same laws. It proclaims the equality of all people before the law, from leaders and lawmakers to beggars and paupers. The phrase was coined by Samuel Rutherford in the sixteenth century in his famous work Lex Rex: The Law And The Prince, but the principle was championed by ancient thinkers such as Aristotle: "It is more proper that the law govern all citizens upon the same principle, and if it is advantageous to place supreme power into the hands of some particular persons, they must still serve as the guardians and servants of the law." (Politics by Aristotle, Book Three, Chapter Sixteen). The doctrine is entrenched in Western liberal jurisprudence and expressed in the German phrase rechtsstaat, in the French phrase etat de droit, and is stated in the preamble to the European Convention For The Protection Of Human Rights And Fundamental Freedoms: "The governments of European countries which are like minded and have a common heritage of political traditions, ideals, freedom and the rule of law". A battlement of defense against invasions of tyranny marching under the unholy banners of the "rule of men" and the "divine right of kings", the rule of law has fallen under sustained bombardment and attack over the past one hundred years, and in the twenty first century lies in ruins, as the West enters into its final stage of development, and ends its days bloodied and mauled in the amphitheaters of communist mob rule. Majoritarianism, mobile vulgus, "the fickle crowd", the overthrow of free government by the unclean hands of the masses and multitudes. These are the devils presiding over the disintegration of civilization as the masses pursue the single, overriding passion of their lives: the redistribution of private wealth, the establishment of welfare statism, and the entrenchment of the far left politics of gender, race and class. This is what happens throughout history whenever reason is abandoned and mysticism is allowed to sit upon the throne of cultural power; and under its aegis, the people now bow down before the dark, underworld gods of the absolute state, collectivist society and red totalitarian tyranny. Look what happened in ancient Rome, when the Senate, the constitution, private property and the rule of law were trampled underfoot by caesars and emperors leading masses and mobs into swinish feeding troughs larded with bread and circuses, everflowing grain doles, confiscatory taxation, the acceptance of unassimilated barbarians, and the worship of an alien superstition hanging from a cross. Look at the downfall of the Classical world and see reds, majorities and mobocrats strike again in the present day. See the Federal Bureau of Investigation, lauded as the world's premier law enforcement agency, conduct surveillance operations against anticommunists at the behest of American presidents. See the FBI, at the behest of President Franklin Roosevelt, run name checks, open files and make reports on people opposed to American military involvement in Europe and, inspired by Charles Lindbergh, champion America First: "Hundreds of persons who sent telegrams to the President that were all more or less in opposition to national defense or that expressed approval of Colonel Charles Lindbergh's criticism of the President." (Report by the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, 1975). See the FBI, at the behest of President Lyndon Johnson, obtain background information on the staff of Republican nominee Barry Goldwater and spy on his campaign when he ran for president in 1964. See Presidents Barack Obama and Joe Biden fuel a cancer of communist partisanship and blacken the apparatuses of law enforcement and tax collection: "Barack Obama pushed hard partisans into career positions at DOJ, the FBI, the intelligence agencies, and the IRS, and targeted his political enemies. It has now metastasized under Joe Biden." (Interview with Senator Ted Cruz, on Washington Watch With Tony Perkins). See the FBI conduct a raid on the home of former president, a raid without precedent in the history of the nation, and descend on Donald Trump's Mar-a-Lago on the grounds that he had classified documents in his possession. In the aftermath of the raid, legal scholars were left aghast at the FBI's violation of the constitution. Article Two, Section One of the supreme law of the land runs as follows: "The executive Power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America." Article Two, Section Two runs as follows: "The President shall be Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the Militia of the several States, when called into the actual Service of the United States." If the phrases executive power and commander in chief mean anything at all, they mean that the bearer of these attributes is the owner of all documents in the executive branch of government. They mean that Donald Trump is the owner of all the government documents, classified and not classified, found in his residence. It means that the Presidential Records Act of 1978, which changed the legal ownership of the president's official records from private to public, is unconstitutional, as are all rules and acts which proclaim that executive documents are not the private property of presidents. Look at the red mob order of the present day and see the FBI raid the homes of Project Veritas employees, who had obtained the diary of Joe Biden's daughter. Project Veritas is devoted to exposing communist activities in public and private organizations by secretly recording videos of staged encounters with communists. Its antired sting journalism resulted in video footage of Democrat Party operatives describing illegal voter registration activity and methods for agitating Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump and his supporters at rallies: "In one video, a contractor seems to brag about sending homeless and mentally ill people to harass Republicans. Someone identified as a Democratic National Committee staffer appears to claim credit for pushing Republican contender Donald Trump's rally in Chicago toward violence. In another, consultants look like they are describing a plan to bus voters across state lines and registering immigrants in the country illegally to vote." (Everything We Know About The Latest James O'Keefe Video Sting by Philip Elliott, Time magazine, October 18, 2016). Look at the red mob order of the present day and see the FBI refuse to arrest officials at Black Lives Matter who misappropriated millions of dollars in tax exempt donations. Exalted by the establishment, Black Lives Matter promotes an intersectional politics of black poor, black women, black communists, black hoodlums, black fugitives, black homosexuals, black transgenders, black mental patients and black illegal aliens in a campaign to overthrow liberal democracy and Enlightenment values in the name of black humanity and black liberation: "We are expansive. We are a collective of liberators who believe in an inclusive and spacious movement. We also believe that in order to win and bring as many people with us along the way, we must move beyond the narrow nationalism that is all too prevalent in Black communities. We must ensure we are building a movement that brings all of us to the front. We affirm the lives of Black queer and trans folks, disabled folks, undocumented folks, folks with records, women, and all Black lives along the gender spectrum. Our network centers those who have been marginalized within Black liberation movements. We are working for a world where Black lives are no longer systematically targeted for demise. We affirm our humanity, our contributions to this society, and our resilience in the face of deadly oppression. The call for Black lives to matter is a rallying cry for ALL Black lives striving for liberation." (Black Lives Matter, website). Look at the red mob order of the present day and see the FBI weaponized and rendered dysfunctional by its officials, its agents and the nation's attorney general acting in the service of disloyalty and subversion: "When it comes to Hillary Clinton and her violations of law, they turn a blind eye, but with Donald Trump, they send an army of FBI agents to storm his home. And over and over again. The double standard is glaringly obvious, and it is remarkable. Merrick Garland is perfectly willing to have the DOJ function in a nakedly partisan way, and it's completely unjustifiable." (Interview with Ted Cruz, on Washington Watch With Tony Perkins). Look at the red mob order of the present day and see the FBI investigate parents who oppose transgender bathrooms in schools and the indoctrination of their children in the tenets of critical race theory, and condemn these parents as domestic terrorists and peddlers

of hate and violence: "In recent months, there has been a disturbing spike in harassment, intimidation, and threats of violence against school administrators, board members, teachers, and staff who participate in the vital work of running our nation's public schools. While spirited debate about policy matters is protected under our Constitution, that protection does not extend to threats of violence or efforts to intimidate individuals based on their views. The Department takes these incidents seriously and is committed to using its authority and resources to discourage these threats, identify them when they occur, and prosecute them when appropriate. In the coming days, the Department will announce a series of measures designed to address the rise in criminal conduct directed toward school personnel." (Memorandum For The Director Of The Federal Bureau Of Investigation From the Attorney General, Merrick Garland, October 4, 2021). The following are the principles of critical race theory against which the parents protested. According to the theory, progressive politics entails a negative judgment about liberal democracy. It criticizes and condemns it as a lash of white, capitalist bias and oppression of the black working class. It rejects the liberal, humane, universal ideals championed by the Enlightenment and demands that the sign of the swastika be constructed across the sky. Beneath this sign shall march the torchlit processions of intersectional politics and crush freedom beneath the iron heel of black Marxism, black Bolshevism and black totalitarian tyranny. La Carmagnole was the title of a popular song composed during the French Revolution. It accompanied the frenzied movements of communist mobs, the sans culottes, as they tore up the streets and squares. The mobs are back in business in the twenty first century and have composed the final, fearsome chapter of the West marking an epoch of lawlessness.

VOLTAIRE AND ALEX JONES

Francois-Marie Arouet, pen name, Voltaire, was the supreme philosopher of the Enlightenment who unfurled the banner of free speech for all the world to see. Before America's Constitution enshrined this sacred idea in its First Amendment, this grand philosophe, exalted as synonymous with the Enlightenment itself, inspired fighters for the rights of man in every nation on earth with his immortal words: "I may not agree with what you have to say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." Voltaire represented a renaissance, a reformation and a revolution of freedom whose flames of righteousness incinerated the dungeons of tyranny and lit up the souls of generations: "Italy had a Renaissance, and Germany had a Reformation, but France had Voltaire; he was for his country both Renaissance and Reformation, and half the Revolution. He was first and best in his time in his conception and writing of history, in the grace of his poetry, in the charm and wit of his prose, in the range of his thought and his influence. His spirit moved like a flame over the continent and the century, and stirs a million souls in every generation." (The Story Of Philosophy by Will Durant). The spirit of Voltaire hovers over the world famous Speaker's Corner in Hyde Park, London, and was transcribed on the pages of the Universal Declaration Of Human Rights, adopted by the United Nations in 1948: "Everyone has the right to freedom of opinion and expression; this right includes freedom to hold opinions without interference and to seek, receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers." (Article 19). The principle of free speech is codified precisely, and for no other reason, to protect speech held by society to be offensive, speech held to be wild, bizarre and irrational, codified for the simple reason, perceived by common sense, that speech approved by society does not require legal protection. Since the dawn of the twentieth century, the principle of free speech has been under sustained bombardment and attack throughout the West by a communist establishment elected by majority vote. Peddling its communism as progressivism, the majority has sought to censor all forms of speech expressed by those who are opposed to communism. If a given speaker is anticommunist, such is sufficient for the majority's censors to move against him, and any and all speech he expresses, whatever its content, is subjected to deletion and expurgation, and the speaker subjected to civil and criminal penalties. On December 14, 2012, at the Sandy Hook Elementary School in Newtown, Connecticut, Adam Lanza shot and killed twenty six people. Twenty of his victims were school children six and seven years old, while six victims were school staff members. Before driving to the school, Lanza had killed his mother at his home. The mass shooting was the deadliest perpetrated at an elementary school in American history. Alex Jones is a commentator, radio show host and website creator notorious for the promotion of hoaxes, disinformation and unfounded conspiracy theories. But the promotion of fake news and unfounded conspiracy theories is not per se condemned by the majority if such serve to advance the communist cause. Marxists promote capitalist conspiracies, Hillary Clinton promoted a "vast right wing conspiracy", transgenderists promote the hoax that genes do not determine sex, a determination discovered by geneticist Nettie Stevens in 1903, and climate activists promote the hoax that man made greenhouse gas emissions are causing the planet to heat up and will doom all life on earth. This hoax is promoted in the face of scientific evidence that global temperatures are independent of man made greenhouse gas emissions and are caused by sunspot activity: "The amount of CO2 in the atmosphere, over the long run, is an effect, and not a cause, of temperatures and lags behind the climate by about 500-800years. This is backed up by observable scientific data. On the scale of decades over the last hundred or so years, and in spite of what climate alarmists claim, CO2 has been steadily rising while temperatures have oscillated—half the time moving with CO2 and half against. Over a longer period, ice core data shows that CO2 levels, smoothed over centuries, FOLLOW world CLIMATE temperatures by about 500-800years." (Man Made Climate Change Does Not Exist! by Piers Corbyn). Alex Jones proclaimed that the Sandy Hook massacre was a false flag operation staged by antigun activists using actors and props. He proclaimed that it was the product of a government conspiracy to take guns away from Americans, that "no one died" during the shootings, and that the parents of the victims either did not exist or else were "crisis actors". Alex Jones is a vociferous supporter of the capitalist system, the Second Amendment right to keep and carry arms, and the presidency of Donald Trump, and recognizes as legitimate the claims of electoral fraud in the 2020 presidential election. These claims of fraud are supported by the record, which paints a picture of fairness and transparency submerged beneath an avalanche of illegal ballot harvesting, unverified mail in ballots, and unconstitutional changes to election laws: "The mail in ballot operation was about so much. It was about changing the laws governing how we vote, about flooding the elections with ballots that were going to addresses that maybe weren't tied to the actual voter, and then also decreased scrutiny aligned with those mail in ballots--such as not having voter ID or not having appropriate signature matches, or allowing ballot harvesting—all these other issues are brought in with this flood of mail in balloting. I think chaos was the actual goal [of the mail in ballot operation]. The Democratic operation is about changing laws in every state that they can, and just making it difficult to know what the law is, expanding the fear of possible litigation, and then having different standards for the scrutiny applied to ballots. The chaos was the design. That's what Democrats wanted. They wanted a mess of election laws that they could litigate better or have more opportunities for litigation." (Interview with Mollie Hemingway on Breitbart News Sunday with Joel Pollak). It is Alex Jones's political positions and his recognition of the fraudulent character of the 2020 presidential election, and not his unfounded theory about the Sandy Hook shootings, which brought about the following chain of legal actions launched against him. Devoutly anticommunist, devoutly proSecond Amendment, devoutly proDonald Trump and steadfastly able to recognize a rigged and stolen presidential election when he sees one, Alex Jones had placed himself within the crosshairs of the majority, and the majority moved to censor him and financially destroy him when he broadcast his unfounded theory about the Sandy Hook shootings. The parents of the children killed at Sandy Hook sued Jones on grounds of defamation and mental distress. Jones moved to dismiss the complaints on grounds of free speech. Before ruling on Jones's motion, the court first improperly ordered a procedure called discovery, which is an exchange of documents between the litigants. This order was improper because it did not address the issue of free speech and sought to determine whether Jones' had knowingly made false statements about the shootings in his claim that they had been staged. The order was improper because the First Amendment protects the right to free speech, and free speech means free speech, and protects all types of speech, and protects speech as such, and does not differentiate between knowingly false speech and other types of speech, in terms of the protection it affords. Jones refused to comply with the court's order to hand over documents to the plaintiffs on grounds that his speech about the school shootings was protected speech. The court then denied Jones's motion to dismiss on grounds that Jones's opinion were "nonopinions" and were not protected by the First Amendment's guarantee of free speech. The court ruled that Jones's opinions had defamed and harmed the plaintiffs and that Jones owed them damages. The court ordered Jones to pay one billion dollars in damages to the plaintiffs. To the wild applause of the gallery, the nation's legal establishment decided that Alex Jones, because he is Alex Jones, because he is devoutly anticommunist, devoutly proSecond Amendment, devoutly proDonald Trump and steadfastly able to recognize a rigged and stolen presidential election when he sees one, is not entitled to promote his unfounded conspiracy theories, while the self same establishment affords far left activists free rein spread their hoaxes across the channels of mass communication: "Conspiracy theorist Alex Jones arrived at a Texas courthouse for his defamation trial for calling the Sandy Hook Elementary School attack a hoax with the words Save the 1st scrawled on tape covering his mouth. Although Jones portrays the lawsuit against him as an assault on the First Amendment, the parents who sued him say his statements were so malicious and obviously false that they fell well outside the bounds of speech protected by the constitutional clause. The ongoing trial in Austin, which is where Jones' far right Infowars website and its parent company are based, stems from a 2018 lawsuit brought by Neil Heslin and Scarlett Lewis, whose six year old son was killed in the 2012 attack along with nineteen other first graders and six educators. Jones took the stand August 2 in his own defense. Jones' lawyer Andino Reynal said the case is crucial to free speech. Jones made similar arguments in a deposition. 'If questioning public events and free speech are banned because it might hurt somebody's feelings, we are not in America anymore,' he said." (Is Alex Jones' Trial About Free Speech Rights? by Michael Tarm). In modern day physics, simultaneity, the occurrence of two events at the same time, is held to be relative and not absolute because clock readings differ for observers in different reference frames. In the field of human events, simultaneity is absolute but is rare. Civilized people dream about a simultaneity which they know will never arrive because the majority will never allow the first event to occur. Civilized people dream that one day communism will die, because on that very day, freedom of speech will be restored to the West.

CLIMATE CHANGE VANDALS HIT MUSEUMS

455 AD. Roman civilization lies in ruins, smoldering and buried beneath the smoke and ashes of a mighty fire. This fire was ignited by treason, by the betrayal of the Romans of pagan reason, and by their new fealty to the dark gods of religion and barbarism, which placed the Christians and the Germans upon the thrones of power. In this year, the Vandals set sail to attack Rome. They first land in Ostia, the city's seaport at the mouth of the Tiber River, and destroy the city's aqueducts. After entering the city, they attack the Temple of Jupiter Capitolinus, the most important temple in Roman antiquity, located on the Capitoline Hill, and carry away its gilt bronze roof tiles. They next sack temples, public buildings, private homes, the emperor's palace, carry away vast quantities of gold, silver, jewels and furniture, destroy precious works of art, and kill hundreds of citizens in random attacks. Plundering and pillaging Rome for fourteen endless days, they leave behind evil spirits, and these spirits set sail for new places and new nations to ravage. They have made their latest terrifying appearance in art museums across the world, committing their crimes under the banners of communism. From Italy to Germany to Britain, climate activists have channeled the ancient Vandals of Rome and launched attacks on artworks which have placed the continent's finest museums in the grip of fear and foreboding. Two thousand years after the Sack of Rome, the barbarians have returned, restarted their campaign and spread a blanket of destruction, but a blanket embroidered now with a foundational dogma of the global red establishment. This is the dogma that man made greenhouse gas emissions have brought about a state of global warming which will incinerate the planet and doom all life to extinction. The only solution to this climate crisis is to eliminate greenhouse gas emissions by dismantling modern industrial and technological civilization. The theory of anthropogenic global warming rests upon an impossibility which has been exposed by science, sanity and common sense. It is the impossibility that an infinitesimal quantity of man made carbon dioxide emitted into the atmosphere, an amount which vanishes at 4% of 0.04%, which latter is the percentage of carbon dioxide present in the atmosphere, has had an influence on global climate. It is the impossibility that nothing can create something and that a zero quantity can lead to change and action. Armed with this impossibility, climate activists have rung global alarm bells, fueled mass hysteria and peddled Project Fear. Marching under banners screaming out the slogan Save The Planet, they demand that people not drive automobiles, not fly in airplanes, not work in offices and factories, not heat their homes, not use electrical appliances, not create energy from fossil fuels, not eat meat or dairy products, and renounce their fundamental human existence. Promoting the legend of a man made climate emergency, they advocate a regime of confiscatory taxation, communist leveling down, the renunciation of progress and the destruction of civilization: "The CO2 Climate Emergency story says that the trace gas CO2 (0.04% of air) is the main 'control knob' of weather extremes and climate, and that man's CO2--4% of 0.04% of the atmosphere--is a major dangerous factor in this. Therefore, the story concludes, you must be taxed and controlled. To put that in perspective, imagine if the whole atmosphere is represented by a rod the height of Big Ben's tower (100 m); the level of CO2 in the atmosphere is about 38mm on top and man's contribution to that CO2 is between 1 & 2 mm--a pigeon dropping--on top. Look at the Big Ben and think about what climate alarmists are claiming! For the CO2 narrative to be true REQUIRES: 1. Man's (4%) CO2 to control the rest of (96%) CO2. 2. CO2 to be the main controller of temperature and climate. BOTH CLAIMS FAIL AGAINST SCIENCE, and are not made any less false by any number of new or old celebrities generating large carbon footprints by attending Save The Planet stunts where they tell us all not to fly, not to eat meat, not to drive cars, not to breathe, etc. Nor do the industrial scale official temperature data set adjustments, alarmist forecasts which never come true, or the hysterical propaganda claims of record heat at questionably selected urban heat islands, make falsity valid." (Man Made Climate Change Does Not Exist by Piers Corbyn). Protesting against the life, times, career and achievements of man, today's climate activists have invaded art museums and compiled a record of devastation reminiscent of the crimes of their forefathers committed during the days of pagan antiquity. In the National Gallery in London, climate activists from Stop Oil threw tomato soup at Vincent Van Gogh's Sunflowers and damaged the frame, while they shouted, "What is worth more, art or life?" At the Barberini Museum in Potsdam, Germany, climate activists from the Last Generation threw mashed potatoes at Claude Monet's Grainstacks. The frame was damaged and had to be restored and the museum had to shut its premises. They defended their actions under the banners of anthropogenic climate change: "Monet loved nature and captured its unique and fragile beauty in his works. How can it be that so many are more afraid of damage to one of these images of reality than they are of the destruction of our world itself, whose magic Monet so admired? There will be no time for admiring art if we fight each other over food and water!" (Aimee von Baalen, Last Generation website). The director of the Barberini Museum described an art world in ruins before an unrelenting onslaught of climate activists: "The attack on a work of the Hasso Plattner Collection, as well as previous attacks on works of art, including at the National Gallery in London, have shown that the high international security standards for the protection of artworks in the event of activist attacks are not sufficient and must be adapted." At the Manchester Art Gallery, climate activists glued their hands to the frame of J.M.W. Turner's Tomson's Aeolian Harp and spray painted the words no new oil on the floor. At the Royal Academy in London, climate activists glued their hands to Leonardo da Vinci's Last Supper. They defended their actions as a justified attack on the spirit of reason and enlightenment which animates civilization: "Symbolism is one of the ways humans have understood our world for tens of thousands of years. This painting is possibly one of the most iconic representations of Western values and spirituality. We have a whole generation for whom it may be the last supper." (Attack On Monet Artwork: German Museums React by Stuart Braun, quoting Simon Bramwell). At the Vatican Museum, climate activists, standing next to a banner reading Last Generation: No Gas, No Coal, glued themselves to Laocoon, an eponymous statue of the ancient Greek priest. They defended their actions as a wake up call to stop anthropogenic climate change: "This statue reminds us of the sad story of the Greek priest that tried to save himself, his children and all citizens of Troy. Our actions symbolize a movement united by the will of influencing our government to make the right choices in order to mitigate climate change." (Attack On Monet Artwork: German Museums React by Stuart Braun, quoting Laura). At the National Gallery in London, climate activists covered The Hay Wain by John Constable with a picture showing the original painting's river landscape replaced by a paved road, dead trees, factory smokestacks and airplanes. Their actions damaged the picture's frame and the varnish on the canvas. At the Uffizi Gallery in Florence, climate activists glued their hands to Sandro Botticelli's Primavera. At the Stadel Museum in Frankfurt, climate activists glued their hands to Thunderscape With Pyramus And Thisbe by Nicolas Poussin. They defended their actions as a protest against the ruinous course for society paved by the use of oil and gas: "The painting today is symbolic of the destructive course of current politics. Just as Pyramus started from false assumptions, our government is starting from false assumptions that will lead our societies to collapse." (Attack On Monet Artwork: German Museums React by Stuart Braun, quoting from a statement issued by Last Generation). At the Gemaldgalerie in Berlin, climate activists glued themselves to Lucas Cranach's Rest On The Flight Into Egypt. At the Alte Pinakothek in Munich, climate activists glued themselves to Peter Paul Rubens' Massacre Of The Innocents. At the Old Masters Picture Gallery in Dresden, climate activists glued themselves to the frame of Raphael's Sistine Madonna. Without basis in fact or reality, the doctrine of anthropogenic global warming is held aloft by the global red establishment. Beneath its zealotry, extremism, antiscience and psychosis has been set into motion a movement of destruction. This movement has smashed into the institutions of human heritage and culture and tolled the bells of civilizational collapse: "Fanatics always become more radical the longer they perceive that their demands are being ignored and that there are no serious consequences to their actions. But Last Generation, in the final analysis, is just a group of pawns. The entire climate hysteria is driven by the reckless propagation of pseudoscientific fantasies and fallacies by groups far larger and more powerful than the fanatics who threw mashed potatoes on the Monet." (Climate Lunatics Throw Mashed Potatoes On Monet Masterpiece by Robert Spencer). The Global Study on Homicide, published by the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime, paints a portrait of murder rates exploding across the world. From Los Angeles to Caracas to Paris to Canberra, murder capitals have sent crime statistics soaring into triple digit stratospheres. Before the world's streets and homes riddled with this growing lethal violence looms the shadow of cultural genocide perpetrated by the red propagandists of anthropogenic climate change.

ISLAMISTS INVADE FRANCE

An invasion is an offensive in which combatants from one state enter another state in order to gain concessions, change the government and establish control. Invasions have been an everpresent occurrence throughout man's history and have been baneful or beneficial to the cause of human development. The Roman invasions of Germanic lands beginning in 12 BC, and the European invasions of the Americas, beginning in the fifteenth century, were illustrious instances of civilization expanding its frontiers in the face of savagery and superstition. In the seventh century, a monster from the darkness of the Abrahamic religions set into motion a movement for empire under the terrifying banners of that which the ancient Romans and modern Europeans defeated in their invasions. In the seventh century, the prophet Muhammad planted the seeds for the establishment of a realm as vast and extensive as it was primitive and unknowing, and laid the basis for a kingdom of fear which reached from Central Asia and the Indian subcontinent to the Middle East, North Africa, the Caucasus and Southwest Europe. In the seventh century, the prophet Muhammad composed the first chapter and walked the first step of a journey into cultural regression which would culminate in a regime of blind faith and brute force spreading across mountains, rivers, deserts and the four geographical directions, and compelling its millions of captives to bow down before the merciless Satan of the Quran: "Under the last of the Umayyads, the Arabian empire extended two hundred days journey from east to west, from the confines of Tartary and India to the shores of the Atlantic Ocean. We should vainly seek the indissoluble union and easy obedience that pervaded the government of Augustus and the Antonines; but the progress of Islam diffused over this ample space a general resemblance of manners and opinions. The language and laws of the Quran were studied with equal devotion at Samarcand and Seville: the Moor and the Indian embraced as countrymen and brothers in the pilgrimage of Mecca; and the Arabian language was adopted as the popular idiom in all the provinces to the westward of the Tigris." (The History Of The Decline And Fall Of The Roman Empire by Edward Gibbon). In the twenty first century, the gates of Western civilization have been opened up by an enemy within surpassing all previous enemies within throughout history. Defining the terms treason and subversion, this latest enemy within is a mighty movement against liberal democracy marching under the banners of Marxism. The religion of the establishment during its final degenerate hours of existence, Marxism has joined forces with the external enemy it let through, and together they have sealed the coffin of the West forever. This invasion of the West holds a bitter irony which has made it a tragedy of epic proportions. For the invasion has been staged in the nation which centuries before had seen the victory of civilization over an invasion by the same external enemy. In 732, in the city of Tours in western France, the Duke and Prince of the Franks defeated the invading forces of the Umayyad Caliphate and saved Europe from the depredations of the fearsome Islamic child of Abraham. In this year, in the Battle of Tours, Charles Martel emerged triumphant over an enemy stampeding in from the moral wastelands of the East, and secured the future of the West: "The establishment of Frankish power in western Europe shaped that continent's destiny and the Battle of Tours confirmed that power." (100 Decisive Battles From Ancient Times To The Present by Paul Davis). In the twenty first century, the victory at Tours secured by France's mounted horsemen of freedom has been disgraced and turned back as the armies of internal treason, followed faithfully by the armies of external invasion, have writ themselves large and made themselves clear and obvious across the face of the land. The new invaders from the Community of the Faithful have returned to France and placed the nation under a state of siege. Look at what France's open borders and mass immigration policies, put in place by France's reds in control of the French state and French society, have done to the land which thirteen centuries ago had successfully fought back the Prince of Darkness, who appeared on earth in the guise of Abdul Rahman All Ghafiqi, governor of Al Andalus, the Islamic lands of Spain, Portugal and southern France, and thereby allowed civilization to flourish and advance. Look at the torture and killing of twelve year old Lola Daviet by an Algerian Muslim. The assailant had arrived in France on a student visa, stayed on after her visa expired, and flouted with impunity an order to leave the country. Look at the unspeakable horror unleashed by France's unwillingness to enforce its order of expulsion: "The suspect had boasted about selling body parts. Evidence suggests that the girl was taken into the basement of the flat, where she was tortured, and raped, before being strangled and having her throat cut." (Uproar Continues In France Over Muslim Charged With Torture, Rape, Murder Of 12 Year Old French Girl by Robert Spencer, quoting an investigator). Look at the latest statistics which reveal that less than six percent of illegal Islamic immigrants in France are deported. Look at the suburbs of Paris, which civilized people lament as "the lost territories of the Republic". Look at Marseilles, where half of all people convicted of violent crimes are Islamists and dozens of people each year are shot dead by Islamists wielding assault rifles. Look at global studies which rank France as more violent than Mexico, Bogota and Columbia. Look at France today and see a pall of fatality spread over the coffin of a society which has surrendered itself to Islam. See this gloomy cloth embroidered with the names of husbands, wives, fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters blasted into the sky by the Prophet's automatic rifles, suicide bombers and hand grenades. See the citizens of France minced, ground up and reduced to rivers of blood and tears by a killing machine called Islam. See decent, law abiding people afraid to congregate in public, fearful of shopping in restaurants and grocery stores, terrified at attending concerts, films and sports events, because they behold a shadow of death looming across their lives, a Grim Reaper answering the declaration Allah Is The Greatest, and telling them to run for their lives. See Islamists celebrate mass murder on the pages of social media and in the eerie darkness of their mosques. See the defenders of free speech massacred by the defenders of jihad. See a nation blockaded, surrounded, targeted for elimination and forced to beg for its life before it is beheaded by Islamist executioners allowed through the border by their Marxist comrades. See the French republic of reason and enlightenment bow down before the god of savagery and his black flag unfurled by the calculating, cold blooded killers in charge of the Islamic State. See a psychopathic religion without mercy and without humanity unsheathe its daggers and load its barrels of death. See it spray horror into crowds, hurl stabbings into squares, set into motion shock waves of screams and disgust, and place, unchallenged, Islamist mass murder upon the throne of absolute power: "High powered weapons, suicide bombers and grenades. This is war. Allahu akbar! That all too familiar battle cry kicked off six Islamic acts of war on the people of France. Muslims set off on a murderous rampage in Paris Friday night, killing at least 166, including at least 100 concertgoers at a music hall featuring an American rock band. The death toll spread across six sites in the city. Devout Muslims were celebrating the attacks on social media. One of the apprehended jihadists reportedly stated, 'I am from the Islamic State.' Hundreds of thousands of these savages have invaded the continent. 'Terrorist attacks of an unprecedented magnitude are in play in Paris. It's horror,' French President François Hollande said. 'We have mobilized all forces possible to neutralize the terrorists.' At the concert hall, the merciless jihadis murdered their hostages one by one, as the non-Muslims begged for the lives of their loved ones. Paris police said that the siege ended when French forces killed at least two of the jihad murderers inside the hall. Hollande ordered a state of emergency in Paris. He also closed the country's borders. Too little, too late. After the Charlie Hebdo massacre and the subsequent murders at a Jewish grocery in Paris in January, what more warning did Hollande need? The massacre took place at several different locations in Paris—near the site of the massacre of Muhammad cartoonists at the Charlie Hebdo offices in January. The jihadis focused on what would be prestige targets for them. They murdered several people in a restaurant, as well as at the concert hall. Some were killed in suicide bombings--a hallmark of jihad attacks. There was another bombing near the Stade de France, north of Paris. One eyewitness said: 'I saw two terrorists from my point of view with AK-47s entering the concert room and firing randomly into the crowd. People yelled and screamed.' " (Muslims Declare War On France—It Was a Bloodbath' by Pam Geller). Codenamed Operation Overlord, the Normandy landings were at the time the largest seaborne invasion in history. Staged by the Allied forces, the operation commenced with the liberation of France and laid the basis for the Allied victory on the Western Front. The twenty first century has seen the reversal of France's liberation by the new Marxist back stabbers in charge of the nation's establishment. It has seen the largest seaborne invasion in history, bar none, staged by savages donning black masks and black clothing and fueled by Satan's black fires of hatred of freedom. It has seen the construction of an Eastern Front in the heart of the West, in the nation of Normandy, and the submergence of civilization beneath a rising tide of migrant Islamists released into daylight by the Marxist gatekeepers of the underworld.

RED ACTIVIST HAMMERS COMRADE

One of the most utilized tools of man, the hammer has a storied history filled with images of good and evil. The Norse god Thor, symbol of thunder and lightning, wields a hammer, as does the Greek hero Hercules. The hammer appears in the greatest symbol of evil ever created by man. Emblazoned on the flags and insignia of the international communist movement and conspiracy, the hammer and sickle represents proletarian solidarity and its global war against freedom. Adopted during the Russian Revolution of 1917, the hammer and sickle has inspired red activists for over a century and expressed their rage against the world like no other symbol. On October 28, 2022, a walking embodiment of this rage gazed at the hammer in his beloved red flag and printed it out in three dimensional existence. He grasped this hammer with his hand and raised it high up in the air. He made it come down on a fellow partisan who in his feverish eyes was not communist enough and had betrayed the holy cause. On October 28, 2022, David Depape entered the home of Paul Pelosi, husband of Nancy Pelosi, Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, and bashed in his skull with this hammer. David Depape, whose home in Berkeley, California is festooned with a Black Lives Matter sign, an LGBT rainbow flag, a sticker reading Ain't no sunshine until capitalism's gone, and a cannabis symbol hanging from a tree. David Depape, a microcosm of the psychosis gripping the West as it accelerates into dissolution under the control of the reds. David Depape, a picture of the free world as it descends into its final stage of development, and digs a grave for the progress and achievements of centuries. David Depape, paradigmatic member of the far left, paranoiac, detached from reality, and hostile and aggressive toward those on his side he deems have not shouted loudly enough for the destruction of civilization, and not taken the violent actions necessary to bring this about: "What I know about the family is that they're very radical activists. They seem very left. They are all about the Black Lives Matter movement. Gay pride. But they're very detached from reality. They have called the cops on several of the neighbors, including us, claiming that we are plotting against them. It's really weird to see that they are willing to be so aggressive toward somebody else who is also a lefty." (Pelosi Attack Suspect David DePape Was A Psychotic Homeless Addict Estranged From His Pedophile Lover & Their Children by Michael Shellenberger, quoting Trish, one of Depape's neighbors). Look at the psychosis of David Depape and see the worship of force and violence. See the call to arms to overthrow the institutions of freedom. See the condemnation of freedom as the enslavement of the proletariat and the advocacy of a world movement and revolution of the scum of the earth to smash through the walls of civilization: "Communists disdain to conceal their views and aims. They openly declare that their ends can be attained only by the forcible overthrow of all existing social conditions. Let the ruling classes tremble at a communist revolution. The proletarians have nothing to lose but their chains. They have a world to win. Working Men of All Countries, Unite!" (Communist Manifesto by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels). Look at the psychosis of David Depape and see his support for Black Lives Matter. Founded in 2013 by Patrisse Cullors, Alicia Garza and Opal Tometti, three activists marching under the banners of Marxism and black nationalism, Black Lives Matters proclaims that capitalism is a system of cold blooded murder of blacks. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of ruthless oppression of blacks. It proclaims that capitalism is a system of merciless white supremacy. It proclaims that capitalism promotes acts of governmental and private violence against blacks. It proclaims that a progressive society is a black community dedicated to the proposition that black lives matter and only black lives matter. It proclaims that a progressive society provides space for black imagination, innovation and joy as they conceive, plan and carry out multifarious acts of violence against whites and the multifarious ways black hoodlums can escape punishment for their deeds. It proclaims that progressive politics is expansive politics, intersectional politics, national socialist politics, black Marxist politics, black Bolshevik politics and black communist politics which brings together every sector of the black population. It proclaims that a progressive society brings together black poor, black women, black homosexuals, black transgenders, black hoodlums, black outcasts, black fugitives and black illegal aliens in a campaign to establish totalitarian tyranny in the name of black justice and liberation. It proclaims that a progressive society is an inhuman society organized as a network of black terror, whose mission is to eradicate the things virtuous people hold dear, the institutions of reason, enlightenment, humaneness and liberal order, and target civilization for destruction: "#BlackLivesMatter was founded in 2013 in response to the acquittal of Trayvon Martin's murderer. Black Lives Matter Global Network Foundation, Inc. is a global organization in the US, UK, and Canada, whose mission is to eradicate white supremacy and build local power to intervene in violence inflicted on Black communities by the state and vigilantes. By combating and countering acts of violence, creating space for Black imagination and innovation, and centering Black joy, we are winning immediate improvements in our lives. We are expansive. We are a collective of liberators who believe in an inclusive and spacious movement. We also believe that in order to win and bring as many people with us along the way, we must move beyond the narrow nationalism that is all too prevalent in Black communities. We must ensure we are building a movement that brings all of us to the front. We affirm the lives of Black queer and trans folks, disabled folks, undocumented folks, folks with records, women, and all Black lives along the gender spectrum. Our network centers those who have been marginalized within Black liberation movements. We are working for a world where Black lives are no longer systematically targeted for demise. We affirm our humanity, our contributions to this society, and our resilience in the face of deadly oppression. The call for Black lives to matter is a rallying cry for ALL Black lives striving for liberation." (Black Lives Matter, website). Look at the psychosis of David Depape and see support for transgenderist ideology. It has been known for over a century that sex is determined by genes, by internal information units, and is thus fixed and immutable. In 1905, Nettie Stevens and Edmund Wilson discovered that the male sex is determined by the presence of two chromosomes, by two threads of these information units, by an X chromosome and a Y chromosome, while the female sex is determined by the presence of two X chromosomes. Flying in the face of these scientific findings, transgender ideology proclaims that genetically determined sex does not exist and that sex can be changed by means of chemical and surgical interventions or by a simple declaration that one is a member of the opposite sex. The world created by transgenderism is a world in which women can have male genitals and men can have female genitals. It is a world in which men who proclaim they are women are women, and women who proclaim they are men are men. It is a world in which to be biologically male means nothing whatever and to be biologically female means nothing whatever, and people can become any sex they wish to become, and can rewrite reality and erase facts as they wish, and become two sexes at one and the same, or eliminate gender identity and become indeterminate nothings: "A transgender comedian in Britain has been praised after stripping naked and using 'her' penis to play the keyboard on live television. Jordan Gray, a British biologically male comedian who identifies as a woman, has been praised by leftists for stripping naked on live television before playing the keyboard with

'her' penis. According to an archived webpage, Gray was listed as being a patron of the Educate & Celebrate charity as of Saturday, with the NGO frequently pushing for a greater acceptance of transgenderism within the British school system. 'Hello Britain you lovely bitch!' Gray said, introducing the act on the Friday Night Live program, an omnibus comedy program which starred a number of other mostly left leaning comics, on Channel 4—which is owned by the British government. Gray proceeded to sing a song about being transgender, expressing a desire to 'crawl back in the womb' and 'start again, against God's plans, with different glands and smaller hands'. 'I'm just better than you,' the comedian continued, citing the fact that they were 'such a fucking genius', and that they could sing, dance, and act 'like a motherfucker'. After continuing making jokes about sex and how good they were at everything, Gray told the room that 'the best thing about live TV' is that they could do 'stupid stuff like this'. Gray then proceeded to strip, before playing the keyboard with what even the supposedly right wing media has described as 'her penis'." (Meanwhile In Britain: Transwoman Uses 'Her' Penis To Play Keyboard On Live Television by Peter Caddle). Jacques Mallet du Pan was a Swiss journalist in the eighteenth century who wrote about the French Revolution. He condemned the vast, sweeping, indiscriminate tornado called communism unleashed by the revolution and saw that "like Saturn, the revolution devours its own children." Bludgeoning, home invasion, residential burglary and assault with a deadly weapon. David Depape's revolution came to the home of his comrade, Paul Pelosi, and enacted the terrifying prophecy of Jacques Mallet du Pan.

DEAD SOULS IN VENEZUELA'S SCHOOLS

His name was Valentin Kotyk. He was born on February 11, 1930 and died on February 14, 1944. At the age of fourteen, he was killed in action in the German-Soviet War, in the Battle of Iziaslav, in defense of communism. An inspiration to communist youth throughout the world, Valentin Kotyk made communist history. Not only did he receive the medals Order of the Patriotic War First Class and Partisan of the Patriotic War, the youngest ever person to receive these, but he was made the Hero of Soviet Union, the youngest ever person. Valentin Kotyk was a member of the Young Pioneers, a mass youth organization of the Communist Bloc which indoctrinated children in the tenets of the red faith. Throughout this fearsome union of enslaved states controlled by Moscow and reaching from the Far East to Eastern Europe, Young Pioneer teams were named after Valentin Kotyk and monuments at Young Pioneer camps were constructed in his honor. At the other end of the world, decades after the fall of the Soviet Union and the dissolution of its empire of fear, the spirit of Valentin Kotyk lives on with renewed force and vigor. In Venezuela, this spirit, the spirit of mental destruction of youth at the hands of red schoolmasters, has sunk its claws into every classroom in the nation, and declared total war against the parents, teachers and children still remaining and still fighting for a free and prosperous Venezuela. Look at the arrival of Hugo Chavez and his Bolivarian Revolution at the dawn of the new millennium and see communism spread like a cancer throughout the nation's educational system. See Decree 1011, promulgated by the Supreme and Eternal Commander of the Revolution, establish state supervisors in every school to spy on classrooms for the government. See it install Cuban teachers appointed by the Castro regime to lead the country's educational programs. See parents and teachers who rallied against this decree, rallied under the slogan con mis hijos no te metas, "don't mess with my children", dismissed from their jobs and sent to jail. See the proclamation that schools must have a "social mission" and the establishment of communist indoctrination programs under the names Mision Sucre, Mision Robinson and Mision Ribas: "These programs should guarantee their role as agents of the Bolivarian revolution." (La Mision Ribas es un acto de liberacion, Presidential Decree, July 12, 2006). See illustrated children's books featuring political figures who raise their fists in communist solidarity before the slogans Only United Can We Achieve The Fatherland That We Dream Of, The Fatherland We Will Leave To Our Children, and Discipline, Obedience, Subordination. See the establishment of the Bolivarian University in 2003. See a propaganda and agitation machine disguised as an institution of higher education mass produce red guards to terrorize the land. See a church of Marx, Lenin and Che Guevara gather its congregation before a religion of human enslavement. See the programming of communist automata, exalted as exemplars of the New Man, and their release on a mission of mass destruction. See the manufacture of red hoodlums, exalted as humanists and technocrats, trained to smash through the battlements of civilized society. See a communist juggernaut set into motion by teachers, textbooks and campus libraries shout slogans from Mao Zedong and Michael Moore, seek to trap every last voice of freedom standing in its path, and make America, Europe and the free world its captive satellites: "The government's political opposition, a group increasingly relegated to the sidelines of Venezuelan public life, sees the university as a thinly disguised propaganda factory that takes advantage of the country's most vulnerable citizens. 'Unfortunately, the government is using education as a political tool' said Julio Borges, an opposition leader running for president against Chavez in December's elections. 'The Bolivarian University is just another vehicle, a bridge, to politicize the population.' [Student Alejandro Padron stated:] 'My first day was frustrating, because I saw a lot of people who were already ideologically formed-- you know, Lenin and Marx. I was like, What is that? It must be a religion. 'The goal of Bolivarian University is to form the New Man', said Padron, dropping a term coined by another revolutionary, Che Guevara, to refer to someone who is selflessly dedicated to bettering society. 'The New Man is not a technocrat, but rather is proficient in various fields--professional and technological--and is completely focused on his community. He is a humanist.' Padron now immerses himself in his class readings. The Caracas campus's library, in the basement of the main building, holds a generous collection of political texts, the vast majority from Latin American authors aligned with Chavez's socialist vision. A poster on the wall beside the checkout counter shows a mouse with fur painted with the stars and stripes of a US flag; the mouse is caught dead in a trap. The American author with the most titles under his name in the political section is Michael Moore." (Chavez Educates Masses At A University In His Image by Monte Reel). Look at Venezuela's schools and see Presidential Decree 058, promulgated by Hugo Chavez on October 16, 2012, which directed the Education Ministry to "strengthen the socialism process" in the nation. See the distribution of a set of books, called Bicentennial Collection, to students from first grade to high school. The books were produced by the Cuban government and published by a ministry of education which had renounced fact based, liberal instruction in favor of teaching students to accept communism. They promote a cult of personality around red tyrants named Hugo Chavez and Nicolo Maduro. They indoctrinate millions of schoolchildren with red ideological hatreds and prejudices. They outrage teachers and parents who remember and cherish their lives before the advent of communism in their country. They seek to erase and rewrite historical events to advance the interests of the communist regime. They promote the official story that freedom is slavery and the red legend that individual rights are the lash of bourgeois oppression. They revere the use of force and violence as the mark of political perfection and

worship at the altars of red imperialism and red colonial power. They replace the teaching of social science by the inculcation of red propaganda and advocate a violent uprising against constitutional government. They advocate the suppression of liberal opposition and the disbanding of noncommunist political parties. They advocate a battle of the proletariat against the institutions of liberal enlightenment. They advocate rule by communist commanders and revolutionaries who will lead the masses into a twilight netherworld in which human dignity no longer exists and individual existence has been banished forever: "It was Hugo Chavez, not independence hero Simon Bolivar, who finally freed Venezuela from imperialist tyranny. That is why it suffered a coup supported by US battleships and helicopters. This is how the modern history of Venezuela is summed up by the new textbooks distributed by the socialist government to six million children who study in the country's public schools, a historical review that has irritated many teachers and parents. 'The government has made great efforts to try to redefine historical events with an ideological bias, and the books express that intention,' says Juan Maragall, secretary of education for the opposition ruled state of Miranda. The official story became the last battlefield between government and opposition in the nation of 29 million inhabitants, after the Ministry of Education convened a national consultation on education in Venezuela a few weeks ago. The first books reached the hands of children in mid 2011, but their distribution became widespread only after the death of Chavez and the coming to power of his political heir Nicolas Maduro a year ago. About 42 million copies are distributed each school year. The books place Chavez on a pedestal unattainable even for Bolivar, who made Venezuela independent from Spanish colonial power in the nineteenth century and was revered by the late socialist leader. Chavez's name, accompanied by the title Supreme Commander of the Bolivarian Revolution, appears on all the back covers of the collection. In the background is that of President Maduro. Social science books for twelve year olds present the coup d'etat suffered by Chavez in 2002 as an insurrection supported by Washington and play down the massive opposition protests that triggered the episode in the divided oil country. The texts minimize the traditional political parties, which today support the antigovernment protests against Maduro, using them as an example to explain the meaning of the word twilight." (Chavismo Rewrites The History Of Venezuela In School Textbooks by Diego Ore). Edward Hunter was an American intelligence agent and recognized authority on psychological warfare. In his book Brain Washing In Red China: The Calculated Destruction Of Men's Minds, he exposed the operations of a Maoist front, reaching from China to Korea to Malaya, to reduce people's ability to think critically and independently and to program them with communist thoughts and ideas. Listen to a student in today's Venezuela and hear the tragic victim of a communist operation springing straight out of the Eastern steppes. This is an operation to place a red pall around the minds of the young, to deprive them of rational sight, to cover their eyes to truth and reality, and to make them bow down before the thrones of the red gangsters in charge of their country: "Many people say that they are brainwashing us and that they are blindfolding us, and that is a lie, because we are chavistas, and on the contrary, they are not brainwashing us, they are waking us up. When I grow up I want to be a teacher so that later I can tell children and inform them of everything the president did and that the benefits are here." (My Socialist Hell: Venezuela's War On Children Through Propaganda Schoolbooks by Christian Caruzo, quoting a student). Fifteen thousand kilometers away from the former epicenter of communist indoctrination in the Far East, the nightmare of menticide has been reenacted in the nation called by Columbus the Land of Grace.

BILL GATES: PROGRAMMER FOR COMMUNISM

A program is a set of commands for a computer to execute. The world's first computer was the Analytical Engine, invented by Charles Babbage in 1837, and its program consisted of two sets of perforated cards which directed operations and inputted data. The late twentieth century saw the advent of a microcomputer revolution which placed affordable, accessible, miniature, user friendly computers into ordinary people's homes. This revolution was led by a voice and mirror of the times who encapsulated the ethos of the West as it descended into its final, inevitable, ineluctable, Roman type stage of red mob disorder. This voice and mirror was the emperor of Western cultural degeneration just as surely as Emperor Odoacer was the final emperor of Rome. In 476 AD, this alien king deposed Romulus Augustulus in an act which marked the official end of the Roman Empire and the Classical world. But it was an act which merely formalized a state of dissolution which had occurred centuries before in the triumph of German barbarism and the Christian religion. Over the past half century, the emperor of the final stage of the West has been programming civilizational free fall and formalizing a state of dissolution which occurred a century before, when the masses and the establishment first voted for communism. The cofounder of Microsoft, the world's largest personal computer company, and for years its chairman, president, chief executive officer, chief software architect and chief shareholder, Bill Gates has been providing instructions, plans and schedules for the establishment of communism for over a half a century, and launching attacks on liberal democracy in every home, school and office in the world. Look at the plaintext written by Bill Gates, look at the memorandums and blogpages, look at the digits and codes, look at the numbers and strings, look at the calculations and algorithms, look at the software and the hardware, and see a program for the destruction of Enlightenment values set forth in clear and unequivocal terms and placed in rows and columns across the coffin of the West. Look at page one in Bill Gates's electronic documents of anticapitalism and an antimodernist revolution. Page One. Bill Gates proclaims that human activity is emitting vast quantities of greenhouse gases into the atmosphere which are causing the planet to incinerate, and this looming catastrophe can only be averted by the elimination of technological and industrial progress. In order to save life on earth, global greenhouse gas emissions must be reduced to zero, civilization must be reduced to zero, and mankind must invest in the development, demonstration and deployment of the green technologies which will return human life to the zero eons of primitive prehistory: "When I first started learning about climate change fifteen years ago, I came to three conclusions. First, avoiding a climate disaster would be the hardest challenge people had ever faced. Second, the only way to do it was to invest aggressively in clean energy innovation and deployment. And third, we needed to get going. The ultimate measure of success is global greenhouse gas emissions: we need to go from 51 billion tons a year to zero in the next three decades. But there's also a lag when it comes to that metric. Investment in the development, demonstration, and deployment of clean technologies comes first. The drop in emissions comes second, after the Green Premium for any given clean technology gets low enough to scale up." (The State Of The Energy Transition: My Annual Memo About The Journey To Zero Emissions, in GatesNotes, blogsite). Bill Gates promotes the theory of anthropogenic climate change in the face of scientific findings. These findings show that the earth has undergone warming and cooling cycles independently of the presence of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere. They show that the temperature of the planet was between one and two degrees warmer during the period 1000-1400 AD than at present, although greenhouse gas emissions in that period were far lower. They show that global climate changes are produced by sunspot activity, that the sun induced heating of the planet causes carbon dioxide levels to rise, and that carbon dioxide levels follow global climate changes and do not cause them: "On the scale of decades over the last hundred or so years, and in spite of what climate alarmists claim, CO2 has been steadily rising while temperatures have oscillated--half the time moving with CO2 and half against. Over a longer period, ice core data shows that CO2 levels, smoothed over centuries, FOLLOW world CLIMATE temperatures by about 500-800years. The current increase in CO2 levels in the last 100 years is an after effect of the medieval warm period. This took place around 500-800 years ago and was warmer than our current period, despite having fewer people burning fewer fossil fuels, by about one degree worldwide, or at least two degrees in parts of temperate zones. It was a period of economic boom for most of Europe where crops grew faster etc. But most importantly, it was the heating during that period which has been driving the rising CO2 in the atmosphere over the last hundred years. So, if sea temperatures rule CO2, what rules climate temperature? The Sun rules the climate. Smoothed world temperatures are nothing to do with CO2 and follow solar activity. " (Man Made Climate Change Does Not Exist by Piers Corbyn). Page Two. Bill Gates advocates a system of confiscatory taxation and the collectivization of the producers of wealth: "It is well known that Gates is a proponent of making the tax system more progressive, including raising taxes on the wealthy. He has said that while he has paid $10 billion in taxes, he should be paying more. He has also advocated for reforming the estate and capital gains taxes." (Bill Gates: America's Capitalism, Socialism Debate Really About Taxes by Brittany De Lea). The world exalted by Bill Gates is a world in which justice has been repealed and equity turned on its head. It is a world in which the individual's achievements, as expressed in his income, have become the property of the state. It is a world which proclaims that the rich deserve to be dispossessed of all they own, while the poor deserve to sit on thrones of looted wealth. It is a world in which the more ability people display, the more they succeed and the more wealth they produce, the more they are punished by compulsory financial charges levied by the people's social responsibility state. It is a world in which the notion of equal protection under the law, the cornerstone of liberal constitutional government, has been swept away by a revolution of mob power and class hatred which gives rights, freedoms and immunities to the worst type of people imaginable, to the shiftless, the drifters and those blackened by the sores of envy and resentment, and to nobody else: "Time was when the progressive tax would not have been accepted as equitable even by a majority of the poor. Traditional equity required that taxes should be levied proportionately, not progressively. This was in accordance with the belief that a man's property, or his income, was an index of deserving achievement, or of value contributed in the marketplace to society. True, some men inherited their property or incomes—but that was something to be handled or regulated under laws of inheritance. In any case the erosion of time could be counted on to take care of the inefficient use of inherited fortune--'shirtsleeves to shirtsleeves in three generations'--expressed the common wisdom in this matter of luck in the choice of one's parents. Under the proportional theory of tax equity, a rich man would pay more taxes than a poor man, naturally. But every dollar of assessed property value, or of income, or of spending, would be taxed in equal amount, at flat percentage rates. Dollars would be treated equally, no matter who owned them, or spent them. Thus the citizens would be accorded the 'equal protection of the laws'—and their 'privileges and immunities' would be equal, as provided for in the United States Constitution. Any other way of treating taxation was regarded as discriminatory, or as putting penalties on ability, ambition, and success." (The Progressive Income Tax by John Chamberlain). Page Three. Bill Gates rejects liberal traditions and institutions which grant rights to individuals, and to individuals alone, in favor of the notion of group rights. He advocates a regime of race and gender quotas, race and gender affirmative action, race and gender discrimination, and racism and sexism on behalf of women and nonwhites, under the banners of diversity, equity and inclusion. He proclaims that gender is not fixed and immutable but can be changed by surgical and chemical interventions or by a simple declaration that one identifies with members of the opposite sex. He proclaims this in the face of scientific findings, reaching back to the early twentieth century in the researches of Edmund Wilson and Nettie Stevens, that gender is determined by chromosomes, or gene threads, and that females possess two X sex chromosomes, while males possess an X sex chromosome and a Y sex chromosome: "When we talk about DEI, we mean: 1. Diversity: a broad array of differences in identity, perspective, skill, and style. 2. Equity: practices and policies that are just, transparent, and consistent. 3 Inclusion: an environment that actively welcomes, connects, and values all while harming none." (Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, website). Communism is a cancer on society during its final, dying stages of development. Since its inception in 1975, Bill Gates' Microsoft has defined the computer industry and Gates has accomplished his satanic goal. He has unleashed through the cyberspace he devised a red octopus on every home, office, factory, government agency and educational facility in the world.

JOE BIDEN'S PRAETORIAN GUARD

The Praetorian Guard was a division in the Roman Imperial Army whose members served as the bodyguards and intelligence agents of the emperors. After the overthrow of Roman freedom and constitutional government by communist mobs led by Julius Caesar, the first emperor, Augustus, designated the Praetorian Guard as his personal weapon, and for the next three centuries, the guard was a key player in the criminal machinations of imperial politics. The wheel of history has spun round and completed a tragic revolution in the twenty first century, as the West descends into its final stages of development. Communist mobs have placed a new caesar upon the imperial throne and he has formed a new Praetorian Guard dedicated to the consolidation of his power. Weaponized, politicized, compromised and exhibiting rotteness to its core, the United States Department of Justice and the Federal Bureau of Investigation serve as the Praetorian Guard of President Joe Biden, and have swept aside their statutory mission of law enforcement with a scythe of misconduct and manipulation taken from the terrifying presence of the Grim Reaper. This creature, this demon, this psychopomp of cultural collapse has escorted the West down through the rungs of hell and unleashed a cyclone of corruption across the ruins of the free world. As America goes, so goes the West, and as the world's arsenal of liberty declines into the jungles of emperor worship, communist mobism and the abuse of power perpetrated by a new Praetorian Guard, the West has followed suit, cast the traditions of the Enlightenment into the dustbin of history, and buried itself in a late antiquity, late Roman, post constitutional, post Republic grave whose tombstone reads Here Rests The Masses, Their Caesars And Their Caesars' Police Forces. Look at where America has gone in the new millennium and see a portrait of civilizational free fall as frightening as it is reiterative of the lawlessness of the Roman past and the suicide of the Classical world. Exhibit One. The FBI has manufactured cases of domestic violent extremism to advance its red politics. It has categorized the January 6, 2021 Capital Hill attacks as a case of domestic violent extremism. In point of fact, these attacks were a justified attempt at an insurrection aimed at a government which had ceased to exist in all but name. At the time of the attacks, the United States Supreme Court had abdicated its responsibility to uphold the constitution. The constitution grants to state legislatures, and to state legislatures alone, the power to make election rules and choose presidential electors: "The Times, Places and Manner of holding Elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof." (Article I, Section 4). "Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors." (Article II, Section 1). The 2020 presidential election saw state courts and state executives throughout the nation make changes to election rules in violation of the constitution. At the time of the attacks, Mike Pence, the vice president of the United States, had abdicated his responsibility to reject fraudulent electoral votes and send them back to the states for review. This power is granted by constitution: "The Electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for President and Vice President, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice President, and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and all persons voted for as Vice President and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate; The President of the Senate [vice president] shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted." (Article Twelve). Inasmuch as votes which are fraudulent are votes in name only and have no legal meaning or significance, nothing is opened when the vice president opens fraudulent votes, and he has the responsibility to disregard them, discount them and send them back to the states. All peaceful means of redress having thus been exhausted, the insurrectionists had a right and a duty to overturn the results of the 2020 presidential election and overthrow the government by force. Political violence is justified when it becomes impossible to establish the rule of law in accordance with prescribed procedures: "The argument that state legislatures have sole power to interpret their election laws, and the process for selecting presidential electors, is set to be heard by the Supreme Court—even as those on one side of the argument are being targeted by investigators. In recent weeks, the Department of Justice has served subpoenas and search warrants on dozens of individuals who have argued that presidential electors can legally be rejected by the Vice President and sent back to state legislatures for further reconsideration. The subpoenas have been part of a so-called fake electors inquiry into alternate slates of electors prepared by Trump supporters after the 2020 election. They were prepared as a remedy in the event that courts ruled state legislatures could decide electoral slates. However, the media, the Democratic Party, and investigators—both in congress and in law enforcement—have cast the alternate electoral slates as if they were an attempt to defraud Congress and impose proTrump electors outside any constitutional process. The Supreme Court, in Moore v. Harper, will consider the question of whether the state courts can overturn rules for elections that are established by the state legislatures. The question concerns Article I, Section 4, of the US Constitution, which states: 'The Times, Places and Manner of holding Elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof.' Likewise, Article II, Section 1, provides: 'Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors.' Trump supporters, citing disputes over results in several states, objected to the intervention of state courts in voting processes, often at the behest of Democrats and left wing groups who wanted to expand vote by mail and other innovations. At the time, the Supreme Court declined to hear appeals from Republicans who argued that state courts had overstepped their legal authority. Justice Clarence Thomas wrote at the time that the Court had failed to deal with an issue that would recur—and it has." (Supreme Court To Consider Electoral Argument Targeted By DOJ, January 6 Committee as Insurrection by Joel Pollak). Exhibit Two. The FBI has abused the Patriot Act and its own Counterterrorism Division by issuing "threat tags" against parents who speak out at local school board meetings against the communist and transgenderist curriculum foisted upon students. It has investigated parents who tell communist school boards: "we are coming for you". It has investigated a parent who "rails against the government" and "has a lot of guns", when such government violates the constitution's separation of church and state by promoting the religions of communism and transgenderism. Exhibit Three. The FBI has condemned the opponents of communism as racists, fascists and domestic terrorists and employed the tactics of force and violence against them. It has investigated the opponents of the Biden administration who champion constitutional government, and refused to investigate the enemies of liberal order such as Antifa, which promotes Marxism, and Black Lives Matter, which promotes intersectional black power communism: "President Biden has shown no problem in labeling his political opponents as racists, fascists, and domestic terrorists. The FBI under Director Wray has been willing to exert its law enforcement tools in a manner guided by political calculations. Whistleblowers allege that the FBI is manipulating data about domestic violent extremism to support the Biden Administration's political agenda. Other information suggests the FBI prioritizes investigations and uses differing tactics based on political considerations—using aggressive tactics against political opponents of the Biden Administration while going softer on, or outright ignoring, allegations against the Administration's political allies." (FBI Whistleblowers: What Their Disclosures Indicate About The Politicization Of The FBI And The Justice Department, Republican Staff Report, Committee on the Judiciary, US House of Representatives, November 4, 2022). Exhibit Four. The FBI has refused to investigate evidence of corruption committed by Joe Biden when he was vice president. It has refused to investigate Joe Biden's influence peddling operations managed by his son Hunter. It has given Joe Biden immunity from prosecution and placed him above the law: "Beginning on October 14, 2020, the New York Post published a series of articles detailing how Hunter Biden used the influence of his father for personal gain—with then Vice President Biden's awareness and apparent participation. In particular, the reported on one email from May 2017 about 'expectations' for 'renumeration packages' with a Chinese firm that included '20 H'—apparently referring to Hunter Biden—and '10 held by H for the big guy.' A former business partner of Hunter Biden's released a public statement at the time in which he asserted that he was a recipient of this email, that the email was 'genuine,' and that the email's reference to 'the Big Guy' referred to then Vice President Biden. Whistleblower information suggests that FBI leadership in Washington may be the reason why the FBI seems to have provided Hunter Biden with special treatment. In July 2022, Senator Grassley sent a letter to Director Wray reporting allegations that FBI Assistant Special Agent in Charge Thibault of the Washington Field Office shut down the investigation into Hunter Biden." (FBI Whistleblowers: What Their Disclosures Indicate About The Politicization Of The FBI And The Justice Department, Republican Staff Report, Committee on the Judiciary, US House of Representatives, November 4, 2022). Exhibit Five. The FBI and the Justice Department conducted an unprecedented raid on the residence of former President Donald Trump on August 8, 2022 in order to seize government records. The government claimed that President Trump committed three crimes relating to these records: the unauthorized retention of national defense information; the removal or destruction of records; the destruction or concealment of records with the intent to impede, obstruct or influence government activity. The first two justifications have no basis in the constitution. Article One, Section One states: "The executive Power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America." Article Two, Section Two states: "The President shall be Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the Militia of the several States, when called into the actual Service of the United States." If the words executive power and commander in chief mean anything, they mean that the president owns all documents produced by the executive branch of government. If these words mean anything, they mean that the Presidential Records Act, which establishes public ownership of presidential records, is unconstitutional. The last justification for the raid requires proof beyond a reasonable doubt of criminal intent, which is nonexistent in the case of Donald Trump. The High Cathedral of Saint Peter, located in Trier, Germany, is the oldest church in the country and a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Inside the church is the world famous Statue of Death, a human skeleton dressed in a shroud and clutching a scythe. Possessing unchallenged power in the circles of Joe Biden's emperorship and in the furtherance of his communist agenda, the United States Department of Justice and the FBI personify death stalking the disintegration of the West.

BULL CONNOR AND HIS BLACK POWER DOGS

Theophilus Eugene Connor was an American politician who served as Commissioner of Public Safety for the city of Birmingham, Alabama for twenty six years. From 1936 to 1954 and from 1957 to 1963, Sheriff Bull Connor outraged the civilized world. Using fire hoses and attack dogs to enforce white supremacy and racial segregation and deny civil rights to blacks, he showed the raw face of race hatred on newspaper pages and television screens throughout the world, and made his law enforcement office a byword for the Ku Klux Klan. The evolution of Marxism from the simple to the complex in the late twentieth century brought the Bull Connors of the world back into business in the service of black power. It had to happen; it was a natural, logical and ineluctable development; and a half a century ago, it did happen. A frontal assault on the Enlightenment, an assault which swept away the liberal universalism championed in that glorious age, an assault which divided up mankind into two enemy camps, the proletariat and the bourgeois, bore a bitter harvest beginning in the 1960s. The inventor of identity politics, Karl Marx sired monsters who would embark upon a rampage. The master's class politics, smashed up by the logic of tribalism, transmuted into race politics and gender politics, and a new triple headed nightmare, large, ugly and frightening, was born which would preside over the decline and fall of civilization. Emerging from the dark, satanic womb of Marx, a neoMarxist race politics promoting black supremacy entered the halls of government and the homes of the neighbors next door a half a century ago and became the ruling religion of our times. The career of this religion is the career of a new generation of Klansmen riding freedom into the sunset and into the dustbin of history. The first manifestation of the underworld deity of the new Marxists, the first flames of the swastika torchlights lit up by the new left, appeared in 1964 with the passage of Titles II and VII the Civil Rights Act. Look at Title II and see an assault on the right to private property without precedent in the history of a nation which was supposed to be, and had been exalted as being, the world's fortress and arsenal of liberty. See privately owned business establishments placed under the ownership of the state in the name of civil rights. See private accommodations transformed into public accommodations in the name of nondiscrimination. See private spheres of economic existence, private bars, restaurants, hotels, cinemas and sports stadiums, outlawed by a totalitarian juggernaut which razed the shops of free association with the bulldozers of equal protection. The Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution states: "No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." The words life, liberty and property refer to the existence of these rights, or else words have no reference to reality, and would not be found in a communist constitution, which does not recognise an individual's right to life, liberty or property. The Due Process Clause thus provides both a procedural guarantee that only proper, correct and lawful methods be employed before an individual is deprived of his life, liberty or property, and a substantive guarantee that the individual does in fact possess these rights and no acts of deprivation, no matter how proper, correct and lawful, may burden their core existence. The Due Process Clause thus protects the right to private property and protects the right of a private business, a private accommodation and a private economic space to discriminate in any manner it deems fit and on any grounds it chooses. Proclaiming that tables are not tables, chairs are not chairs, A is not A, and a private lunch counter is not a private lunch counter, the Civil Rights Act in its Title II is massive assault on constitutional rights. See its manifesto of war: "United States Department of Justice Civil Rights Division. Know Your Rights: Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The Civil Rights Division is dedicated to making sure that places of public accommodation do not discriminate against people because of their race, color, religion or national origin. Public accommodations include restaurants, hotels, and places of exhibition or entertainment (for example, a bar with live music, a sports stadium, or a movie theater). The name of the law that bans this type of discrimination is called Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. This law is sometimes called Title II." (United States Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division, website). Look at Title VII of the Civil Rights Act and see the same assault on the right to private property in the banning of private employers from selecting or deselecting members of their workforce on any grounds they choose: "It shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer to fail or refuse to hire or to discharge any individual, or otherwise to discriminate against any individual with respect to his compensation, terms, conditions, or privileges of employment, because of such individual's race, color, religion, sex, or national origin." In 1965 the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission was created. Its remit was successively expanded over the years, and in the present day its jackboots have smashed their way into private businesses and outlawed discrimination on the basis of race, sex, age, religion, pregnancy, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity and genetic information. In the 1970s, the United States population was classified under a Nuremberg style race code called Statistical Directive 15. Under this code, people were placed into race definitions and categorized as white, black, Hispanic, Asian/Pacific Islander or American Indian/Alaskan Native. In 1978, the United States Supreme Court, in Regents of the University of California v. Bakke, ruled that affirmative action programs, which allow preferential treatment on the basis of race, can be used in admissions policies in public universities or universities which receive public money, and not violate the Fourteenth Amendment's Equal Protection Clause. The court ruled that an admissions program at a public university or university which receives public money is allowed to discriminate on the basis of race and ethnic origin: "The State has a substantial interest that legitimately may be served by a properly devised admissions program involving the competitive consideration of race and ethnic origin." (Associate Justice William Powell). The national socialist character of affirmative action programs was described by law professor and judge, Robert Bork: "The justices who voted to uphold affirmative action are hard core racists of reverse discrimination". In 2003, the United States Supreme Court, in Grutter v Bollinger, ruled that a student admissions process in a public university or university which receives public money, which favors "underrepresented minority groups", does not violate the Fourteenth Amendment's Equal Protection Clause. The court ruled that such a university may legally establish race conscious and race based admissions programs. It ruled that such a university may legally favor members of certain racial and ethnic groups. It ruled that such a university may legally establish unequal treatment on the basis of race. It ruled that such a university may legally consider an applicant's race as a plus factor in admissions decisions. It ruled that race biased government action is constitutional: "We acknowledge that 'there are serious problems of justice connected with the idea of preference itself.' (Bakke). (Powell). Narrow tailoring, therefore, requires that a race conscious admissions program not unduly harm members of any racial group. Even remedial race based governmental action generally 'remains subject to continuing oversight to assure that it will work the least harm possible to other innocent persons competing for the benefit.' (Bakke). To be narrowly tailored, a race conscious admissions program must not 'unduly burden individuals who are not members of the favored racial and ethnic groups.' Metro Broadcasting, Inc. v. FCC (O'Connor, dissenting). We are satisfied that the Law School's admissions program does not. Because the Law School considers 'all pertinent elements of diversity,' it can (and does) select nonminority applicants who have greater potential to enhance student body diversity over underrepresented minority applicants. As Justice Powell recognized in Bakke, so long as a race conscious admissions program uses race as a plus factor in the context of individualized consideration, a rejected applicant 'will not have been foreclosed from all consideration for that seat simply because he was not the right color or had the wrong surname. His qualifications would have been weighed fairly and competitively, and he would have no basis to complain of unequal treatment under the Fourteenth Amendment.' " (Opinion of the Court delivered by Associate Justice Sandra Day O'Connor). Legal scholars were left aghast at the court's ruling. They saw as clearly and plainly as they saw the noonday sun that admissions programs which are race based, race conscious, race nonneutral, which take race into account and which establish race as a plus factor are by definition racist admissions programs, and are forbidden by the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. A headstone is a marker placed over a grave. It typically features the deceased's name, place of birth, date of birth and date of death, together with a brief message. The message may be an epitaph in praise of the deceased or a quotation such as Rest In Peace. On the headstone of the West is a tragic departure from this tradition. There is a time of birth, 1000 AD, a place of birth, Northern Germanic Europe, far away from the Southern European sun of Greece and Rome, and a time of death, the new millennium. But there is a fearsome and terrifying inscription, without praise of any kind, which reads: Here lies a civilization which ended its days in a raging jungle of tribal politics.

AMERICA'S MIDTERMS: CHRISTIAN RIGHT BRINGS VICTORY TO COMMUNISTS

In 1814, world famous Russian author Ivan Krylov wrote a fable entitled The Inquisitive Man. It is the story of a man who visits a museum and notices every exhibit inside except the largest, an elephant. In this fable a phrase was born which soon found its way into the English language. An elephant in the room is a metaphorical idiom which refers to a vital issue which everyone knows about but nobody wishes to discuss because it is politically embarrassing. The first recorded use of this phrase in English was in a story written by Mark Twain in 1882, entitled The Stolen White Elephant, which describes the activities of detectives searching far and wide trying to find an elephant which is right in front of them. The most recent use of this phrase has occurred in America's midterm elections held on November 8, 2022. Election observers throughout the nation have beheld an elephant in the room whose wild flailings and roars, rumbles, trumpets and cries have announced the hijacking of a political party and the resulting victory of the opposition. The sights and sounds of this ugly, frightening, looming presence are unmistakable and unavoidable, and the activists in charge of the hijacked party see it as clearly and plainly as they see the noonday sun, but they are determined not to talk about it for fear of losing their power and prestige. They see it; everyone sees it; but they are determined not to identify it because they themselves unleashed the whirlwind which is devastating their party. When the sun rose across America on November 9, 2022, the day after the midterm Congressional elections, the warnings issued by the Christian right of an impending rout of the Democrat Party crumbled into dust. The imminent tidal wave of Republican victories which would see massive Republican gains in the two houses of Congress did not materialise. The harsh electoral rebuke to President Joe Biden was not delivered. There was no tsunami and no rout of the Democrats, but only a modest margin of victory achieved by Republicans, when there would have been a much greater victory. There would have been a much greater victory because during Joe Biden's term of office, the nation has seen an invasion by illegal aliens across its southern border during which over a quarter of a million pass through every month. There would have been a much greater victory due to double digit rates of inflation, the highest in a half a century, created by a demand pull from multitrillion dollar stimulus spending and a cost push by a war on oil and gas production. There would have been a much greater victory due to a wave of violence set into motion by a rising ride of moral relativism and the condemnation of law enforcement as a lash of racial prejudice and discrimination. Look at the majority of voters and see them identify the cause of the crime juggernaut sweeping through the nation as the red religion hammered into the streets and squares by the establishment: "The majority of American voters blame 'woke politicians' for the ongoing crime wave across the United States, a new poll reveals. The latest Harvard/Harris Poll shows that 64 percent of voters say woke politicians are responsible for an increase in crime across American communities, while only 36 percent blame 'other factors.' Across political parties, a majority of voters blame woke politicians for rising crime. Among Democrats, for instance, 52 percent said woke politicians are responsible for the crime surge, while 75 percent of Republicans and 60 percent of swing voters said the same." (Poll: 64% of Voters Blame 'Woke Politicians' for Crime Wave Across US by John Binder). The Republican election victory would have been much greater due to the descent of gender, race and class indoctrination upon the nation's schools. Look at the pall cast by the reds over coffins filled with little children. See capitalism condemned as antiblack and antiequity. See capitalism condemned as a system of white dominance, white settlers and white colonialism. See capitalism condemned as a system of police brutality against blacks and the poor. See capitalism condemned as a prison industrial complex. See a rejection of the findings of science, which established in the early years of the twentieth century, in the work of Nettie Stevens, Edmund Wilson and Thomas Morgan, that genes determine gender and that gender is fixed and immutable. See a rejection of the genetic determination of gender paraded under the banners of transgender liberation. See a network of Woke Kindergartens express a nationwide crusade. Staged under the leadership of communist ideologues, communist pedagogues, communist visionaries, communist disruptors, communist cultural organizers, communist training session managers, communist website creators and communist video producers, this is a crusade of abolition which has placed civilization in its crosshairs: "A California school district is reportedly spending tens of thousands of dollars on an organization called Woke Kindergarten, which focuses on 'supporting children, families, educators and organizations in their commitment to abolitionist early education and problack and queer and trans liberation.' According to reports, the Golden State's Hayward Unified School District recently contacted the organization for a month long training session for staffers at Glassbrook Elementary School, where they will apparently learn how to 'disrupt whiteness, white dominant/settler colonial narratives and antiBlackness in the Glassbrook community.' " (Report: California School District Spending $20K On Woke Kindergarten Which Aims To 'Disrupt Whiteness' by Hannah Bleau). Confronted with the communist disorder and dictatorship inflicted upon the nation by the Democrat Party, the midterm elections would have brought a landslide victory to the Republicans but for a single issue. This issue was abortion and the Republican Party's opposition to the constitutional right to obtain an abortion. On June 24, 2022, the United States Supreme Court issued a landmark decision. It proclaimed that the states have a right to deny the evidence of the senses and to declare that human personhood appears at the moment of conception, and to declare that abortion is murder and can be outlawed. In Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, the court banged the gavel of religious dogma and dismissed reason and sanity from the nation's constitutional jurisprudence: "The Constitution does not confer a right to abortion; Roe and Casey are overruled; and the authority to regulate abortion is returned to the people and their elected representatives." On November 7, 2022, voters across the nation voiced their opposition to the Supreme Court ruling. Across the nation, voters enshrined the right to an abortion in their state constitutions. Across the nation, voters rejected the position of the Christian right that human personhood appears at the moment of fusion of a sperm and an ovum, and that the reason people do not see a person appear at the moment of fusion is that they are blind, and are blind because they have eyes. Across the nation on election day, voters made prochoice candidates winning candidates and prevented a decisive Republican victory from occurring: "Kentucky has rejected a constitutional amendment that would have said there was no right to abortion. The result here follows three other prochoice victories in this year's midterm elections: Vermont, Michigan and California have all enshrined the right to abortion in their constitution. The wave of ballot initiatives--which were voted on alongside other midterm elections--comes on the heels of the June Supreme Court decision to overturn Roe v Wade, ending a national guarantee to abortion access. 'Abortion is a winning issue,' said Elizabeth Nash, a policy analyst with the Guttmacher Institute, a prochoice research group. 'Voters want people to have bodily autonomy and agency over their lives. That is pretty core to being an American.' This is the highest number of ballot initiatives ever held on abortion in a single US election, following the Supreme Court's decision earlier this year to overturn Roe v Wade--ending the federal guarantee of abortion rights. Across the country on Tuesday, one in four voters said abortion was their top issue when deciding how to vote, according to a Reuters exit poll. And according to Pew Research, 61% of Americans think that abortion should be legal in all or most cases." (Abortion Election Results: Kentucky Rejects Constitutional Amendment On Abortion by Holly Honderich). The victory of the Christian right in the Dobbs ruling, eliminating a federal constitutional right to obtain an abortion, gave strength and vitality to the Democrats and halted a Republican movement to a walkover victory. Without this court decision, a walkover would have been inevitable, given the massive waves of inflation, violent crime and illegal immigration unleashed by Joe Biden:" 'Generation Z voters actually did turn out,' Jon Taylor, a political science professor at the University of Texas-San Antonio told the BBC. 'Had the Supreme Court not overturned Roe v Wade back in June, the Democrats wouldn't have had that to energize voters, given the dynamics of issues related to crime, immigration or inflation. It actually helped the Democrats stave off that Red Wave.' " (US Midterms: Why A Republican 'Wave' Never Happened by Bernd Debusmann and Natalie Sherman). Listen to America's premier communist personality express a debt of gratitude to the Christian right. Listen to Michael Moore, whose documentary films purport to show that capitalism is a system of war, terror, dictatorship, totalitarian control, school massacres, health care deprivation and impoverishment of the working class, and hear him expose the truth that in America's midterm elections, communism ran against the Dobbs ruling and communism won: "I knew that night when I went to bed on Supreme Court night, June 24th, I just—boy, I just relaxed. I thought, well, oh my god, there goes the red wave. You've told the majority gender —not a small clique or not a small section of society—you've told the majority gender that we're going to have an apartheid situation here, where the majority is going to be told by the minority how you're going to live your life." (Interview with Michael Moore on The Beat, MSNBC, November 1 2022). Peddling official explanations of the underperformance of the Republicans in the midterm elections, the Christian right is haunted by an elephant in the room. They see a monster which is themselves and refuse to say its name. This creature, cruel, wicked, blinded by faith and irredeemably insane, has confronted its twin brother, communism, and fought it in the streets and at the polls. Together they have defeated liberal democracy and lowered the curtain on civilization.

RED SECRETARIES WRITE ESG

Shorthand is a method of symbolic writing which increases writing speed. A shorthand system consists of symbols and abbreviations for words which allow the stenographer to write as quickly as people speak. Shorthand notes are used for later typing, data entry or transcription into longhand. In the twenty first century, Satan's scribes have been hard at work transcribing the torrential flow of their master's words using the method of shorthand. Falling at lightning speed, in uncountable quantities, with overwhelming force and vigor, down the black rivers of mobocracy, the words and phrases of communism have been transcribed in contracted form as quickly as the master blasts them out. They are then typed and entered in ordinary language to produce new editions for the new millennium of Capital and the Communist Manifesto. Prior to 2005, popular shorthand renditions of communism included the terms stakeholder capitalism and mission related investing. In 2005, the United Nations coined a shorthand term for communism which has eclipsed all other terms in popularity. The world's premier global communist organization, headquartered in New York

but with capitals in rogue states throughout the world from Russia to China to Cuba to Iran, coined the term Environmental, Social and Corporate Governance to signify a movement of the reds to establish global communism and race politics in the twenty first century and compose the final chapter of Western civilization. The premier force for communist world destruction has coined the premier abbreviated form for its mission, and over the past two decades, the ESG movement has assumed control over global corporations and transformed them into spearheads of global revolution. ESG, three letters, three points of darkness, engulfing the shining legacies of the Enlightenment. Environmental: antindustrial climate activism. Social: class communism. Governance: race and gender communism demanding diversity quotas in the selection of corporate boards. The ESG movement has commanded that companies create a business environment which promotes communist virtues and rejects technological and industrial advancement in the name of combating global warming. The movement has commanded that companies preach a gospel of social justice which shouts down the cause of individual freedom. The movement has commanded that companies propagandize their employees and customers and indoctrinate people far and wide in the communist cause. Look at the ESG movement and see capital leveraged for communist revolution. The ESG movement has commanded that companies reject meritocracy and institutionalize racism and sexism beginning at the highest levels in the name of diversity, equity and inclusion. The movement has commanded that companies hire women and nonwhites without regard to whether they are the best and most qualified candidates. The movement has commanded that companies promote the dogmas of transgenderism and gender fluidity. The movement has commanded that companies teach the tenets of critical race theory to their employees. According to this theory, progressive politics is critical of the Enlightenment, elevates the group above the individual, and promotes an intersectional dictatorship of black communism, black fascism and black Marxism in place of reason and capitalism. Look at the ESG movement and see companies enact a charter of hatred of progress, hatred of freedom, and tribalist board quotas under banners marked environmental, social and corporate governance. See communism proselytized by big money and plastered across the pages of annual company reports. See the proclamation that a company administered in a competent manner is a company administered in an antibusiness and anticapitalist manner. See asset managers confine their activities to the acquisition, maintenance and trading of investments which promote gender, race and class politics. See investment decisions made on the basis of communist politics and not economic profitability. See communist proxies vote to hijack their companies and force them to land in enemy airfields manned by the watchtowers of political correctness. See financial research reject the principles of truth and objectivity and assume the character of a communist promotional campaign and investigation into heresies against the faith. See corporations given funds to churn out goods and services for the red combatants fighting on the front: "Companies are asked to take a leadership role by implementing environmental, social and corporate governance principles and policies and to provide information and reports on related performance in a more consistent and standardised format. They should identify and communicate key challenges and value drivers and prioritise environmental, social and governance issues accordingly. We believe that this information is best conveyed to financial markets through normal investor relation communication channels and encourage, when relevant, an explicit mention in the annual report of companies. Concerning the outcomes of financial research in this field, companies should accept positive as well as critical results. Investors are urged to explicitly request and reward research that includes environmental, social and governance aspects and to reward well managed companies. Asset managers are asked to integrate research on such aspects in investment decisions and to encourage brokers and companies to provide better research and information. Both investors and asset managers should develop and communicate proxy voting strategies on ESG issues as this will support analysts and fund managers in producing relevant research and services." (Who Cares Wins: Connecting Financial Markets To A Changing World, unepfi.org). Look at the ESG movement and see fiduciaries, sworn to place the interests of their clients above all other interests, violate their oath of service and advance the cause of red subversion. See investment decisions made on the basis of political ideology and not objective information. See asset managers abdicate their legal and ethical responsibilities and transform public pensions into public funds to finance the overthrow of free institutions: "As you know, the Attorney General 'is the chief law officer of the Commonwealth of Kentucky', and the State Treasurer is 'the head of the Department of the Treasury,' and as such, is responsible for assuring that the expenditures of the Commonwealth of Kentucky are paid in accordance with the Constitution and laws governing the Commonwealth. Recently, Treasurer Ball asked the Office of the Attorney General whether 'environmental, social and governance' (ESG) investment practices, which introduce mixed motivations to investment decisions, are consistent with Kentucky law governing fiduciary duties owed by investment managers to Kentucky's public pensions. The Attorney General opined that such practices violate statutory and contractual fiduciary duties. A copy of that opinion is enclosed. We write today to request that you, as the executive directors of the Commonwealth's major public pension systems, advise our Offices about your systems' efforts to ensure that ESG considerations are not being implemented in your systems' investment decisions, consistent with Kentucky law. Your response is essential to guaranteeing that politics has no place in Kentucky's public pensions. We look forward to hearing from you on or before November 23, 2022." (Letter from Daniel Cameron, attorney general of Kentucky, and Allison Ball, state treasurer of Kentucky, to David Eager, Executive Director Kentucky Public Pension Authority, and Gary L. Harbin, Kentucky Teachers' Retirement System, October 31, 2022). Look at the ESG movement and see financial companies violate their statutory and contractual obligations and promote a communist agenda. See corporate shareholders and public clients betrayed by secret communist forces. See climate crusaders peddle a narrative of global doomsday at the hands of the oil and gas industry and promote a policy of divestment and transitioning away from freedom and civilization: "The environmental, social and corporate governance (ESG) movement has produced an opaque and perverse system in which some financial companies no longer make decisions in the best interest of their shareholders or their clients, but instead use their financial clout to push a social and political agenda shrouded in secrecy. A diverse energy portfolio is necessary for Texas to meet our future energy needs, and a vibrant Texas oil and gas industry is a stabilizing force in today's economic and geopolitical environment. My greatest concern is the false narrative that has been created by the environmental crusaders in Washington, DC, and Wall Street that our economy can completely transition away from fossil fuels, when, in fact, they will be part of our everyday life into the foreseeable future. A complete divestment of the industry is not only impractical and illogical but runs counter to the economic well being of Texas and our citizens." (Statement by Glenn Hegar, Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts, August 24, 2022). In the twenty first century, the ESG movement has achieved ownership of fifty percent of global corporations. Communist control of methods, decisions, strategies, assets, equities, investments, profits, portfolios, shareholders and corporate governing bodies: a juggernaut marked ESG has lowered the curtain on the culture and economy of freedom.

TRANSGENDER WORLD AIRLINES

Howard Hughes was an American business magnate and among the richest and most influential people in the world. In 1939, Hughes acquired Trans World Airlines and under his leadership, TWA expanded to serve Europe, Asia and the Middle East, and became a flag carrier for America. At the Kennedy International Airport in New York City, on the east side of the TWA Flight Center, the original TWA sign still stands and still lights up the skies. The airline which Hughes led into iconic status is back in business in a radically new form and only the letters from its illustrious past remain. Only the letters, only the abbreviation, and these signify something radically different and something monstrous and grotesque. The flights, the routes and the worldwide reach of Hughes' epic creation are now operated by a spectral presence which subsumes every airline on the planet and overwhelms the commercial airspace with the terrifying roar of a new religion. Listen to the cry of engines fueled by psychosis and see a wild animal crisscross the planet, maul reason and sanity apart, and scatter the bloody remains below in the capital cities of the world. The new TWA stands for Transgender World Airlines and its management has enforced a diseased state of mind upon every steward, pilot, passenger and ground personnel in the world, and inscribed the words a civilization imploded, a civilization self destructed and a civilization crushed from within upon the tombstone of the West. Acclaimed as the Father of Medicine, the ancient Greek physician Hippocrates was the first to expose transgenderism. He called it the "disease of the Scythians", whose priests and soothsayers rejected their biological sex. During the period of decline of ancient Rome, transgenderism became a widespread and accepted belief. In the third century AD, Roman Emperor Elagabalus depilated, wore cosmetics and wigs, demanded to be called a lady instead of a lord, offered money to physicians who could provide him with female sex organs, and advertised himself as the mistress, wife and queen of his chariot driver Hierocles. In the twenty first century, transgenderism has returned to the spotlight, become an integral part of the establishment orthodoxy, and signaled that the present century will play the role of Rome's third century, and see a frightening descent into the high temperature marshlands of mental derangement and detachment from reality. It has been known for over a century that gender is determined by genes and is fixed and immutable. The work of Nettie Stevens and Edmund Wilson in 1905 discovered that males possess a pair of different sex chromosomes, an X chromosome and a Y chromosome, which determine this sex, while females possess two X chromosomes, which determine the female sex. These world renowned geneticists discovered that the X chromosome is exclusively present in the ovum, while the both X and Y chromosomes can be present in the sperm. Rejecting the findings of genetic research, transgenderism proclaims that gender can be changed by means of chemical and surgical treatment or by a simple declaration or belief that one is a member of the opposite sex. It proclaims that gender self identity is unconstrained by the facts of reality. It proclaims that it is not a symptom of mental illness to deny the evidence of the senses and the existence of sex chromosomes but a sign of mental health and enlightenment. It proclaims that human males and human females exist by virtue of choice, fiat and chemical and surgical interventions and not by virtue of genetic information. It proclaims that if a man says and believes he is a woman, then he is a woman, and if a woman says and believes she is a man, then she is a man. It proclaims that a man who dresses up as a woman is a woman, and a woman who dresses up as a man is a man. It proclaims that a progressive society is a transactivist society which allows transgender women and real women the same access to facilities and accommodations and allows them to compete against each other in sports events, and grants legal recognition to the claims of gender psychotics in the name of civil rights and equality: "This is a bizarre, deeply damaging moment we're living in, driven by a tiny minority of people suffering various forms of mental illness. There's a lot to say and lot to do and much to resist, but here's the bottom line at the present moment: Resist and reject 'gender self identity' in all spheres of life, including the law. That is to say: you are not a woman because you believe you are; you're not a man because you've decided you are. You're a woman because you are an adult human female. You're a man because you are an adult human male. You may be wearing a dress and a wig, but you are still a man. Adult human male. For this—the notion that one can simply decide one's gender and then merit treatment and rights on that score—is the root of most current trans activism, including political activism, embodied in this country in the so-called Equality Act, endorsed by all the current Democratic candidates for president and passed by the House last spring. (The Reality Of Sex And The Lie Of Gender Self Identity by Amy Welborn). Look at the world today and see men in drag proclaimed to be real women. See men who wear makeup and carry women's handbags granted legal recognition as real women. See the proclamation that psychotics who reject reality and seek to become the impossible, members of the opposite sex, should be proud, be themselves and be encouraged in all their efforts. See the proclamation that gender identity has nothing whatever to do with genes, gender, the findings of science or the facts of reality. See the proclamation that an individual who identifies with and promotes himself or herself as the opposite sex is in fact and in reality the opposite sex. See the proclamation that there are no real females or males, no actual ladies or gentlemen, but only gender fluidity and gender indetermination. See the airlines of the world fill the skies with the mantra diversity and inclusion and its frightening mascara of moral, psychological, cognitive and civilizational degeneration: "Male pilots will be allowed to wear make up, painted nails, and carry pocketbooks on British Airways as the UK's second largest airline carrier is set to transform its uniform rules. Following the introduction of so-called gender neutral uniforms by their competitor Virgin Atlantic, British Airways is apparently trying to out woke the Richard Branson airliner by allowing male pilots to wear makeup and don women's handbags. An internal briefing sent to staff seen by the Daily Mail this week said that they should 'be bold, be proud, be authentic, be yourself' and that BA hoped that the updated uniform standards would be 'embraced by everyone regardless of gender, gender identity, ethnicity, background, culture, sexual identity, or otherwise'. The new uniform rules will allow male pilots and cabin crew to wear a 'touch of mascara and lip color,' as well as wearing fake eyelashes and colored fingernails. Rules on the length of hair have also been loosened, with men now allowed to wear 'man buns'. Visible tattoos still remain prohibited, however, and the actual uniforms themselves will remain different between men and women. 'We are proud of all of our colleagues at British Airways and we are committed to an inclusive working environment,' a British Airways spokesman said. 'We have worked with our people to create updated guidelines for grooming, beauty and accessories, allowing our colleagues to bring the best, most authentic version of themselves to work every day.' The move comes after Richard Branson's Virgin Atlantic introduced gender neutral uniforms in September to allow staff to 'wear the clothing that expresses how they identify or present themselves'. British Airways had already embarked upon the woke path, with the airliner announcing last year that it had instructed its crews to not refer to passengers as 'ladies and gentlemen' in order to foster an ethos of 'diversity and inclusion'. This followed similar moves from the likes of Germany's Lufthansa, Britain's EasyJet, Air Canada, and Delta in the United States, all of whom have adopted woke language codes for the sky." (Male Pilots Will Be Allowed To Wear Makeup, Painted Nails And Carry Handbags On British Airways by Kurt Zindulka). Look at the world today and see official identification documents forged by governments themselves. See these documents identify males as females and females as males. See these documents feature so-called gender markers which mark nothing whatever, which refer to no biological realities in one's genes, and stand for nothing more than the currents of unreason and unreality which have blackened the age: "Going through airport security is never fun, but it can be particularly difficult for transgender people. In addition to universal annoyances (did you remember to take off your shoes?) transgender people may not have identification documents that match who they are. Many airlines require ticket holders to select 'male' or 'female' when purchasing a ticket, something that may conflict with identity documents from growing number of states that allow an X gender marker on things like driver's licenses." (Four Ways The Transportation Security Administration Is Making Flying Easier For Transgender People by Arli Christian). In January 2001, TWA filed for bankruptcy. On December 1, 2001, the airline flew its last flight in an aircraft named Wings Of Pride. When the flight landed in Las Vegas, Nevada, employees removed TWA signs and placards from airports throughout the country, and a seven decade long journey, whose glorious global chapters had been written by Howard Hughes, came to an end. The bankruptcy of TWA and its descent into shame would serve as a symbol and herald of the transgender bankruptcy and shame of the West.

THE SHADOW OF GEORGE SOROS

Professor James Moriarty is a criminal mastermind created by Arthur Conan Doyle to be the archenemy of the author's Sherlock Holmes. Moriarty uses his intelligence and resources to provide criminals with strategies and protection from the law. Called by Holmes the "Napoleon of crime", Moriarty is the spider at the center of an evil web who has sworn death and destruction to everything good and noble in the world. The fictional life of Moriarty ended in The Valley of Fear, the final Sherlock Holmes novel, published in 1915. A century later, the unravelling and disintegration of the West before the unrelenting hammer blows inflicted by mass politics has plucked Arthur Conan Doyle's fictional character from the pages of The Strand Magazine and placed him once again behind the scenes, controlling, organizing and funding the commission of crime. Founder and chairman of the Open Society Foundation, and called by Forbes magazine the "most generous giver in the world", George Soros was appointed by destiny to don the mantle of Arthur Conan Doyle's Prince of Darkness, and through his planning, directing and protecting, confer a level of aid and comfort to the red enemies of liberal democracy which they had never received before. Having a net worth of ten billion dollars, and having donated three times that figure to his global grantmaking foundation, George Soros has compiled a record of support for communism which has earned him a first line inscription on the tombstone of the West in the list of subversive forces who brought civilization down to the wild acclaim of the masses. Look at where the name of Soros appears and see devils at work with care and perseverance, undermining and overthrowing the traditions, institutions and legacies of the Enlightenment. Page One. George Soros has funded communist district attorneys across America who have reduced the nation's cities to war torn hellscape blazing with the flames of murder, mayhem and mass shoplifting. Look at Larry Krasner, district attorney of Philadelphia, and see skyrocketing shootings and carjackings, and the dereliction of duty to prosecute them, bankrolled by George Soros: "Larry Krasner has been the district attorney in Philadelphia for years already, and has been part of the movement among prosecutors to 'reform' criminal law. The results have shown, in his district, a 93% rise in fatal shootings from 2015 to 2020. Carjackings are at a record 1,000, just this year. So members of the GOP in the state legislature are promising to do something about that: impeach Krasner. Fox News reports Republicans in the state House have filed articles of impeachment against Krasner, one of the first progressive and 'reform' minded prosecutors funded by billionaire George Soros. 'We will do the right thing, where we do not believe the district attorney has,' explained Kerry Benninghoff, the majority leader in the House. A recent report on crime in the district explained, "[M]ost troubling to the Select Committee is what happens after arrests are made—the District Attorney Office's prosecution, or lack thereof." (GOP Moves To Impeach Philadelphia's Controversial 'Soros District Attorney', by World Net Daily staff, October 27, 2022). Look at Chesa Boudin, district attorney of San Francisco, and see an epidemic of robberies, car thefts, burglaries and break ins, and the unwillingness to defend the public against them, bankrolled by George Soros: "Chesa Boudin, the radical left wing San Francisco district attorney on whose watch San Francisco has become a crime infested, Caracas like hellhole, is starting to draw criticism from crime victims for his unwillingness to prosecute crimes. The Soros funded stepson of Bill Ayers, who spent his youth as Hugo Chavez's adviser, has always been a slippery, ambitious character. The little local paper, The Marina Times, says: 'Boudin's lack of prosecutions is fueling a burglary epidemic. Boudin's term started with a 23% leap in robberies and upticks in burglaries and car break ins. After the March 16th Covid-19 shutdown, with retail stores closing and tourists and rental cars disappearing, criminals transitioned to stealing cars, starting fires and committing burglaries. Through the shutdown, as of September 1st, burglaries exploded up 57.6% over the same period last year. (Year to date homicides are up 33% under Boudin).' " (SF DA Chesa Boudin Surveys Crime Victims On How To Make Life Easier For Their Attackers by Monica Showalter). Look at George Gascon, district attorney of Los Angeles, and see waves of looting and violence, and a policy that black criminals be excused from serving jail time and be allowed to commit their crimes with impunity, bankrolled by George Soros: "In Los Angeles, where critics say that criminal justice reforms have recently led to a wave of looting and violent crimes, George Soros funneled more than $2.5 million into a California political action committee to support Gascon, who left the San Francisco District Attorney's office to run against incumbent Jackie Lacey in 2020. The Cuban born Gascon, who moved with his family to the US in 1967, said in his December 2020 inauguration speech that the rush to 'incarcerate generations of kids of color' had torn the 'social fabric of our communities. The status quo hasn't made us safe.' " (How George Soros Funded Progressive 'Legal Arsonist' DAs Behind US Crime Surge by Isabel Vincent). Page Two. George Soros has condemned capitalism as a system of white supremacy and bankrolled Black Lives Matter. This movement proclaims that a progressive society is a tribal society formed from the intersections of race, gender and class. It is a society ruled by black communist gays, lesbians, transgenders, hoodlums, fugitives, outcasts, illegal migrants and the poor, united by a hatred of reason and freedom and a desire to storm the ramparts of civilization. Look at George Soros and see a billionaire's donations support race and gender Marxists in their war against the West: "Black Lives Matter has called for a boycott against 'white capitalism,' according to its website, asking supporters to not spend money at 'white corporations' between November 25 and January 1. Former Milwaukee County Sheriff David Clarke on Friday said that George Soros has 'hijacked' the Black Lives Matter organization in order to promote anticapitalism. 'This has George Soros funding written all over it, his movement, the anticapitalism movement, has hijacked Black Lives Matter and they use them as a mask. They figured that coming out of the 60s when they failed with this movement, they felt that they were too white and they needed to add color,' he said. Billionaire investor George Soros has donated millions of dollars to Black Lives Matter through his Open Society Foundation, according to the Washington Times." (Black Lives Matter Has Been Hijacked by George Soros: Sheriff Clarke by FoxBusiness, December 15, 2017). Page Three. George Soros has condemned Israel because it is a capitalist state and bankrolled its enemies across America. Look at a communist billionaire and watch him tell the world that he is very critical of Israel, very critical of freedom and very critical of Western liberal democratic order. Watch him empty his pockets and direct his billions in support of Palestinian terror and the evangelists of human enslavement. Watch one of the world's wealthiest men ramp up his six digit money presses and unleash a torrent of funding for those who worship at the altars of the fearsome religion of the reds, born from the gutters of hatred and discontent. Advocating Palestinian race war and Palestinian class war to overthrow the Jewish nation of liberty, leaders, activists and influencers bankrolled by George Soros' billions have launched a campaign to abuse, disparage, defame and destroy an outpost of civilization, an island called Israel, amidst of a wasteland of Arab tyranny in the Middle East: "He's Jewish, but George Soros is no friend to Israel. The radical billionaire told the New York Times in 2006 he is 'very critical of Israel.' That's an understatement. The Israeli government has blasted the deep pocketed philanthropist for 'funding organizations that defame the Jewish state.' And former US Ambassador to Israel David Friedman says Soros has done 'more to vilify the state of Israel than almost any individual on the face of the earth.' One of the world's wealthiest men, Soros has used his philanthropy to steer the American Jewish community away from its traditional support for Israel. He helped launch J Street, a left wing, Palestinian friendly Jewish lobby now positioned as an alternative to the American Israel Political Action Committee (AIPAC), the long recognized proIsrael powerhouse. And Soros is also using his wealth to distance evangelicals—long the leading proIsrael constituency in the US—from the Jewish state. For a decade, Soros has been giving six figure grants to the Telos Group, which takes evangelical influencers on expense paid tours to Israel and brings 'Israeli and Palestinian leaders and activists' to speak in the US. As I show in my new booklet, Hijacked: How George Soros And Friends Exploit Your Church, Soros has been an angel investor for Telos. He gave it half of its start up funding in its first three years, a total of $713,500. And Soros pumped another $1.6 million into Telos from 2012 to 2019. " (Soros' Cash Helps 'Flip' Evangelicals Away From Israel by John Aman). Page Four. George Soros has bankrolled a campaign to prevent Donald Trump from running for president in 2024. Look at a billionaire red campaigner and see an organized course of action to shred the constitution. The nation's supreme law of the land states that individuals who have engaged in an insurrection against the United States are disqualified to run for president. Communists have accused Donald Trump of leading an insurrection on January 6, 2021 to overturn the results of the 2020 presidential election. Donald Trump did not engage in an insurrection against the United States, because on January 6, 2021, the day when the American people, led by Trump, stormed the Capital in an attempt to stop the certification of the 2020 presidential election, the Supreme Court had abdicated its responsibility to enforce the right to vote in free and fair elections. In State of Texas v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, State of Georgia, State of Michigan, and State of Wisconsin, the Supreme Court banged the gavel and dismissed the rule of law: "Texas lacks Article III standing to sue other states over how they conduct their own elections. Case dismissed." Legal scholars were left aghast at the court's ruling because they knew that every state and every citizen in the nation suffers injury, and has standing to sue, when any state violates the constitution and changes its election rules, as Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan and Wisconsin had done, without the consent of the legislature. The necessity for such consent is stipulated in Article I of their constitution: "The Times, Places and Manner of holding Elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof." Donald Trump did not engage in an insurrection against the United States, because on January 6, 2021, the day when the American people, led by Trump, stormed the Capital in an attempt to stop the certification of the 2020 presidential election, Vice President Mike Pence had abdicated his responsibility to send fraudulent electoral votes back to the states for recertification. Affidavits, depositions, surveillance footage, mobile phone data and records of hacked voting machines collected throughout the nation which indicated beyond all reasonable doubt a rigged and stolen election, together with the enforcement of state election rules which had never received the constitutionally mandated state legislative approval, demanded a state by state recount of the electoral votes received by Pence. The authority of the vice president to send fraudulent votes back to the states is set forth in Twelfth Amendment to the constitution: "The President of the Senate shall [vice president], in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted." Votes which are fraudulent are votes in name only and to count them is to count nothing. The vice president has the duty to count votes and not nullities masquerading as votes, and has the corresponding duty to reject such nullities and send them back to the states. Donald Trump did not engage in an insurrection against the United States because on January 6, 2021, the day when the American people, led by Trump, stormed the Capital in an attempt to stop the certification of the 2020 presidential election, the United States had ceased to exist in all but name and had become an unconstitutional regime which rejected all peaceful means of redress of grievances. Look at George Soros' billion dollar funding of communist agents in state governments in a campaign to protect an unconstitutional national government, give aid and comfort to the enemies of the constitution, and prevent the rightful winner of the 2020 presidential election from running again: "Billionaire activist George Soros is funding a group urging secretaries of state and other elections officials to ban Trump from running for president in 2024 by enacting the disqualification clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. The group Free Speech For People, teaming with Mi Familia Vota, states on its website that on January 6, 2021, 'former President Donald Trump incited a violent insurrection, attacking Congress and our nation's Capitol, in an effort to overturn the results of the 2020 election.' The post Civil War clause bars anyone from running for office who after taking the oath to protect the Constitution 'engaged in insurrection' against the United States or gave 'aid or comfort' to the nation's enemies." (Soros vs Trump: Groups Push Officials To Ban Donald's 2024 Bid by Art Moore). The word philanthropy is derived from two Greek words: philein, meaning "love", and anthropos, meaning "mankind". Philanthropists donate money to individuals in need in order to advance human welfare, security and happiness. Lavishing billions of dollars on the many faces of communism and its many masks, George Soros has disgraced a practice sanctified by centuries.

ELECTION FRAUD IN BRAZIL

They are the largest protests the world has ever seen. Tens of millions of people throng cities big and small throughout the nation. On Republic Day, celebrating the end of the reign of Emperor Pedro II, Rio de Janeiro and Brasilia are overwhelmed with people on the streets. This is Brazil, and it has been convulsed by outraged citizens since October 30, 2022, the date of a runoff election between President Jair Bolsonaro and Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva. It has been thrown into violent upheaval because of the electoral fraud which had taken place on that day which gave victory to the communist candidate. It has been thrown into upheaval because the communists illegally assumed presidential power. It has been thrown into upheaval because hundreds of electronic ballot boxes did not contain a single vote for Bolsonaro, while five million paper ballots for Bolsonaro had been discarded. It has been thrown into upheaval because the Minister of Defense, Paulo Sergio Nogueira de Oliveira, sent a report on electoral fraud to the Supreme Electoral Tribunal. The report stated that Lula da Silva rode into power on the black wings of fraudulent systems, fraudulent codes, fraudulent programs, fraudulent voting machines and the fraudulent interventions of red partisans. The report stated that an investigation would reveal the operations of communist foul play which brought the wheels of democracy to a grinding halt: "The report did not exclude the possibility of the existence of fraud or inconsistency in the electronic voting machines or in the 2022 electoral process. There was a possible security risk in the generation of programs in electronic voting machines due to the occurrence of computers accessing the TSE [Supreme Electoral Tribunal] network during the compilation of the source code. The restrictions imposed on its investigators made it impossible to examine the entire coding of the machines. The tests used on the machines were also not enough to rule out the possibility of the influence of a possible malicious code capable of altering the functioning of the voting system. As a result of these findings and other obstacles listed in the report, it is not possible to guarantee that the programs executed in the electronic voting machines are free from malicious insertions that alter their functioning. The TSE should with urgency launch a second round of technological investigation to ensure that the machine coding is clean." (Report Of The Armed Forces Does Not Exclude The Possibility Of Fraud Or Inconsistency In Electronic Ballot Boxes, Ministry of Defense, November 10, 2022). Look at the 2022 presidential election in Brazil and see in operation the communist politics of personal destruction blasted at Jair Bolsonaro. See the Supreme Electoral Tribunal suppress Bolsonaro's exposure of Lula da Silva's record of corruption, while it allows Lula da Silva to slander Bolsonaro and poison the channels of mass communication. See the Supreme Electoral Tribunal shut down media platforms and messaging groups which have organized protests against an election rigged and stolen by communists. See a communist ex-president allowed run for office again when he should not under the law be allowed to run owing to his criminal convictions for corruption. See cities throughout the nation explode into protests at the fraudulent election and demand the intervention of the military to restore the rule of law. See national outrage and a clarion call for revolution against a communist regime of censorship, attack on election integrity, illegal installation of a president, and destruction of constitutional government: "The Armed Forces of Brazil concluded an audit of the 2022 presidential election this week that neither confirmed nor denied the existence of any irregularities in the race. In a statement on Thursday, however, the Defense Ministry emphasized that its report had not 'excluded the possibility of fraud.' Brazil concluded one of the world's dirtiest presidential races on October 30 between incumbent conservative Jair Bolsonaro and far left radical former President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva. Lula narrowly defeated Bolsonaro in the first round of voting in early October, but did not avoid a runoff, which he also won by about two million votes, or less than two percent, on October 30. Lula had accused Bolsonaro of 'pedophile behavior' and his campaign had branded Bolsonaro a cannibal during the runoff portion of the race. Lula is a convicted felon, sentenced to over twenty years in prison for corruption crimes allegedly committed while he was president between 2003 and 2011, but the nation's supreme court overturned the sentence on a technicality last year, allowing him to run for the commander in chief position. The court, the Supreme Federal Tribunal (STF), has never presented exonerating evidence or challenged evidence indicating Lula used bribe money to buy a luxury beachfront duplex while president. The nation's electoral oversight body, the STF controlled Superior Electoral Tribunal (TSE), banned Bolsonaro's campaign from referring to Lula as 'corrupt' or a 'thief,' but did not censor Lula's unsubstantiated claims that Bolsonaro is a 'pedophile.' The results of the election have prompted ongoing protests nationwide demanding a military intervention to prevent Lula from taking office on the grounds that TSE interference rendered the election unfair. The TSE has since moved to shut down social media accounts and messaging groups being used to organize protests. ProBolsonaro protesters have expressed a variety of concerns with the election. Outrage over TSE censorship and demands to rein in the STF through constitutional measures coexist alongside protesters who challenge the integrity of the elections or the functioning of the voting machines. Other protesters have stated they would not accept a criminal president and reject the STF's overturning of Lula's conviction. A minority of protesters have called for a military coup outside of the confines of the Brazilian constitution." (Brazil: Military Says There Was a 'Possible Security Risk' In Presidential Election Voting System by Frances Martel). Look at the 2022 presidential election in Brazil and see the Superior Election Tribunal shut down social media chat groups which have organized roadblocks to stop a communist juggernaut. See a nation take to the streets to protest against an election arranged by communists. See cities erupt in anger, shock and indignation at the communist manufacture of votes for Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva. See honest working people take to the streets and demand the intervention of the law to right a wrong and restore a rightful candidate to office. See patriotic, law abiding citizens demand the intercession of the military to stop the theft of an election because peaceful means of redress had been exhausted. See fighters for the republic gather together by the millions in opposition to the election of an illegitimate president. This is a candidate who under the law cannot run for office because he was convicted of using money from bribes to buy luxury property while president. See a communist regime illegally allow him to run, voiding on purely jurisdictional and not evidentiary grounds the criminal conviction which would normally prevent him from running, then fabricate his electoral victory, and then silence as fake news the voices of those who have come out to demonstrate against such lawlessness emanating from the highest courts in the land: "Multiple newspapers in Brazil reported on Friday that the Superior Electoral Tribunal (TSE), the nation's top election authority, had spent much of the week working to dismantle conservative chat groups on Whatsapp and Telegram in an attempt to 'demobilize' massive nationwide roadblocks and protests. Tens of thousands of conservatives in nearly every major city of Brazil have taken to the streets this week to protest the results of Sunday's presidential election, in which convicted criminal Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva defeated incumbent conservative President Jair Bolsonaro by about two million votes. Lula, a hardline socialist who served as president between 2003 and 2011, received 50.9 percent of the vote to Bolsonaro's 49.1 percent. Bolsonaro supporters are demanding a constitutional 'federal intervention' to keep Lula from taking over. Some have convened outside of military offices, including the top headquarters in Brasilia, demanding a military coup. The 'federal intervention' supporters argue that, as a convicted felon, Lula should never have legally been allowed on the ballot. Lula was convicted in 2017 of taking bribes while in office as president and, after multiple appeals, sentenced to more than 20 years in prison. Last year, the Supreme Federal Tribunal (STF), the nation's top court, overturned the condition on procedural grounds, failing to exonerate Lula with any new evidence showing he did not commit the crimes in question. As no one has challenged the evidence against Lula, opponents contend that he was never a legitimate presidential candidate. According to O Globo, the TSE, led by supreme court justice and anti 'fake news' crusader Alexandre de Moraes, began moving on Tuesday to take down proBolsonaro chat groups on Whatsapp and Telegram in an attempt to limit the ability of conservatives to organize roadblocks and protests. The largest group taken down identified by O Globo was a Telegram chat titled Super Grupo B-38 Oficial, which at the time of its demise contained 59,000 users. (Brazil Court Shuts Down Pro Bolsonaro Whatsapp, Telegram Chats To Contain Protests by Frances Martel). On November 15th, 1889, a nation was born. On this day, Marshal Deodoro da Fonseca led a coup against the Portuguese Empire and forced Emperor Dom Pedro II to abdicate. On this day, the flag of freedom and independence was unfurled and the Republic of Brazil was proclaimed. On October 30, 2022, this flag was lowered, violated, desecrated and hurled into the dustbin of history. A fearsome and terrifying movement of the disgruntled and the discontented had now overrun the freedom and independence of Brazil. The name of this movement was the Workers' Party. Its flag was the red flag and red stars of communism. Its banners proclaimed "we are committed to antimonopolist, antilatifundo and antiimperialist change as part of a long term strategy to construct an alternative to capitalism" and "capitalism and private property cannot provide a future for humanity". Its leader was Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva. Gaining power through the cyber and paper manipulation of ballots, Lula da Silva's opposition was President Jair Bolsonaro, leader of the Liberal Party, which championed capitalism, close relations with Israel, America and the West, and a policy of meritocracy which rejects affirmative action. The opposition Lula da Silva had vanquished through an unfree and unfair election was the Brazil built up by people determined to secure civilization amidst the primitive, savage, scorching plains of the Pampas.

AMERICA: NOVEMBER 1620 TO NOVEMBER 2020. RIP

On November 21, 1620, a compact was signed on board a ship launched from Europe headed for the New World. It was a compact signed by the passengers of the Mayflower who were fleeing persecution in England. When the Puritans seeking refuge from King James I anchored in Provincetown Harbor, in Cape Cod, Massachusetts, a new nation was born, ferried into existence by a government conceived in liberty. This nation would endure for four hundred years until it finally crashed and burned in November 2020, when the enemies of liberty, in ascendancy for a century, installed a regime by force and fraud, and put up the tombstone of America. This tombstone marked the end of a four hundred year lifespan which saw the American masses declare war on the Age of Enlightenment and dismantle the institutions of constitutional government. This rejection of freedom was destined to occur because it has occurred with clockwork regularity in civilizations throughout history. It is an iron law of human events that when the masses are in the saddle, freedom gets ridden off into the sunset. It happened in ancient Rome, when in 49 BC Julius Caesar led the masses to cross the Rubicon, ignite a civil war, and install a welfare state, an administrative state, an executive state, a confiscatory taxation state, and a bread and circuses state as dictators for life; to establish a regime from which there would be no return, no turning back, into the glorious past of Roman freedom and constitutionalism; and to install an empire of tyranny whose final, degenerate phase would bring forth the triumph of two alien forces, the Christian religion and German barbarism, upon the ruins of the Classical world. The iteration in America of the masses' perennial rejection of freedom was a tragedy of epic proportions because this New World creation of the Pilgrims and the Puritans would expand to become the world's foremost fortress and arsenal of freedom, and demarcate with unbreachable borders a region known as the Free World. America's rejection of freedom commenced in the early years of the twentieth century and has been accelerating into free fall since that time. Look at what the masses have wrought over the past one hundred years and see the history of the nation come to an end. Look at the masses' premier newspaper, The New York Times, and see its longform report, the 1619 Project, peddle communism under the guise of journalism and proclaim that the founding fathers and founding documents of America were nooses of racist, capitalist exploitation and oppression of blacks. See the Declaration of Independence cast to the winds by the followers of Hegelian philosophy who worshiped the state as Mind, Soul, God and the Absolute on Earth. See communism peddled as progressivism and championed by Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Franklin Roosevelt and by every president after Roosevelt, whose administrations have been nothing more than footnotes and asterisks on Roosevelt's New Deal. See the right to private property swept away by the tides of class war and "soaking the rich". See the masses vote to possess benefits of great value, vote to enact free education, free health care and a free guaranteed income, to be financed by the taxation of their indoctrinated neighbors with a religion of social responsibility. See a process of political evolution at work bearing the most evil progeny imaginable. Commencing in the womb of Marxism, this is a movement from the simple to the complex, from the undifferentiated to the differentiated, from a fearsome premise, the premise of group identity, to a terrifying conclusion, and it brought forth from the swamplands of class politics a triple headed monster breathing the fires of gender, race and class. See the progeny of Marxism, the race Marxists of black power and the gender Marxists of male hating feminism, form paramilitary forces and academic fifth columns and take over America's streets and classrooms. Listen to the voice of class Marxism and hear it proclaim that the source of all wealth resides in society, in the state, in the government, and in the masses around the corner and down the line who have shown beyond the shadow of a doubt that the only effort is group effort, the only initiative is group initiative, the only mind is a group mind and the only action is group action. Hear it proclaim that everybody and anybody on earth makes wealth appear, everybody and anybody except the single, sole, solitary individual: "If you were successful, somebody along the line gave you some help. There was a great teacher somewhere in your life. Somebody helped to create this unbelievable American system that we have that allowed you to thrive. Somebody invested in roads and bridges. If you've got a business, you didn't build that. Somebody else made that happen. The Internet didn't get invented on its own. Government research created the Internet so that all the companies could make money off the Internet." (Speech by President Barack Obama in Roanoke, Virginia, July 13, 2012). Listen to the voice of race Marxism and hear it proclaim that a progressive society

institutionalizes discrimination against white people. Hear it proclaim that a progressive society promotes affirmative action for black power. Hear it proclaim that a progressive society prevents white people from being hired for jobs. Hear it proclaim that a progressive society has brought the history of liberalism to an end by the legalization of racial discrimination. Hear it proclaim that a progressive society is a Blacks First society which has consigned whites to a Siberia of civil nonexistence. Hear it proclaim that a progressive society is an unconstitutional society which judges people on the basis of race and gives preferential treatment to blacks. Hear it proclaim that a progressive society rejects the selection of individuals on the basis of their ability and establishes selection on the basis of race. Hear it proclaim that a progressive society is an exclusionary society which has reduced whites to the status of a subaltern race. Hear it proclaim that a progressive society is a racist, fascist, national socialist society which has blanketed its streets and buildings in forests of fearsome swastikas which are spelled out in the words diversity, equity and inclusion, and blocked out the noonday sun of freedom and enlightenment: "A federal lawsuit has been filed against Texas A&M University over diversity policies for employment that allegedly discriminate against white and Asian men. 'Texas A&M University has also established faculty hiring lines that are reserved exclusively for members of 'underrepresented' (read: nonAsian) racial minorities', the lawsuit states. The class action lawsuit was filed in federal court Saturday by Richard Lowrey who argues that the university's affirmative action policies have blocked him from being hired as a result of him being white. Lowrey is an associate professor of finance at University of Texas at Austin. 'History is being made today,' America First Legal President Stephen Miller, whose organization is representing Lowrey, said in a statement. 'America First Legal has filed a landmark class action lawsuit against Texas A&M University for its illegal and unconstitutional racial discrimination regime. Texas A&M is hiring—and excluding—professors solely due to the physical appearance of their skin or the ancestry of their family tree.' Lowrey's lawyers said that 'these discriminatory, illegal, and antimeritocratic practices have been egged on by woke ideologues who populate the so-called diversity, equity, and inclusion offices at public and private universities throughout the United States.' Referencing Title VI and Title IX and their race and sex discrimination clauses, the lawsuit continues to say, 'university administrators think they can flout these federal statutes with impunity because no one ever sues them over their discriminatory faculty hiring practices and the Department of Education looks the other way.' " (Federal Lawsuit Filed Against Texas A&M For Allegedly Discriminating Against White, Asian Men by Breccan Thies). Listen to the voice of gender Marxism and hear it proclaim that women are oppressed by the capitalist system and its private ownership of property. Hear it proclaim that the liberation of women can only be achieved by the abolition of gender blind justice and the jailing of the male population on false sexual assault charges. These charges are unproven, uncorroborated, based upon the word of accusers and upon nothing else, involve allegations of improper touching without the use of force or violence, involve incidents which allegedly occurred decades before the filing of charges, and involve incidents which allegedly occurred before the onset of consensual relations with the accused, which were admitted by the accuser. Listen to the voice of transgenderism and hear it proclaim that the findings of science, reaching back over a century, that gender is determined by sex chromosomes and is fixed and immutable, must be rejected because they are incompatible with the progressive ideology which says that gender can be changed by means of chemical and surgical treatment or by a simple declaration or belief that one is a member of the opposite sex.

Listen to the voices of America's Marxist environmentalists and hear them proclaim that human industrial activity is bringing about catastrophic climate change. It is emitting dangerous quantities of greenhouse gases into the atmosphere which are causing deserts, wildfires and heatwaves to expand across the planet and pushing all life into extinction. Hear them proclaim this in the face of scientific data establishing that over the centuries, while the level of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere has steadily risen, global temperatures have oscillated. As in Rome, so in America, and the forces of religion and barbarism which vanquished Rome have returned. They have been placed 10,000 kilometers away from their original site in Europe, placed on a new continent in the New World, placed by the spinning wheel of history. Along with the new barbarians of gender, race, class and radical environmentalism, a resurgent Christianity has invaded America. It has assumed control over its highest court and burned the constitution at the stake. In its landmark ruling Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, the Supreme Court banged the gavel and breached the constitutionally mandated wall of separation between church and state: "The Constitution does not confer a right to abortion; Roe and Casey are overruled; and the authority to regulate abortion is returned to the people and their elected representatives." (Decided June 24, 2022). The Supreme Court ruled that states are allowed to enforce religion and to declare that human personhood appears when it is not observed to appear, appears at the moment of conception, and to declare that the abortion of a zygote, a diploid cell, a fertilized ovum at the moment of fusion is the murder of a baby. On November 3, 2020, an election without precedent in the history of America was held. It was without precedent because surveillance footage of ballot stash houses and drop boxes, together with geotracking data gathered from mobile phone apps throughout the nation, established beyond a shadow of a doubt that the victory of Joe Biden had been manufactured. The evidence established the theft of an election by a communist movement which had assumed control over the establishment and through its theft consigned the government brought by the Pilgrims to the dustbin of failed states. Led by the masses, a double envelopment of America, a pincer movement of Christians and Marxists, has attacked the present day center of Western civilization and brought it to a fiery close.

RICHARD BRANSON'S RED CONGLOMERATE

In March 2000, he was knighted by Buckingham Palace for his "services to entrepreneurship". In 2007, he was placed on Time magazine's list of 100 Most Influential People In The World. In July 2021, Forbes listed his worth at six billion dollars. He is known as the founder of the Virgin Group, a multinational, multiindustry company embracing music, retail sales, passenger trains, airplanes and spaceflight. Freedom fighters unclouded by his occupational achievements see him in a deeper light. They see British billionaire and tycoon Richard Branson as a preeminent global business figure whose services to the cause of communism have spread across land, air, sea and space and hold shares in every nation on the planet. They see Sir Richard as a global holding company, a worldwide controlling entity, and an international producer of goods and services marked revolution whose labels and brands have broadcast the revelations of his red masters into every home, school, shop, office and transport vehicle in the world, and placed him atop the planet manning a radio tower pulsating with agitation and propaganda twenty four hours per day, three hundred and sixty five days per year. Richard Charles Nicholas Branson, Knight of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, whose franchise is Earth itself and whose mission is the abolition of free societies across its surface. Listen to the worldwide, round the clock, corporate transmissions of Richard Branson and hear him oppose Brexit. The European Union which Branson supports is a continental lash of communist mass migration, communist business regulations and courts of communist justice which have stampeded into, asphyxiated, banged the gavel upon and dismissed Europe's traditions and institutions of liberal order and freedom: " 'If they think they can betray Brexit—and frankly, they probably have already, really, immigration still running at record levels, the English Channel, where they're not prepared to lift a finger and take us out of the [European Court of Human Rights] and get Brexit done properly; the lack of opportunities for British fishermen; the fact that our millions of businesses have not seen ludicrous EU rules removed—I think the truth of it is the Tories never really believed in Brexit, they just went with it in 2019 for political opportunity.' " (Comeback King Farage Threatens To 'Obliterate' Tories Over Brexit Betrayal by Jack Montgomery, quoting Nigel Farage). Listen to the worldwide, round the clock, corporate transmissions of Richard Branson and hear him proclaim that people who supported the restoration of British freedom through Brexit are racist, fascist right wingers and their will must be resisted and thwarted by the holding of a second referendum: "Richard Branson has congratulated Prime Minister Theresa May for 'standing up' to the 'extreme right wing' of her party by stopping a clean Brexit, saying he would 'dearly love's a second referendum.'" (Billionaire Branson Congratulates May For Stopping Clean, No Deal Brexit by Victoria Friedman). Listen to the worldwide, round the clock, corporate transmissions of Richard Branson and hear him support Joe Biden: "Wishing the very best of luck to President Biden, Vice President Harris, their families and their teams. After an inspiring inauguration showcasing the power of unity, including Amanda Gorman's breathtaking poem, how wonderful to see the new Administration immediately putting their words into action. President Biden issued 17 directives, from rejoining the Paris climate accord to new measures to tackle COVID-19, that will begin to make a positive difference to people's lives. A new day in America, indeed." (Joe Biden's Leadership Lessons by Richard Branson). Supported by Richard Branson, the Paris climate accord is predicated upon the theory of man made global warming. This theory is promoted in the face of scientific findings that global temperatures throughout history have shown no connection to levels of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere. The findings have demonstrated that global warming and cooling cycles, such as the Medieval Warming Period and the Little Ice Age which followed, were caused by solar activity and occurred independently of carbon dioxide emissions: "So, the amount of CO2 in the atmosphere, over the long run, is an effect, and not a cause, of temperatures and lags behind the climate by about 500-800years. This is backed up by observable scientific data. On the scale of decades over the last hundred or so years, and in spite of what climate alarmists claim, CO2 has been steadily rising while temperatures have oscillated--half the time moving with CO2 and half against. Over a longer period, ice core data shows that CO2 levels, smoothed over centuries, FOLLOW world CLIMATE temperatures by about 500-800years. The current increase in CO2 levels in the last one hundred years is an after effect of the medieval warm period. This took place around 500-800 years ago and was warmer than our current period, despite having fewer people burning fewer fossil fuels, by about one degree worldwide, or at least two degrees in parts of temperate zones The Sun rules the climate! Previous Little Ice Ages all occurred when solar activity was low—for example, the Maunder Minimum (~1645-1715) and Dalton Minimum (~1790-1830). Yes, the sun, that big ball in the sky, is far more important for the climate than we are. " (Man Made Climate Change Does Not Exist by Piers Corbyn). Supported by

Richard Branson, Joe Biden's executive order that employees in private businesses receive a covid vaccination was an unAmerican and unconstitutional expansion of the government into the lives of the people and the imposition of a dictatorship without basis in right, law, morality or science: "The Supreme Court's strikedown of the Biden Administration's unconstitutional vaccine mandate is a huge win for businesses across Central Washington and the entire country. The fight is far from over, however. President Biden's Executive Order requiring vaccinations for all federal employees and contractors at the threat of termination remains in place--and it goes too far. Hundreds of federal workers in Washington state whose livelihoods are threatened by these dictatorial policies deserve safe, and scientific, options besides termination or vaccination. That is why I urge my colleagues to support my legislation, the Options Over Terminations Act to provide an exemption to the Federal COVID-19 vaccine mandate for any federal employee or contractor who provides proof of COVID-19 antibodies. While I continue to encourage anyone who is able to do so to get vaccinated, it simply is not constitutional--or effective--to impose expansive one size fits all mandates. Yesterday's decision reiterates the need for President Biden to stop dictating and start leading with smart, science based alternatives to overreaching mandates." (Press Release from Representative Dan Burton). Listen to the worldwide, round the clock, corporate transmissions of Richard Branson and hear him promote the communist line that capitalism is a system of lynch mob justice whose target is blacks. Hear him promote the communist line that blacks must be granted a license to kill, steal and spread terror in the streets in the name of criminal justice reform. Hear him promote the communist line that murderers possess indefeasible human dignity and never deserve to die. Hear him promote the communist line that black people convicted of murder and sentenced to die have been convicted and sentenced by a racist legal system and must be acquitted and set free. Hear him proclaim that a progressive corporation is a red army whose banners read man made climate change, capitalism is racism, oppression and exploitation, and black liberation necessitates a regime of black power, and whose outcome and bottom line is world revolution and the dismantling of industrial and technological civilization: "Jena McGregor: Why should business leaders care about the death penalty? Richard Branson: We are human beings. We're fathers. We're grandparents. We should care not just about the death penalty but we should care about criminal justice reform. We should care about drug reform. We should care about climate change. We should care about a lot of things. We should use the positions we find ourselves in to do everything we can to make a difference where we can. If you go back to the generation before my generation, business leaders just thought about the bottom line. Business leaders would have been criticized by their public shareholders for not just thinking about the bottom line. I like to think that by people like myself and others getting out there and speaking out on these issues-- that has helped other business leaders have the permission to also be outspoken. McGregor: What's the business case for working to address the death penalty, other than the moral argument? Branson: For me, it's the moral argument. But the business argument we will use for a Republican who is on the fence is we'll say it's three times cheaper to keep somebody in prison than to execute them. Those are the facts. Those kinds of arguments the team will use where necessary. I personally got involved in quite a few individual cases in America and it's frightening how many of those people who'd been acquitted were only convicted for racist reasons. It's frightening how many states—if you overlay a map of lynchings with the places where the death penalty still exists—it matches almost exactly." (Richard Branson On Why The Death Penalty Is The Latest Front For Business Activism, interview with Jena McGregor, Forbes magazine). On July 11, 2021, Richard Branson travelled onboard his Virgin Galactic Unity 22 to the edge of space, 86 kilometers above the surface of the earth. He reached his final frontier and accomplished his final mission. He blasted communism across the universe.

ARIZONA REDS HIJACK ELECTION

An aircraft hijacking is the unlawful seizure of an aircraft by an individual or group. It involves either the pilot being forced to fly in accordance with the hijacker's demands or the overpowering of the pilot by the hijackers. The deadliest hijacking in history occurred on September 11, 2001, when airliners seized by the Islamist terror group Al Qaeda were flown into the World Trade Center and the Pentagon building, killing three thousand people. On November 8, 2022, United Airlines Flights 11, 77 and 175 were reassembled in the state of Arizona. On this day, on Election Day, they were overpowered by a movement which had assumed control over the nation, and were forced to land in an enemy airfield light years away from the institutions of liberal democracy. On this day, communists stole a gubernatorial election and robbed the Republican candidate Kari Lake of her path to victory. On this day, thousands of Republican voters who had showed up to vote were turned away. On this day, Republican voters were issued instructions by state election officials which contravened state law and their cast ballots were not counted. On this day, two thirds of polling stations suffered printer and voting machine malfunctions, which resulted in the suppression of 100,000 Republican votes. On this day, Maricopa County election officials manufactured thousands of votes for Democrat candidate Katie Hobbs; they converted office printing machines into communist presses; they stole an election under the guise of "finding new ballots"; and impartial election workers were shocked to discover printer cabinets stuffed with pages of red ballots which would bury a free and fair election: "I'm an election worker. We finished up by 9:30 PM. We left three printers in the conference room we had been using, and at least one of them was full of boxes of ballot paper. We started in October with an opened box of ballot paper, and twenty six sheets were missing. The boxes were divided into twenty five sheets, and four of these was a group of one hundred. [In one group there were] only seventy four sheets. So we were missing twenty six. The troubleshooter said they had used three sheets to do test prints, that is, one page on each printer. But that still left twenty three missing pages. And now with Maricopa always 'finding new ballots' after Election Day, I'm worried that these ballots in the printer could be used for that." (twitter.com/hashtag/AZVoterSuppression?src=hashtag_click). On November 8, 2022, Republican votes were obstructed, spoiled, suppressed, left counted and subjected to printer breakdowns which did not exist for Democrat votes: "When I filled out my ballot in the Mesa polling place, it did not go through. They spoiled the ballot and gave me a new one. The second attempt did not go through, so they spoiled that ballot and gave me a new third ballot. The third ballot went through. But when I go to ballotready.vote, it does not show I voted. The polling place had printer issues. I was not the only one. I want my vote to count. This is ridiculous." (twitter.com/hashtag/AZVoterSuppression?src=hashtag_click). On November 8, 2022, communist tabulations and ballot printing manufactured votes and victory for Katie Hobbs: "The @KariLake campaign has rightfully called for a redo of the election in Maricopa County, given the widespread tabular and ballot printing issues affecting about one third of polling locations at least." (twitter.com/hashtag/AZVoterSuppression?src=hashtag_click). On November 8, 2022, communist voting systems under the Dominion Red Star gave victory to Katie Hobbs:

"Thank liberals that always overplay their cheating hands to force things back to the middle. This election defines like no other that Arizona and the nation must go back to day of election only voting with paper ballots. No more Dominion voting systems." (twitter.com/PLMuellerAZ). On November 8, 2022, Republican votes were rejected as communist tabulators counted votes and victory for Katie Hobbs: "I tried to insert my ballot on Election Day into Tabulators One and Two, at Happy Trails Resort, 17200 West Bell Road, many times and it was rejected. I then unwillingly put it into Drawer Three. I worked as a poll worker at this location and witnessed many ballots being rejected by the two tabulators. At the end of Election Day, there were more than 1,730 ballots put into the tabulators at this location and 157 ballots in Drawer Three." (twitter.com/hashtag/AZVoterSuppression?src=hashtag_click). On November 8, 2022, communist computers, ballots and chains of ballot custody ensured the exclusion of Republican votes: "The uniparty doesn't want our votes. This is why they've been computerizing our elections without backup paper ballots and chain of custody documentation. We cannot have faith in elections without these. The uniparty has been at it since the hanging chad." (@JerryBankcroft). On Election Day in Arizona, communist settings, communist configurations, communist printers, communist tabulators, communist polling stations and communist election workers arranged a vote and read a victory for Katie Hobbs: "According to Maricopa County, at least sixty voting locations had issues related to some ballot on demand (BOD) printers having printer configuration settings that were nonuniform, which appeared to have resulted in ballots that were unable to be read by on site ballot tabulators. Based on sworn complaints submitted by election workers employed by Maricopa County, the BOD printers were tested on Monday, November 7 without any apparent problems. Many of those election workers report that despite the successful testing the night before, the tabulators began experiencing problems reading ballots printed by the BOD printers within the first thirty minutes of voting on Tuesday, November 8, 2022." (Letter to Thomas Liddy, Civil Division Chief, Maricopa County Attorney's Office, to Jennifer Wright, Assistant Attorney General of the State of Arizona, November 19, 2022). On Election Day in Arizona, a communist operation to steal an election was organized down to the minutest details. It reached through hardware, software, settings, printers, tabulations, technical specifications, manufacturers, network administrators and polling stations, and culminated in an election staged by communist demand, and an election held in name only. Election workers, poll observers and voters have provided written accounts of a concerted activity to set up ballot factories in municipal counties and manufacture victory for Katie Hobbs: "Based on the plethora of reports from election workers, poll observers, and voters, combined with Maricopa County's admission that there were in fact widespread problems related to nonuniform BOD [ballot on demand] printer configuration settings, the Unit requests that Maricopa County provide a comprehensive report detailing with specificity: (1) the voting locations that had problems with either BOD printers or tabulation; (2) the specific problems at each voting location; (3) any other issues related to BOD printers and/or tabulators that may have contributed to the problems at voting locations; (4) a comprehensive log of all changes to the BOD printer configuration settings (to include the identity of individuals making changes); (5) Maricopa County's standards for the BOD printer configuration settings as specified in internal technical specifications and/or manufacturer technical specifications; (6) the precise time the nonuniform printer configuration settings were found to be the root cause of the problem; and (7) the method used to update or reconfigure the printer configuration settings at each voting location (specifically, if technicians were sent to the voting location, when were they deployed in the field and when did they make the changes at each voting location; alternatively, if the network administrator was able to make universal changes, please detail when and how the printer configuration settings were corrected)." (Letter to Thomas Liddy, Civil Division Chief, Maricopa County Attorney's Office, to Jennifer Wright, Assistant Attorney General of the State of Arizona, November 19, 2022). On Election Day in Arizona, Republican voters were prevented from voting at one location and at all locations, and saw their ballots rejected at one location and at all locations, and poll workers throughout the state registered votes for Katie Hobbs on paper and in cyberspace, and conjured up a Democrat victory out of thin air: "Following widespread reports of problems at voting locations on Election Day, Chairman Gates publicly stated that voters who had already checked in to e-Pollbook, but were having difficulties voting, could check out of that voting location, and would be able to nonetheless vote in another voting location. Based on sworn complaints received by the Unit, not only have poll workers reported that they were not trained and/or not provided with information on how to execute check out procedures, but many voters have reported the second voting location required the voter to cast a provisional ballot as the e-Pollbooks maintained the voter had cast a ballot in the original voting location. Arizona law specifically prohibits provisional ballots to be counted when a voter has signed multiple pollbooks." (Letter to Thomas Liddy, Civil Division Chief, Maricopa County Attorney's Office, to Jennifer Wright, Assistant Attorney General of the State of Arizona, November 19, 2022). The National September 11 Memorial & Museum is located in New York City at the former location of the Twin Towers complex, which was destroyed during the September 11 attacks. At the center of the memorial are two square reflecting pools, which mark location of the Twin Towers themselves. Law abiding people have looked into the pools and beheld another hijacking which took place two decades later, at the other side of America. Fueled by misprinted ballots and uncounted ballots, the engines of electoral fraud crashed into Arizona on November 8, 2022 and killed 1.3 million votes for Kari Lake.

RED DELINQUENT RUNS WILD

Noah Webster was America's first lexicographer. Called the "Father of American Scholarship and Education", Webster captivated the nation in 1806 with A Compendious Dictionary Of The English Language. His definitions of the words liberty and license would inspire generations. He defined the state of liberty as follows: "Civil liberty is the liberty of men in a state of society, or natural liberty so far only abridged and restrained, as is necessary and expedient for the safety and interest of the society, state or nation." He contrasted this state of liberty with a state of license: "Excess of liberty; exorbitant freedom; freedom abused, or used in contempt of law or decorum. License they mean, when they cry liberty!" Liberty, rationally conceived, is constrained by the rights of others, while license enjoys no such constraints, and is a state of boundless, bestial, arbitrary freedom. In the nineteenth century, Noah Webster's name became synonymous with the word dictionary, while in the twenty first century, the name of an American entrepreneur and investor has become synonymous with the word famously defined by Webster. It has become synonymous with the word license. The name of the man is Samuel Bankman-Fried and he was the founder and chief executive officer of the now bankrupt cryptocurrency exchange FTX. Listen to this man's words in support of communism, look his actions in support of the communist establishment, and then understand the license he has been granted by the establishment to commit the greatest act of financial fraud in the history of the nation. First listen to his words promoting the customs, principles and beliefs of communism and its woke doctrine that capitalism is a system of injustice, discrimination and racism: "Ya! Ha ha! I had to be. It's what reputations are made of, to some extent. I feel bad for those guys who get fucked by it, by this dumb game we woke westerners play, where we say all the right shibboleths and so everyone likes us." Now look at his actions in support of the communist establishment. He donated forty million dollars to the Democrat Party 2022 election campaigns and lavished his millions on Democrat Party political action committees: Protect Our Future, House Majority, Senate Majority, Justice Unites Us, Global Markets Investments, Web3 Forward and the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee. He was worshiped as the Democrat Party's "newest megadonor" and as a "Democratic savior". He bankrolled a system of communist agents spread like tentacles across the nation. His millions set into motion waves of communist agitation and lines of communist subversion which encircled and submerged Washington. His money presses financed elections which packed Congress with communists sitting on the benches of the Democrat Party: "He hired a network of political operatives and spent tens of millions more shaping Democratic House primaries in a shocking wave of spending that looked like it could remake the Democratic Party bench in Washington, candidate by candidate." (Politico, August 2022). His FTX Foundation bankrolled CarbonPlan and Giving Green, two projects dedicated to the abolition of fossil fuels and predicated on the theory of anthropogenic climate change. According to this theory, the emission of greenhouse gases by human activity is causing the planet to heat up to a catastrophic degree and this process will culminate in the extinction of all life on Earth. This process can only be halted by a cessation of the activity causing it and the dismantling of industrial and technological civilization. The theory of anthropogenic climate change is refuted by the findings of science. These findings show beyond the shadow of a doubt that levels of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere throughout the eons of history have existed independently of human activity. They show that carbon dioxide levels are caused by global warming and do not cause it. They show that global temperatures rise and fall in cycles which have nothing whatever to do with carbon dioxide levels, and that the medieval warming period, which occurred from 1000 AD to 1300 AD, saw global temperatures lower than present day temperatures by one degree celsius, at a time when the burning of fossil fuels was far lower than it is in the present day: "In the long run CO2 levels are an EFFECT NOT A CAUSE of changes in climate/temperatures. Sea temperatures rule CO2 as the oceans hold 50 times more CO2 than the atmosphere. If the sea warms, CO2 is released (like warming a glass of fizzy drink) and if it cools it absorbs CO2 from the air. This happens on a daily/weekly/monthly/yearly basis and on average CO2 in the whole atmosphere stays around for a few years before going back into the upper levels of the ocean or into the soil; CO2 levels in these relatively small changes LAG behind temperature changes. The amount of CO2 in the atmosphere, over the long run, is an effect, and not a cause, of temperatures and lags behind the climate by about 500-800 years. This is backed up by observable scientific data. On the scale of decades over the last hundred or so years, and in spite of what climate alarmists claim, CO2 has been steadily rising while temperatures have oscillated--half the time moving with CO2 and half against. Over a longer period, ice core data shows that CO2 levels, smoothed over centuries, FOLLOW world CLIMATE temperatures by about 500-800 years. The current increase in CO2 levels in the last 100 years is an after effect of the medieval warm period. This took place around 500-800 years ago and was warmer than our current period, despite having fewer people burning fewer fossil fuels, by about one degree worldwide, or at least two degrees in parts of temperate zones." (Man Made Climate Change Does Not Exist by Piers Corbyn). Now look at the crimes Sam Bankman-Fried committed and was allowed to commit by virtue of his multimillion dollar funding of the establishment. Claiming to raise funds for FTX in 2018, he stole 300 million dollars out of the 420 million dollars raised from investors. He stole two billion dollars from the customers of FTX and transferred the money into his private bank accounts. He paid the employees of FTX in worthless cryptotokens. He stole billions of dollars from customers of FTX and transferred the money to his trading company, Alameda Research. Look at the world Sam Bankman-Fried ruled and see zero corporate controls to ensure ensure honesty and integrity. See corporate mismanagement peddle corporate misinformation and rob the public of billions of dollars. See a corporate titan whose power and rank were built on stolen funds prevent his employees from accessing their bank accounts and getting paid for their work. See a business baron bereft of decency, a corporate king unmoored to the law, whom the establishment protects and refuses to condemn, bring about through his policy of plunder the greatest corporate collapse in the history of the world: "The more we learn about FTX, the worse it looks. A lawyer for the failed cryptocurrency exchange FTX told a federal bankruptcy court on Tuesday that the company had been run as a 'person fiefdom' of FTX founder Sam Bankman-Fried. James Bromley, who is the cohead of the restructuring practice at the Wall Street powerhouse law firm Sullivan & Cromwell, said in a hearing in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware that the company was 'not particularly well run—and that is an understatement.' Later, Bromley went on to say that the new management of FTX—who took over after Bankman-Fried resigned—had discovered 'a lack of corporate controls at a level none of us who are in the profession have ever seen.' This echoed the statement of the company's new chief, longtime restructuring expert John J. Ray III, who said in a sworn statement to the court: 'Never in my career have I seen such a complete failure of corporate controls and such a complete absence of trustworthy financial information.' Bromley was not done. He went on to say that after control of the company was turned over to Ray and his team, they discovered that 'the emperor had no clothes. These businesses were not operated in a way that is consistent with any best practices.' He described the failure of FTX as 'one of the most abrupt and difficult collapses in the history of corporate America, in the history of the world.' 'Outside the US, many staff were paid via direct deposit to their accounts on the cryptocurrency exchange, so when FTX froze customer withdrawals last week, these employees couldn't access their funds, people familiar with the matter said," the Wall Street Journal reported. Now they are unsecured creditors of their former employer." ('The Emperor Had No Clothes,' FTX's Lawyer Says by John Carney). On March 6, 1992, a child was born in the depths of the establishment. Barbara Fried, Sam Bankman-Fried's mother, condemns individual freedom and self interest and peddles communism under the guise of altruism, rational decision making and the achievement of human moral perfection: "Most voters are motivated primarily by self interest, not altruism, and the myopia that leads them astray is not moral but cognitive. In pursuing their own self interest, people ignore facts that are not immediately and viscerally available to them and disregard the standard inputs and tools of rational decision making: large data sets, reliable statistical methods, long-term consequences, uncertainty, etc." (Emotional Empathy Is Not The Culprit: What We Need Is Not Less Empathy But More Rationality by Barbara Fried). Joseph Bankman, Sam Bankman-Fried's father, peddles communism under the guise of progressive taxation, tax compliance, a consumption tax and the abolition of tax shelters: "A leading scholar in the field of tax law, Joseph Bankman is the author of two widely used casebooks on the subject. His writings on tax policy cover topics such as progressivity, consumption tax and the role of tax in the structure of Silicon Valley start ups. He has gained wide attention for his work on how government might control the use of tax shelters and has testified before Congress and other legislative bodies on tax compliance problems posed by the cash economy." (Joseph Bankman, Stanford Law School, conferences.law.stanford.edu). For this progeny of communist parents, there is no Federal Trade Commission, no Department of Justice, no Internal Revenue Service, no special prosecutors, no Federal Bureau of Investigation, no Special Weapons and Tactics teams and no leg irons to punish his unprecedented acts of malfeasance. The establishment has granted the greatest fraudster in the history of America lifetime immunity from the forces of the law.

BRITAIN UNDERWATER

Tidal waves are exceptionally high waves, much larger and more powerful than average oceanic waves. Caused by violent natural events such as earthquakes, high wind speeds and volcanic eruptions, they can destroy coastal cities and wipe out their infrastructure. The largest tidal wave ever recorded occurred on July 9, 1958 in Lituya Bay, Alaska, when a 500 meter high wave submerged 1.3 meters of land and cleared a half a million trees. Two ideological movements have set into motion a tidal wave of unassimilated scum which has changed beyond recognition the world's first workshop and command center of liberty, and reduced its quality of life to zero. Civilized people can scarcely believe their eyes when they behold the epic tragedy which has befallen Britain but they know that such is the fate of all societies on their way down. They know that as ancient Rome was swept away by an alien inflow of Christians and Germans, who reduced it to a smoldering remnant devoid of pagan reason and liberty, so Britain has descended into a jungle planted by migrants from alien lands, who have stormed the ramparts of law and order and reduced British liberty, the torch which lit up the world like no other, to particles of smoke and ash scattered across the dustbin of history. They have seen what two doctrines have done to Britain and are unable to clear the wreckage. These two doctrines are communism and cultural relativism. Communism was born when Karl Marx issued a clarion call for the onset of a class war whose aim is anticapitalist revolution and the forcible overthrow of the institutions of freedom: "Communists disdain to conceal their views and aims. They openly declare that their ends can be attained only by the forcible overthrow of all existing social conditions. Let the ruling classes tremble at a communist revolution. The proletarians have nothing to lose but their chains. They have a world to win. Working Men of All Countries, Unite!" (Communist Manifesto by Karl and Friedrich Engels). Cultural relativism was born when Franz Boas proclaimed that truth and morality are manufactured by nations and peoples and have no universal significance: "Civilization is not something absolute, but is relative, and our ideas and conceptions are true only so far as our civilization goes." (Museums of Ethnology And Their Classification by Franz Boas). The acceptance of these two doctrines by the British masses and establishment has resulted in the transformation and obliteration of the free face of Britain. Look at the carnage wrought by the ruling religions of the reds and the cultural relativists and see a civilization reduced to ruins. See net migration rise to a half a million people in 2022, the highest level in British history. This number compares with 173,000 in 2021 and breaks the previous record of 332,000 set in 2015. See a regime set up by communists and cultural relativists to outnumber and outvote the British culture of capitalism and freedom. See a regime mandate no caps, no limits, no standards, no minimums, no thresholds, no papers and no visas for migrants and unleash an invading force of millions. See the abolition of rational requirements, impositions and models for migrants and the arrival of terrifying waves of national death and destruction: "Following Britain's official departure from the European Union—which many Britons believed would mark the beginning of a more strict immigration regime—Johnson [Prime Minister Boris Johnson] introduced a points based immigration system supposedly modelled off of the Australian model, yet crucially, unlike the Commonwealth nation, Britain itself did not impose a hard cap on the number of yearly arrivals. Due to Johnson lowering the standards for arrivals, such as lowering the salary threshold, the plan effectively opened up avenues for hundreds of millions to attempt to reach the country. The lax policy has seen the government issue a record 1.1 million visas to foreign nationals in the year leading up to June, compared to the pre-pandemic and pre-Brexit year of 2019 when approximately 720,000 visas were granted." (Net Migration Hits Record High Of Half A Million in Britain Despite Brexit Promises From Tories by Kurt Zindulka). Look at Britain today and see the two main political parties, Labor and Conservative, painted in the same colors: the colors of communism and cultural relativism. See these two images and echoes of each other open up the sluice gates of the nation and allow a flow of raw sewage to settle, build homes and raise families in a land where it has no moral or constitutional right to settle, build homes or raise families, in a land hallowed by the struggle for liberty, and assemble with Satan's chemicals and currents the gruesome, grinning face of a migrant monster: "Net migration of 504,000 is a truly breathtaking figure. It is also unprecedented and Migration Watch UK takes no comfort from it being just as we predicted. The hideously loose post Brexit immigration system, the ease with which people can make their way to the UK and stay, and the appalling failure to remove those with no right to be here, have all contributed to this astonishing net migration figure. Will the Conservative and Labor leaders now accept that the level of immigration is damagingly high? And will the government tell us how they intend to bring it down?" (Net Migration Hits Record High Of Half A Million in Britain Despite Brexit Promises From Tories by Kurt Zindulka, quoting Migration Watch UK chairman Alp Mehmet). Look at Britain today and see the national branch office of an international communist movement assume control over the government. See the leaders of its British location, Tony Blair, David Cameron, Theresa May and Boris Johnson, Labor Party communists, Conservative Party communists, one and all, unleash an earthquake and eruption of enemy aliens, streaming in by the hundreds of thousands, and make the new millennium the age when Britain comes to an end: "In the four decades leading up to the millenium, net migration stood at either a negative number or within the tens of thousands. This changed in 1998 with the installation of the left wing globalist government of Tony Blair under whose leadership net migration began to rise into the hundreds of thousands. This was only continued by the successive Conservative governments of David Cameron, Theresa May, and Boris Johnson." (Net Migration Hits Record High Of Half A Million in Britain Despite Brexit Promises From Tories by Kurt Zindulka). Look at Britain today and see the commencement of an onslaught. See the horsemen marked diversity, multiculturalism and moral relativism open the gates of civilization to foreign agents of subhuman life forms and bring down an apocalypse. See a fierce, destructive attack of mass migration wrest control of British society from the hands of civilized people. See an immigration cancer spread relentlessly across the community, nourished and emboldened by the voices of the establishment, whose names, Tony Blair,

David Cameron, Theresa May and Boris Johnson, will live forever in the annals of infamy. See the cells of national and spiritual disintegration divide without surcease and spread into every corner of the land. See them wait in offices, occupy homes, block motorways, crouch in alleys, sleep in streets, and before the eyes and cameras of civilized people who can scarcely believe what they see and hear, reduce a one thousand year old house of liberty to a twenty first century vehicle of horror engulfed in a demographic crisis and careening into the dangerous wastelands of failed states: "Let's get some history here: from Windrush, in the late 1940s, up until the turn of the century, approaching 2000, net migration into Britain ran at an average of 30,000 people every year [for] 50, 60 years it's running 30,000 a year. Then Mr Blair gets in and decides we're going to open up the doors in the most astonishing way; his deliberate attempt to make us a more diverse country. The deliberate policy of ministers from late 2000 was to open up the UK to mass migration to make the UK truly multicultural, to rub the right's nose in diversity and render their arguments out of date. You'd have thought since 2010, since David Cameron got into power, that that might have changed. But no, net migration has gone up consistently to over 200,000 a year, some years even up as high as 300,000. They've promised us they would cut net migration to 'tens of thousands a year'. Remember, they said it and over and over and over, again, and again, and again. And then, with Brexit, they were going to 'take back control'—and one of the reasons they got a monster eighty seat majority [in the House of Commons in 2019] was by 'getting Brexit done' people thought the immigration problem would be solved. Oh, I know Labor wouldn't do any better, but I'm sick to death of being lied to at election after election by the Conservatives, and I'll bet many of you are too. [On getting a doctor's appointment:] forget it, there are too many people. [On getting a house:] forget it, there aren't enough houses, and those that are, of course, because of supply and demand, are simply too expensive. Have you tried traveling around the country on a Friday? You can't move on the roads; many of our motorways are now being turned into dangerous, death trap so-called 'smart motorways' with cameras everywhere, and if you break down, well, you may well die. Why? Because the population is out of control. Our quality of life is being diminished by what is a major population crisis. It's Conservatives, it's Labor, it's the BBC, it's most of mainstream media. Actually, what they're saying it, we need even more people. They're not happy with half a million a year; they'd like that figure to rise even further." (Farage: Communities Being 'Changed Beyond Recognition' by Mass Migration by Jack Montgomery, quoting Nigel Farage). In William Shakespeare's Richard III, John of Gaunt utters words which will forever inspire forever the souls of civilized people: "This precious stone set in the silver sea,/Which serves it in the office of a wall,/Or as a moat defensive to a house,/Against the envy of less happier lands,/This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England." In the twenty first century, this England, this blazing lighthouse of liberty guiding nations stranded in oceans of tyranny, has been submerged to the dark depths by the worshipers of foreign religions whose altars are marked communism and cultural relativism.

THREE POINTS OF DARKNESS

A syndrome is a set of medical or psychological symptoms which appear together and are caused by a disease. In the mid nineteenth century, the physician John Langdon Down described Down syndrome as follows: physical growth delay, intellectual disability and characteristic facial features. In the late nineteenth century, the psychiatrist Emil Kraepelin classified the syndrome of schizophrenia as follows: hallucinations, delusions and disorganized thinking. The disease which afflicts a civilization creates a syndrome which is as fearsome and terrifying as the symptom of a mind held back or a mind descended into psychosis. This disease is the rejection of reason, the power of the mind to understand reality by processes of logic, and the symptoms of this rejection have appeared in civilizations throughout history. This disease occurs whenever a civilization becomes senescent and falls to the ground like the glittering leaves of autumn and descends into an Arctic wintertime in the wastelands of ignorance and superstition. Classical civilization, which exalted the god Apollo, symbol and embodiment of reason, pushed itself into extinction when it hurled its god to the winds and allowed the triumph of religion and barbarism. The armies of Christians and Germans which stampeded into a civilization rendered prostrate by caesars and their mobs, who had swept away the Roman republic, senate, constitution and respect for individual rights, and established a grain dole state, a welfare state, an administrative state, an executive state, and a bread and circuses state as Dictators for Life, have been reprised in the present day along with the presidents, ministers and communist mobs who opened the gates to them. Today's rejection of reason has swept into power three movements united by a hatred of liberal democracy and a determination to roll back the progress achieved by mankind during the Age of Enlightenment. Today's rejection of reason has enthroned three forces of tyranny which have declared total war on the human mind and brought forth another Dark Age engulfing the world in the coldness and barrenness of faith and myth. As the Rome which rejected reason became stricken by its caesars, mobs, communists and Christians, so the West in the present day has reaped the bitter harvest of its own destruction of the mind. The symptoms of this intellectual disability and this psychotic detachment from reality, this Down disease and schizophrenic disease afflicting man's social and cultural development, have seen the development of three movements. Look at the first movement. This is the movement of Marxism and its race and gender progeny. This is the movement of tribalists of class together with their natural, logical and inevitable descendants. Inspired by their nineteenth century master, accepting the logic of their master's tribalism, these descendants champion the neoMarxist tribalisms of black power and women. Listen to a Marxist class tribalist and hear him proclaim that society is the source of all wealth and success. Hear him proclaim that the achievement of wealth and success has nothing whatever to do with individual intelligence, initiative, talent, ability, work or enterprise. Hear him proclaim that people who have produced and achieved great things have produced and achieved nothing whatever, and that somebody else, the state, the nation, the community and the collective, put it there and made it happen. Hear him proclaim that people who have created businesses have created nothing whatever and do not deserve to have them, and must give them back to the people, to society and to the neighbors next door: "There are a lot of wealthy, successful Americans who agree with me—because they want to give something back. They know they didn't—look, if you've been successful, you didn't get there on your own. You didn't get there on your own. I'm always struck by people who think, well, it must be because I was just so smart. There are a lot of smart people out there. It must be because I worked harder than everybody else. Let me tell you something—there are a whole bunch of hardworking people out there. If you were successful, somebody along the line gave you some help. If you've got a business—you didn't build that. Somebody else made that happen." (Barack Obama, Remarks By The President At A Campaign Event In Roanoke, Virginia, July 13, 2012). Listen to the voice of race Marxism and hear it proclaim that capitalism is synonymous with systemic and structural racism. Hear it proclaim that liberal norms, traditions, institutions, legal systems and the free enterprise system bear the ineradicable color of white power. Hear it proclaim that progressive political theory is critical of universal human freedom and is race theory and black theory. Hear it proclaim that a progressive society is indoctrinated with the tenets of black communism, black fascism, black national socialism and black swastika politics and is racist down to its roots and racist in every home, school, office and workplace in the land: "Critical race theory (CRT) is an academic discipline founded by law professors who used Marxist analysis to conclude that racial dominance by whites created 'systemic racism.' Critical race theorists have been dominant in colleges and universities for years, but their impact on public policy was limited until recently. The precepts of CRT have now burst outside the universities, affecting K-12 schools, workplaces, state and federal governments, and even the military. This has sparked resistance from Americans who refuse to have their children indoctrinated or to submit to race based workplace harassment. CRT's key assertion is that racism is not the result of individual, conscious racist actions or thoughts. Racism is 'systemic' and 'structural.' It is embedded in America's legal system, institutions, and free enterprise system, and imposes 'whiteness' as the societal norm. The system, including capitalism, is 'rigged' to reward white behavior and preserve white supremacy. Curricula and training sessions that teach that racism is systemic and structural, and demand that Americans work to dismantle laws, traditions, norms, institutions, and free market enterprise—the entire American system itself—are part of CRT." (How To Identify Critical Race Theory, Heritage Foundation). Listen to the voice of gender Marxism and hear it proclaim that capitalism is a system of male supremacy. Hear it proclaim that liberal democracy is a patriarchy in which men dominate and oppress women. Hear it proclaim that a legal system based upon fairness, justice and due process of law is a dagger of male exploitation and must be replaced by a legal system which expresses the female will to power. In this legal system, men are convicted of sexual assault on the basis of the word of an accuser or a series of accusers without independent corroborating evidence of any kind; men are convicted of sexual assault if they improperly touch a woman in the absence of force and violence; men are convicted of sexual assault on the basis of allegations of incidents which occurred decades and decades before where the accuser freely chose to wait before filing a complaint; and men are convicted of sexual assault despite the fact that the accuser had consensual sexual relations after the alleged assault occurred. Listen to the voice of transgender Marxism and hear it reject the findings of science. Hear it reject the findings that all human cells carry chromosomes which carry genes. Hear it reject the findings that when an ovum is fused with a sperm, each parent contributes twenty two nonsex chromosomes and one sex chromosome. The mother contributes an X sex chromosome, while the father contributes either an X chromosome or a Y sex chromosome. A female possesses two X sex chromosomes, while a male possesses an X chromosome and a Y chromosome. Thus gender is genetically determined and is fixed and immutable. Rejecting these findings, transgenderism proclaims that gender can be changed and people can become members of the opposite gender by surgical and chemical treatment, or by a simple declaration or belief that are members of the opposite gender. Listen to the voice of environmentalist Marxism and hear it proclaim that the planet's climate history reaching back hundreds of thousands of years, which shows cycles of global warming and cooling caused by sunspot activity, does not exist. Hear it proclaim that global warming is caused by greenhouse gas emissions from human activity and that the planet will be incinerated unless industrial and technological civilization is dismantled. Look at the second movement. This is the movement of fascism and hear it champion group identity above individual existence. Hear it condemn the concern for private profit and the conduct of private businesses as lashes of exploitation of the people. Hear it join hands with its Marxist brothers and condemn capitalism as a system of soullessness, estrangement, alienation, inhumanity, unfair speculation and mass consumer enslavement. Hear Giorgia Meloni, elected prime minister of Italy in October 2022, proclaim that a progressive society is a statist society, a nationalist society, a family society and a communal society which has abolished constitutional government along with its charters of individual rights and freedoms: "Therefore, identity is under attack. National identity is under attack religious identity is under attack, gender identity is under attack, family identity is under attack. I must not be able to define myself as Italian, Christian, female, mother. No. I must be Citizen X, Parent 1, Parent 2. I must be a number, because when I'm only one number, when I no longer have an identity, when I have no more roots, well then, I will be the perfect slave, at the mercy of the great financial speculators; the perfect consumer." (Speech by Giorgia Meloni at the World Congress of Families, 2019). Look at the third movement. This is the resurgence of old time religion throughout the world. The final chapter of the West has been written in part by ancient faiths and has seen expanding billions throng to their Jewish, Christian, Muslim, Hindu and Buddhist altars and there offer in immolation the mind, the senses and the life of man: "The impact of religion is on the rise on a global scale. By the middle of this century, the number of people affiliated with a religion is expected to grow by 2.3 billion, from 5.8 billion in 2010 to 8.1 billion in 2050. By contrast, the number of people unaffiliated with any religion (including those who say their religion is 'nothing in particular' as well as self identifying agnostics and atheists) is projected to increase by only 0.1 billion, from 1.13 billion in 2010 to 1.23 billion in 2050." (How Religious Will The World Be In 2050? by Brian Grim). On June 24, 2022, the United States Supreme Court banged its gavel, dismissed the voices of freedom and enlightenment, and breached the wall of separation between church and state mandated by the constitution its members had sworn to uphold. On June 24, 2022, the United States Supreme Court issued a landmark ruling. In thirty words it cancelled the liberty mentioned, held to exist and guaranteed by the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to every woman in every state in the nation. In thirty words it ruled that states have a right to establish religion and the right to declare what observation has determined does not exist: the right to declare that at the moment of conception, at the moment when a sperm fertilizes an ovum, at the moment of formation of a zygote and a diploid cell, an actual human person appears, and that the destruction of this cell is an act of murder. In thirty words, the United States Supreme Court placed the supreme law of the land into a shredding machine powered by the wheels of fanaticism: "The Constitution does not confer a right to abortion; Roe and Casey are overruled; and the authority to regulate abortion is returned to the people and their elected representatives." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization). In the new millennium, a moon has passed in front of a sun and permanently blocked out its light. Three movements of unreason and antireason have constructed a shadow and placed it as a shroud across a deceased civilization.

MIGRANT PLAGUE BLACKENS EUROPE

50 BC. The time of Julius Caesar and his mobs, the time when the Roman Senate, constitution, liberty and law were swept away, the time when the greatest catastrophe ever to befall mankind commenced, the time of the first stage of the fall of Classical civilization. This was a time marked by a terrifying new development. It was marked by the Classical world's rejection of reason. Placing unconstitutional caesarism and mob rule upon the thrones of absolute power, the Classical world's betrayal of its defining ideals would bring forth the following chain of events. Crescendo and cataclysm: caesarism, despotism, the worship of emperors as "lords and gods", license, welfarism, currency devaluation, inflation, excessive taxation, administrative overreach, the ascendancy of Christianity, and abject prostration before onrushing tides of nations, cultures and barbarians invading from the North and the East. Fifteen centuries after the barbarian King Odoacer deposed Romulus Augustulus, the last emperor of the Western Roman Empire, fifteen centuries after a moral and spiritual shipwreck, a dead civilization Christianized and Germanized beyond recognition, formally signed its death certificate, the wheel of history has spun round and reenacted the tragedy of civilizational decline and disintegration in the third millennium. The stage and characters have changed but the script and story have remained the same. The stage is now the West and the characters are migrant hordes invading from every corner of the planet. The symptoms of unreason today, the voices of communism and cultural relativism, the voices of class war, race war, gender war and a cultural war to destroy civilization, have opened the gates to mass migration and composed a story of destruction aimed at one thousand years of European civilization. Look at the world of Europe today and see the heartland and birthland of the West contract its existence down to names and places on a map. The world of Europe in the third millennium is the world of regions and provinces placed under Islamic control. It is the world of multiculturalist policies and attacks on liberal identity. It is the world in which people who advocate the assimilation of migrants to liberal values are condemned as dangerous extremists. It is the world in which people who advocate tolerance of enemy aliens are praised as progressive thinkers. It is the world in which the liberal population of England and Wales has been reduced to 75 percent. It is the world in which the liberal populations of London, Manchester and Birmingham have been reduced to minorities. It is the world consumed by a raging wildfire ignited by unvetted and uncontrolled immigration: "When it comes to immigration, nobody controls anything, that's the whole problem. Europe will be swept away by this cataclysm." (Michel Houellebecq Says Great Replacement Is 'Fact': 'I Was Very Shocked That It Was Called A Theory. It's Not A Theory, It's A Fact' by John Cody). The world of Europe today is the world in which a continent has renounced its own liberal values, a continent which is no longer worth defending, a continent whose cultural suicide cannot be wished away or reversed by words alone: " 'I want to defend the West, but it must be worth defending,' Houellebecq is quoted as saying in the French magazine Front Populaire, as he describes the contents of his paper cowritten with Michel Onfray, warning 'lovers of positive psychology and resilient nonsense to go the other way!' " (Michel Houellebecq Says Great Replacement Is 'Fact': 'I Was Very Shocked That It Was Called A Theory. It's Not A Theory, It's A Fact' by John Cody). The world of Europe today is marked by the official acceptance of the rights of distinct cultural groups and by an attack on Western Enlightenment culture. It is the world in which an invasion of Islam has reduced cities and suburbs to lawless jungles. It is the world of Marxist inspired race wars smashing the symbols, unity and culture created by free people. It is the world of proselytizers, zealous, singleminded and dyed in the colors of communism, banging on the pulpits of mass migration and world revolution. It is the world in which a continental space devoid of civilized people, a vortex of moral and spiritual disorder and dissolution, has swept up the institutions of liberal order and hurled them into the dustbin of history: "A new poll has found that a majority of French people support the sentiments expressed in a letter signed by active duty and retired members of the military

warning that the country is heading towards a 'civil war' caused by failed multiculturalism and attacks on French identity. Around 1,000 service members signed the letter, including twenty retired generals, warning President Emmanuel Macron of 'several deadly dangers' threatening France, including 'Islamism and the hordes of the banlieue,' a reference to the fractured suburbs around major cities with high crime and immigrant populations. The signatories also blame the 'antiracism' movement for seeking to create a 'racial war' by attacking symbols of French cultural cohesion and identity, including statues. The letter blames 'fanatic partisans' for seeking to create divisions within communities that have created a vacuum for Islamists to assert their control. 'The hour is grave, France is in peril,' states the letter, which was published on 21 April—the 60th anniversary of a failed coup d'état." (Poll: Majority of French Agree With Military Generals That the Country is Heading Towards Civil War by Paul Watson). The world of Europe today is the world in which liberal order has been replaced by antiliberal ethnicities and by the teachings of the Koran. It is the world in which liberal language and culture have been swept away by the clarion calls of jihad and sharia. It is the world in which liberal philosophy has been repealed by the prescriptions of Islamic law. It is the world in which demographic trends have culminated in the extermination of liberal populations. It is the world in which liberal cities and regions have vanished into microghettos. It is the world in which people who defend liberal values are condemned as racist devils. It is the world in which liberal sources and references have been expunged from the channels of mass communication and shredded by the engines of Islamic war. It is the world in which liberal people and liberal nations have broken into pieces and cower in fear before the new reality of Islamic power: "During a television debate, French philosopher Alain Finkielkraut said it would take a 'fanatical denial of reality' to disregard the 'spectacular' demographic changes that are taking place in Europe. Alain Finkielkraut, who is one of 40 lifetime members of the 400 year old Academie Francaise, which serves to safeguard the French language and culture, made the comments during an appearance on TV channel Europe 1. Finkielkraut asserted that attempts to shut down such debates by claiming mere discussion of a 'Great Replacement' is dangerous are only serving to distract from a very real and 'obvious' problem. 'This is in fact a fragmentation and yes, this risk does exist and in any case, I think the demographic change of Europe is extremely spectacular. The historical peoples in certain municipalities and regions are becoming a minority,' Finkielkraut said. 'A whole part of French people now live not in the suburbs, but beyond the suburbs, because they are no longer the cultural reference they used to be, because all the butchers are, for example, Halal.' The philosopher stressed that the issue should be treated 'with a lot of precaution, but demonizing it (as racist) is absurd and once again testifies to the fanatical denial of reality.' " (French Philosopher Says Massive Demographic Changes In Europe Are 'Obvious' by Paul Watson). The world of Europe today is the world in which a mass invasion has been staged by enemy aliens. It is the world in which ancient coasts have been conquered by boatloads of unassimilated foreigners. It is the world in which channels have been crossed by savages from distant lands. It is the world in which migrants filled with violence and rage have captured and occupied peaceful, civilized societies. It is the world in which state secretaries and prime ministers have stabbed their nations in the back with the daggers of communist treason and granted citizenship to undocumented scum. It is the world in which prehistoric tribes have made a journey, a journey rowed and piloted by Satan, a journey from their native lands of primordial darkness and disease, a journey which in the name of human rights has been allowed to disembark and settle in the European lands of noonday: "Brexit leader Nigel

Farage doubled down on the assertion that the migrant crisis in the English Channel is an invasion as it was revealed that over 44,000 illegals have arrived by boat on British shores this year alone. According to analysis from GB News of Ministry of Defense figures, over 44,000 illegal migrants have been recorded as reaching the UK after traveling by small rubber boats across the English Channel from France after approximately 200 more people made the journey on Thursday. This comes after 426 traveling in eight separate boats were brought ashore on Wednesday, which took the total to 43,874. In comparison, the total number of illegal landings for the entirety of 2021 stood at 28,526, 8,466 in 2020, 1,843 in 2019, and just 299 in 2018. In response to the new record, Brexiteer Nigel Farage said: 'GB News reports that 44,000 illegal migrants have now crossed the English Channel. Invasion!' The post was in reference to widely criticised comments from Home Secretary Suella Braverman, who said in the House of Commons last month: 'The British people deserve to know which party is serious about stopping the invasion on our southern coast and which party is not.' " (Farage Declares 'Invasion' as 44,000 Illegal Boat Migrants Land in Britain This Year by Kurt Zindulka). Sort sol is a Danish term meaning black sun. It describes a bird flocking behavior which occurs in the marshlands of Jutland, Denmark. During spring and autumn, millions of migratory starlings gather in the sky and form huge black clouds which blot out the light of the sun. Released by fifth columns working from within to subvert the liberal order, set into motion by two movements at war with the legacies of the Enlightenment, let loose by the forces of communism and cultural relativism in control of the West, alien swarms from savage shores have buried Europe and extinguished its light forever.

THE FAITHFUL CONGREGATE IN THE RELIGIONS OF THE REDS

Two thousand years ago, in a room on Mount Zion, Jerusalem, outside the Old City walls, a meal was held. This meal was the Last Supper, the final meal Jesus shared with his apostles before his crucifixion. After Jesus' death on the cross, his apostles continued to meet in the holy Cenacle. It became a house of worship and was the scene of the descent of the Holy Spirit upon these followers of the Son of God. The world's first mass movement of superstition, fear and psychosis, rising triumphantly upon the smoldering ruins of the Classical civilization it helped to destroy, mocked and denigrated during the Age of Enlightenment, received a new lease on life in the nineteenth century. In the Reading Room of the British Museum, a prophet inspired by hatred, by a hatred as deep and dark as had not been seen since the first preachings of the Messiah, revived the religion of his master from the ashes, and made it terrorize the world anew. In the Cenacle, in the Upper Floor, in the Reading Room of the British Museum, Karl Marx, philosopher, economist and journalist of the disgruntled and disaffected classes of subhumanity which flowed like raw sewage beneath the cities of the world, brought the church of Jesus back upon the throne of world power and converted the original Christian masses into the followers of his new neoChristian faith. The same masses, the same rejection of reason, the same estrangement from reality, the same desire to escape into the arms of a God existing outside the bounds of human sanity, with only the names, the faces and the outer appearances changed. The church of Jesus, renamed the church of Marx, embarked upon a career of criminality not seen since the first crusades of persecution launched by the worshipers of Jesus of Nazareth, and filled the world with blood and gore, and made totalitarian tyranny the byword of the age, and made civilized people run for their lives, but run with no place to hide, as it assumed control over every home, school and office in the world, and raised its flag, the fearsome image of a cross redesigned as the hammer and sickle, upon the smoldering ruins of Western civilization. Look at the religion of Marx and its race and gender denominations and see a repackaged version of Christianity and its Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox denominations. See a monster of faith and force restored to existence between Satan's electrodes and surge with the currents of world revolution. See a set of dogmas presented to its followers as beliefs which must be unconditionally assented to. See the treatment of dissenters as heretics who must be vilified, marginalized and excluded from society. See the establishment of a class of priests who enunciate the faith from pulpits marked Facebook, YouTube, the Guardian, the New York Times, NBC and CNN. See a catalogue of sins, such as the refusal to call a transgender individual by his or her preferred pronoun. See the demand to confess such sin and make atonement for it by giving a donation to a transgender foundation. See a religion of materialism replace the Christian religion of supernaturalism, see a mysticism of matter replace the Christian mysticism of heaven beyond all dimensions. According to this new mysticism, matter is the sole reality in the universe, mind is an illusion, there is no such thing as mental labor or knowledge work, machines and muscle power are the sources of all wealth, and changes in people's machines and material modes of production magically and mysteriously bring about changes in the state, in society and bring about world revolution: "The materialist conception of history starts from the proposition that the production of the means to support human life and, next to production, the exchange of things produced, is the basis of all social structure; that in every society that has appeared in history, the manner in which wealth is distributed and society divided into classes or orders is dependent upon what is produced, how it is produced, and how the products are exchanged. From this point of view, the final causes of all social changes and political revolutions are to be sought, not in men's minds, not in men's better insights into eternal truth and justice, but in changes in the modes of production and exchange." (Socialism: Utopian and Scientific by Karl Marx). Look at the religion of Marx and see a religion of the proletariat replace the Christian religion of God. See the reduction of history to a series of class struggles and the exaltation of the proletariat, the class of animal muscle laborers, as a divine, omnipotent master class which will destroy all worlds and all civilization in the name of the gutters, the alleyways and the feeding troughs of the masses: "The history of all hitherto existing society is the history of class struggles. The modern bourgeois society that has sprouted from the ruins of feudal society has not done away with class antagonisms. It has but established new classes, new conditions of oppression, new forms of struggle in place of the old ones. All previous historical movements were movements of minorities, or in the interest of minorities. The proletarian movement is the self-conscious, independent movement of the immense majority, in the interest of the immense majority." (Communist Manifesto by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels). Look at the religion of Marx and see a movement of gender tribalism which has declared war on the male population. See a movement of discrimination and exclusion which mirrors Christianity's movement, with males replacing the old time heretics from the faith. See the presence of one male anywhere in the world, in any home, school or workplace, proclaimed to be male overrepresentation and forbidden by law. See the transformation of free nations into women's only organizations. See the transformation of free societies into women's only spaces. See the transformation of free universities into ideological echo chambers in which sealed and darkened windows marked women only scholarships, fellowships, initiatives, departments, programs, lectureships, committees, events, medical schools, law schools and business schools have shut out the world of equal rights, equal protection and equal opportunity for all. See males prevented from enrolling in school, forbidden from participating in public life and denied the right to exist by a group of people working together to conduct a feminist religious crusade and destroy the institutions of secular, liberal civilization: "The US Department of Education's Office of Civil Rights (OCR) is investigating Stanford University after it received complaints that the school allegedly discriminates against men by offering organizations exclusively for women, Forbes reported. Kursat Pekgoz, CEO of the Turkish real estate company Doruk, and James Moore, a Stanford alumnus and emeritus professor at the University of Southern California, filed the complaint alleging that the university does not offer groups exclusively available to men like it does for women, according to Forbes. The pair argue that the discrepancy violates Title IX, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex. The complaint lists alleged 'exclusionary programs' sponsored by Stanford since October 2018 and implored the OCR to 'request information regarding all women only spaces, scholarships, fellowships, initiatives, departments, programs, lectureships, committees, groups, and events that are currently active.' The OCR investigation, however, will look into five, including Stanford's Women in Business, Women in Stanford Law, Stanford Women in Design, Stanford Society of Women Engineers and the Gabilan Provost's Discretionary Fund. 'OCR does not comment on open investigations,' an Education Department spokesperson told the Daily Caller News Foundation. The complaint claims that the groups are unnecessary since women have recently surpassed men in enrollment. 'Women are the overrepresented sex among college students nationwide,' the complaint reads. 'They are also the majority of law students and medical students.' " (Stanford Under Investigation For Allegedly Discriminating Against Men by Alexa Schwera). Look at the religion of Marx and see a movement of race tribalism which has declared war on the white population. See the black will to power promoted in the doctrine of critical race theory. According to this doctrine, progressive political theory is critical political theory; it is critical of freedom, liberalism, capitalism and meritocracy; and it advocates the confiscation of the wealth of whites, the denial of equal rights to whites, and the extermination of white majorities in the name of racial justice and racia liberation: "According to critical race theory, since white people overwhelmingly hold the most wealth in America and have a higher social standing as a group, white people also hold the most power. This is true (a) because white people make up the majority, (b) because it is entrenched in the culture, and (c) because white people have the higher wealth on average. This is demonstrated by evidence of persistent gaps between races in America. And, a fundamental supposition of critical race theory is that those in power serve their own interests. Therefore, the white majority, which holds most of the power (socially and monetarily), will not easily relinquish that power. Therefore, if we protect the status quo with the veil of capitalism or meritocracy (everyone gets a proportion equal to the results of their work), then we are preserving the people group that already has the advantaged starting point: white people." (Is Critical Race Theory Marxist? By Mark Legg). The Resurrection of Christ is an oil painting on wood by the world renowned Renaissance master Raphael. The artist's first commission, created between 1499 and 1502, it was damaged by an earthquake in 1789, and fragments of the painting can be seen in museums across Europe. Denying the noonday world of reason and reality, the world in which individuals and individuals alone exist, and sex is determined by genetic markers and not by human choice, and gender, race and class are mental abstractions and not mystical substances, the new religion of Marxism has an ancient lineage. It represents the resurrection of Christianity, and in the political and cultural upheavals which have shattered the legacies of the Enlightenment, its offshoots, derivatives and fundamental dogmas rule every nation on the planet.

AMERICA DESCENDS INTO DISINTEGRATION

Free fall is the motion of a body in which gravity is the only major force acting. An object in free fall will accelerate at a rate of 9.8 meters per second every second. In twelve seconds, a skydiver will fall a terrifying 450 meters, and would fall more but for air resistance. Since the dawn of the twentieth century, the world's arsenal of liberty and lighthouse for those adrift on seas of tyranny has been locked into a state of free fall and has crashed into the wastelands of failed states. One hundred years is the blink of an eye in the timeline of history; it is one second before the arrival of midnight; and the lightning short century-seconds which preceded the formal collapse of Rome in 476 AD have been reprised in the decline and fall of a shining successor to Rome, which like its forerunner protected the frontiers of civilization. These seconds have been repeated in a chronology of events which over the past one hundred years has engulfed America and smashed it into pieces. As Rome had its caesars, mobs, grain doles overflowing, amphitheaters screaming out welfare for all, edicts of toleration and legalization of Christianity, and mass invasions and settlements by Germanic barbarians, so America has had its forces of disintegration, which have risen triumphantly upon its smoldering ruins. The free fall of Rome was effected by the rejection of reason, the disease which has brought about the death of free societies throughout history, and this fearsome sickness of the soul has struck again, two thousand years later, on the shores of the New World, in the civilization, not Classical, but in the civilization of the West. This disease strikes anytime and anywhere, strikes any nation in any age, and strikes by human choice and human weakness, and has presently toppled what was once the freest and most law abiding nation on earth. It has toppled America in a tragedy of epic, world historical proportions, which has signaled the inevitable, inescapable, unstoppable decline and fall of the West itself. Look at America's rejection of reason in the third millennium and see the last act of a tragedy which commenced a century before. Scene One. Look at the Supreme Court decision which upheld the constitutionality of the individual mandate set forth in the Affordable Care Act. Look at National Federation of Independent Business v. Sebelius, 2012, in which the court ruled that language, law and logic do not exist and that a popular but unconstitutional communist program must be granted the sanction of the constitution. Look at the court rule that a mandate is not a mandate, a penalty is not a penalty, a fine is not a fine, A is not A, but a mandate, a penalty and a fine is in fact a tax, and is thus constitutionally permissible. Look at the court rule that it is constitutionally permissible because the people demand to keep the program which establishes it, the Affordable Care Act, which creates universal health care entitlement, and the people demand that the program be protected at all costs. Look at the court rule that the power of the federal government to force people to buy products exist without constitutional restraint or limitation of any kind, and that the government has the right to force people to buy anything, from health insurance to a house to an automobile to a television to healthy foods. Look at the court rule that Congress' taxing power means the power to mandate, penalize and fine and not simply the power to tax, and that it means communist power, totalitarian power, and the power to take America out of its own traditions, institutions and founding documents, and out of the rule of law. Look at the court rule that the word tax does not mean tax, that words have plastic meanings, that words can refer to anything we want them to refer to, that words can mean whatever the communist majority, and the Supreme Court which rubber stamps the communist majority's wishes and demands, say they mean, and rule that America is no longer a free country: "The majority of justices did some legal and constitutional legerdemain to change the individual mandate penalty into a tax in order to uphold the law's constitutionality under Congress' alleged taxing power, rather than the Commerce Clause. Not even President Obama himself agrees with this line of reasoning. Obama said publicly that the law's individual mandate was not a tax. On February 13, 2012, Judicial Watch filed an amicus curiae brief with the High Court arguing that the individual mandate provision of Obamacare is unconstitutional--whether considered under Congress' commerce power or taxing power: 'Petitioners are trying to defend a provision in an act passed by Congress that exceeds its enumerated powers. Though Congress enacted this provision under the Commerce Clause, Congress' power under the clause is not broad enough to compel Americans to engage in commerce by purchasing a particular product. Though Petitioners try to rescue the provision by arguing that it is valid under Congress' taxing power even if it is invalid under Congress' commerce power, a provision of an act that is not a tax may not be construed as a tax merely to save it from being declared unconstitutional.' Judicial Watch further argued that, if the Supreme Court affirmed the constitutionality of the individual mandate, 'it must be willing to hold that Congress' powers under the Commerce clause are plenary and unlimited, for there remains no principled way to limit Congress' power if it is stretched as far as Petitioners (the Obama administration) ask.' Florida Federal District Judge Roger Vinson perhaps put it more colorfully when he struck down the law in its entirety last year. If the government can force American taxpayers to buy health insurance, it can also force them to decide 'whether and when (or not) to buy a house, a car, a television, a dinner or even a morning cup of coffee.'" (Roberts-Care' Nightmare: Supreme Court Upholds Individual Mandate by Tom Fitton). Scene Two. Look at the detention of the insurrectionists who stormed the United States Capital Building on January 6, 2021 to stop the certification of a rigged and stolen election. Look at their detention as political prisoners, held for two years in America's communist gulags. Look at election fraud in the November 2020 presidential election and see boatloads of ballots cast for Joe Biden placed in voting centers throughout the nation in the dead of night, and placed after voting monitors had been sent away. Look at election fraud established by geospatial mobile phone data, by surveillance video, by witness accounts sent through TTV hot lines, and by whistleblowers disguised as ballot traffickers. Look at it established by the tracking of trillions of mobile phone pings and by an examination of millions of minutes of surveillance footage. Look at it perpetrated by the illegal trafficking of five million ballots, equaling seven percent of all ballots cast. Look at fraudulent ballots cast for Joe Biden dumped in drop boxes and deployed as props for an illegal regime. Look at election integrity and democracy in America placed on communist ballots and voted out of office: "With the release of 2,000 Mules, patriots around the country are seeing the truth about the obvious voter fraud that was caught on video at designated ballot boxes. The mules are those who were dropping fraudulent ballots into drop boxes. We know about the ones that were recorded and who were sloppy enough to keep their phones with them as they committed systemic voter fraud. There is much more voter fraud evidence from the 2020 election emerging. Patriot Joe Brandis, who has been investigating Michigan voter fraud since the 2020 election with Michigan Citizens for Election Integrity and his team continues to discover more and more footage of ballot traffickers dumping multiple ballots into the Detroit drop boxes in the runup of the 2020 election." (Wireless Services CEO Destroys Ignorant Attacks by Fake Fact Checkers on 2000 Mules--The Fact Checkers 'Don't Have The Technical Foundation For The Comments They're Making' by Jim Hoft). For thousand of years, civilized people have understood that insurrection is the language of the unheard. They have understood that when peaceful means of redress are unavailable, the forcible overthrow of the government becomes a necessity. On January 6, 2021, the United States government had ceased to exist in all but name and the nation's constitution had become a meaningless scrap of paper. Violent revolution had become the only answer to a false and fraudulent election staged and sanctioned by the establishment. Scene Three. Look at the weaponization of the United States Department of Justice in the raid conducted on the residence of Donald Trump, at Mar a Lago, Palm Beach, Florida, on August 8, 2022. Authorized by United States Attorney General Merrick Garland, approved by Magistrate Judge Bruce Reinhar and conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, this raid was without precedent in the history of the nation. The search warrant alleged that Trump had committed three crimes: unauthorized retention of national defense information; the destruction or concealment of records with the intent to obstruct federal government activity; and the illegal removal or destruction of federal government records. Legal scholars were left aghast at the establishment's ruling that Trump had committed crimes. They knew the constitution and understood that the president of the United States, as the nation's commander in chief and the possessor of plenary executive power, is the owner of all federal records created or received by him: "The executive Power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America." (Article II, Section I). "The President shall be Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the Militia of the several States, when called into the actual Service of the United States." (Article 11, Section II). They understood that any laws, such as the Presidential Records Act, which hold that the president is not the owner of these records are unconstitutional. They as well understood criminal law and understood that proof of intent would be required to convict Trump of these crimes and such proof is nonexistent: "Proving a state of guilty mind, mens rea, would be the crux of any actual prosecution based on the Mar a Lago documents. In other words, what was Trump thinking at the time? Did he have specific intent to injure the United States (charge one) or to obstruct some investigation (charge three)? Without knowing the exact nature of the documents this is a tough task, but even with the documents in front of us it would be difficult to prove to a court's satisfaction what Trump wanted to do by keeping the documents, which would require coworkers and colleagues to testify to what Trump himself had said at the time, which is unlikely to happen. It is thus unlikely, based on what we know at present, that Trump would go to jail for storing the documents in Mar a Lago." (Proving Intent At Mar a Lago by Peter Van Buren). Scene Four. Look at the Supreme Court decision which removes the constitutional right to obtain an abortion and authorizes states to prohibit the procedure. Look at the decision which authorizes states to declare what observation shows to be nonexistent. Look at the decision which authorizes states to declare that the entity created at the moment of conception, created at the moment of fusion of a sperm cell and an egg cell, an entity which is a single cell, embryonic zygote, is an actual, whole, human person, and that the destruction of this entity is an act of murder. Look at the court bang the gavel, dismiss secular constitutional jurisprudence from the nation, and breach the wall of separation between church and state constructed by the First Amendment: "The Constitution does not confer a right to abortion; Roe and Casey are overruled; and the authority to regulate abortion is returned to the people and their elected representatives." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, 2022). An acid is a molecule which can lose a proton and create negatively charged, electrified water capable of destroying metal.

Acids such as hydrochloric and sulfuric acid can destroy anything with which they come into contact. Created by the rejection of reason reacting in the dark rivers of a civilization in free fall, the acids of communism and Christianity have made America disappear.

GERMANY TODAY: COMMUNISTS AND FASCISTS BATTLE FOR CONTROL

The German soul has existed for a thousand years. It made its first appearance on the stage of history in 1000 AD, when in the dark, soaring Faustian forests of Northern Europe it fashioned a new dark, soaring Faustian civilization known as the West. In the third millennium, the German soul has experienced deja vu. It has experienced a feeling of having lived through the present situation before. It recollects a previous experience, and sees in the present state of German society the time, the place and the context of the past. Its feeling is not pathological and is not a symptom of disorder. Its feeling is based on fact and is an accurate reflection of reality. It perceives what civilized people throughout the world perceive in Germany and perceive in the present state of the West. Civilized people throughout the world perceive at a distance, and the German soul is presently experiencing again, a fearsome and terrifying battle between two satanic brothers. They are witnessing a struggle of the will to power between communists and fascists, and are witnessing in German streets and in the capital cities of the world, the enactment of the final stage of civilization. In the raging infernos of the masses, where freedom lies at the bottom as waste matter and slag, tribalism has been forged as the false idol. In the white hot furnaces of envy, hatred, insecurity and discontent, individual rights have been reduced to ashes and social morality, sacrificial morality, slave morality has been shaped as the steel hard fulcrum of the totalitarian state. In these out of control firestorms, the masses have incinerated liberal democratic government, cast the statues of class politics, race politics and gender politics, and made them loom like specters across a world fallen into moral bankruptcy and lying prostrate in its death throes. This moral and political conflagration burning up freedom has blazed throughout history in nations and societies on their way down; it has produced monsters of tyranny of manifold forms and varieties united by their repulsive appearance; and in Germany in the early decades of the twentieth century, it brought two variants of collectivism onto the streets and watched them battle for control. In Germany today, the ghosts of the Weimar Republic inhabit every home, school and office in the country and have restaged the battles which defined that tragic age. A struggle for power between two brother ideologies: so it was in Germany then; so it is in Germany today; and so it will be in every society which has sacrificed human reason upon the altars of faith and created myths of the state and tribe. Two brother ideologies, communism and fascism, the ideology of class power and the ideology of race power, proceeding from the same source: hostility toward the Enlightenment voiced by the degenerate masses. Officially named the German Reich, the government of Germany from 1918 to 1933, the first liberal constitutional system in Germany's history, the Weimar Republic, immediately upon its creation, fell under sustained bombardment and attack by communists and fascists, and spiraled downward into fifteen years of doom which culminated in the victory of the fascists. Listen to two voices from this era and hear the forces of disintegration at work, one propelled by class hatred, and the other by race hatred. Listen to Karl Liebknecht, leader of the communist Spartacus League, as he stands in the Lustgarten in front of the Berlin Palace on November 9, 1918. Listen to him proclaim the Free Socialist Republic of Germany. Listen to him join hands with his Bolshevik comrades in the East and proclaim the onset of world revolution. Listen to him proclaim that communism stands for freedom and raise the red flag of subversion across the nascent liberal democratic republic: "The day of revolution has come. We have compelled the peace. At this moment peace is concluded. The old is no more. The rule of the Hohenzollerns, who for centuries lived in this palace, is over. In this hour we proclaim the Free Socialist Republic of Germany. We salute our Russian brothers who four days ago were shamefully chased away. Through this gate will enter the new socialist freedom of workers and soldiers. We want to raise the red flag of the Free Republic of Germany on the site where the Kaiser's standard flew!" (The German Revolution 1918–1919: Documents edited by Gerhard Ritter and Susanne Miller). Listen to Adolf Hitler, leader of the National Socialist German Workers Party, and future fuhrer of Germany. Listen to him condemn global capitalism in the name of racial socialism. Listen to him condemn the forms and lineaments of a free world, condemn global trade, global exchange, global capital and the free movement of people, goods and services across borders, as lashes of oppression and exploitation of the Aryan proletariat. Listen to him proclaim this class and this race as the lords and masters of the earth: "And if we ask who was responsible for our misfortune, then we must inquire who profited by our collapse. And the answer to that question is that 'banks and stock exchanges are more flourishing than ever before.' It is only the international stock exchange and loan capital, the so-called 'suprastate capital,' which has profited from the collapse of our economic life, the capital which receives its character from the single suprastate nation, which fancies itself to be above all other nations, which places itself above other nations and which already rules over them. The international stock exchange capital would be unthinkable, it would never have come, without its founders, the supranational Jews." (Speech in Munich, April 12, 1922). A century after the national socialist seizure of power, a century after swastika flags were first unfurled from the rooftops of Berlin, a century after the struggle between the fascists and the communists for the control of Germany ended with the victory of the former, the wheel of history has made a fearsome revolution and brought the same players back onto the stage. A century after Adolf Hitler overthrew constitutional government, ended civil liberties and created a one party totalitarian dictatorship, the battles of the past have returned to life and pushed Germany into the abyss. The present day struggles which beset Germany are the struggles which riddled the Weimar Republic with bullets, and the pockmarked buildings of that calamitous era serve as the tombstones of the postwar Federal Republic today as it lies buried beneath two popular movements which have vanquished the liberal order in a pincer movement. Look at the successors of the Weimar communists and see them extinguish the lights of civilization in the name of fighting climate change. See them reject nuclear power, reject fracking, and rely on natural gas from Russia together with windmills and solar panels to power a modern industrial society. See a list of items to be realized, a plan of things to be done, and the implementation of intentions and motives which spell communism with the words Green Party: "Donald Trump's warning that Germany's dependence on Russian gas left it vulnerable has been proven—yet again—as the country's leftist government's plans to go green have been utterly destroyed by the Ukraine war and its attendant gas shortages. Any hopes of Germany lowering its carbon emission have quite literally gone up in smoke, recent reports are indicating, with the ongoing energy crisis brought about by Russia's exit from the EU energy market forcing the country to obtain energy by burning traditional fuels. While previously the darling of leftist activists in both Europe and the United States for its militant attitudes towards climate change, Germany's green agenda has up until now been fueled by imports of Russian gas which are used to subsidize its green efforts. However, with the supply of hydrocarbons collapsing as a result of worsened relations with Moscow, Germany has been forced to burn large amounts of coal in order to keep the lights on, massively increasing its carbon emissions. Obviously not too pleased at this development, Germany's ruling Green Party government has attempted to offset its increased coal burning by bringing forward a ban on the fuel in one of the country's largest states, North Rhine-Westphalia." (So Much For Renewables: Leftist Germany Sees Green Push Wrecked By Russia's War by Peter Caddle). Look at the successors of the Hitler's national socialists and see them plot to overthrow the government and unfurl a flag from the Reichstag fluttering with the spirits of the past. See a movement called Citizens of the Reich peddle violence, paranoia and conspiracy, modeled after communist violence, communist paranoia and communist conspiracy, peddle race hatred in place of communist class hatred, and attempt an attack on the nation's parliament of liberal order: "Twenty five people have been arrested in raids across Germany on suspicion of plotting to overthrow the government. The group of far right and exmilitary figures are said to have prepared for a 'Day X' to storm the Reichstag parliament building and seize power. A man named as Heinrich XIII, from an old aristocratic family, is alleged to have been central to their plans. According to federal prosecutors, he is one of two alleged ringleaders among those arrested across eleven German states. The plotters are said to include members of the extremist Reichsbürger [Citizens of the Reich] movement, which has long been in the sights of German police over violent attacks and racist and antisemitic conspiracy theories." (Germany Arrests 25 Accused Of Plotting Coup by Paul Kirby). Human nature is a fixed constant and the same human events can thus recur an infinite number of times. The masses, being what they are, the embodiments of negative character traits, have reenacted the same tragedy throughout history. Civilizations stricken by the disease of unreason have composed the same story of decline since the birth of civilized man. Confronting each other as the red shirts confronted the brown shirts in Weimar Germany, today's communist green movement and national socialist Reichsbürger movement battle for control over a failed state.

BLACK COMMUNIST LESBIAN FLIES HOME

The cruising altitude of a jet aircraft is 12,000 meters. At this altitude, the air temperature is minus fifty degrees Celsius. Modern aircraft are equipped with powerful heaters and specially sealed cabins to protect passengers and pilots from the terrifying wind blasts and cold air present outside. As Brittney Griner hurtled across the skies to Abu Dhabi, Saudi Arabia on December 8, 2022, released by Russia and on her way home to America, the cabin in her aircraft did not require the heating equipment or insulation normally required for such flights. As the two time Olympic gold medallist, Baylor University All American and Phoenix Mercury professional basketball star flew 6,000 kilometers to be exchanged for international arms dealer Viktor Bout, the air inside her cabin was kept warm and temperate by something new and different. It was kept warm and temperate by the ideological flames burning inside her. "She's safe, she's on a plane, she's on her way home", said President Joe Biden, who authorized the exchange of the Russian Merchant of Death for basketball star Brittney Griner, and kept his promise to the politically correct people and establishment of America to bring home one of their own. As America flew Brittney Griner out of Russia, it left behind Paul Whelan, former law enforcement officer, security director and United States Marine, who had been in Russian prisons for four years, detained and convicted on fabricated espionage charges. The charges are described by John Sullivan, United States ambassador to Russia: "January 30, 2020: The new US ambassador to Russia, John Sullivan, calls for Russia to release Whelan after visiting him in Lefortovo Prison in Moscow. 'Investigators have shown no evidence—zero,' Sullivan tweets, calling Whelan's treatment 'shameful. What we need in #PaulWhelan's case— where there is no evidence and clearly no crime—is to have him released as soon as possible. It's time for this nightmare to end, and for Paul to go home.' " (Timeline Of Michigan Resident Paul Whelan's Detention In A Russian Prison by Melissa Nann Burke). America left behind Paul Whelan because Brittney Yevette Griner, born October 18, 1990, American professional basketball player for the Phoenix Mercury of the Women's National Basketball Association, who admitted and pleaded guilty to smuggling hashish oil loaded in vaporizer cartridges into Russia on February 17, 2022, had checked all the bold faced boxes printed by the nation's communist culture, while Paul Whelan had checked none of them. The reasons Brittney Griner was freed compose a catalogue of the customs, institutions and manifestations of America in the third millennium which have repudiated the nation's foundations in the Enlightenment and pushed it into extinction. Brittney Griner was freed because she hates the capitalist system: "I honestly feel we should not play the National Anthem. I'm not going to be out there for the national anthem." Brittney Griner was freed because she is black. Brittney Griner was freed because she is female. Brittney Griner was freed because she is a lesbian. Brittney Griner was freed because she was a habitual cannibal user. Brittney Griner was freed because the red masters of the nation exalt her as a shining embodiment of the tribal politics which have supplanted America's founding liberal democratic order. Brittney Griner was freed because she is an abstraction and not a flesh and blood human being. Brittney Griner was freed because she is a composite and intersection of groups and not a separate, self subsisting individual. Brittney Griner was freed because she is black, communist and lesbian, a phantom Frankenstein figure stitched together in communist laboratories surging with the currents of tribal electricity, and is not in fact the Brittney Griner which exists in space and time: "Brittney Griner, the former WNBA star whom Russia released in turn for Russian arms dealer Viktor Bout, is an 'inspiration' to 'LGBTQI+ Americans', White House press secretary Karine Jean-Pierre said during Thursday's White House press briefing, defending the Biden administration's prisoner swap as retired Marine Paul Whelan remains imprisoned. 'On a personal note, Brittney is more than an athlete, more than an Olympian. She is an important role model and inspiration to millions of Americans, particularly the LGBTQI+ Americans and women of color,' Jean-Pierre, who is in a domestic partnership with CNN anchor Suzanne Malveaux, continued." (Karine Jean-Pierre: Brittney Griner An Important 'Inspiration' to LGBTQI+ Americans by Hannah Bleau). Brittney Griner was freed because she hates America and everything it symbolizes, freedom, opportunity and meritocracy, and symbolizes the new order of gender, race and class politics which has overtaken the nation. Brittney Griner was freed because she is so exalted by the establishment that it was willing to exchange an international arms dealer, who sold arms to Iran, Al Qaeda, the Taliban and the communist terror group, the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia, for her freedom. Brittany Griner was freed because treasonous unAmericans, who have stabbed liberal democracy in the back with the dagger of gender, race and class politics, demanded that she be freed: "What kind of a deal is it to wap Brittney Griner, a basketball player who openly hates our Country, for the man known as The Merchant of Death, who is one of the biggest arms dealers anywhere in the world, and responsible for tens of thousands of deaths and horrific injuries. Why wasn't former Marine Paul Whelan included in this totally one sided transaction? He would have been let out for the asking. What a stupid and unpatriotic embarrassment for the USA!!!" (Donald Trump, on Truth Social). Brittney Griner was freed because the American establishment had deemed that obtaining the freedom of a red partison was more important than keeping the world safe from terror. Viktor Bout: weapons trafficker to the forces of violence and bloodshed from Sierra Leone to Afghanistan. Viktor Bout: supplier of planes and guns to the enemies of America and the West. Viktor Bout: speaker of multiple languages and bearer of multiple names, whose soul speaks a single language and bears a single name: the language of rogue states and the name of global subversion. Vikor Bout: lord of private wars, paramilitary forces and arsenals of crime and lawlessness. Viktor Bout: man without honor, truth or moral attributes of any kind, surrendered in exchange for the celebrity voice of communist woke culture in America, and through the exchange allowed to escape the bar of justice: "Former Soviet air force pilot Viktor Bout, who was swapped for US basketball star Brittney Griner on Thursday, fuelled some of the world's bloodiest conflicts by trafficking weapons across several continents. In a career spanning two decades, and which stopped when he was sentenced to 25 years in a US prison in 2012, the 55 year old Russian allegedly stoked violence from Sierra Leone to Afghanistan by bartering deals for planes and guns. The mustachioed Bout, who is thought to speak six languages, travelled under various false names including Boris and Vadim Markovich Aminov. His notoriety inspired the Hollywood film Lord Of War, starring Nicolas Cage, in which the antihero escaped justice. Expectations of a prisoner swap grew in recent months, after Russian leader Vladimir Putin and US President Joe Biden discussed his fate during a summit in Geneva in 2021. The Russian was arrested at the five star Sofitel hotel in Bangkok while negotiating with US agents posing as guerrillas from the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (FARC). After a two year legal battle, a Thai appeals court ruled in 2010 that he could be extradited to the United States, which accused him of running a 'massive weapons trafficking business' and terrorism. In 2012, a US judge sentenced Bout to 25 years in prison for conspiring to sell a massive arsenal to antiAmerican guerrillas in Colombia." (Viktor Bout: 'Merchant Of Death' Arms Smuggler by Agence France Presse, December 8, 2022). Brittney Griner was freed because in the eyes of the establishment she had the right race, the right gender, the right sexual orientation and the right politics. Celebrity voice of the new dispensation which hates liberal democracy and the Age of Enlightenment as much as it hates the latter day champion of this, Donald Trump, Brittney Griner was freed in a prisoner exchange which will live forever in the annals of national betrayal. Brittney Grier was freed by an enemy populace, an enemy regime and an enemy establishment ensconced in America which has sentenced Paul Whelan and the free world he defended to crumble and decay in a Russian jail: "Whelan was the wrong race, the wrong gender, the wrong sexual orientation and had even congratulated Trump on his victory. While Griner, a black leftist lesbian celebrity who hated this country, was everything that the left loved. The Biden administration moved hell and earth to get the pothead WNBA player out because she hates America almost as much as they do. And left Whelan behind. In the old days the ethos was to save women and children first. Today, leftists don't believe in such things. Or even believe in the existence of women. But they practice 'equity' in hostage rescues. The black woke lesbian with a cohort of celebrity fans obviously goes first. And the straight white male exmilitary Trump supporter can rot in prison." (Biden Saves Woke WNBA Player, Leaves Ex Marine Behind by Daniel Greenfield). In 1869, the New Orleans Times decribed the emergence of something new in America. It described the activities of organized crime and violence, invading from foreign lands, and storming the lives and fortunes of free people: "The city's Second District has become overrun by well known and notorious Sicilian murderers, counterfeiters and burglars, who, in the last month, have formed a sort of general copartnership or stock company for the plunder and disturbance of the city." In the third millenium, the American state and society have fallen under the control of an alien organized crime movement known as communism. Its black hand reaches into every home, school and office in the nation, and its boss of bosses in Washington has accomplished the release from Russian custody of one its star players.

RED TENTACLES CONSUME TWITTER

An octopus is a fearsome mollusk of the order Octopoda. It has two eyes and a sharp beaked mouth at the center point of eight limbs. It can alter its size and shape to pass through small spaces. It can change its color and camouflage itself. It can jet through water and hide. It can release dark, luminous ink. It can expel deadly poison. It has appeared as a terrifying sea monster in mythologies throughout the world: in Greek mythology, as the monster Gorgon, and in Norwegian legends, as the Kraken. The past one hundred years have brought the emergence of an ideological octopus whose tentacles reach into every home, school, office and business in the world. This octopus is the international communist movement and conspiracy, and it has become the ruling establishment, the power that is, of every nation in the West. It was placed upon its throne by the masses who are enthralled by its morality of equality, sacrifice, submergence and dissolution of the self, and it will stay there for all time to come as long as the masses are listened to and granted a voice in governance. Able to change its appearance, conceal itself and deceive without hesitation and without surcease, this octopus has invaded the world of social media and transformed this world into an arm of its propaganda and agitation operations. Look at this relentless, implacable creature and see its capture of the cyberspace of instant mass communication and global conversation. See its subjugation of a microblogging, social networking service founded sixteen years ago and presently serving the entire planet. Described as "the SMS of the Internet" with over 400 million users and twenty five offices through the world, and handling over two billion search queries per day, Twitter was founded proclaiming a noble mission: "We seek to give people the power to create and share ideas and information instantly, without barriers." The proclamation was a deceit. The reality was censorship and the dissemination of ideas and information in the service of communism. The reality was content moderation to protect and advance communist narratives. The reality was the control and manipulation of speech to promote the communist line. The reality was the deletion of tweets on orders from President Joe Biden: "More to review from the Biden team." "Handled these." (Twitter Files, December 2, 2022). The reality was the removal of tweets on orders from the Democrat Party. The reality was that Twitter was staffed exclusively by communists and faithfully obeyed orders issued to it by the Biden administration and the Democrat Party. On October 14, 2020, the New York Post published an expose of Hunter Biden's influence peddling in Ukraine. It revealed that Hunter Biden introduced then Vice President Joe Biden to top executives at Ukrainian energy companies in exchange for money, a percentage of which he gave to Joe Biden. Twitter suppressed the story, blocked its transmission, removed links and posted warnings that the story was "unsafe". It removed the story on the pretext that it had violated the company's policy prohibiting "hacked materials." Twitter locked out Kayleigh McEnany, Trump White House spokeswoman, from her account, because she had discussed the story. Belying its stated mission to establish a free speech platform, Twitter formed a chorus which chanted the songs of red revolution and silenced the voices of freedom.

Twitter banned Donald Trump from the platform in January 2021 on the grounds that he was the leader of a terrorist group. His real crime was to lead an insurrection against a government which had ceased to exist in all but name. It was a government which had violated the people's right to vote in free and fair elections by certifying a presidential election which volumes of still photographs, surveillance footage, witness depositions, public testimony and geolocation data emitted by mobile phones had established was rigged and stolen to award victory to Joe Biden. Twitter banned Donald Trump on the grounds that he incited violence in protest against the fraudulent certification of the 2020 presidential election. Civilized people understood that when peaceful means of redress are no longer available, violence becomes a necessity. Civilized people understood that insurrection is the language free people speak when they are no longer heard. Twitter made censorship decisions based on communist politics. It banned Donald Trump's rightful incitements to violence to overturn the results of a fraudulent election, but published criminal incitements to violence against the French made by Malaysian Prime Minister, criminal incitements to violence against Israel made by Iran's Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, and criminal incitements to violence against the Tigray people made by Ethiopian Prime Minister Abiy Ahmed. Twitter silenced the voices of seventy five million patriotic, law abiding citizens who sought to reestablish the rule of constitutional government in the world's fortress of freedom and to make America great again: "The latest installment of the Twitter Files, a series of disclosures lifting the curtain on Twitter's internal wrangling ahead of controversial censorship decisions, reveals more details on the decision to ban Donald Trump from the platform in January 2021. The disclosures, given to former New York Times writer Bari Weiss, reveal that members of Twitter's Trust & Safety department did not believe that the former President violated any rules on the day that he was banned, only for this determination to be overruled following an intervention by archprogressive Vijaya Gadde. The disclosures also reveal that CEO Jack Dorsey was involved in the decision to suspend Trump's account, putting an end to longstanding rumors that Gadde had taken the decision herself while Dorsey was on vacation and unreachable. But these employees were drowned out by a louder chorus, which demanded, among other things, that Twitter should view Trump as the 'leader of a terrorist group.' On January 8, Donald Trump posted two tweets, which some Twitter employees attempted to characterize as 'incitement.' The tweets were as follows: 1. The 75,000,000 great American Patriots who voted for me, AMERICA FIRST, and MAKE AMERICA GREAT AGAIN, will have a GIANT VOICE long into the future. They will not be disrespected or treated unfairly in any way, shape or form!!! 2. To all of those who have asked, I will not be going to the Inauguration on January 20th. In her Twitter thread revealing the disclosures, Weiss noted that other current and former heads of state had been allowed to remain on the platform despite far more clear cut violations of Twitter policy. These included direct incitements to violence, including a former Malaysian Prime Minister who said Muslims had a 'right' to kill 'millions of French people for the massacres of the past,' and the current Ethiopian Prime Minister's 2021 call for Ethiopian citizens to take up arms against the country's Tigray minority. In June 2018, Iran's Ayatollah Ali Khamenei tweeted, 'Israel is a malignant cancerous tumor in the West Asian region that has to be removed and eradicated: it is possible and it will happen.' Twitter neither deleted the tweet nor banned the Ayatollah." (Twitter Files: Donald Trump Was Blacklisted Despite Being Cleared by Trust & Safety Review Team by Allum Bokhari). Twitter served as a loyal asset of the American establishment in its campaign to silence the voices of liberal dissent. It served as the social media arm of the establishment in its campaign of surveillance and control of citizens who stood up for the cause of freedom. It served as an intelligence agency of the establishment in its campaign to shut down the supporters of Donald Trump. It served as a weapon of the establishment in its campaign to expunge the First Amendment and the rights civilized people held dear. It served as a cyber factory for the manipulation of data and the manufacturing of misinformation to advance the communist cause. Fanatical, partisan, ideologically deranged and morally bankrupt, it was the Department of Justice and the Federal Bureau of Investigation in their campaign to enforce the rule of political correctness and set up a totalitarian regime in America. It was a dark, enclosed space, a hermetically sealed environment, in which terrifying sounds reverberated: the beliefs, opinions, passions and prejudices of the sworn enemies of the legacies of the Enlightenment: "Former Representative Devin Nunes (R-CA) speculated on Tuesday's episode of SiriusXM's Breitbart News Daily with special guest host Monica Crowley that the Department of Justice (DOJ) and its subsidiary Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) are 'running assets' within Big Tech companies like Apple, Google, Facebook, and Twitter to surveil Americans and design political censorship protocols. 'I think it's so important to build this ecosystem out, where we're not going to be working with the intelligence agencies, the FBI, and the Democratic Party to secretly shut down people [and] secretly spy on people,' Nunes said while reflecting on his current position as CEO of the Trump Media & Technology Group, which operates Truth Social. Nunes alluded to the federal government's undermining of the First Amendment by outsourcing its censorship processes to the world's largest technology companies. He remarked on Twitter's status as an 'echo chamber' of leftists given its historical regime of political censorship and manipulation of information. 'As it relates to Twitter, we don't see them as a competitor,' he stated. 'We've seen them as a very sick, demented company that's done a lot of really bad things to harm the world and America. President Trump, and myself, has been very supportive from the very beginning for Elon Musk to buy this because we figured, 'Well, it can't get any worse.' " (Devin Nunes Suspects DOJ, FBI Were 'Running Assets' Within Twitter by Robert Kraychik). A shroud is a piece of cloth which covers and protects a dead person. The world famous death shroud of Charlemagne shows a chariot drawn by four horses, representing the quadriga popular in the ancient Olympic Games. In 2006, four entrepreneurs launched a unique social media company, dedicated to distributing personal messages to the world. On the day of its launching in July of that year, Jack Dorsey, Noah Glass, Biz Stone and Evan Williams killed the potential of this company to serve as a worldwide platform for an exchange of ideas and opinions in which free speech meant free speech. On that day, they founded a company and gave it a political mission. They placed the death shroud of communism across its world wide domain.

WASHINGTON STATE GOVERNOR STARTS REVOLUTION

Seattle, Washington, June 2020. An area of six square blocks of the city is seized by the communist terror group Antifa and declares itself independent of local, state and federal authorities. Calling itself the Capital Hill Autonomous Zone, it sets up barricades with entry checkpoints. The police withdraw. It posts Twitter messages asking for "more people with guns." It demands the abolition of the police, the courts, the prisons and immigration controls, and demands the release of all criminals: "The Seattle Police Department and attached court system are beyond reform. We do not request reform, we demand abolition. We demand that the Seattle Council and the Mayor defund and abolish the Seattle Police Department and the attached Criminal Justice Apparatus. This means 100% of funding, including existing pensions for Seattle Police. At an equal level of priority we also demand that the city disallow the operations of ICE in the city of Seattle." (Blog post, June 9, 2020, Medium.com). The communist virus which hit Seattle and placed its residents in the grip of fear has spread into the highest levels of the government and made its governor the voice of revolution. Multiplying uncontrolled in the host organism, red infective agents have killed and destroyed the state of Washington and appointed Governor Jay Inslee to dig its grave. On November 30, 2020, in Tacoma, Washington, the grave digging commenced as the Democrat Party governor called together the heads of state government bodies and proclaimed the final victory of the fearsome religion founded by Karl Marx in the nineteenth century. In its original form and in its manifold gender-race-class-culture iterations and derivations, communism was proclaimed as the official religion of the state of Washington at the 2022 Governor's Equity Summit. Listen to a slide show of cultural subversion, a PowerPoint presentation of political pornography, and hear a state, a nation and the civilization of the West collapse ignominiously into the dustbin of history. Listen to communism peddled as a program of transformation in the name of justice: "INTERNAL TRANSFORMATION. How An Education Agency Is Transforming Itself In The Name Of Justice." Listen to communism peddled in the name of indigenous rights, tribal homelands and the savages of the plains. Listen to communism peddled in the name of countless eons of human nullity reaching back to the beginning of time: "We acknowledge that we are on the traditional homeland of the Puyallup Tribe. The Payallup people have lived and stewarded these lands since the beginning of time, and continue to do so today. We recognize that this land acknowledgement is one small step toward true allyship and we commit to uplifting the voices, experiences and histories of the indigenous people of this land and beyond." Listen to communism peddled in the name of returning land to native Americans. Listen to communism peddled in the name of the original animal inhabitants of America. Listen to communism peddled in the name of treating the descendants of these animals equitably. Listen to communism peddled in the name of preserving the spaces, acres, homelands and territories of those who lived and flourished in the manner of beasts of prey. Listen to communism peddled in the name of being aware of and acknowledging the superiority of the devils of America's primordial past to the laws and institutions of America's free people today. Listen to communism peddled in the name of rewriting the map of America to erase the progress of enlightenment, expand the frontiers of barbarism, and give native creatures without human attributes back their tribal wars, their ethnic charnel houses and their ancient slave empires: "As we all gather today, let's acknowledge that no matter where we are Zooming in from, we are on the traditional land of Native Americans. Their ancestors were the original inhabitants of the land we are occupying today. As we proceed with our work, let's make sure that our deliberations and recommendations benefit their descendants equitably. We would like to start our meeting with a land acknowledgment, recognizing the indigenous people who have historically been moved from their homelands and territories. The United States seized more than 1.5 billion acres from indigenous people between 1776 and 1887, but today, most of that land is held in trust by the government, severely restricting the rights of Native American people. It is important to note on this map that you do not see the Duwamish, Wanapum, and Chinook tribes, who are not recognized by the US federal government, but should be acknowledged, as they have had a long history in present day Washington. Recognizing the original inhabitants of the spaces we occupy through awareness building and land acknowledgment practices is an important step toward advancing equity in education and beyond. Wherever you are virtually in Washington State, please take a few seconds to acknowledge the land that you are on as the traditional homeland of the indigenous peoples." Listen to communism exalted as the highest form of human freedom. Listen to capitalism condemned as a system of violence and oppression against blacks and Asians. Listen to capitalism condemned as an empire of enslavement of nonwhites. Listen to capitalism condemned as a relentless scourge on communities of color. Listen to capitalism condemned as a lash of racism, deportation, police brutality, mass incarceration, separate education and denial of health services directed against minorities: "We would like to acknowledge the history of this nation, one fraught with contradictions. For too long, this country has elevated a story of democracy and freedom while minimizing the impact of violence and oppression on marginalized communities, communities on whose backs this nation was built. Today, members of our black and Asian communities, and other communities of color, continue to experience racism through police brutality, mass incarceration, inequitable education and health services, deportation, and other forms of subjugation. We aim to disrupt the legacy of systemic racism by centering racial equity and justice in our work. This is how we stand with our communities of color. Before we begin, we want to offer a moment of silence to consider these words and how you might join us in this work." Listen to a policy of racism and sexism promoted in the form of discrimination against white males and packaged as diversity, equity and inclusion: "WHO WE ARE. VISION: An equity minded educator workforce that facilitates learning and growth for each and every student. VALUES: Diversity, equity and inclusion." Listen to capitalism condemned as a system of white power. Listen to a policy of exclusion of whites from society defended in the name of inclusion and antiracism: "SHIFTS NEEDED. We needed to think differently about whiteness and its relationship to the world of work. We wanted to be in relationship and community with one another. We needed to think differently about form and structure of our meetings. We wanted our meetings to be inclusive and allow staff to contribute from a place of strength. We needed to think differently about learning as an organization. We wanted to adopt a critically reflective stance so we could engage in ongoing work towards antiracism." Listen to the following condemned as products of racist, white supremacist culture: the development of one's talents and abilities to the highest degree; the achievement of literacy, language proficiency and the ability to read and write; logical, noncontradictory thinking which acknowledges that all things are as they are and that A is A; the acknowledgment that physical objects exist outside the mind; the concern for individual rights and freedoms and the acknowledgment that individuals alone have rights and groups have no rights; the renunciation of the use of aggressive force and violence: "CULTURE SHIFT. What does it look like when we move away from white supremacy culture towards indigenous relational pedagogy? What can you do tomorrow? Aspects of white supremacy culture: Perfectionism. Worship of the written word. Either/Or thinking. Fear of open conflict. Individualism. Objectivity. Aspects of Indigenous relational pedagogy. Collective prioritized over the individual. Orality." Listen to the proclamation that there is no such thing as objective truth or a physical world which exists independently of consciousness; that the belief that there is such a world is destructive and harmful and should play no role in decision making; that people who believe that A is not A and that contradictions are the law of reality must be praised as thinkers of enlightenment; that people who are controlled by passion and prejudice against males, white people and the liberal democratic order must be exalted progressive philosophers; that people who express themselves with hatred and rage against the capitalist system and the rights of man must be faithfully listened to and learned from; that people who are filled with envy and resentment toward those whose race and gender are different from their own and who are more talented and successful than they have a valid point of view and must be respected; that there are as many different world views as there are genders, races, classes and cultures, no one of which may be held to be more true or more correct than any other, and the view that freedom, individualism and modern civilization are oppressive and must be destroyed is a legitimate world view and must be taught in every home, school, office and business in the land: "Objectivity: 1. The belief that there is such a thing as being objective or neutral. 2. The belief that emotions are inherently destructive, irrational and should not play a role in decision making or group processes. 3. Invalidating people who show emotion. 4. Requiring people to think in a linear, logical fashion and ignoring or invalidating those who think in other ways. 5. Impatience with any thinking that does not appear logical. Antidotes: realize that everybody has a world view and that everybody's world view affects they way they understand things; realize this means you, too; push yourself to sit with discomfort when people are expressing themselves in ways which are not familiar to you; assume that everybody has a valid point and your job is to understand what that point is; recognize that we can know things emotionally and intuitively in ways that we may not be able to explain rationally; understand that often rational thinking is actually an emotional response couched in logic." Lord Haw Haw was the nickname of William Joyce, who broadcast national socialist propaganda to Britain during World War II. Opening his broadcasts with the words Germany calling, Germany calling, he spoke in an affected, upper class British accent. On January 3, 1946, he was hanged for treason in Wandsworth Prison. Selling communism with an American accent, Washington Governor Jay Inslee has called from an alien land and assassinated his state with the black dagger of treason.

MIGRANTS OPEN FIRE ON SWEDEN

Lakes are a fundamental part of Swedish culture. There are over one hundred thousand of them. Presenting scenes of peace, placidity, stillness and quiet, they are revered by a nature loving folk and used as venues for swimming, sailing, fishing and kayaking. For thousands of years, lakes have been a symbol of the calm inherent in Swedish life, and the tranquility of these pools of beauty has served as a mirror and reflection of the values and aspirations of the Swedish people. A nightmare for a Swede is to behold his beloved lakes upended, overturned and made roiling and turbid by the violent crash of a meteor. In the third millennium, the law and order which for centuries had preserved and protected the restfulness of Sweden has been swept away by an evil whirlwind blowing in from alien lands. Let into the country by the peddlers of alien religions, it has devastated the country's way of life and rendered its cities and neighborhoods unrecognizable and uninhabitable. These alien religions have declared war on liberal democracy and the Age of Enlightenment and championed tribal politics and cultural relativism in their place. They have championed tribal politics in the form of Marxism and its race based derivatives, and have proclaimed that Western liberal values enjoy no moral superiority to any other cultural values, and that the primitive worlds of savagery and superstition are morally equal to the modern world of reason and individual rights. These two subversive agents have been loaded into artillery by Sweden's establishment and have blasted out murder and mayhem across the nation. Look at the carnage inflicted by Sweden's migrant invaders, unleashed by the Marxists and multiculturalists which have assumed control over the establishment, and see a nation

known for the peace and tranquility of its public existence reduced to ashes and rubble in a battlefield which has drummed out the last act of Western civilization. The terrifying crime statistics and dark political ideologies which rule present day Sweden have forged a dagger of disintegration which has impaled the nation and killed its soul. Dagger. Islam has supplanted Sweden with a new nation, with a new society based on tyranny and fear, and transformed a land blessed by one thousand years of freedom and independence into the local arm of a global movement of civilizational destruction: "In the wake of widespread Islamist riots across Sweden, Prime Minister Magdalena Andersson admitted that there are now 'parallel societies' within her country--a tacit admission of the existence of Europe's infamous no go zones." (No Go Zones: Prime Minister Admits to 'Parallel Societies' In Multicultural Sweden Following Quran Riots by Kurt Zindulka). Dagger. Migrants have placed Sweden in a state of siege, filling its streets and squares with a rising tide of killings and robberies, and establishing as clearly and plainly as the midday sun the fearsome link between mass migration and violent crime: "In 2020, Swedish sociology professor Goran Adamson published a crime study showing an unmistakable link to immigration. It concluded that from 2002 to 2017, 58% of criminal suspects in Sweden were immigrants. That figure rose for murder, attempted murder, and manslaughter, where immigrants were identified as suspects in 73% of the cases, and robberies, in which immigrants were suspects in 70% of the cases." (Europe Shows A Clear Link Between Immigration and Crime--Like the One The US Seriously Downplays by John Lott and James Varney). Dagger. The Marxist and multiculturalist establishment which runs Sweden and has stabbed it in the back condemns all criticism of unvetted, unassimilated migration as racist: "Such findings have percolated through Scandinavian political debates, with candidates on the right making rising crime a centerpiece of their 2022 campaigns. On the progressive left, critics tend to dismiss such statistical studies as racist." (Europe Shows A Clear Link Between Immigration And Crime--Like The One The US Seriously Downplays by John Lott and James Varney). Dagger. Renouncing reason and sanity, present day Sweden no longer understands the concepts of civilization, enlightenment, law or morality. It has staged a tragedy filled with fear and horror brought by mass migration, and fuelled by the psychosis and the hatred of human flourishing which made these possible. It has donned the blinders of Marxism and multiculturalism and worn these blinders to its grave: "In his study, Goran Adamson urged Swedes to take a clear eyed approach to what is happening, arguing that viewing things through a politically sensitive, multicultural lens clouds the picture and undermines policy approaches that could address the problem. 'Social democratic views of the 1960s are now considered far right wing--a psychological trauma as if straight out of an Ingmar Bergman movie. Antiintellectualism has defined Swedish migration discourse for decades.' " (Europe Shows A Clear Link Between Immigration and Crime--Like the One The US Seriously Downplays by John Lott and James Varney). Dagger. Night has descended on Sweden, a night without pause and without surcease, a night engulfed in the roar of bomb explosions and pierced by the screams of the dead and the dying. Civilized people want to believe that this is not real but is only a nightmare, but it is all too real. This moral darkness and moral night is the new Sweden. It is the Sweden hanging from a cross whose beams read Marxism and cultural relativism. It is the Sweden blackened by a migrant plague. It is the Sweden whose migrants have awarded it Satan's trophy for having achieved the highest murder rate in Europe. It is the Sweden whose people and places are pockmarked by bullet holes blasted by migrants. It is the Sweden shot dead by migrant assassins. It is the Sweden descended into horror brought down by migrant gun homicide. It is the Sweden patrolled by migrant criminal clans. It is the Sweden comprised of migrant neighborhoods and forming a migrant monster threatening the peace of Europe. It is the Sweden in which men and women, children and youth, run for their lives from migrant gang crime. It is the Sweden in which migrant assailants rob, beat and humiliate people on streets and squares. It is the Sweden blazing white hot from the marshlands of a moral malaria brought by migrants and the establishment which let them in. It is the Sweden under remorseless attack and battered to a pulp by first generation, second generation, third generation and never ending generations of migrants. It is the Sweden suffering physically and mentally from a movement to abolish its liberty, law and constitutional government and hand its migrant community the Grim Reaper's scepter of bestial license. It is the Sweden, for decades a paragon of strength and security, presently reduced to a savage, roiling jungle at the hands of migrant predators which law abiding citizens look at in fear, shock and disgust: "Yesterday morning, Swedes woke up to news of a kind that has become all too familiar: During the night, powerful bombs exploded at apartment buildings in two different towns in southern Sweden. One person was severely injured in Astorp, where a witness told the press: 'People screamed and cried. It felt so unreal.' A resident told Radio Sweden that his seven year old had come running into his bedroom screaming, as the blast made their apartment shake. In Helsingborg, the explosion was so powerful that, according to the police, cars parked nearby were destroyed. It is still unclear if the bombings are connected to each other, or who is behind them. Since 2018, there have been almost 500 bombings—yes, bombings—in what is known as one of the most stable societies in the world. There's not just a bombing problem. There are shootings, too. Sweden, which has a population of around 10 million, has the highest per capita number of deadly shootings of 22 European countries. Forty seven people have been shot dead so far this year, which, while far from American levels of gun homicide, is extreme for Europe. Other European countries have come to look at Sweden with horror. It may be shocking for Americans to learn that in Sweden—the land of IKEA, Spotify and Greta Thunberg—all of this is going on. Perhaps the reason you don't know about it is because of the uncomfortable reality of how we got here. Among shooting suspects, 85 percent are first or second generation immigrants, according to the newspaper Dagens Nyheter, as immigrant neighborhoods have become hotbeds for gang crime. National Police Commissioner Anders Thornberg has described the violence as 'an entirely different kind of brutality than we've seen before' and his deputy, Mats Lofving, says that 40 criminal clans now operate throughout the country. Spreading fear are 'humiliation robberies,' targeting children and youth, in which victims are subjected to degrading treatment by assailants, such as being urinated upon. Just this week, four men were sentenced for robbing, beating and urinating on an eighteen year old, who was also filmed by his tormentors." (Two Bombings In One Night? That's Normal Now In Sweden by Paulina Neuding). In Ostergotland, Sweden is located the world famous Ledberg Stone. This is a runestone which depicts Odin, the revered god of wisdom and healing, being devoured by the wolf Fenrir at the time of Ragnarok, the final battle in Norse mythology in which the gods are destroyed. The promass migration policies promoted by the forces of Marxism and cultural relativism which comprise Sweden's establishment have brought the Ledberg Stone back to life in the third millennium and swept away the ideals and institutions of a venerable nation.

TRUMP SECRETARY GUNNED DOWN IN DETROIT

Detroit is the violent crime capital of America. In 2022, there were over 15,000 violent crimes committed, which was 600 percent higher than the national average. There are six violent crimes committed every day in the city, as compared with one per day across the nation. The city has the highest murder rate in America; with a rate of 50 per 100,000 residents, it has assumed the nickname Murder City. In November 2022, an incident occurred in Detroit which dwarfed the murders filling its streets with blood and gore. In November, a monster reared its head and shut down the city's schools. In November, a frightening creature called cancel culture, political correctness, wokeness and communism, born in the swamplands of the masses, struck the city's educational establishment and did to it what it has done to America and done to the West: killed its spirit and soul and sent it on the path to extinction. In November, the Detroit School Board voted to remove Ben Carson's name from a local high school. Voting to rename the Benjamin Carson High School of Science and Medicine, the school board became the latest voice of the forces of disintegration which have taken aim at the liberal democratic order and blasted it into the dustbin of history. Ben Carson: look at his life and see a timeline of talent and success like no other. He was born into abject poverty and raised by his mother, who cleaned houses to support her family. He advanced from the slums of Detroit to graduate from Yale University and become the most influential neurosurgeon of his generation. In 1984 at the age of 33, he became director of pediatric neurosurgery at the Johns Hopkins Children's Center, and was the youngest chief of pediatric neurosurgery in the nation's history. In 1987, he led a team of surgeons in the first separation in history of twins joined at the head. He performed the first successful neurosurgical procedure on a fetus inside the womb. He developed a new method to treat brain stem tumors. He revived a medical procedure called hemispherectomy in which half a patient's brain is removed to cure the patient of epilepsy and eliminate seizures. He received honorary doctorate degrees and national merit citations numbering in the double digits. In 2001, he was named by CNN and Time as one of the top twenty doctors and scientists in America, and was chosen by the Library of Congress as one of its Living Legends on the occasion of the library's 200th anniversary. In 2008, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian award. In 2010, he was inducted into the National Academy of Medicine. When he retired from medicine in 2013, he was professor of neurosurgery, oncology, plastic surgery and pediatrics at the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine. In 2017, he was confirmed as Secretary of Housing and Urban Development under President Donald Trump and served in this position for four years. During his career, Ben Carson committed a crime and was sentenced to death for it by the establishment. His crime was to serve in the administration of Donald Trump and to champion the values which undergird the administration: the values of freedom, capitalism and constitutional government. The establishment ordered his name removed from public display and declared him to be persona non grata. Look at the establishment and see it march Ben Carson up to the gallows. Ben Carson: who transcended the poverty and deprivation in which he was raised and became a pediatric neurosurgeon miracle worker. Ben Carson: recipient of the Presidential Medal of Freedom and United States Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Ben Carson: associate of Donald Trump and America's greatness in liberty for which Trump stands. See the establishment remove the name Ben Carson and the words of America as heard for centuries from every school in the land, and spring the trap door on the founding principles of the nation: "If anyone represented what a Detroit High School student could become with the proper dedication and focus, it was Ben Carson—or so the thinking went. He graduated from Southwest High School in 1969, two years after riots in Detroit began to paint the Motor City as an dreary symbol of urban decay. He went on to become a world renowned pediatric neurosurgeon, operating on fetuses inside the womb and separating twins conjoined at the head. As Detroit was crawling out of the largest municipal bankruptcy in US history, Carson was launching a bid for the nation's highest office. He is a Presidential Medal of Freedom awardee and the current US secretary of housing and urban development. But it's that last act—Carson's foray into politics and his association with President Trump—that has Detroit school board members calling for someone to pry the letters off the high school that bears Carson's name." (Ben Carson High Is Like 'Having Trump's Name On Our School In Blackface,' Detroit Board Member Says by Cleve Wootson). Listen to the establishment and hear it condemn Ben Carson as unrepresentative and unreflective of the communism in control of Detroit and in control of the nation. Hear it condemn him because he supports the lash of white nationalism called the capitalist system. Hear it condemn Donald Trump and his movement for freedom as the enemy of the African American community. Hear it disgrace an institution of education by taking America's greatness off its signs and walls. Hear it make students deaf and blind with the sounds and sights of red agitation and propaganda. Hear it dig a black hole of political correctness and force a school, which was once named after a world famous neurosurgeon and voice of America, to descend through its blazing rungs and ladders. Hear it condemn Ben Carson as a traitor to his race, as a disguised white capitalist who wears black makeup to conceal his whiteness, and promotes liberal democracy, the enemy of the marginalized and the dispossessed, in blackface. Hear it condemn Ben Carson as the enemy of the social housing and social safety nets established by communism, and push a school, where young minds are supposed to grow, develop, be nurtured and learn about freedom, into a state of moral and spiritual bankruptcy: "It is synonymous with having Trump's name on our school in blackface. Carson is doing Trump's bidding, and he has adversely affected the African American community in Detroit as well as the nation with his housing policies. And he's allied himself with a president that says he is a white nationalist and sends dog whistles that even the deaf can hear. Had he stayed in medicine, irrespective of his political philosophy or how he voted in private, we would have been happy to put his name on a school. We looked at him as an honored son. He has since, in many of our eyes, disgraced himself. What really bothers me is he is a person that grew up in poverty and took advantage of all the social service safety nets that allowed him to have some semblance of normality and get an education. And he's one that's now removing that ladder, that rung in the ladder for others to excel as he did. He is a person who advocates pulling oneself up by the bootstraps, but now he is removing the boots and the strap." (Ben Carson High Is Like 'Having Trump's Name On Our School In Blackface,' Detroit Board Member Says by Cleve Wootson, quoting Detroit school board member Lamar Lemmons). Look at the establishment and see it rename a high school to reflect the new orthodoxy of communism. See it take down the name of freedom and force feed students the poisons of gender, race and class politics. See it spread the plague of communist rage, communist indoctrination and communist revolution into classrooms which are supposed to inculcate children with the values of individual freedom under the rule of law. See an embodiment of the American dream, whose story of soaring success achieved from the depths of squalor has inspired children throughout the nation, sullied and besmirched because he supports the capitalist system and the president, Donald Trump, who sought to defend it from inroads made by communism. See a man whom virtuous people have honored and revered for his life of healing and ministrations to the sick, removed and evicted from a high school because he defended the system of freedom which made his life possible. See a school board vote to transform a high school from an institution for educating children into a theater of communist ideological war and vote to dismantle Western civilization: "Education is the gateway to opportunity. It's the medicine that cures most ails, and it is the means by which we equip our next generations with the tools they need to confront the challenges of the future. The schools we construct and the names of the individuals we honor on our school buildings stand as a good barometer for the sort of people we want our young people to emulate. That's why we are so perturbed that in mid November, the Detroit School Board voted to change the name of the Benjamin Carson High School of Science and Medicine. The reason that we adorn our buildings with the names of heroes is to continually remind us of their examples. Their life stories provide us a roadmap to follow, and these lessons are meant to inspire us to live up to their example. In today's culture plagued by anger, violence and division, Dr Carson is exactly the sort of man we should highlight for our children. In an age where honor and virtue are increasingly scorned, he stands as an example for our future generations to look up to. Dr Carson is the epitome of the American dream. Only in our country could a poor boy from the Inner City grow up to be a world renowned neurosurgeon, presidential candidate and cabinet secretary." (We Worked For Dr Ben Carson. We Know Dr Ben Carson. Canceling Him Is Just Not Right by Andrew Hughes). Detroit, November 2022, the victim of a shooting lies on prostrate on the street. Out of his veins flows centuries of progress achieved toward freedom. Out of his vein flows the concept of education for success in a free society. Out of veins flows the Age of Enlightenment, which framed the story of America and crowned the glory of the West. Passersby look at him and hurl imprecations minted in the classrooms of communism. He disappears into eternal night and his nation disappears along with him. His name was Ben Carson.

METOO MONSTER JAILS WEINSTEIN FOR LIFE

Monsters are fictional creatures found in fantasy, folklore and religion. They are dangerous, aggressive and have a grotesque appearance which produces terror and fear. They possess special powers and are capable of killing, destroying and sweeping away the social order. Monsters rampaging across the pages of the world's literature include the Minotaur, Hydra, the Gorgons, the creature in Mary Shelley's Frankenstein and the vampire in Bram Stoker's Dracula. From the satanic womb of Karl Marx has emerged a monster which has dwarfed all other monsters in history because it looms across the planet and has run riot through civilization. Emerging from the moral darkness of the nineteenth century hate master's religion of class war, this is the monster of identity politics, and it has brought forth three Gorgons marked class politics, race politics and gender politics, and these hideous, horrifying, venomous creatures have brought an ignominious halt to the progress of mankind. Christened on the global social network Myspace, christened by a global metadata tag, christened by American gender politics activist Tarana Burke, the MeToo movement was born in 2006 and is the legal manifestation of the gender politics Gorgon, dedicated to the subversion of liberal jurisprudence and the denial of due process to men accused of sexual assault. Marching under banners marked empathy, solidarity and strength in numbers, this global mob movement of false allegations and zero fact checking claimed its greatest victory in a series of convictions of Hollywood producer Harvey Weinstein of multiple charges of sexual assault beginning in 2020. Founder of the major film studios Miramax and the Weinstein Company, winner of multiple Academy Awards and Tony Awards, and the first producer to make independent films financially viable, Harvey Weinstein is the prize catch of the Me Too movement and the preeminent symbol of its remorseless, relentless mission to weaponize sexual assault laws and place the male population behind bars. Look at the legal targeting of Harvey Weinstein and see the MeToo movement in high gear, see it in action as it has never been in action before, and see it wear its victory wreaths, don its imperial purple, sit upon its throne of unconstitutional power, and lord over the rubble of courtrooms once dedicated to the pursuit of justice and fairness. In the court of natural law, the MeToo movement is on trial and see the evidence of its mission of hate. Exhibit One. In the testimony of three of Harvey Weinstein's accusers, Annabella Sciorra, Mimi Haley and Jessica Mann, each admitted that she had maintained long term, friendly relations with Weinstein for years after the alleged assaults; each admitted that she had asked him for jobs and favors after the alleged assaults; and none of them had sent Weinstein an email or a communication stating that they were victims of a sexual assault. Jessica Mann had sworn her undying love for Weinstein in the years following the alleged assault. Exhibit Two. One of Harvey Weinstein's judges, Justice James Burke of the New York State Supreme Court, found him guilty of sex crimes for which he had never been charged or convicted: "Although this is a first conviction, it is not a first offense. There is evidence before me of other incidents of sexual assault involving a number of women, all of which are legitimate considerations for sentence." Exhibit Three. Harvey Weinstein was convicted on the basis of testimony which was as false as it was incredible. The fact that the accusers had stayed in contact with the Weinstein after the alleged assaults would have protected him from being charged, let alone convicted, in the age before the advent of the MeToo movement. In that age, a legal process against Weinstein would have been condemned as violating the norms of fundamental fairness and a breach of the primary purpose of the criminal justice system, which is the protection of the innocent: "Most of you that I've spoken to privately have been very candid with me about the fact that you were surprised by this verdict. It was very easy to say all these horrible things about him, but I think if you look at the circumstances, in real time, you say, wait a minute, what was really going on? We don't know what happened in those rooms, but what we do know is all of the circumstances that surrounded it, and I will never be able to reconcile that all of those circumstances are what normal, regular rape victims do." (Weinstein attorney Donna Rotunno). Exhibit Four. Harvey Weinstein was convicted in the court of mob opinion, mob pressure, mob fury, mob vengeance, mob bread and mob circuses, convicted in a trial which had rejected the requirement of proof and ignored the counsels of reasonable doubt, convicted by a verdict staged and engineered by the forces of hate: "Weinstein wasn't treated fairly at all, let's just call it what it is, not by the court, not by the jury, not by a lot of you, that's what happened. The evidence in this case, we firmly believe, did not establish his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, and that's what we're talking about. We're not talking about anything else [other] than whether there was reasonable doubt in this case. And to say that there wasn't, based on the defense we put forward, is outrageous. The pressure came from everywhere, from you, from the public. Every single step of this case was engineered for this moment right here. And for people not to accept that, I find pretty disingenuous." (Weinstein attorney Damon Cheronis). Exhibit Five. Harvey Weinstein was convicted in trials in which the accusers were movements and the judges and juries were movements, and these movement accusers were excused for their behavior by the movement judges and jurors. The movement judges and jurors excused the movement accusers for having stayed in contact with Weinstein after he allegedly assaulted them. The accusers were excused on the grounds that female sexual assault accusers are allowed to do anything they want, and to behave in any manner they choose, and if they decide to stay in contact with the accused in order to advance their careers, then the decision is understandable, defensible and acceptable. Their decision should not count against them in any way, should not affect the credibility of their testimony in any way, and should not be viewed as introducing any form of reasonable doubt about their claims of being sexually assaulted: " 'This is probably the most difficult rape myth for people to grasp: that it is not uncommon for individuals to have subsequent contact with the perpetrator. Some people have continued contact because they want to decrease collateral damage,' forensic psychiatrist Dr Barbara Ziv told jurors, referring to fears held by sexual assault victims that reporting their abuser might harm them professionally." (At Trial, Accusers Face A Loaded Question: Why Stay In Touch With Weinstein? by James Queally). Harvey Weinstein was convicted by movement accusers who emailed him multiple times after he allegedly assaulted them, asking him for jobs, money and advice, and thanking him for inviting them to Hollywood parties. He was convicted by movement accusers which email evidence showed had engaged in consensual, transactional sex with him. Film roles, political campaign contributions, and advice on how to effect damage control brought about by personal scandals: such are the items Harvey Weinstein's accusers asked him to provide to them during the period after he allegedly assaulted them: "Jennifer Siebel Newsom lied about being raped by Harvey Weinstein because she can't 'square away' the fact she had 'transactional' sex with the former movie mogul, his lawyers charged Thursday. The wife of California Governor Gavin Newsom—referred to throughout Weinstein's current sexual assault trial as Jane Doe 4—gave an 'overly dramatized' performance on the stand to cover up the shame she felt for having consensual sex with Weinstein, defense attorney Alan Jackson said. Jackson pointed out how despite being allegedly violently raped by Weinstein, Siebel Newsom continued to email him for meetings and asked if there were movie roles she could audition for. He also claimed Siebel Newsom only turned on Weinstein when it 'became trendy' and to 'join a movement'—referring to the #MeToo movement, which has brought down Weinstein and other powerful men accused of sexual misconduct. The defense also showed a collage of the more than dozen emails, including one where she asked Weinstein's advice on how to handle negative press regarding a scandal involving her then boyfriend Gavin Newsom, who had a prior affair with an aide. The defense also showed a collage of the more than dozen emails, including one where she asked Weinstein's advice on how to handle negative press regarding a scandal involving her then boyfriend Gavin Newsom, who had a prior affair with an aide. There also were dozens of emails soliciting for campaign contributions for her husband. 'She sought his company over and over,' Jackson said. 'She changes details when it looks bad for her or says she doesn't remember. Everything (regarding her memory) is still 'in a box.' I don't know where that box is but maybe she will find the truth there!" " (Jennifer Siebel Newsom Accused Of Lying On The Stand About Harvey Weinstein Rape by Marjorie Hernandez). The Sleep Of Reason Produces Monsters is an aquatint by the world renowned Spanish painter and printmaker Francisco Goya. Created in 1799, the work is a proclamation of Goya's support for the values of the Enlightenment. It depicts a world in which reason is dulled by slumber and man is attacked by creatures which prowl in the dark. It depicts a world in which reason is abandoned and evil and corruption prevail. Goya's caption for the print reads as follows: "Imagination abandoned by reason produces impossible monsters. United with her, she is the mother of the arts and source of their wonders". In February 2020 and in December 2022, in courtrooms in New York and California, a monster raging out of control sentenced Harvey Weinstein to spend the rest of his life behind bars for sex crimes he did not commit. These were crimes alleged by women who chose to wait decades before making their allegations; by women who stayed in contact with Weinstein after the alleged attacks on them; and by women whose allegations were unsupported by eyewitness corroboration or physical evidence. Brought to life by the dark electricity surging outward from the Marxist religion of gender politics, the MeToo monster has razed the house of reason, justice and the rule of law in the final tragedy of Western civilization.

THE NEW MILLENNIUM: FIELDS OF RUINATION

Rome, the fifth century AD. The northern borders of a former pagan empire, an empire predicated upon reason, have vanished, and the forces of disintegration have overrun the land. The gates of civilization on the Rhine and Danube Rivers have been smashed forever and the world which lay within, the world embodied by the figure of Apollo, has been consigned to the dustbin of history. Upon the ruins of reason the powers of darkness celebrate their final victory, and nothing and no one has the will to dislodge them and turn back the hands of time to the age when progress and enlightenment were the laws of the land. The acid which blackens, corrodes and breaks down free societies is the rejection of a definition. This is the definition of man as a rational animal, and its rejection was the acid which destroyed the Classical world, and is the acid which has reduced the West to a field of ruination. Reason is the capacity of applying logic by drawing conclusions from information. It is the human activity par excellence, the distinguishing ability possessed by man, and when in times of civilizational decline and senescence its governance is rejected, the end of human society and human order follow as surely as night follows day and a conclusion follows from the premises of an argument. A society which has abandoned reason is a society which has abandoned humanity and degenerated into the jungles of savagery and superstition. When in the dying days of civilization the garden of reason is upended and overturned, the wild plants of mental derangement grow rampant, poison the soil and blot out the sun. They ascend through roads and sidewalks, climb up walls and rooftops, and strangle the institutions of freedom. These weeds fall into two great families and these two families vie for power and divide a civilization in ruins between them. These families are the mystics and the materialists. The mystics: those who exalt a supernatural world, a world unperceived and unperceivable, above the world of the senses; and the materialists: those who exalt the world of matter to the exclusion of mind. The mystics: those who exalt mind in the absence of body; and the materialists: those who exalt the body in the absence of mind. Look at what these twin devils, these two sides of a coin marked downfall, these two symptoms of society unbalanced and on its way down, wrought in ancient Rome, and look at what they have wrought today. In ancient Rome, the forces of mysticism brought Christianity to the status of a state religion, while the forces of materialism brought forth the ceasarist state, the emperor state, the confiscatory taxation state, the welfare state, the grain dole state, and the bread and circuses state, and elected each one, as the original Caesar had done for himself, a dictator for life. During the final act of Rome, the forces of materialism unleashed barbarians from the North and East, gave them free rein to migrate, settle and multiply across the empire, and handed them the robes and scepters of imperial power. Now look at what the materialists and the mystics have wrought in the West today as it descends into extinction. Look at the death shrouds which cover a deceased civilization. Death Shroud. In America, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, once the world's premier law enforcement agency, has become a weapon in the hands of the Democrat Party and an official badge on its agenda to establish communism. Forging legal documents, committing perjury and destroying subpoenaed telephone data, the agents and lawyers of the FBI fabricated a Russia collusion hoax whose aim was to discredit Donald Trump. This hoax was exposed for all the world to see after an extended independent investigation conducted by Robert Mueller: "Use of the term hoax got a big boost in the aftermath of the Special Counsel Robert Mueller's report on the question of whether there was actionable cooperation, coordination, or collusion between the Trump campaign and the Kremlin. Two years, $34 million, and a wide swath of debilitating rumor, innuendo, and unrelated indictments and prosecutions later and we know that the answer to that question is 'No, there was no cooperation, coordination, or collusion between the Trump campaign and the Kremlin.' " (Let's Call the Russian Collusion Hoax What it Really Is by Roger Kimball). The FBI has refused to prosecute Joe Biden, whom emails revealed in his son Hunter's laptop was known as "the Big Guy" and "Mr Ten Percent", and was involved in a multimillion dollar influence peddling operation run by his son. Death Shroud. The 2020 presidential election was rigged and stolen and gave millions of votes without audit to Joe Biden, millions of votes harvested to Joe Biden, millions of votes cured to Joe Biden, and millions of votes counted in the dead of night to Joe Biden, and made Joe Biden president of the United States. December 11, 2020, the The United States Supreme Court decided that there is no constitutional right to a free and fair election, which any individual and any state in the nation has the right to enforce. In its decision, the court ignored the articles and amendments of the Constitution establishing the right to a free and fair election and dismissed a suit brought by Texas on spurious grounds of lack of standing: "Texas lacks Article III standing to sue other states over how they conduct their own elections. Case dismissed." (State of Texas v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, State of Georgia, State of Michigan, and State of Wisconsin, decided on December 11, 2020). On January 6, 2021, Vice President Mike Pence abidicated his constitutional duty to stop the certification of the fraudulent election by Congress on that day. The Twelfth Amendment of the Constitution requires the President of the Senate, which was Pence for the January 6 certification, to supervise the counting of electoral ballots before Congress. Implicit in this requirement is the duty to reject fraudulent ballots on the grounds that they are ballots in name only. In a letter to Congress on that day, Pence stated: "It is my considered judgement that my oath to support and defend the Constitution constrains me from claiming unilateral authority to determine which electoral votes should be counted and which should not." On that day, all peaceful means of redress having been exhausted, Donald Trump led a crowd of patriotic, law abiding citizens in an attempted insurrection against a government which had violated the law, had rejected the constitutional right to free and fair elections, and had ceased to exist in all but name. On June 30, 2021, the Democrat controlled House of Representatives passed an act Establishing The Select Committee To Investigate The January 6th Attack On The United States Capitol. Packed with communists and Trump haters, the committee voted on December 19, 2022 to recommend that Trump be charged with insurrection. Patriotic, law abiding citizens understood that insurrection is the language civilized people speak when confronted by a tyranny, when trampled underfoot by a monster with deaf ears, when violated by a criminal regime which has contemptuously swept away the rule of law and mocked the concept of constitutional rights. Death Shroud. Communist majorities in every nation in the West have taken three public vows. First, they have vowed to "fight man made climate change". They have taken this vow in the face of scientific evidence that global temperatures are not caused by human activity emitting greenhouse gases: "On the scale of decades over the last hundred or so years, and in spite of what climate alarmists claim, CO2 has been steadily rising while temperatures have oscillated—half the time moving with CO2 and half against. Over a longer period, ice core data show that CO2 levels, smoothed over centuries, FOLLOW world CLIMATE temperatures by about 500-800 years." (Man Made Climate Change Does Not Exist by Piers Corbyn). Second, they have vowed to "support gender transitioning". They have taken this vow in the face of scientific evidence that gender is determined by genes and is thus fixed and immutable. The claim of transgenderism is as ignorant as it is insane: "There are only two sexes, and those who believe otherwise have missed basic classes in biology, a Nobel laureate Christiane Nüsslein-Volhard has claimed. In an interview conducted with feminist magazine Emma, Nusslein-Volhard denounced any notion that there could be more than two sexes, as well as suggestions that it was possible for someone to change their gender or sex via surgery or legal routes. 'There are people who want to change their gender, but they can't do it. You remain XY or XX,' the award winning scientist told the publication." ('This Is Madness!': Nobel Laureate Suggests Trans Ideologues Missed Basic Biology Class by Peter Caddle). Third, they have vowed to ensure "diversity, equity and inclusion" in all aspects of the state and society. Civilized people reject the policies of racial and gender diversity and inclusion on the grounds that individuals are flesh and blood entities and not tribal abstractions, and must be judged in accordance with their individual character and attributes, and not their membership in race and gender groups. Civilized people reject the illiberal racism and sexism inherent in the policies of diversity and inclusion and recognize them as an affront to the basic norms of equity, fairness and justice. Death Shroud. The West has allowed hundreds of millions of migrants to settle within its shores in an open borders policy founded upon the doctrine of cultural relativism. Rejecting the notion that liberal democracy and its Age of Enlightenment are morally superior to the regimes of fear and superstition which have plagued mankind for thousands of years, today's cultural relativists have declared war on modernity. They have unleashed an influx and inundation of barbarians from distant deserts, jungles, steppes and swamplands who have rendered the lands of freedom uninhabitable and unrecognizable: "Brexit champion Nigel Farage has cried invasion! as it is revealed that at least 419 hotels across Britain have been filled with migrants, as Prime Minister Rishi Sunak's government looks set to take over sites like holiday camps to host even more. 'So, we've been talking a lot about hotels, migrant hotels, springing up all over the UK,' said the Reform UK (Brexit Party) honorary president in a short video shared on social media. 'I've said to you not long back that I thought that number must be north of 300. Well, I'm sorry for misinforming you; I've just seen [a Freedom of Information response], as of the 10th of November, 419 hotels have been taken across the country. By now, that figure will be even higher,' Farage suggested." ('Invasion!'--Farage Aghast As 419 British Hotels Now Crammed With Migrants by Jack Montgomery). Death Shroud. Waves of violent crime have struck the West and reduced its streets and squares to savage jungles. The gates of civilization holding back the floodwaters of rampant criminality have been smashed. The sledgehammers are marked moral relativism, communist activism, Marxist political correctness and the statutory legalization of crime. Proclaiming that there is no universal set of moral rules based upon reason which allow man to rationally flourish, and that morality is relative to gender, race, class, culture, passion, prejudice and to categorical imperatives which must be obeyed come what may, the sledgehammers of civilizational decline have tolled the death knell of the West: "Exemptions given thefts under $950 in some states may be the culprit. Others cite the post George Floyd riots and the climate of unpunished street criminality.

Weaponized activist district attorneys and virtue-signaling mayors also signal to criminals that property crimes don't warrant arrest, much less conviction, much less incarceration." (Our Parasitic Generation by Victor Hansen). Death Shroud. German national socialism, which comprised the official theology of the Third Reich, has made a reappearance in the dying hours of the West. It has reappeared in spirit and essence in the figure of Russian president Vladimir Putin. Russian racialism, Russian ethnicism, Russian nationalism, Russian chauvinism, Russian patriotism, Russian imperialism, the Russian motherland and the Russian empire: such are the slogans and shibboleths championed by the reincarnation of Adolf Hitler who rules over Russia today. In a reprise of Hitler's annexation of Austria into the Third Reich in 1938, and his annexation of the ethnic German Sudetenland districts of Czechoslovakia in the same year, under the Munich Agreement, Putin annexed Crimea from Ukraine in 2014, and in 2022, he launched a full scale invasion the country. Look at the voices of national socialism today, masquerading as conservatives and rightists, and see their support for the fuhrer of Russia in his war against international liberal order: "Beyond the bioweapons conspiracy theory, Joseph Jordan, a white nationalist podcaster who goes by the pseudonym Eric Striker, repeated Russia's claim that a pregnant woman who was injured in the bombing of a Ukrainian maternity hospital had faked her injuries. In his Telegram channel, Mr Jordan told his 15,000 followers that the hospital photos had been 'staged'." (How Russia And Right Wing Americans Converged On War In Ukraine by Sheera Frenkel and Stuart Thompson). Death Shroud. The forces of Christianity, which overran ancient Rome and ruled over the Dark Ages which followed, have achieved victory once again in the dying hours of the West. On June 24, 2022, the United States Supreme Court banged a gavel manufactured by the congregations of the Christian right. It banged a gavel and smashed the wall of separation between church and state mandated by the nation's constitution. It banged a gavel and authorized states to declare that something exists which cannot possibly exist and which no eyes could possibly see. It banged a gavel and gave a green light to states to declare that at the moment of fertilization, at the moment of fusion of a single sperm cell and a single egg cell, an actual, whole, complete, morally significant human life appears, and that the destruction of this two celled entity is an act of murder which states have the right to prohibit. Listen to the victory of a psychosis carried by the brothers of Christ who reprised their victory over pagan Rome two thousand years before: "The Constitution does not confer a right to abortion; Roe and Casey are overruled; and the authority to regulate abortion is returned to the people and their elected representatives." (Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, decided June 24, 2022). The West, the third millennium AD. The weeds which choked the forums and fountains of ancient Rome have returned. The decrepitude wrought by mystics and materialists has claimed another victim. The legacies of the Enlightenment have been rendered null and void. The rule of reason has been trampled underfoot by stampeding hordes of Christians, Marxists, communists, fascists and the ear splitting megaphones of gender, race and class activists. As they did two thousand years before, the mystics and materialists have tolled the bells at midnight and ushered in darkness and gloom.

AMERICA'S MILITARY: REDS TAKE COMMAND

Tragedy is a genre of drama which depicts human suffering and the sorrowful events which befall the main character. Invented in the theater of ancient Greece 2500 years ago, tragedy seeks to arouse pity and fear in the audience, and its world of destruction, downfall and distress can be seen at a glance in the world famous mask of Dionysus. Worn by the ancient actors on stage, it is a mask whose eyes and mouth present gaping holes of horror. The father of tragedy was the Greek playwright Aeschylus who wrote in the fifth century BC, and the conflicts and catastrophes he first staged have wailed down the corridors of history and thundered into the present day. In the twenty first century, they have seen a terrifying reenactment in the greatest nation and greatest military force in modern times. The armed and uniformed warriors of America, whose sense of service, honor, idealism and mission kept the West free for decades and served as the bulwark and arsenal of international liberal order, has collapsed in a tragedy of epic proportions which has to be seen to be believed, and has signaled the doom of the West itself. This tragedy is seen at every moment of the day by civilized people, who reel back in revulsion at the spectacle which assaults them. Look at what they have seen and see a tragedy whose lineaments first appeared 2500 years ago in the Theater of Dionysus, on the south slope of the Acropolis, before tens of thousands of spectators, and see it spring out of the pages of the ancient scripts and assume frightening life and actuality. See an institution whose original mission was to "provide for the common defense" degenerate into a communist social experiment and treasonous dagger in the backs of the people. See an institution placed under the command of the nation's communist professoriate and the nation's communist commentariat. See an institution controlled by race politics and see it inculcate the tenets of critical race theory into every officer, every trooper, every enlistee and every rank. According to this theory, progressive political theory is critical of liberal democracy and promotes the cause of black power and a black communist state and has launched a holocaust against whites and the capitalist system. Look at America's military and see communist extremists foaming at the mouth. See communist fanatics condemn capitalism as a system of racism. See communist activists condemn America as a white man's project to enslave blacks. See traitors in uniform do everything in their power to undermine the nation's security and the security of the West: "Bishop Garrison. This man who was in charge of the CEAWG [Countering Extremist Activity Working Group] was a rabid partisan who routinely denigrates conservatives and has stated that 'systemic racism is one of our greatest national security challenges'. Garrison has also promoted the deeply unhistorical 1619 Project, which argues that the beginning of slavery in Britain's American colonies, not the Declaration of Independence, is the real founding of America, and that everything wrong with society today can be traced back to slavery." (Woke Warfighters: How Political Ideology Is Weakening America's Military by Senator Marco Rubio and Representative Chip Roy). Look at America's military and see communist zealots reject meritocracy, and under the banners of diversity, equity and inclusion promote discrimination on the basis of race and preferential treatment for blacks. See communist fundamentalists proclaim that blacks should be racist against whites because blacks comprise a master race and whites comprise a subaltern race. See communist hoodlums bitten by a rabid political theology, don the swastika armbands of black Aryan hate, and assault as impudent and disrespectful white people who say that they support individual rights without respect to race and equal treatment for blacks and whites. See schoolchildren from kindergarten class to senior high school subjected to courses of political indoctrination which make them hate the capitalist system and the white people whose rights are protected under it, as the system protects the rights of all races. See communist chiefs and commissars transform education agencies into agitation divisions of an international movement and conspiracy: "The Department of Defense Education Agency (DODEA) exists to operate K-12 schools around the world and in the United States. Parents are dependent on these schools—if your child is in one of these, it is likely because there are no other affordable options. That's why having a radical extremist like Kelisa Wing as Chief Diversity Equity and Inclusivity (DEI) Officer at DODEA is completely insane. In 2020, Wing tweeted: 'I'm exhausted with these white folx in these [professional development] sessions. [T]his lady actually had the CAUdacity to say that black people can be racist too. I had to stop the session and give Karen the BUSINESS.' (Caudacity is a derogatory word to describe the audacity of white people." (Woke Warfighters: How Political Ideology Is Weakening America's Military by Senator Marco Rubio and Representative Chip Roy). Look at America's military and see its officers condemn capitalism as a system of victimization and white privilege. See them peddle the Marxist attack on liberal universalism and proclaim a division of mankind into two warring camps, the bourgeois and the proletariat, whom they define the oppressors and the oppressed. See them peddle red totalitarian tyranny and the elimination of freedom as the cause of the oppressed. See them peddle race hatred as the pursuit of justice. See them peddle a contradiction and a bill of goods, discrimination in the name of antidiscrimination and racism in the name of antiracism, and launch a Final Solution against the white race: "An admiral told midshipmen at the Naval Academy that they need to read How To Be An Antiracist—a book that teaches that 'the only remedy to past discrimination is present discrimination,' that capitalism is racist, and that people by virtue of their race are inherently oppressive or privileged while others are inherently victimized or oppressed. The book takes large inspiration from Marxist concepts of the dialectic, the idea that the world is fundamentally divided between 'oppressed' and 'oppressor,' and history is the story of the clashes between the two. According to this ideology, the oppressor class has inherent advantages that benefit it at the expense of the oppressed. The only way to mitigate that injustice is to actively take advantages away from the 'oppressor.' This, the book argues, is why not being racist is insufficient—you must be an 'antiracist' to pursue justice." (Woke Warfighters: How Political Ideology Is Weakening America's Military by Senator Marco Rubio and Representative Chip Roy). Look at America's military and see its professors condemn capitalism as a structure of racism and inequality. See them condemn liberal democracy as deep dyed with hatred toward blacks. See them condemn American constitutional government as a charnel house in which blacks die a violent death. See them condemn the Declaration of Independence as a manifesto of white capitalist enslavement of blacks. See them condemn the concern for equal protection without regard to race as the mortal enemy of citizens of color. See them condemn the republic of liberty as a dictatorship of the white bourgeois. See them condemn as systemically evil the system which guarantees to all people and all races the right to pursue happiness. See them condemn the establishment of America as the establishment of a white, capitalist, colonialist empire. See them condemn the ideals of America as lashes of oppression and exploitation of the black proletariat. See them proclaim as absolute and inalienable the right of blacks to hunt, harass and destroy whites. See them call on blacks throughout the nation to rise up, unite, overthrow and raze to the ground the shining residence of freedom built in the New World and take America into the African jungles of primitivism and savagery: "A professor at the Air Force Academy boasted about her desire to make students learn how to 'identify the structural racism and inequality that has been endemic in American society.' It is important, this professor argued, for students to understand that 'racism was ingrained in the system from the beginning' to understand why racism persists today. But the American system is not built on racism. In the words of Dr Martin Luther King: 'When the architects of our republic wrote the magnificent words of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, they were signing a promissory note to which every American was to fall heir. This note was a promise that all men would be guaranteed the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.' King did not gloss over the real injustices faced by his fellow African-Americans: 'It is obvious today that America has defaulted on this promissory note insofar as her citizens of color are concerned. Instead of honoring this sacred obligation, America has given the Negro people a bad check which has come back marked insufficient funds.' But King never argued that the founding and the ideals our nation is based on are fundamentally or systemically evil. He called Americans to live up to our founding promise, not to reject it." (Woke Warfighters: How Political Ideology Is Weakening America's Military by Senator Marco Rubio and Representative Chip Roy). Charles de Steuben was a French romantic painter active during the Napoleonic era. His most famous work was Bataille De Poitiers En Octobre 732, which depicts a triumphant Charles Martel, commander of the armies of the West, facing a defeated Abdul Rahman Al Ghafiqi, commander of the armies of Islam, at the Battle of Tours on October 10, 732. In the new millennium, America's military has defaced this masterpiece and cut it to shreds. Proclaiming that capitalism equals whiteness equals the oppression of blacks, and that black racism is justified because it produces diversity and inclusion, an organization which once was world's premier fighting force for the cause of freedom has lost a war fought by savage foes from every corner of the map. America's military has fallen into the tentacles of woke ideology and surrendered to the tub thumpers of communist politics and the world is no longer safe.

JOE BIDEN'S HOLDINGS

The right to property gives an individual legal control over objects. It gives the owner of objects the right to use, consume, enjoy, give away or destroy them. There are two forms of property: private property and public property. Private property is property held by private individuals, singly or in combination, while public property is property held by the totality of the people, called the state. Public property is owned collectively, owned by the whole population, and is dedicated to public use. When public office is used for private gain, when public property is reduced to private property, when the government ceases to serve the people and becomes the private domain of its leaders, a process of corruption has set in and obliterated the institutions of state, law and government. In America, the new millennium has seen the culmination of a development. A train ride which commenced in the early twentieth century has reached a fearsome and terrifying end point and pushed the passengers out onto the tracks. A concentration of power in the hands of the president, a development of caesarism and emperor worship, in which a caesar president and emperor president leads mobs and circuses and establishes communism and calls it progressivism, has culminated in the reduction of the federal government to the private property of the president. It has seen the privatization of public service, the subversion of the rule of law and the relegation of the people to the rank of rightless props of a criminal regime. The new millennium has seen a sale of epic proportions, the biggest sale of all time, and the creation of the most extensive holding of private property in the history of the nation. The new millennium has seen the latest and strongest of the strongmen to appear in the line of strongmen which commenced when the Progressives, the communists, first assumed presidential power with Theodore Roosevelt. It has seen the transference of the federal government into the assets and estate of Joe Biden and the definitive end of national service and public professionalism for the common good. An inventory of Joe Biden's property forms a list of disgraced stock which has consigned integrity in government to the murky ocean depths of the blackest form of political corruption imaginable: to a depth of dishonesty which has brought each and every branch, agency and department of the federal government under the authority and administration of one person and made Joe Biden a synonym for malfeasance and made it define the term like no other word. Look at this natural, logical, inevitable culmination of a century of caesarism and see a monster brought to life in the laboratories of Progressivism, see a morally bankrupt hulk whose mission is to protect the corrupt dealings and dark secrets of Joe Biden and his family. In the court of civilized, patriotic, law abiding citizens, Joe Biden has been found guilty of acts of public wrongdoing which have dwarfed all previous acts committed by America's caesars in the past and expanded the meaning of the phrase beyond all previously known boundaries. In the court of America's defenders of the constitution, a body of evidence has been appeared which has circled Joe Biden term of office as years of lawlessness without equal and placed them in the topmost tier of presidential treason. Exhibit One. On October 14, 2022, the New York Post exposed an influence peddling scheme operated by Joe Biden and his son, Hunter. It revealed an operation in which Joe Biden sold his influence as vice president to a Ukrainian energy company through the channels of his son. It revealed that Joe Biden pressured Ukraine officials into firing the prosecutor who was investigating this influence peddling operation. It revealed incontrovertible, incriminating evidence of Joe Biden's definition of public service as the pursuit of personal business dealings, as an activity of helping oneself, working for oneself and profiting oneself at the expense of the public and the law: "Hunter Biden introduced his father, then Vice President Joe Biden, to a top executive at a Ukrainian energy firm less than a year before the elder Biden pressured government officials in Ukraine into firing a prosecutor who was investigating the company, according to emails obtained by the Post. The never before revealed meeting is mentioned in a message of appreciation that Vadym Pozharskyi, an adviser to the board of Burisma, allegedly sent Hunter Biden on April 17, 2015, about a year after Hunter joined the Burisma board at a reported salary of up to $50,000 a month. 'Dear Hunter, thank you for inviting me to DC and giving an opportunity to meet your father and spend some time together. It's really an honor and pleasure,' the email reads. An earlier email from May 2014 also shows Pozharskyi, reportedly Burisma's Number 3 executive, asking Hunter for 'advice on how you could use your influence' on the company's behalf. The blockbuster correspondence—which flies in the face of Joe Biden's claim that he's 'never spoken to my son about his overseas business dealings'—is contained in a massive trove of data recovered from a laptop computer." (Smoking Gun Email Reveals How Hunter Biden Introduced Ukrainian Businessman to VP Dad by Emma Jo Morris and Gabrielle Fonrouge). The Federal Bureau of Investigation sought to discredit the evidence of Joe's Biden's corruption as a product of Russian propaganda: "We told Facebook that it should be on high alert. We thought there was a lot of Russian propaganda in the 2016 election. We have it on notice that basically there's about to be some kind of dump similar to that so just be vigilant." It sought to discredit the evidence as woven from a Russian web of falsity, inaccuracy and deliberate deception: "When the New York Post broke the Hunter Biden laptop story on October 14, 2020, Facebook treated the story as potentially misinformation, important misinformation for five to seven days while the tech giant's team could determine whether it was false." (Mark Zuckerberg). It sought to discredit the evidence as a product of Russian hacking and illicit interference in the presidential election: "There is no need for a paper trail confirming that the government expressly told Twitter the Hunter Biden laptop, which served as the basis for the New York

Post article, had been hacked, however, because intelligence agencies gave Twitter (and Facebook) a warning detailed enough to prompt the tech giants to presume the story represented the anticipated threat. And that is precisely what they did. By this point, the federal government had likewise primed the companies to censor such supposed malign interference in our elections, which again is exactly what Twitter and Facebook did when the story broke." (Twitter Files Overshadow The Bigger Scandal: FBI Lied To Tech Giants To Interfere In Election by Margot Cleveland). Exhibit Two. In December 2019, the FBI seized Hunter Biden's laptop which contained evidence of Joe Biden's influence peddling operation. FBI agents entered the computer repair shop of John Paul Mac Isaac and threatened him with death if he revealed the contents of the laptop: "The computer repair shop owner who blew the whistle on Hunter Biden's infamous laptop claims in a new book that an FBI agent threatened him to stay silent. John Paul Mac Isaac said two federal agents came to his Mac Shop in Wilmington, Del. in December 2019 to recoup the laptop following a subpoena, he details in his new book American Injustice: My Battle To Expose The Truth. The repairman, who had volunteered to hand the laptop over to the feds two months earlier, said the alleged threat came after he made a joke, telling them: 'Hey, lads, I'll remember to change your names when I write the book.' 'Agent Wilson kept walking but Agent DeMeo paused and turned to face me,' Paul Mac writes of the encounter. Isaac said the agent then told him: 'It is our experience that nothing ever happens to people that don't talk about these things.' " (Hunter Biden Laptop Repairman John Paul Mac Isaac Says FBI Agent Threatened Him To Hush Up by Miranda Devine and Emily Crane). Exhibit Three. The Department of Justice refused to prosecute Hunter Biden for making a false statement related to drug use on a gun application form. In order to further protect him, Secret Service agents seized his illegally obtained gun and sought to obtain the paperwork he had completed containing his false statement: "In October of 2018, Hunter Biden purchased a gun, completing a Firearms Transaction Record that shows him responding no to a question on the form that asked, 'Are you an unlawful user of, or addicted to, marijuana or any depressant, stimulant, narcotic drug, or any other controlled substance?' Notwithstanding Hunter's very public and long standing addiction to drugs, no charges were ever filed against the president's son. Beyond the government apparently looking the other way over Hunter Biden's seeming false statement, the gun and that form feature heavily in another example of the deep state clean up crew. According to Politico, on October 23, 2018, Hallie Biden, Hunter's sister in law turned lover, removed 'Hunter's gun and threw it in a trash can behind a grocery store, only to return later to find it gone.' After the manager of the grocery store called police, who launched an investigation, 'a curious thing happened,' as Politico put it: 'Secret Service agents approached the owner of the store where Hunter bought the gun and asked to take the paperwork involving the sale.' " (8 Times Our Federal Government Ran A Protect Biden Racket by Margot Cleveland). An absolute monarchy is distinguished from a constitutional monarchy in that the former's power is unlimited. In Europe after the French Revolution, the winds of freedom swept away absolute monarchies and replaced them with republics and constitutional monarchies. Today with one exception absolute monarchies are confined to Africa, Asia and the Middle East: Brunei, Eswatini, Oman, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates. Weaponizing federal law enforcement authorities to cover up his crimes and protect his family's illicit affairs, Joe Biden has taken hold of the today's tyrannies in the East and the tyranny of France's Louis XIV, who cried L'etat, c'est moi!, and brought them to life in America.

THE BRITISH BOARD OF RED CENSORS

In the northeast corner of Hyde Park in London is a ground hallowed by British history. It is a ground one thousand years old, as old as the freedom which first marked its borders, and the freedom which Britain gave to the West. It is a symbol, a zone and a green area of Britain's greatest export to the world. Frequented by Karl Marx, Vladimir Lenin and Irish Republican Army activists, the Speaker's Corner is Britain as nothing else is Britain, and its grass, trees and pavement form a sanctuary of that which Britain holds most dear. They form a sanctuary where the mind is free. They define this bright, noonday land, which for centuries had been a port in the raging storms of tyranny, a jewel in the sea shining with conscience unshackled, and a place of refuge and safety for freedom of speech. Britain, the Britain of Hyde Park, the Britain of the Magna Carta, the Britain of John Locke, the Glorious Revolution, the Bill of Rights and the Act of Toleration, and the Britain which acquitted Quakers William Penn and William Mead for promoting views contrary to those of the majority, is described by Lord Justice Stephen Sedley in a world famous case brought before the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court in 1999. In Redmond-Bate v Director of Public Prosecutions, the court defined freedom of speech. It stated that freedom of speech means the right by one's words to cause people to feel hurt, upset, angry or disrespected. Freedom of speech means the right by one's words to annoy and vex people. Freedom of speech means the right by one's words to provoke, incite and inflame people. Freedom of speech means the right to promote views condemned by the neighbors next door. Freedom of speech means the right to say things with which the state, the community, the age and the spirit of the times disagree. Freedom of speech means freedom of speech: "I am unable to see any lawful basis for the arrest or therefore the conviction. There was no suggestion of highway obstruction. Nobody had to stop and listen. If they did so, they were as free to express the view that the preachers should be locked up or silenced as the appellant and her companions were to preach. Free speech includes not only the inoffensive but the irritating, the contentious, the eccentric, the heretical, the unwelcome and the provocative provided it does not tend to provoke violence. Freedom only to speak inoffensively is not worth having. What Speaker's Corner (where the law applies as fully as anywhere else) demonstrates is the tolerance which is both extended by the law to opinion of every kind and expected by the law in the conduct of those who disagree, even strongly, with what they hear. From the condemnation of Socrates to the persecution of modern writers and journalists, our world has seen too many examples of state control of unofficial ideas. A central purpose of the European Convention on Human Rights has been to set close limits to any such assumed power. We in this country continue to owe a debt to the jury which in 1670 refused to convict the Quaker William Penn and William Mead for preaching ideas which offended against state orthodoxy." In the third millennium, Hyde Park has been shut down by order of the establishment, its spirit trampled underfoot and paved over by the steamrollers of red censorship, and the traditions, institutions and laws which first opened it to the public have been cast into the dustbin of British history. In the third millennium, Hyde Park, Britain and one thousand years of British freedom commencing with the Norman Conquest of 1066 have been swept away and replaced by an ideological echo chamber in which the dogmas of the prevailing red orthodoxy are amplified, reinforced and insulated from all rebuttal. In the third millennium, the land celebrated by William Shakespeare in William III, "This happy breed of men, this little world,/This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England", has been disgraced and dishonored by alien hordes demanding the regimentation of thought and opinion and the impaling of conscience upon the barbed wire fences of political correctness. These hordes form the majority; they carry British passports; but they are British in name only and are the deepest, darkest traitors to their country imaginable. Look at what they have wrought in the land once exalted as the fortress of free speech in Europe. The Red Censor. Look at Britain today and see the critics of Islam shamed, suppressed and stamped out. See the exposers of Islamic criminal gangs held in contempt of court. See the voices of anticommunist and antiIslamist dissent shut down by the establishment. See the champions of individual rights and secular values in an Enlightenment society told that there is no longer a place for them in the new progressive Britain, and see them sentenced by the people's commissars of political correctness to life behind bars: "Tommy Robinson has yet again been found guilty of contempt of court and now faces up to two years in prison. 'The decision: Tommy Robinson committed a contempt of court in three respects. 1. Breaching reporting restrictions. 2. Live streaming video outside the court. 3. Aggressively confronting and filming defendants. (Jessica Swietoniowski, Twitter).' Islamists, the mainstream media, and the left-liberal establishment will be delighted to see the man they like to call 'Stephen Yaxley-Lennon' crushed, humiliated and put in his proper place. But the feeling among many ordinary people will be that justice has not been done. The judges at the Old Bailey may have concluded today that Robinson was technically guilty of contempt of court when he livestreamed outside the Leeds trial of a Pakistani rape gang. As far as his many supporters will be concerned, though, Robinson is really being punished for being a member of the white working class who had the temerity to draw attention to a national scandal—Muslim grooming gangs—which the establishment has long sought to play down." (This Tommy Robinson Verdict Is A Travesty of Justice by James Delingpole). The Red Censor. Look at Britain today and see communist hate speech, words uttering hatred of capitalism, males and white people, protected and no other forms of speech protected. See criticism of Islamic violence, terror, ignorance and intolerance prohibited. See the affirmation that gender is determined by genes and is fixed and immutable prohibited. See the affirmation that transgenderism, the doctrine that gender has nothing whatever to with genes, is a symptom of psychosis prohibited. See the affirmation that no one should be shamed or ostracized for being heterosexual prohibited. See the affirmation that Western liberal democracy and the values of the Enlightenment which undergird it, the values of reason, science and individual rights, is superior to illiberal, anticapitalist, nonWestern systems, placed in sealed containers and its authors burned at the stake: "The most nauseating phrase in the English language is 'I'm not against free speech but...'. That's because it's always followed by a weaselly exegesis in which the slippery, disgusting, and borderline fascistic user explains why, actually, they don't believe in free speech—and here are their reasons. Usually, the excuse given is that there's this thing called hate speech which should never be allowed because it's so hateful. As Exhibit A, I present this ubiquitous, BBC endorsed superpest's recent appearance on Politics Live, in which she deploys her expert legal brain to womansplain why she thinks Toby Young's new Free Speech Union is a bad thing. 'I feel that some of the people who join your organisation will be racists wanting to use this as a cover in order to be abusive in racist ways. You will also have people who hate homosexuals, who hate trans people. You will also have lots of people who come on who have hostile views towards Islam. So I suspect that you will get an awful lot of ugly views being expressed and while I believe in freedom of speech it doesn't mean freedom to be abusive.' I'd say that freedom to be abusive is most especially what freedom of speech means, which is why I'm celebrating that freedom now you frightful, unbelievably annoying

hag. There are many cherishable awfulnesses in Kennedy's BBC performance. One, of course, is that the person she is choosing to lecture and patronise on the menace of racism is the Free Speech Union's director Inaya Folarin—who, unlike Baroness Kennedy, happens to be black. Another, as Brendan O'Neill has noticed, is the way she equates any hostile view of Islam with the kind of freedom of speech she doesn't believe in." (Why I'm Backing Toby Young's Free Speech Union by James Delingpole). The Red Censor. Look at Britain today and see the sun which shined the light of freedom across the world blotted out by the dark mountains of political correctness. See the broad daylight of British tolerance clouded over and turned into night by a blackshirt regime demanding strict obedience to race and gender politics. See a British police force operate in name only, a British police force disgrace its badge and uniform, a British police force violate the laws and constitution of the British state, a British police force turn against the traditions and institutions of the British people, a British police force enlist itself in the service of an alien power, a British police force brandish handcuffs, truncheons and guns, take freedom of speech into custody, and place the voices of truth and morality behind bars: "In scenes akin to those traditionally associated with authoritarian regimes, police in Britain were filmed arresting a military veteran for posting a meme critical of woke gender ideology on Facebook. 'Is this the Gestapo? What has gone wrong in our country?' the veteran questioned as he was being placed in handcuffs by three officers in broad daylight outside of his suburban home. The incident was captured live on video on Thursday by Reclaim Party leader Laurence Fox, who chastised the Hampshire Constabulary officers for acting as an 'antiBritish politicized police force.' " (Army Veteran Arrested By 'Politicized Police' For Posting LGBT Pride Flag Meme On Facebook by Kurt Zindulka). In 1653, an alien interloper assumed power in Britain and called himself Lord Protector of the Commonwealth. Marching under banners marked the righteous judgment of God, he enforced strict Puritan laws and abolished freedom across the land. Under his dictatorship, dancing was banned, theater was banned, Christmas was banned, cosmetics were banned, colorful clothing was banned, and all dissent from the official Puritan orthodoxy was banned. Marching under banners marked the promotion of woke ideology and the elimination hate speech, transphobia and Islamophobia, Oliver Cromwell has returned to Britain in the new millennium and banned anew the freedom born in an ancient land's soil.
